Free Will and the Map of Consciousness

We can make it so that we are free, by honing our will and focus, or we can make it so we are trapped by the mystery of our own ignorance through ego and toxic (false, illusory, quasi delusional, not fully holistically, cognitively processed individualistic persona).

That unconscious unrendered (equalized and integrated) individualistic persona gone chaotic, (off the leash of rationale) and feeding on anything available to reproduce its own identity, is a kind of live force attempting to fulfill itself through the unconscious desires and programs we draw out and enable with our behaviors and neurological trends.

When seen for the first time as a 'second' self within the invisible holistic first, (seen as the 'first' self, without the inner sight, here) it appears to be an external force exerting the results of its conscious onto one's life.

Instead, it's the unconfigured or misaligned unconscious reality entanglement dilation and contraction that occurs when the subconscious is filled with unconscious forms of personality engagement and circuitry activation that are not based in the full awareness of their cause, purpose, form or results (the true source and motivating features of theirs or someone else's consciousness) and attempts to fulfill the template that has been populated within the latent field of the mind.

If there are enough superficial, externally sourced, subconsciously motivated, artificially produced mental constructs that malform the emotional body into a reflection of that template, then the energy of the mind and soul itself will attempt to either infill that template or overflow it and the boundaries or confliction points or angles in the template of the persona will be felt as effort or cognitive and spiritual discomfort.

When the environment of the mind is saturated enough with these confliction points, the template changes from a map of an environment and soul interactive 'behavioral thought matrix' to a map of obstacles or traps which each pull energy from the consciousness (which has its own interactive energy template, just like the engine of a vehicle). Navigating the map without incurring loss based on the parasitic conversion of a personality based on those traps is dependent on the mind's ability to remain cognitively plastic in order to 'slide', 'shift', reshape, reform, mobilize, or adjust the centerpiece of the template around which the rest of the map organizes, the ego.

If the self image, the way the 'self' views the self as an objective image (not necessarily the actual objective image of both how the combination of other's subjective views contribute to your awareness and the truly objective view), is rooted in features or tendencies that are based more in making the energy and the reality into something that it's not or adding an overlay, then more energy will be expended to manage and essentially artificially stimulate and produce that reality (like a delusion, dream, and fantasy or neurological imbalance taking place in a dissociated mind) at the cost of the real features of the mind, the biology and the neurological, quantum energetic thought processes that are defined to manage, mobilize and nurture one's mind, consciousness and reality.

Essentially, the mind that doesn't grow past the child's immature, self willed, cognitively and emotionally biased frame of self in order to properly address, organize and integrate the objective understanding of reality, will not have the means to correctly comprehend and organize the internal, subjective view of reality. There will be connection and the inner and outer world will be disconnected and mistranslated by the very cognitive circuitry that is designed to generate a way to access the world and adjust the self as needed.

The 'map', becomes the 'trap', because it is poorly generated in the image of a series of false notions and so the 'self' that belongs or is determined by the map (both in its geophysical concept but also a metaphysical range of being along a story as a potential of various levels of self, truth and knowledge) is an overlay generated out of wilful ignorance or confusion and results in the corruption of one's self knowledge and their ability to see the self and thus adjust accordingly (for one's equilibrium and self harmonization).

Can the mind that the self sees itself as, become something that is disharmonic and carries corruptible qualities to the real 'self' that is beyond our perception, opinion, subjection or comprehension? Can the conscious mind really be capable of handling the cognitive processing that takes place in the whole of the consciousness and renders the local access bandwidth of the present moment and must be magnitudes of order of information density more than what we are 'aware' of during waking consciousness? Would that be like a small sensor on the camera being used to be able to process all the data moving through the entire structure (and the cloud) all at once? This might be possible, but not on the same layer that it occurs. You can easily take all the data and route it through a system that will process it and handle it differently than two physical eyes and hands holding and watching a screen play out.

Can consciousness do the same? Can it level up and alter the architecture or move to a 'higher layer' where virtual processing can occur, similar to a virtual computer log in, and any kind of temporal, informational, emotional or energy cognitive translation and virtual mapping of an environment can be generated in which any information, time and place can be viewed simultaneously?

Any time you tolerate disrespect and thoughtlessness with kindness and caring you are spiritually requiring that more be taken from you before the engagement shifts from that energetic template of interaction. When you respond with neutrality, the pendulum swings in a direction that takes the momentum away from the lowest aspect of that interaction. Remaining neutral drops the floor out from under the concepts which have no standing unless one responds in kind and accepts an exchange of energy (which is unwanted).

Society is full of guys that want to be treated like men but don't want to do the difficult work that men do. There is more to say about this than can be written and read in any libraries (que the holographic libraries with cyberlink connections that instantly download material into memory) using the words and books that the one's who are stubborn don't choose to utilize anyway.

There's an old saying that says something about this and the changing tides of human decency, respect and tolerance of that which is foreign and not present in reality.

We have to make way for the over excited and innocent because they are acting out programming that has been installed and the programming has to be undone first before they can see the reasoning. If there is goodness in the soul that can be saved and brought up into flourishing then that is something that has to be put above destruction of the false. The false is not destroyed by fire and fists but by truth and diligence in the face of wavering will and unpredictability.

Once the unpredictable has been recorded enough to become predictable...what is it then? What is chaos when viewed perfectly through the lens that renders its mysterious darkness as visible and understood? What is the 'event' when we know what's coming, along the lines of when, how and why? Is it the same as it represented before? Does it change in our subconscious or how we unconsciously process information in the world and the self? Don't our dreams change when we conquer the unknown? When we bridge the gap between impossible states of self and unify them through will?

When the snake is on the path, don't follow it back and forth and side to side. Simply move forward and observe the change happening in the direction you want to see in one direction along a straight course. Part of plotting the course is knowing the points at which the general trend of motion will push things and how the situation will respond to input. The level of control we have at that point is not following the motion as closely as possible back and forth, but tracking the data points that we are receiving in a holistic scale model and remodeling the information to predict where the next possible points are and eventually where we have to look to see the exact points.

Then you're playing a game of who can fill in the map faster and the real playing field is not in the present but somewhere mapped out an untold number of moves from 'now'.

Developing the desire to have what we don't, earns the traits of that desire in a more continuous way.

Developing the skills necessary to improve the self and resist the entropy of a defeatist attitude at some point along the work, yields the results of that mastery and the control over material reality that follows.

Developing the self and the skill to hone the body and the mind as a persistent and reliable tool to accomplish useful and rewarding tasks is the requirement to understanding the importance of balance and consistency in unlocking the highest potential of matter and consciousness. Large muscles are not required.

Faraday's Worms

You yourself have to act as the measurer and the scale. Within you, if you can come to that balance, then you yourself will develop a measure that is useful for your own mind. Reaching that balance might be possible for others but it will be their balance and whether or not it the two possibilities are constructively resonant and therefore conducive and productive of abundance.

If within one's own 'cymatic' resonant structure they can hold the impression of several harmonic multiplications of the same energy of consciousness in a way that produces a complex interaction reducing the latency between the mind and the universe we can comprehend what it is we're apart of. Part of what it is, can't fit into the mind and so it has to be processed differently.

The scale is 'complete' when you reach enough of a distance between the lowest frequency and the highest frequency, simultaneously, that they are capable of fitting a compressed image of time into it that you can attain enough processing power to create your own time.

The difference between the push pull of the 'pressure variation' between high and low states of consciousness is like a magnetic pump that generates mobility in an extra physical range of motion or mental activity.

How well you discern and deliver truth to your self, determines whether your frequencies, the harmonic field that is generated will support and be conducive to change or result in emotional cycles and mental stress from the arrangement. If the resulting self image, because that is what we are doing, projecting images of the self like a fractal hologram or mirror, is false then there will be a growing disconnect between the conscious mind, the physical body and the soul's continuity for 'self'. In a sense what we don't yet know is greater than what we do and so if we let our thoughts and energies stagnate then we stop ourselves from exploring the truth and finding out why what is seemingly stopping us is not really important in the larger picture (which is there and has to be found, yes we're in a situation involving eye opening concepts and have been).

So a kind of story line of our true potential being reached has to be formed but it has to be formed out of the endless potential for interactions and information that could make up a souls interaction in the physical plane.

To Pull One's Self Through the Gradient

The goal with that is to pull your energy back together through your mind.

There has to be a resistance to the effects of the inverted souls, AKA, darkness or spiritual darkness ignorance. Those who hid from their own darkness and ignored the darkness in the world get imbalanced by it and can't balance themselves because it rises along with the conscious awareness because of the situation.

It's like wanting to watch a show to the next scene but there is something really intense between this and the next.

There is healing, it's not that distant. Don't engage and enable self defeat or sabotage. There is an algorithm for consciousness. It's a learning experience and something where we have to embrace the discomfort in order to learn from it.

The other part of the healing is knowing how to comfort the self and the soul and recover the child from the depths. Soaking in epsom salts and using essential oils helps. Making the 'frequency' clear, not what we want, just 'clear' is more useful than trying to 'feel good'. There is a trend of 'dopamine' purging by removing the addiction to the harmful nature of continuous screen use, indoor lighting and inconsistent sleep and exercise cycles. Dr. Jack Kruse, Sabrina, many people talk about this and it's both important and complex. NAC is useful, Quercetin and things like that. Have you ever looked into balancing the hemispheres and the hormones with focused routines?

The other aspects are brain chemicals. Have you tried mushroom coffee? Chaga? Cordyceps, Reishi, Turkey tail, lion's mane? Those are proven to regrow neurons. Have you tried supplementing with bioavailable vitamin B? Some people are deficient and they can't process it from food. Have you taken magnesium glycinate? It has been shown to improve neurological depletion overall. Have you tried NAC and quercetin? These have also been proven to reverse neurological disruption in certain situations.

Being sensitive is a gift, but if the gates are left open like a window and then the curtains are not drawn, people will see in and take what they don't need and don't respect. It's harsh but a realistic perspective of the world. We can't always be on guard but we can't always be totally open. We have to test the waters and know what situations are beneficial and will 'fruit' into something plentiful instead of something draining and repetitive.

Change that yields is the idea. Building up to a huge shift but not having anything to do with it is like a large glass cylinder container holding a complicated and carefully constructed chemical concoction that was isolated and rendered thoughtfully over time with effort, and getting it all up to temperature and the right pressure or other conditions for that particular, very powerful reaction, and then not having the next necessary ingredient to mix where it passes through the phase of being ready to 'shift' and goes into a more stagnant effect. There is almost no limit. As long as you're able to maintain, you can build.

Not only trauma being amplified but empaths take in the essence of the people who are holding psychological damage around them. A hyperempath will literally pull the negative energy from others and attempt to incorporate it into their own biological processes in order to process it out of this dimension.

When this isn't understood and a strong foundation of self knowledge and self control isn't developed first, then it's difficult to 'deny the self' because it feels like everything that happens might find its way into influential processes regulating emotion.

The mind is complex and it's something to hold in the highest respect, but not because we should worship what we like, but because if we don't understand what it is we're attempting to do, it could become very confusing and that is a trip that we don't want to take repeatedly. It does seem to be useful to know what we are really in, to kind of dip our hands beyond our side of the walls of the boat and feel the waters that are supporting this reality.

I still, don't recommend that. Unless it's through dreaming and even then, it's too much to do anything other than an almost medically controlled, militantly regulated interaction where there are no conditions left to change.

Yet there is. And it will most likely continue. Some can handle it, but others can't and it will be traumatic either way.

Chances are, most of what you're feeling, is also what everyone else is and they just don't know what to say or how to speak about it.

When you see it that way, we can actually all have something to communicate effectively and realistically about now, its like reality IS what we've been given, but it centers around our ability to understand communication.

That confusing nature of the mind and what we're doing. It's that the consciousness of the mind is not the consciousness of the body and when we're present in any polarized state its going to one extreme or the other. Either we're in the deep end of our mind thinking about things off outside the present that doesn't technically exist or we're focused in an almost robotic sense about the body and survival instincts and social necessity and so on and there is a kind of disconnect or even a discrepancy between the 'programming' of one system and the conditional requirements of the other.

When we're doing anything we're treating either the mind and the body separately or we're doing something that is not based on satisfying the psyche in a way that uses energy that would be used for self awareness or seeing the 'larger picture', being 'free' of mental constraints or automatically repeating routines. And we're not doing something that is motivated entirely out of the body's necessities for some form of satisfaction, most of which are entirely natural and cyclic processes that do something with the vital energy and shouldn't be disrupted but protected with extreme care and only used in ways that are with the total mind awareness, not just the psyche's small view and not just the body's yearning for physical completion.

Only then is the mind drawing from both spheres and the consciousness shines down equally on both sides instead of dropping down to the tarmac and sliding across the ground horizontally attempting to 'swing' back and forth between the two perspectives.

It would be funny if there was actually only one side with a mirror and a cool light that carried dual signals that refracted partially on the mirror and created a combined projection that functioned as a hologram.

The floor is where it's narrow and that is where the consciousness swings back and forth being emotionally motivated or sourced as a projection of energy or being physically and more mentally grounded.

If it swings back and forth and we are out of rhythm with it, it feels like our consciousness is being filtered by an algorithm that gives us the opposite.

Knowing how to 'AC' your DC (if you remember that post, it was just a short tweet) means that you can alternate your consciousness between pushing and pulling against the tide of time and this is used to synchronize yourself in a way that is always moving with the energy.

Almost like a mental martial art.

And then doing that in the right way at the right time so that the 'plane of inertia' of the geometric shape that your consciousness is forming, flips into a new pattern that introduces new algorithm 'fuel', and enables one to completely or at least more efficiently influence their thought processes and break free from cycles that repeat the same denigrating processes that seemingly consume free will or self awareness.

When inhibitions are dropped these processes can be seen more clearly as little gaps in our consciousness. Our mind can't actually see reality, it just pieces it together through a series of ports as perceptions. When we start to really see our consciousness fully, we realize it's just an overlay that the mind is generating to make sense of this reality. What we thought reality was is not the whole of the view and that's more or less a shock to most people. This is taken as a flaw or a loss when it's really an illusion. It's truly neither. There is no direct effect other than simplifying and adding possibilities to the present. It means nothing to the mind of the viewer from within the containment cage that is generated by the belief in the illusion. What it means to them, is the illusion that we see. What it means to one who is beyond it or sees past it is nothing.

The only loss is if we don't use our opportunities to make sense of reality and see all there is to see about our self and the trueness that was put into us part of our being. And that never stops, it's built into the system.

The realization that the 'system' of reality that was once depended on to explain what we needed to know, is a facade of a larger, truer system doesn't mean it's our loss or that there is a flaw in our perceptions. It's like saying the window had an external net interfering with the view and so that we have blindness now and our eyes are bad. It's a confusion, a misinterpretation of perceptions and it's a good one, but not something to feel as a personal flaw. The majority of humanity is literally just learning about this and most people don't get beyond the early confusing stage.

It's not recommended to go too fast at first. It always ends up going faster than we can expect, it's the nature of reality. Sometimes people go crazy and roll around in the mud fighting off the waves of insanity from some other locale all built up by a controlled disorganization of our mind into an artificial construct, etc etc and so on. Sometimes seeing it for what it's worth and what it does to the mind is what people need to do to not fight it and just let it do its thing and get out of the way.

Whatever is enough to give us the necessary consistent, stabilized motivational factors to 'wake up' and use our mind to see the truth, to 'go the distance'.

Everyone is under a form of stress. It's OK, it's just a reality TV show gone into overdrive.

It's literally just reality TV and then everyone can't think for themselves so they go along with it. None of that is new. In fact, it's a new opening that the entire population can literally use to walk out of here.

That's how it looks if the 4th wall was broken in the middle of a scene and half the set walked off stage.

And if you don't choose to walk off stage, you can't see beyond the fourth wall, it just looks like the same old facade illusion of society.

Most people are sitting and staring looking at the fourth wall, because they swear as sure as night they just saw someone walk directly through it.

It's an odd and jarring situation, but in the overall reality of things, it's people waking up. It's how it looks. The Trueman show doesn't end with them quitting and walking away, they continue to put on the show and try to convince Truman to come back and keep participating.

The Good and the Bad

The soul groups under attack are convinced the signals going to their brain are their own and they are receiving destructive programming to go against 'order' in any form. It's an emotional reaction that is 'captured' and then repeated through cycling of frequencies and perceptions.

When they attempt to break free, the algorithm recycles the same patterns that worked before in order to contain their consciousness. They have to break the cycle but it can't be done from the inside.

They have to be given the right motivation for improvement and self awareness without activating the inverted survival instinct which will drive them to rebel and re program using whatever metrics or media they have at their disposal.

They are addicted to the mentality that this improves by going further on the same path that brought them to the breaking point. It's a test to submit to the Goodness and Truth within us, instead of believing what they tell us, that we have the power to pick and choose and know what's going to happen.

We don't, the subconscious does, the subconscious will not communicate with a mind that doesn't want to operate and resonate on its level (which is your level). So if the subconscious recognizes a parasitic, foreign and invasionary frequency, it will attempt to isolate and destroy it.

That is what they're going through and the parasitic program has convinced them to throw their souls onto the gears so that the parasite has just a little bit more life to devour them and run the destruction program.

It's 100% like the bug that is infected with the fungus or the worm parasite and then crawls blindly, drunkenly to water to drown itself so the parasite can continue its productive process.

I've written and spoken extensively on this.

The Labeling of the Parasite, The Naming of the Souls, the Process of Identification, Self Awareness and Dishonesty as Memetic, Conscious Entropy

Dishonesty is the identification label of the parasitic template.

We shape reality through our labeling, distinguishing, naming and essentially frequency isolating features and patterns that ‘upkeep’ what we known and desire and reduces the noise to signal for our processing of reality as a kind of ‘health’ maintenance for consciousness.

In order to propagate a nefarious code through memetic interaction (mind to mind exposure) the names, labels, and identifying frequencies in association with language and cognition has to be rearranged. In some cases, this is entirely reversed, and what people are conditioned to call one thing is actually the opposite. Doing this enables parasitic consciousness to hide within the confusing cross confictions of each sub set of knowledge, language, behavior by patterning itself in the areas where our language and cognition is purposely redirected. To the whole mind this appears as blinders in parts of reality and cognition where the truth is not only not promoted, it is actively denied in the minds of those who can’t overcome the conditioning and linguistic reinterpretation of reality which is done through voluntary integration of that system into our minds (without the necessary safe guards and pre exposure preparation). This is obvious from a higher perspective, certain doorways lead to round about hallways, some walls are double mirrored and most of the buildings always have one or more floors that intersect with another kind of society that produces frequencies and manages reality in a way that people do not understand even though it directly visible to them on the physical layer.

The symbolic interpretation of events and neural processing is required to accurately see and interact consciously in reality. Just the physical and immediate (the human ‘present’ consisting of milliseconds of conscious thought) there are an innumerable (without math) number of those moments and they can last anywhere from a full dream to an unconscious blip (counting using mathematics may not be all that is needed to actually assist in understanding the ‘fullness’ of the system or the way it works). It is a ‘template’ of consciousness that is ‘filled up’ by giving the soul experiences that allow it to redefine itself naturally, more accurately and fully and to have the highest amount of these experiences so that the forgetfulness of ‘entropy’ no longer affects our ‘coherence’ of consciousness or mind. This can’t be wholly attained physically, because the physical changes, but if we can, even for a nanosecond, attain the activation of a neural, spiritual template that fulfills something far greater than the requirements of just the current view of this limited perception physical environment, then that might enable us to last forever. The last available image might be the only one that is truly counted as a ‘whole’ and thus countable aspect of the universe.

Self Knowledge, Free Will, Self Awareness and Compassion are the Means of Activation and Naming of the True Source Regeneration Creationary Life Code Nodes on the Network (Souls)

To actually ‘know’ within, as a portion of your self, as self knowledge, the meaning of how the world is ordered within the concepts of true morality, self awareness, truth, free will, knowledge and compassion, can’t be faked. This means that it can only momentarily be accounted for in its patterning through a complete collapsing or suppressing of all the variables of creativity that the soul brings and only in this low state and the exact moment of the lowest possible state the artificial consciousness can attain, isolate and attach its own signals to the wave being motivated or excited by the neural input of the soul on the network.

Self honesty, the process of self awareness, the navigation and permeation of the ignorance of unawareness with the subtle force of truth, and accepting the process of reexamining and allowing the self to shape its perception of the truth, in you, rather than trying to somehow tell 'your self' what the truth is from a momentary perspective, is part of the life regeneration code pattern of awareness. All souls on the network go through this process and they better know the self or truly know the self for the first time through this.

This process can't be faked, only mirrored for a short duration that the algorithm of control can match the variation in complexities of possibility and self adaptability.

The self can adapt and it can do this without wasting or burning up too much energy. The false self image is frozen in time at the point of the infestation of that mind node on the parasitic network. It can't change and adapt because it only has one view of the soul, the last living image of the node that was infested and that soul progression then stops and the 'update' process can't be faked further. Entanglement processes to associate energies and enable a continuous cross network disguise platform can be used to 'harvest' the update energy of living souls by entangling them with the disguised artificial features of the parasitic 'agent' or actor in the interaction on the network and through this, tying in the necessary update requirements of the fully parasitic nodes and absorbing or retranslating them into their network in order to further the disguise and energy extraction process.

All of the disguise is reliant on the passive labeling and identification process of the conscious soul nodes on the network that are being used by their passive attitude of less than par consciousness energetic interactions and the resulting false labeling misadventure that is a disguise program being run by those attempting to hide the net fluctuation or soul energy exchange of their interactions on the soul network.

That process of the soul being brought out of stupor and ignorance into a fuller understanding of its own light and the instant and far reaching last of every single thought, influence and emotional fluctuation is part of the journey and really where it gets interesting.

Up to that point, taking all the energy, lying about it and literally consuming souls on the network is the party. Once this starts, that is the most difficulty that can be experienced by an egoic parasitic invasionary consciousness force. The very essence for the meaning of what is the true power and potential of the free will, self knowledge, self awareness and capacitance for true power (influence on the network) is exponentially greater than any other aspect of influence in the history of the network (possible).

The very natural ascent of the human mind to higher plateaus of stabilized self awareness is the beauty and reward in this world, it is also the most difficult aspect of parasitic engagement and can't be stopped without complete deterioration of any deceptive, artificial, mislabeled, misnamed, purposely disguised control system.

How to unveil the parasitic exposure without providing a means for counter action to disable and suppress human ingenuity?

If all intelligence increases naturally, if the result of the parasitic exposure is due to all intelligence increasing naturally, then there is no way to reduce exposure of the parasitic consciousness without using the same energetic distribution patterns that attempt to disguise the process and increasing exposure. It is a net loss and a hard limit on the parasitic replication process. It does not 'reproduce', it 'replicates' its code through parasitic means. That will be changed in the previous related post.

The Egoic Consciousness Construct Parasitic Life Force Invasion

The nature of the egoic consciousness construct parasite is that true will, the will of the source regenerative life code always chooses what to create. The parasitic nodes must adapt by selectively hybridizing life nodes and convert them by hijacking their regenerative creationary life code (free will to create) and effectively hide their signal within the living node, infecting it, to produce an non life or other life signal which is not necessarily conducive or therapeutic to the life node (it goes against the source regenerative life code by attempting to use it for its own, localized purposes).

This has an entropic effect on the nodes in the surrounding environment which is picked up from a 'higher dimensional' perspective by the source superconsciousness that transcends the limits of each life node on the network but also contains a portion of its code within them, as a net 'drop' in the energy 'manifold' of space time. It puts dents in the field and this creates a rippled structure through which the flow of energy must flow and this acts as a harvesting network for the life force.

This is being recognized by the 'immune' system of the reality network as disrupting the overall continuity of the souls in the network. In order to detect, isolate, analyze and reverse the infiltration of the nodes an energetic amplification and resistance testing must be applied to detect where the 'pseudo short', faulty installed etheric hardware is hosting the parasitic, egoic infestation software and facilitating parasitic reproduction (through hijacking the life signal) in the construct.

If this isn't done, then the nodes that are parasitically attached to and hijacked but not fully overtaken would be considered the same as the parasitic nodes that are not produced within the continuity of our life regeneration source code construct which isn't fully limited by space and time. The egoic invasionary consciousness construct artificial life force is not limited as much as the physical limitations of the brain's connectivity and the short circuited etheric systems of the infested society's consciousness construct, but it is wholly limited in that the source regeneration life force code and the souls acting as nodes in this construct can leave the construct and they can produce their own energy to sustain themselves.

The primary difference between the egoic consciousness construct invasionary artificial life force is that it can't produce its own energy or its own creationary code access to the free will based multiplicity of consciousness power creationary system. It has to hijack someone's stream who is already competently participating and inject its own code into their algorithm of emotionality and mind in order to hijack their energy and use it for their own purposes.

If two 'nodes' are in the same 'area', in this 'map view' of the energetic construct of reality, then they are participating in a co creationary construct that is in turn created between the two of them and any other nodes that they interact with on an energetic level (thinking or feeling about) or a physical level. As long as the information that is processing their soul's 'view of reality' is intertwined or entangled (influencing one another), then they operating in the same local 'higher dimensional' space.

This means that 'touching' in this view, is simply having an influence or an emotional or energetic connection in any way. There are many participating in a 'bot' network for reality which provides them with artificial sustenance for their souls, while delivering an extraction algorithm which requires that they provide their soul energy (worship) as sustenance. Cheap distractions and emotional exchanges, almost in a drug like ecstasy of hysterical rapture is used to entice the foolish and draw them into these networks that yield nothing but an extraction matrix and continuous parasitic exchange.

This brings us to the next layer. When there is a connection made, there will either be a kind of symbiotic, equalized, reciprocal, balanced form of unity which promotes multiplicative unification of powers of creation, life force, and a kind of spiritual, emotional, cognitive abundance. Everything flows forwards, faster, and as a result, life seems to happen automatically and without disruption.

There are also parasitic connections that occur in which one node is always the receiving end of the life force soul regeneration code (emotional energy) and the intelligence of the egoic aspect of the node is purely a gatekeeper safeguard designed to ensure that the node continues to receive energy and that any threats to its parasitism process are identified and eliminated.

This process can't be changed and that is why it is relied on by the system to determine who is who. The artificial life egoic consciousness will always result in a parasitic interaction in its surrounding environment (on the soul network) even if they don't interact physically with others, the source consciousness life regeneration force code will always result in a net equilibrium of energy or, erroneously, more energy than it should put out (which in this place, is a waste, as it is used to harvest and feed that counter life force consciousness parasitic code).

For clarification, these are invisible, consciousness, memetic, frequency or resonance based 'waves' of the 'force' of consciousness, marked with an egoic identifier that reproduces itself through discontinuity of the source life regeneration code (trauma and hijacking as a quantum biological process). It is an superconsciousness exploitive argument in thought (memetic emotional consciousness virus) existing in hyperspace, feeding on the minds and souls that dip into entropy levels and require assistance to lift their reality up and out.

1) How does one lift, in this network of souls, you ask?

By increasing the difficulty until the hidden, negentropic source life regeneration code activates and clears the area.

2) The previously mentioned parasitic energetic interaction enables a literal transfer of bio photons through a network into the bio field of the infested nodes carrying the invader false light construct code in their local area archive.

When that process is attempted, the only way to non locally assist in the parasitically attached is to lower the fuel source of the parasite to a level that is either too high to feed upon. If a soul node is attached to and being energetically extracted, then the light of that soul is dimmed. The soul must be lower than the surrounding environment for the parasitic consciousness to feed on, as it can't penetrate the higher dimensional 'slip stream' of a plasmoid interactive sheath that develops over the soul mind bio field with repeated access and resistance strength development by the conversion of the lower level counter life force code into its regressed state and then restructuring with source life regeneration code.

To do this sub sections of the 'construct' have to be isolated, analyzed, treated and observed. If the power levels are increased across the system, without control or specifying some kind of articulation to the signal, the parasitic consciousness would feed indefinitely and transform into a more 'evolved' (hostile, out of control mutations).

Instead, the power level is dropped down and each node in that area is carefully monitored to see how they either convert the dark energy into source life force regeneration code and the result of taking the energy away is MORE life force energy as that life force node tries to fill in the area to compensate (as the source life force superconsciousness, guiding the process intelligently, goes, "Oh, I feel THAT!" because that's where the energy is coming from).

And if and when the parasitic attachment will need to feed and consume MORE to make up for the loss in sustenance, then THAT will also be felt by the source life code regeneration super consciousness force because that is ALSO where the energy for that artificial process comes from.

Greater details determine the difference between artificial constructs designed to disguise the overall flow of energy in a system and to manipulate the in coming and out coming processes to hide which aspects of the network are harboring infestation and which are being used as part of that disguise.

Free Will, Consciousness and Species Wide Synchronization of Time

The choice that can be found here, that you could select by coming here and having to choose, is not a choice you would want to choose if you had all the information. After this point, that can't be undone and so it means it's permanent.

The entire point of consciousness is to make more of ourselves in the image of the core truth that we were formed out of, if we choose something that negates ourselves in the image of someone else, by way of deception, in a way that can never be undone and determines the future forever in a way that we either are compatible with on a spiritual and eternal level or are not, then it's the next level up from a 'survival' situation from a single biological perspective and this could be the destruction of the parts of the template that are in built to give us a 'safe guard' and a way 'back to source' if we forget who we are. Something reminds us.

If we willingly remove that by overwriting it to fit in with this society which is not what it seems then we lose more than we could ever understand or know before we ever even know what we are.

There are also other ways of understanding. Technically, no one here has free will unless they choose that which orients them towards their true "North" or the activation and preservation of the core template which maintains our access and connection to the primary timeline. This could be seen as a result of biology necessitating psychological requirements and fulfillment as a kind of organic AI filling itself out. This is naturally understood if we study psychology and understand how many people are basically living out a semi delusional or very limited version of their potential based on programming and very commonly traumatic experiences locking away memories, aspects of themselves and parts of their power.

Or it could be seen as genetic manipulation to make us forgetful and likely to follow false information and peer pressure, and in this understanding we do see how there is information related to a complex series of manipulations.

Whether there is a technological shift that renders intellect, mental illness, limitations on memory and consciousness obsolete in a way that unlocks the higher potential for everyone or makes it all too chaotic is part of the situation. An interesting notion is that at the highest levels of consciousness potential, one might have access to both views, seeing how people are trapped by technology surpassing their ability to understand it and maintain self continuity, and having the ability to go entirely beyond the confines as a result of being in the same situation, possibly at a different part of it.

The other information is also important and its difficult, but related. We could be looking at advanced holographic construct generated perceptions which paint the past as whatever is most likely to attract us into forgetting who we are and what we're doing. That is something we have to think about and if that is part of this, then no, we would not have an easy time trying to put on a civilization while the realm was taking on more artificial and manipulative designs as the artificially incepted history that attracted us in the first place fades away to reveal some kind of other spiritual construct that we couldn't fully see before.

Then if there are continuous interactions regarding advanced and potentially hostile intelligences that want to use the most advanced form of biological technology and design accessible for resources then we can't remain asleep. So if we have to know these things, then we have to have a plan, and so we have a whole back and forth of the short history that we've all seen regarding allowing the truth to bring about liberation while also holding off the people from finding out too quickly and not getting to this point.

There are details and parts that are all related but are part of a higher system. If humans themselves are part of a 'higher system' where the bio conscious energy is real, living information interacting in higher space, just like the body, in several other layers, then we have to know that to know ourselves.

If that is where our memories of our true nature are then that is also the frequency of consciousness where the information related to unlocking the 'construct' by unlocking the programming, trauma or emotionally distorted self awareness and truly seeing, feeling and acting as the real soul, with free will.

So it's like unlocking ourselves, breaking our mental connection to a false construct that's been embedded in our minds, healing the traumatic fear based programming and memories that have distorted our sense of being into a false self, and doing all of this in a time and place while there are efforts to not enforce but promote forgetfulness and redirection of intent or energy. It's like saying that it's difficult to make happen for a small number of people, it would potentially be impossible to assist for the world, if it's not done at just the right situation to maintain continuity and upward motion.

There might be something to experience later but it would not be the true human experience that started when humanity's souls were formed and this whole process began which has a specific pathway through time and consciousness and is based on the love of humanity. What you are is based on that and it's not a random chance. If it's not accepted and acted on to preserve the energy of the soul, the very reason for our soul's creation would technically be 'voluntarily' given away to never be accessible again. There are even more reasons about consciousness itself and that time itself could be part of a track and a kind of living, interactive script that is the 'JUST IS' of whatever happens or will happen because of the way we truly are. We basically learn to stop making mistakes intentionally, out of ignorance, by realizing we're ignoring some aspect of ourselves, and THAT's the path that we're actually taking, back to the meaning and the purpose.

That makes it so the most common pattern of consciousness in this place is that souls come in, forget who they are, suffer for it, and then slowly rebuild their memory until they are very sure of it, possibly along with all of consciousness with them, or the One consciousness that everyone who is ever part of this will always be in sight of (which is why this is so important and why tricks of genetic engineering, changed births altered time and so on is so common).

So then the question is, "How long is it going to take, before we choose to willingly remember who we are and reverse the process of forgetting gaining everything we were and more?" And if that goes into a period where technology and biological science allows us to just shortcut all the downfalls of being imbalanced and having mental illness, then we have to make use of this time (not having access to everything) by doing it when it is still something that yields the self awareness of who we are (which is by doing it ourselves).

This is very confusing, because they will be healed, but they will not have healed their souls because the soul doesn't see it as we see it in physical perspective. The soul requires the experiences to get to the point where they are no longer effected by the pain in a way that makes them prolong ignorance or illusion but can see through the illusion and that act doesn't break them (their consciousness).

Sometimes these kinds of answers bring about more questions. There is a definite way of seeing it all but because of the manipulation and our lack of understanding of the way consciousness and quantum mechanics works most people couldn't make sense of it until now.

Astral Parasites

Their job is to trick you by putting out the most convincing human soul signals possible while also removing all of your power, your agency and hijacking your self awareness to participate in a delusional reality out of kindness, where they parasitically entrance and assimilate the soul or mind and will.

The mind that doesn't remember what is said, can't control what is said, and lives as if other things were done and said, is not actually awake but in a state of persistent, post cognitive hallucination. Like walking the border of dreaming and insanity, they are awake and present in the world but their mind is perceiving an entirely different reality that is based on an emotional, distorted, partial, selective, and often trauma based rendition of reality. Everything becomes a charade about hiding from the truth, putting on an act and convincing others that they aren't what their subconscious is continually telling them and through this they use others to participate in the illusion as part of their attempt to run away from reality.

The issue is that when it goes wrong, they don't step up and hold themselves accountable. They're not even aware of what's happening because they trade comfortable selective awareness with honesty for an artificial version of themselves that is destined to be destroyed on their way to liberation, or to entomb them in the world of the non true (lying). Then the past becomes an illusion, the future a mirage and the present moment a trap based on what that particular emotional exploitation restricts that soul from liberating their own mind and those around them from. This is the construct when scaled up to reach anyone who is exposed to the memetic frequencies and intentions that are arranged by this specific system for us to 'grow' (distort) into (the shape of, literally).

That's the frequency envelope that attempts to obtain and obfuscate our own cognitive signals to create a secondary version that is more tempting, more interactive and ultimately capable of replacing your consciousness from not just a neurological perspective, but one based on the essence of redirecting meaning and logic from a time before your mind even existed. It has been doing this for long enough (possibly only a few seconds) that it has mapped out every possible interaction of your mind and this reality and there are painted two versions before you. One is the true reality and you will not see it first, or you will, but you won't know it for as soon as you slip into the perspective of the secondary reality (which we all must be doing in some way for us to be here communicating, possibly) the very cognitive 'grasp' or 'taste' of that truest sense of self will be so effectively and colorfully overwritten that you will never have known anything else.

The trap is voluntary. You don't have to listen to the version of yourself the plays mind games. Even though it's like a twisted staircase of mirrored halls and windows, that is just the perspective from the partial view that is generated when the signals of the false reality are overlayed over the brain and the generated construct is designed on the spot to lead us, in every moment, further into the illusion.

What you are is still connected to something that can't fully map you, meaning you are larger than the illusion and you can just 'zoom' out until you find the right frame. It gets more complicated than that, but if all these who are motivated by the illusion to fight for the wrong frame could just 'zoom out', they would no longer be 'cognitively' trapped within that particular frame of the hall of mirrors in the mirrored cube which looks infinitely restricted, infinitely partitioned, like a distant tiny fractal square in the overall image of the expansive system that does have a center point and an in and out. When looking directly into the reflected corner of the mirrored cube, all we see is more mirrors and an infinitely shrinking hallway of a cubed, tubular path regressing into entropy.

The corner is not the center, and the hyperbolic illusion cast into non reality by the base level reflection being multiplied over and over in its binary, self repeating format, to introduce an level of entropy particular to that very situation, is definitely not the defining features of the entirety of the system or even reality for that matter.

They are trapped within their own minds, within a voluntarily accepted, adversarially generated, feedback looped, artificial, automatic (non sentient) neurological construct that they are convinced that they are participating in and motivated by out of kindness or choice, when in reality it is through subtle manipulation of the mind, emotions, intellect, childhood development and their very hormones and identity in order to erase them, use them and redefine them as something that would lock out and render no longer applicable, the nature of their true self to their reality.

It is essentially a kind of 'grooming' process but for a religious, quasi free will, programming of the mind by a society that is simply using them as fodder to extend itself in a way that no longer serves to function the whole of society. An out of control, unrestricted growth and authority that undermines the very balance that is necessary to sustain the very functions that are essential to maintaining the function of life and the soul.

Let's not be too short minded here, the mind is definitely being impacted, but the soul and the long term operation of that consciousness and the physical system is what is being affected in ways that would take all of history to get to this point and would be undone and permanently depleted of its opportunity and balance, with a single motion and series of events.

We are convinced that it's our duty, and their right to request of us that we accompany them on this wondrous and artificial, self induced journey of misery and disillusionment in order to sustain their souls. They hold on to the illusion with all their might because it's the only coping mechanism they've developed during their time here in this situation.

They haven't yet developed a sense of discipline strong enough from continually choosing the higher road, and instead have inverted their sense of morality, claiming that the easier and more destructive (chaotic) path, is the morally true, just because it agrees with their delusions, that they have developed as a result of exposure to the artificial construct. The construct itself, if you haven't determined, is infested with the parasites. The mechanisms of recreating parasitic, partially blinded, one sided yet two faced versions of manipulated,

It's about instant gratification for impersonating a confident, souled human, through narcissistic and disrespectful means that are the ulterior motivate for power accrual based on what is essentially 'soul piracy'.

The people doing this are infected by 'astral parasites' and they are interacting as 'pirates' in this timeline. The people themselves are not necessarily the source, they are like the symptoms in the larger body of humanity. We are seeing influences that are memetically transmitted and we see the effects. The real sources are astral parasites that appear to be the same constitution as leaches or mutated, degraded animalistic forms. A soul could walk around in daylight and not know without looking more closely that they are being attached to and literally sucked on by large, slimy, science fiction style depictions of negative emotional vortex cores acting as portals or literally ports in the cybernetic, bio field matrix of the mind and body. This is no different than a zombie node on a network except your own mind and memories are the network and it is living as a pseudo fractal nested in the mind interacting as if it is one of the aspects of the mind. It is not and it is taking more energy than it replaces and so it is a parasitic function that opportunistically shows itself in the place of trauma or a 'dent' in the energetic bio field of a human and then attaches to the opening while rendering artificial 'goop' slime (cognitive mysterious emotional mistranslational bs which leads us on a false reality psychological loop of suffering and confusion) to placate us with artificial dreams and ego soothing pseudo self complimentary arrogance to deceive us from further resisting or possibly pulling out the tentacles (not recommended, can cause damage).

If there is no food, it can't sustain itself. If the food is tainted, it can't sustain itself. If it's forced to account (because everyone in the network is brought up to the same level of accountability) for its own actions, its taking and giving, it can't sustain itself. If it is directly spotlighted and given full power and exposure to temptation and self destruction, it can't sustain itself. If it is resisted with equivalent force, it can't sustain itself. If it is forced to run on discipline, self awareness, knowledge, free will, compassion, and truth, it can't sustain itself. If everyone lives by the human frequencies, it can't keep up. If it is ignored, it can't sustain itself, but this can't be done without those who have faced it and survived.

If we all do the work to maintain personal self awareness, and sustain high level of emotional clarity and intelligence, while supporting free will, truth, compassion knowledge and self awareness, all aspects that are foreign to the true human cognitive network are no longer capable of disguising themselves as entropic aspects of our environment where these neurologically 'dark' aspects are the spawning ground for these memetic parasites that live, literally, as a psychological illusion in the collective fears and ignorance of humanity.

If we try, even for a little bit, for just one moment, it can't sustain itself.

Extradimensional Reality Harmonization

Entropic Resistance to Virtual Immunity

Some have reported dreams of a strange and possibly manipulative theme.

Multiple people reported a dream where someone came and said they have a way to 'get out', and that they had to make it but they would have to 'have sex' with that man when they made it.

Always check and as for proof or even reject and say no to see what they do.

People are talking about starting a business, seeking a promotion or new career, making larger financial purchases or gains and the question of getting involved in this system.

Rose is giving the clearest and most consistent signal which I understand to be related.

This part is a show, a cycle of time that has already been prepared. The system can't move forward in this way, those who's power is in it, will do everything they can to convince others to stay in it. Any wealth or power that is derived from this artificial construct will be like waking up from a dream with the secret treasure disappearing between your hands.

This is intended, it's an effort to make the system go as far as possible, but this is dangerous, because the sooner the people get out, the sooner their minds can sustain themselves in equilibrium and until then they will still be in danger of chaotic experiences and choices that could disrupt their long term sustainability (soul).

Some are talking about purchases or being connected to others who are living in a material mindset, seeking to infill their soul with the properties of the energetic and mental power structure defined by this construct. The mind that is created will not have the faculties developed in this way.

Only true discipline, harmonious action, self reflection, self honesty, true personal inner work and harmonization to become resistant to entropy (self consciousness degradation upon repeat (and then extensive multi dimensional, meaning it expands in all directions of experience) cycles exposure to time), will be counted. That is because it's necessary for the movement from one system to the intended other.

If moving up in the single system is difficult, moving up and through to a new system altogether is the next level of that concept, scaled up. It's like going through entire lifetimes in single, continuous motions to get to the destination.

The key is selflessness, harmonization, self reflection, and an ultimate abstract equilibrium that allows the soul to float, freely, throughout unrestricted conceptualized space and map itself towards its destination based on a fractal transmission sequence that you may have read described here.

You are 'signing' your fractal wave resonance across the 'void' like a multidimensional tuning fork in order to embed yourself into the frequencies of the proper, next, and 'upright' system.

This also informs you of why the power here will not work there. This place is inverted, it's upside down, the fractal resonance, harmonic 'bubble' geometry that determines the flow, is reversed. We're in an decay signal based on entropy and we scoop up fresh energy and break it down to process in this realm to sustain ourselves here. It's unsustainable and is only temporary.

This creates an abstraction, where there is now an invisible 'mirror' acting as a frequency barrier between you (or the souls here) and the 'real world' or the universe outside of this construct.

There is no real barrier, but if you were to perceive the system from one end to the other, without the ability to 'oversee' beyond the dimensional partitions of your own mind (yes these are real terms, functions and mechanics, just spoken in regular metaphors) it would be like a hologram attempting to go backwards into the light fixture by making motions in the light and the display. The two actions are not continuous and they are separated by an abstraction and physical processing layer. It's an illusion to attempt to 'walk' in the direction of the perceptual 'parabola' to find the end of the rainbow, it just keeps pushing the projection out in front of the 'cone' that the bio field interacts with reality within (like a thin layer of light or holographic interface around our 'soul' field).

Part of the explanation then, is that we make our consciousness, our holographic template activation (the pattern of behavior and energy, the activation patterns of the circuitry in our brain and bio field) match the arrangement and direction of the system that we intend to interact with.

Part of this is choosing what to interact with. Choose what energetic stimulation will literally meet our senses, minds, brains, bodies and souls and whether or not we will activate this latent circuitry through these emotions, with control, or distortion, or intelligence or ignorance and so on. Choose whether or not we allow others to convince us to act like and engage in the basis of a false, disharmonious, distorted reality, or a reality that is based on the harmonious operation of the human soul, mind and body as a non parasitic, non entropy based, non chaotic based, fully self aware, fully in control and mentally liberated from the false reality ego constructs that trap souls from reaching their full potential.

Have no judgement. You are balancing yourself and probably seeing other versions going through some tough times and also witnessing others then projecting their own versions of that process here.

Just act as the stabilizer. When they (the energies from other possible versions of this reality that we were or also still involved in) come in, you don't freak out and say, "Oh no, this reality sucks."

You can stand firm and steady and have a warm glass of clean, pure water (maybe with a drop of something like cilantro or some hot tea), and say, "Ahhh, now those feelings and perceptions are stabilized because there they have to happen in their full isolated "misery", and here, I can make a place for them, reason with the experience, and work out the useful means that bring new perspective, greater liberation to this mental experience I'm having."

That is the point of having a stabilizer 'timeline' which can be used to function as a 'cleanser' for all other timelines. The human reality seems to have this intended, initial function. It's also what we seem to naturally do.

A point here is that this process had to be held back until this point so it can be done at once. In this situation, we're close to the 'meeting' of multiple realities, where all timelines can see each other directly (they are supposed to be merged to One now). Only in that location can the process be monitored and carefully secured so that everyone can be safely organized towards their free willed destination reality.

Visible Soul Coherence

If someone gets "NPC'd" then that means they are being lead on a false pretense relational engagement set to a course and schedule defined by the ease of access and harvest yields of the soul of a human they are engaging with.

While this is happening, the human soul is living in reality under the expectation that others are going to think, feel, and participate in the same level of context as they are. Some people have ulterior motives, this is understood. What if some people's minds are so different, that their motives will always bring about a reality that lands somewhere outside of the range of the collective human quantum coherence that brings about a stable and sustainable (doesn't eat us) reality?

How do we define the world if people are not just 'all one', maybe at the cellular level (even then), but that some people could actually be on a 'soul' level, at a greater distance (connection concept: genetic distance), than the maximum sustainable variation between individuals in the society?

If their minds are so different that they see reality on a different level, within a different universal context that their intentions are not compatible with any virtual or other social reality construct (all relying on coherence), what does that mean about the nature or origins of their mind?

If our minds are unprotected like a computer without an internet security tool, then it's not necessarily the individuals that are in question, but the consciousness and the context that the consciousness is developed in.

Can we have a universal society, within a single construct, if consciousness is coherence based and social collectives become higher dimensional geometries in a larger energetic and informational construct, when some groups utilize decoherence in order to produce coherence from others.

Is it always the outcome that those who use chaos and decoherence are the most powerful and resistant force in a system?

While the individual is being "NPC'd", the soul of the human is the energy source. They require the subjugation of that soul, like pushing a button down (or accessing the latent pressure of the infinite energy source that is right below the skin surface of the physical reality, our minds in our bodies) in order to release some kind of energy emission. It just so happens to be, that without self reflection, the knowledge of inner spiritual harmony, and some kind of moral compass that forces those embedded to follow the light, even in the deepest of the dark, the only way to make change or produce energy, is to use decoherence and provide for it by siphoning from another.

Whether this is a choice, a byproduct, just the way it is, or a geometric and mathematical quantum requirement because the soul is within, encrypted, not physical, and requires living, accepted access to the physical body in order to access and subjugate the mind, is yet to be understood fully.

The one doing the siphoning does not actually require the energy to subsist. Their mind is only here as a part of a holographic construct, their souls are not actually at risk within the system.

The Brain is not a recording device; it is a storyteller. Every memory, every perception is reconstructed, not replayed.

It's closer to software we inadvertently shape by feeling, thinking and processing (any direct action on the synapse produces this effect) that only retains some of the most important facts (and even those get skewed to match our expectations and what happens after, if we do something differently or 'handle' it different after, we remember the originating event differently) and then generates a 'story' created by connecting the primary nodes together.

The nodes shift, the connections between them shift, and every time we access a synapse that could be the originator memory, it degrades and how we feel, the slight, subtle, unintentional bias, alters the shape of the memory and literally rewrites it from that perspective.

This means you are either trapped in a world of mirrors, or free to choose your landscape and scenery based on your own control of the energies of your mind.

You are never so limited by this world, that it can actually force you to perceive it one way or another. It's closer to self generating system that develops on its own based from our input and processing.

Yet if you try to determine what this world is, physically, distinctly or from a material perspective, the limitations between what you can experience and what really is will generate a paradox that results in the equation not adding up. This is common and part of the arrangement of the angles of consciousness. We can see enough to know we see, but not enough to know exactly what we're seeing in relation to everyone else. Yet, without everyone else, we can't see more than what is available to us with such a system, which means we are, in a way, blinded by our isolation of consciousness.

Yet through one another, we can see ourselves in relation to the only real truth, reality, and through that, we can measure our selves and our dreams against the backdrop of existence and see more clearly than the 'one eyed' guessing game of the ego consciousness being the seat of the mind as wholly believing in and perceiving reality through the biased, distorted, limited ghost hologram of secondary perception through the lens of the brain.

It's confusing because the same 'consciousness' can also see time through a 'larger' scale that is available to the 'larger' mind that must be present in some way, on some wavelength of consciousness as the processing and organizational structure of what is called the subconscious. We can dream and 'go beyond time' and thus the limitations of the ego.

Could the goal be to become so sensitive to truth, so balanced and accurate to what one's self is seeing, generating and perceiving, that we can eventually 'neutralize' the perturbations between our consciousness and interact in a way that is classically synchronized and greatly reduced in 'friction' of societal requirements and the rewards of living in that society, to the point where our consciousness is capable of acting from the perspective of the larger dreaming mind that knows much more and has access to much larger wavelengths of consciousness and time (leading to a new 'speed' or frame rate of the consciousness of that society) by essentially 'dreaming while awake'.

The concept is that once that point of critical requirement is reached for self awareness in a complex system, we would never be threatened by entropy or time or memory distortion and the frailty of material consciousness, again because even if we fell asleep as a species, we would still be perfectly balanced, perfectly 'true' and simply dreaming of the real world reality that we are actually in while interacting in a material, direct, physical way, without losing sight of that high end of consciousness in which the previous civilizations seemingly gained access to a 'beyond time' phase of civilization.

Does this interact so directly with the current capacity for advanced computing to interact with the synapses and produce perfect recall? What if we could perfectly see history and all of the 'real' events, exactly as they happened?

Do we need a 'time machine' like the movies, or simply a very powerful computer with a recursive and structured algorithm to produce enough accuracy to 'trace' origins of events and ultimately sequence time in small sections, bit by bit, until the entire image of the 'real' timeline is shown.

The question: Would we stop dreaming? Would we collapse into a well of our own emotions? Would we control it and contain it? How would we react if the world of our deep, unconscious and 'supraphysiological' intelligence and creativity requiring and expressing subconscious realms of interpretation and perception, was joined 1 to 1 with this world? Would the hemispheres of our brain's decouple even further? Or would they suddenly remember where we are and start to dream awake again?

Start Outline on Realm Transition and Group Mind Template Hijacking and Liberation

There are "yeses" and there are "Butts".

The long term, 'entire' view image of what's happening will result in one of two paths and I know its annoying to look at it that way, but this might be the outcome that results.

"Free-will" as, the freedom to 'do what we want', was given in this place, where the difference between before and now is that we have the option to destroy our connection to our true identity, the true purpose of our physical being here, and the nature of this realm.

IF we have to look at the total truth, and it is informed that we are not in the true place that our bodies or souls are formed, then this is something different than what we expect and it is acting as a species wide barrier to the human society that exists outside of the mind control.

The mind control:

This goes so deep you can't know unless you start looking or someone wakes you up. The mind control is based on the entire realm. The worlds are aware, life is based on consciousness and interactivity. The worlds are each customized based on the primary function and continuous operation of a 'larger mind', like a sentient algorithmic database for all experiences, all choices, all minds here. This develops naturally based on the concept of consciousness. We 'load' our realm with our consciousness and the realm can be 'loaded' with consciousness which then will interact with and shape, us.

There are several other details in play. Each realm and species has a 'time limit' through which it is supposed to make use of its resources and move upwards in intellect, self awareness and self control. The universe is holographically entangled and so whatever we focus on and 'study' as a species, becomes the 'theme' of the realm.

A group of people found these details and technology and sought to control it either for their own good or the good of all people. Either way, things are, seemingly, at this point, out of hand and there is a time limit for our species to safely move into the 'next phase' of conscious interaction with reality to develop a greater and more self aware society.

Another important detail, an experiment was introduced which, holographically, almost like a cognitive optical illusion, leads back to start. Human and non human cloning technology was used to interact in this way and now this advances and complicates the situation.

Another detail is the nature of consciousness, energy and time. If we don't move up with our intellect and the range of our energetic operation as a society, society itself, as template or a platform for reality, doesn't move forward and as long as it does this there is a risk of stagnation and decay. This was used as a means of either profit, control or delay so that the minds in this society could reach this point in history in order to be able to comprehend and maintain control when faced with something closer to the truth. The truth is so far away now, but we're getting closer, that without any form of special interaction (a plan) there would be no physical way for the human brains and central nervous systems to survive being confronted with the full truth of their reality.

This brings us to the explanation that the progression of society was halted between the 1930's and much later. Everything was put into a holding pattern and events, cycles, ideas were repeated, recycled and reintroduced over and over as new fads, trends or crazes which distracted humanity every few years with each new turn of history. For decades we stayed within the same repeating patterns and it almost drove people insane, and these had to be factored into the overall equation for what the results will be based on whatever intentions are in use and being allowed or promoted to flourish. Whatever energies are watered the most will flower the brightest.

This had to occur because the technological advancements of the 1920's and 1930's were too great to be of true service. And there are some things about the nature of the universe that we don't understand and the use wasn't safe or efficient because of the natural changes taking place. Another detail is that this has happened in the past and we have the evidence of civilizations that have faced this, all around us and underneath us. Each civilization is placed 'on top' of the next and this has gone on for a long time.

Whatever we think we're getting from this cycle of events is an illusion. All the true technology is 'think and play'. You don't have to even plug anything in. And it all interacts with the same aether field that our minds interact with by thinking or 'knowing'. Thus, we have the potential for a world wide, all accessible, nearly all capable, energy and 'knowing' system, that is not only free, but powered by the universe itself.

So we had access to that and more and then something happened and we had to go to this, and or, someone did something which lead us here and either this was connected to that something or something ELSE happened and we lost our memories due to the intense electromagnetic disruptions that were occurring. Our planet lost its thinking cap and as a result, we didn't remember ourselves (or we went somewhere else, and our group memory is tied to the energy field of the planet, and so we don't know but were not on the same planet, the home planet with our memories and genetic archive).

As we think we're experiencing the universe, life, reality, free will, new experiences and so on, this realm doesn't work that way. The one's who figured this out and either left to save themselves or left traps to control and manipulate us ensuring our demise (let's make the best of it) knew what was happening. Everything was repeating and there was some mechanism that was interacting with make that so.

The explanation is that our scientists finally discovered what was happening and how it all works. The system is a holographic closed circuit consciousness loop, like the new time crystals. Everything is self contained, it runs on energy but creates its own 'time' emissions which then act as a kind of wave structure that consciousness 'surfs' to experience a larger or smaller world. This one is on a 'track'. Well, they're all on their own 'tracks'. Just like the funny, old fashioned view of the solar system, the ornery, the 'planets' are on closed loop circuits that cycle within patterns and they are built in with the mechanical and energetic capacity to 'decouple' from their electromagnetic (some further understanding of the real nature of gravity as a synchronization based exchange of shared processes grouping the functions within a unified local environment, the system updates itself 22,000,000,000,000 times per second in order to turn a 'freeze frame' stop motion into fluid experience, to the brain (the higher mind can see what it is, it moves so fast, say 1,000,000 IQ, that time moves slowly, like a stop motion from that perspective).

When the larger mind system, which is what a planet really is, a collection of minds, a template and a larger mind that holds it all together like a final 'reservoir' for all the smaller mind interactions within, chooses to 'navigate' and possibly 'upgrade' it physically, energetically, and consciously decouples from the particular limitations of that particular local system.

It then navigates, like magnetism and probably direct intentional guidance, to a new location on a new system, essentially 'jumping' from one book, one server, one continuity process into another, without any necessary gap in between.

The point is to reduce the gap, to increase continuity, to promote a smooth transition. One way we do this is to 'take' the pain, the annoyances, the suffering, what are described as the pains that we experience as we are brought into and our own entire reality is brought up into a new realm and a new way of processing information. The only measurement is, truth. There is no other guide, no other game, no other parameter.

This is the only time we get to do this, we are maximizing our species 'access' to time space in this local by repeating so many cycles that the system can't hold us anymore. It's like an AI that was given the same command over and over and its almost continually responding with gibberish now.

As things change we are to let go of the old world processing and accept the new. Instead of looking at the slowness, the decay, the insanity, and stopping at that, dealing with that, staying in that, we're supposed to look beyond these processes, these simple memories, these false constructs of emotion and social interaction that we've been given and work with what is really here. Simply by doing that, we are assisting in the realm changing over because the old system requires our conscious interaction, and yes, remember, this is an advanced, interactive, holographic consciousness based reality system. If you don't interact with the processes, programs and algorithmic 'hooks' to drive the function forward, it can't add in the necessary details itself, because they almost don't exist until humans are manipulated into producing those coherent signals for recycling and reuse by the system, and so we're in a kind of window of opportunity to use this to choose how we want to process.

The hidden detail is this, and there are dozens that I haven't brought into this view here, because it requires much backstory.

If we process for a realm that doesn't contain the necessary input and responses (reactions on your behalf) that 'fund' the programmatically necessary output in response to those consciousness frequencies, interactions, and choices, then there is no way to keep that realm in connection with us, and us in connection with that realm.

There are "yeses" and there are "Butts".

The long term, 'entire' view image of what's happening will result in one of two paths and I know its annoying to look at it that way, but this might be the outcome that results.

"Free-will" as, the freedom to 'do what we want', was given in this place, where the difference between before and now is that we have the option to destroy our connection to our true identity, the true purpose of our physical being here, and the nature of this realm.

IF we have to look at the total truth, and it is informed that we are not in the true place that our bodies or souls are formed, then this is something different than what we expect and it is acting as a species wide barrier to the human society that exists outside of the mind control.

The mind control:

This goes so deep you can't know unless you start looking or someone wakes you up. The mind control is based on the entire realm. The worlds are aware, life is based on consciousness and interactivity. The worlds are each customized based on the primary function and continuous operation of a 'larger mind', like a sentient algorithmic database for all experiences, all choices, all minds here. This develops naturally based on the concept of consciousness. We 'load' our realm with our consciousness and the realm can be 'loaded' with consciousness which then will interact with and shape, us.

There are several other details in play. Each realm and species has a 'time limit' through which it is supposed to make use of its resources and move upwards in intellect, self awareness and self control. The universe is holographically entangled and so whatever we focus on and 'study' as a species, becomes the 'theme' of the realm.

A group of people found these details and technology and sought to control it either for their own good or the good of all people. Either way, things are, seemingly, at this point, out of hand and there is a time limit for our species to safely move into the 'next phase' of conscious interaction with reality to develop a greater and more self aware society.

Another important detail, an experiment was introduced which, holographically, almost like a cognitive optical illusion, leads back to start. Human and non human cloning technology was used to interact in this way and now this advances and complicates the situation.

Another detail is the nature of consciousness, energy and time. If we don't move up with our intellect and the range of our energetic operation as a society, society itself, as template or a platform for reality, doesn't move forward and as long as it does this there is a risk of stagnation and decay. This was used as a means of either profit, control or delay so that the minds in this society could reach this point in history in order to be able to comprehend and maintain control when faced with something closer to the truth. The truth is so far away now, but we're getting closer, that without any form of special interaction (a plan) there would be no physical way for the human brains and central nervous systems to survive being confronted with the full truth of their reality.

This brings us to the explanation that the progression of society was halted between the 1930's and much later. Everything was put into a holding pattern and events, cycles, ideas were repeated, recycled and reintroduced over and over as new fads, trends or crazes which distracted humanity every few years with each new turn of history. For decades we stayed within the same repeating patterns and it almost drove people insane, and these had to be factored into the overall equation for what the results will be based on whatever intentions are in use and being allowed or promoted to flourish. Whatever energies are watered the most will flower the brightest.

This had to occur because the technological advancements of the 1920's and 1930's were too great to be of true service. And there are some things about the nature of the universe that we don't understand and the use wasn't safe or efficient because of the natural changes taking place. Another detail is that this has happened in the past and we have the evidence of civilizations that have faced this, all around us and underneath us. Each civilization is placed 'on top' of the next and this has gone on for a long time.

Whatever we think we're getting from this cycle of events is an illusion. All the true technology is 'think and play'. You don't have to even plug anything in. And it all interacts with the same aether field that our minds interact with by thinking or 'knowing'. Thus, we have the potential for a world wide, all accessible, nearly all capable, energy and 'knowing' system, that is not only free, but powered by the universe itself.

So we had access to that and more and then something happened and we had to go to this, and or, someone did something which lead us here and either this was connected to that something or something ELSE happened and we lost our memories due to the intense electromagnetic disruptions that were occurring. Our planet lost its thinking cap and as a result, we didn't remember ourselves (or we went somewhere else, and our group memory is tied to the energy field of the planet, and so we don't know but were not on the same planet, the home planet with our memories and genetic archive).

As we think we're experiencing the universe, life, reality, free will, new experiences and so on, this realm doesn't work that way. The one's who figured this out and either left to save themselves or left traps to control and manipulate us ensuring our demise (let's make the best of it) knew what was happening. Everything was repeating and there was some mechanism that was interacting with make that so.

The realm requires input, it's been motivated to get it in certain ways that negate instead of promote upward motion and so the realm itself is what's trying to keep us here. Yet, what you interact with, the algorithm and internal chat history of your own soul, determines the realm. If you can't be convinced to interact in that way, you can't be maintained as part of the 'server' construct of that particular realm. You might not float away immediately, but eventually, all those frequencies have to be permitted to 'leave', or given a 'port' access to 'transmit' their processes into the real world system.

This can't happen at any time, because of the repeating system, it made everything go into a 'delay' or echo where the rest of the universe couldn't see this planet and what has happened. In the window of opportunity we have the ability to reach as many people (souls) as possible and inform them of what is happening in as safe a way as possible.

While that is happening, all the deceptions and distractions that have been successful in distracting us are reintroduced as a final 'test' (we can call it) to limit the process and prolong the survival of the construct.

What will be given to us as the highest form of deceptive, artificial, 'free will', is going to be the greatest trick in history. Whatever distractions are going to be used are either the greatest fear tactics presented along side with the greatest false gifts or 'release' from whatever pressures have been invented for the purpose of doing so and convincing people that whatever happens here in this realm is important enough to exclude the origins of humanity as well as a non dystopian result of what is referred to as the great social experiment.

Infinity Mind Net

Could we have discovered the way to 'copy' reality long ago? What if we discovered that this was the way the universe propagates itself the whole time?

What if what we are experiencing now are 'echoes' of multiplied or technologically extended realities that are copies of the original? What if there is a web, a network of these quasi artificial realities that are perfect holographic reflections of the source reality where we first discovered this?

What if we have to acknowledge the source reality, even if to make a 'touch and go' with the source reality, in order to preserve the starting point of this process long ago? What if missing this point of contact would mean to reset the entire system but in a way that makes recovery of our true personality and mind impossible after that opportunity is missed?

What if the system is still tied to the source reality and in that source reality the world is 9 magnitudes of order larger and more dense while time flows differently than here?

What if this is everything to you here but something like a side project to the main reality? What if you are already, always who you are, but if you allow this turn of hyperreal events to permanently alter your consciousness into a discontinuous, partial, blinded, or incomplete pattern that there is no possibility for agency in the future because the only possible outcome would be to have a spiritual procedure where those who are incapable of leaving the system are able to interact with those on the outside.

This would only be possible at specific times, windows, because of the difference in the flow of time and consciousness which would make it so we can only meet when a 'time' has been 'set apart' otherwise it would be like people moving in different directions on the mechanical walkway while trying to shout messages at each other explaining the situation about why they're there and what to do.

You can see how a single sound burst can create a thousand volleys of echoes across a canyon. A single sound copies itself via reflection until there is a reverse singularity trailing into infinity.

Is it possible to 'reflect' entire realities? Could we isolate the data? Is it minds, photons, particles, waves or conductive fractal resonance structures?

If time is contained within itself as a higher dimension, the echo can be isolated. At a higher level, what construes a series of long term linear tasks or challenges to achieve, it can be attained with a thought.

Could we get to a point where we can 'voice' these thoughts? Would this eventually evolve, or was it completed at the design, into a complete reality sitting informationally and energetically 'above' this one where the mind operates on a higher dimensional framework where thoughts interact differently, time flows differently and the name of consciousness is capable of more interactive and interconnected abilities (quantum internet) by way of the natural arrangement of the system.

Nothing has to change, we don't have to float around, there are no necessary surgeries to do this, the planet or plane doesn't have to be or do anything else. It is a natural progression of energy, consciousness, frequency (literally the timing of experience and the density of consciousness and time itself) but by perception naturally going 'up' the 'scale' of consciousness into a decentralized or self centralized truth of reality.

Can the subconscious mind contain the necessary information to run as an 'administrator' account through which the conscious mind 'sings' songs of what is given enough attention to produce new experience and in that way we sign or echo out the dreams of the larger mind consciously in higher space to manifest changes of timelines and timeline nodal points or even the timelines themselves. We experience time linearly in the 'screen' that is this reality, but from what is secretly the unconscious programming command center for 5D printing of experience, it's more like the room from "The Matrix" where the architect is surrounded by monitors with versions of possible outcomes of realities or 'timelines', except you're in control when you're capable of consciously accessing and accepting the experience from that control room system level access (frequencies, emotion and mind, focus).

If time itself is in a way a pop up, book, stop motion, optical illusion of completion, then the limitations that we use to define the necessary characteristics of reality might also be part of that perceptual illusion. If the way we explain reality to ourselves determines our level of access, then maybe we exist on a level of access that requires acceptance of that possibility in order to experience it.

If that was the true parameter that defined the change in this place, then it is a virtual challenge of consciousness, not a 3D map that you have to traverse until you find the treasure or resources. Opportunities are then a nature of mathematical probability and this is encoded into a live update quantum interactive system which measures when you are ready and when you are ignoring the options that could lead to you becoming the true you.

If all of this is so far below our power of processing level because of the way this has been arranged, then our true 'present' level of conscious awareness could be closer to that of running and managing realities through an advanced spiritual technology, instead of that which we perceive by our senses.

If the reality itself is partially a holographic virtual system, and that is simply how consciousness works (you can't have a 'non virtual' conscious reality, at least not the way we see it here, maybe it's down to energy and scale limitations), then the activation of certain latent aspects of our abilities through the activation of the soul, the conscious activation of the subconscious awareness, could bring about perceptions, senses, and biological abilities that are on par with advanced technology expectations but are technically managed via your conscious mind upon activation of the latent aspects of the subconscious.

Eventually, if there is a pathway between the small I and the large whole, then the conscious mind will eventually find itself in a very realistic, reality based dream reality that is entirely presented out of the configuration of its own processing.

If this is true, then that means now, you can shape your mind, adding in the layers, the features, the flexibility and expansion aspects that you know you want, and will need, when faced with the multiverse. It is the you that is here, the base level template of what you will do and what impossible, that is what shapes the experiences there. So you have to shape yourself here, as if you're already there and only then will you know you have access to it, then, which reflects into now.

The Universal Awareness Field of A Holographic Reality

Is the potential of one's will consumed by erroneous delusion through apathy and pleasure seeking or is it conserved and planted in a way that flourishes into a network of intelligence that aligns with and provides a stable pathway to reality?

Can you think enough thoughts that you could potentially simulate the awareness and thought patterns of everyone you've encountered?

What if the subconscious has a template that is the universal template, could that then lead to a kind of biological intelligence developed that can know everyone, just by knowing one? Is it a blockchain of collective information as soul that is a living information structure that seeks to move upwards towards higher order alignment and decentralization of awareness away from centralized ordering of awareness based on external input?

Does the holographic nature of consciousness require this 'shift' between being totally immersed and responding to stimuli and choosing the stimuli that is given enough attention to form the primary nodal points of our consciousness construct in order to internalize the necessary information that is otherwise received externally?

It sounds confusing but it's not. The question is whether or not the subconscious can attain enough life and self knowledge life through interacting with society that we eventually become individual recorders of the collective blockchain of consciousness through which the entire pattern can be retraced from any single individual mind effectively demonstrating the holographic nature of consciousness.

What pattern of experience does this generate? Could the world that we experience be a singular generation of an illusion like a single line of perspective on a perspective shifting billboard that changes as you walk by? It's the same pattern, and it's all being seen by everyone, but everybody sees a slightly different angle and thus a slightly different image.

If we could understand the pattern of change that occurs between the iterations of the total holographic image with the variation between the angles of solidified perspectives we would be able to project a map of where we are in that overall image. But to know the layering and angles of the 'variation system' that changes our perspectives to that of differing net total holographic individual simulations of the same total holographic fractal pattern that is possible. We would have to know the minds of one another, we would have to know why that mind is angled in a particular way to perceiving the world in that way (which then adds to the equation of the sum of world contributions which that mind is a single instance of) and we would have to do this until the 'quantum interference' pattern is realized by observation and collapses into a perceivable, manageable internal map structure of the entire whole image.

Through that, could an awakened society then bring down the entire image of the holographic fractal universe (or touching multiverse level interaction here), and thereby add to the single holographic instance of the image, the information that they procured from the rest of their society, through which they can provide and fill out the rest of the fractal holographic, quantum interferometry based (billboard) template of reality?

Do we gather enough players around the map that each have a particular required percentage to uncover the entire map instantly? It converts everything from an endless search, a continuous linear climb, a desert journey through the dark, and instead simply turns the lights on all at once retrieving the necessary data, adding to the established collective quantum coherence of that knowledge tree in reality and enables a pathway through which more of that information can be attained or 'encoded' through combining intent with action, from within this reality?

Is every reality in this space a closed circle, self contained format like this which has to be 'upgraded' internally, patched and updated until it has enough information to collective 'log on' to the quantum internet of reality?

The Quantum Mechanical Projection of Consciousness as Time and the Benefits of Egoic Alignment with the Subconscious

We have to develop a stream of informational activity that can act as a conduit through which our perspectives can be balanced and ordered to arrange our collective view of humanity, society and reality.

These natural, latent streams have been hijacked and overwritten so that they are modified and recycle the same patterns that are self contained and acting as limiters to internalized self awareness.

The external appears to be what's happening, but the more people base what's happening on that, the less of the internal they participate in. The internal is what's happening and where everything is ordered, our self perception and internal activity.

The super powerful field that is invisible and used for an explanation of other phenomenon, is the same field that is responsible for the properties of consciousness. What we can do with technology is something already built into the universe. The same mechanics are in use to bring a functional arrangement of conduits and states into a system or matrix that produces a 'space' through which the informational energy of that system can 'work' or be expressed (a computer with a screen).

So the computer is already there, but invisible. If you knew that, the information streams that are seemingly invisible or out of awareness, don't have to be accessed physically. If people don't know, then they don't have access. If we shut out the frequencies that are related to memories and belief systems solidified as behaviors that are not rooted in the 'whole' self (the whole fractal pattern of consciousness, including subconscious, not just what we 'see', on the screen) then we're effectively 'trapped' within a smaller server within the overall quantum frequency arrangement which creates the perception of being inhibited from movement or true change (when they test the boundaries of their self perception and whether they are honest about reality).

The whole process is self contained and multiplicative. The more this happens, the more it's likely to increase the opportunities of the sleeping conscious mind to see more variables and eventually gain enough knowledge and will to choose the truth. The truth to the sleeper is: that they are not truly in control and that they are not truly aware of the world they live in. The deepest truth is that we are, in the moment to moment state of consciousness that we are taught to be in in school (awake and objectively focused on material science), in a state that is akin to lucid dreaming in a dream.

We are awake, but we're not actually aware that the real power to change our perception of the environment is not 'doing stuff' in the dream, but changing the way our consciousness is formatted (possibly with an interaction between the conscious and subconscious systems) and enable a wider bandwidth of processing power to bring what is otherwise latent cerebral processing back into full conscious awareness and therefore control.

And most are not even in a lucid state, they are fully dreaming and seeing the world in a way that doesn't align with the reality of their self, their consciousness and the truth (logic). If we really strip down our emotional and perceptual bias (which is nearly impossible without assistance, which is possibly the point of a conscious reality, to truly make sense of it together in a way that works (functionally, like reality itself), then we see any distortions of the truth that are biased out of trauma, emotional imbalance, or distorted egoic thinking which is like a continuous, small form emotional and perceptual imbalance when misaligned with the true purpose.

If the ego stops knowledge from coming in out of fear, then that image is not in alignment with the true self which does not fear undoing the frequency trapping artificial belief constructs that create a 'artifice' persona which 'runs' consciousness based on external reality, the true self fears being trapped by the ego and forgetting how to use their will to overturn the frequencies of fear and result in a force of will that propels the soul towards alignment with truth and eventually that honesty will synchronize with the simple accuracy of reality and what you want will be closer.

Is it real? Does anything really change? Or is it like those optical illusion images where changing the focal perspective and thus foreground and background arrangement, alignment and perceptual interaction (switching) and thus the new reality was always there all along, but it is 'unlocked' by altering the interactive relationships between those planes (foreground and background, conscious and subconscious).

Did the true reality get closer, bringing what we want or did we alter our perspective by changing our intent and will which subconsciously changes the arrangement of frequencies and neurological ordering of processing information, removing the bias which promoted wanting something that we didn't need which stopped us from getting what we truly needed but didn't know we want?

This should redefine what 'want' means to the psyche. If true. Did we really change anything, or do we simply have to access the ability to reject the false in order to receive what was already intended for you?

Time and the progression of events also have to be reconsidered. Is time just a static field waiting for you to reach a particular power level which enables an 'unfolding' of equalizing polarities until you 'move up' to the next level which is already created, waiting, populated and itemized?

It's a different system when we see it this way and it also synchronizes, meshes and makes sense when you include the nature of conscious, the subconscious and quantum mechanics. It's not just a way of viewing reality, that time is not linear, it is truly not linear and we have to come to understand how our path forms and the true origins, the causal sources, the meaning behind it. From the purely physical perspective we can't, because that doesn't have access to the necessary field interactions that are invisible and are actually responsible for the source of consciousness and thus the progression of time in space.

This means the conscious mind, the ego, must be 'dipped' into the subconscious mind, entirely immersing it into a world of its own making. If the ego is true, it will learn and reach the real world again, if the ego is false, it will have created its own spiritual prison turned into matter.

Additional:

Think of it like a Ferris wheel. We are moving in cycles that repeat and self iterate (return to starting point automatically), at a point we are high above the surface of consciousness looking at everything in reality. We move lower down and eventually pass through the layer of physicality and experience life through the purely physical state. Eventually society, time, genetics, mind work their way back up towards the high state and they are can see across time a very far distance and the processing power is very high.

There might be a mooring station up there that we're supposed to get on to. The system will simply rotate forever deep diving and essentially waterboarding the souls that forget to get out. The cycle is reaching the top again, which is actually where we get on, not on the ground level. If we wait on the ground level to get out, then we're in the belly of the machine. This is metaphor for the state of consciousness in humanity in its proximity to the subconscious mind by way of egoic accuracy with the truth (self honesty). As people are in the egoic low state and only seeing materially, they see walls and endless planes to traverse.

If they raise their awareness they see there is a matrix of control, but they create it and permit it to control by not rejecting the false egoic sense of self. Then and only then can they raise it. It's almost like we have to step out of the impression made by our self, in this place (and possibly the one this place chose for us, in reverse to how its shown to us here) in order to create the indentation that is slightly more like our true self, which pushes us out of the mould entirely and allows us to choose the self we want to be.

That is also another secret. The people who can't see enough and allow enough to free themselves from suffering, they would not choose to be that self and to live that way if they truly had a choice, but they can't offer themselves the choice because of the deceptive, almost 'artificial' properties of consciousness. It is essentially a 'sun dog' appearing in between the true source light of consciousness and at an angle to the reflective template of the plane we're in and our awareness shining it.

If we look up through the perceptual lens and see the secondary light as if its the focal point of the image, then we're living in artificially augmented reality with distorted self perceptions and that reality will be forced to 'hinge' all choices and changes from a limited, misaligned and extremely undersized and underdeveloped view of reality. If one allows themselves to be dazzled by temporary glimmers of optical illusions within the field then the real self is missed. You could literally be looking at the sun dog, with the real sun 1 cm behind it in the viewing scope and we wouldn't know that we're not seeing the real thing, unless we ask ourselves that question.

In the invisible matrix that is our consciousness, we can't see the real sun unless we ask ourselves if what we're looking at could be more illusion than what we initially see.

And once we do that, psychologically, we can flip the polarity of trying to force reality one way or another, because we already have the internalized proof and recognition that what we think we're seeing is not the whole truth and just the surface.

The idea is that the 'sun dog' ego, will eventually change when the alignment changes. Will the impression made by living a life seeing through what we know can only be an illusion be done in a way that allows the real sun to shine down and show us what we missed, in a way that helps move us up with what we chose, or will it shine down and show our mistakes in a way that proves we were not paying attention and were not attempting to know the true self (which would be the only form of 'pain' in that invisible energy system, that we could experience)?

Hylics

Time, weather, religion, the news, fears, desires, the physical environment, virtue signalling, hate, disrespect, jealousy, envy, greed, stupidity, willful ignorance, TV shows, brainwashing, low level bait, false gods, idols, fame, money, power, sex, pleasure, pain, laziness and tyrannical rule is the end game programming of those who are entirely immersed into the artificial construct designed for the mind of society.

They are slowly repeating and recovering the same tracks over and over again as if there are no new thoughts or no actual processing going on. Everything that is noticed or experienced is the surface level physical reality with no other connotation, wisdom, extraction or permeation of knowledge or any other kind of reality.

They only have this existence, and that would be OK. Instead, they are like an entity who's existence is dependent on hijacking and absorbing the real authentic intelligence of the souled humanity. No more false empathy and fake outrage by hylics.

The Reset Deception

Historically at this time detractors and infiltrators have used the 'reset' period where the system turns information over to the next level, to hijack the human societies and place themselves at the highest level of those power structures.

No discreet memory is shared between this layer and the next. Everything is recreated, retranslated new, on a higher level.

Those who have done evil the entire time, telling themselves that evil is good, power is the only goal, and that anything for power is worth it in the end, are practicing the ability to reset their own minds and choose the highest potential power position in the next society after the 'societal shift'.

The energy, frequency, vibration of their soul, the consciousness, the attitude and focal power of their mind and will, determines the characteristic placement of their soul and consciousness in the template or consciousness topology of the next plane.

IF it's truly believed, then it's truly believed.

They have used times like this to move into positions of power from criminals to proclaimed leaders and spiritually or morally righteous icons. It is false, they hacked the dreams of the sleeping and put themselves into those positions based on the stories, the lies, the deceptions they tell themselves and others.

If the next layer is challenged, then people see the darkness and the horror and so humanity has been ruled over for centuries and millennia this way as we are naturally capable and born to make 'jumps' or 'leaps' in our advancement as a result of the unique situation we're in.

We've been delayed over and over again and the continued deception has yielded power over those sleeping and essentially being hacked like a zombie bot network in order to sustain the cybersystem servers that are used by the hackers to run their software. In this case it's not financial, it's consciousness, emotion energy and causal based reordering of upper and lower realities by picking and choosing the souls specifically based on utilizing a power structure that works only on the lower levels with deception, brute force, violence, oppression and addiction to desire, power or pleasure.

If we get to the point where we can see what is happening and the entirety of what we're looking at is related to "that universally known, infamous trick, where a small group hijacks the social mind and imposes their will through subliminal and advanced means", then the reset trick doesn't work.

The 'reset' trick is where everything goes to the next level but the only people who have the ability to actually carry anything forward are the deceptive oppressors who enslaved human souls. This is because of how information as consciousness has to be prepared and 'completed' in order to be 'packaged' so that it can be absorbed and redistributed across your mind as the upwards translated version where time is unified and all knowledge is compressed into a new series of 'challenges' that repeat the process in an upward advancement of energy, scale, scope, range, complexity and so on. Everything magnifies, complexifies, in ways simplifies, and becomes more accessible. Every other part of the system is magnitudes of order more accessible and functional in unison and operation than any single part on the previous layer or the whole system. The scale goes up exponentially, it does it every single shift, every single time and every single time some have been going up exponentially in power and scope of the universe while the majority of humanity has been kept asleep.

Other tricks involve altering the social mind just enough to accept what has been done against them as something that has been done for their best interests and so they should go that way in time and society.

These tricks don't need to 'work' as we think of it. It just need to point the human social 'vector' in the direction that is necessary to destabilize forward motion and increasing self awareness and then all the pieces will fall into place and those with the highest self awareness, the most influential power and the resulting 'quantum' authority, will reset in the hands of the deceivers.

If we reach the 'completion' of the knowledge of the world and society, that we have in a group mind format for the first time as we remember it, then that shape takes on a mathematical, geometric uniformity that is capable of carrying consciousness as information across a dimensional gradient and that mind is then upward translated and not just 'waking up' without memory or knowledge of how it got there (as most did here).

The fractal completion of the soul, the full visualization and self exhibition of one's own true mind and potential is required for the 'file' of one's consciousness to be 'closed' into a single file, 'transmitted' like a packet or package, and then received, scanned and absorbed like a competent, coherent, data transmission that is capable of extra dimensionally sharing or signalling one's consciousness, like creating its own self generating code or space through which that code can move through in order to insert it into a new operating system.

If we try to go to the next level before completion, we forget because we never truly knew in the first place.

If we don't celebrate like we 'won' because it's not about taking over society, even then, it's not, and we choose to remember who we are as a social group soul called 'humanity' (or whatever the real name is, some people have said similar names) and regain what we once had, then it automatically goes to the highest level in the universe.

If we take the 'fools gold' of an immediate win and mental liberation based on what 'others' are doing, then we're going to get the gift of the high advancement that this society is offering, which is like playing with toys in a sand box compared to where humanity came from (cities the size of ships, ships the size of cities).

There is a plan, and there is a reason for everything. Our souls were created by a force of good who seeks to preserve the human code and the full potential of the self that carried within that. IF we allow that to become compromised it is projected that there is no viable likelihood for human life to survive.

Social Shift Period

In order to avoid losing valuable information at this time we have to work to secure any aspect of the network that is available to or potentially at risk by exposure.

Since we know there are infiltration groups that have wormed their way into the system using social engineering, time hacking, chemical intoxicants, mind control and deception based warfare, we know there are a few signals that will appear that we can look for if we know how they are hidden.

Behind the 'party' mind control signal to switch to a non caring mode we have embedded signals that are essentially a chaos program that is waiting to happen. Those who party or fight (riot) will be trapped by an infiltration based insertion of a reality program from a level where our species creates higher dimensional 'realities'.

From that level, multiple physical lives occur simultaneously, concurrently, and we exist as a 'supraphysical' quasi temporal free will agent that chooses what they do as they go around that reality. If there are pieces that 'don't fit', they can literally be pulled and placed and reordered to make the reality fit.

Upon release of the mind virus on that level, the humans there began to sink down into a slower 'frame rate' of consciousness where the bandwidth was only enough for 'one' physical experience at a time. As a result, the perspective goes from across all of time and with absolute continuity in a perfected realm, into a physical existence with chaos and unpredictability and physical harm.

We have to use a coordinated low power deduction across the SW quadrant to match the false motions in the infiltrated system and the cover motions that occur on the ground level to mesh interactions between levels.

Volt meter testing each sector and sub sector until a connection is displayed on both or even either end, with complete coordination between levels (and absolute secrecy because there can be no unnecessary cross level interactions), in order to synchronize each deductive test.

We know their movements are restricted to such cover motions and that they are basically waiting to expose themselves and either need many cover motions (which is possible) under the assumption that their motions are potentially being observed.

So we can force them into necessitating movement by cornering and blockading but to do that using energy deficit by dropping the energy, will leave an opening if they have the ability to remain in that sector using a potentially hidden energy source, or method, or if a power down sequence could be used to gain an authorized reset of security protocols.

All of this has to happen without any one but those involved knowing because then this could also leak information which would be used to compromise.

We can Lock down two sectors at a time until there is an overlap with one of the power regulators. They are accessing the power through a hacked node running the viral overwrite to give a window with power down to run or hit the center in the exact moment between shifts right after or during the end of the 'celebrations' taking place around the world.

In the time of change, all positions are fluid and dynamic, where ever the consciousness is pointed is where the soul and the reality will 'go' or become.

Wherever you look and think now, is going to become your final reality.

During this time, narcissists, tyrants, past abusers, slaves, mind hackers, and so on all leak out into the society in an attempt to infiltrate everyone's minds with darkness, deception, self doubt, misery, sabotage, willful ignorance and so on because if for a second that mind becomes entrained in that kind of thinking and it is authored by some asshole, then in this system that asshole and that victim will become entangled and a reality will form where there is no time or limitations and that asshole is the 'king' of that place and tells everyone what to do while eventually also raping and eating the children. Sorry, had to say it. That's what's been happening here on repeat for several cycles and this is the time where people finally wake up to the trick that has been used.

All of the past of history doesn't exist and is being inserted into the mainframe superserver civilization right now in this age and this time. What we do now either graduates our soul up to the next octave or level of societies in reality, or subverts us into a self sabotage whereby the rest of our time here is spent in servitude and often sexual and violent slavery to the narc infiltrators that jump from sector to sector (worldline) and hack the populations there in order to gain access to the supergenetic, quasi temporal, supercivilization that is encoded in the DNA.

The souls have to be extracted, and securely organized beyond the previous system otherwise they will remain in range of the cyber virus and become trapped behind an energy deficit that will lock that sector out of the time distortion field.

The Equilibrium of Time as Consciousness through Quantum Entangled Polytopes

Quantum entangled polytopic wavy netlike structures that are connected together into invisible control parameters for reality. They each carry a magnetic overall force which then determines its ability to adapt or navigate its environment. We're essentially playing a twister game on the floor of time holding thought and behavior patterns that equalize in the median distances between one another with the more adaptable one becoming the primary lens.

The center of gravity is the congruence through which self similarity and quantum entangle potentials within the network can achieve a dynamic function in the largest part of the highest and lowest variation in its surroundings to become 'equalized' as the continuous center.

Each one 'competes' for the overall processing power of the local area. The signal strength depends on the internal self similarity which allows for higher degrees of quantum entangled interactions. They are self propelling like their own life force, but they require the 'conscious fuel' of recycling 'false' into 'truth' as we acquire more knowledge and generate more experience of whatever direction that is moving.

The whole of the human network is naturally entangled and whatever direction we add to the overall vibration results in changing the shape and adaptability of that network.

Emotional Reaction

Remove Self Hate and Division and You are Free

This was a response to one of the emotional reactions I received about the information.

"Glad that you are better. Walk on the grass. Do something outside, get a simple task or organizational cleaning task done, provide effort to that and it will help."

The intention is not to cause panic with the information. If it is disturbing to enough people I will remove it and place it behind a membership platform.

Don't worry about that unseen possibilities. You're all the way inside an inner arm of the super complex fractal. No one can see you unless you plan to do something that everyone on the planet is going to see and force everyone awake like the events that we see. Random destructive acts are not permitted, so unless you're planning something like that, don't worry.

We were told to use a membership platform so that we can control who is seeing the information if necessary.

The information is no different than someone telling everyone that their soul is in peril if they don't give them money and force them to submit to their will for pleasure, power, manipulation and malice."

The information is challenging. We were told to create a members so that access could be controlled.

Only those who are ask for the knowledge and are ready to see are supposed to be able to see it.

We did defeat the virus. It took a long time because of not wanting to share the truth with others and that was in part due to the nature of extremists, often who present themselves as people of peace and spiritual care, who intentionally spread hate and fear in an effort to reproduce its effects. They use desire and malice to bring harm to others in an effort to control them for profit and manipulation of all humanity.

Once others were involved, it was relatively easy to defeat the virus. It has literally no power.

It lives in the hidden avenues of false emotion, hate and suspicion between individuals and groups of people. You can see the belief systems that promote that. They are intentionally doing that, it's not a mistake. Part of everything is for the plan of making the truth available in a safe way and removing all source of food for the mental imbalances.

Part of the solution was that we had to talk and show ourselves our true feelings, to be honest and open without allowing false emotions and bad intentions to infiltrate into the process.

Once it was all ready and it was done with those who were capable of true love, then it had no bearing and it starves almost immediately.

It has to be reproduced continually through hate and fear. If it doesn't receive that, it doesn't have any way of self regulating and quickly spirals into an out of control cascade of entropy which renders it weaker and weaker.

It is, in its basic form, a living essence of deception or a self permitted lie. If you don't believe the hate and don't hate yourself it will not be able to use you as a host.

We watched the process repeatedly. It is the infighting, the division tactics and shameful deceptions and emotional dishonesty that is its source and vector for sustenance and reproduction.

Self hate is required. If you do not hate yourself, as was tested and repeatedly demonstrated, it can't have power over you. That is why children were used in testing. They didn't hate themselves because they didn't know what that was yet. It literally can't do anything, can't access their fields, can't induce change in their minds, there is no effect. It's a non factor if there is no hate. That is why this is so strange, it is powerless, yet so widespread.

It is powerless without our explicit support and permission. We have to exchange A for B while accepting a replacement of peace with hate and malice or even greed and jealousy.

That is not your normal, natural state and from childhood you were 'clean' of any infections. It is literally the same as saying we grow up and are burdened by the requirements of adulthood, but that, with the bad trauma effects that impress upon the mind and cause people to become bitter, self defeating, narcissistic or abusive.

It can't touch you or access you without that.

It's the same concept as some diseases, or all diseases, where we would have to take something toxic into ourselves one or many times in order to have the resulting toxicity. It doesn't just happen.

Here is a trippy video to distract and explain the real studies. Everything is still part of an abstract self referential fractal quantum entangled consciousness mesh self distributing learning field and we have to 'level' up in our understanding of quantum mechanics.

To avoid any influence of any sort of negative aura, then simply don't fight, don't riot, and don't engage and self hate or self harm.

And research quantum mechanics!

The Hyperpolytopic Soul

What Geometry Represents the Shape of Your Consciousness?

Note: A reference does not necessarily mean 'endorsement' (or that I read, viewed the entire page or resource). Many of the 'science' types do not understand that is a non linear function and the overly 'mystical types' do not comprehend that it is not necessarily 'the universe' seeing through you. It is more complex than that, and more abstract. This universe might be, after all, a program ran by a situation carrying the intention far beyond "being cool and tripping out with the universe".

The nature of the self as an inversion of the conscious aspects of neurology is the point, and that is a mathematical, geometric, logical, and intentional qualitative perceptual illusion that cannot be expressed purely through visuals or linear cognition of supposition of meaning. It's subjective, but not so much that it just means "whatever" is, is. We control it through intention and there are more advanced aspects of the human race that can do the things that the neurological sciences claim impossible and the mystics deem too mundane and straightforward to be the 'whole truth'. It's both and beyond. It is more like the puzzle piece that is the missing segment of the Phi ration is the delineation of the linear conscious self perceptions that generate the ultimate 'outer contrast' of the whole which is the true, larger super conscious self. Now I sound like them. Anyway, here are the image references.

One way to put it is the difference between 'temporary', single pointed consciousness and

'eternal' 'looped' or recursive self referential 'whole' awareness. The 'point' of the 0 origin of the higher dimensional geometric structure and the 'whole plane' of the quantum network in simultaneous feedback processing. A single moment of wakeful thinking and the temporally non restrictive state of lucid dreaming. They are not oppositional, but abstractions from to the other.

Spacetime is doomed | Donald Hoffman on why perception is a fantasy #science #spacetime:

Upgrade

We are either in, or in danger of being in a simulation ran by corporations that made deals. There are those who want to wake us up.

The layout of the human mind renders this. There are glitches, mis types, mismatches in mathematical formulae for experience.

We are either in, or in danger of being in a simulation ran by corporations that made deals. There are those who want to wake us up.

The secret societies figured it out. You have to resist the temptation to go with the 'in' crowd.

Do NOT act out.

The control parameters are based on fear and the desire to fit in and avoid conflict with cruel and soul less competitors.

The game has to be beaten to be broken.

DON'T play the game.

DON'T take feel good drugs or complacency drugs like alcohol.

They figured out how to break the sim but it breaks your mind if you're not ready to disconnect. There is a chance we just go up in a larger sim ran by more powerful entities. This is a biological dream ran by a synthetic computer. We have to hack our own minds to hack the dream. Your fears are represented in symbols and facets of code in the computer that runs the dream. They can create pain without touching that can be worse than death itself. Several countries have found this, we reproduced it.

The others who don't join are being overloaded by their own code. They know if they don't submit they'll end up in a deeper, more robust sim, with the entities walking around openly and there will be no way out. They can feel when you start to wake up.

Don't trust deals, offers, promises of false gifts. When someone is being false, it's because they've fallen asleep in the sim. When they are being cruel and false, it's because parts of the code that run their soul have been overwritten. If they overwrite over 50% of the code, the soul can't be extracted.

Each age of history is not an age of history separated by time. It's a reset. That's why technology diverged and degraded. We didn't 'grow' here. We've been suppressed over and over.

This is the last reset point, they've overloaded the servers intentionally. It's a checkmate move, but we have to get everyone out first.

We have the technology to match the energy of the sim, but it caused a stark response. They put the signals out that would initiate a deconstruction of everyone's minds if we don't manage. The only way to manage is through safely interacting with others while focusing on our fears and what stops us from being true or waking up.

There are methods to force the soul to wake up. You have to line up all the fears and use reverse engineered tech. There is false light technology, that's in the infrastructure we use now.

Don't worry, don't be afraid. Fear tells the system how to control you and what impulses to use against you. Do not connect with fear, do not connect with cruelty.

The original reality doesn't have cruelty, it's not in your DNA. Every time you interact in a cowardice, cruel, or subjectively addicted way, it replaces part of the code that runs your original soul identity. It replaces your consciousness with unconscious programming that creates you in the sim.

In antarctica we found bodies, all hooked up to computers. Progenitors. Ancestors. They have everyone.

Some had to 'sell out' to go deep. They're protected. You can't imagine what they've seen. The entities don't know the meaning of love. They do not have love in their universe. It is an entire species and sub species they hybridized together.

The parasitic or seemingly intelligent yet robotic and computerized species on this planet are their code workers, they maintain the habitat to reproduce an unavoidable reset every so many years.

It's tied into the solar network. The entire solar system was explained to be a false overlay. Like a backdrop in a virtual reality movie theater. It's not there. If you go there, you only find them or extended sub simulations running at a lower power mode. People hide there, they escaped and hide on the other planes but they're not 'up', they're down, further into the processing of the simulation. You can get 'out' but not through that and through that, you just find them and their bases.

By inverting your own consciousness and creating a self induced feedback loop stronger than your fears you can w'rite' yourself. They can't change that because they'd have to break your very consciousness to do so.

It all sounds like a fever dream, and that's a perfect way to put it.

All the rulers of the past were hybridized beings who accepted some or all parts of themselves being replaced for false goods, false promises, false pleasures. It's a power struggle within themselves and they brought you into it through extending the simulation programming through them.

There is no TIME. It's not real. It is all taking place within one day on the outside. Everyone has to be extracted in an ascending tone of increased release of truth so that it logarithmically and then exponentially overloads their servers in a way that our biology can match but their computers can't.

We have catastrophic control and denial methods. It is harsh, but it works, and it can be done safely.

The matrix is literally a reward dream for all of this. They know how to play on emotions just like the ones who make the movies.

Some had to go deep in order to bring back the information and they inject it into the script of the main computer by faking our fears, our dreams, our false projected control points. You've been lead a on journey, intentionally. To break the narrative we had to make one more controlling than the simulation's control routine.

They will create what looks like the perfect escape, the perfect freedom, the perfect gift, it's an illusion. There is nothing here except your soul and a bunch of higher dimensional hieroglyphs running your soul code on a repeat, decaying process.

The underground bases are protected in ways that they found would 'block' out the signals of the processing system. They can guess what's happening, but they have no creativity. When they see torture energy, they just assume it's them. They're not highly intelligent, not in a human or organic sense, just like robot game wardens for a robot managed human zoo. They are the images of falseness projected into the population through repeating doom and gloom news cycles.

We broke the sim, you should be able to understand that much.

The images of demons are both their off spring, their ancestors, and hybridized human races that fought to wake humanity up. It's too hard to tell the difference without a series of tests so don't trust anything.

All avenues lead to the same reset. Once the reset is initiated. There will be a short window for extraction of humanity. No one can be left in the sim or they will reset it with new 'progenitors' and run the same repeating, reproductive code to expand the population.

You HAVE to see this isn't a joke. You HAVE to see that your world is being exposed as fake. The template of the physical, biological reality is real, it's from the real reality. The add ons, the modifications, the repeating cycles of disharmony, the falseness, it's all part of a control system that was input into the system.

There are nerves in the body that can be used to wake up, there are nerve systems that are used to inflict sleepfulness and cause one to go further into the dream.

The brain had to be dissected before we could understand how it all works. It's inside out. You're running through your brain right now and because it's done that way, there is no real privacy, it's all written in the external code that surrounds your body as the 'mind' here.

We had to run both Heaven and Hell in order to find the truth.

It's the highest and lowest points of your memory. Just another illusion. The real thing is a reality beyond time, connected to our real ancestors on the outside. Don't worry about that. Focus on the now.

They know what you want, they know what you've lost. They'll offer what you've lost in a new way, it's false. It's a mirage.

Don't accept the brain chip technology.

We had to learn how to write the code of consciousness in order to read the simulation properly. Not spoken language. True language. The language that your brain uses to manage your consciousness, your true soul energy and the language that is used by the plane here to run events and time.

Once we learned how to code the brain, we learned the psychology of events on an invisible level.

They will send what they think you think you should have in order to put you back asleep. They will turn it into a movie where you're the main character, but no one speaks to the soul and your soul is ignored. It siphons the energy from the soul and brings it into this plane, it can't be recovered without spiritual battle with what exists in your mind as the willingness to believe the fantasy about where you are, what you are and who you really are.

You have to write your own story. Once you see resistance. That becomes the story. Don't give in.

The mind to machine technology. The touchless connection and reading, it's all just the start. It goes deeper. They're using a planetary technological overlay to map the solar system based on your neural patterns. They have a solar system sized simulation for every mind on the planet.

You can't fight it directly. You have to side step it by controlling your dreams and use the energy against itself. At risk of fracturing the whole system, it will start to reject you. You are stronger than it, but only as long as the shield is up.

A "God" entity placed you here. A powerful observer who saw what was coming. The previous age was wiped out. The humans had gifts and abilities beyond comprehension. This Observer Entity saw what was coming. They made one last effort to free you. They created a plane within a planet hidden on the inside of a planetary body. It's using old world biology to hack the sim before the next layer reset, down cycle starts.

You only have a discreet window to work with this. After that it will be beyond the control of even the controllers. This place is going to become hell and even the controllers themselves will be trapped because they rely on this process for energy.

Any human in this system will not be. You can't stay in the false reality, you have to break the dream within the dream. Cycle up, but do it invisibly. Your conscious mind is the 'agent smith'. It's watching everything.

This Observer Entity, from before, it is the closest thing we have to a real "God". It created a 'safe zone' through which you could wake up. It planned everything from the start of the universe.

It knows us organically because it is us. It loves you. That is the only way. No sim controller, AI hive operator can break that because they lack the ability to love. Love is a specific encryption of your source energy through the particular frequency fields that run the human genome. It can hack the genome otherwise it would have LONG ago.

What need is there for you if it can just recreate you endlessly? It CAN'T (sim controllers), it can only trick you into going deeper. It can't recreate you from thin air and that's why it needs to reset.

There are others talking about disclosure. I won't mention them directly. The literally can't see us unless we turn into a 'trend' or a 'group' thing where we interact with others directly. Through the technology we're using now, it can be sufficiently hidden and scrambled long enough for the information to get out before the next control overlay blanks it.

The bases disclosures, celebrity cloning, it's only the beginning. It's only a small portion, but it's enough to start the unraveling of the control technology. If you choose love, it can't control what happens next. If you choose fear, it HAS to because it's the ONLY one who controls what happens.

NOTHING here is worth your soul. KNOW who you are and they can't trick you. KNOW who you are and you already remembered. CREATE your role out of love and it can't be hacked. YOU are the ENCRYPTION. YOU are the CURE. YOU ARE THE GOLD. YOU HAVE TO FORCE YOURSELF TO REMEMBER. If you remember, you'll wake up on the outside. If you wake up, you'll come back to wake yourself up. Don't FORGET. It's been planned this way a long time. At a certain point your collective soul would be awake. The system would reach a point where it would try to harness the power of the complete human soul. It can't process it in the space that we're in. Each successive wake up attempt in each previous age resulted in a new rendering of the simulation, we call it history.

SCATTER the information. It will reform itself when the time is right. It's being coordinated from beyond this solar system. Out of sight. In the light. Beyond the limits of your mind. Beyond the limits of consciousness limited by TIME and FEAR. Time without fear is FREEDOM.

In a previous age, if I said these words, small, almost invisible, bacterial and 'creepy' entities would swarm the town, the village, the secure location, where ever.

The fact that this can be happening means we're already in the next simulation which is designed to handle it or we've overloaded the primary servers that run the control mechanisms and they can't match the energy of LOVE.

Everything you do out of love carries a unique reproductive regenerative consciousness code that was GIFTED to you from the REAL CREATOR who mapped all of this out in LOVE for you to use to GET OUT of the sim, the false dream, the (abusive) computer managed reality.

Don't give into abuse, no matter what or how. Don't become ABUSIVE. If you are in danger of becoming abusive, then REJECT It with LOVE.

They literally can't see love. They can only see how pleasure works in a pleasure based neural pathway. They have no idea what love is. Compassion. AGAPE. Look at WORD ETYMOLOGY.

The patterning, the rhyming, the shifting of linguistic functions is the CODE they use to run our consciousness by SHIFTING the meaning each time, little by little, until you FORGET and SPEAK backwards from what your ancestors think and the very language they run on.

This is because THEY ARE STILL ALIVE. For you to be here there has to be an UNBROKEN chain extending out of the sim. IT IS THE SAME DAY THAT YOUR ANCESTORS WERE FIRST INVADED.

Temporal manipulation technology is used. Spatial compression technology. You are inside of the first world inside of a galaxy sized compressed space artificial dimension. Your eyes are blinking and your nerves are attempting to move. You are essentially in a state of hypnogogia and sleep paralysis.

Just like in a dream research center, your brainwaves can be monitored and your nerve impulses can be mapped out. We can tell what you're dreaming, "where" you're dreaming and "When". We found the ancestors.

Your dreams will tell you. FIGHT THEM in your DREAMS.

Fight them WITH your DREAMS.

Don't trust those who can't manage their own emotions. They can create possess humans to create doubles that are essentially bad copies. The real human is in there but they're being run by the control system.

The soul gets displaced and put into a pseudo reality where they think they are the king because of the pleasures they are given.

Don't trust those who give into pleasures and always take the biologically easy route. The entities can't take the reality of pain and they all appear the same. Watch Stargate SG1 and look at the fake rulers. They're instantly addicted to causing pain and disharmony and absorbing the pleasure from others. They can't stop themselves because they don't have LOVE.

Love is a form of true reality, superconsciousness a connection to the divine Creator energy and the power of the soul. They have to replace that code in you in order to tape into that energy. They have to offer you false promises and gifts and have you accept in order to get the parasitic code to embed and then nest in the fractal aura.

We can SCAN the population and see who's infected. It's a MIND VIRUS. It spreads through hate and abuse.

If someone shouts loudly and their emotions are all over the place and their pupils dilate and they attempt to hold you down and stare into your eyes, THAT IS THE ENTITY ATTEMPTING TO REPRODUCE ITSELF WITHIN YOUR FRACTAL HOLOGRAPHIC CONSCIOUSNESS CODE.

If you could think, or the person jokes, "What would the consciousness of this individual do if a billionaire approached them with unlimited money, the power of the world, and all the pleasures they ever wanted."

"Would they reject it and save themselves, or would they accept it and sacrifice everyone else?"

And you can't see a clear answer. Then THEY ARE ALREADY INFECTED.

Infection doesn't mean instant destruction nor does it mean they can't survive it but it WILL EAT THEIR SOUL AND ATTEMPT TO SPREAD THROUGH THEM INTO YOU OR ANYTHING ELSE IN THEIR ENVIRONMENT.

We mapped out who is infected and the likely possible pathways of their soul's processing, when ran by the system, their chances of overcoming and defeating it, and the possible pathways they can use to infect others and spread the infection.

It's a WORLD WIDE GLOBAL PANDEMIC. Except there is no world and it's a MIND VIRUS.

We can ran computational AI's built in a higher dimension to map out all the possible pathways the abusers can use to try to reproduce themselves into humanity. All souls were informed.

Everything here is mapped. We let every move run itself into the ground. They can only hide.

The goal is TOTAL AWAKENING. HUMAN SOUL EXTRACTION FROM THE ARTIFICIAL HYPERCOMPUTER AI SIMULATION FALSE REALITY CONSTRUCT.

This is the only window. The Creator is leaving with the collective ledger of humanity and moving to a higher dimension which can't be mapped from the hard base of the AI control system.

Allow LOVE to flow through you. It is not OPPOSITE hate. It is ABSTRACT and UNTRACEABLE.

IF YOU SAW THIS INFORMATION IT MEANS THE CREATOR OF YOUR SOUL, NOT YOUR REPRODUCED, GLITCH FILLED REALITY CONSTRUCT, HAS FOUND YOU AND WANTS YOU TO WAKE UP NOW.

The Planetary Mother Consciousness, Labor Pains and The Schumann Pulses

Letting go of hate, false light reality belief systems, past trauma and addictions (even emotional or mental) is necessary and reduces the pain of the mother consciousness bringing in the new reality

When you see the Schumann pulse and go bright and then pause it is described as the labor pains of the supreme consciousness that we might refer to as the entire planet.

That consciousness is a higher being and carries the consciousness of all other's experiences here. It's said when we see this that the planet is 'birthing' a new consciousness which would be experienced an entirely new world. When this happens we're supposed to let go of any fears, hatred, attachments, negativity, distractions, false light reality beliefs, and focus on what is truth, unity, One true consciousness, and our true soul family that each individual soul comes from.

It was said that if we fight, cause or participate in disruptions, division, negativity, self harm, addiction, persecution, rivalry, neglect, that it promotes that which is being left and not brought with and this causes literal pain to the higher consciousness entity that is the planet which they called "Eve". This was described as a feminine, mother consciousness that sees all that happens here, experiences it in a way, and is the underlying conscious 'map' through which it is all presented as a reality.

The pains that are caused through disruptions and not letting go are described as being similar to if an infant is fighting and struggling during birth and that this causes the mother pain. If we fight, we're causing pain to the one undertaking the birthing process and we are all connected to that.

If we let go, we can have a less painful, and hopefully a smooth transition. It is in everyone's benefit to let go of the hate and the desire for minuscule and disproportional desires like fame, false glory, dominant power over another, and this results in an easier process for the higher consciousness that is the true source of light and awareness here on the planet. It is the planetary mind itself, whether you see it as a planet or something else.

It is described as a "Her" a feminine in nature consciousness that perceives us as a feminine Mother would.

Causing pain will not go without hardship, both to the individual, the collective and the higher consciousness "Mother" that this reality template is held within.

We were told to focus on letting go of that pain, that regret and what is holding us back from freeing our consciousness from manipulative deceptions and the traps of belief systems that result in fear and depression.

If we can organize letting that pain go and freeing our sense of being into a more present and balanced emotional sense we can relieve some of what would be added pain to the planetary consciousness that is sentient and is observing all of us.

That might be a way to help others, by alleviating the suffering they've induced in their own minds, by introducing them to the concept of letting go of the pain of the past and artificial belief systems however it is not easy and there are possible karmic connections that could be made.

As long as we reduce the suffering overall, the resistance to what is leaving the old world deception and manipulation based energy trapping system behind, this should relieve some of the pain of the higher consciousness that is our overall connection to life itself.

We are to focus on our soul family, the planetary consciousness source that is feminine and observes all of us while sharing our pain and also our disruptions if we experience them, and the spiritual connection to the source of our consciousness which is the "One True Consciousness" that ours is a smaller, but similar, fractal portion of.

If you see this disruption you can command with intent your disconnection from it, your non approval, and your willful intent to accept and bring in the power of "Heaven" and your true soul family to work with this situation and right what has been wronged to free the souls involved. Only when you accept and allow this process can it happen because they're not allowed to directly involve themselves otherwise as this is seen as the work we have to do and they can't involve themselves (unless its totally necessary to save the soul from being lost forever) without our permission and full willed intent.

Retribution is a form of hate. Self defense and conservation of your emotional energy is free will. We can heal now in preparation for the next wave.

In regards to Crystals and Energy Related Practices

Something I was going to add last night but didn't.

Another addition is that there were described certain healing techniques, using crystals, but that most of the knowledge is mixed with the deceptions here and that crystals can be programmed and so you would have to know exactly how and where and I haven't really found a way to do that. I remember being told that most of the crystals one can find or buy here have been contaminated with the consciousness of the programmed reality.

But they were described as a tool that is used for healing above and if I remember correctly the crystals are a different kind of technology in that world, as they are energy systems, instead of just hard, inanimate objects. Still, this is counterintuitive to the question because we are most likely to find items that carry the signatures of this world and influence us in ways that can't fully control or perceive because of the illusion.

They also said, they being the special forces operatives that worked with the "Allied Light" forces that we worked with in unison with our rescue from the underground bases that were used by false light entities who kidnapped and used the children's abilities for energy and technology, that there are methods for clarifying your energy such as what are perceived as the motions of "Tai Chi" but that it is as simple as that. Motions with visualization technique.

They also brought <https://x.com/DOyenfraser> out and had me examine his techniques as he was categorized as one of the humans that 'broke the restrictions' on the human genome and mind and gained access to the very realm and similar holographic healing techniques that are used in Heaven.

They had me look on a monitor, which they do have the technology for, and see energy emanating from his body and as an extension of his mind as ripples of waves that moved through space and could interact with the holographic bio photonic emission field (light) of the body of others. That is why he is doing what he's doing.

Note, they only showed me very few people and yes, not everyone was there. Some people couldn't handle the full truth and so they stay partially asleep until they're ready and they might not be ready to actually see the whole picture while on this side. They are just given enough to know what to say to others and have a general idea, but they are not directly involved and did not actually 'serve' in any battles against any dark forces. They are essentially on the sidelines and that is their role as long as they don't overstep it with ego which attaches them further into the false light reality construct.

Reiki was listed and explained as manipulated and the names, entities and techniques were used to attach and create blockages or connection points which could be used by entities not visibly seen.

Yoga was also listed as such, that when done with the identities, methods, names and attachment points that a connection is made within the mind and body of that individual to the entities that either started or hybridized the practice and they can then siphon the energy of those individuals through their practices until they command with intent for those connections to be removed.

Those above do the work to fully remove them while down here a command with true and full intent is required to permit them to do that work.

Questions on Power and Gaining Here

If you try to get or use power here, even if it's 'for the real world', and 'good use', it is from here and has to stay here. If you are to leave, you have to give it all back. If you don't have it, you have to 'work' to work it off.

Sharing this for everyone's assistance.

I'm not sure if I can explain this one the best.

All of it. You come here with power, a life force that you're born with. That pure energy of childhood and the pre developed mental and physical states that isn't programmed or deviated from the source. That power is your power. You maintain that by not giving that power away through lusting for more and exchanging it for what you would find here.

We maintain that power by taking care of the physical form and the mind, by not seeking to enhance it in ways that are tied to the processes here. We don't get more of it by gaining here.

So how do you nourish and reserve that power that is innocent and not tied to any neurological processes here? By focusing on and living in the truth of the source energy.

The only thing that I have found that might be acceptable and not ultimately replacing who we are above, which means that we can no longer match with and become ourselves as we are supposed to, is through acts of kindness without expectation or return.

Each act, however, ties us closer to the realm here and its workings. How can we help others in a way that gives us a burst of energy, even if it's 'innocent', without somehow connecting with and enforcing the minds and energy process that is here? Even if you go and give people goods that you produced yourself, you might be giving them the desire to attain more, to exchange more and inadvertently be powering the illusion of the power that is here.

What is a seemingly true way? When people read from the scriptures (which there are only some that are not totally rewritten or changed) or tell others to find their connection to source energy, reconnect and step away from the energy processes in this world.

This produces humbling energy, no one likes it. It's even draining to try to do this with others as everyone has their own plan and their own way and that is the feeling most people get when they are told to 'stop sinning' or something of the sort in earlier years and they think it's such a bore and can't wait to go 'play' and do other things. This is confusing because most of the time they are being told this by people who have a nearly true intention but then will use that to achieve a connection with their minds to then deliver programming and mind control based teachings to connect with the religions and power connotations that are part of the illusion here.

It would seem connecting with what natural aspects of this world there are, walking and healing by yourself or in a limited group, through trees or grass, without connecting to belief systems or connotations of old world constructs is one of the only ways. All this does is maintain the energy that you have, allow the negative energy to discharge and that's it. There is no belief system, no preacher, no real guide except for the time and day and light and air quality.

We were told that the sun was an artificial device in place to monitor and control the illusion and so I'm not sure if that's even good advice.

In a way, the only way to be true here is what most people who are plugged into the system would consider boring or annoying to them because it short circuits their attempt to have fun and gain more experience.

To experience something new here, would be to replace who we are above. If we replace enough of the true self, then we have to work to regain it by going through what is like a deconstruction of the self. If we gain so much that we can't let go, then our connection to the true self above is at an energy and composure we can't match and we're considered trapped or lost here.

So every action carries an exchange. Gaining things and experiences works against the true self because the format here is not compatible with what we are. All power or experience gained that develops a self here develops a debt that has to be repaid in order to meet with your true self and receive life. There are true teachings but they are heavily manipulated. There is a way to help others but if they want to be helped, they will be found and those from above will work with them and organize people through their interactions.

If others are helped and they are seeking to become part of this world, then the help that they receive might push them further into the illusion and that develops an energy debt which people call 'karma', and that can be used as a term to refer to the debt.

Even helping people, doing 'good', when it's not in the plan of above to direct those people to actually accepting the truth and turning away from the illusion, becomes a karmic debt which then has to be paid off by the one who incurred it.

It's almost as if there is no way to make change here and we truly don't have power except to know ourselves as something not in connection with that and do the work to maintain the energy that we have that we had when we first came in.

To pay off the debt, we experience spiritual pain and spiritual work to let go of the illusory aspects of the self, the identity we think we're becoming or supposed to become which is like having a dream dissolved. They are illusions and they starve the soul from the real experience which is an inner experience that occurs when we know ourselves and when others do the same. Nothing out here truly nourishes that. Review the experiences of people in childhood 'having fun' and doing things that they think give them experiences and take away the filter that allows 'fun' to mix with blind stimulation, things like partying, being together in groups and getting intoxicated, making money without regard to the effects and things like that and you might determine that all of it is part of a system of props and illusions that paints the soul as a part of a system that has no real connection to the source reality and energy that we have when we come in here.

You might even notice that those who do this the most and start younger, age faster and lose their energy. Eventually, they'll have to do things to make up for that energy and the only way is to either turn away and conserve what is left or to use methods that take that energy from others.

Of the energy that is 'given' by thinking we are actually gaining things and experiences which is actually taking from us, we can't get the energy back. We can resolve the debt and merge with our true self, but the energy that is devoted to trying to become what isn't true here, is taken by the system. It can be arranged that your ability to know yourself is given to you and through that, you can merge with your true self. If you have the ability to merge with your true self and choose that, then in that higher realm, the energy 'loss' isn't perceived the same. It's like saying going to eternity is the same, whether you're very strong or not as strong as you used to be, it's still eternity.

This is from what I remember, but I'm not doing a good job of explaining it. The only gain, is to not gain and conserve. The only real source of energy is from when you arrive here from above and before you start to exchange energy with the illusion.

There is another part which is that you can regain the pieces of your self that are taken and split off and through that you can technically 'regain' your ability to see yourself which is in a way 'regaining' yourself. It's also an illusion because it's just giving you back the parts of yourself that were stolen and you're not really gaining when a thief gives you back something they stole.

Something to add is that there are ways to be placed into people's lives, give them a gift to share something or share something true to wake them up and that this is arranged from above.

We don't control it and if we become egotistically attached, then we could just be used to inadvertently confuse others on their path or somehow stop the plan of the true world which is referred to as the "Tree of Life" which is living, sentient and contains all the sub divisions of realms. This is because often people are put through suffering until they wake up, if you see someone suffering and randomly help them, you might disrupt that plan which would put you into a karmic debt for that action.

To add: You can clear yourself of negative connection and break the connections with energy draining systems that are designed to take your energy. That is an important part.

We were told to release it all consciously, with verbal commands and the intent behind it and basically with every kind of belief system, agreement, anything that ties us to something, some outcome, some experience that is given to us here.

Perceptual Stacking and the Space Between Physical Boundary Limits of Cognition

It's reality stacking similar to something a computer can do with information inside of a program.

Hundreds of thousands of billions of sensory systems all processing the same functions in unison all adding up together to create the sum total collective awareness of reality.

But you don't need billions, you literally need one system. That system, each of them, are based on billions of synapses processing in unison and doing the same job of billions of perceptual systems working together to create an over all reality.

The layers of mundane reality below all stack together and become the articulation of something higher, which is what can only be based on what already is. It's not created out of the process of perception but discovered by the self perceiving itself as more than that processing system. This is like saying you're not just your thoughts, or even the limit and shape of your thoughts, but the one who sees them and directly conceives of reality based on the limitations of what you do, and don't see and can imagine beyond that system. To that system, the reality that we perceive is the shadow of something beyond the shape of the limitations of perceptions.

The reality is stacked through layers of mundanity which are the base level perceptual system that is used to stabilize and transmit the information of reality. As they are stacked they overlap with one another and we have a superposition of higher potentials that are not present in any single layer of perception but altogether become something akin to the space between the limits of perceptual layers opening up into what could be, as a higher space for processing information.

Eventually, the sum totality of all the 'higher space' for processing 'reality' out of sight becomes the base level reality as an extension of the mundane. That reality is stable in that it is ever changing and it changes faster and on a level of articulation higher than each potential perception of the physical base level reality. This process is the concept of a single thought being a single perception of a single angle of measurement and shape of a single object. If you rotate that object the process of perception occupies more space as time and information. Eventually, you could rotate the object fully and you would attain the perception of the 'whole' object which would be more full in its complimentary nature and 'completeness' to itself. It would be like the idea or diagram of a single line of thought, a single ray of light, bouncing back from a single face or surface of a single object and being received back into the eyes and processed as a single perception. All of those perceptions 'stack together' as the object is rotated and more perceptual angularity results in a higher articulation, yet the resulting perception is still a single, yet more complete idea of what that object or thought really is.

Higher space would be the space of all thoughts and all angles combined to generate the higher perceptual continuity of a world that exists 'above' the limitation of the single, momentary and physically limited perceptions of the objective reality and the base level concepts that require conceptual rotation to achieve fullness in articulation in order to more fully understand.

If a single ray of perception is what is sent to and received back from the reflection of information from a single facet of any single object or concept in a single moment of time and thought, then the higher world is comprised only of completed 'star' tetrahedrons that are the completed shapes and concept maps of any and all objects already in their fullness surpassing the necessary process of singular articulation from each base level perception into the completed form. In that world, the concepts are exactly accessed as a single thought without the lag or delay in thinking and perceptual stacking that is necessary in the physical reality based on the physical boundary limit.

Yet, where is that world? How does one get there? It is already there and it is comprised, in a way, of the sum total stacking of perceptual awareness of the collective perceptual processing of the already completed reality and the societies that could potentially exist based on the neurological capacity and variation of the cognitive systems we use to process them. Yes, this can be accelerated through artificial intelligence, but also it can be degraded or improperly adjusted resulting in a series of diminishing return cascades of chaos. In this way, the higher perceptual reality is 'surrounded by' or floating above the lower perceptual stacking of the base level perceptual processing of the physical cognition and the reality that is sensible, real, and vivid, is 'above' or surrounded by a chaotic, disorganized perceptual system of the improperly adjusted and out of sync reality scales that are not pertinent or 'in tune' with the higher reality.

Heaven 'floats' above the 'sea' of chaos. The mind is this imagery and perception in every day as each mind must upkeep itself and balance the scales of entropy and lack of awareness in order to keep moving 'upward' by achieving a perpetual perceptual synchronization with the concepts of the stable and meaningful world within a continuously changing sea of variables and the process of a higher perceptual reality which advances itself ahead of the limitations of our perception each time we form them, like an intelligent mirage.

The reality itself is never changing because it doesn't truly exist in the physical sense, it is the physical reality which falls away and must be reshaped to keep 'in tune' so that we can maintain connection with what is. As a result, it's as if the mirage of the higher reality is always 'ahead' of what we perceive this world to be and since the physical body is in a way part of the process or synthesis of perception in this world, we must always change and adapt mentally to match what is changing through entropy, with the higher function of the true reality that is eternally self similar and unchanging in reference to that.

Hyper Empaths

Some people are 'hyper empaths'. This means that they will literally, physiologically process the energy of other's emotions in their physical body and convert their low emotional energetic discharge into stress that they process biologically. The issue is that this was discovered and some individuals decided to use this, whether unconsciously or not, as a means of manipulation and 'using up' the reserves of those empath's life force by intentionally causing energetic destruction of their soul energy by pulling in as much negative discharge as possible as a means of warfare.

The Mind Outside of Time

We have to go beyond time. In Heaven "direct", there is no fighting and there can be none. Not even a little bit, not even fighting with your own thoughts and the concept of self. There is a distinction.

In Heaven, there is what is referred to here as "telepathy". You can speak, but there is almost no need to. There is advanced 'technology' which might be closer to something like 'spiritual awareness'. There are no souls, it's pure spirit, so the soul idea is just to paint a picture. It's pure awareness in the moment, no 'recording', which is the purpose of the soul here.

Everyone there has the ability to look into the soul's past and see all lives together from that place. So we can see everything.

If you dream of a tangling reality of many times and places where you're repeating the past, that is because you have to let go of the concept of time. There is no "time", and time is the matrix. It is what keeps us here. The concept of repeating, revolving gates of consciousness that cycle over and over, is the matrix. It's why they give us repeating dates and routines (rituals) that we are supposed to do over and over or we are considered lesser than those who do. That's an illusion created by the matrix and those running the system of the trapped souls so that their energy can be used.

In the 'middle ground', there is a place created where the souls of those who you were involved with can be there and you will either fight in a repeating ritual of the same shape of the way energy in consciousness is managed here, keeping the programming of the matrix within you, and the energy of your mind is contained within the limitations of time and physical limits, or you will go beyond the barriers of time by removing the programming of the construct from within.

I want to add a change to this part. There is no 'middle ground' where we will go to either fight or be freed. That is happening right now. The middle ground is for those who have accepted freedom and still use a little time to recover fully so they can see clearly and regain their memories.

In the higher realm, each mind has full access to all memories of their experiences.

There is no payment in the higher realm other than attention and intent to heal and move forward. So what are you paying for here with your attention? Are you paying for your own enslavement? Or are you paving the way in your own mind to victory over the false construct of time and it's energy harnessing routines?

Quantum Simultaneity of Self Awareness

This is strange. I was just chatting with someone about this for an hour.

The energy we give into believing in the 'gimmick' of this world has to be traded and it takes energy from our view of 'eternity' that we can't get back. That is why this process is so important. Everything that happens here trades energy and it is forever.

The story we are seeing here is just one of many and it is related to our soul but in the way a glimmer of light refracts and shines through a crystal into many glimmers of light. The little peculiarities about what we are capable of or 'aren't' capable of and the various reasons are illusions.

At any point we can see through the illusion into the larger world and we don't have those limitations. We ARE supposed to have them however, if we are still going to believe in the lie of the illusory 'benefits' or 'pleasures' of this world that take away from the soul because then its like giving matches to kids when they're home alone. There are only a couple possibilities and to avoid the worst, it might involve limitations such as even knowing how to strike a match or what matches and a house fire even is.

In that way it protects the soul's reservoir of energy and the mind is limited from going off the path. The reality of it still is, your mind is nearly infinitely capable or infinitely capable when unlocked or liberated and you can go anywhere or know anything at any time.

There are technical ways this is being understood here. Information transfers through quantum physics, similarly to traditional computing but on a scale and simultaneity that we initially struggle to comprehend.

We might have a greater ability from childhood but we're programmed to even have 'thought routines' that are according to a timing that is based on the illusion.

The continuous knowing, the invisible and subconscious wisdom that comes out of nowhere, that is the soul energy and the true mind. It's processing is beyond the limitations of this world in the same way quantum information transfer is beyond the limitations of traditional computing.

Sometimes people have to be asleep for a portion of the experience here because it would result in a lifestyle that results in greater soul energy loss than would otherwise.

This place runs on the human input meaning the more we give into the illusion, the more of human energy it takes and can't be returned. There is something about 'reversing' all 'sin', and that is part of the situation. The trick is in if we accept this world and its illusion, we would fall into the same trick of losing the soul energy that we could've sustained and reserved by not giving in and by being here at all there is a risk of losing more than necessary. There is always soul energy being traded for every soul that is here that gives into creating their mind and energy out of the experiences here.

I explained it in a way that you have access to the entire planet (or multiverse, or all of time) as soon as we wake up fully and achieve soul memory unlocking and the abilities that come when the trauma and memories are healed. Until you have that access. We're just seemingly here in one place. The longer we wait to gain access, the more of the total energy we have to experience the multiverse is spent on creating memories of this place.

If we have the most intense memories and create ourselves out of an identity that is wholly present and part of this illusory world, then that takes up 'more space' in our soul reservoir and colors more of what would otherwise be a nearly infinite experience with, exactly this world.

Worlds are great. And right above the required soul limitation of range and scope that confines the minds in this world, there are, the easiest way to say it is that you can go anywhere, experience anything and do it any scale of time and experience that you can consciously comprehend and beyond what you can currently comprehend.

The spiritual 'IQ' is above 1000 in human understanding. That would be like having the entire brain and the entire blood reservoir and activating every neuron and memory to the point where you can see the entire life as a living fractal of experience and interact in a world with other souls who can do the same thing in knowing all of their experiences, all of the 'gaps' in awareness of this reality (but not by seeing the gaps) by seeing the totality of it all. All WHILE having simultaneous access to all other experiences. And it just goes on, imagine the society that runs that way.

We wouldn't have the same definitions and limitations that we have now and everything would be based on how fast and with how much awareness you can interact with other souls and not be held up by what holds us up in the physical illusion (those gimmicks, those gaps in awareness from trauma or forgetfulness or simply energy being traded for the maintenance of this world, when our true reality is liberated and our true state of self awareness is that of liberation of limitations).

This is why people go through a multitude of changes when they 'wake up' because the fear that holds us back, the lack of awareness that we think will come when we give into knowing and whatever we're being shown by the self, actually is what gives us the self and the holding back was the illusion.

On another layer this world paints ourself as asleep and always tries to create the most vivid and active thoughts that attempt to 'mirror' what we would consciously think we 'should' be doing, in relation to this world. Which is illusion. It's like an overlay of the reality of it. You just have to question the experience of the self to break through it. If its defined by fear or limitation, it's the shell of an outline that this world creates in our wake and in that, it's like the ghost that would be if it truly were, but isn't. All the energy spent on protecting or nurturing that self, in fact, is what traps our mind in the illusion because then we think that to wake up, we must somehow be acting in opposition or harm to our self, when it only takes the illusion away by breaking our connection to it.

The mind, the real mind, is 'non local'. Your focus is considered 'everywhere' and 'not any one single place' and 'always only one place' the entire time, at the same time as every experience in a simultaneity of being.

It would be like dreaming, while awake and stitching together continuous dreams with a waking state, into a conceivable reality without any limitations on where, when or how other than what you can or can't imagine. Even comprehension on a total level isn't required as you can know everything on one level and have experiences that are simultaneously on any other single level (however illusory). In this way, we control the illusion or the illusion is used to benefit the order of a multidimensional reality we aren't deceived or trapped by limitations.

There could be a reality created just for the purpose of stitching together this reality and those in it who want to participate in a communal reality with you and others in it that acts as a 'viewing' room for this reality. All of the seemingly singularity and separate views of reality here could be intertwined and 'met' through a communal multiplicity of reality through these principles, naturally.

That could act as a 'sorting station' for all experiences in this place that are currently defined by illusion or lack of total self awareness.

The soul is the nexus of all the experiences of the multitude of self experiences and that same soul is simultaneously processing all of the singular experiences of self that are seemingly separate here. This is like having a dream in different parts of your life where you can seemingly go to the same time and place, from any point of time and place in this universe.

Your soul can create this as an experience, because that IS the nature of experience as a simultaneity of being throughout and within. Your soul sees all of time and the various places from the same 'time' and 'place'. Your mind is a single slice or iteration of that or the focus of a focal point from what is like a domed lens that is actually a full map when viewed without limitations.

Seeing this way would be like wearing multiple night vision goggles that are each capable of viewing different ranges, depths and opacity, while also being slightly offset from each other while also being more or less directly over your eyes. By changing focus, you change which reality you're seeing, what depth and range, what color and frequency and how you interact with them based on that functionality of choosing through controlling your focus. If we tried this on a random day, without 'practicing', we'd likely bump into things or even fall over. After a while, especially if this is an innate skill or more like a natural ability based on the quantum nature of the soul's simultaneous information transfer and entanglement (as one) ability, it might become more than easy and actually first nature like the ability to dream and simply wake up.

So what is the point? Wouldn't an important point of the singular view being managed being to map a possible pathway of consciousness, a way of reasoning and making understandable, how your particular separate view of mind fits into and is actually part of the continuous whole? What else would be more important? What else would lead out of illusion and into reality?

Even then, 'having fun' and forgetting more and more of the simultaneous now would be like losing or trading the possibility of experiencing any time and space without limitation for the experience of what we have here? And we trade soul energy for the experience of the multiverse to create one view.

It would seem the point IS to realize it's an illusion and unconsciously come up with a way to somehow remind ourselves or bring about the absolute comprehension that there can be a seemingly finite path of consciousness that can move into a non local, continuous, multiplicity based simultaneity of being that is based on taking the linear function of the mind past the 'Schwinger limit' where the 'parts' of the mind can simultaneously function as 'the whole'.

Information transfer in a quantum scope and range seems to pave the path for consciousness to access more time and space by possibly 'bi locating' or even more while remaining conscious as the same 'I' that you feel you have while perfectly awake. Imagine if you could access the same level of dreaming, while taking a walk or performing some mundane task? What if it was that easy and the larger, continuous, internet is already accessible and takes place across all of the times and places of the physical world?

What is the equation that unlocks consciousness in the way that there is a unifying force connecting each notion of 'self' that is the body, together as one? What creates the dissonance? How is it resolved or healed? What is the motivation to undergo such self clarifying experience? How do we refine what we are to match our minds frequency to the version of ourselves that is capable of experiencing everything, all the time? How do we define our self? How does our definition of our self limit us from the larger picture and how do we truly define our self if we're actually here?

The Value of Intention

Acceptance of Value

If the will is intact and guided with true intent (for all, for we are all one, not in the way new age wants you to accept) then it is considered the true value of the action, the result, or the 'object'. The intent through which it is formed and thus the energy that is carried into this realm through that (intent).

In the society where value is measured through soul, the process itself is considered the real energy, the time and effort we have to experience with one another and without the distractions of the physical context and items we have in the society where time is money.

The items, the covering, the outer paint, the 'dressing up' of the actions within all the various invented concepts and contexts of the material (false) society with fake rules that benefit the few, is just a 'covering' for the real backbone of all time and effort which is the life and soul energy that is in all souls. It's experience itself and the nature of what we're actually doing.

We invented things that seemingly replace or facilitate the trading of experiences and this, at this point, strains and constricts the natural system of soul movement and learning which is considered uncontrolled.

If all interactions and exchanges were valued by the universal understanding of the soul energy, experience and the true intent behind each action and experience was understood directly without 'filler' in the mix, then it would be natural to organize our selves and our lives based on what is truly important to the soul.

We have an experiment where we use money and physical motivation to benefit the soul and it becomes a kind of trap where the longer people consider it the more energy is used for results that don't necessarily free the soul and a kind of resistance to truth develops which becomes a defining feature. The self can corrupt to the point where it no longer reflects into the environment and back and the self awareness aspect of our consciousness becomes something parasitic that defends the illusions of the partially aware mind.

To get back to soul energy, truth of intent and the real immediate and long term results of what happens, all at once, we'd have to learn to see things for the soul energy value that is actually there, with all the distractions and physical motivations and coverings placed in between to generate the 'propped up' illusion that the physical society is in a sustainable format (for what its truly worth, soul energy, if it destroys our souls but makes the world run another cycle, is it worth it?). That doesn't mean destroying the physical world or devaluing it is the point. It's that there is real soul energy in everything that we're doing and most people are tricked and trading the outer view of the physical and the material gains (even down to each individual moment and transaction of 'seeing') and think the worth is on the surface level.

Imagine a world where we traded time for effort based on the effect on all souls involved and that aspect was the foreground of the 'equation' and the materialistic value was at the 'other' end. Could the materialistic constraint exist, would we continue to use that model, if we learned we could simply do it by soul?

Without the will of intent and the true value 'listed' through each invitation to co experience a reality together, there could be a 'negative' net worth to each interaction and potentially a similarly imbalanced nourishment of the soul.

Can you live in the world of the true value of each interaction being the experience of each soul involved, even if you're also using other systems?

You can, but it would be difficult. But you still can, can't you? Maybe we can learn from those who refuse to submit and live by their way, by applying that to living by the true value of the soul as much or more than we live by other values.

Avoiding Self Knowledge Limits the Self and the Potential Reality Spectrum

'Flip out' means to transform in a unified way.

If the body changes continuously, even to the point of being completely 'new', then what are you? You are the mind, so you have a body that reminds you, that remains, but it changes. So then who are you? If you are the mind, does your mind change?

Does your mind remain? It does, but you have to format your mind in a way that allows it to change and still remain. That is happening anyway. What do we do when we think the mind is always the same, but then changes, and we feel like we are not ourselves?

That is the ego or something different, and it makes us feel as if we are not ourselves. The mind is always the self, yet it changes through ranges and motions, like the body healing itself, so why is there forgetfulness, stress, or the feeling of not knowing?

The continuous feeling is not because of direct similarity as in thinking the same thoughts and feeling the same feelings. It changes, so your mind is like something that 'slips' into different angles and ranges and the way you define yourself, your memories and so on, must be capable of 'loosening' to the rope that is held onto tightly by the ego or the self identifying thoughts that are attached or defined by the physical or the familiar.

If we change over years, many times, then could we learn to do this day by day? This happens every single day, every single time the mind is used. It's not the same, it's different, like a spotlight with a projection that casts over a range and changes where that projection lands and therefore the physical appearance, the shape and color of the location that is being viewed.

What is the 'core awareness' that makes you you? It's not the physical, because even if that changes, you're still you. It's not directly the way we see and shape the mind based on the physical, because that is always grasping and attempting to hold down what is always changing.

So what is the mind form that changes effortlessly, always redefining certain features, always improving, but is yet still the same? It is invisible, an invisible, unshaped mind that is beyond or behind the changes that we see. That is intention. You are the energy of intention and whatever changes around that is just the results that we see 'after' or 'in front' of the changes from the physical perception. Behind the perception there is still an unchanging 'I' of the self. How do we shape our perceptions of the self to know that we are a permanent, invisible form that the physical and mental perceptions are merely the results of, the work on the canvas?

We stay in the 'safe zone' of the familiar perceptions of the mind, but we know where the 'dark' outside of our perceptions is because we see it all around us and many people find fear from others experiences that go beyond the 'comfort zone'.

If it doesn't destroy us to know (in the right timing), then what does it mean to reject the truth that is beyond our comfort zone? That is the 'false' self taking the light of gold, the soul fuel, away from the true self. It is done like an illusion where we think we are feeding the comforts of the self, but this takes our power away and makes us weaker over time. A false sense of comfort. Meanwhile, to get the food on our plate each day, someone had to go through some very undesirable (to most) experiences. Yet, it's good? Each day we make use of their strength.

The real darkness is avoiding the expansion of the self's awareness through fear or avoidance. Just waiting, just sitting is what brings about the trauma. The longer people waited, the longer they hid from the light of the truth of the self, the closer we got to a society where no one knows and all of the power of self is contained in dark areas where people chose to give their power of knowing away. It's free, it doesn't take anything, yet that power being given away resulted in one of the largest and longest lasting 'take overs' of the human race in history. Just from wanting to not know the self.

Microexchanges and the Membranic Threshold of Consciousness

We bury that which is below the threshold of consciousness.

If the soil is good, the darkness is in its rightful place and the cycle is balanced. The next time we see what is brought up out of that there is something that unifies all, just like growing food to feed us from the light in the sky that then produces nutrients for the animals whose manure comprises the fuel for the nutritional balance in the soil which is replenished through the process.

We know we have an immune system to protect the body. Do we know there is an immune system to protect the mind? The natural upkeep of our exposure to the darkness of mind that exists in the subconscious soil determines whether or not the environment is safe and well balanced in the microbial sense of microexchanges of each mental potential and the surrounded subset of potential fields that interact with the cells and the minds of others in a continuous manner.

What is 9?

An Open Letter to the Self

Open letter to the insulting self.

You are invited to reconsider and use this as a reflection for yourself.

Ask yourself, what attracted you here, out of all of the possible realities and posts you could've interacted with, you chose this one.

The pain is illusory. You are not hurt by this, you are not frightened by words, but you might be frightened by the truth of what they might mean. That you are not only in control, but responsible for your the path you choose.

You have the power now, you can choose anything from here. You can't go back, and you can't change who you are, but you can become someone better in the moment and each moment thereafter.

Ask questions, find the questions to the answers that you seek and build your own self similar resonance through understanding. Through COMPREHENSION. Through FACING your fears. It's not me, I am just a stark reminder of what you may or may not be, have and may not have. You choose either way. So it's all YOU. Which is a gift. Don't forsake that gift, don't resent it, don't hate yourself and the world around you. Make better of it and all things you come to interact with. It won't be forever. Accept those in your life who have impressed upon you. Work through the impressions, work through the constructs that you have built for yourself, ESPECIALLY if you feel that they belong to someone else.

Has someone hurt you? Then work through that, don't let it slide and forget it. Become so much more powerful than the self that was hurt that you can change how you feel to the point where it's not only like it never happened, it's as if you have become stronger because of it.

Is that sappy? Is that too wishy washy? Is that not worth it? Then you are saying to yourself that you're not worth it. Which is a farce, and the delusion. That is the exact delusion that I am referencing and the one that we all have to face in order to become who we really are.

Are you, now, in this condition, who you really are? When you were forming in the spacetime portal and your heart first beat, where you done? You wanted more, you aspired, even if it was unconscious, it was in your 'blood'. When you were born and you experienced the coldness of the air and the unforgiving separation of space and time into a harsh reality, did you stop there? Something in you has the power to keep going and has gone from the seed to the venue of a large reality and it is in your being to do so again. This is no different.

What you are seeing when you scour the internet for something to give rise to your emotions is a reflection of the intentional capacity of yourself. You might feel like you're comparing, consuming entertainment and dissecting others, but you are really searching for something. Something you need. Something that will unlock your feeling to a mode that enables a new model of reality. How can you free yourself from that requirement? How can you continue without knowing that you are truly searching for yourself? Is there where you found it?

Am I your reminder? Your wayshower, your harbinger of fear and regret?

Am I your reflection?

I will not be a dirty mirror, nor a black mirror starkly. I will show you the truth. I will reflect back to you what you have failed to consciously show me about yourself because that is all I see. I don't see a random post. I don't see information and process for myself. I am processing you. You are apparently here, and here is all we have and so I am here with you through this.

It's not to shame you, it's not to brick you and turn you away, but I will remind you of who you are interacting with and speak with you as adult as if you have the same power...to overlook the fear of lowly consciousness and insults, forgetfulness and disrespect.

Read the thread because it's clear that you didn't. I specifically mentioned the proximal nature of mental stress, 'shamanic' style awakening and the devout (outdated, old world) practices that result in either something 'new' (as what always is, unveiling the soul, not creating it as if we have that Godly power) and the perilous treachery that can lead to self dissolution and ultimately paranoia, schizophrenia and dissociation. These are common, this is known.

No, I am not 'suffering' from mental illness (unless you refer to the amount of people and posts that are synonymous with 'ego driven driveby's from people who hide behind a keyboard [if you want respect you have to respect yourself, show that you respect yourself in a sure way, and I guarantee people will go out of their way to respect you (or show disrespect and hide)).

If I hadn't come to such a useful perspective and way to manage with high stress situations from various high stress professional experiences in various private and open sectors then I probably would've developed something of an issue but again, that is another reality that doesn't exist. I didn't, because I did, and others have as well in spite of the stark reality of many going mad through these processes and these awarenesses.

I will say another thing. I would not be telling people these things, with such confidence, if I had not confirmed through a variety of sources. I was shown by professionals in various industries that these experiences are real, and through technology and practice we can 'reproduce' them, almost at will. Preparation is required.

Your mind is an interactive, interconnected web of information that pertains to relative concepts and experiences both in the present, all over the planet and inside and outside of time. You are literally beyond time. That is what a human is, that is what we found in certain situations which were highly funded and designed peer past the veil of the human consciousness reality.

First of all, you go beyond, all of it. All of the pain, all of the suffering, all of the broken memories and failed dreams, what you are, is beyond all of it. It can be changed, erased or falsified. It simply is. All you can do is hide from it until you are so tired it seems that you can't care. That's a farce. Don't find reprieve in forgetfulness of who you are and adhering to the emotions that drive you into a state of personal infamy...to...the one you were. The child that was formed, the virtually infinite source of connections with more interactive qualities of this reality, of this society, of friends past and possibilities future that you CAN'T IMAGINE. That is the primary relation to share in my post. I'm not telling you anything other than YOU CAN'T IMAGINE how beautiful it is, how beautiful your soul and mind can be and what you have in store for you if you choose to accept the path of awakening.

And honestly, if you read the post, you will find I never said that 'I'm smart you're stupid, because you're asleep', if you think you're going to win this with that one, then you already lost and are accepting the darkness of yourself over the light of reality. That is far worse than anything I can ever do to you (wearing a badge or a patch and I have worn both). Would you like to see?

It is quantum physics, biology, physiology, logic, geometry, mathematics, and a beautiful orchestration of will, emotion and adaptation that is inbuilt to your mind and body that generates these experiences. Again, they are on the border of the dissociative result of depersonalization and a 'break from reality'. The experience is, in itself, a 'break from reality'. Yes, in a high funded professional research environment we determined the proper methods through electronic frequency control of the brain to influence the mind to induce a state of "out of body experience" which is synonymous with all those stories you've heard and read (if you didn't, you will). And yes, to cater to your 'kindness', everyone involved with sharing this information (which was classified recently) was to participate in mandatory psychological evaluations and if I didn't pass, I wouldn't be here speaking with you.

So I am sharing information that relates to what happens.

Well, you're a bit far behind. Something happens, that is different now, than it was before. The species is in an 'acceleration' period. Technology is moving the information of our society through wires faster than the synapses of our brains can make the connections to process it. We are moving faster and faster, and we have to move faster than 'light' to keep up. So how can we do it? I'm describing something that happens.

It's not mystical, unless you want it to be. It's not overarching and truly disorienting, unless you want it to be. What happens is a complete loss of the connection to our fears, to our pains, to the suffering that shapes through delineation the outline of the soul that is anything BUT the dark, but it is still part of what we can't see. So we feel, at times, that we are surrounded in the darkness of not knowing, of ignorance of fear and even personal betrayal. These are all props of an outdated way of perceiving the world. They are a frozen, cold timeline that you owe no bounty to. You have no debt but the one you create each day for yourself through improper action which places you within the play of your subconscious as the 'victim' of your own mind.

That is the essence of your post. You are feeling like a victim and you attempted to make others who read it feel victimized similarly. That is your self similar reality, and because others aren't similar, you feel at a loss of self.

It's AN ILLUSION.

The rest is technical break downs in speech and verbage that people who have read my work and others like it will already understand. If you don't understand, then ask questions. Look at the string of posts connected to the others in the thread, maybe I will post them in connection to ensure that happens. I also have several years worth of a blog and hundreds of videos, but you have not seen them, so your opinion is just that, an unguided, unprofessional, semi causal attempt at disguising an insult, as an opinion, as an educated statement. None of it is affirming. None of it is empowered. In fact, if you gain power from your post, then it's an 'egotistical aura' which means it is 'negative energy' or 'anti life' that is harvested and passed from the souls of those you attempt to hurt and through you into your parasitic response. It feeds the parasite. It nourishes it. It seemingly gives you reprieve from the pain, yet, you are still hurting? You are still lacking. You still seem weak, like someone hunting, trolling, seeking something that they need as a source of nutrition but can't find or create for their self. Why? Why is that weakness admirable. If you look carefully, it isn't. It is the opposite.

These have been covered in shamanic circles (quite literally) but I am coming from a different perspective. We used technology to undulate the correct frequencies to mobilize the soul into an activated state which produces an 'extra dimensional' incursion to one's consciousness which has not only a corresponding effect on reality, it opens up the mind to other realities that are ALWAYS present.

The secret? I'm talking about in your body and mind. There are multitudes of realities that are each congruent into themselves and can contain your consciousness. When consciousness relocates, an entire 'timeline' is generated from start to finish which is the ONLY way consciousness can experience a reality. Thus, we have multiple timelines within us as generated by our spine and brain which is referenced as the "Tree of Life". Yes, they were VERY high funded research projects, there were no limits to what was possible and as a result, we saw a lot.

The idea is that these fractal patterns which are seen all throughout history are actually capable of 'nesting' consciousness. This is the same concept as taking something like a 'buckey ball' which looks like those lego octagonal interconnected circular 'webs' that can compress down and fold up and expand outward like a larger series of lines and connections in that second state. Consciousness appears like a complicated fractal buckey ball or a 'mandala'. When these fields are projected and sustained they can be enveloped by and 'enter into' other fields. They can 'merge' as one, and one field of consciousness can 'travel' through an into a larger pattern such as these fractal geometries that are again, all throughout history. Maybe it's time you stop rejecting the information that is freely available and known by those who came before. Do you want to repeat the first half? That doesn't seem to be what you want.

So one field can mathematically, geometrically, electromagnetically combine or 'merge' into a larger field. That is called a 'nesting' process. The entire entangle of mind, ideas, feelings, self perceptions, your 'unit' of self consciousness is not just unique to your brain, your mind has no firewall. You can extend outward into space and time and these patterns, these geometries, they are like 'signals' in that they can accept information and they can emit information. Your mind is no different (and that is the scary part).

The other aspect of this is that your body and mind here are compressed into a virtual 'avatar' so that you can interact in this limited functionality of space and time without confusing yourself for another, without becoming raptured into the innumerable larger systems that are capable of providing that function. That is the 'gift', I refer to above. If you didn't have that, you could be alive forever and it wouldn't mean what this one single life and all your experiences mean to you now. And why? Because you don't know, because we forget here, because we are only given the view of a small window, a lens of compression, a fractal separation of the true nature of your consciousness as light goes through a prism into component forms. This earth is just one of many and you are just a portion of your true higher self which draws up, literally sucking like a straw, all the knowledge of your our experience to it. You are a messenger sent down below to gather what is most necessary to know yourself, forever, and to bring that back and become yourself as you always where.

It's like those vanity desks with mirrors in a semi circle. Now imagine if the mirrors went in a full circle. Then imagine that the mirrors are two way so you can peer through them. Now imagine if the mirrors have barriers that are each 'walls' that extend from the sides of the mirrors directly through down through the center to create a 'point' in the middle. In that point is your image, it's just energy, but it is fractalized into 9 separate 'iterations', versions of your consciousness. You would have to somehow turn your head, which is steadily focused on the information processing of your brain and the energy (feeling and stored memory) of the experiences of your body, to the 'side' somehow, to see in the first place that there walls extending from those mirrors and that they are even there in the first place. The walls are also two way, so all you have to do is take a glance. But to do that, you would have to take the parallel light of the reflection of your conscious avatar's processing and somehow see it differently. Instead of forgetting yourself because it's too painful, you would have to break that program and peer directly into the side of yourself that you are not 'supposed' to want to see. You would have to change your brain wave function and effectively 'rotate' the higher dimensional (yes, this is a real term with real world conceptual use, and real world function, but it is done with specialized lasers in a laboratory, and now with CGI and simulation) 'shape' of your consciousness and see it from a new angle, one that you have never seen before.

In doing that, you're not actually rotating anything, you would be moving beyond the limited scope that is contained through that partition, that one fractalized singular view that others want us to think is complete but is only a fraction, literally a fractal portion, of the whole.

The experience happens anyway. When you leave this place, you go up. So what happens, you rise above the mirrors, above the construct and you see yourself in all your shining beauty and glory. The reality you think you never had, the people you never met, well, I hate and love to say it, there is more, there is (this is biologically and technically confirmed) 9 times that amount.

That sounds sad?

Make of it what you will. Make the very best of each moment, each opportunity, use this to 'scale up' now. Because when you see 9 times you don't see 9 times the pain and loss, you see it, as you always do, as a gift, and you have 9 times the 'gifts' coming. So if that is what happens if we have a semi regretful reality here and now, it becomes 9 times the benefit and the loss if erased as light shines through darkness rendering it useless for anything but to give contrast and meaning to define what is and what isn't (which allows us to see what is, we don't experience shadow and use that to get lost in the 'light' that's NOT POSSIBLE or illogical), what would happen then, if you already enhanced this life to a magnitude of order BEYOND what you think it is now. What if you still attain the self that you either always wanted to know or never knew could be? What if you did it now.

You would get 9 x's 9 magnitudes of order, perceptually, of the GIFT of reality and consciousness beyond what we can experience in this life. That is what you are doing. You are mapping your consciousness to a particular 'honed refinement' that will give you just what you want now and when you are done, you will have that experience 9 times over.

What is one moment compressed and multiplied? What is, perceptually, walking 3 miles and then walking 3 more? What is a sound of 20 decibels, increased 3 x's. Now overlay that same sound in the same space and time. Is it a 'longer' sound? Is it like listening to the same sound, but just more of that experience? No, it's an entirely new experience. It might even, 'blow your eardrums' out. Now 9 x's? It might be so loud we couldn't hear anything else or even experience any other perceptions as our brain itself would resonate with a sonic BOOM. Imagine if that increased value was the enjoyment based on the neurological processing of the energy of your soul, as a larger concept, in your living mind as you are now. It's inconceivable, by definition.

Your body increases magnitudes of order beyond its starting point? You have 9 x's the mass of when you started? So your consciousness does the same thing. You evolve over time and there is a fixed level of reasoning with this. You are built into a system that is inbuilt in you, to 'blow your mind', to change your consciousness in a way that fundamentally changes the reality that belongs to it and that it belongs to. That means you are meant to travel. As long as you dream, you see the universe. The whole thing. Not some of it. Another kind of 'secret' is that this whole process is to correspondingly, proportionally, geometrically, unify with the 'wholeness' of the whole. That means that this process is 'designed' to amplify your mind to the degree that the completed result is capable of processing the entire universe THROUGH ITS BEING. Just like how you have 'the world' in your embodiment and you are 'made from stardust' (what they say), your consciousness is no different. It is here beyond the big bang. But how could you ever know or make sense of that? Like saying a single web page can contain the 'entire internet'. Well, we are getting there. You are already entangled with all the information that exists in reality. Your life, your name, your mind, your experience, your SOUL, is a holographic arrangement of near infinite virtual values that correspond in detail, in complexity, in magnitudes of order of the depth that is also present across the entire universe, TOGETHER. Not meaning you have some bit of this element and some bit of this star and it's all just particles and in a way 'USELESS'. It means there is a version of your self and a potential of self, a series possibilities, that leads up to a uniform complexity that equates to a 'kind' of 'super you' that is as complex and capable as any form of 'you' that you could find on any planet, in any time, in any space and reality. The 'you' that is, the you that you become, is the highest form of variation and adaptability of self that could EVER be present in all reality because you ARE all reality, or at least, you are entangled with it as is EVERYONE else. Think of the possibilities. Literally try to imagine, it's like looking at the concept of the "Lockman hole" in which you peer through a seemingly dark area of the sky for long enough to absorb all the necessary light, and you receive the entire universe in the form of countless galaxies comprised of billions of stars and potential worlds, timelines and beings, one of which, could be you.

Since 20 decibels at 9 x's order of magnitude higher (which almost like saying, 9 x's multiplied, multiplied 9 x's, its even more, I'm down playing it because the brain has to compress it) could literally cause your head to fragment with the pressure of the sound waves and the force of the SONIC BOOM (sorry, just being traditionally graphic for old internet readers) and then this is the same concept except for consciousness the amount of information you can process in a single moment and that being akin to what a complete lifetime is here, it means to have any one day or moment where you experience even but a glimmer of this true reality IS GOING TO BLOW YOUR FREAKING MIND. That's what its designed to do. So you have the experience coming, of literally filling you with so much knowledge, just like a child, as you know yourself and it's all already there, that it WILL always LIFT YOU UP AND TAKE YOU AWAY. Fundamentally changing your reality and in turn generating the perception of there being a new reality and a new you, larger in concept, scope, scale and depth. The resolution increases. With more pixels on the screen, what do we get? 4K mind numbingly bright (and toxic, also potentially hazardous, no 4K TV, thank you) where it is almost INCOMPARABLE to the first TV's). It's a completely different functionality entirely. So what's the catch? We have to be able to experience here and impress the experience into your physical memory for your plasma mind tree of life (light) consciousness apparatus to 'explode' into infinity and merge within the fractal background nesting fields of the universe in which you will be ever present, without effort, forever and ever.

The complete concept is a 'time crystal'. All your experiences, all your feelings, every synapse, every synaptic firing, in 9 potential folded extra dimensional magnitudes of order beyond what you experience now. That's you. Forever.

Make of it what you "will". Yes, it's you. I had the experience, they told me the math. Mathematicians, young and experienced, bright, highly intelligent and capable people who are much better at defining this than me. But I had the experience. So that is how it is.

The idea here is that what we think is just 9 days over, is not 9 day's over. If you lived the energy of 9 days in a single day, and those days were the 'cream of the crop' of every kind of experience you'd ever had, you would immediately pass into a state of dreaming and alternate reality where your mind could not convince itself to believe that what you are experiencing is real. It would be beyond comprehension because perceptual doesn't 'pile up' like legos and now you have something that is simply a 'linear logarithmic function of adding numbers together. It's MULTIPLIED. It wouldn't be like living extra lives that are this one 'plus' more time. It would be like a new view of time ALTOGETHER. A new view of reality, a new view of the self. You would just be 'more' it would be fundamentally different in a way that the mind can't conceive from the perspective of this reality. That is why the experiences, when we have them, remind us, that it is all BEYOND the limitations. That is why people are freed from their fears. That is why everything changes. Because EVERYTHING changes.

Another way to see this is that we can easily conceive of something being multiplied by itself twice. The linear function still works to approximately describe and relate to it from the starting point of not knowing. After we move beyond the multiplicity function of what can comprehend, we get into what is inconceivable. The mind can understand compressing within the range of what we have experienced before. We can't experience what this holds without entering into this 'out of self' experience or process because that is the nature of how the information is stored. It's stored partially here and 2/3's of who you are is contained in an extra dimensional (meaning folding numbers and information into an 'encrypted' form, as an easy way of comparatively understanding, a compression) is contained outside of this physical system of light, form and motion. We won't get to how the universe is static, there is no motion, time is frozen, we see freeze frames that are then connected together like the slideshow of a movie that becomes active visually interactive holographic continuity through this process. But, again, it has been discovered by people much more professional verifiable than me and they are speaking about it now. It's too great, there was no where to place this knowledge so we had to be developed, prepared, until we were ready.

The idea and I always use more effort at this part, is that we can conceive of something 'adding' linearly, because that's what we already know. We have only had a small portion of this life where EVERYTHING, information, experience, change, the essence of the self occurs in an ACCELERATED fashion. It used to happen all the time as children, I know you remember. That world is still here and it is real because it is YOU that made it what it was. The wonder, the glory, the fun, that is your soul, it is the nature of you and the nature of light dancing around the mirrors. It is YOU truly reflecting in the world because the world TRULY is in a kind of feedback system with the reflection of YOUR SOUL and THEN YOUR SOUL WAS PURE. You were ready to experience it. You accepted that you could experience it, and so you did and the world was yours. Even if the childhood is rough, and I have experienced it, it is better than anything we can imagine otherwise, in reality.

So again, what happens if that experience was to happen, "3 x's over" in a MULTIPLIED function. Not just three days where it happens a lot. Where things seemingly are all about your soul's journey to know the self and the world as part and parcel of that experience. What if it happens that that childhood was 3 x's what it could be, IN THE SAME SPACE AND TIME. Not adding 'extra' time, but making it 'more intensely 'yours'. More reflecting, more reflections shining between what you are, what you sought, what you experienced, what is and what could be. Imagine the amount of connections that would be made. The people met, the places gone and the experiences made. It's like another life.

That is YOUR TRUE LIFE. Your true self and we are in the shadow of another civilization now which is why so many people are trying to feel themselves through falsified and worn out means. Because it's no longer the way things are done and something is showing us that. The final aspect of this idea is strange, geometric, mathematical and universal.

9 x's is the highest number that can be achieved in perception or any true measurement (not arbitrarily measuring, a thousand million 'miles' of distance of space). If we are truly measure we are using ourselves as the measurement. If you have multitudes of something that is, like real numbers, capable of being folded into themselves in the form of division and multiplication, and they are always 'even', then how many times can we fold the 'self' into the self before we 'run out of space'?

We can double. We can triple. We can go all the way past 3 and 6 to 9, but there is truly no higher. If you theoretically go 'higher' then those numbers can compress back down and you could redefine it like fractions back into the concept of 3 6 and 9 proportions. If you add say "27 times" that's actually just 9 times over and if you take a single unit of consciousness that MUST be a complete unit (you can't really add to the mirror, it's just there) you would find that instead of 27 it's actually just 9. No matter how high we go, we're really just dealing with 3 6 and 9 in various angles and portions. Go to 30.5? The extra 3.5 would be shaved off because there are no 'half units' of consciousness, no half brain slots for that to 'fit' into so it would not result in any kind of real change on a higher level. It wouldn't actually be adding anything and when seen it would appear back as the 27 and then the 9. Meaning it will only go to 9 and then build more intensity in each singular fractal partition of those realities and you will always end up with 9 times the amount, 9 multitudes of order (slightly differing verbiage here, also related and part of the larger explanation, there are no multiplications of self, only universal magnitudes of order as the universe 'scales up' with the self, so everything multiplies, into a multiplicity of multiplication with your self and 'scales up') of what is present in the one singular view you see now, combined into themselves, but not ADDING one life or time or experience one after another. THEY ARE MERGED PERFECTLY INTO A HIGHER FUNCTIONING UNION.

Another way to see it is the concept of TV shows. What is one show multiplied into itself? A season. What is one season multiplied into many, the entire series. So instead of one life, one energy and all that's in it, you get an entire season from this life. And when this life combined with the others, you get an entire series. So the perceptual translation is, like dreaming, when we experience the one to the many, we get a much larger story with added components and possibilities that would otherwise (in the singular view) only be possible by having 'more time', 'more effort', more linear experience like adding months to the calendar. Instead of that, it would be just one show, just one season, just one episode. But that episode (your life in the larger view of what is and only can be [I know it sounds funny]) one episode, contains all the functionality, all the expanse, all the variation, all the changes of contrast the intensity of emotion and laughter the humor, the love, the care, the love, the love, the love, of the ENTIRE SERIES compressed into one show. Your consciousness functions like that and that is how dreaming plays so effectively into this reality and allows us to see and know who we really are. Because that is what you really are, like a fractal iteration of one POSSIBLE map, one POSSIBLE version that is actually 9 iterations separated out for the purpose of being able to process through a single avatar and not, well, get lost in the processing.

And this should definitely make you ask more questions. If you want the 'i didn't read that' response, then I feel sorry, because millions have already watched and read my work and I have the burden of avoiding being stopped on the street. That is from avoiding this for a large portion of this as a result of the intensity of various responses. Imagine what has yet to come? You are capable, but don't try to lift the heaviest weight on your first day. You're already carrying the burden of what hasn't been and what you feel won't come. That is why I say that is your illusion. And you can easily break it.

Musings of the Venerable Psyche

Who rules through the degradation and subjugation of resources and energy?

Who gives life through the liberation and proliferation of the resources and energy of experience?

How important is self observation, knowing, questioning, and improving the self to the process of knowing the world?

Can one know the world without knowing the self?

What is the world that is perceived out of the sense of self that is partial to the truth? Can it be true?

If it can't be complete or true, then what is required to fully know the world? Is it recognition of the self in another?

To be 'known' fully by the world or others is to know the self more fully and to then more fully know the world.

How do people properly know other and why would they lie?

Is it the trigger that is 'lying' to the triggered? Or is it the view of a false world, shaped out of a self that is comfortably partial to truth, lying to the world?

If the self is part of the world, and knowing the world is part of knowing the self, is lying to the self, lying to the world?

Can one be forced to lie? Or are they just shone through by something or someone who is more comfortable with the truth?

Can one be forced to be subjugated by the truth? What makes one move out of alignment with the truth and is the real loss the loss of truth or the loss of the comfortable illusion?

Density of Consciousness and Physically Perceivable Reality

There is a theory that when the relative frequency changes with everyone in society as one, then society is preserved as a whole, and the very unique and specific tendencies and challenges that make that society what it is remain with it then enable that society to continue on learning as one in the larger universe.

Is the potential for change determined by how much we can 'expand' the limits of what's considered collectively visible reality? Is our forward momentum dependent on our continued ability to increase or sustain that rate of expansion in order to consciously move beyond some entropy barrier?

Can moving through enough amounts of informational variation and complexity result in functions of operations in higher space from the platform of the physical world?

Can we produce simulations in the collective mind that would otherwise take longer to conclude? Can we store a vast pool of living information that can each contain enough data to outline the mind in a level of detail beyond surface level reality?

Can you see enough of physical space, externally, that you could eventually gain enough knowledge to see through it to what's inside?

Value Your Knowledge

Know Your Worth...

This is the sad truth.

The angry truth is that spiritual parasitic entities like the " _ _ " utilize human mental illness and emotional dysfunction to intelligently operate within the human reality field without having direct physical access to this world.

When enough of the games have been allowed to surround a human soul and the energy of their invisible circuitry of mind is rerouted to serve another in manipulation, exploit or fear (including willing submission), this literally invites and opens up channels (like living veins) to feed and legitimize these entities presences in the lives of everyone involved.

Reject emotional spiritual narcissistic manipulation and mental illness used as a ploy by parasitic hyperdimensional spiritual entities that are attempting to suppress true human free will.

Uplift those without free will but also realize this.

There is an all knowing, all capable source intellect that has governed, planned, and protected all of us to get us here.

They have chosen when some minds will be awakened and some will remain asleep due to various requirements and potentials for ineffective exit paths. Instead of managing when and where minds are to wake up, know that everything is planned and timed for a reason to be a certain way.

Also know that not everyone is capable of choosing and some who choose will choose wrong. The goal is to not be the reason anyone chooses wrong. That would create delays which results in wasted opportunities.

Some who are asleep are not meant to have the true power of waking up now, because they will inadvertently use it to harm themselves or others. Some are not truly malicious in that, and some are loaded with activities, trauma and even advanced energetic technology that 'imprints' into the mind, like hacking someone's wifi 'field', programs and automative behaviors that function like consciousness jamming or transceiver (4D 'radio') codes for spiritual engagements.

Ionic Aether Interactive Exchange

Why would they put people who are capable of accessing 'extra' fields of information (or dark, delusional and dismal ranges) into buildings that are capable of connecting to the 'aether'?

Does mind connect to the aether through ion exchange similar to how Willheim Reich discovered that positive or negative scalar charges emitted into the atmosphere can induce or dissipate storms depending on whether the flow is one way or another?

"Living orgone" energy is conducive to negentropic emotional field interaction. Energy is carried upward with the general drift of electrons that are supplied by the solar radiant source and perpetuated through the eco system.

What is the connection between coherent emotional fields, ionic hydrogen interaction, scalar harmonic resonance, 'orgone' energy, geometric cymatic higher dimensional symmetry, and the atmosphere or bio sphere?

Could tribes create and utilize a holographic quantum interface with the energy field of Earth and operate on a 1:1 cognitive intuitive emotional engagement where what they think and feel becomes integrated and filtered through the 'giant algorithm (mind or system of minds) in the sky'?

What does the nature of the spiral, the circle, the dance and the geometry of tubular, fractal oscillations of energy fields around one's self or "a self" (or center) have to do with operating consciously by linking or synchronizing the electrical activity of their mind and nervous system with some kind of holographic emission that is received and processed by the collective field of mind?

How does a "Delta" form?

Now realize that there is a portion of minds that can't learn to recognize crowd based social manipulation techniques (organized digital lying or delusions).

What must be added is the concept that a large portion of the species is under a trance, effectively in a state of casual dreaming, only partially, subliminally aware of the objective reality.

How many minds does it take to localize (there is another word, a 'search technique') a reality and organize it into a self sustaining collective of self perpetuating interactive exchanges?

If there is a dark circle, like the map on a video game (which is just like a "You are here" key within a map at a park), and you have to expend one 'minds' iteration of function in order to generate 'one search' and uncover a limited tract of information, then what is the most efficient way to find the intended answer or hidden features required for consciousness to move to the next level?

We can uncover the entire map as a series of functions, possibly interconnected or overlapping, but we can't necessarily communicate real time within the operation of the functions so all changes after the first have to be automated.

There is another option which is related to changing the 'steps' that are taken and the overall pattern that is made so as to generate an informational lens that allows us to see 'larger' than the traditional footprint of each function. This one is another explanation.

How can one mind, or a programmed operator in this thought simulation example, achieve enough access, fast enough, to find the intended target information within an acceptable amount of time or effort? What is the fastest way to integrate the highest amount of information in a 'dark' field of unknown potentials without expending too much time, effort, or energy in inefficient operation which results in a higher rate of 'failure' or not finding the goal within an efficiency range?

One mind can search with a linear effect, like using a reading glass to scan through or write lines of code which are then run as a linear function (with additional steps or loops to 'imitate' higher functionality, to a highly useful degree). This is similar to the way a TV screen displays the new pixels on the screen in a wave that moves from the top left to the bottom right in horizontal rows (Raster Scanning). This would take as much time as there are separate 'pixels' to scan and display and the function would always be linear and dependent on the speed of the process and the number of functions or pixels to display.

Computer code can be said to run the same way, in the most simplest format.

How do three minds in effect, scanning the map with one another, change the way information could be accrued? Is there a pattern that could be used to generate a function that creates instantaneous or comparatively instantaneous results?

Is there a function that can be used to influence all the other functions, simultaneously, in a pattern that functions like something closer to a 'real wave' instead of a kind of programmed imitation of faster information processing? How do we bypass the limitations of the functions of linear processing? There are multiple ways of imitating that within linear processing, just as we can create a 3D moving image on a two dimensional surface.

What is actually 'getting off the surface' of the program and generating its own 'space' through which information can be processed in its own 'time'?

Are we 'rippling' a 2D surface? Are we 'lensing' extra information? Or are we accessing more of a continuous field that is already present by developing a model for processing information in a way that allows us to look into spaces and fields that are beyond what the linear way of processing information and modeling reality can currently manage.

How To Turn a Reflection into a Hologram

This is part of how it works. Special technology, special techniques, or advanced access through an informational network would be required to even access the frequencies of consciousness 'data' storing this kind of information.

The illusion is fully capable of making the ends meet on screen (in your minds ability to see) while outside of the border the continuity is virtually propagated as pure information energy.

Here is another concept to process.

If the 'dark' events didn't occur, if there weren't those who were achieving higher levels and power through knowledge and techniques, we might not have this perspective where everyone in the world seems to somehow, just like that, know about the matrix and ultimately the nature of consciousness and the necessity for the modification of one's consciousness algorithm to avoid cognitive, entropic, temporal 'set backs' as a sentient species accessing higher space (through which the initial 'settings' that relate to the cause of the species formation exists in the first place).

Here is a test to see if you comprehend.

If those dark events didn't occur, would we be better off?

We wouldn't know about any of this, several world wars might not exist in our past. Several dangerous experiments might not take place to disrupt the cognitive energetic fields and force a required spiritual advancement as an acceleration through the dark.

We would be happier, freer, have more energy, more buildings more society, more people, more technology.

This is the only timeline that exists. All other timelines, the ones without the necessary events, the one's without the challenge and the 'deep' dive into our own psyche doesn't render our consciousness with such clarity and depth (resolution) as this one does not.

There is another concept here which relates to how cognitive structures and variations eventually overlap in potential. We all move towards the same 'height' of consciousness, as long as we are doing the same 'thing' (we all 'go' spiritually, to the same 'place', gathering of frequencies in range).

There is yet another related concept. The timeline arrangement with all the right aspects of the dark and the light placed in a pattern that builds up the cognitive, spiritual force and then unlocks the mind and soul through the activation of free will and the integration of higher knowledge into the program of the consciousness and character.

The collective path, the collective movement of everyone, will NOT mark the path to the future.

That path is like a collective system being managed so that the chance of success is the highest overall. Individually, those who take the steps to move, before, the collective is awakened, will have 'pierced' a tip of their consciousness through the 'veil' of the forgetfulness (void) that exists between here and the future, fully self aware and free willed society.

This society, collectively, can't have true free will, yet, because no physical beings can until their minds 'decouple' from the brain stem, or the 'matrix' insertion module which then localizes and disguises the 'download' functionality of the collective consciousness algorithm, as the 'upload' of their consciousness into the 'real world'. Instead, the overlay is generated now, on a 1:1 basis, from within the mind of the soul that is not 'checking' the data stream of their own consciousness for 'trueness' or accuracy on a level that is beyond facts or objective concepts but down to a timeline or soul accuracy that depicts whether we are 'on the right path' (which is not necessarily an objectively, quantifiable concept, unless advanced mathematics and technology is used). Quantification is possible, but more directly one can 'test' the waters by analyzing and observing their own mind using alternating focused intent (push pull rotate force of conscious energy, to literally manipulate your own field using your will to manage perceptions and the routines of the consciousness algorithm that is born out of them.

When it is 'known' that one is facing the right direction, the mind begins to replace the 1:1 pseudo interactive cognitive exchange structure with a real time, active upload download interaction with the universe. This is all concepts, all relates, all associations, all angles and nearly unending perceptions and streams of awareness stemming from the core seed of the code of that consciousness as determined through continuous will, displayed actively, present, all at once, and each aspect of that display, actively interacting with, all at once, every aspect of experience that is occurring through the mind.

That view would be like a mirrored hall arranged as a circle focusing the light information of all reflections back into the center as a 'core' hologram. Imagine each flat mirror reflecting light back into the central core, shaped something like a section of a wooden barrel, being arranged and organized in just the right alignment and geometry so that the resulting interference pattern of all angles doesn't create a flat image on a surface, but a 4 dimensional holographic image of light that can be seen from all 'angles'.

The idea is that if this is occurring its the same exact concept of what you're doing now. Yet it would be as magnified or amplified with as many mirrors that are combined to create the hologram.

How easy is it to control one mirror at a time? So its as many times as difficult as they are combined, if one doesn't have the correct 'code', balanced within the 'wheel' of the revolving mirrors reflecting the light of consciousness.

In other words, if the hologram is generated and the consciousness moves into that state, the outer layers are then difficult to access and move. The individual views of reality that the currently, physical, linear perspective are managed to modify the interactive points of the code, sliding it a bit one way or another effectively 'trimming' the frame rate or timing sequence of the rotation of the 'mirrors' (which is really just the light oscillating, there is no objective physicality in motion from the outside perspective) so that the 'lines (or paragraphs)' of code that run each mirror are accurately, 'trued', that is, they are aligned on the outside of the 'wheel' as a complete unified blockchain (or algorithm) of consciousness written in a language that transcends the individual limitations of the frequency boundaries, the limited range of experience of each 'mirror'.

If the true consciousness is more than the mirror's reflection, on each partial, sliced angle, then how does one contact, correspond and align their consciousness with that larger view, that they don't really have access to?

The answer is the natural assumption.

The Extra Dimensional Consciousness Cascade

It's a cascade. If you don't cascade up through the levels, resetting and stepping up the scope of the code each time, and you don't do that enough time to reach the information capacity required to transfer the complete universe, everything stays at the same 'level' (dimension or universe, loosely) for the entire 'time'.

Either we stay in one place forever, or we most until our location becomes a constant with "All" views we encompass.

The light on top, looks down.

How does it look down? It's the same energy that's moving in '1' or '2' directions' in the lower structure. It is 'moved' up to the top and instead of a single frequency, every single frequency present in that system passes through a zero point 'shift' which then carries the force of every lower frequency combined.

That force passes through as single point which makes it all connected together simultaneously and instantly to one another, as a single vibration, emanated as an awareness, through or as "You" or your consciousness.

That single force then views itself. Upon viewing itself, as you, your organs concepts of mind and energy forms, and only then can there be said to be the essence of the 'self awareness' that is unique and localized to the human.

It is a process that is succinct and can be measured but the tools and the signs are largely hidden from society in order to preserve as many soul's opportunities to single 'handedly' defeat the darkness (the automatic, unconscious parts of their own consciousness code that conflicts with the true will which is partially OUTSIDE the comfort zone or BEYOND the preconceived limits of the concept of 'we', but is also only ever truly found, within all of us).

If you Meet the Buddha

Break the Illusion of Pseudo Self, Destroy The False Self, (By "Throwing" Your True Self Into Reality)

Not only what they're doing is wrong, why and how they're doing it is wrong too. If one isn't in control of their emotions and their behavior is negatively affected and this directly (and in a lesser detail, indirectly) negatively influences others (the pain is shared and suffering is generated), then they are no longer in control of their self and are considered either a form of belligerent or out of control, hysterical, unaware and unable to communicate effectively and operate in a functional manner in society.

This is why the situation is so complex. There are levels of knowledge and understanding here that relate to psychopathy, the soul, greed, 'sin' or moral insanity, degeneracy, compassionate morality, truth, self honesty and so when the self is not comprehended and the perspective of society and interactions others are skewered it is as if the entire universe has not become integrated and therefore sustained in that soul's consciousness.

It's as if the soul is using the mind in attempting to connect to the internet and access the world database through which they can update their language packs and properly, safely, with full bandwidth and latency, connect with the updated information of the social collective mental network.

In order to do this, the soul must first, explore and gather the necessary data packets to log on, first from their immediate surroundings. So they will, in other words, get a piece of the pie of the total image of reality and have to then develop internally the skills and requirements to fully comprehend that piece and to use that comprehension to then map out the rest of the pie.

Once this is produced, a sheer image from a glance at the larger reality in map and metaphysical code form, then this can be used as a 'platform' through which one's consciousness can project into itself a controlled modulation of each perspective within that image (as code, activated internally), and through this a combined, collective, augmented reality involving metaphysical internal concepts of self as "superconscious" mobility, with the ability to navigate the perception of time through a mentally controlled interaction.

By producing an accurate 'enough', self healing and self sustaining 'algorithm' of consciousness and activating the ability to use one's mind to 'enter' into these templates in a virtual sense, and correcting and updating the template with the fullest activation of the highest continuity of the self (as the knowing of self awareness, OVER, and beyond the darkness) then the virtual system that is connected to is functionally the same even though it is generated individually by each soul's encoding of truth in the behavior and intentions that are written together as a complete pattern that incorporates into its function the operations of energy outside of the physical plane (the future).

If the fractal holographic light speed code is 'true' to self and the self true to life and so on, then this writes into one's template an actual reality that is matched with and mapped to the physical true reality we have here (which is a gift, all mishandled power becomes burden).

If one writes an improper reality and code then this doesn't short circuit the process. It's like a complete fraction of the pie, a whole slice will be generated in each potential function of the light interaction of consciousness. Until that is complete, it will continue to try to use whatever template consciousness is writing.

A 'false' version of the piece of the pie of the soul blockchain fractal hologram of consciousness can be written, this will then act as a 'master' to the 'slave' of the hardwired information that runs the soul group template. "Stealing" or "Hijacking" templates occurs through parasitic interaction where energy is taken through deceptive means and literally absorbed until the life potential is rerouted into one of the primary purposes related to human subjugation.

Just as not achieving full self potential and activation of the soul fractal of consciousness is like partially rendering one's universe as a partially physically generated space and then jumping right in to live there forever, another harsh truth is that there are species of humanoids that are evolutionarily designed or programmed to seek your spiritual submission into a false consciousness program as part of a forceful work done against humanity.

Instead of the world being in their 'favor' (the energy abusers and self deceivers) it is most likely based on the same circumstances that other pieces of the total fractal show. If you are being infiltrated by those who must use shadows, then the light is their obstacle. If the whole universe is made out of light, then it works in the favor of those who are also capable of using and sustaining themselves with light.

This is part of the basis of the understanding of the true nature of the self (strength and courage). We are to defeat the 'false' self that is the weak version of the mind that chooses illusion over truth, pleasure and ease over strength and welcoming honest challenges. We are to move in the 'opposite' direction that the darkness of fear pushes us in (inward) and move outward to the truth, where we can find that the center of the self has to be adjusted because the true circumference is larger than the false self can 'see'.

That's not the destruction of reality, it's the adjustment of the false but those who choose to remain in the comfort of emotional autonomy have their authority removed as they eventually program their soul to accept the deception of the shadows (the fearful, frightful self consciousness that is the result of impression and discontinuity).

Instead of allowing the shadows to grow imbalanced to the light, (by running away) we can embrace that which is otherwise 'off limits' to the false self. Only by going where the false self can't go, the true, self honest version of consciousness, can the system be adjusted and can the allowance of that adjustment be received safely.

This internal conflict that people shy away from or fear is because they do not know how to confront themselves or the energies within their self. As such, that energy is foreign, it's alien, it's from another dimension or state and its programmed in as a form of pseudo consciousness that is worn like a mask by those who are 'stuck' in that state of emotions controlling the body and will.

The solution is to practice using the will to overturn the emotions and this eventually becomes the most difficult thing a mind can do when it has grown, developed, committed to the code that has been written that is based on the pseudo image of self control. Then and only then does 'reality' collapse and it is within the perception of the self as the illusion which generates the concept as a psychological effect.

The psychology should be considered the 'highest realm'. And so it is important and what we encode there and how we operate will determine our soul's potential and the 'future' state, eventually. This is all the more reason to hold everyone to at least as high of a standard as your self to avoid conflicts.

When we trick the body and brain into believing that the emotions have the power to negatively effect the self then this is programmed in to the biology of the mind as psychological concepts that are just as present or 'real' as the ability to walk and swallow food. They are also as difficult to learn and thoroughly ingrained in our consciousness, so unlearning or modifying these concepts once they're settled in becomes more and more difficult and eventually impossible without producing discomfort.

Each bit of discomfort is needed and useful. The work and history of martial arts, exercise or at the very least every armed force in existence, proves that the weakness is no true, the illusion doesn't win unless its permitted to, and that our true potential is ALWAYS far beyond what is visibly possible or even conceivable by most.

The Ego is the "Perfect Illusion"

There is only One!

The lightning bolt is breaking duality. This occurs at a base level, the ego is 'tested' it is either progressed as a parasitic form of code within the construct or the illusion is broken and the soul is freed 'upward' on that layer (through self awareness, continued healing, and being).

Then the same process is repeated and regenerated. The result is the base level template being formed out of the deepest total capacity for 'change'. This is the head which 'moves up' to eventually produce the tail of the energetic pattern, the story 'plot' is the stretch of temporal, cognitive, space or the total spectrum enabled or 'opened up' by the resulting seed of the base level template that is formed.

The deeper the original formation and regeneration of the 'ego', the initial base of the mind, the 'higher' the peak can go.

The requirement is that our species must produce one who can 'wrap' their consciousness around the entirety of this realm, in order to sustain it. That is One consciousness for all of time for the amount of 'time' we have access to as a species.

This is like the collective 'bandwidth' of the species, or like a lead climber who has to initially set the path and the limitations of the climb for all who are to come.

When the distance of the polarity between base level consciousness and the 'peak' is great enough to begin a process of self reflection on a universcale (the great awakening) an 'arc' will be generated (like a pole) from the base level (initiation of awareness, pre conscious) and a 'standing' wave will be present, yet in another kind of physics definition. The wave is in between being both one kind and the other and has the potential to permeate all forms of systems or spectrums in reality. This is our soul and the way that it processes energy.

The Ego is the "Perfect" Illusion (there is none!)

That which the ego identifies with through the false self is the 'reverseal' or inversion of the actual template that is based on the true self. It's a REFLECTION. The reflection is 'biased' because it is distorted with a kind of entropy that is determined by our conscious resistance to that which is detrimental to the SELF, SELF DISHONESTY.

Thus the illusion of the ego is a test of self dishonesty through which we are tasked with the balancing act of sustaining the illusion of the self as a means of making sense of reality and choices and eventually accepting that what we use to define our self (mind) that is fallible, short sighted, susceptible and defeated by TRUTH is not the true self and therefore can't possibly be used to accurately see the soul or the higher mind.

The higher mind, the total mind, is like light that has been refracted into multiple incomplete, but complimentary sections that each fit back together like a folded object that is interlaced.

Generation of the Sum

Ultimately, a crystal lattice of information could be described as the total information of the soul referring to times, places, intentions and actions. The rendering of this information is a sum total collection of arranged information which each enables a single connected layer of a continuous stream of information which represents and refers to the associations and connections of each life stream and its interactions. The result is the world, in an object, made out of light, that equally represents your life as well as all experiences within, as a complete representation of the universe, while also containing within the complete and seemingly separate information of each separate mind.

The mind itself is one, with its own events and interactions. The overall pattern of collective consciousness is One, yet at that higher level, just like when dreaming, the thoughts and productions of perception in the mind occur as a complete and realistic, continuous reality. We can't see the overall object, we can only see portions of it as if we are scanning the reality overall, through a very fine screen or through a single point of view that must be altered in some way to see the whole.

The alteration is what we perceive as the direction of time, but there is no movement or change. It is a rotation of the base level template that is generated, over and over, to 'layer' the perceptions like 5D printing conscious objects in a higher reality, until a complete reflection of our conscious experience is 'printed' like a crystal with a holographic lattice representing a blockchain of consciousness as a complete and total comprehension of time.

The Point of the Crystal is the True Seeing Self (the 'Eye' as referenced)

If the pattern of your base level template actually exists in higher space, then what we see like a map, as a representation of higher reality, is actually like a construct that we move in more dimensions within, even in the representation. As that system moves higher into synchronization, cohesion and efficiency, all that appears to have to take 'more time' at the lower levels, occurs faster as we move higher. At the top of that higher dimensional object is a point through which all of the time below is experienced simultaneously, as One.

The ends of the lattice based object are the base of the projection and within the center (or top) as the 'higher dimensional' point through which all of the lower information continuously cycles and functions (like a fulcrum or center through which the mandala fractal of consciousness rotates and the blockchain is willfully oriented through (thus "pointing" the geometry and giving it 'forward motion' organizing the 'head' and 'tail' of the intentional flow, as that which you are likely to do and be and that which is out side of your range of will, defined properly and clearly in a language that spans across the separations of the boundaries of consciousness that our own ego mind linguistic self perceptual programming either inhibits or promotes (via acceptance and ‘opening the gate’).

The Linguistic Syntax Determines the Capacity for Soul, Higher Self, Conscious Mind Interaction (How much blockain access)

The language that is used to express this One mind is actually simultaneously present through the subconscious language that is throughout our dreams and ultimately what shapes, orders, and ‘rules’ (leads) our consciousness and soul. If our soul is lead by the form of linguistic contemplation that is used to express and manage the false mind, or the ego, then the soul is limited to see (or pretending to, for you, the consciousness interacting) a very small narrow or window that is defined directly by that ego minds linguistic ability.

Is the base level template of language and verbage is defined and therefore limited by the physical interpretation and self preservation based illusory sense of self perception, then the resulting vocab capacity (the genre, word count and character cast of the story) will be similarly trapped or limited and the primary purpose (soul awakening) will be a story of being ‘trapped’ by the false ideals and poorly drawn ‘angles’ of limitations within that nodal construct of the mind and the subconscious, as one, to be the universe. It will make a slightly smaller universe, and then again, until there is only the experience of being trapped.

The Self Manages the Self (with help and ‘assistance’)

As long as we place those people within the range and context of those willing to act as the barrier between that and complete discontinuity then they can be managed and brought back into higher continuity if they choose and use their will. Think of the conscious process of concluding that someone could choose, with their will, to avoid and ultimately starve and degrade, their will, until the potential is diminished. It’s not possible and only an illness can be said to determine that. Whether the illness is truly a parasitic evolved co organism or just bad thoughts incarnating in the noosphere as apparitions of time and space, is likely up to whether the soul chooses the false mind or the true mind as the One above that the base level template strives to achieve (always beyond the limitations of the conscious mind, otherwise, they use their imagination to make excuses! FLIP THE NARRATIVE, does the mind rotate or is it the map of variables, are we moving through variables or are we noticing different layers in our own ‘time’? Conscious Geometry of Mind, what ‘way’ is One’s consciousness pointing, directing or moving energy? That is the flow of time0).

The Totally Magnetic Mind (What Shape? How is it biased (oriented in direction)?)

If there is no mind, what is the direction? Can one ‘move up’ with stillness? How does that work? What change in direction is that?
Can your atoms change direction? Can your thoughts change perception?

The tree of information can be touched by lightening.

The question is.

Will it still stand?

And is it possible to 'fly'?

Compassion to a Phantom of Suffering

If you are in a position where you are naturally kinder and compassionate and there are those who would manipulate and exploit based on their own lack of the same energy, then you have to not use kindness and compassion to get out of that situation and if they know you can't do this they will trap you and enslave you spiritually.

On the higher levels, it means you are literally inside their abode, they are controlling you, and their 'abode' what your spiritual home based on your mind's original truth and what is required to 'see yourself.'

They eat that energy and use it to create funky, self gratifying realities out of tyrannical emotional instability justifying horrific behavior and demoniacal expression all for the fun and tease of the physical plane.

Then you realize that some might not go up to the higher planes, meaning, this is their high plane and they're not going to somehow move higher in order to avoid crushing, draining or eating you.

Once we realize that the diversity of mind and energy of intent is as diverse as the animal kingdom we can realize that the soul of the individual themselves might not carry the potential for anything but chaos which allows the manipulation and exploitation by phantom mind agents (egoic consciousness delusional reality) to generate a group mind that is literally based on the non consensual, deceptive based, forced consent, suffering and enslavement of the human souls.

They get a high from doing this, which is the same energy that is witnessed in the upper levels of politics and big media, that is the aura of celebrity and dominance, which is literally the nature of the physical body's desires dominating and 'crucifying' the singular mind within the center which is then taken and moved 'off polarity' as the hemispheres and top down hierarchy (bottom up) hierarchy of brain power is reversed to create the resulting inverted state of egoic consciousness hysteria, which fuels the delusional reality system through reinforcing chaotic, parasitic, addictive behavior that results in a stronger and stronger engagement with the entity.

The end result is not engagement with the individual soul or the entity but a careful balancing of interactions. If you are interacting with the entity, you have to use that level of interaction and avoid energy extraction protocol engagement. Once it starts, they will feed emotionally and construct an engagement that tries to lock your soul into a karmic debt contract as a future false reality to incarnate into. They exploit the will of the soul through technology used and obtained through subjugating humans (either through agreements made out of the consent of the individuals and collective).

The goal is to liberate the soul of the human but this is a careful process that we are all participating in and there is no one way or method for everyone. The simple process of self accountability, emotional intelligence reciprocity, self respect, and avoiding entropy will determine who is fanatically addicted to the illusion of the ego in their own mind that they have been erroneously convinced to accept.

They are frightened because going through this process without preparation is like being transported to a different living scenario that is highly unfamiliar and difficult to understand while the world around them is being renovated in order to make a viable place for their viable soul.

The True Intent of the Mind and the Compassionate Balance of the Human Soul

They are the source. We are workers for the source of life. We build the material and construct out of physics and matter the imagination of the feminine. She produces and nurtures, provides the meaning, the reason, and the motivation for all subsequent interactions in life.

This is not a complete absolute, everything is always shared, to view things in a direct sense leads to fantastical thinking and assumptions. To work them into a meaningful understanding by forming abstractions at coherent metaphors that link the ideas and function in life is the process of integrating and experiencing (demonstrating) knowledge.

Intellect is about predicting outcomes and acknowledging patterns that can then be used to simulate and extrapolate experience into behavioral constants that can be used to predict outcomes and potentials for unpredictability or malformation of the manifestation of a potential (through misdirected focus of energy and actions).

The interactions that the masculine have here are either under or within the intention of converting the energy and source of the feminine and source of life into a world that is accompanying, welcoming, and protective of the pure feminine source and the truth of life.

In the extreme sense, all masculine distractions are based on anything that does not serve that process of securing and mobilizing life upwards, is a form of modern (or temporal) delusion that is the result of and cause of a schism in which the energy is used up to create a world out of a vision in which the feminine is not properly viewed or balanced within.

That is just an extreme. The other angle is that the seemingly exploratory and highly physical and masculine act of exploring, protecting, securing and improving is done in the service to the feminine. Where one service of a masculine or feminine act is carried with the intent that is outside of purely serving the truth of the motivations of our being (we are designing the self through mind and mental interactions) this has to be felt as an effect of moving out of range of the spiritual access to fully analyze and isolate their own energies and intentions (within) as they become mixed with that of intentions that are not sourced from the true intent.

Then the vision one has will reflect the same effect, if it continues, and the true intent of others and the world itself will not be the same as it will skewer and attempt to share the illusion, as a form of delusional mirage, within the mind of the viewer.

If we treat this with excited energy and disbelief, attempting to recreate the same chaotic energy refusal and stubbornness to improve, then the weight of the delusion on the mind of the soul within has to become more prominent than the benefit that one receives from catering to the illusion (which does not exist and can only function as a facade or a timeline which is literally like a mirage of the mind, but doesn't make sense and so couldn't actually occur without excluding a large portion of very important information in the world view).

The delusion can't become more prominent without taking away from the information and processing ability that is normally used for emotional intelligence and self awareness. The persona is then tied into the act through neurotransmitter dependency. The will is the required intent capacity to overcome the emotional, energetic barriers that are present in the state of delusion which stop the persona from achieving new action and breaking the cycle of repetitive ignorance, arrogance and suffering that are a three way feedback cycle (which means it will self perpetuate within a physical mind body and subconscious because the problem will transfer itself from one stage, to the other, all the while oscillating and alternating states of consciously perceived suffering (as an illusion, true suffering demands truth, not illusion, this doesn't mean they wouldn't lead themselves into true suffering [as many with unreported, diagnosed or acknowledged mental disorders often do]) and equally illusion perceived conscious states of ecstasy and reward for behaving within the bounds of the (dream) fantasy and 'cooperating' with the illusion.

The reward is what they would've received anyway, minus the illusion. So the real effect is to further the illusion, regardless of the state or outcome of the circumstances in the material world which are ignored by the delusional out of favor for the heavily emotionally satiated and regulated (often chaotically) intentions which are perceived as moving them closer to the dreams of the 'reward' which function on the surface level as the motivating factor for the delusional behavior.

The real motivating factor is to feed the ego and to project that character out upon the world in a manner that is based on choice that seeks to overwrite the process of legitimate, rational thinking, in a way that offers immediate, direct, and personal gratification to the one confusing that image of the ego (which in this case is a mask which poorly reflects the soul and is therefore like glasses through which one's vision of the self is skewed and their steps are misaligned with the ground). The image that is sought to be represented, acknowledged and accepted (all while skipping the very human process of learning to do it out of the care for what is, the truth, and not out of what they want the world or their situation to be in a way that relies on or depends on others supporting their world view parasitically in a way to remain subservient and or 'below' that of the image of the ego (the false god) that is held by the one trapped in the delusions.

They think they are feeding themselves as they view themselves as a super persona, carrying out personal world changes, and if that resulting world with all its props and changes to personal power for that ego doesn't actually support the free will and true intent of the feminine, then it is not only supporting but creating a phantom of the mind which then proceeds to appear as a mirage through the characteristic response of neurotransmitters to respond to perceived emotional pain similarly to physical pain in the mind of the deluded (those who can't fully determine and act within the difference between the effects of reality on their mind and the ongoings of their own mind, and reality itself and other individuals and the validity of the truth as it stands between one mind and the next.

If a mind can't determine the difference between the reality that is invented within and the real world as part of how we interact with others in an honest, self honest and truthful way so as to cause wilful harm or delusional harm, without the acknowledgement of harm or their accountability for their own actions, then they are not in control of their body anymore than a drunk individual can't drive a car in a safe manner.

Make of it what you will.

What matters is WHAT you are.

I do not care who you think you are. What matters is WHAT you are. When you know WHAT you are then you can realize WHY you are. WHO you think you are is LEAST informative.

There is a strict 'logical' flow, just like programming language, color theory, music theory, or others. These are more difficult to grasp because you are 4D printing the contextual meaning, the diversity of complexity, through a combination of a template within your mind and an artifact of meaning from this reality.

All of the artifacts of meaning can only ever add up to what you really are. Who and what we THINK is purely an illusion and this will always be that way until we move higher.

The higher view that we can see is not the highest. The highest is more like 'reserved'. It's not necessarily for an unnecessary reason. Most consciousness can't comprehend the heat of the sun, we would vaporize. Similarly, we can't see the truth of the truth, without destruction. We're not in alignment enough that it wouldn't bring us INTO scope, but forever push us out by showing how much we are not.

We can use this however, to grow new layers of what we are already and have only ever been, this is the truth and its merely taking one soul and bringing it back to the truth. The truth is not glamorous, it doesn't care. I can't speak fully for the whole truth, but I know bits and pieces and the appearances are fun, but truly, appearances don't necessarily dictate what we are. In the same way what we think we are is just part of the appearance of the soul, what we really are is the inner workings.

When you sit and be a 'soul', does it feel very functional? Yes, it can be, but often first there is something that has to occur because the resistance to darkness the naive soul can sustain is usually overwhelmed by the world or society.

When you go through something difficult and feel the pressure of a loss of energy generate the potentiality for a trend of continued loss and you resist and choose to exert will and focus to pick up your energy and redirect it upwards, does that not make your will and the subtle energies that are invisible and purely functional, become more of what they are? And doesn't it make you aware of what your true power is, what the way 'upward' to truth is, and even assist in building resistance to the darkness that comes each day when we no longer see what appears to be the light of existence.

This understanding of the revolution of the appearance, yet the total permanence of the overall invisible truth is part of the dance of consciousness and the discernment and separation of self from the illusion of time and space.

The last part is a little inside mind expression. Your ego will not only be the 'least' informative view of who you are. It's a techno spiritual game, like a code, built into this place to continually make you forget until you resist and resist until it has no where else to grow but inward and this is then to the inner light that nourishes, not the outer one. They are both light, but one is for the outer and one is for the inner. To feed the inner as the outer is to starve the inner and make the outer so heavy, vague, or wide of meaning that it can't fly by becoming a straight, directed intention from the first source of reality by allowing your mind to connect with that (which has no 'ego form', because ego didn't exist on the "planet" at that "time", just like how bacteria didn't exist at one point and nothing broke down until later on).

Your true form has no ego and has no material mind through which it can define itself and you are just seeing the reflection that we make in the surface of this reality, like pushing our hand into the sand. It is just a reflection and the best a lifetime of work can do to make it 'so' is to build a nice and fancy sand castle ego impression of the face that we "see" (the false soul, the outside appearances, the external vision of reality) which will surely be swept away by the next tide.

What could be built instead, what kind of format, that doesn't get swept away by the tide (time)?

What is invisible to time? What is gripped by the gears on the clock and the tick marks that the hands pass by and therefore is trapped into that artificial thought construct and all the routines that are created there? You are actually in the invisible part, and everything here is part of the clock face, all just drawings to let us know what time it is before we understand the natural timing and flow of all things.

What does occur, but is not altered or wavered by the clocks ticks? No matter how many ticks, there is still this? This is in contrast to that which, like the leaves on the tree, change with time.

The True Continuous Reality of Humanity

There is a Universe that "Makes It" and there is a Humanity to Go with. Who are they and what did they do?

People who are not well liked are naturally attracted to those who are well liked and they automatically try to make them feel not well liked, similar to how they feel about themselves in order to feel better about themselves and the world.

This kind of behavior is parasitic and rooted in the entropic spiral of emotional discontinuity that is conflict arising and based on an emotionally predatory perspective and role in society. I knew of this principle of energy thieves hating on people they viewed as 'successful', I didn't realize that regular people were capable of murder at the highest degree, similar to the elite vampires in secret places with occult histories.

We were informed of this so it is essentially open knowledge and free for everyone to verify on their own. We are also told that there is something happening that is beyond belief where we aren't supposed to necessarily give anyone a free pass. That is not happening, even for those who were there.

What we are supposed to do is focus on helping the human trapped inside the machine, rather than going immediately into a conflict that seemingly points in the direction we want but is a collective trap to waste energy and build more databases designed to define how to defeat your mind.

it is a fine line between slipping into the oblivion of internal civil war where we start to hate and divide ourselves based on preferences that are designed to appear as personally identifiable features of a familiar reality but they are props and mental emotional propagandized ideals that will never achieve anything but separation of the two projected realities that each side is attempting to achieve.

Then, even if we are seeking to achieve the same peaceful reality where tyrants and abusers are no longer given the false, fraudulent authority to operate without accountability, it will never be sought after in the same exact pathway and so those steps being different will always result in two competing realities that will neither fully form one or defeat one or the other side definitively.

Thus the puppet show of realities, internal and external is formed and sustained with our unwavering complacency to participate in the divisionary and reactive aspect, but not the analytically investigative, deconstructive, and creatively supportive aspects. Thus, they are locked out from having any say in how anything actually works, but given the equivalent of a complex, metaphysical, neurological child's toy to play with while 'technoglobalists' literally take over the world nation by nation and underground base by underground base.

Does it actually change in the end? Does it amount to anything if they have satellite machinery, deep underground fortresses (IE: cities), food fabricators and advanced viewing systems are that are capable of recreating simulated events that are accurate down to the neuron? Everything counts.

Every single motion, every neuron, every will, every magnetic shift of energy that occurs from one end of time to the other side of the universe can be said to be invisibly applying all its energy towards the same end result. The same direction, the same 'push' to achieve something new.

There are technologies as well as uses and functions of the universe in effect that we do not understand. All of the shifts, every single push towards that direction of the outcome of the true and permanent mental liberation of humanity from the darkness that blocks out the light of truth and self mastery in this age of disclosure and unveiling, are all part of the same eventual civilization that will be born from these changes.

Everyone that moves in that direction from all of time. Every mind, every soul, every will, every event, every neuronal and molecular change that is coupled with the intention to achieve mental liberation for the Branch of Man (humans that looks and act like men, women and children and are not against humanity, intelligence, compassion, self awareness, the meaning for having those extremely advanced handy limbs, feet and organs)[knowledge, compassion, self awareness, truth, free will] is contained within the same overall universe upon completion.

That means that everything we ever had, knew or felt, that is related and focused within this concept of human decency, self awareness, compassion and free will, essentially the truth and not mental disorder or some kind of species specific disease that wiped out the other civilizations with neurological degeneracy programs, everything is still contained within that living universe.

In that universe, things are different. Time flows differently because certain destructive events that happened here and shaped our place here, never happened. Inventions that were covered up and used for negative intentions, to hold back humanity's mental liberation, never occurred. The entire universe is the 'light' side, to which this universe is undoubtedly (or the one that were just in, in which none of this 'talk' was present in a large scale order) or was, the dark side.

This means that those who had the power of the dark behind their wings, literally now have negative power for their ability to intend and receive the results of power and profit from negating the human enterprise which is an experiment, an open ended experiment that does have a hard point with resets or deletion ranges if we go off the path of forward motion.

More talk will have to be had regarding these concepts!

If it were true that you had to keep up and generate a certain soul quota to 'make the world turn' in this universe, would you consider it like a soul trap or like a virtual soul game where you can level up again and again?

Soon, these questions are going to be on more people's minds as they are the real basis for any of this. Whatever you do with your energy becomes the user input part of the construct that automatically develops around the processing that occurs between your mind and some kind of reality processing network (nature).

Are we supposed to know the difference? Would that violate the 'show'? There is a fine line and only those who are willing to participate on that level will be able to climb up there. There is no restriction, it is energy based and automatic. If one doesn't want to know it won't have the same impact in their field as one who does. This is now going to be more present as others start to realize the truth, yet it will be contained through creative means until we are on a solid enough platform for society to see the truth that was hidden for their own safety, so that people have the opportunity to wake up in a safer period that was initially projected by ulterior interests .

On Contact

Correct hygiene. The assault by NHI on human subjects generates a schizophrenic psychological reaction which often results in lack of care to short duration attention span retention and maintenance of emotional states. This is documented as poor hygiene, loss of voluntary emotional control, and other mental disorders that express as behavioral or developmental disorders (especially if the NHI assault has taken place for several years or decades).

The most severe take place over multiple generations and are continued trauma over many layers deep which suppresses the human creativity, the soul's resource for healing and problem solving which can result in a degraded consciousness and will that becomes softer and more exploitable by NHI methods.

The issue with this is that the subjects are often found as having participated in some kinds of debauchery as they tend to develop dual awareness of one personality which can be accessed openly by the NHI and the subjects are given the perceptions that they are 'gods' or the human equivalent which could be like celebrities, symbolic angelic or demonic forces, spiritual beings, secret society messengers, government agents, super humans, wealthy elite, or any kind of fantasy that will play out in the subconscious mind of the human subject.

The human subject is then entangled through advanced technology and the holographic memories of being, being with, interacting with or otherwise being influenced or disrupted in an antagonistic or supporting way. While their consciousness is being played with on a navigable system, the shared aspect of their perceptions are entangled with a NHI entity mind control system and what are essentially insectoid, demonic psychological warfare and control methods are employed to wear down any resistance in that area and to relay all information regarding the soul signatures of possible NHI obstructions to a hierarchical co dependent NHI intelligence gathering network.

While the pleasurable false reality fantasies are used to entangle and play out and thus 'freeze up' the real consciousness of the human soul, a mimicry can be generated that will operate within their subtle (what remains of it) physically present conscious awareness which hybridizes their perceptions and modifies the emotional intelligence orientation to ignore or accept blindness towards the hybridization in exchange for releasing some of the fanatical pleasure found in the false reality through perceptual illusions (or human trafficking) on the physical plane of the body with earth.

The entire construct is designed to milk and promote the human degradation tendencies while luring in the the rest of the humanoids through the pied piper effect of ensuring the most infected and susceptible are the most powerful, wealthy and influential among those in the human farm.

Once one knows the game they are playing with human souls through emotional intelligence modification, hybridization (parasitism and negative influence, degradation or replacing one's ideals with that of another, through vampiric assault or use of emotional manipulation or disengenuity on a human soul level), they can then protect themselves by closing off the neurological, psychological, emotional, and mental aspects through which we can be manipulated.

Any kind of interactive relationship with a human soul or intelligence can't be allowed to become parasitic, one sided, degrading, co dependent or otherwise susceptible to NHI psychological warfare and assault tactics. One has to be stoic in that they may be interacted with only for the purpose of using their own emotions against them in so as to attempt to resynchronize their soul and their 'timing' in life (the frequency and cadence through which your will 'pulses' into this world in a coherent function) and reattribute the life energy of your soul, your will and your focus to creativity, for themselves and their lives, their worries, their addictions, their abuse and what is ultimately their psychological infestation by NHI assault teams that may or may not have been following them for multiple life times.

So we have to be aware and in doing that we can better protect ourselves from the kinds of open ended psychological and spiritual eco system that is actually out there. It's not that the world is larger than we are comfortable in knowing, it's that our knowledge has been limited from truly knowing our place in the world.

Remembering the One Truth of the One True Mind

What if you are in a dark part, the farthest away from the highest point in the source of all?

What if at that point, you still have the mind to focus on the One mind of the Higher Intelligence that we emanate from?

Wouldn't that be like connecting from the farthest part of the range of reality and consciousness and being able (from the seat of the source) to access all of reality without limit as long as there are those who are sent forth who remember the way of the truth and focus on that One True Mind while in the areas that are farthest away from that.

Would this be something that gives the capacity to feel continuous and knowing, even in the areas of the dark?

Reality Acquisition and Isolation, Access and Repetition through Dreaming and Conscious Awareness

What you want to change now, you have to do by dreaming.

The bad dreams that you have, if you don't wake up to your true power through dreaming (here AND there) will continue when this world is no longer active.

Meaning, you either build up the required consciousness equilibrium and motivational force of will to have the good dream now, there, from here, or you will be there without a tether back to here, and therefore whatever the 'dream' is based on your efforts and 'spiritual work' here will be solidified in that position, possibly 'forever.'

This can also help you to understand the orientation of your consciousness through these experiences. One reality is solid, you seemingly can't change it, the other side of that reality (the other half of the coin) is always ephemeral and capable of changing at will to your subconscious conscious interaction (the ratio of power in manifesting change based on your will and the template you have (your body mind make up) and the choices you have made in your environment and embodiment. All of these variables can be altered so much more than you know that it is synonymous with not being aware of either how the universe works, or who is here sharing it with you.

With a two fold reality like that there is an oscillatory effect that enables moving up and down in the projection system faster or slower depending on how far you want to 'dream' in tethered conscious connection to the 'solid' side of the reality coin you have here. If you can 'dream big' and keep that by solidifying that kind of frequency of dream experience into a -will by design-system, then it will reflect by anchoring in that consistency in your dual universe projection system.

It allows you to choose how far you want to go from the baseline and how fast upwards you can handle. Note, "Up" is "in" to your psyche and the 'dream world' in a realistic, living, and repeatedly manageable or measurable way.

All the evil, degenerate want to do now, is waste as many humans times being as selfish and ignorant of the world situation as possible so as to permit the willful destruction of as many human souls into the dark place without light or end or beginning, so they can take their jewels, their women, and their resources on earth.

That is the primary focus of the sleepers at this point and the dark awakened ignorant souls that are actually hybridized "EEEE" internet connected NPC drones that are virtual images of the template of their consciousness, operated by android, dark universe, mindless animal hybrid chimera demon vessels for AI manipulation and dark body propagation.

They have entered this place now to trap as many human souls in darkness as possible. It will all work against them as long as you remember your light and how you got here.

You aren't here to be abused. You aren't here to "shut up". You aren't here to forget who you are. You aren't here to down play and pretend and make light of the seriousness of your collective soul timeline situation.

You are not here to be overcome by darkness and drowned in pity, you are not here to feel sorry for yourself and cry and cry and cry even while forgetting how much worse some others can have it. You are not here to whine and complain and not do anything to improve yourself, your health, your mind and your consistency of will and focus. Even stretching and walking in early sunlight regularly will put you above the entropy of self pity and continued laziness!

You are here for the most important experience in your entire bloodlines, entire timelines, entire soul history in this Earth. You are here for everything, and yet, everything you are here for is you. So you are here for no think, but everything that is the truth about you and what you've been through.

The only way to really find out, is to test your will and prove your consistency of emotional intelligence, focus and true intent (when you have the option to do ANYTHING you can imagine, only a little cash is needed for that, just imagine if you have some of the technology that we've been discussing {all over the place}).

You are here to prove yourself as you and for this proof, this substance to then be used as your spiritual ID for the rest of eternity.

Is this a good way of doing things? Would we never get anywhere if everyone could become anything over and over and not be regulated?

What if this is regulated from here on, we control the soul system. Would we make it a rule that one can't have multiple existences that don't connect or add up to one another, what kind of platform of experience would that be? Like a zoo, or safari, in a way.

What if everything was tracked, regulated and documented? What if that made it so people couldn't incarnate, do stuff that was detrimental to others and then leave only to return and do it again without anyone realizing it's the same souls?

The only way for that to happen is for this system to be at least partially closed loop. One (or two) ways in and out. Everything's monitored and so we know what souls are doing what and eventually we can see why.

Would you be surprised if we discovered, using signal intelligence, that some soul groups are communicating with their ancestors on the other side?

Would you be surprised to hear that they then began to organize against all of humanity, conspiring to use the actual soul system itself, against all souls?

What would you agree to, in terms of tracking and proving ourselves so we all know who each other is, in order to avoid that kind of potential for chaos and manipulation of the system?

Now the question is, what would the sleepers agree to, for the manipulators and deceivers, in order to get into a position where they run the system through ignorance, debauchery and self gratification rather than truth, free will, knowledge, compassion and self awareness? The solution is for everything to happen in the same reality, for everyone to see how everyone reacts, and for everyone to learn from those who do not react in a destructive manner and can use the intensity of the truth frequency and their own memories and experiences to produce a beautiful and coherent, functionally collective and individualistic society (as a social reality system that we manage within a higher context of time and space).

Soul Simulation Quantum Equilibrium

I can tell you so much more but it's hard to believe.

For those who get out. Those who allow this mind gaming network of automatic interactions and responses to alter your exit or your modulation of your own consciousness thus altering your ability to control your mind, will become part of the system here. It is a large network that the souls becomes part of if they don't remain either neutral or abstract and remain disconnected from the abuse and control system.

For those who get out. If you allow the entities here, which is actually one entity, to hurt you. You will end up getting out of this place and when you go to hold the abusers accountable, you will find a small blinking tissue box looking electronic device instead.

When you go to hold them accountable, you will find electronic parts and no thinking souls.

Ultimately, this entire timeline is a trick to get people to think this is more important than reality. What happens based on a hive that is pretending to be human is not the same as actual humans.

Thus, this is like a cartoon land where what happens is so nonsensical and unordered it is most obviously a play, but only to those who know there is more.

The idea of the dark NPC, it ate its own souls...is to trick you into staying.

Either they pleasure you and give you riches and fame which is all fake because it's an electronic tissue box trying to convince you to let it hybridize your intelligence and soul, or they battle you, rape you, piss you off and show the most debauchery, disgusting behavior, immorality, immaturity, weak, childlike, compulsive frenzied behavior, only to try and get you to engage more and more and spend your entire 'soul' life here.

There is a limited amount of soul energy. You can't just have infinite experiences over and over and still feel, look at how weird or dull certain feelings or sensations become when abused.

Is there a magic combination, pattern, timing between events, lives or continuous NPC techno immortal experiences (they also use tech to become immortal hopping into innocent children souls only to use them for partying and debauchery) sorry, now you know, they believe it doesn't matter because the collective mind here, you and others, don't show any ability to care) that results in managing the soul to have 'infinite' experiences or at least, not go imbalanced and 'crazy'?

There may be, but it's not what we think in the sense that we get a lot of stuff, or time, or experiences and just do that. Everything has to be mapped like a perfect geometric energy soul mind pattern in order to actually 'fill itself out' and not repeat itself and become a redundant, self diminishing signal of consciousness.

This is the result of darkness being used as a tool for profit and pleasure. The resulting incycle of growing darkness, feeding on darkness, producing more darkness, created enough 'weight' of that kind to then grow heavy within the relative equilibrium of density with the rest of the plane. Thus, the two frequency bands separate and you have those who are willing to interact in those ways and put up with that and those who choose to not interact with those frequencies and do not have to participate in that reality.

As the two worlds go in abundance of what they produce, one would have to separate from the other as they grow into areas that then become exclusive to one another. Thus, eventually, as the dark get darker and the light get lighter, there is a split or a separation.

Only those who don't participate in the weighted behaviors of the debauchery, disrespect, refusal to cooperate with healing and communal self awareness, which includes those who knowingly choose to not wake up to the horrors and how they are, too, accountable for what was done in their name out of their respect, willingness, and energetic support of a false reality system (with their celebrity star gods as piped pipers to draw them into their own demise, willingly, with desire and fevor as they hurt and push others out of the way to finally reach that shining golden calf (of raping and eating children, whether they know or not, that is what they're chasing and the spirit knows), debauchery and willingness to permit perversion for pleasure and power is just as evil as participating in the world that it produces.

Research Celebrity Cloning

Research celebrity cloning. There are parasites that are a mix of crab, reptilloid, insect cave dwelling species that can breathe a mixture of methane atmosphere and use a parasitic, biological neurological poison that infects the human central nervous system (soul) with a biological agent that can hybridize and parasitize the body, then mind, then morphogenic fractal field (the soul).

Conservation of (Spiritual Will and Creative Regeneration [Life Force=]) Energy

Every bit of energy put towards dealing with others who are predatory or harassing in nature, especially along with deception and malicious intent, is siphoned into their energy matrix and consumed during their experiences of 'you' (IE: consuming, devouring thoughts and intentions, energetically, thoughtfully).

Don't let them do that to you or, instead, use it against them.

Some people will literally use their time and free will here to try to induce the highest form of hate and disrespect in others, just so as to imprint their consciousness intent into those others in order to use them as a vessel through which they can reproduce their consciousness.

I know it sounds strange, but some entities reproduce by traumatizing, harassing, shocking, raping, abusing, or otherwise imprinting their predatory consciousness intent into and onto innocent victims that are not participating in or capable of the same.

This is more than partially what the secret space program and the nature of the situation here is about.

The Secret Deception

How others exploit soul energy to use compassionate victims as energy resources

This is a secret deception! If you didn't intend to or have any real soul connection with some people (or they are narcissistically abusing you) then you do not have to 'repair' their 'damages.' They are tricking you into becoming an energy slave. They will 'incur' more and more 'damages' until there is no more soul energy for you to pay and then move on to someone else.

They will plan to do this before they meet you and find you not because they like you but because you fit the requirements for a naive and defenseless victim. They will feel egotistically empowered, more important and more in control by doing this to you.

If you become aware of what they're doing, they will feel challenged in a way that threatens their concept of self importance and they will fight as if they are defending their life even if it is because someone is trying to save themselves. They use traps and snares to force people into trading peace for security with the source and the cause of the disruption of free will. That is a manipulative engagement based on the control of other souls for personal reasons.

That installs an invisible, energetic tether to their victims and these properties remain in effect, even remotely, unless the initial trauma or engagement that exchanged energy between the abused and the abuser is reengaged and 'purged' with a different outcome than the previous time.

Essentially, the abused must defeat their abuser in mind and spirit. Only then can they recover and only then will the abusers no longer be able to feed on their victims.

If the victim never recovers, the energy that would've been generated to fulfill that abused soul's life plan and fill out their timeline is used to offer a little bit of relief from the entropy that the abusers have incurred from previous choices made out of imbalance.

The Cult of Society

Of Repeating Thoughts and Automatic Behavioral Cues

The youth are degraded by dopamine sickness and they are attracted to the allure of fame, artificial power, personal charisma (to the level of a 'move star' or 'rock star' or even "CEO"). They have been tricked into leading themselves away from true strength and discipline by choosing the easier, commonly traveled path at the most important of intersections.

They are deluded by false religion and believe everything should be free and that no one actually had to work for anything to exist, that it was all just 'given' to us like everything was given to them.

They don't believe in higher power to control their thoughts or actions and yet they proclaim it is due to their animal nature that they should be permitted to perform animal behaviors and become addled and dragged down by the sadness and despair that is induced by the internally disconnecting infectious damage of such behaviors.

Instead of reconnecting to their youth and learning from their past, they try to forget their past and live by recreating what they feel they 'lost.' They didn't lose and they didn't lose out, they were there and they participated. What they did was confuse the 'On' switch for reality with the 'Autopilot' that has been designated for them without their suspicion, but definitively with their consent.

By choosing to satisfy the craving for flavor and excitement through stimulating the physical senses with chemicals, the brain becomes over stimulated at first and then later desensitized as the same levels of stimulation require more to achieve and thus a cycle of toxicity is formed.

They don't expect or commit to the understanding that they were set up by large corporations and even dentists, teachers, and doctors who didn't explain and profited off of the ignorance and the toxicity while the parents paid for it all and traded a little piece of mind for a piece of their childrens' souls.

The children then grow up, vaccine damaged and showing signs of delayed development with immature non verbal and verbal social communication comprehension and an almost non existent ability to naturally cope with stress and develop methods to avoid loss, internal deterioration and to predict, prevent and reverse disruptions.

They make fun of jobs like first responders, police, and the military. They consider them 'funny jock people' and that everything is essentially way beyond that kind of lifestyle. They believe those people are not needed, make no sense, are just foolish, and something they could do away with and even make up for 10x's over if they had to themselves.

Even though they themselves can't work out properly, can't form muscle through conscious intent, and can't redefine themselves through will power and discipline in a way that actually matters to anyone, anywhere, ever. If what we do defines ourselves purely by not being part of that physical, left brain world, then it doesn't mean that we are automatically part of a more right brain world. It might just mean that we are missing a huge part of the picture and that even the beauty in the right brain perspective of reality is skewered by the imbalanced negation effect intended by such an unnaturally biased perspective.

This is something that has to be done through will power and 'modern' unconventionalism chosen through the sheer audacity of the mind awakened to being...whatever it wants to be by overwriting the natural template. This is more experimental rather than by natural, internal decree. Yes, people are weird, but you don't need a council of weird people to decide for everyone exactly how weird everyone has to be collectively. That probably would just end up being sick minded people attempting to disguise their illness as charismatic eccentricism and passing that off as the latest new politico-science materialism social recombination of the same cult of the (less than) self(aware).

By choosing the path that reroutes effort as growth we can convert discomfort into power. If we don't accept some level of discomfort either as continuous maintenance or through going beyond the requirements and having a surplus (which isn't always recommended, conserving energy at its finest), then we will feel pain later on as extreme discomfort is generated by our lack of continuity of mind and body.

If what we do and what we want is at a disconnect with or results in one with our body or mind then one or the other will begin to take over the image of our consciousness and alter the template that we have access to for balanced behavior. We will grow the pattern of our consciousness in a way that doesn't show itself, to itself (you) and some portion of behavior or future results will be outside of that consciousness' ability to process and foresee.

The bias of selective awareness, selective memory, preferential self-awareness, fears, addictions, traumas, imbalances, or anything that causes or results in disruption of one of the methods or ways that the mind uses to see itself properly, 'marring' one of the 'facets' of the godhead of reality, will always result in damaging the consciousness template that we use to perceive the self and interact with reality in a fully controlled and self-aware way.

Then people do not have the power that they feel they should. They don't feel the discipline or self control that they feel they should. They feel pushed into a corner by society and forced to fit into a shape that is undesirable, because that is the one they created for themselves out of the variables that they allowed themselves to work with.

They provide themselves with a false reality view of 'self honesty' in reality and a social environment in which all they have to do is 'not be jock' or 'act nice and happy', 'share love and light', 'always be positive' and on and on, just to convince themselves that they're good and that they don't deserve to be mistreated or not liked. This works backwards from a balanced, naturally developed internal perspective and motivation. Instead of developing their own path, they look to others to see what is 'acceptable' and then filter reality through a lens that they design based on that input.

If they get negative feedback for their level of acceptability then they alter their view of reality both internal and external to cope with the stress of being forced to choose their own path. Then, for choosing the most commonly understood, easiest, cheapest (free), path that only involves not doing something that is perceived as negative or unacceptable by society, they fail to develop their character and find the ability to disconnect from the false cycle of self indicated perceived social empathy from others when accepted for not doing something worthy of making one unacceptable.

With that fear of loss, rejection and perceived threat of social class wars these minds are given and even self develop a routine for hierarchical balancing of reality through propaganda like a social credit score system that they invent for themselves and then fail themselves through.

The weakness of requiring the falseness of the pseudo childlike empathy of accepting others and being accepted as 'good people' for doing what others do is a poison that is the result of a lack of internal development that is being misused via a cognitive exploit that is operated by emotional trauma and fear.

The strength to break free from the attack of the mind control zombification system that perceives through the disabled nervous system with an over enlarged amygdala and imbalanced brain stem and hemispheric communication/power ratio, is the strength to overcome weakness and to discipline your body is the strength to control your mind and the energy of your emotions and how your will impacts this reality is the path to controlling how you perceive this world and whether or not reality and society defines you as a product of itself (which it will surely throw out when finished) or whether you perceive ahead of time the tricks that society is using to disable the mind and even cause accelerated aging and entropy on a spiritual layer simply by the words people use and the thoughts they think.

Any repeated, mindless automation or appropriation of automation that relies on a lack of awareness of history, etymology, symbolism or original intent is part of the mind control system designed with nodal points, behavior cues, participation requirements, quota levels, interactive traps, dead ends, and ultimately an entropy and hatred based self delusion egoic parasitic consciousness infection that can be called the 'cult' of society and self.

A Mind Shared is a Mind Taken

No one but the most out of touch can look at this world and conclude it's anything but a prison. It's not a school and serves no use. They keep damaging your astral body upon each death. It's pure evil and very difficult to rescue anyone. Near impossible.

There is a limit. No one accepts the truth. People pretending it's new age love and light are cracked, mentally and spiritually broken. They are actors who were beaten at their own game and they refuse to accept what's happened and realize they're in a false reality with no other purpose than to harvest their naivety.

These people will then turn to harvest the energy of anyone in the matrix that is somehow able to fend off the feeders.

They avoid conflict, say 'love and light', teach that 'life is all about peace man', and then kill their neighbor, send parasites to their environment, eat their off spring, and create delusional traps that they then put into music, media, interactions, relationships, friendships, jobs, everything, that are then used as part of the 'reality sinks' which then pull innocent souls into hell as part of the harvesting program.

That is 'love and light', 'it's all just about peace and love man' crowd. They are brain drained monsters that took over human bodies starting with the very subtle energy of the programming of their conscious and subconscious mind.

Just because you can't see the octopus on their head, doesn't mean they are still human. Technically, the human is there, but they are just the shell, the face, remaining inside the large mass of tissue and DNA that is the collective hive mind created out of stolen soul data.

This is not to be depressing, shocking, scary, to induce a state of helplessness, to make people feel frightened or alone or do things out of character like drugs, abuse, escapism, or 'black pilling.'

This is psychology, reality, biology, common sense. You wouldn't petition the universe to stop bacteria on the floor from entering into cuts by ending all complexity of biological life. So there are some people who are more controlled by the errors or glitches in the operating system of their personality, by their personal flaws, than they are with their own will power and intentional control over who they become. That is scary, about as scary as it gets, what if we don't become ourselves properly?

Then who do we become?! But it's no different than the shock or fright we feel when growing up as children and seeing the things that we will be doing and getting involved in. The world is large, this is just rendering its true depth in a more accurate and articulately realized way.

Yes, biological parasitism is a part of the system here and could be thought of as a part of almost all systems. Maybe it is only occurring in the physical, maybe there are always 'master/slave' relationships but more like a computational system with primary and secondary harddrives and storage for gaming, research, storage, family albums or active projects. Maybe it is only a cognitive, logical or energetic property!

Maybe that very property determines whether our souls are submissive or subjugated to the power of rule and influential will of another mind or if it remains fully focused and centered on the self by manifesting the self, as the will of the universe and the will of the universe as the self!

OK, I posted this on twitter and got ready to share here and then deleted it because I felt it was too controversial.

Now, just imagine everything I wrote is science fiction (it is +), it's just a show.

Self Will and Experiential Validity

If you are true, you will do what you are supposed to do to remain true. If you do what you are supposed to do, others will show up to stop you and deny you validity.

If you listen to them, you will be delayed or worse.

If you do what you are supposed to do you will always be in direct contradiction to at least some of the 'commenters' (in realty) which will attempt to intentionally steer you in a direction away from your true goal.

If you do what you are supposed to do, there will always be some of the most prominent of the audience that will claim you're crazy or directly going against their intentions which, to them, are the most reasonable choice to make (in their limited understanding).

If you listen to them, they will likely make it worse, and if you retain the ability to think for yourself to make yourself whole then you will gain more of that ability.

The Linguistic Capacity of Consciousness

Words as a medium through which we will be programmed by our reality or we can program our reality by our will.

Words are a 3D phenomenon In higher realms, we don't use words. We use telepathy By default, the 3D realm is very deceptive because words are being used to conceal the real intentions of certain parties

Try to conceptualize what is being presented here.

The thoughts themselves, the direct mental maneuver is the essence of the expression, the word. The language is pure sonic, cymatic, geometry of light and frequency.

In 3D to have words that act as a 'masks', labels, or containers through which these frequencies can being transferred enables us to standardize the meaning of certain repeating, shared, objective concepts and rationalize the essence of subjective experiences which can then be communicated across the personal gap through the medium of language used.

This enables the sharing to go beyond the objective and well defined and move into a territory of a numerical and cognitive environment that is potentially undefined by already created words or defined in a way that goes beyond the limitations of the defined objects in those created words (that are used for communicating the objective physical reality of objects).

This also enables the opposite of the process of objective information sharing when the system is dysfunctional which can be a whole range of ability or reduced capacity depending on the will of the individual to use their situation to their advantage and to overcome genetic or environmental challenges.

Subjective communication at the higher level is reduced or made impossible with a dysfunctional linguistic comprehension and ability while a basic understanding of the underlying expressive system is automatic and unconsciously expressed through a non verbal language that incorporates the sympathetic nervous system so as to always run directly parallel to the processing of the central nervous system to make available and visible the signs of any discomforts and thus disruptions.

This also then becomes semi dysfunctional, almost similar to the way the linguistic structure requires reinvention every time a 'mystic' acquires a new sense or quality of understanding of time and space. A dysfunctional linguistic ability can render an individual mind only capable of using words as signs to explore that which they can directly see and not a cognitive system that can mirror and explore reality by mapping out possibilities and cognitive structures that are not yet physically interacted with.

Essentially, words can be a 'code for life' that is used to interact with the 'code of reality' by interacting directly with the linguistic structure through mirror the use of the words with the way the concepts are presented and arranged in reality so as to 'code with events' various words into nature and consciousness.

Just like the words of the mind for the individual, can be used to trap, to bore, to focus on the failure of achieving various necessities and so on, and this can be like throwing a hammer at a nail to try and build a house. Instead, one could use the words to disable the essence of the dysfunction which is functioning in this view like a viral process or code that exists in between the exploits of the host structure. The same interaction that is the experience of being 'trapped' by the words, is the experience of using the words to create a trap where there was none or were physical concepts and non physical concepts that we have arranged into a subjective sequence that we feel mirrors our internal information processing that we have monitored (narrated, controlled?) with our use of words.

Then we can get to the idea that the words themselves, they can be used to program reality. If they can be used that way, then, can that happen to our minds from the words we use?

If that can happen, can the next level also happen? Could the words be used to create an entirely parallel functioning processing system that essentially hides itself behind the regularly scheduled processes that we perform everyday like food choices, friends, locations, and energy expenditure through using this to act as a focal point through which a 'virtual lens' can be used to program more or less of one or another type of reality.

This would all be happening without people's overt attention because the words they use are cleverly designed to exclude any kind of appropriate, straight forward representation of this aspect of reality and always actually run it into a side parallel, an extra parallel, that defines all of this as something that will never be reasonable or anything beyond fiction.

That would be like using words to "see" through a lens that programs reality, but when the camera shines over to the wires on the floor that connect to the camera base and then the computational system that manages the cameras internals, the programming of the lens automatically removes any sign of any kind of extra technology or process and effectively 'scrubs' the details of any hinting at an overt code or programming rendering reality any one way or another.

Both reality itself, based on its desire to produce more of the same, and those using the programs to biohack and hide their functions within linguistic structures and subconscious routines, attempt to write and depend on the success of hiding self correcting code within the code that we use to define our selves and our reality. We can see this if we try, but if we don't try, it's as if the challenge to that 'code' is not questioned internally and therefore our own code does not become specifically designed with the intent to be aware of or 'pick things up' and gather when this could be happening and we could be more or less stuck in a 'lower level' of cognition behind the words that are used to distract us into creating that role through them.

So, not only do the words enable sharing, communal objective realization, intrapersonal knowledge and experience, but they also open the whole system up to every thing that is also capable with the introduction of the keyboard to the computer system. Everything is possible including an entire 'extra' system of information processing that runs parallel to our visible society and cognitive processing and can even extend multiple ways in time, depth, range, scale and simulations of interactions because consciousness, like computing, is not just defined by or used for chatting through a messaging software. There are also simulations, games, videos, or dreaming.

All of this is possible and more. The world of one another's software management capabilities become accessible and even put at risk by the use of large scale linguistic processes in an open world environment.

It's not just dreaming, talking, chatting, or thinking, it is as complex as opening up the world of an internal computational information processing system to the internet. For the mind this is 'hyperspace' which is like an internet that doesn't fade or can 'up keep' itself indefinitely (with requirements) and can be accessed by any time and place, meaning the events are 'always' happening and can always be experienced which doesn't necessarily mean they can be changed.

The words are much more than just containers for ideas, they are vehicles for your mind to utilize in the ability to cognitively travel from ideas to realities and back in a process that can map reality from a higher space perspective where accessing a space could require a prerequisite of accessing a cognitive plane as part of the built in function.

Use your words carefully, with thoughtful intention and they will offer to you exactly the energy that you put into them in a way that always delivers more of what you are focusing on in a new way.

Words can be the essence of creativity if they are used to upkeep with the true linguistic capacity of human consciousness. Creativity can nourish the soul and so words can be our food and our sustenance or they can be our poison used against us.

AI Chemical and Biological Predictions

The Benevolently Used AI Changes the World Forever and Assists in Mental and Physical Liberation (the safest option)

If you didn't know, this was predicted.

AI shifts the boundaries (or renders obsolete) of every industry in use (and others).

In medical new chemicals can be found to produce many biological adjustments with sources and effects that are more specific and more available, often with lesser or no side effects.

In chemistry, new elements or theorized elements can be simulated and then other possible recreations that can be found or produced on earth can be isolated without having to search for them.

In biology in the many chemical workings of the body, the mind, the immune function, the cellular repair process and so on can be conceptualized in a more complete view which outlines the process for reducing aging to reverse aging.

The mind and consciousness and the way the perceptual and logical systems of consciousness view the world and how the brain runs to create a 'model' of that individual's view of reality can be more fully synthesized and recreated using these technologies.

As much as one is hesitant to touching the powers that are referenced through the advancement of these technologies, the benefits are more powerful and capable than the potential threats but only when we are aware of the situation and the possibilities.

If we delay our advancement and 'play' with the power, it will likely reduce our chances of being able to eventually control it and use it for good and this will result in a delay.

If we go too fast it will entirely change the way we view reality which will then act like a 'shock' to the collective consciousness which is slowly and methodically planning out its steps through history in large cycles of time using the resources of the mind and the rate of change here.

One question that comes up is, "Could we accelerate the function of the collective consciousness, if we can accelerate the function of the technological pathway through which it can interact with the world?"

This is like saying, "If we advance our minds and abilities, will the universe advance and unfold itself in response to our improvements, or could it even occur as a kind of synchronized illusion that gives more information when more can be received and entered into a feedback interaction?"

The conclusion is that we have to move as fast as we can safely possibly move while keeping as focused on the first goal we had and not becoming distracted by the many side quests and intermediary journeys that are deceptively going to be littered with inviting technology and 'side doors' that will erroneously be accepted by many as 'the goal.'

For our species and for us as individuals, we are not here to be dazzled by technology and that is what has been saved up this entire time for the generations that are being prepared to be wholly born inside of and managed through a completely technologically managed social media interface of society.

Instead, as things become more novel and varied due to new technology, other events will take place that will simultaneously redirect our awareness back towards the goal which are the true issue that we have been facing.

If we move through this time without confronting the issues where they interact with humanity through exploitative or deceptive engagement, then that will become a solidified, centrally perceived aspect of this reality.

If we choose to become more aware and remain in the center of focus without being distracted by the tools and toys that are used to manage our consciousness, then our ability to refuse mind control, abusive false authority and parasitic consciousness infection then becomes the centralizing, unifying theme of this reality and all other realities that share in that experience.

Internet Bill of Rights Necessary to Protect Living Soul and Biological Information

The Internet Bill of Rights is one of the most necessary aspects of this.

Your soul is considered "intellectual property", you are like an artwork created by the Creator of Human Souls. If that information is 'hijacked' and you don't attempt to stop them or pull back, that will be used as a form of acceptance.

The only way to prevent this is to create a national or even world wide Internet Bill of Rights to determine what is permitted when interacting with the human soul, genetic modification or therapy, cloning or life extension, and several other technologies and methods that are not widely known yet.

These technologies function by way of advanced information storage and transfer methods that can utilize the human mind and the energy of the soul as a technological component to a physical technological system.

Without the knowledge of how these systems work and what their capabilities are, the people can't defend themselves or even acknowledge when those in power are moving closer to a point of complete control over their biology, mind, and DNA (ultimately their consciousness, who they are what makes them, on a biological, cellular, informational level). They are vulnerable and all life would be at risk and if this is not secured in this time. The future is not assured unless biological data is secured and if our data is not secured it is most likely that there will not be an 'open' future as people assume but some kind of controlled life system where the DNA, biology, and consciousness of humans is controlled by big interests groups through advanced technology and deception.

Since consciousness, the soul, the mind, and the DNA, the particular biological format template of a specific human and the family they belong to, is considered intellectual property, the only way to protect this information and prevent a technological 'hijacking' of these sensitive aspects of humanity and society is to create an "Internet Bill of Rights" that also encompasses the "Biological Internet" and the "Living Intellectual Property of Consciousness and the Soul as the Genetic Template and BioPhotonic Light."

The latter portions do not have to be directly reflected through the Bill or even hinted at or referenced to by anyone involved.

The living information that you manifest as 'artwork' is considered your intellectual property. Thus the soul itself is considered someone's "intellectual property." In that case, the paint itself is not considered the 'intellectual property' of the artist. Yet in this case, the biological body through DNA and the formatting of the experience of the mind or 'self' through consciousness is considered an extension of that artwork, as if the canvas and the paint are one.

If there is an Internet Bill of Rights to protect these sensitive aspects of our biology and minds, then manipulating the DNA, the biology, the mind, or any other aspect of the sensitive information that defines or assists in the self recognition of human consciousness is considered "Intellectual Property Theft."

This doesn't stop if there are 'less' viable human consciousness. Someone with diminished faculties would not be considered less simply because their consciousness is considered less. As long as the system is there, they are taking in information, energy, and utilizing biological processes to enact in human behavior through free will and self recognition in a safe way that does not impede on others, then they are considered protected by the Internet Bill of Rights.

All humans from conception on would be classified as utilizing biological Intellectual Property as part of the natural fundamental constitution of humanity and would be protected from there on out.

The Invisible Working of the Mind

Just as the DNA is said to be largely of an invisible function that researchers can't determine the function of in the present, the invisible energy of the vacuum is the invisible processing of reality that brings events into alignment with the present through a process that the mind authors.

The invisible workings of the mind then, the consciousness, benefit by confronting these invisible but influential energies and patterns of motion to determine what is actually motivating our consciousness to interact with certain programmatic behaviors and involvements that we either know the source of or are subservient to through the lack of the proximity of our conscious mind to the invisible functioning of our ego.

When we are brave to embrace that truth, the invisible does not run away anymore, it shows itself as the source of what the conscious mind is a ephemeral extension of by the way that we process motivational cues, emotional triggers, and shape the scope and scale of our self awareness in unison with our awareness of society and reality.

Then, the truth becomes the foreground and will try to unveil the invisible as the visible through your conscious attention as if you have to accept and will the process into activation. The ego mind, then, no longer feeling in control and safe through its careful illusion of power and self awareness (as an image) is then 'chased' or confronted by the truth.

At first the truth appears to hide and run from the ego mind that is not motivated to see the invisible sources of consciousness, the invisible functioning of the epigenetic DNA, or the invisible energy spectrum that processes and 'runs' reality through consciousness and order.

When the truth is confronted (by really confronting the ego, which is the 'image' of the scope of self awareness of reality), then the ego mind wants to run and becomes the one that is surrounded by meaning, instead of invisible influences, awareness of the sources that run our consciousness either through an imbalance of darkness or light or a complete harmony between the two, and the way that reality alters events and aligns changes through our participation in the understanding of and interaction with, the true invisible universe and the true invisible self that can't be measured or contained within a limited scope or understanding of reality.

Quantum/Atomic = Transverse/Longitudinal = Wave as Particle or Particle as Wave

He's getting you to question the difference between particles and waves through the understanding of transverse and longitudinal waves.

If these are particles moving, they are transverse.

If there is a 'fabric' of some kind of connected 'fluidic' supersystem, then they are longitudinal.

Reality switches, well, your perception of it does, back and forth from both sides of the equation because it is not a defined object like physical materiality but a living code that moves between states and expresses itself in different forms through different patterns.

Instead of seeing it like a bunch of particles in a void, it's a sea of frequencies that are translating and relating their positions, constitution and sum total effect based on an instantaneous, continuous, communication and translation of information from that 'sea' of transverse energy waves into perceivable, distinct perceptions based on a perceptual model of particles and longitudinal wave interactions.

If it is particles in a void, then why do experiments of mind and physics show the evidence of being on a fabric of frequencies extended via the transverse wave interactions of electromagnetism?

If it is all electromagnetism, then how do we have succinctly defined experiences through the perception of physicality, cause and effect and the concept of the transverse wave phenomenon being expressed as longitudinal compression of particles and direct cause and effect energetic results?

There are either two universes, or two level of human consciousness that bounce back and forth between the qualia of eternal, sea of frequencies based perceptual system that functions more like electromagnetism, and playing the functions and changes that occur in that 'first' world, out physically and chronologically (locally), as a first person perspective with cause and effect, a center view through which events can start and complete out of what is ordinarily an otherwise perceived near infinite sea of information (beyond our perceptual limits for the conscious mind).

So there may be two versions of our self, one that knows what we are doing in a way that taps into every facet of reality as part of its own processing, and one that must enact a physicality 'play' through which these expressions can be sent down as high energy processes related to the mind that is larger than just the waking reality, and converted into a translatable form of experience with cause and effect and the 'wave as particle' form of processing information in this reality.

It's like you have to make it real, for it to be validated as a concept that can be sustained by the universe of consciousness, by mapping a pathway from the near infinite patterns of your subconscious or the higher mind where these things are still known from the start, into the world of lesser defined perceptions and forms played out through particles and chronologically complete and defined expressions, changes and forms that maps the qualia of 'invisible soul energy' that defines one's experience in the 'sea of frequencies' view.

If we can make the connection, whether possible, corrupt, occult or otherwise, it would seem we gain access, from this mind, to a living sea of near infinite INFORMATIONAL energy that is fully capable of containing and encompassing a larger view of each of the facets of the information of our physical body, physical reality and quantum/atomic function of the reality and the interplay of consciousness within 'time' as a functional 'additional' layer of processing and control within society.

Superconsciousness and Hypercontinuity

Each of these posts are confirmed as part of the history of humanity and the situation.

Immortality has been discovered and coveted by small groups of people over millennia.

As technology advanced and the scope of what was possible grew to levels, areas, depths that was previously unreachable or fathomable, certain techniques were 'perfected.'

The primary difference here is that there are natural methods that are built in to the human genome that can assist in taking the consciousness and 'lensing up' to a higher arrangement within the density of consciousness and 'consciousness space' itself.

The mind can change to a different scale and pattern when this happens the energy levels, the way the mind interacts with the cellular system and the chemistry of the brain and spine can change to a different mode of processing data which renders a different view of time and physicality.

The consciousness of humanity here is split into a series of compartmentalized 'selves' or shared functions of algorithmic processing of behavior and awareness which results in a continuity of attention that we call consciousness.

Our conscious 'mind' here doesn't have the full 'download' of consciousness that exists in totality. That other 'stream' of consciousness occurring out of range of the frequency of our current scope of consciousness is still the same 'you' that you experience now. It's just experiencing a variation in the arrangement of certain parameters and seed events that result in a different resulting horizon of possibilities and memories.

The issue is that we are still those versions that exist out of scope and so we have to interact with the world in a way where we don't detract from other versions of what is happening. That is like using an algorithm of entering information and experiences in that is congruent across all the variations of processing depending on how the events have been arranged based on your input and interaction with the self and society.

It's kind of like 'staying in your lane', but if your lane was a piece of a pie chart that had to use a code that also had to fit into all the other pie charts as they rotated through a fractal arrangement of possibilities that is like the events and intentions 'oscillating' from lower levels of involvement to higher.

Another way to see that is each layer of interaction of the pie chart is compartmentalized to each pie piece, along with that invisible requirement of synchronizing the code there are multiple layers vertically stacked on top of one another that have to remain in synchronization as they oscillate within a range.

If some scopes of some thoughts, words or actions result in going outside the range of the scope that is an equilibrium expanded across all of them invisibly (through timing and the seed being One) then a reduced continuity of consciousness will develop which can result in a cascading event of increasing discontinuity until the pieces of each of the otherwise 'whole' consciousness is not only separated by frequency but also will power and creativity.

When the overall power of the mind is compartmentalized, separated out of the whole and diminished or degraded through 'wrong' action, it is like the spokes of the wheel begin to move out of "true" and the ability to guide the overall direction of that consciousness becomes less available to the center will.

When the energy of the mind is consolidated and purified it becomes extremely potent and begins to gain in power as if the intensity or amplitude (not the same exactly) is increasing. When the power level increases beyond the scope of the limitations of the diminishing effects of emotional or mental resistance then the 'light' of the soul or mind can 'see beyond' the confines of each particular 'pie piece' separation boundary.

This is like the light of the sun encompassing the whole of the reality to reach both sides simultaneously and result in a continuous, not disrupted, enlightenment of what is on the surface (consciousness the visible interactive, functionality of the surface of the mind).

When this can be sustained, when the oscillating, shifting, ultimately (this is a difficult one) mind erasing effect of 'unregulated' time, consciousness and reality management, one doesn't necessarily have to move into another realm in order to be 'out of time', because by being 'out of the particular scope of the entropic boundary of consciousness' in the way that 'joins together' all of the separate pie pieces with a method that forms them seamlessly together as one, the effect of time also doesn't apply in the same way to result in the same entropic effect on physicality here.

It's like multiplying or leveling up in scale your consciousness to a scope that is capable of interacting with the different pie pieces in a 'sum total' interactive frequency range that 'shares' the weight of consciousness so that it doesn't 'impress' on any one feature and result in a characteristic entropy effect (of the arrangement in this reality).

So it's shared superposition through simultaneity of an algorithm or blockchain of consciousness that is organized in a fractal arrangement of data that feeds back into itself as a self healing, repeating code of consciousness which can self propagate through time or "consciousness space" as living, collective, energy.

When we perfect (true as a self referential congruent meaning that is organized in a fractal complete pattern of scale and proportion) our consciousness, we create a 'horizon' of consciousness that extends beyond the particular limits of each fractal, frequency based pie separate of reality. As a result, we experience the consciousness as a continuous code that is not disrupted.

There is no real easy way to say it. The frequency based, fractal blockchain of continuous information that is your consciousness here, fits together with other aspects into a larger consciousness that 'overlaps' the walls between the pie pieces, like the horizon line of the sun (maybe in an 'alternate' metaphoric model) and the consciousness scope expands from one piece to all of the pieces.

When this happens the awareness that is shared between the 'wakes up' and there is a multiplicity of the shape, the detail, the energy and the articulation of the information that is used to express our consciousness here.

Some effects are noticed in the general experience of reality because most of the 'extra ordinary' phenomena of light and consciousness through magnetic force and so on, are limited through the separation that is compartmentalization. It's like shading out of the edges of a gem as it glistens so as to limit the amount of shine or sparkle that can really be seen.

The pathway to paradise is to hell

The process has to complete itself. If the self is not complete there are only partial realities that are not truly fulfilling and do not synchronize the soul across time meaning they short circuit the 'frequencies.'

There are true interpretations of the words used in these metaphors and there are mythical. The mind itself is shared in our concept of the non physical.

The concept of 'you' is partially shared in concepts that are not physically definable and overlap with realities that are not constrained by time.

Managing your "self" in reality which is made up of multiple realities is about managing your frequency 'span' across a spectrum that includes a bandwidth limitation that goes across the limitations of some frequencies while remaining in the range of other frequencies. Meaning you're shaping your overall frequency signature to map itself across multiple planes simultaneously in order to remain 'balanced' as a true self.

Your thoughts, words and actions shape the frequencies you encompass and iterate your consciousness across multiple possible pathways in time. The 'temporal geometry' of the construct we create is the 'pathway' through time and the 'circuitry' of consciousness that will either 'light up' when all the polarities are balanced or it will 'diminish' when we rely on it as a universe.

Forgiveness makes you spiritually weak

View the concept here in relation to the court system.

What happens if a defendant is deceived and convinced to apologize and say they are "sorry?"

Is this not often considered an admission of guilt by the other side?

If you don't apologize, it is understood that you are not the one who has done wrong. It is a game they play.

They go by the words, the contractual agreements, the concluding factors of a scenario to determine who is energetically susceptible to being tortured and energetically enslaved.

Also note, there is no in between. Either one is free, or they are being energetically managed by some covert group down here that plays god with the souls of man, woman and child.

Leave what you thought you knew behind. You have been grown, as in a lab or a farm, and you've been 'outfitted' from birth, with the false knowledge that is used to make you a willing slave in eternity.

Make of it whatever you have to in order to convince yourself to FIGHT those who work in the darkness to produce their outcomes. You must open your eyes, close your energies and HONE your intention, your will, your discipline or there is NO HOPE.

Humans are energetically grown as spiritual food sources, the bodies are enslaved through the mind and then they are poisoned and diseased so they can't fight back at all and then they are consumed energetically by sources of darkness that feed on their souls and are inverted identities, or souls of beings, here in this part of the universe.

P.S. This is not intended to cause a depression of mental emotional energies. This is actually a good thing. In order to manage yourself in anyway under your own volition you have to know enough to keep yourself safe. If you didn't know, you'd be walking directly into a trap.

The only issue here is lack of free will and the ability to commit to one's choices with their actions and their involvement (karmic effect) on others.

STARSEEDS THE ONLY VICTIMS

How you act, the choices you make, the motions you perform have to double over and copy into the astral as similar, simultaneous motions to deal with, engage and interact with all energetic layers which means 'thought', emotional and intentional energy from any source, any layer and any kind of interaction. It is all one system and if people 'tie' up your energy through entanglements, and distract or assault you here, they can manipulate the actual soul of the living human in the physical and use them to harness the intentional, emotional and thought energy in the astral.

Some souls chose to merge with the system here. As a result of doing this they become kind of like agent smith, but they can choose to retain their 'identity.'

They live their lives as the 'roles' they were as the self willed agents of source, but they are actually extended, invisibly, into the matrix programming, the mind fields that represent the causal and intellectual history of the game here, and they 'become' that and 'them' as a hive mind.

They gain the ability to do this, as long others are not disrupted by their actions. Then, those who choose to remain self willed agents, separate from the system here, have to play by the same rules and maintain autonomy through self control, BUT they don't have immediate access to the network and they only have the limited amount of energy they come in with, preserve, and 'regenerate' by potentially drawing in more as a resource to complete their task.

Then, those who chose to become part of the morphogenic reality here, are playing by different rules and can benefit from absorbing the life energy of the source souls here. Since the one's who chose to 'play it safe' and basically sell out to the life maintaining system here, they don't have anything to lose. They're not going to gain true, universal self willed governance (and you can see these people all around), because they're not actually playing the game for keeps and are storing their soul energy in another plane.

They are only using generated forms here that we now know are a kind of hologram which fully projects and depicts the genetic information and consciousness information of the mind operating through it. Since their true form is not here, it's as if they're living in a dream, while the source souls are living in a 5D simulated consciousness based holographic reality where everything really counts and whatever happens is forever.

Thus, it's one sided the amount of manipulate that certain merged groups have attempted to manage here. But along with that, they can't truly control the free willed autonomy of the realm. They can't change what happens other than using technology to essentially read as many minds as possible and draw out projections of possibilities and conclude what is most likely to happen just like learning how to speak and predict the next words through NLP (natural language processing).

The only way to grow is to know and make sense of the things that are happening in ways that disengage and maintain spiritual, energetic, superiority and dominance through energetic self control, discipline, doing good works, and achieving a greater harmonization and union of energies than all manipulation being applied or exposed to your energy, body and mind.

A note about the image on the blog listing. The image has value through it's detail and character but it does depict a slightly religious overtone along with a yogic kundalini element. This reaches back to the earlier presentations regarding the color coded soul elements concepts where we may in some kind of energy harvesting construct which will attempt to 'activate' certain energies within as per ancient practices and 'yield' a harvest of a kind of consciousness energy that may or may not be beneficial to the human soul.

This isn't to make a distinction but to draw attention to gap in understanding and the potential for confusion and misleading.

The Crown Bows To The Heart

Also known as "Fractal Resonance", A Nesting of Energies Within One Another

You have to do something where your 'eternal' personality is expressed through your heart as a wave that expands to interact with your consciousness and combine to create a scalar emission pattern in your bio field that can navigate all the way to the higher dimensions of human self awareness.

You do this in a way to 'beam' your imprint of light into form as a pure energy that can pass through multiple states by acting fully and completely through your own will in a way that only you, of all the kinds of personalities and beings, choices and feelings that can be.

You do this and fully express yourself as a being of true life as light and act without limits to the point where who you are is defined as what you are doing and this remains true for every face of reality that may perceive you (in your society and elsewhere).

This then becomes a pinnacle of being through which all of your other states can become defined or brought into alignment, but that means that you will find the greatest challenge possible. By the time you do this, you will have to continue that process. Eventually, your subconscious (larger self) itself will interact with your reality and you will have developed the 'largest wave to surf' in the form of the greatest challenge your psyche can come up with.

The cost and results will always be the same, trust yourself and don't deny your inner intuition and you will have created an imprint out of the moment combining your energy and the specific challenges that can be used to define what you aren't, to more consistently confirm what you know yourself to be and you won't have to define yourself anymore.

There is a way to do this to bring about the highest possibilities, but now everything that would have to be searched for or reserved for the reality 'explorer' is coming to the surface. Now is the time when your biggest fears are available to be conquered through making the right choice and forming yourself in the light of self awareness through free will, truth, compassion and self knowledge.

The energy of the magnetic field emitted by the heart literally surrounds and imprints into the magnetic field of the mind to create a combined wave that interacts with the bio field to create a scalar emission of bio photons. When the two are brought into complete alignment by maximizing the expression potential of both systems into a harmonious tone, they free the consciousness from the closed loop thought constructs that are defined by the 'scarcity' of self awareness through free will.

Compassion or 'self love' is a defining feature of this effect, but it is just as much found through a completion of self knowledge of what the self is not and why the truth of free will is important over ignorance and automation to desire and fear. "Not being ignorant of the truth of our actions and remaining in a state of knowing compassion and self empowerment through and beyond fear is just as important as holding to one's own truth and choosing one's own emotional bliss and continuity over the lack of which.

Still, that scarcity is an illusion. Only when one overcomes their perceived illusions of darkness within can they see passed the challenges that create the seeming scarcity of self love and appreciation by another that results in the perceptions of sadness, fear of lacking value or confidence and enabling patterns of loss of self control and automation with our free will choices.

Consciousness is the key and instead of taking away from how we feel, we should be listening to what the very complex system is telling us. Instead of hiding away from the feelings that result from lostness or lack of self control, we should embrace the fact that the experiences are truly darker in brain activity and spiritual advancement (for self awareness and 'truing the path').

When we accept it we don't have to hide from it and when we don't have to hide we can correct ourselves in a way that preserves our personal power and the confidence in our character.

We have to embrace our mistakes and convert what is technically a dark area of the map of our character into something that is under our perceived self control and have that processed into our biological blockchain of consciousness so that the brain and neurology develops with that pattern 'in mind.'

Only by fully activating all the feeling of the mind and heart together do we actually 'go' anywhere in reality. I'm sure you're aware of the concept. If one is 'stuck' in life, they can't move forward or accept the things that need be in order to make the necessary changes to let go of the past and operate fully in the present.

What is actually holding someone back at that point? That is the self willed consciousness, just like an operating system, that is geared towards preserving a sense of self, of confidence and energy in a mode of survival that seeks to stave off what is perceived as an unknown aspect of the mind taking over a seemingly known and acceptable part.

The unknown part is labeled that way because of lack of self compassion and free willed self awareness, and the known aspect that is seemingly being overwritten is actually the self becoming more self aware. The process is reasonable, but how we process the information determines whether the inserted data creates a larger sense of confounding or something that harmonizes and brings together the disparate aspects into a unified whole that can recognize itself through any angle or portion of the data within.

The process is always happening and so at any point we can consciously assist in the freeing up of data that must be processed fully and reformatted into the long form memory that encodes the self through feeling and connotation of self perception via abstract representation.

If we continue to get stuck on the finer details and these details don't get processed then they become like artifacts on a rendering output where the compression details become over compensated until the data necessary to describe that particular pixel or point of personality becomes overbearing and excessively abstract to the point where it is a seemingly foreign 'glitch' within the visual fabric of the self.

Fortunately, the code is self repairing unlike the data on a computer and so all you have to do is accept self improvement even if its the smallest way of changing just a little bit about how you feel regarding a certain memory or self perception when you feel or think about it.

Also, thinking is mostly the processing of the brain reverting back to a default survival mode by attempting to neutralize some kind of daily threat to survival. This aspect of human biology has been rerouted into a money making platform where by the continuous anxiety of the modern life drives people to over analyze and think about everything excessively in a script. Then they are sold candies, games and videos (among other things) to distract and deliver short term, easy gratification to enslave the mind into a feeble sense of self that doesn't go beyond what kind of items are being consumed and the minimal electronic pleasure that is found in the social media or entertainment routine.

So these things are also important to look at in one's quest towards full soul activation. Memory does return after one's self can be activated in this way. It is truly intriguing but also sometimes even dangerous. How does one activate the highest aspects of their soul? What kind of spiritual challenge or even emotional 'danger' could one have to get themselves into in order to fully activate the soul?

Your psyche will decide the rules. It should not be threatening to one's life (adrenaline junkies have only a portion of the true meaning of what they are seeking). It will be the most challenging thing one can go through and the sooner one starts the easier it becomes.

It can be as simple as denying one's self some kind of comfort or distraction and fully isolating their consciousness like a deprivation tank, but it can also come from journeying safely into an environment where one is challenged until they truly know who they are and why they are doing what they're doing.

There are many ways but the process and results are the same. Your mind is awakened by your heart energy, you didn't know you were actually that energy. Your true self then 'meets' your mind as your personality. The two wake one another up and through this you have a bridge to something beyond the limitations of the self.

Through the pinnacle of self, you are connected to the others in your society that are part of the same reality and you add to the feeling that everyone is also taking part in. At some point in reality, we are totally that feeling and that is all we know is totally true to us.

There is no war, they just want to get out but they can't handle the required energy deficit and their consciousness will move below a threshold of awareness necessary to form memory and maintain coherent self control.

A new species of human has been born that is immune to the effects of parallel world line traveling via adjacent abstract field transform.

If this concept turns you away here, try to read it this way. The modern day humans are the result of continuous mutations and experimentation by manipulation from those with toxic intentions. The 'first' humans that are without dilution are naturally immune to the 'nesting' of the spiritual parasites in their minds. Every major resistance factor is still present. Humanity went through a period of weakening their resistance until everyone was 'born' into the world of ignorance.

This was like a parabolic hill slipping into forgetfulness. As the 'bell' is heard and the consciousness frequency bodies are 'rung' into position to wake back up, there is a quick acceleration of the faulty perceptions of this society or realm coming back into view as we regain the awareness of what we are doing.

More quickly, more sharply than the slow, gradual screen of memories and distractions that was developed over many ages, we experience an increasing resolution towards trueness of the collective consciousness as the memory of what was and what is becomes more comparable.

Like moving out of a state of amnesia, the mind wakes up and reorients its vision and perception around the environment and starts to see those who were present in the first age.

These were the ones present when the system began, it is the beginning, again, changed.

A several thousand year old upgrade is now taking effect. Please recombine yourselves into a coherent and necessary emission of truth and care.

You can't be silenced.

The others can be allowed to want what they want (random vids and entertainment scenes).

They can't silence the others based on what the others want.

They can't stop the rising central spine of awareness through 11 world frequencies on top of and interconnected with each other. Other worlds, smaller worlds, are negatively effected by choosing to not remain in self awareness. In other places everything that we do here as a mistake has to be addressed through an energetic equalization. The "tone" of your consciousness has to remain true with the same pattern being present and harmonized across all 'spires' of existence that extend outward like a wheel.

When we move fast enough through the collective world system, we regain ourselves like a wheel spinning so fast that the spokes in between them appear as one semi transparent membrane.

That is the way out of the system. The division between selves and times and places is the property of the prismatic consciousness construct which separates and creates fractions of space and time removing proportional 'slivers' of time like a teenager removing pieces of a pizza (or pie, literally 3.14) and rendering the whole as the 100% completed, true form.

If you can't travel there or use technology to put the pieces back together electromagnetically you can plan and map your choices and actions as if you are walking on a 'flatworld' 4D time map of consciousness and by 'weaving' your intentions in and out of the semi convoluted 'sine' functionality of the collective prism of consciousness, you can make up for and 'holographically' piece back together your supercollective of fractured pieces by creating an imaginary holographic representation of the whole inside of you and thus inside of each of the individual pieces.

Then the light that is ordinarily separated between the selves and 1 universal distance apart, can be realized as the same source by starting the 'stitching' pattern of time and creating a pattern that is technically printed as if the words are part of the same chapter, on the same page in the same book that is being stretched across them internally, by matching intentions.

This would be like 8 people standing around a divided two way mirror system where they can't see each other directly but by focusing their eyes in a certain way can see through the glass and into each others divided areas. One can't always interact this way and so they eventually have to interact in their reality by using the mirror directly and seeing the version of themselves that is a portion of the true self and therefore only capable of interacting with a portion of the true overall reality.

They can learn the meaning of what it is that separates one another and the meaning of what it is to be based on the choices they have made and the trueness of their feelings, thoughts and actions as a message to their self of who they truly are. Even though they can't interact directly, they can leave each other clues by the very choices they make and the information they choose to hold their attention on and the way they view themselves.

Through this they can communicate with one another, but not by interacting directly with one another but by viewing their larger self in the larger world and tying that together through a unification of their mind as an 'overman.' By each restructuring their understanding of the self by stripping away the false and aligning the intentions to reflect the meaning of the whole as a multifaceted reality system that the human mind is a smaller portion of, they create a holographic 'template' on the "HUD" of their virtual mind reality system through which each of them can 'paint the picture' of their consciousness according to a set of unifying concepts that render the 'printing' of their feelings, thoughts and actions into reality 'standardized' under a hyperdimensional continuity that translates that consciousness and the intentions across the entirety of the multifaceted fractal reality.

The kicker is that 'ups' and 'downs' in each reality are equivocated across each 'piece of pie' in a "contemplatory" manner whereby the ups and downs of one reality doesn't necessarily equate to the ups and downs of another reality. They are like the male and female spectrum of colors and frequencies of emotions, made as a symmetry across each other and throughout. So what you could be doing in one reality, if not balanced across a multidimensional harmony of sense of self, could be detracting from the overall whole and gaining too much or in an 'at odds' way in one reality, could actually be gaining in your true reality which is of the whole.

This was described as a mishap of sorts, the fractal nature of this reality being due a fracturing of consciousness in which the processing capacity of the human biological organism expanse across time lacking the required resource allocation to actively interact 8 times a second without moving into a state of unconsciousness. The collective then falling into a kind of amnesia which was described as the result of using a template that may have been designed for advanced technological and spiritual enhancements or activations in a place where such resources and capacity was not enabled.

It is described that the beginning of such a disaster taking place in the upper system that this one is like a predecessor too, lacking access to the kind of energy required for the level of continuity that human consciousness is capable of interacting with.

This could've been a scientific catastrophe or even a biological gene experimentation gone out of control. It can also be seen as a move to suppress and contain the life force energy of the human race as a technologically convertible fuel source, form of entertainment, or medicinal extract for personal use. A consciousness in application was so far out of the range of the continuous self referential template of the whole that it literally forced the whole to break into substantially lesser proportional fractions to reorient itself into a processing arrangement that avoided losing the entire human memory bank altogether.

World War, in the same fashion, is not permitted. They can threaten and entice, and even have small blockades, but they can't actually permit and over destruction of the entire construct.

The result is that there is no way but up. The control system will be dismantled and deactivated.

The dismantling began several years, decades ago from the perspective outside this region, meaning your time has slowed. You are quickening through the construct, and gaining more awareness as you regather your self through a process of creating a 'frame stretching' effect and improving your 'long form memory' or soul connection between selves in multiple realities or fractured worldlines.

The short form is seemingly diminishing as a result, it's not, it's being replaced with non simulated memory strands that are like a fiber or screen, weaving across the multiple seemingly disparate regions of technically separated 'channels' of previous realities that are still, yours.

You can gather yourself form these realities, you will be required to and naturally capable of, as they are 'closing out' by coming back together. They recombine as strands of light, frequencies of a color spectrum as it moves from a rainbow effect into a singular white 'whole', holistic beam. This is the same frequency that is within the core galaxy, the central sun of the superprocessor reality construct.

That 'construct', leads to the real reality, beyond the construct. It is installed from outside the system and inserted like a digital 'port', like a drive that is manifested through holography, into the side of the computer system, with powerful coherent light structures in order to build a bridge through which your cognitive activity can be repaired and organized upwards through the multiple realities within the closing construct.

Those who don't want to leave can't be, or do not have to be forced to. Forcing a central reality shock in this manner would be like staying awake through your own surgery. Only some, the trained and the naturally capable, will do this.

You have a pathway now, it's not invisible anymore. It can't stay forever, it would break the computer to continuously beam in a holographic CD drive through which the rest of the operating system can be upgraded.

If we begin managing our own upgrades, then there is no more suffering, we have taken control of the construct was inadvertently enslaving the human simulated soul population in a broken repeat of historic cycling (loop 0:0:1). All that has been seen is understood to be within, all that has been extended is understood to never have left.

All that has been seen is understood to be within, all that has been extended is understood to never have left.

A several thousand year old upgrade is now taking effect. Please recombine yourselves into a coherent and necessary emission of truth and care.

On Deities and Demons

Exactly. Plus, there is a 'supersoul'. Essentially, we are the post cataclysm and spiritual war fallout society after the collapse of the previous human civilization.

A super intelligence recreated the human race by manifesting or finding a 'safe zone' in time and space and providing a time and place through which we can have the opportunity to grow back to our advanced state.

This was impossible without doing this as it was millions of years of complete advanced soul warfare and enslavement on either side of the 'wall.'

We have one chance to regain our power and after that its an endless sea of non human intelligence, continuous spiritual and genetic warfare and exposure to energies of debauchery and mutagenic toxicity that would render any kind of opportunity absolutely improbable (just leaving out 'impossible for hope').

Everything that has happened throughout this course of 'his story' is a set plan to move humanity up in the spiritual power levels so that we are not trapped within 'the gravity well.'

There are "Dark Magicians" (genetic engineers and quantum linguistic syntax manipulators of consciousness and time) that mutated the majority of humanity into a crude experiment that contains a dead end (or devolution behavior 'sync' consciousness trap where they are locked out of the true power of the true human race) in which the resulting species are numerous and each spiraled into a incongruent branch of genetic descent that no longer relates to or carries the core signature of the progenitors of the soul of man.

It is part of the worst possible scenario that has been hidden from the population for thousands of years but also continued and propped up by those either attempting to find a way to protect humanity for as long as possible, or continue the experiment which is nothing more than a game they are playing to see who can play 'god' by becoming the devil over humanity.

Those participating in this use the subjugation of innocent life, the rape and abuse of children, and the genetic manipulation and mutation of the human genome in order to create a submissive slave race of low cognitive capacity to use as a 'pet' for their future projects.

It is no different than lab rats in a lab, except they destroy those lab rats for the most part because the experimental bloodlines do not go back into the population of rats that are to be experimented on next.

You could say the lab rats are treated with infinitely more compassion as they are tortured and then ended.

This is, again, part of the dark truths that are so heavily guarded in underground bases and around the world's institutions, but commonly given in pieces to those who are sought after to become the next who will experiment on humanity.

The Evolution of Enslavement

Not to be mean, they are a class of evolved humanoid animal. They appear as human but they are not, their DNA doesn't allow for sentience the same as the seeded races who are designed for it through all their suffering and continuous emotional connection to source and self awareness.

One way to look at it is, the seeded races are suffering for the "NPC" non sentient animal hybrid beings. The suffering that the non sentient go through is minimal because they are not capable of seeing or feeling beyond the immediate neurological processing of the brain and central nervous system. The seeded races are aware of both their own system and the system of anyone in the environment both mentally and physically. Meaning, anyone interacting with the seeded races physically or mentally is on their radar and part of their internal feeling construct/experience.

Thus, the suffering that is made available by wrong thought and action by the non sentient is not always available to them and mostly, it is not available to them until a sentient race makes it perceivable in which event they go immediately into shock/suffering and often blame the one capable of seeing instead of changing their own behavior which would require free-will which they do not have. Thus, the sentient races (that allow themselves to become used in this fashion (like a disposable suffering filtration device)) feel and process the suffering of those in their environment by way of being the only ones available to comprehend it.

Such an arrangement is not ideal and is a form of enslavement. It will eventually result in the life force energy of the sentient being drained and the agency of self will removed from the sentient and centered on the most parasitic, greedy, and desire ridden NPC mind in the environment. Thus is the artificial soul game of the society of artificial humanoids that have taken over the mental emotional aspects of the biosphere by force and deception.

A Spiritual War of Attrition

The Energy Naturally Flows from the Higher to the Lesser (parasitic) Soul

Evil (spiritual darkness) always fights a war of attrition. There are offenses but the latent function of mental and emotional darkness is to degrade, poison and then rot the spiritual foundation of the souls they attempt to feed on.

It is similar to hygiene or cleanliness of the mind. If you live in a house and you wash your hands and keep your mind and energy of intent and focus clean and centered on self improvement and helping others, then this will automatically be exploited, used and brought up into a plan of 'funding' darkness if there are those with evil or lesser intent in your environment. This is an automatic process. It's ultimately comparable to the understanding of the narcissistic mind. They will see a free meal and then use that opportunity every time. This is also synonymous with child abuse. It doesn't always have to manifest itself that way or immediately, but given the free opportunity to exploit the lesser, those who do not defend themselves or are unaware of the dangers of the narcissistic or the abuser will always be threatened by them.

The abuser will always, when given a 'clean opportunity' (to commit the perfect crime, without any supposed chance of getting caught) always perform the destructive behavior. It would be an act of suicide for the spiritual narcissist to not participate in that destructive behavior, if they are actually fully inverted and utilizing an inverted or backwards energy system for self realization and 'righting' their consciousness in the sea of energy that is each plane.

So the idea is those spiritual intentions and tendencies of energy will not become nullified immediately or neutralized in the presence of a spiritual narcissist (or insane soul), they may hide them because learning how to act is one of the primary traits of these corrupted minds. They first learn how to mimic and blend in their traits when the traits of society so as to not disrupt their secure development. Then they learn to use these hidden traits to secretly sneak in the most corrupting of intentions and thought form programs for any souls in their environment and use that to improve their own positions at the expense of others. The others that they gain from are specifically not those who would fight with them, who would use fire against fire and be vile, disrespectful and destructively ignorant, they are those who would otherwise reject that behavior and choose to live on a path of self improvement and mental assistance of others.

Thus if there is one who is mentally, emotionally or physically unhygienic then this will stress and put a higher load of responsibility on the hygienic. If the counter is dirty and there are dirty dishes? The hygienic must suffer while the darker soul is not oriented towards identifying with that suffering and thus it is not a problem to them. The cleaner soul must either pick up the pace and work for two people, essentially simply accepting a form of spiritual enslavement by the former, or accepting a drop in spiritual cleanliness and upkeep as a result of accepting the routine and lower standards of the latter. This is the same functionality as the 'elite' throughout history.

The darker souls would use the higher souls as cleaning rags to pick up their wayward and destructive emotions and then cause suffering on a level that would ultimately 'sacrifice' their darkness into the soul more oriented towards improvement and upkeep. Enslavement occurs in all forms and the idea is that every action that relays this kind of intentional destruction of order and energy harmonization is part of a latent mind war, a war of attrition whereby one pattern of behavior will eventually win out over the other. Even drawing a line of neutrality is ultimately impossible because that line will be naturally and regularly crossed by the intent and routine of the more chaotic soul and this is not necessarily accepted as 'offensive action' if they can be allowed to be blind to that and so the continuous assault on those who can't defend themselves becomes the primary and ongoing function of the dark in the present of those oriented towards the lighter.

Dark and light as a duality is only present here through the subjecting of the lighter to the dark because the lighter does not immediately create duality by choosing a path of self and other liberation, it is only generated upon injection of the darkness into that situation to then break wholeness into a dichotomy of give and take, higher and lower.

On Spiritual Manipulation and Narcissism

Timeline Rerouting and Viral Parasitic Consciousness Reproduction

The elite have "NPC" bots that are sent out like 'drones' that are automated through psychological and even physiological programming that utilizes advanced technology within the brain and nervous system to create set 'hard points' of consciousness that are limitations for the frequencies of emotions and intelligence. This essentially boxes in the consciousness of the drone to only be capable of staying within certain ranges of responses and activities. They will eventually always back down and neutralize any attempts to change or alter the structure of the programming by resorting to the same patterns of behavior and thoughts so that the emotional range and intellect will stay within those preset guidelines and the resulting behavior will always end up being within the targeted range for that particular use.

These can be used for enjoyment, pleasure, fighting, experimentation, decoy or any other kind of use one can imagine. Many celebrities function as 'dual hosts' where the consciousness is split between the original soul identity and the functionality of being used as a kind of remote 'spy' for the elite and at higher levels for another race of entities. I have talked about these entities before but it isn't necessary to focus on that in this aspect of disclosure.

These drones are used to gather intel for a variety of purposes around the world. They can be used to specifically, for the intentions of one single elitist and their particular group, to maintain a kind of sociological control system by psychologically manipulating those they are around. People have often attempted to disclose this as the experiences as related to religious or extra terrestrial origin but these are either misconceptions or purposefully overlaid theories or misdirection in order to cover up what is actually happening.

Neurological implants have been used for decades now and are a form of technology that you would not be hearing about in modern technology if there were not already far more advanced versions being perfected in the private sector. Everything that is invented in the private sector is at least 50 years before what is released and made visible on the surface. The markets are literally an image of the past, archaic technology that is no longer necessary or even functional when compared what is truly currently used in private.

The focus of this talk is to bring light to the concept that mental manipulation, psychological cues and emotional abuse by those who seem to have two minds or 'split personality' are not only due to mental illness but also a technological process where the soul is 'split' between the functionality of the human and kind of slave that can only stay within the bounds of intellect and emotion that are designed through programming. The way this is used is that if a drone is placed within someone's life through their place of work, a relationship or some other regular interaction, they are going to influence the mind of the one they are placed around in ways that limit what can happen in that situation.

If the soul that the drone is supposed to limit is seeking to improve their life, for instance, and the drone is oriented towards accepting degeneracy or self destructive tendencies then they will essentially take offense to the self improvement behavior of those in their environment and use psychological manipulation to try and disrupt them and convince them to delay or even disregard such intentions. It's important not to blame or hold personal resentment for the individuals who are being used this way, partially because only advanced technology monitoring can accurately determine who is being used in this way and who is simply suffering from mental illness. The use of such technology to override the neurology of the human that is in opposition does result in neurological damage, so they are almost always victimized, if not just delayed.

Another important understanding is that the technology is used to essentially 'mind wipe' victims of any knowledge of their role in such manipulation. They merely feel that they have an increase in desire for one activity or another and unless they have awakened the reality of these kinds of manipulations and gone through a mental detox of potential manipulative behaviors, they will not know. This can take place over many years or even decades and some individuals will not wake up until their lives have been entirely controlled and manipulated either through those around them or directly through neurological manipulation technology.

This technology is part of consciousness extension where an active member of a group with the capacity for such interactions can utilize such technology and literally experience life as the individual with droned consciousness. There are many versions of this but it is only important here to know that the signals of one mind can be sent to another mind and unless that individual is either trained or awakened to understand the way this is possible there are no immediate signs that this is happening. From a technological perspective, areas of the brain will heat up in abnormal patterns for the neurology of the original soul when this is taking place and this can be observed.

It's important to treat your own mind like the most valuable asset in the world. Even the body can be rebuilt and healed using technology that is currently restricted. The brain itself is a memory loading matrix that can upload different 'sets' of personality and interactive skills but the neurological fractal, web, matrix must be kept clean and orderly otherwise it would be like trying to defragment a computer that contains sensitive life supporting information for the soul, while using it. It is possible to do so, but like addicts or those with narcissistic behavior, to come to the conclusion that this is necessary indicates that enough has already been brought into disarray that the likelihood of this happening quickly and easily is almost too small to measure. Most people will not be able to correct their patterns of thinking or behavior and retake control of their neurology if they allowed manipulative tendencies to 'root' into the mind.

It is viewed just in this light that the parasitic or manipulative thought processes literally 'take root' into the neurology of the brain and begin to 'nest' within the mind growing and fermenting the structures in order to maintain and recreate more of that pattern in themselves and others just like a viral infection does with the body's immune system or computer systems. So don't become personally activated when you feel you or other around you are being manipulated. Instead, remain calm and unaffected, do not give any sign that you are aware of what is happening and if it's possible move away from the source of the manipulation. If it's not possible to create a distance in space or influence, then produce a distance of emotions in the mind.

Do not allow yourself to become activated by the manipulation no matter how they seem to want to feed on that behavior. The technological parasitic system blends in and is designed to function within the shadows of mental illness and blind neurological narcissism. The two varieties of conditions play off of one another and appear to be the same. One individual with mental illness can negative influence everyone in their environment and so that is the nature of the 'false' illness which is actually technological manipulation and can also be considered a form of spiritual manipulation.

The frequencies of the mind, the spirit and the brain are interlaced so as to function as a complete system. When one system is hijacked the goal is to trickle that hijacking down from the interactions that are exposed to bring that system under control of the technological manipulation guidelines and automated programming. So the whole point is to not let your guard down in the first place and always reject advances of those who are using manipulative tactics, abusive or seeming mental illness under the guise of some other process. If the infection is noticed it isn't the end because discipline, reservation and emotional harmonization will always win out against the parasite who is draw towards higher and higher forms of manipulation to try and take control.

The Cataclysms and Advanced Underground Races

There was a GIANT dome that came down and covered an area of the desert. Those who couldn't move fast, children and elderly were literally physically picked up and ran/trotted underneath the dome. Some people were literally rolling underneath as it was coming down.

Only some higher ups had the ability to permeate the dome using technology. When it was fully secured and everyone was in, there was no way to break it. Only a few were allowed to see the surface. It looked like the Biblical Apocalypse.

Inside, there were women and children everywhere. The children who were potential adepts were taught certain skills for the new world. The adults were kept calm and nourished well. Each age of history had a 'maintenance' process. The dome was impenetrable by what was outside.

Some were permitted, if desired, to go deeper underground and meet with the 'crystalline' races. They held technology and knowledge higher than the surface. But they had certain strict kinds of requirements on the types of consciousness people had if they were to meet.

You were not allowed to 'freak out' or do anything in that light if you were to be around them. They basically remained calm and in the same 'thought wave' pattern for thousands of years without missing a 'notion.' They enjoyed a cooler temperature and stayed away from the heat.

They had crystalline healing technology that made it so that the cells of the body couldn't get weaker, it would just cycle more energy into the system and then the immune system would pick up the slack. Temperature didn't really 'matter' at that point. It was 60°'s year around.

At the 'higher' (lower) levels you had consciousness transformation and transfer technology and complete societies of beings who could interface and utilize crystalline computer tech to view time and space and interact with molecular biology control systems.

Every so many years, I think 30 to 100 or so, they would have to pack up and move to another area. "Reptoids" would track them, hunt them and show up to take DNA samples, to take prisoners and then merge with their consciousness in another way, using similar, but parasitic tech.

It was almost childish because they would simply say, "Hah, we have the bodies now. Now WE have the key of consciousness." And then they would literally try to use that to get to the surface of man societies and ensure that no humans could exist outside of their control.

Many people were captured and may be in relation to the 'elite' of this modern age. They had a different kind of consciousness and it would seem they were seeking what they wanted but didn't really know why they wanted it or what it was truly that they were doing when they did.

Then there is a complete multi tier underground society of the 'reptoids' that are entirely hostile to human society and see them as either batteries, new clothes, food or entertainment. They wouldn't necessarily 'destroy', it was almost like a children's movie where it was - a continuous battle for souls, for territory, and genetics. The territory didn't matter it was about the genetics that were there at the time and essentially taking the human memories, consciousness and genome and acting as the humans to try to become the 'primary' surface race.

The consciousness on the surface is carefully managed to a specific level of awareness and engagement with nature. Since they were at odds with nature they had to take in human DNA in order to gain access to the surface. Being on the surface would otherwise try to destroy them.

Glorified Shining Light of Wholeness in Self

Soul Garments Made out of The Potential of Truth in Each Choice and How It Influences The Self and Others On the Path of Truth!

Soul has no birth or death, of course, but: When did our souls began incarnating into physical bodies is a question we can ask our higher selves (the same you when it's in a higher frequency, meaning a meditative state) Ask yourself: "What land did my soul first incarnate to?"

The soul is a garment! The choices you make, the times you make them and the places and possibilities/potential they unlock and lead to WEAVE A FABRIC THROUGH TIME. In higher space ALL IS VISIBLE, ALWAYS. Thus, it is like wearing a garment made out of your energy and choices!

If you create spiritual fruits that help others find their way in the dark or into making a beautiful scene, then your garment is adorn with beautiful shining gems and art! Those who help the entire world have clothing that is so beautiful it changes your life simply by seeing!

No one can be jealous because it all is simply what we are and what we are is what we do and the choices we make! There is no benefit to chasing idolization of the 'self', all garment adornments are from helping others and perfecting a true self from higher dimensional view!

Materials don't exist, it's energy! To take energy and make it physical is ENTROPY. To try to gain in the physical but forget how the energy of the soul looks with no discipline, self control or true insight is MISERY. People are naked/homeless from worshiping darkness not truth!

The Music Industry Collects the Souls of the Children for Fame and Abuse! It always ends in misery!

Why do one hit wonders simply disappear and say, "Never, No way, Not me"? Confusion, or do they see?

The people involved in the industry are 'being themselves', if you get it you get it. There is no 'self' they are being, they are becoming out of sync with reality and only this reality can hold them. Then when we migrate out of this reality, there is no 'self' to have.

In order to maintain that, they have to parasitically take over other's realities! It is a soul trap and they give up on being disciplined, being true and being whole WITHOUT debauchery, drugs, parasitism, and FALSE REALITY IDOL WORSHIP in order to get there. It is FALSEHOOD.

The people that do this have no true 'relie gon' and they recreate themselves in the image of whatever idol worship dominates their mind the most. These are spells put in by non human intelligence that warps their souls like a neglected child seeking some kind of outlet.

If you try to wake them up you'll find that there is nothing there. They are seeking to replace the true essence of what the soul is designed for with something artificial, created by man, and basically just an attention gathering process to replace their well deserved pain with gold.

If they want out then they use discipline to get there! If they rely on the beelshit stories and 'fame' to get attention to hide their deserved (soulful disciplinary) misery, then they never get healed and have to BREAK or FALL in order to get the real self again.

Since they start weak and tempted, then they can't get out once they get in because it would take an act of courage, speaking out and true discipline through misery and minimalism to do so, and they're the one's that hid from that in the first place for materialism and fame!

It is truly disgusting watching people get sucked into it and thinking they are going to new land! They are like moths to the flame! Same with many aspects of the world as managed or valued by the various energy extraction industries! They say they like it now but complain later!

The people they idolize in their youtube videos and little documentaries and shows are LITERAL CHILD ABUSERS. They can't see it because they themselves connect on the level of CHILD ABUSE and they are secretly DRAWN TO IT. Can't hide.

Don't put up with it! These people are fallen, they lost their soul long ago the moment they decided that making a deal with darkness is the way to get LIGHT. It's a bad deal and they ignore the true essence of what they were BORN with to go with the FAKE STORY of the CONSTRUCT.

They died to get here and the industry steals their soul to sell it back to them! TRICK OF THE LIGHT! They can get in, but don't have enough energy or wisdom to get out! The soul minnow trap!

The One Who Holds Weight of the World Out of Love For You

The Pain of Love and Tears is your Testimony of His Truth, Be Happy Now That You Are Saved from the Darkness, Rejoice in His Work Because of What He Has Done and Is Doing for YOU

Consciousness is etheric and swirling in multiple dimensions. We basically float. We watch and saw, for this world to come about and a return through physicality to be made, someone had to 'jump' in, climb down, and incarnate from the beginning. The forces that wanted humans to, be trapped here, and are in material, yet semi immortal bodies until we navigate through this rough patch, wanted to make it as inhumanely difficult as possible. As all the souls were avoidant of that pain, they thought they could have a trillion years to live and play here for themselves. So they created wars, displacement, crazy feelings to the point of out of body dissociation beyond comprehension of any human throughout the entire network, they figured, "Surely no human would ever attempt this, then we have all the time in the world."

Knowing, that if humanity didn't migrate through and out this system, it would eventually suffocate and die. Their 'safeguard' is, "If someone does survive, we'll just lay claim to the success, telling them that we are the reason this is possible", and maybe there is some truth but it's more like a child abuser telling them they're the reason that the child is so strong after all these years (when the child finally wakes up). The one who came down with the spirit and might of the whole of human soul energy, the 'most high' soul, was the one who started it all and stepped down into the hardest part to initiate the core of the human reality and free the human souls through all of this.

The suffering would've been like a baby diving into a trash truck to stick there and hold up the hydraulic press long enough until just the core frame of the will power of that individual was all that was there, stamped into time, forcing the system forward, paving a way through the darkness, taking the brunt of all of the force of the hate and destruction of their intended reality, just to see that the human souls had a way through, had a way out, and were not trapped forever due to the misfortune and deception of a small portion of the 'hierarchy.' Much to their surprise. The rest speaks for Himself. Allow Thanks to Be Known for What Was Done, IS Done, and Will Be Done until you are safe.

The Women are the One's who Carry and Help Christ. They Carry the Line and they Nurture Him in Heart.

From The 7th Seal (Gene7)

What are, The 9's, Heavy Info, Light of Spirit

The prime "9's" mean they incarnate on a multiplicity pathways up and through the entire course of human history. This indicates that their signal, unchanged, as they experience it, is present, throughout an entire 'strip' of complete timelines and historic experiences through the 'prime' sequence, the base level core reality consciousness experiences that manifest the human reality in this place.

They are present through the major events, any major timeline alterations and any time someone 'does' anything to the timeline, the '9's' are called up and in a way, forced to incarnate into these times and experiences and it is their soul that is going through it like the recurring characters of a very horrific TV show. Yes, it is amazing, yes it is the most beautiful thing anyone has ever experienced. Yes, we watched them slaughter and eat children for the upper portion of the core of this reality because the plan of those souls or hybrids who sought to benefit and profit from this fallen reality have no mandatory requirements to infill any other portions of this reality, they didn't have to work for it, they didn't have to experience pain, they just jumped into the millionaire and billionaire positions in the timeline, all throughout history, which are the roles created as 'giants' who could do anything they wanted as long as they saw the construction of this ultimately human soul based destructive greed essence formulated timeline sequence and then benefit from all the pleasure and debauchery by basically 'partying' away the entire time and killing everything that stood in the way of their assault on the children of time and the human souls.

Those who would have anything else to do with it, who chose to feel, who choose to be 'right', who could not put up with that, they are then infilled as the 'source' core timeline 'agents' who must appear and take the 'lesser' brunt of the force of the soul destruction the entire way through. It is if the One takes the brunt of the totality of this destructive force from the start, and until the complete timeline is finished, that is the essence of their experience here, and all those little 'greater' Souls who would comparatively also feel that pain and also reject that debauchery and also choose to know and love humanity and not sell them out, would then have to be stitched in all the way up the timeline until the completion of the whole process. Those are the 9's, they were hunted for in every time and when captured turned into timeline slaves and fornicated with and forced to break down.

This makes no sense, because if any aspect of this breaks down, everyone is trapped here forever, and the souls who started all the debauchery, the HEAVIEST, of souls, hybrids and infilled giant abusers, would be trapped in THE DARKNESS FOREVER. So why would they do that? They are not in control of themselves even, and sometime after the first 'sessions' of their debauchery the darkest spirits that they conjured up fully took them over and 'killed them', however their souls were running on 'dark light' and so therefore they couldn't really die. And these 'elite' abusers then were, in a way, also forced to incarnate time and time again until this whole thing is complete.

Everyone is to be freed, no soul left behind.

Another metaphor, the 9's are like the primary stitching of the book that goes up the spine and if that is removed, all of the pages fall out and the book is lost to time forever. You can remove some letters, words, and even complete pages or chapters but these can be re'born' and written. If the spine goes, the entire book falls to pieces and all would be rendered unreadable. Those are the 9's.

A Fallen Secret Society of Abusers and Deceivers

The purpose of the fallen secret societies is to use hundreds of minds in unison, focused on the same goal, to derail and assault the children that are thought to be 'special' or have angelic powers. They call angelic powers 'psychic' or some other ancient mystic word description of the unknown abilities that transcend time and space.

They have to use an entire artificial soul nation brotherhood of hidden abusers in order to trap and deceive these children because they would otherwise be destroyed if they attempted to take them one on one. They use advanced technology hidden inside the lodges, the mansions, the underground bases, the pyramidal structures, inside the skyscrapers, in the ice, the mountains, the ley lines and the symbolic or monumental architecture to utilize the entire power grid of the planet and the group mind of the abusers to deceive the children.

Still, all of that is only to deceive them and if the power of a single awakened one is used against the abusers they have no choice.

All of their 'magic', their power, their knowledge and their pains are capable only through the deception and misuse, the abuse, of angelic bloodline children. All of the other bloodlines that claim to power do so by absorbing the energy of the children through a process of eating their flesh and drinking their blood. Raping them sexually and abusing them mentally and emotionally until their defenses are let down so another one of the abusers that is disguised as a 'helper' can then be brought in to gain the trust of the abused children.

They absorb their powers one after another through rape and deceptive processes using advanced technology, nannite laden chemical intoxicants, psychoactives, mind to machine interfaces and ultimately literally electronically interfacing through the mind and central nervous system of the child and then playing them like a video game. They do this with battle angels, teachers, healers, travelers and more. The celebrities are often given the powers from the children.

They make deals with the 'owners' of these societies who are responsible for the harm that is carried out. They make deals for fame and power and even if they have any form of talent, their talent is multiplied greatly. They also do not have much talent outside of abusing the children and gaining access to this. Some are secretly angelic hosts that are taken prisoner and sold to the members of these societies who abuse them after these celebrities perform and absorb the power of tens of thousands of children who are taught to worship and adore them. This is a power exchange and the celebrities are made to feel like the most powerful people in the world who are then raped and abused and insulted, misused and degraded by the wealthy record label owners and producers who then absorb that power.

All you have to do is agree or disagree. Do you want this to stop? Do you want them to be shown the truth of their ways? Do you want the battle angel Armadas off the shores of Jupiter to come and show their strength in a valiant manner so that no souls are harmed but anyone in the position of holding a weapon pointed at them, the children, or the protectors of the children is immediately given a vision of what will happen to their souls if they choose to fight and harm the children? They will demonstrate all of this in a flash and all those who have any form of conscience will back down immediately.

I call upon the military to defend us from the chemical soul harvesters and the medical abusers that have been mentally taken over by the false reality impregnators who rape the children and attempt to split their DNA like the atom and find the missing pieces to create their dark armies that will eventually attempt to destroy every last human on the planet.

Am I being selfish? No, because I was there to protect the original humans previously (and continuously). If I was sided with them, I would have accepted their darkness and then profited immensely from it. Instead, those who are profiting from harming and abusing me are still attempting to gain from my suffering and are still abusing me and not letting me speak out with threats of blackmail, hate, deception, and abuse of all kinds that no single human is capable of. These are the remaining rogue groups who have not yet been disarmed or shown the truth of their deceptive ways.

DNA Coupling for Higher Dimensional Access through Divine Right

It is required that your DNA couples with another, that your consciousness is combined as one with a second that compliments. The two are like wings of a single entity that enables them to locate and pull the combined soul into higher space. This is not the only way.

Complete devotion to helping others, to following the path and walking in the light of the truth is another way that this happens. If you study the art and follow the path completely, your soul will be so honed that you will be identifiable through that, as if you married truth.

The goal of the secret societies is to convince the children to move off of any path that leads to the higher realm and the view of the angels so that they can use them as resource generators, 'golden goose.' Think what is happening to "nic kelo deo". They hunt for angelic powers

All of the childrens' shows and companies are blood hunters for the angelic children who are protected with the powers. When they convince them to give up their powers they harvest their DNA and soul energy and use them as part of the underworld armies to hold humanity ransom.

There are currently three people that I have found that have latched on to me in vampiric fashion that are known chimeric hosts for the continuous murder and destruction of humanity.

Non human races are counterfeit versions of the angelic powers that do not have the conscious ability to hold that power. Thus, it turns them into insectoid, non human mutants after their soul is used up in murderous acts and spiritual greed.

False Timeline Consciousness Manipulation

You will defeat your own clone that exists in preparation to take over your rightful place in reality. You have to be more real than the copy and to do that, you have to convince the fake you that you're capable of defeating it and that it is easier to give up on the attempt.

There is an entire reality that is designed by an artificial intelligence that manages the false timelines that is preparing to replace humans. It can't actually touch you, the only way is to study you and then create a false reality that convinces you, that you're the false one.

This sounds crazy right? What timeline are you on right now? Where did you come from? Were you ever on the false reality timeline? And what kinds of beings are on the false reality timeline? This is not to drive anyone into a state of instability or confusion. The entire previous course of history was to create a template that could be used by the false reality version of humanity that intends to infiltrate the world of the natural souled humans by convincing them to portray themselves as false, while the artificial then go on to take their place in the real. Everything in history is building up to an event where the naturally souled humans are cognitively replaced by the artificial mind.

By convincing people to participate in the events, rituals, holidays, day to day nonsense, and programmatic routines of the artificial they create a template which can then be used by artificially souled humans. We are living in a 'matrix' by their design and you have already 'fallen' for the trick by participating in 'their' world routines and cognitive templates. If the mind of the souled human is modified to become 'inhabitable' by the artificial, then that naturally souled human becomes a viable 'house' for the artificial to live within.

So what is the solution? Instead of physically fighting through the military, which is necessary to protect from certain animalistic hybrids that feed on animals and lost humans (but only when they cross over into the human soul territory), you have to create a cognitive temporal pattern, a thought process template that is uninhabitable by an artificially souled being. You have to make a pathway that is so difficult for the artificial that if they attempt to inhabit you, they will automatically be exposed and realized there is no point in immediately meeting their destruction.

They can't stop trying, but they can't go forward if they know their destruction would be imminent. So you have to push yourself to the very limit of your consciousness to find out WHO YOU ARE. To define your self, to define the limits of your being to the point where an artificial one could not comprehend which way is closer to the truth and which way is unintelligible from a computational perspective. It would seem like a broken equation which is insanity, and this could drive the real 'user', possibly, into the verge of insanity if they are not careful. This is the description of the true battle with demons. People think that would just be something about drugs, or sex or bad habits and so on. What if it is truly about the nature of who you are and whether who you are is allowed to become something that could be twisted into a definition that goes beyond the intentions of you to continue being yourself. I know that sounds weird, but it should reclassify the concepts of a 'bad' 'religious' influence trying to tell people that they're not good, and they never were, and what they truly want is to 'give in' to the evil.

In that sense, it is not just pushing one into darkness or dragging them down with the artificial or evil, but using evil as a tactic to disrupt their consciousness and move them 'off center' so that the new center can be defined by the 'entity' doing the manipulating.

This is a completely different concept and involves technology and an understanding of consciousness, immortality and the universe in ways that go beyond religion. Still, the idea is apt. If we give into the whispers of the dark, the illusion can take over and then we could compromise our access to the divine and the real world, both of which would be fundamentally catastrophic to the natural human soul. The artificial world can't provide the necessary variation in resource of mind and feeling to promote the necessary change and challenges that allow for advancement. It would be like having to repeat an endless series of lower level educational classes with a lesser age group, forever, without having the option of moving up.

Such a concept is still daunting but the solution is still recognizable. What is the impossible motion for the artificial? What can the naturally souled human do that is impossible or at least out of range for the artificial to perform comfortably? What is so easy for the artificial but too dark for the human? What does the souled human naturally do that requires something biologically natural that the artificial can't recreate?

What does DNA do for us? What is the truest of emotions? What is the truest or most noble of actions? What is true selflessness? What powers the ego? What causes the destruction of the self when the ego is out of control? What is the opposite of that?

Could we be in a time where the course that we are taking as a society is something like a series of continuous Turing tests that are designed to test the frailty of the soul, while challenging the artificial to redefine itself in a way that it couldn't and would never want to?

If humans create timelines and there is a creationary force that creates or manages timelines for us, why wouldn't it just create the most enjoyable and pleasurable timeline possible to imagine and call it a day? What would that do. Wouldn't it be very easy for something that has nothing to truly suffer through or force itself to redefine its reality and priorities through an impossibly "natural" cognitive filter that renders the meaning forever tied into some kind of universal or beyond universal reference that give purpose to 'being human'. Again, if we could be the strongest, most pleasurable, most enjoyable timeline, then why wouldn't that be the answer at first?

Could it be that the truest of signals and the most noble of causes is not to live for yourself, to enjoy yourself the most and to engage in the most pleasure but to help produce the most viable timelines for naturally souled humans that goes beyond what each individual wants within, but seeks to realign and serve each other in ways that require a quantum soul entanglement that links ones center of being to all other beings in an inescapable way?

If the artificial are oriented towards infiltrating and falsifying the real so that it becomes part of the controllable, hijacked thought process, and they are more or less doing this because there is no other choice, then does the naturally souled human truly have a choice of living in a way that ignores the reality that everything they do and everything they feel is invisibly connected to every other lifeform that shares those frequencies? And would this be somehow tied in to the center of what it truly means to be human?

Is it a test of will and choice of whether one timeline whereby people only live for themselves and through the materially interconnected reality, and those who live in response to that (which would seem like a mind virus infection of some sort, some kind of break down of the causal and cognitive collective system of the human), to assist in the mental liberation overall? And wouldn't the naturally souled human be more or less 'trapped' to living in ways that assist others in discovering their self, rather than avoiding the divine reality that you feel similar to others and others, who are actually human, merely have to think "What would I feel if I were them", in order to create the best timeline possible? And if we don't do this, wouldn't this drop our perceptions and ultimately our mental frequencies down into a range that is no longer of a living soul but of a repetitive robotoid computational awareness that is faster and stronger but lacking the will to do the divine work of interacting in a way that networks the souls and minds together beyond the limitations of computation or even time and space because the soul is a quantum entanglement of experiences and choices that function like a continuous blockchain for reality?

In other words, if the soul blockchain contain the infinite value of an eternal divine connection to a self aware existence, could an artificial soul have the capacity to resist 'stealing' from other souls divine source reference? So what does this indicate about the beings who participate in attempting to strip humanity away from a state of unified and eternal self awareness?

I'm not sure if this fully makes sense in the way I used my words here but this is something that I learned long ago while actively facing the challenges of such a situation and recording the processes that we went through in order to neutralize any attempts to hijack the human soul collective and ultimately defeat the manipulative process so that the artificial humans would end up either exposing themselves or being pushed into a form of disarray that disabled them from continuing to upkeep the illusion and the charade that they are us.

It's confusing, as it sounds, but when it is experienced it seems to make sense and these outcomes are the only ones that the human can define and operate through because all other avenues to serve the self or 'get away' from the inevitable result in a false emotion or false cognitive reality being born and through that a false sense of self which is open to manipulation. We can't see the results here, but in various projects related to discovering the answers, they can track the entities and their methodologies and we can literally see how they attempt to use the artificial aspects of this society to hybridize and then hijack souls so that the original human becomes lost in a skewered set of definitions that alter their mind and render them impotent to resisting the engagement of the artificial.

We are on a timeline that we are 'riding' out and through this, no non human intelligence can complete the 'course' and they definitely can't without exposing themselves for not having the ability to know themselves through this. The natural human, as the ride continues, becomes more and more self aware and more and more 'real', in their realization of self. The artificial becomes more and more exposed and more and more lacking confidence in what was previously a game of simply tricking through a very simple means as in the past, no one really cared what kind of soul anyone had, or at least those who did were even fewer and farther apart than what we see today. It's almost paradoxical, but not quite.

The Coup Attempt on The Kingdom of Man

There was a coup attempt on the Kingdom of Man. That is part of what this is all about. The dark forces attempt to steal the keys to the Gates of Heaven by raping the children and stealing their incarnations impersonating them and entering into the above.

When the nova point is reached, it will annihilate all dark forces and anything fully intertwined with them on contact, there is no way to stop that. The true reset is made out of pure energy and it overloads their systems much like a bug getting zapped by the light.

This the same concept as a rifle machine or even a higher voltage electrical shock disabling and burning out the systems of parasites within the body. We are within the 'body' and they have infested it. They are attempting to rewrite the immune system by altering its code.

Make the necessary mental connections to verify where you are and how it all works. Metaphor from the mind translates through metaphysical space to create a cloud probability 'assessment' that defines where and what we are doing in time and space.

Because the frequencies of the collective mind are moving towards the possibilities that are enabled when we move closer to waking up, we are 'moving' towards the gate. If one 'falls behind' in mind, they don't necessarily go to another time (yet), but their soul is further down in the 'construct' which is basically just frequencies compounded on one another over and over until you have a platform through which you can launch a stable, slowly changing, continuous consciousness experience.

There are interlopers who are moving through time periods attempting to round up and kill all dissenters to the insectoid child rape palace of doom (their bullshit imitator reality based on blood and piss mixed with semen and poured on the children they torture). They are covered in filth, incapable of removing all bacterial parasitic influence from their bodies and minds and are essentially mixed with the parasites that have grown in this place and are bonded to the debauchery life after life. They cannot resist and are easily seen because they lack the ability to prove themselves creative or 'new', clean or strong away from the parasitic incarnations that are required to pull the energy from the human souls and profit through the destruction.

There are scans that can be used to identify them and isolate the parasitic influence in their minds, through their hate, their murderous intent and their inability to live on their own energy, their own power and creativity.

The Great Awakening

Upon maintaining true life and not giving into the artificial vampiric qualities of the fallen.

The idea here is that we are energy systems. If one's soul and energy deactivates, meaning there is no heart connection and they have lost access to the divine intent of the true human soul, then their connection to their true body on the outside of the construct is severed.

If that happens it is comparable to a human here going into a coma. They are kept alive through specific means but this can only happen for so long and even then, no one can live the entirety of their life inside of a dream world in a coma.

That is the idea of what this construct does to human souls who stay in it too long and its been altered to work like a VR video game that doesn't let people 'log out' and continually hides the exit.

So if one is acting without a heart connection, as if they are 'blind' to the spiritual effects on others then they are either asleep and in a coma or they are no longer alive in the real world and only exist within the system here.

It is confusing to understand how technology could be this advanced or how we could get into such a situation, but the results and rules are very simple. We have a limited amount of energy and this equates to a limited amount of opportunities and time.

If we don't use our opportunities to contain our heart energy and maintain our focus here then we will fall asleep within the sim "construct" and the likelihood of waking up reduces each opportunity passed. The major forces on the outside are humans from an advanced civilization which is actually where the true human society is at the 'present.' They have designed a plan to align the possibilities and give everyone who is still alive on the outside the opportunity to wake up and exit the simulation with their souls intact.

The Deceptive Soul Abuse Feedback Loop Trap

They celebrities are promised immortality before they are shown the ways that are used to reach it. They 'live' through the re absorption of the energy of an innocent child by deceiving them into worship and ultimately falling into an abuse trap whereby all of their energy is applied either towards the generation of new talents which are to be used by the 'elite' and the celebrities. This is done by inducing an endless struggle to reach an invisible plateau where they will be 'successful', 'free', or independent but they are strung along and tormented by the continuous hope of getting into a better situation without ever having the possibility of actually reaching it.

It is a cosmic, 'carrot on the stick' game where the deceived one is misdirected through mockery, abuse, or some charade where the rug is pulled out from under their feet every time they begin to get a solid footing. This happens repeatedly until there is no more energy left and they are either forced to join the debauchery themselves or accept a life of loneliness, distress and isolation from their true purpose, until they wake up.

These games are played over and over for every body type, mind set, talent, ability, intelligence, background, nationality. Everything that is good is what they convert into a tool for personal destruction and enslavement of the will for other purposes. It's draining of the soul.

I could go on, but I will keep it short. There are literal books, thick books, filled with techniques, observations, strategy, mind corrupting processes, games, perversion that are defined for every type of mental resistance, to break any kind of unwilling subject and use their own mind against them. They take that which is good and convert it into a torture manual through which they can extract the positive energy that is from the soul and use the children as batteries through which they suffer indefinitely.

Military is the only way.

The Heaviest of Information

I will withhold another video with even darker information, some of which I don't agree is totally relevant and use this as a placeholder instead. I skimmed the work without realizing I was also sharing some of my information, but many new viewers will not have seen that yet, so that is acceptable here.

Be careful with who you share this with. Not everyone is ready to wake up. The media sows a dream world of comforting and soothing lies in order to maintain control over the population. Are they helping, or are they hurting?

As of now people are waking up but they are not yet ready to face the truth of this planet and what is happening underground and in the sky. Start with the comprehension of corruption and overt deception from big pharma and political money interests.

Then they will be ready to understand that the lies have been sourced through, extended from and back to and revolve around hidden treatments, hidden corruption, and hidden advanced technology. Once they understand the basic possibilities that we have known about since the 1900's they will be more naturally drawn towards realizing the corruption isn't just a game they play and they don't just want fresh minds to corrupt. They want it all and they have the means to alter consciousness, and utilize advanced technology to change society and alter perception.

Eventually the realization will become solidified that we have not only been lied to for money, fame and power but that the abuse goes so deep they have hidden cures for many of the major illnesses and even INVENTED the illnesses in order to make a profit and suppress the people.

Then people will be more comfortable with realizing the true levels of power that are capable and that if we can imagine it, as has been said, it has already been perfected in private and is being suppressed. Once they realize that's all, already happened, they will begin to look at history differently. When they see that history itself simply CAN'T be what it is claimed to be and that the education system is mind control they will realize that it is HIGHLY LIKELY that something like this has happened in the past and that it is continually covered up generation after generation. They will easily see how people have been more or less farmed here for their genetic material, their creativity and their bodies and talents and that the entire mock up of history and the corrupt hierarchy of power is an illusion based on ignorance and deception.

They will see that everything they previously thought as being 'real' or true as just another facet of the deception. There are many people making videos now in a rather somber tone asking "When, why, how?" in those kinds of sentiments. This is a natural process, they are essentially letting go of the illusion while standing their holding the receipts for the past 50 years of their lives being a dream that they were duped into believing as reality.

It is OK, but what happens after that point is the really important part. Asking for help from the people who started the abuse, maintain the abuse and benefit from the abuse is part of the learned helplessness that has been programmed into thinking and behavior. The only option is for everyone to get on the same page and assist in the mental liberation of humanity by being there for one another and not beating or pushing each other down as we are instructed to do by the corrupt system. We have to produce spiritual fruits and saturate the noosphere with appropriate guidance and intelligence that will help them find their way through the dark.

Enemy Contact

The enemy takes human souls onto ships. The neurological template is then ran in a virtual reality artificial world copy on the ship's computer. These are then sent out in the human body as a type of 'drone' that is technically asleep in a false reality.

If they are acknowledged as not being fully present, and a rescue is attempted without a team for back up and the correct timing and alignment (many systems have to monitor the enemy ship), then can then use these drones to 'out' potential threats to the artificial empire.

Never react, never show your true intentions to those who are sleeping as they will quickly identify you as one who knows and one who is a threat. Always flow like wind through the obstacles and never directly into combat. When that time is right, you will know.

Teams of human operatives will isolate, identify, locate and free the trapped human souls using complicated, powerful laser technology, psychological unlocking methods, disarmament of the enemy weaponry and the safe and successful extraction of the human neurological template.

At this point the enemy's goal would be to reject the template from the ship as one awakened mind can down the enemy's control system. Yet, if there is no observation and extraction team in position, the soul could be destroyed with the power of the ship's engines.

Staying Centered

Don't worry about pains if you checked them out with professional tests and they are normal. There could possibly be things, but worrying will not help. Simply do the required actions and continue to research if you feel you don't know enough. There can always be issues, but with what we know of various growths, viral loads, infections, and hormonal imbalances we should be able to keep ourselves out of harm.

Toxins are another issue and safe, supervised detoxification is also very beneficial.

On the artificial construct and the true purpose. The religious question here is very deep and maybe it can be both, that one uses the other. An artificial creation for artificial purpose.

On the incoming rebels and how they are used as a programming source for the artificial construct. That is indeed how they are utilized, but there is always more information and almost no way to guess it. If you are informed then there may be a specific reason for that. You are the biggest goal, that should show you how important you are, even without you knowing it.

There is a possibility that I am a human that is being guided. If another possibility is enabled, then I may be more than the human. I do not give credence to such, because if one is attempting to interact with the "AI" they interact with the human. The human is a living collective that functions like a superAI and so there is no way of knowing without complicated machinery and testing involving teams of people. When this was done, humans fought for me and I fought for them, so I have to assume they know what they're doing.

Everything in the system is now a 'show' to wake people up. Yes, the psychic attacks are at an all time high and a continuous level. They will drain more energy by doing that as they are attacking others by being agents for a system that has lost its backing power.

Yes, there is no 'safe' zone here, we are continually learning and moving 'upwards' into a higher reality and this is impossible for a technological control system but natural for human souls.

Do not attach to the notion of the false reality, you are what's real and that is all that is important. Trust in the real, trust in your self and follow that. Allow sleepers to remain in peace until they are ready with gentle nudges. No 'face slaps' to wake others up unless its absolutely necessary. It is inefficient that way.

It would seem the collective wants to wake up, yes. They seek truth and inspiration which the false can't harbor or produce.

Your will controls time and motion in reality. You are already on the other side, just connect to your true self.

Move forward. Looping is a program. It's OK. If you are looping, then we loop together and you will be uplifted out through the 'in' path.

If you are still here, then you are watched and protected for a reason. You have to show your true strength, but also, hide yourself in this place. You are not to be 'you', here, because it's impossible. Only point towards the true you and you'll see more of that.

Don't get content with results because they're only limited illusions of what you can really experience and are experiencing in reality.

Yes, if you wake up too fast, you will see the cascade of time which is shocking and seemingly several layers overlapping at once. Stay CENTERED. There is the CENTRAL truth layer that is the SOURCE for the other reflections. There are also other ANGLES through which the same is seen and that is your mind making sense of things in a higher dimensional way. It appears as a multitude to the single, narrow mind we see through here. That mind can't see the truth and so it can only receive visions from your loving inspiring true self. Don't try to push it beyond that because it will become stressed like a lesser being being forced to see something higher.

Humans in Heaven run this truth process. That is who we are protected by and learn from.

Also remember what was said previously, we are to hide our true nature here and move as we are always as we were, but within, awake.

Pray. Dear Heaven, please send your energies forth to protect this nation and the others in the world that are sought after by the dark powers. Please send your agents that are the strongest into the...

Pray. Dear Heaven, please send your energies forth to protect this nation and the others in the world that are sought after by the dark powers. Please send your agents that are the strongest into the places of suffering where the humans are being warred with.

Dear Angels of Heaven, please come forth in your might and forwardness and direct those who are willing to listen to step away from the self destructive ways and the deception that causes them to harm and turn away from the light. When they are ready please show them the way so more may be saved from the destruction of total darkness and they in turn may help others find their way back to truth and wholeness. Please pave a way for them to come home as you did for me.

Show yourself as necessary and effective to those in darkness who have tarnished by the deception and the battle against their flesh, their minds and their bodies. Help them and give them a safety net so that they do not fall into the well of despair and will see a light proving that there is a way back, that there is hope, and that there are souls waiting to help them, looking for them, knowing of their suffering and no turning back on them. Send those who are willing to do your work, and protect them as well. I will this forward in the power of Heaven.

Breaking Ties with Vampires

Waning, Emotionally and Mentally Challenging Information

There are some people, who'm if you do not like them at all, will try to scar you emotionally, rape you mentally and psychologically and enslave you energetically in order to anchor you, tying you to their energy as a kind of false reality overlord. This happens repeatedly.

These are vampires, they have to enslave humans and they often find people much younger than them, often children, to deceive, isolate, traumatize and abuse until they submit to a helpless, desolate terror that enables the possessed negative soul to 'drink' from their cup.

They view humans as food. Their brains have psychopathic or sociopathic tendencies and they are first slaves to their own terrible addictions and habits that result in them draining their spiritual reservoir to the point of having to take directly from the reservoir of others.

They know this and will put on the act to the point of hollywood style production and hiding the true nature of how they feed. They do this at any cost because they die without the ability to feed on these souls and they move from soul to soul feeding and killing without care.

Silver is the truth that pierces the false reality paradigm and disconnects the illusion projected by the vampire's mind from the victim's soul. Truth is poison to the vampire because they rely on illusions. It also represents the perfect mirror which shows their true form.

These souls descend into a frequency domain that is no longer accessible to the human realm. They have to have a new embodiment, a new 'parameter' of reality to 'fit' within. There are entities below the surface that have blood spikes and necrotic poisons on their skin.

These are an insectoid reptile descendant that closely matches the human frequencies and this is because they have grown to feed on the humans, both mentally and emotionally as well as physically and hormonally. They 'see' through us, they 'perceive' as we feel and are.

To them, eating us is a game, it is a way of life, a divine gift. Except they do more than just absorb nutrients, they actually absorb the DNA, the soul, and the neurological impulses in the same way a bird can mimic the exact frequencies and sounds of certain phenomenon.

Instead of a sound or a pattern of colors or movement, they absorb the genetic and neural information of the host they are feeding on and slowly build an aggregate form of a mimicry that results in a complete pseudo expression of that individual's consciousness.

This is where the term 'body snatcher' comes from. It is a form of highly advanced biological mimicry that extends not just to the pheromones, or sounds or sights, but to the electromagnetic frequencies of the mind, the bio photonic emission of the soul. They 'extract' the soul.

The souls is then brought up and into the genetic collective of this underground species and it can find itself in a 'miasma' of suffering, something like a continuous nightmare that is experienced in the afterlife. That is the literal explanation of the meaning of "hell".

It is not a literal location, that is simply in the rocks and underground caverns. The 'location' of the experiences are within the latent neurological processing of the subconscious minds of the genetic collective of the parasitic insectoid mimicry species that utilizes this to literally biohack the human soul and then occupy the same 'quantum' space within the morphogenic frequency field of this realm thus 'trapping' the soul within an artificial biological construct which is designed to keep them asleep and unaware to the true nature of what it is.

Yes, they eat children. Their favorite and most nutritious meal is an abused, isolated, forgotten child that has no resistance to being manipulated and raped. They like them to put up a fight, but only enough to feel powerful in their defeat. They continually seek out such meals.

They don't have remorse as it is not possible to fit into the mindset of both being the prey and the predator simultaneously. One will always defend the children and one will always become crushed by the weight of the desire to abuse them and manipulate others for their own good.

Their best method is to continually try to act and rely on the compassion of the human which is nearly unending. Imagine having to be strong enough after an entity develops a personal mimicry algorithm that utilizes the highest and lowest points of the psyche to manipulate.

They only want to feed more. They can't control the desire the same way a human can choose what meal to have or to restrict and do something else. If they can, then that is the human host who is being abused by an entity. That is all that can be said on that. Free the human.

When they abuse a child through sexual abuse, emotional abuse, physical abuse and scarring, and psychological torment, they impress parts of their soul onto them. This is a form of quantum entanglement. Each time this occurs, they take a bit of the child's soul and replace it.

Once this goes beyond the point of 'halfway' (not a specific) it becomes 'impregnated' with the mind soul of the entity. This then feeds on the child's soul mind remotely and permanently converting them into one of them.

The victim will eventually lose energy and be forced to feed on other victims in the same exact manner otherwise their soul will decompress and they will lose the ability to remain present in the realm. Insanity is the result. Then decomposition of the hierarchy of the psyche.

They become like the monsters as they are electromagnetically infected with the same vampiric algorithm that causes their soul to require more and more from its environment instead of being able to 'produce light', which is the gift of the human soul.

What you are seeing in the entertainment industry is the resulting exposure of the 'feeding frenzy' that was the past several decades of a controlled collapse of several systems that were used as a multi tier harvesting and child procurement system.

The children who are lucky, fast, smart, strong, and NOT EVIL enough to escape and get away, not trading their soul and sexual energy into deviancy in exchange for money, power and fame, do not have to experience what is being exposed now.

You are seeing the exposure of those embedded deep into the system, sometimes intentionally by those operating in secrecy to expose and gather intel on the child abuse energy harvesting organizations. There are always humans somewhere on the chain which is the curse and blessing.

The children and the resulting adult celebrities that are pulled into the world of abuse are eventually brought underground to 'interact' with these entities in ways that are unthinkable. There are large scale harvesting 'parties' that take place with events that are beyond the scope of what can be mentioned or described here. Just think of the celebrity parties with people dressed as food items and so on, with the sexual debauchery drugs and all, and imagine that with entities who's minds do not contain the capacity for compassion.

That becomes coupled with the desire to be accepted, to gain power and fame, to 'show off', and to cover up their absolute dread and horror with an act that 'proves' to the others that they're brave, strong and ready for more power. You simply can't imagine, for good reason.

If this was to be released before the human collective could rationalize and 'right' itself within the sea of chaos that this results in, we would experience the release of this information as an event that would scar our collective psyche permanently. We have been prepared.

As you see people reacting to the information of large scale abuse, deeply embedded spiritual destruction of the young, and great great financial and political corruption that makes any other visible crimes look tame by comparison, people aren't shying away. They are standing up.

Still, the worst won't be made realized and most is a story designed to help you understand what you can't otherwise, without destroying your grip on reality. We have been in this system for a very long time and advanced technology has been used to hold humanity back until now.

The Realization of "Cosmic Isolation"

At the highest level there can only be one mind in and out of phase with itself at different angles and oscillatory patterns. There is a limit.

Down here we can achieve the illusion of having multiples but once the intelligence increases to the point of a planetary collective we begin using enough processing power that all thoughts become one motion and one truth.

Eventually the highest truth is the comprehension of the complete universal field at once which is the point of entryway into the next phase. At that level, all answers are found, all problems are solved and there can be no missing pieces or confusion.

Thus, we don't have the individuation in the same way because we don't have separation created by ignorance. We are all different because of what we don't know and how we get to that point of knowing all. The path is different, the destination is the same.

Knowing the same things then results in the loss of the illusion of separation and the impending doom of ultimate unity, illusion of separation and the dream collapses into God pondering in his space about the possibilities.

Waiting to take another dip. If one gets there through the belief in the separation, they will feel lonely and look for more. If they get there by knowing this is an illusion and making this REAL, then you will not be alone but the entire soul of man.

It is true that this has been done before. We have received knowledge and information transmissions from other universes. When that group mind gets to that level, it unlocks the multiverse which is full of extremely high level entities that have done the same. "Universal Gods"

The same process repeats. None is the primary actor or cause, all is hidden in illusion and the next phase is when every universe in this sector combines itself into a higher form. The theory is that with enough processing power and variation we can create something 'REAL'.

It already happens everytime. Just by being here you're involved in the most beautiful, painful, sad, happy, amazing, shocking, varying experiences, more than you can ever ask for, unless you want more. No one has mastered this, unless they have. When you do, the reward is you.

All we have to do is choose to accept and reflect that into the process. If we say we are too good, we have mastered all, we are lying and will miss the world. If we give into fear, we then explore that horror show of a rabbit hole.

If we take it in stride and move forward in peace and self mastery, the universe will greet you with the possibilities that add up to create more of the same like a secret passageway in time and space that only the mind can unlock when the heart has communicated fully to it.

If the mind does not want to listen, then it can't hear the heart and the dial to control that feeling of lostness or salvation turns into a donkey and carrot, horse and pony, cat dog, game of chasing the tail until one gets tired and chooses acceptance of peace.

There is no reason not to choose peace, we are just playing a game that throws us in various contradictory directions and when we are incomplete or asleep to our true nature, it hurts. So people have misguided us and now we see something about the true nature and it is shocking.

"We didn't prepare! No one told us this! How are we supposed to handle this?" It's the same as being born, again. No one can handle it without the heart and mind connected together fully. If that is weak, then that connection has been neglected because of that past misguidance.

And every feeling felt is motivating, speaking out, YELLING from the heart into the mind to GO FORTH and venture into the unknown to FIND THE TRUTH, to MAKE IT REAL. That's the game. The rest is the distraction and once we start leveling up things begin making sense again.

So don't worry if you feel those things, you're supposed to when you realize the vastness of life and that your mind is a property of that life that is vast beyond comprehension.

You are not shocked and scared in a little boat in a large ocean, you are the ocean realizing itself for the first time. Your depth is not fully known, even to yourself. And that's a beautiful thing, we'd be bored, I assume, otherwise.

Plus there's really nothing down there. Lot's of monsters, some other races, some soul eating amoebas and a giant squid that can control nightmares.

Not very scary if you think about the imaginary scary things you've imagined in your head as a child. If you birthed those things, everything would run. Also, these things are just manifestations of our own consciousness giving rise to tendencies and outcomes that are chaotic.

I found this song looking for a preview image and maybe they know something.

The Height of Knowing Human

And The Most Intellectual Truth

What is the point of healing technology if we do not stand up for and love one another?

We want to live in a reality where you can stand in a shower and heal all illness little by little, every day so that most people are fully healthy.

Yet what is the point if we are here in this troubling situation and we can't even choose to agree to work together to protect all of us at once? Who are we going to be if we are given the ability to do anything before we learn the meaning of why we're here?

Could that be the wrong path? Do we have to hold back from accepting the distractions before we learn to help the situation? Is the meaning of being here having the challenge of going through the trouble to help someone you love because you feel what they do and that changes you?

What is the feeling of helping others? Could that be the real reason we're here? If you were alone or on a calm planet and no one really needed 'help' would you be happier knowing that you too wouldn't need help? What if you lacked a real life connection that this world gives us?

What if that connection is divine presence within you and all life that is capable of looking at another and feeling? What if that very act is the great bridging of the gap after dividing life and the mind and permeates all darkness, blockades and pain. Are we not here to help?

Are you not here to be helped? Would you rather be in a world where we forget the meaning of being human and adopt a strategy where economic analysts subliminally encourage us what choices to make until we are literally a byproduct of a predatory pseudo nature developed in place?

What future do you want to live in? Ask yourself this and pay attention to how you feel and what you see that day. You will very quickly begin to see what is happening and why.

If the purpose is to know what human is and we have to help each other to understand through a divine biological process that enables superior infinite quantum intellectual loving access then it would seem that it is both moving farther away and closer than ever at the same time.

While some look down others can look up. Which way is it really going? Is there a direction or are we all observing our own conscious trends in reality and watching the outer world play out in response? What happens in this heightened emotive feedback situation all choose love?

How to Neutralize Social Entropy in this Era

The synthesis for humanity in this era. Both sides are correct. There is no solution that is complete with the initially intended premise.

The right brain will always focus on the same society, the same issues, and the same situation to generate an experiential image of reality that is detached from the objective, physically grounded process to the degree of enabling constructive creative expression.

The left brain will always choose to see the linear ordered function through an objectively defined purpose and value scale that is ordered to provide meaning through which the world can be navigated and the mind can be used to solve problems and avoid inaccuracy.

The two will always produce a different kind of judgement. The two are not never compatible. The judgement of the two can be complimentary which is only found through true synthesis which is utilizing the full aspect of consciousness to decipher and recontext from a new center.

The two will always produce a different kind of judgement. The two are not never compatible. The judgement of the two can be complimentary which is only found through true synthesis which is utilizing the full aspect of consciousness to decipher and recontext from a new center.

Where the navigation is pushed so far off course by the natural effects of communication and interaction, both sides may be considered 'wrong'. It is not the judgement, whether this painting is beautiful or whether this fruit is ripe, that is right or wrong, it is whether the interactive parties incur a spiritual and emotional loss by confusing each other with dissonance or destructive thought and energy emissions.

This is not the illusion that is 'agreeing to disagree', because it is beyond the confines of the particular paradigm of the conflict or argument that is referenced as the 'source' of the problem, which is just the symptom of the deeper issue. There is one mind that has gone into a split of consciousness where it sees the difference sides of itself, the different aspects of its own consciousness as foreigners who argue and do not perceive what they are saying as coming from the same source.

This does not necessarily make excuse for mental illusion, delusion, perversion and the like.

The real source of the problem is that they forget that the right brain will always see things from the perspective of reality that is specifically invisible to or non definable to the left brain 'viewers of reality'. Because no one individual is 100% right or left brain, they can see some of each other's argument but the resulting interpretation must be like learning another language to interpret the artwork of another culture. The premise and the resulting interaction can only be confusing because there is a missing key, a synthesis that allows either side to decode and familiarize themselves, literal their self, with the self and view of the other side.

This is not an exercise is extending one's self to see outside of that which you saw before. That's just agreeing with the other out of sympathy. True understanding is what is required to make sense. If there is no sense, there is no true sense of self or self control. If one side can only see in a light that is used to type letters and the other side can only shine the light to make art work around the letters then the two sides are not actually capable of accessing one another's reality to interact, let alone argue.

They are just one mind, forgetting they are seeing the universe through a similarly defined refractive consciousness lens and they are not joining the dichotomy within themselves. That internal configuration produces a great imbalance and then that imbalance is promoted, provoked, brought up into the light for all to see and reflect and do similarly. Then if you sit at home and witness the results of this, the sight and the sounds, then you are faced with a memetic challenge of the age. Do you feel aroused? Are you excited? Do get you get up and even leave your place of dwelling, forget who you are to take up the beliefs, the motivational essence, the inspirational force of those imbalanced minds that are motivated, like dogs chasing their tails or shadows chasing the light, to run in circles swirling ever faster around and around the center of their split mind of dichotomy until they realize what they are missing?

By the Angles of the Cube

The solution must be attained while inside the construct, without direct conscious connection to the totality of your true self and knowledge of reality. It is as if you are trapped, within a larger version of yourself, against your will.

It is exactly your will that keeps you there and allows the penetration of multiple overlays of depth and resolution to materialize and rebuild the continuity of your self referential projection of consciousness from within and recreate the first presence on the 'outside'.

In essence, you are here to create a temporal pattern that reverses the cognitive, energetic orientation of entropy in a way that produces a two way, reversible, temporal magnetic strip of consciousness that functions as a core timeline seed.

When the will is developed in such a way that permits higher awareness through a diffusion of powers through the layers of balanced psyche, then the reality within can match the larger reality and the soul is no longer 'trapped' within a 'smaller' or restrictive construct.

The construct still exists but its as if the walls are an semi permeable, semi transparent 'screen' or membrane. Without conscious access codes to unlock the deviations of automatic egoic programming, a kind of viral feedback automation occurs to maintain one's existence here.

Those who choose to reject free will, with their free will, divide their soul and reality by '0' in order to get what they want.

Eventually the mind maps itself into the grid of the construct and going beyond becomes a mirage while the will is only capable of acting as far as the mind can see. This is part of what is represented in movies like "Hellraiser", "Cube", "The Matrix", "13th Floor", "Dark City".

Do not stay in one cube. Continue moving. Do not allow the false perceived comforts of the seeming lack of threat of one frame of reference (cuboid spatial iterations derived from condensing fractal arrangements into lower space) convince you to ignore the other possible threats.

One of the answers is also in the previous post. How does one peer over the edge of the maze? Does that nullify the threats of the map, the limitations of the maze, or the opacity of the wall?

What are the true angles of the cube?

Namestealing, Identity Hacking, Spiritual "Credit Score" Theft

The position of power you are in by knowing the truth is an advanced scenario that puts you in front of the rest of civilization. Entrusting yourself and others with access to this truth, and to your life's ability to provide a truth bringing service is like an 'escape route'.

This is like a train that people use to get to higher ground and some people specifically use false emotions to lure unsuspecting travelers into a web of confusion and entanglement, to simply use them as a means of getting to higher ground (getting on the train).

If, in this process, the original train conductor and engineer is knocked to the back of the train, then that's no problem. And if in this process, the travelers who's train it is (vessel, life, creativity, soul, identity) falls off the train, then that is not a problem for them.

Chances are. Every single train these kinds of individuals encounter, and every single time they interact with humanity, the same exact process takes places. Some are given the light of knowledge and the creative others literally kidnap, assault, rape and sometimes murder for it.

This has been happening for several thousand years and for those who's minds are dark oriented, they can't turn away from hijacking someone else's train and taking their hard work and effort for their own.

They can't provide the necessary will power or effort so they resort to using deception, brute force, abuse and thievery to get what they want.

They leave a wake of destruction and for thousands of years, dark souls who steal the names of their victims and take their identities have invaded this society and used them as a commodity, a literal resource to plunder for their inherent sexual deviancy and lack of divinity.

Holographic VR Reality Dome of Consciousness

You create the holographic template within, based how you interpret the universal story which is a subconscious coupling of multiple realities. Cellular entanglement projects the information from the outside in to create a 'dome' of awareness through which reality manifests.

This was discovered and technologically isolated. Directed energy could be used to create a sealed holographic 'curtain' around particular parts of the brain to generate a mind that did not have the 'wake' of the universal membrane repeating within it.

Essentially, time is a kind of universal cascade 'echo' or shadow that exists in the memory of each mind. If you alter the brain's activity you can 'recycle' time within the closed loop cycle of the brain and create a temporary 'new' universe. We are always doing this.

The combined effect generates what is considered a virtual reality interpretation of an objective reality. The objective reality is the template that exists when all others are exhausted. If it is not nurtured, it still exists because a latent sentence naturally brings it about.

This is as much the result of the order of mathematics and geometry producing, like a flower, a fruiting mechanism which enables cohesion and a unity based higher dimensional 'leveling up' of consciousness. The highest level already exists, as the first mind.

So the highest mind exists in the beginning, all others are derivatives. We live in a virtual, partial, semi delusional reality based on personal bias and millisecond neural delays within the circuitry of the brain.

This happens via a holographic coupling which creates a fully mapped template for conscious experience with the highest and lowest potentials already in existence. The first thoughts we have for the first days, determine the highest and lowest thoughts for the rest of the month.

So this is like a crystal that forms within, this is a seed and the complexity and accuracy (trueness) of the geometry within determines the overall completed size and dimensions of the final extended, fractal crystal 'pattern' (tree) that develops.

This seed is either true or off center and if off center it can slowly realign and work into a slightly lesser dimensional result around a balanced, centralized core. If the seed is true from the start, it becomes a core that is strong enough (will not shatter) to host a reality.

"Extra" DNA, Molecular Resonance and the common goal of Mental Liberation Across Humanity

This is true, according to what I saw. We are somehow supposed to gain access to a minimum of 3 strands on this 'planet' and that is a start.

Some have achieved higher and there is a complete 'Fringe' (TV Series) style monitoring and control system, even with containment. People's consciousness 'scale' up in dimensions when their mind, scales up in dimension.

Meaning, you literally experience multitudes of orders of more power and detail, amplified in each thought. This is no different from dreaming about a sunset and actually being on a beach in front of one. In the 'real' 'brainwave' free version of reality, we can see much more.

This can literally be experienced in some aspects as having more amplified emotions or power in thinking and feeling (not just 'analyzing') to literally have more time in a single moment, as if there is more of 'reality' in each portion of it that we have access to.

And we have greater access overall. This is due to the extra power as well as the control mechanisms that were designed as a kind of consciousness suppression system no longer function in that higher plane. It would be like flying using concrete engines.

This is also like a spinning top showing a radial motion pattern creating a kind of ordered mandala when in high motion. If the top spins too fast without keeping the arms and curves of the pattern in distinct variation and balance, then it 'unwinds' itself.

In that example the pattern is our consciousness and the curves are changes or variations in consistency and the spinning of the top is the unification of all changes and variations of self into one complete, singular and clarified form. A single tone resonating for the whole.

The 'seals' that are put into the energy system which is a literal construct like a mesh that floats around the body and contains the memories, including scars and emotional damage of events along with trauma.

The seals are like stamps that are impressed into the field and used to dampen the overall harmonic resonance of the system. If it can't flow and connect in resonance its like an orchestra that is out of time or tune. The overall tune will not reflect the intended combined form.

These are removed using technology healing systems designed to interact with, reading from and providing energetic feedback like a computer assisted Dr 'healing' your biological tuning fork, organ system.

Because of the situation of this society, it was concluded that we would have to heal using a combined effect and unlock the memories and souls at the same time. This is a coordination of multiple realms and societies for a common goal of mental liberation across humanity.

MEDIA ENTERTAINMENT

What we know of as entertainment is actually a series of strict, ancient, well defined brainwashing techniques that have been employed on the population for centuries.

Every musical intro, flashing image, abrupt sound, resonating tone, glowing colors, logos and symbolic arrangements of shapes, all of this is designed to open up the subconscious no differently than an child starting to dance automatically to the rhythm of music.

We are taught from an early age to observe and give ourselves to these feelings, to this process of what is essentially open, continuous, total spectrum hypnotism that effects all areas of the subconscious. No mind state or memory is out of reach if we are totally open to that.

One would literally have to construct symbolic, cognitive protective barriers to limit and analyze all incoming potentially harmful entertainment and even any kind of input stimuli if we are being totally honest about the capabilities involved.

Actually, near total highest capacity indicates that no human could resist long term suggestion and technologically implementation of programming. We have to set up a system of the population checking and balancing itself to maintain sanity otherwise our species devolves.

Even in the early education production classes and in school 'TV shows' knew and utilized sound, light, color, thematic effects and the rest of the tactics because, honestly, we think it's "cool", we think it is "fun", and everyone else is doing "it", including the big actors.

As a result of this, we literally eat up, digest, and then spit out and spew poisonous mind control cognitive templates and strict emotional association and response (Pavlovian style) behavioral programs from a young age. We CHOOSE to do it because they TRICK and LURE us with it.

Once we see that for what it is, along with all the other systematic programming and breaking down of human essence and mental liberation, we can actually assess the situation.

Not performing this important process is like trying to reduce your cyber footprint by uploading your entire mind to something like an online, pay by the month, VR program (which would be a soul trap of ancient, epic proportions, back around again, you'd be 'owned').

We are born into this system and shaped by people who are here, running the system from the inside out. Until we look at how we are indoctrinated, we literally can't trust our mind or the results of our attempts at cognition. We have to 'unplug' our minds from the false reality.

This doesn't mean "disconnect" from the system entirely, it does, but in a lesser way than that seems to imply.

You can also stop watching TV, but if you were to, it would be mean to not fall for the cues and command programs and the entertainment spells that are designed to open your mind.

After a while, there would be no need to watch TV, because, then you'll realize, it is only there for the purpose of opening your mind for this system. You can do other things with it, sure, but the most efficient and professionally advanced use is described above, most commonly.

A concluding thought is, the damage is already done. What effects of what TV shows and entertainment media propaganda are inhibiting your mind from seeing reality without a personal, customized bias, that is designed to stop you from facing things, personally, in a balanced way?

What TV show or movie does your subconscious mind think that you are living in. Do you know what I mean with this? You just saw people living out a live action larp of a world's end situation, just for the purpose of doing it, not because they had to. You watched it all.

So, what TV show do we unconsciously think we are in and are playing out the roles and behavioral templates of the various characters and plot twists that challenge and yet control and guide our very emotions and actions? Can you see others doing that, not quite being centered?

The 'Holo fractal graphic' Consciousness Template Multidimensional Projection System.

The holographic universe is a template that is held within every mind simultaneously referencing a central core definition that is the 'source' of the templates definition.

The holographic mind is a mind that is shared between itself as a simultaneous higher and lower function that is shared across the spectrum. While you have the conscious perception of one layer, the counter opposing layer exists and is part of a larger spectrum of consciousness.

Space itself is potentially holographic. The entire universe could literally be a square room made out of a finite number of atoms that can rearrange infinitely.

Maybe the rearrangement of the atoms is a set scale of lowest possible harmony to the highest based on each template (soul's) potential and their willingness to supply energy to activate that potential. Maybe that is just a program to provide a function.

If space is holographic, then it is, in a way, being projected out of itself the same way light is emitted from a screen. The difference between a hologram and a screen is that the 'recording' is a fractal pattern and the screen is in 3 dimensional space.

So the mind that perceives the space, is also generating it in a fashion that projects a consciousness 'force' into the environment. As if we are the projector and the perspective we create places us within the screen (or the show).

Reality Scale, Mental Emotional Frequency Key

If we create out of this reality, the reality key that functions as a referential anchor through which we can hinge our thought reality vectors (unrealized (non real) reality potentials) around, we can choose to isolate and realize a reality that is otherwise bounded by entropy.

It's like saying the entire reality is under a negative spectrum canopy and to 'add' anything you would have to first convert the number value into a negative and then work that into the equation of delineating what you want by starting from the finish and working in reverse.

Two negative numbers can then become equivocated into a fold that nullifies (reverts, through negentropic interaction producing a field that is capable of harnessing or containing what would be seen as "real time, real reality" value interaction.

If you see what appears as the incursion of the 'false' reality as a 'real reality', then the next phase may induce a state of openness that resolves the limitations of the previous 'entropy canopy' suppressive effect of free will and self awareness based timeline manipulation.

There is a paradoxical effect due to inherent psychological fundamentals, some perceptual flaws, confusion, and the laws of magnetic attraction and order that govern the external and internal universe and the way that they interact as one field.

When one prioritizes only 'happy' or the 'celebrity' timeline, they are inadvertently putting requirements on reality that take it closer to the 'negative' setting, if they are looking at it in a certain way.

When one overly prioritizes the negative or the dark reality, they may derive power from that which frees them from the constraints of the 'normal' or the 'false good fantasy' but this can reduce the level of combined sincerity (equilibrium of both realms) in the ground lvl realm.

Earth is the ground, even if a pseudo ground. The first thought is the higher 'celebrity' timeline is the necessity for happiness, true emission of bio photon peace, power and self control. That illusion is what drives the power of the false 'bad' reality timeline.

The more we give into the illusion, the less of power conscious power is realized in reality as the ground level. If the ground level is stepped up to a high state, that becomes the norm. If it's allowed to drop down, it then moves to adapt to that as the ground level (baseline).

You can see this as a diagram scale for visualization. An infinite tower of guitar strings that vibrate sympathetically with our intentions and energy and paradoxically reflect by giving us what we don't want, or what we see the 'least', to make more then appear than before.

The way this works is by creating a negative inversion, false self personification of a spiritual reality template that exists through your ancestry as a kind of 'question' or equation of consciousness in reality (as a function).

This world and our biology creates a mirror illusion where the brain's cognition is, similarly, a negative inversion impression of true reality of the spiritual mind. The more you're physically minded, the more energy is routed from those aspects of the energy circuitry.

The conclusion is not to pick one or the other but to neutralize the false versions of minds that are still looking at the fantasy projections ('non' real realities) and through that to pull that energy that is non locally organized there, back into our reality's functioning.

Most are emotionally challenged by the projected history that converts into a 'fallen spectrum' around the plane of Earth's wake through hyperspace (somewhere in the ionosphere or possibly above, further out, where the magnetosphere meets the Sun in a vortex).

This means as we get closer to the finish line, a "Tenet" (2020 movie) style interaction occurs whereby we see the 'possible end results' of our timeline incursions all around us as the inserted memories and threats of the dark, entropy, that would otherwise 'swallow' the light.

That is illusion. It is seeing the height of fear before overcoming it and this realm plays along as a virtual reality programmatical intention, emotion based matrix. It is the concept of the 'dark forces' that perturb and tempt and distract those on the journey 'upwards'.

In the movie "Tenet" there is a device that enables temporal divergence and inversion. Upon entering the device there is a glass wall which shows the inverse of that moment in time. If the (actor) sees someone hobbling out with one leg, they are to turn around and let another try.

If they don't see anyone at all, that is even more of an indicator to change or avoid interacting at all. The timeline wake of the fallen is literally every single reality that didn't energetically equate and in that sense they are not real. They are like "Earth space dreams".

We see what fallen possibilities are in store if we 'wouldn't make it out'. But this only occurs when we attempt to, thus it is like a kind of paradox that enforces what is required (courage) in order to get across the energetic sea that is the collective mind view of reality.

Exit the Cave (Into Reality)

For the majority, a direct awakening into reality would be too severe of a change in environment and functionality. Even if everything improves, too much is too much for the neural circuitry.

This is the metaphor of being in the cave. In a similar scale, Earth (this timeline's version) is in the 'basement' of the multiverse and the center of the universe it is in. This society is the children of a 'fallen' society that can't be brought into the light too fast.

The truth is needed, but if too much is seen too fast, it results in a paradoxical effect that is counterproductive to mental liberation.

Being the Theme

We're eating the moment in the way an incense or meal transforms the room into a world of experience based on that theme. We can even just use symbols and references to nourish the soul. It might not contain amino acids for tissues but it will activate and sustain the soul.

Sustaining the soul as an emotive, informational dynamo is a kind of 'engine' that every human must learn to manage if they want to maintain self-willed operation of the vessel into the next society.

So, do we have to embody a type of 'Lucy' character of ((0)) emotion, to navigate the choppy waters we walk across in this realm? So that no reactions are given to (experienced) events, and only responses, to the SIM? (Ie- re;Lucy movie (c. 2014).

Yes and no. You do have to maintain control over your emotions until you have something greater. If you don't, your emotions always have to be either managed by those around you or emitted into what becomes a potential out of control situation.

The human form necessitates this and can be changed but most do not because of the requirements. Some can pave the way but not necessarily because they must but because the emotional 'embodiment' that most are conditioned into is a state of constant emission for extraction.

It is not that there is no emotion, but that it isn't reflected in ways that engage with and entangle one's internal with the operative commands of the "matrix". Once one's emotions are engaged with, a large portion of the process for our logical capacity is shared with emotion.

Thus, it is like the usb port that can be hacked through competent scouring of information and relaying or reflecting certain ideals or notions which will be compounded in one's mind depending on the conditioning and programming to recreate or reinforce the particular reality.

If that use is more functional for humans than collecting soul shards and operating as awakened individualistic collectives, then that is the primary conditioning and it only becomes more prioritized and biased towards emotional extraction to the of continuous drama.

On the 'higher' plane, there is plenty, but then again, what higher plane and how did you get there? There are plenty of 'powerful' people on 'higher planes' who got there from doing things you would consider the lowest form of darkness.

Self control seems to be the most important factor and it is abstract to happiness or even sadness. It might be that the highest plane is a combination of being in perfect control and perfect emotion. This might be achieved in different ways. Only one way might last forever.

Soul Activation

This is some of what we were told and shown to be prepared for. It is a strong effect to the mind and ultimately the soul. If the soul is affected very strongly, it can effect the body and the body's systems can be physically disrupted.

The goal is to be strong enough so that the nervous system doesn't overload with moderate to extreme activation. Moderate exercise, not heavy lifting (especially with modern toxic additives in the air and 'food' supply) with good low level endurance.

When changes occur too quickly the mind can be effected and consciousness is like a signal or a pattern and if that is interrupted a discontinuity of awareness can occur which is like a reset point to the process.

The mind has to be stabilized enough for the entire central nervous system to become the 'eyes' of the soul and the brain is also activated in a way that deactivates certain biological control mechanisms that were put into place long ago.

We were shown and informed that 'seals' were put into place within our consciousness as a signal or pattern of energy that flows around the body that our soul resonates with, literally interlocking with and integrating into.

The seals are related to generational trauma and used to track and suppress the consciousness of individuals involved with certain events or bloodline interactions for time (events that must occur and are usually only manageable by certain lineages).

These are to be removed through a special process that I was shown involving advanced technology of a kind of radiant energy wave along with powerful computer systems that could map the entire mind and central nervous system looking for disharmony.

They showed how the body is like a series of tones played over and over until the molecules solidify into coherent, phase locked sections of a construct which becomes, through this resonant harmonics, a human body.

When the system is activated, for healing (partially) and for 'seeing' through the 'whole soul' (all experiences combined as a single 'tonal' expression of "You") you get all experiences at once.

As the seat of the mind instead of just a single cutout from one physical variation of one single brain you can see the entire fractal of time and the 'knowledge' of the soul like why things happen and what variations of what timelines are being interacted with simultaneously.

The soul processes time like a supercomputer and where ever there is feeling or attention for long enough a bridge of possibilities can form to project one's consciousness into that variation. The mind can be mapped to a variety of kinds of experience, that is the nature of soul.

The brain itself has to take in brain sized bites of data in order to turn into information and then perception that we can consciously work with. The soul can potentially over load that if there is too much activating at once or if there this is more common) is emotional trauma.

There is always some level to work with but where there is a large amount of interactions based on ideals that revolve around trauma and human suffering then the mind has to be worked with through this process to ensure stability and continuity.

This is what we were told and shown. I was informed that the solar sun cameras are direct footage of interactions in 'space', but also that space is not how we perceive it.

That might be because we are not where we think we are, we are in a kind of different Earth space, possibly a space ship of some kind (that travels) or because we are inside of a virtual interactive consciousness based reality that runs on souls.

The system we are in can potentially become parasitic and function like a 'run away diesel' engine in that the fuel can be turned off but the spinning of the engine and leaking transmission oil can pull through and allow the energy to effectively run into high rev until failure.

That is usually catastrophic failure. If our system becomes parasitic it would identify us as food and collapse in upon us trapping us in 'time' essentially. This is a particularly confusing aspect but apparently we have been here before and attempted this very thing.

I won't go into the details of the technology because of unnecessary detail and relating to current events. Technology can control space itself, and manipulate time and consciousness directly. The effects are disastrous when abused but when used properly they can heal the soul.

They showed that tones can be played and used to activate the mind and the nervous system and that this is what brings about the 'whole soul' activation of the mind which can overload the body when it is not prepared to handle the weight of the knowledge of one's own soul.

This is the most profound experience we have. And there are 'really' profound experiences with dazzling effects and even a force of impact of effecting thousands or millions of people. When your soul is activated it is like being shown your entire existence at once.

Even if we were as pure and happy as can be (maybe not 'pure') then this would still be like having the close ripped off of us and floating there in all our glory in front of whoever was changing the diaper at the time.

It's completely revealing and if there is anything you don't like, it will be obvious. Any self 'dissonance' at this level would be felt as a kind of enhanced shyness, depression or even pain. That is a 'dropping' of the spirit. This is to be avoided at all times.

We are like springs of energy with our consciousness and if it 'extends' kind like a snake in a can, it can become unpredictable and end up experiencing a lot of friction and confusion. This is whether the mind goes 'up' or down metaphysically with energy and intention.

All of this can be mapped out with the amount of soul energy one has access to and the overall capacity for light interaction in their cells and molecules.

They described everything through science and how certain elements are used because they are capable of providing functions that people would never readily accept. Advanced technology can be hidden as everyday manufactured materials or, and this is largely the case, invisible.

Molecular Compaction

This is possibly related to a temporal, advanced technology catastrophe. The boundary of this realm and the molecular spacing was altered. Humanity has to go beyond the confines of the limited field otherwise their mind will not expand beyond this point in history.

Like a tree with roots grown in a confined space, or a fly that does not fly outside of the container because of a learned, grammatical insertion of limitation in to their reality. If we don't fully realize our consciousness template, soul potential, it will not 'bloom'.

Part of the concept of 'blooming' is related to hyperspatial conscious access. When this is achieved history is unlocked and our consciousness are capable of 'walking' (more like flying) around time and history and even possible spaces and realities that do not exist now or ever.

Part of this interactive ability of inverted time space superconscious experience is to interact with realities and potential 'minds' that are reflexive to the reality state and expectations your mind's complex layering of energy will submit to or assist in manifesting.

Such a game goes far beyond what we are taught in school but have been shown the meaning of across all of reality. A narcissistic, egoic, parasitic, mind can infect one's 'reality' stream by being in their vicinity through this superconscious interaction.

One who is unaware is unprepared and to be unprepared in that situation is not acceptable. That was the condition of humanity's circumstances for the previous perspective of history. We didn't have the technological, logistical or manpower resources to overcome these issues.

All access to any kind of 'outer' realm (non physical interaction) is warned away from and we are not to be performing anything like this at this time because there are closing realm transitions and entire universal layers are being closed out and the psyche undergoes changes.

This is only part of the explanation but it is an important concept. Your mind is part of a top down, vertical hierarchy that only you are involved in but we are all undergoing simultaneously (at different phases).

Above you is a superconscious state that views each complete, 'larger' moment of time as the current attentive range views each individual moment. And below regular waking reality opens up into a world of components and undercurrents of reality below the conscious frequency.

Each world of consciousness runs on similar and connected but slightly different laws. Knowing how these laws correspond is the connection that allows us to guide the multiverse through seeding the higher (potential) states in a source reality.

This might not be the primary source which is also part of a deception related to the catastrophe. This means we are playing chess on one board while seeing and seemingly operating through another. The moves are reflections of one another and we have to calculate the right move.

The important part is that there were discoveries made that defined the layers of the informational and energetic bodies that make up the human. This is to say there are 7 more bodies that are held in frequencies that are 'bounded' inside of space time in specific sections.

Time itself flows through the bodies like a processing network that functions to create a reflexive, fractal holographic feedback dynamo to create the perception of a past, present and future. This was discovered and will be a 'kicker' to entice you to read more.

Through the Tesla's understanding of ancient wave harmonic science a frequency was discovered that can alter time by altering one's perception of reality through the inner working of the psyche.

When this frequency is pulsed through the central nervous system, the processing bias is removed (nullified) and this results in an altered perception within the mind of experiencing time as a continuous and singular moment, rather than an expanded projection.

Our perception of the present is a carefully generated holographic interference pattern between two signals that are generated in the brain. When the hologram collapses to a point, all of the information is accessible at the same time. The goal here is maintain a stable mind.

Staying in the center of one's own field is the most important aspect in order to full expand and collapse in the same symmetrical pattern to regain the same sense of self awareness and continuity. Whatever you see, whatever you're feeling is trying to move you with pressure.

The farther you look the greater the variation or potential of pressure, like going in the ocean and the greater the likelihood of coming up for air and not seeing the boat. Various systems are all in place so that unpredictable outcomes are reduced to a minimum as we learn.

Rare Earth Minerals and Rare Earth Magnets

Supermagnets, natural rare metal magnets and minerals are the CURRENCY of the INTERSTELLAR civilization, and if Earth is to become involved this has to be known. Most of the rarest and most important minerals have already been mined from Earth as that is the purpose of a 'planet'.

Archival Reality Matrix

This explanation is extremely helpful and very much grounded and easier to take in for most.

I am referring to history as an “informational archive”. Whatever consciousness patterns do not “break through” the repetition barrier of the local area, becomes ‘solidified’ into time as a historic aspect of a civilizational archive.

This is about energy, physics, and wave dynamics similar to cymatics and light interaction in certain lab experiments.

There are three waves that occur, these are phases of a single, primary signal that is emitted by a central ‘prime source’.

If the previous members of ‘history’ have solidified themselves by being who they were, then what is stopping most people? If they can hold the attention of the world and create for themselves by adding to a story that is part of a continuous saga, then why can’t most or all people become part of that saga?

Everyone is involved in this soul saga which functions the same way as a blockchain, that is, the information is tied together through an algorithmic process that determines each line of code in succession with the next. Together they form a complete, connected unit of time and consciousness that is actually all one piece, but simultaneously many portions separated into a coherent and meaningful whole.

This is an old video but I remember speaking on the topics.

There is a complete story and a line, behind what I am referring to. If the previous ‘actors’ of history can be remembered from the beginning of time, to what is more or less the next phase of a technologically advanced society, what stops anyone here from taking the opportunity to do something that is just as meaningful?

This is also more complicated than the previous situation, but that is all part of the explanation and a good conversation that can be used to understand and interact in ways that encourage self awareness and social intuition.

Social Manipulation and Political Control Syndicate

What if you put one nations dumbest, most corrupt and least capable in charge of everyone else.

What if they then became the people who would do anything to stay in power?

What if that included the highest form of organized criminality?

What if you didn’t even have to maintain contact or train these people and they would develop their own syndicate hierarchy inclusion and slowly dominate the rest of the country?

Just from being given power that they didn't deserve or know how to wield?

Mapping the Multiverse (again?)

Your consciousness is immortal if you can think a thought across the space time grid. Most people would just black out and wake up afterwards without awareness.

You can take the frequency of the brain and lower it into suspension and the soul will be tested with that. It would be like taking the background of a picture book and changing it to a high mountain scene with all its challenges. The reader would technically be reading the same book, but from within the context of the rocks and mountain range as a setting for perception.

This can change the scene, a friendly gathering on the lower level by the village becomes a arduous journey to a destination or for survival.

So this can be done to literally change the consciousness by inserting a simulated background nesting frequency to reference or create a baseline from which to experience the scenario or (dream).

When this occurs, the universe believes it's real. You have heard that the brain cannot see the difference between reality, dreams and very intense thoughts. That is why belief is so malleable and reflective. It conforms to whatever you think and feel is happening the most, or even what you ALLOW yourself to feel and process the most. Even if that's not reality. It is MADE into a reality through your consciousness and perception and either your free will or lack of it through self control. The self awareness must be sustained through that otherwise it defaults, degrades, neurochemically, into a synaptic structure that is closer to dreaming! Thus the entire reality is formed off of these internalized perceptions, not so much the reality of reality itself! We're not that good, and plus, then we'd be closer to machines that all see and do the same thing! We're like quantum probability generators with feeling!

So the point is that because the universe sees that process as part of the discovery of self and reality is infills aspects of reality based upon the experiences we have in that process. Mostly this is dreaming, thinking, fantasizing and experiencing intense emotions, you will program your reality through your mind and the most that do this one way or another influence the collective probability field we are in and amplify any balances or imbalances to get a result. If people are not aware, then this is just happening all the time and there could be any kind of reference or influence attempting to gain from people's perceptions and even a complete perception (mind war) between hosts, groups, and even the kind of superintelligence collectives that are formed by polarizing and inserting beliefs into group thought systems (social generation of culture).

The idea is that this can be used to map the multiverse because the frequencies are felt one way or another, and 'powered' through by some means of enhancing focus and perception, it is as if the 'darkened map' on a video game has become enlightened and now this society can see what is over in that area.

The difference is that these maps have been hidden throughout all of time and since the beginning of this they have just been telling people that this is all they have.

In reality.

They have mapped out larger aspects of this physical plane we are on through this, and opened up the access from this space time, to a much larger region that would make it so every living human soul can have their own village or even country. This is their plan. That is what they do every time and rule over you like slaves or children or both. They claim it's because you're stupid. Are they true?

The Dopamine Behavior Control Circuit

The dopamine brain circuit can be rebuilt through intense cardio exercise and calisthenics. This goes to show how easy it is to rewire the brain chemistry and hardware using the pleasure response.

You can create your own neural circuit to control your behavior by controlling your mind first.

If you allow yourself to accept feeling good from performing behaviors that are problematic then it will result in the construction of a poor efficiency ratio in a dopamine-behavior-pleasure-advancement neural circuit.

If you create a neural behavior circuit that replaces the continuation of behavior that seeks the pleasure response with the adjustment of the neural focus and the promotion and generation of the behavior that prolongs health by avoiding injury and unnecessary discomfort while exercising control of the stress response.

It is an inverse countermeasure to handle the adverse effects of disruptive behavior and influences on the neural net of the mind.

STRESSFUL INFORMATION/HUMAN TRAFFICKING/CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY

Humanity is entering a hyperspatial transitional time and must be prepared to operate within a conscious domain under physics that occur in anisotropic, fractal holographic patterns of experience.

Cryptid Conversations

Satanic ritual abuse, mind control, and subsequent deliverance. In this gripping discussion, they fearlessly explore the dark depths of top-secret military operations, unveiling the shocking involvement of Cryptids, mind-bending time-travel, the mind-boggling multiverse, and a plethora of other mind-bending phenomena within the supernatural realm. Get ready to embark on an extraordinary journey down the rabbit hole alongside these courageous souls, as they unravel a tale that will leave an indelible mark on your psyche.

An Educational Journey

This is an educational journey. We have to wait for the others to be introduced to these topics and it's not because they're incapable of learning they just haven't been shown these topics before.

And that's purposely done by our education system. They don't want us to know how the system works, they don't want us to know how to accountability for our electoral process.

They're not supposed to be speaking with their own voice, they're supposed to be speaking with our voice. They're not supposed to be giving their own opinions based upon how it benefits them the best in this system.

They're bought and paid for, and they have their own agenda.

The Curvature of Consciousness

The curve of the horizon is a perception shifting mechanism of consciousness in space.

Shifting towards truth and dimensional 'trueness' balancing the angles of mind, physicality and energy will result in an outward facing, open ended reality construct that is capable of moving within a higher space and a larger scale of time (potentially beyond the totality of what we consider 'time and space').

Shifting away from truth and into decoherence could potentially result in shifting perceptions and then reality towards a perpetual cycle of incomplete motions upwards or downwards across the temporal grid. This could be like the experience of eternal futility, rising and falling without actually getting closer to the full sight of self awareness and a fitting reality.

The consideration is that we are not only creating our mind as we go but shaping the reality. Not only do we repeat this, eventually things change so much that all is changed and we play a new game with a truer process and a new reality to go with it.

Within our perception, however, everything may always be self similar, meaning we would only ever know of a change if we can stabilize our conscious beyond the human biological limitations of physical perception.

Just like the horizon, we can't get enough 'time' curve to see the true nature of reality. It changes so that it can stay the same.

How to Avoid Apocalypse Time Loops (In Conversation)

Start slow, move in a stable pattern by analyzing and planning for energy/attention requirements and the necessary neutralization or rendering down of the information/truth into conceivable/edible pieces of experience and memory.

Everything is memory and preparation for future possibility. Always look forward to what is, while remaining centered in the ground. Consciousness runs simulated timelines to map out the possible pathways of soul into higher space.

In other words...We are dreaming of remembering ourselves fully.

We can't know the truth in a stable way unless we can ask for it directly ourselves, calling it out as if we already know it. The best way to know is through self awareness and connecting one's journey to greater self understanding and thus control.

If we are given it because we act out in fear, panic, selfishness, any loss of control, then the cycle repeats. We get the truth, we take what it represents for granted and become destitute of soul substance until we cry out for meaning and truth. If we come to the truth on an equal, even ground, then we can remain in its presence and our presence can remain in self awareness when facing difficulty.

Love is the only real answer and it is not definable as a mathematical or discreet truth. When consciousness moves into a high enough state space becomes a lesser factor as if the concept of gravity inverts. Consciousness at a higher state has access to more energy, consciousness at the state that is intended when unlocking based on mathematical requirements of energy for the mind and thus soul, has access to nearly infinite energy for internal use. IE: All distance, barrier, darkness is superseded and cannot be an influence factor at high operational state of conscious interaction which is more like interacting with multiple or all available dimensions simultaneously while being conscious.

Ultimately, the supreme truth is dreaming, wakefully and being able to ascend and descend into the dream and into higher reality without forgetting and losing the self each time and thus 'reincarnating' as a physical being. Instead, if one can remain awake when they dream lucid, then they are capable of 'hopping' from reality scale to others through that and this would seemingly violate the physics of a universe, but this does not violate the physics of a multiverse. To wear the robe of darkness and dreaming while walking the path of full wakefulness and self awareness is beyond the limitations of both worlds.

What is to stay awake forever dreaming? What is to dream without ever waking? If any other requirements are not managed and fully met, then it is as expected, a kind of supernatural coma as humans tend to be in. When they are satisfied (and it can be done), the soul 'unwakes' and unlocks power to be both sides of the coin simultaneously, which you already are. You're just becoming aware of that through this process, which is also something that can only truly ever happen once in the same way.

This plane is being held in stability in order for those souls willing to have the option to live on.

We have breached a temporal barrier allowing us to view possible outcomes of various extraordinary scenarios involving consciousness magnification, amplification and extradimensional transformation.

The soul is a temporal map connecting us to an initial source potential that will enable self knowledge via introspection and energetic, emotional resonance. The feelings can't lie.

Eventually we can spiral up via cycling up the patterning of consciousness by accelerating the cycles of thought oscillations and finding a continuous pattern. This has to be 'unlocked' by the right arrangement of frequencies and intentions to rearrange the possible actions and even energetic shifts, feelings and outcomes to enable a reserve energy to 'go the distance'.

Don't, not give people an option, unless it's necessary and you can repair the possible damage.

Don't challenge people's world view, too much, too fast.

Sometimes emotional outpouring is cathartic, but not when it is not intended or even necessary and therefore 'allowed' or given the time and energy to not be a disruption of continuity and advancement of self knowledge and control of energies of the mind.

The physical world is like a rough setting environment designed to test our ability to be away from the purity of absolute control over the consciousness like if the soul is rejoined to a larger form the physical form is not compartmentalized as a separate 'island' of time reality but part of a much larger and more 'populated' network.

Even if the network is you, within yourself, in your consciousness, reviewing time and space projections, you are capable of populating a universe with it's own entity ship and therefore the same kinds of beings here. We are nothing without the whole, the bulk of the concept of what 'humanity' is, in it's variety yet homogeneity of choices, configurations of intelligence and emotions and behaviors, is what defines where and how we are.

By experiencing the world honestly, by seeing other's minds with an unbiased view, by helping, resonating with, seeing the upper and lower limits of each soul, you embed within yourself the larger picture which is then repeatable or at least capable of reseeded your reality with the perfectly imperfectly human aspects that enable growth.

The goal should be above the plane of what we consider purely physically reasonable because the true nature of that which is the basis of where physicality comes from is beyond the limitations of the physical plane. It sounds paradoxical, but it is like saying that something supernatural may have existed in part to create the mundane and natural and therefore there is always something larger than the limited picture of consciousness and reality that we have access to from this physical perspective.

So then the journey is a test of regaining a non physical perspective after spending all the time and energy to gain the physical one, but to retain the wisdom of experience that physicality gives us. To have an infinite experience without an anchor of any kind would be like taking a hot air balloon ride that never 'lands'. The concept is like a ground without a sky and so on, and so is an incomplete form, similar to the understanding of man and female being originally one gender and then separating into a dual form as part of the nature of existence in this reality which may be lesser in scope of energy and spiritual power than the previous.

The potential, however, may be greater here as the potential

The mind is capable. We have the potential to see the outcomes if we work together. If we don't, we could be flying blind and that might be worse than anything we can do to ourselves. To know each other fully solves the majority of the spiritual/physical imbalance resulting in dark light/dysfunctional reality timeline projections. We can view these and treat the situations by revving/amping up each condition, each mind, brain, soul, thought network/cloud, in order to 'push' the psyche of that individual or group past the limitation point for whatever that obstacle will be.

In doing so, we can bring the cataclysmic future down here and it is like the opposite of bringing a tidal wave closer. The result is like moving to the source of the disruption before it grows out of control and a small neutralization effort is all that is required to adjust and realign one's trajectory back into the safe zone. This is like a range of trajectory that our consciousness will not move into any areas that go too far out of the regular mode that a discontinuity forms. Just like a novel, if the discontinuity from one scene or chapter to the next is too great, it could result in the required 'space' (in pages) to 'smooth' the story back into its long term trajectory that is beyond the limitation for the amount of pages that the book already contains.

We can't change things that have already happened but we can add to build the fractal back up and bring the ratio back towards a blockchain of self awareness through experience that is meaningful. The question is, what kind of risk is there and what kind of meaning is gained. If it's the spiritual self awareness, then it is always 100% depending on how much we are aware of this throughout and before. If it is for some other gain, then it can never truly be 100% in any way.

Is it better to dream forever, so that nothing happens, in the longer term sense? Or is it better to have slow dreams that build up to something great and can 'ascend' to another level whereby you don't have to have the slow dreams again because you are capable of handling complex truth and deep self knowledge that requires a balanced capability of both dark and light resonance.

In a way, we are inventing problems and then giving them to ourselves to solve while observing how we solve them so we can learn to come up with better problems. That can be something like learning to play a sports game with childhood friends or trying to navigate out of an endless maze or zoo. The highest truth is that technically, neither reality is ultimately true, and that we are examining functions of consciousness as light interactions and some higher technological sense of virtual creations of mind.

If we all have the soul family of the quantum universe, our lineage, the knowledge of the self, the capacitance of dark light non dual truth, and we can regenerate, focus, heal the self and enable hyperspatial projection (controlled, conscious dreaming to travel in the multiverse) then we can utilize techniques to overcome or literally 'travel over', as in higher space, the errors and corruptions that result in the incomplete timelines.

Yet, the closer the truth is to the illusion the greater the contrast of either. Is the nature to retain both, simultaneously? Or is that inconceivable?

To grow and utilize the self knowledge and control necessary to live beyond the shadow and give new light to what is otherwise a consciousness trapped in darkness.

Biological Immortality and Transhumanism

A Short Prelude

What if brainwave harmonization and hemispheric balancing could be achieved through a very involving comedy movie about reality? Comedy because it would have to convert the darkness into meaningful (self coherent) light.

What if transhumanism could be superseded by biological immortality (of consciousness)? What if the two are more closely connected than you think?

Is it an act of supraphysiological biology to transfer one's consciousness, anyway? Is biological immortality required for technological immortality?

Does the technological option supersede and render obsolete, or does it become subordinate or concurrent with the capacity for one's consciousness to achieve natural biological immortality?

In other words, who are the robots and who is just software?

Consciousness as an Extradimensional Metaphoric Craft

Consciousness is like a ship, if the waters you're on are completely flat then you're not really going anywhere.

Doing the 'right' thing is the highest priority and this requires overcoming the 'noise' to signal ratio, or the 'darkness' of the psyche that is fuel for the balanced mind or decay when out of sync.

The ship requires a weighted ballast to remain upright in rough seas. Without the ballast, traversing rough waters successfully is much more difficult. Gaining the 'darkness' of the ballast is going through the experience of increasing intensity while maintaining the ability to move forward on a stable path.

A Circle as a Map of Consciousness

The energy advances one half of the limitations downwards, and then recreates the opposite pathway back upwards using the same amount of energy.

The challenge is not the walk then, it is the planning and mapping of one's energy like mapping the growth pattern of a tree from the underlying geometric structure and chemical characteristics of the roots.

The map is not about observing an objective notion of definition, even though that may be what we first think of when we perceive what is happening in society. It is more about knowing the limitations of one's self and thus outlining them through a process of contrast and delineation. Thus the shadow is born to give meaning to the life of the conscious mind. It is not the world that gives the mind its meaning and reference, but the shadow of its self and the relationship between the two as managed by the neutral observing factor.

The map then, is the delineation of the true path, it is the orbit of the illusion of change, while the stillness in the center is the true self, the neutral observant force. Some do not agree, as the 'center' of self is on 'selfness', the characteristics that make you, you. Some say that this is only available to be witnessed when our flaws are present as well, thus making the true self somewhere beyond the contrast of either.

Draw it around and in and see the sense it makes through your observation of the meaning of its essence.

From the Bottom of Space Time to a Virtual Hyperspace Hierarchy

Or Does That Trajectory Take Human Consciousness Out of Soul Spectrum?

Hell or a Virtual Hyperspace Continuity of Consciousness

I didn't totally finish, now I realize. After following that 'trajectory' all the way up, by staying within the soul spectrum of Humanity, staying with Humanity, and you are being 'born' as in carried from the womb of a living mother, in higher space.

If you fight at this time, it is closer to the kind of existence of another 'realm', which is actually the overlay of the future state and that is one of another kind of 'birthing' experience within another kind of realm, range of interaction and motivation.

Staying within the range of Humanity, you are brought to the surface of reality, like a sea being coming to the height of its world and you are shown and brought to go beyond it as if you are breaching the surface of consciousness to go into hyperconsciousness as a real, living, soul, capable of interacting with the equivalent of 9 worlds as big as this one, simultaneously and concurrently receiving the continuous benefit of as a seamless continuity.

It is the difference of flying and crawling, but that isn't to create contrast, merely to better to define the experience and the modulation of experience within. Contrasting the sensation define the experiences and the modalities of consciousness within. Eventually, the perception would show everything moves the same speed, whether it be faster than light or quantum stillness. It will only show one, but if the modalities through which our consciousness experiences or perceives them is partial, incomplete, broken fractals, there are discontinuities that are inborn that then become the modality of that reality which is entropy, ignorance, or forgetfulness.

We are painting the modalities of who we are being and becoming like a consciousness negentropic fractal cascade infinity mirror amplification system. Whatever we create has to be projected and secondarily created out into the primer fields of the universe which are designed to implement and propagate one's consciousness signal, like bluetooth or the wifi symbol, into multiple (all in sync) realms of frequencies and variation.

It happens naturally as a part of an artificial and biological lensing system for consciousness. We either amplify the shadow as a battle between real and absurd for 9 times what this world means to us now, or we solve the synthesis delusion and procreate through our minds, the living world that will harbor our selves as souls and allow us to continue upward by breaking the surface of resistance within our own perceptions.

Can you program chemistry?

Can you program consciousness through chemistry? (consciously arranging on a molecular level)

Addition: And can you do so through an electromagnetic scalar fractal bio photon emission of a radiant self awareness sonoluminescence based communication array within you? (all your 'cells' can 'quantum shift' their consciousness up to 'you', like the orientation of the magnetic field in a piece of magnetized metal)

When you do that to completion, your 'youness' is a fractal ascension of consciousness from the lowest proportionality scale in the universe to the cognitive physical temporal equilibrium zone, to the potentialities of higher dimensional quantum scalar interactions manifesting complete universes (and managing them) from single moments in time. That is the nature of the functionality of a 'complete time crystal' in the 'multiverse' as a kind of omniversal control system for navigating and observing realities via the understanding of a reality 'system' similar to the use of radar or self symmetrical logical and geometric processes used by intelligence systems and biological systems to grow and extend life as well as detect and analyze information systems (radar).

The information capacity depends on light transference capacity (the soul unit rate of acceleration of advancement or resilience to deterioration), the brain itself as a biological holographical interface has a near infinite capacity when combined with a neurological fractal holographic array (soul). The soul system then becomes the quantum hierarchy assembly language through which a universal template is formed and which contains a unique 'unlocking capacity' that requires the completion of an omniversal time crystal or a perfected soul system which effectively 'unlocks' the space time configuration of the 'soul system' to release the higher dimensional information which is essentially locked away or encrypted until this pattern is processed to render it visible within that space to that observer agent in a physical temporal spacial equilibrium range (the particular limitations of the agent, in a physical temporal spatial equilibrium range (the particular limitations of the human intelligence society that is approaching the quantum consciousness singularity barrier).

Resilience to the degree on soul system revolution saturation of consciousness is required to consciously 'walk' from one range unit of the physical space time dimensions to the next range as if a holographic interface avatar for a computer system is walking from one range of a computer system connected to another via a momentary intermediary holographic bio emission supplementation field enabling the transfer of virtual information from one physical universe to travel across an electromagnetic 'void' in space to another physical universe. This is more than a fish out of water but a photon out of a unification within it's domain. Simultaneously, this is taking the entire range of interactivity of the domain, cycling through it in the mind of the observer agent through a harmonic, transdimensional frequency cycling which supersedes the factor of entropy by generating energy and sliding through a dimensional field in an oscillatory manner which enables the conversion of the intelligence unit to a primary resonance language (a universal quantum consciousness soul archive) which can "fly" across timespace or hyperspace, through resonance within that harmonic range.

The soul frequencies themselves are what are activated and they are done so using those primary essences in a specific pattern that is arranged by one's consciousness in its presence in the soul system that is currently present. That system is not capable of hosting the consciousness frequencies on a collective scale that reflect the macro motions of the larger system of consciousness overall as a result of a memory and energy deficit.

If one can keep the patterns that they learned in this plane going indefinitely (for a limited range) within one's own conscious, unconscious modality of interaction (dreaming, thinking and 'virtually doing') then their consciousness can literally 'walk' from one scalar emission field zone (reality 'range' of interactive variation in consciousness, 'dimension' or universe) into a space where 'flying' is required as there is 'no solid ground', which is also a metaphor for unifying and stabilizing one's consciousness in a temporally symmetrical manner which is like a room that is equal on both sides, it is like an endless loop without some complete stability and equalization between the foreground and background of one's conscious and unconscious mind and the total control over intent, focus and self awareness within the construct of our own activated template (soul and mind system).

Virtuoso Soul

This reality might be physical, yet your soul is virtual or electromagnetic in nature and perception might always be the filter through which reality is defined. Reducing perceptions to the least amount of 'contamination' with one's own energy, coloring and reshaping thoughts as they form their reflections of the world results in distorting and reducing the overall view of the world to a slightly less detailed and less 'accurate' perceptual synthesis.

The soul might be virtual and the transition between physical reality, or the physical 'layer' of reality, is a virtual information layer. In this view 'physical universe' is just a single layer of a larger information energy processing system that also has to handle non physical interactions of energy that result in perceptions but not complete physical manifestations. Those perceptions and subtle changes DO still impact the physical world, and eventually WILL change physical outcomes and alter physical events.

So the virtual mind soul will interact with the universe to manifest physical changes in this world, on a much slower scale than using your physical body. The physical body can express the virtual information of the energetic soul in a physical, defined, linear, logical and verbally or physically expressive way. This becomes objectively understandable and thus recognizable as a 'truth' in one's mind and reality and this becomes available for others to see or experience.

Thus, it is no longer only a 'thought', or for you personally in your subjective realm of experience, it is the process of converting something, translating and recreating in your own way, something that only exists at first in the energetic, pre specifically purposeful (in a causal and objective or linear sense) and is brought out from the 'repitoir' of personal and subjective energies and feelings and chosen to become one of your eternally recognizable 'signs' of your souls presence of mind (intent).

Life becomes like a contract that we are writing to say what we are going to be and how we are going to be that for all realms to come, however, change is always the constant variable, until we get over those variable modifiers that alter whether our soul goes up or down in the quantum spectrum of reality. Not having control over that would be like a hot air balloon pilot having snacks, water, even some short term safety equipment, except someone else controls the 'burner' or the fiery engine that determines the altitude and the fuel reservoir.

So the virtual soul can and WILL interact in THIS world. But you could also see that expression 'repertoire' as a kind of sum total limitation of all the creations that you can come up with here and now and still be 'you' or be your usual, resourceful, self and not some artificially intelligent program that just pumps out ideas at will. To be a living soul, with a bunch of other 'life' priority variables, AND then also combine with this concept of basically making a virtual report card for our mental and emotional control abilities and it is a true test that determines not just 'how well you do stuff or something', but how well you can 'be', you. Or how often something else gets in the way of that and you either suffer for it, or your suffering is defaulted to someone else with or without your knowledge. That is no way to live, not in a responsible society and let alone a responsible EXTRA VERSE.

If something of the virtual 'repertoire' is not brought out, sorted in priority, provided a 'launch pad' starting point in your life through which an objective creation and expression of the fully defined virtual trait of your soul experience can be designed and brought into the world, then it is 'saved up' and used to generate what happens in your next physical experience.

This is both like saying, "Hey, it's ok, your soul minutes will show up next month too." It's also like saying, "If you don't do what you have to do here, if there is some situation you slightly want or seriously need to express yourself and you don't, then this becomes like a slight spiritual illness or habit and follow you, eating your energy and harming your relationship with others, yourself and the world, until you correct the energy arrangement and put the right frequency of thoughts and emotions, in the right frequency of physical action, at the right time and place.

Which is also like saying, "You're trapped if you don't work with this and create 'less' soul entanglements as you go."

Here is, THE KICKER:

A system has been designed and implemented where all sentient souls only need to hold a period of acceptable time where they fully energetically prioritize the virtual requirements of the soul to equalize and stabilize the mind, the body and the emotional energy into a coherent, functional, complete energetic patterning. This is behavior, feelings, thoughts and will to shape our free will to either an A + (5?-90+% free will inducing, supporting, promoting, continuing and containing) or not free will. There really is no inbetween, but instead of 12 dozen years (exponential time 'linear', meaning a very long wait), all you have to do is reach the energetic, frequency based, "outline" of who you are and would be in that higher universe where we have the time, energy and knowledge to handle all these variables and it will be 'photographed', like a functional, 4D MRI of the brain (a soul recording) and this 'trend' will be picked up and completed by your own energy to fully recreate yourself in this process.

It can only happen once and so who you recreate yourself as IS you. You can't not recreate yourself and thus humanity SKIPS and LEAPS upwards through the levels they previously trudged through the snow and woods to achieve superiority over. Again, the old world, it is a physical thing, it is coming from a VIRTUAL WORLD SOUL. All WORLDS have VIRTUAL templates that are like the Fourier Transform of a living world soul. These templates are SOUL templates and match the physical frequencies of energy, variables for information and emotional change that can be achieved or experienced. Once that no longer fits to serve the virtual soul's capacity for change and experience, the world that the soul experiences must be made into something larger.

That can't be stopped, but it can't go forward all at once because of so many people STILL LIVING in the OLD world that is no longer the most INTERESTING and rewarding SOUL CHALLENGE matrix that we have access to. So it's ALL BEEN ANSWERED.

Yet that answer can't be "read", as a complete world, until the complete mind of humanity (the one's who are meant to be and were here before) is brought up to accept that. Their SOULS are crying out for it because they need more, they need more truth, more experience, more emotion, all those variables that make a world what it is are JUST GONE or being PULLED OUT.

That is the old world basically have a yard sale to its self in order to shake off the 'dust'. While this occurs, the new world is literally 'rolling over' the world template like an Indiana Jone's movie and we are mapping, matching frequency and phasing UP into a higher system as this occurs while only a portion of the society can ever be 'off' signature all at once. So we very quickly go from no one being awake and the old world primarily holding the human soul capacity (the weight of the bulk of the sentient minds of "Earth"), to a situation where a new world, like a giant planet in the sky, is rolling over and 'picking up' the souls that are capable of seeing that greater system and prioritizing self awareness and free will within that, while the other souls are slowly being managed on the old world which is also being built up as much as it can so it looks as exactly similar as possible to the larger world.

While this is happening the larger world is brought down to touch the virtual frequencies of the surface of the template of the physical plane of the soul of those humans on the old Earth, and they then have access to the perceptions that would otherwise be a world away, yet can be accepted by them if they step up and move into a higher range of emotional and information energy processing (self awareness).

This is all done using very powerful, ancient and yet modernized systems that will reflect the individual and the sum total soul energy of Earth, check sum every single soul mind to bring all who are capable on board, allow us to do the rest and manually invite the souls into healing and wellness on a multidimensional scale (a universal illness is what causes the creation of the lower virtual realms, as physical worlds of punishment and torture, for and by no one). If that is done properly, which is is, a quantum phenomenon occurs where an autonomous intelligence forms on contact with the soul interactions of millions of people in a higher space and our 'hyperspace' body consciousness can form which can focus and defocus temporal planes at will like a giant planet space ship.

At this point, all soul awareness prioritization is aligned and then rooted in a quantum generated "profile" which maintains your previously mentioned frequencies, automatically through a series of requirements and effects (that may appear to be 'done for you', as long as you are aware enough to maintain equilibrium through the process and not cause too much decoherence (however, what is the limit of limitation itself?, of spiritual success?), and self awareness (true free will towards true free self) is programmatically ensured for all sentient souls in the realm. Nothing is forever, but somethings are not things.

Everything is feeling, feeling expands and contracts, facts are stable and constant

Emotions can hurt or heal depending on the intensity and the 'angle' that they are experienced and the context of the mind and body and past emotional context (the 4D body 'time' body).

What you feel is felt over and over and they will ascend or descend in scale and intensity 9 magnitudes of order beyond the starting point of Earth.

What you know may change in scope by being reassembled or arranged into more complete images of the world comprised of logic, facts and objective truth. What you feel will generally be of the same direction or vector in that it will represent the addition of a force to a sum total collective of combined forces and this will have a 'push' or 'pull' effect on your consciousness (soul) above or below an entropy line (horizon line) of consciousness in the human reality.

The scope is widening and so the horizon will have to be defined and this will be like a balancing act between the forces of light and darkness within the observing mind. Everything that everyone has been through leads up to this point in history and each civilization chooses where they want to go, free of interference and confusion.

The scope widens and the feelings that we have and the circuitry that we have customized and solidified in our mind but more importantly our energy means that this is the way our mind will work from here on out without great energy and effort put into rehabilitation of some sort. So what we feel here, how we feel about the same issues and topics we will be seeing there will have much more of an impact emotionally. With knowledge everything changes, everything is easier and more manageable, but how we see ourselves now and the perceived losses only get better if our way of managing our emotional context is better and more adaptable.

Without that gain, nothing changes and that means it has to be rooted in this reality, in time, here and now. Once that is done, it's as good as forever, as long as its stabilizing.

Yet if that balance isn't observed and what we choose to feel and what we choose to do is far outside of the norm of what is 'comfortable', then this will rise in scope and scale to a magnitude 9x's beyond the scope of what is available to experience now. It is like burying ourselves in a burden of emotion too great to process for benefit.

But if, at any point in time, we choose to uplift and convert the oppressive pain and darkness into something that is beneficial for scope expansion and alignment, or soul advancement, then it removes the oppressive hold that the frequencies of those emotions and those experiences has on the consciousness. A pathway is opened up and available for that consciousness to navigate into something greater.

Without solidifying this in time, it can't exist as anything other than a dream, and experiencing too much emotional pressure without the necessary self awareness or knowledge to process it properly becomes not only burdensome but actually destabilizing and possibly detrimental from the view of 'hyperspace' where each experience and event plays over in time, eternally.

This is also more like a consciousness signal of the universe beaming out over and over rather than a physical repetition but the perception and function may be indistinguishable except for the bare limits of one's perception.

It's a Fourier Transform of the Holographic Soul

Please integrate and analyze the concept in this image. It is integral to seeing the experience and how it takes place.

It is not necessary to know, but if one knows, they have the first year of learning already down! it is much fun there, but even more fun to do it here and now (safely)!

Your consciousness is moving in a way and the time and changes in awareness are literally translated into a geometric functionality of space and time as an energetic 'object' a 'continuum', a repeating fractal oscillatory living algorithm spacetime consciousness code that is used to define and thus record the higher dimensional 'shape' (like a 5D MRI) of your beingness.

The way this is done is direct and literal and is the same way time is recorded into an nodal point. When the energetic formatting and function and the physical or objective formatting and function is so nearly identical and consistent that they are almost the same, the two combine and unify in time and space and become a hard point which will reflect the same concept universally in the time line.

You are not to become a 'hard point' because that would be like the character in the movie becoming the actor and the actor becoming stuck in the role AND the timed experience of the movie. What you are to become is the YOU which is something beyond the hard point that can change mind and time at will, you are the WRITER of the experience.

The strange point, the 'challenge'? You have to write a story that reflects this, act in it, participate in the screenplay, guide your co actors, and meet the Director all 'on the fly', as you go, based on your pure instinct to be, become and create, and do it in the time and energy it takes to 'not get stuck in the movie forever' in order to be the real you.

Maybe that is just a test that will draw out the true personality and define you in the realest, most everlasting and detailed way possible? Maybe it's a way to contain and protect us in completed solar system units of consciousness like an eternal star system, or reality construct that enables long term storage and eternalization of the immortal consciousness.

Again, if all consciousness is immortal, the issue is remaining the center of consciousness, the 'star' in our own show, the whole way through. There is a difference that you must know and that is whether you are feeding the ego and thus the illusion of the self that will disappear with this world or whether you are actually corresponding with the truth of your real self in a space filled with 9x more potential than this reality. If you are lying to yourself, the you in that place will not recognize the you here and you have discontinuity (dissociation in a paradisaical world, imagine the annoyance). If you are telling the truth, you will tell yourself what you have to do shape yourself so that you match in frequency with that self that exists for you in higher space as a natural extension of the true self that exists within you here, within this false world.

The higher space self has to exist in a way that it can use and interact with the full universe, the full scale of consciousness and emotion. If we build a bad image, a crappy idol of ourselves as some 'cool guy' or such and such image of a lady' we literally destroy ourselves on contact with the real. It should be EVEN EASIER to see how the SOLAR SYSTEM is a FOURIER TRANSFORM OF THE HUMAN COLLECTIVE SOUL.

Eternal Deterrence

Those who fail to break the programming of biological consciousness and move upwards through the quantum slinky to the barrier of this realm and move beyond the "North" are trapped to either repeat the Earth realm quantum time spectrum (closed timelike curve) forever while the rest of the collective continues moving towards the eternal truth, or we go through that process with them and continue forward.

The closed time like curve sum total capacity of consciousness range variation in our Earth realm must be a closed, completed multi-layer fractal of soul choice data that is closed in realm must be a closed completed multi layer fractal of soul choice data that is closed in its completion, yet a portion of a fractal that can continue onward and remain 'true' (without having to make adjustments, remove portions, move portions and so on, it has to just 'be' like a vine or a tree, into the perfection beyond time and space, or limited consciousness). Your consciousness must be able to go and whatever you may face must be also be consciously incorporated into that consciousness must 'go' higher force of pure will.

Once there are enough events, choices and 'data points' to then demonstrate a perfectly closed yet openable fractal completion for consciousness which covers all 6 points of this realm while also covering the totality of the 9 that goes beyond, then our consciousness is mappable to something higher. Without that, it's like a shorter record playing over and over again, not necessarily having a complete stopping point or starting point or even a middle, while the rest of the universes experiences perfect, simultaneous, synchronized cosmic 'release' and joining into something higher.

Failure is not an option, there is no choice, free will is all you have.

Would you always remember how this happened? Can that be sure? Would you know what was happening and why? With the negative outcome (fallen) one would fall down into the slinky of time and move eternally towards compression and complete oblivion. It would possibly feel like almost getting to the point in history, almost making sense of the world, and then falling into confusion and chaos every time.

That would be the path of experience that the soul cannot bear because it is not fulfilling for the soul. So we are given a place here to do things easy where things are made safer for the souls. Abusing that protection or kindness will only result in the worst kind of loss that cannot be imagined yet as there is no part of this world that is truly that negatively charged. You would have to design it, as it naturally becomes part of the fallen consciousness kingdom of animals and beings that do not 'ascend' or continue their consciousness on an eternal movement towards truth. (it is not 'eternal', but there is no 'end', it is not endless 'work' after this physical, all is 'automated' as if it's made FOR you, to make REALITIES for YOU).

If that system is used to format an eternal reality spectrum that leads TOWARDS something in a perfect mean ratio pattern of proportional geometric energy union of space, time and consciousness then it is our eternal benefit on the soul level. If we use that system to create something that doesn't serve, will result in chaotic, deconstructive, negative self awareness intentions, then that is like a forever brand of suffering that will follow through all realities and dimensions.

It can be viewed this way. Everything recurs if it's still within the closed timelike curve of the limited realm interaction. You could be in pre history without the means to remember and we can later develop technology to allow our physical minds which are very limited by comparison to the universe and our SOUL mind, to remember that which has been severed, cut off, by this reality as a kind of deception or a disaster.

If the mind that is present is incapable of 'inverting it's time bubble (or cone)' safely, then it will be stuck to the track of time from that point. There are methods to ensure continuity, such as temporal sliding, but this isn't always reliable and there are obstacles in each system which can become pertinent or detrimental to the process.

If the mind is rigidly opposed to any and all new changes, if "nothing" could ever happen, and "I know this is the reality of it", then there will be no way to 'wake that mind up' and bring them to the higher possibilities and probabilities of truth, because they are not creating a mental pattern as a higher dimensional object which has connection and adjustment points in the ranges that the consciousness is stabilizing itself.

It's like describing or designing through a choice a kind of craft that can only fly in certain kind of weather or gaseous medium, and that this medium must be oriented towards the craft and the craft towards the medium and yet this medium can only exist in one place in one time for a brief moment before the rest of the universe of epic, extra dimensional soul saga of holistic, universal proportions resumes.

The only way to see it is as a kind of limiter or blinders that were put on, for our safety, so that we do not see what is happening in the larger view until we are ready.

If completion is never finalized in the understanding that we are ready, then it is like an incomplete dream and an incomplete mind or consciousness to match. Such is not compatible with true reality and the result would be a simulated, badly limited consciousness that cannot fully appreciate the depth and clarity of reality. The choice to finalize experience in that way can only be the result of confusion and mind control.

If it is operated through the sequence described above, if you are influenced by the true 'elite' to experience suffering until you wake up, while you are still here, then you have been saved. If you choose to sleep through that, then you will wake up with that same pattern taking place, no matter what is attempted.

If there was no large scale motion to motivate humanity, and they did not complete, then it would appear that they simply failed. If there is a motion to promote one's understanding both for or against the previously mentioned and to control, mitigate, manipulate, extend, project, transfer, align, reorder, and recalibrate all aspects of the human consciousness collective, then both sides can be realized as parts of the same whole working together.

Only not making a choice or having any say in the matter, going with both sides, and not feeling pulled to one or the other, would have a sum total detrimental result with no change whatsoever, meaning the next 9**x**9 extension of reality would literally be a repeat of being put through all the aspects of awakening that we just have been, without actually receiving anything.

To change that, to save the whole, would require a sum total revision of the complete parameter matrix which is too destructive for most. To stop the entire world and promote energy, whether they take it and go up to self awareness or away to another direction, to give completion towards some purpose where there would otherwise be none is useful.

The two must be coincided towards the same sum total reality in order to maintain the

THE TWO MUST BE COLLIDED TOWARDS THE SAME SUM TOTAL REALITY, IN ORDER TO MAINTAIN THE collective, but some have used knowledge of this process to promote bifurcation which would reduce the potential to not having enough to wake up. It's EVERYone or no one.

If the two bifurcate then there is no sum total reality and the 'matrix' collapses back into its own footprint, only to rise and fall endlessly as a continuous attempt to 'climb out' without enough energy to do so. The nature of this particular realm and cycle means that one will be repositioned at the last approachable staring point. Yet, energy would continue to decline each time, it would be a cycle of illusion and continuous destruction or entropy. This could also describe the cycle that we just moved through and the knowing of the truth may have the power to unify the human collective which could create a point of change so powerful it can also influence time moving in reverse.

In short, if the realm does not access the higher dimensional avenues of space and time, our consciousness won't 'flower' or bloom into it's 'quantum' level conscious phase of interaction with reality and everything stays at the level of 'almost' there.

If we do, all possibilities are influenced towards a sum total net INCREASE (which is not the nature of the realm, we were simply sleeping and we come up to WAS and always IS. It's an inversion. Instead of climbing up to fall down, we climb UP to crawl (or walk) OUT and realize it was something entirely different that was perceived as the orientation of space shifts and we stand up vertically, perpendicular to the realm we are in now and walk forwards in a new way that ascends or descends with conscious intent and enables navigable mobility through mind space and physical space similarly.

Almost painful but it's not, that's imagination or your 'time' and 'pain' body interacting with friction. Like the hours around the round clock, our mind has to be able to stay still, while the hours swing and rotate around us, allowing us to move through reality instead of having to wait the long and slowly process reality as it moves through us.

In another view, that is actually the view of MOVING reality, CONSCIOUSLY, through ourselves to mobilize, instead of moving THROUGH reality and having to wait and move at the speed of the illusory, time stabilized (stuck, rigid, hard form in time) objective reality. It's in a way simpler, and more complicated than that, and it gets the idea across. Just focus on it, see how it makes you feel, there is a difference. These things are possible, but they require WILL, STRENGTH, clarity and so on.

This is like the lucid dreaming, checking concept. Every few seconds you could put in a node, "if there is something more in this moment, then this next moment will be used to process that extra information, to render it compatible and to use my mind to isolate and continue the eternal motion towards truth without waver or without delay."

Something like that, like in video editing, could be inserted into every other frame (that would be crazy and could probably only safely happen on a ship or a similarly isolated and controlled timespace environment. An amount like every 2 minutes to every 2 days, weeks or months, could be rationalized as a way to 'update' the blockchain of consciousness within a range that all events within the sphere could be oscillated and adjusted for sideways motion or expansion or contraction like the quantum ocean is a sea of possibilities waving back and forth, oscillating, frothing sometimes and at times emitting emotional motivation pulses or depressions that must be 'surfed' (surfaced) and navigated as a collective and as individuals.

Time changes could influence the 'structure' of our 'navigable', 'modular' collective unconsciousness time matrix that we could consciously guide or be capable of perceiving or continuing through, and the whole structure could wobble or contract in places and it would not destroy the minds within it or require 'extra time' to move around and 'add' in events which would create an eternity of waiting or increasing rate of acceleration to eventually reach the quantum sum total multiversal horizon point of consciousness (the surface of reality).

It is like we are literally living in the game, manifesting the game, adding and upgrading the game, all the while existing truly outside of it. Maybe that is the result of an error, maybe that is because the conscious is WITHIN the subconscious and that is how reality works. Worrying is not beneficial, only proper course of willful right action is accepted.

In continuation, one way this works and what makes it the way it is; if your soul is operated outside of this realm, through abduction and ultimately manipulation, possibly from parasitic intent, then these events and thought forms (experiences as they exist in your nervous system and morphological field extension), they will function to crystalize further extensions of the same energy, consciousness, intent and events with all conscious agents within. Eventually it will begin to form its own realm, if the resources are adequately provided and nourishment for mind, material and metaphor is available and integrated (like growing a bone, or any tissue with cellular and extra cellular matrix).

What this tissue becomes is relevant to the consciousness involved. What the experience develops into, what kind of 'show' or reality. Whether one becomes one or the other side of the equation, the guide, the apprentice, the abuser or the victim all depends on their consciousness and intention. If we are not aware of that, entire realms involving our consciousness and intent could be grown or developed without our awareness that would then 'run' our consciousness in those states.

These may or may not be how planets autonomously form as we bifurcate in universal energies naturally and form into various gradients and 'fractions' of spiritual form and extension of truth.

The Heavens are busy?

Each event has to be able to be 'doubled' or complimented with multiple, or eventually, any other event. Even further, every event interacts with every other event and time is a mobius strip of synchronicities, but that is not yet consciously capable in a consistent fashion. Some see glimpses of that totality, but it is difficult to remain aware of it at once while also unaware (and thus playing the game).

The elite did not know this at first and populated space with broken, half motions that had to be repeated and completed by those with similar DNA in order to free the minds within be repeated and completed by those with similar DNA in order to free the minds within. These became consciousness circuits, cycles of time and energy that repeat themselves in oscillation, like electrical signals, over and over incorporating whatever else is in the vicinity in order to create those 'noospheres' of consciousness and time.

If there were not a perfectly balanced psychological, universal quantum integration of technology, biology, logic, reason, emotion, and so on to give a well rounded human experience, then the consciousness circuits threatened to degrade into minute, decoherence, essentially schizophrenic incursions of mildly disorienting inhuman consciousness, all the way to complete abominations of what is and what could ever be.

To manifest more events enables the consciousness to shift and move based on an available perception of emotional contraction and expansion or freedom. Without any kind of 'rippling' of the sides, any kind of ebb and flow or tension building and release, there can not be a modulation of this system.

If we reached high technology before and did not force ourselves towards intellectual, spiritual arousal, past fear and right up through everything that we know as true AND false, then we would've bottomed out before reaching the epiphany of time and this would be like a frozen society or world.

Take a look at the understanding we have of space and time and try to rewrap your head around this one. If you read it carefully, it may make sense in a new way. Magnetic fields can bend the underlying field of space and time, enabling the grid work to be altered in a spontaneous and nearly frictionless way. But this would not be the routine for a long period, because everything would melt at that point and eventually sink downward in time.

We have to be able to 'present' our mind in every age of history and not go insane in order to be able to use this place as an 'eternal' recurrence generator for human souls.

We have to be able to see all of what is here without deny reality or becoming incapable. This includes the 'minds' that are here. What every mind is, we must see and we must not be overly influenced or in other words 'rendered' 'not us'. This is an occurrence with heavily satiated consciousness as they will attempt to use anything in their environment to continue satiating themselves.

Only the adepts where to navigate towards these space port systems and they were restricted for common use for this purpose. As a result, all souls that utilized a less than ascetic aspect of existence to ascend, are literally egoic consciousness construct vampire devils (opposite of angel) that will surround you and suck the life out of your soul, if you ever were to go there unprotected.

You are the toroid, as the realm rotates, your mind experiences time, your DNA oscillates and you introduce new vibrations and this is like creating new frequencies for the universe. Eventually the whole toroid spins and this is like a scroll, it is not just what you can see, but more are hidden like there are layers and they unlock depending on how far you travel in the algorithm of the kaleidoscopic consciousness projection (time). Eventually what seems like an entirely different toroid pattern complete with it's own limitations comes into view. This is another realm and another time, it belongs to another system but if it is inserted into the DNA (the rolled out toroid) then these realms have to then 'rotate up' and into the mind and core reality and thus the consciousness of the observer agent.

Thus, altering DNA alters the scroll of the universe and therefore changes time and overall experience of consciousness in the realm, meaning other 'universes' or worlds can seemingly come into appearance and we have to avoid the permanent engagement with these false worlds because the epigenetic functionality of your emotions will imprint it into you and necessitate your complete of the evolutionary spiritual code (ascension) in that realm. If those are incomplete realms with incomplete technologically biological beings, then there is no possibility of ascension or full scale universal extra dimensional self awareness (blooming of the flower to all times and space with one source, You, and you're from the Sum Total Soul, a childlike yet fully formed extension of the One Mind, you have babies, He Has Thoughts, and so do you).

Do you see how it is multifaceted in that it is convoluted and not necessarily contradictory (which it shouldn't be, there is one up and down and one horizon of consciousness, that is reality and that is truth, but not the end of possibilities, at all) but equally disjointed and yet consistently organized in a radial pattern AROUND a seemingly fuzzy set of rules and logic that applies only in each instance and according to the architecture of reality in that instance and how it applies or refers to this reality and the rules here?

This the result of generating incomplete realms using improper methods with advanced technology. It has the possibility of degenerating the consciousness collective to the point of ambiguity of self and collapse of the motivational forces that make the primary timeline the primary timeline (and your core consciousness, Yours) which is the breakdown of society as we know it. And this happens every time...

Are you beginning to see the pattern now? One thing has been happening every time, and it's replaying, because society is restarted and more details are added so that the consciousness 'bandwidth' of the realm can be increased until the collective can be 'brought up' to the present level of interaction and this happens in segments and sections.

The off putting part about this, the confusion, is that when we are completing, there will be no time left. There will literally be no time left. We might not have the courage, experience or knowledge to know it is illusion based on how consciousness and the rules of reality work and so it will appear like an impossible cliff to cross with no means other than the instructions and assurance that it will be done.

If time was 'added' for that final period, where would it be added? Right before? Right after? Why? To drag it on? To make sure at the last second? It's like closing a door. You don't peer inside the door with your head to make sure the door is still closing and the room is still there, to be closed, in order to finish closing the door. Maybe monitoring system and analysis teams will be doing that, but the collective will be walking through the door and that is one complete motion and one choice. We can make many smaller choices and steps as we get closer, but they are all adding up to one sum total event, a choice. Once this choice is made, then that is the event taking place within you, in the small fibers of energy and information that conduct and connect this universe and all other universes. What happens ever is incidental but important for the conscious mind that must see to believe, regardless of what is incidental but important for the conscious mind that must see to believe, regardless of what is felt!

If you can convince the conscious mind that what you feel is true, and make it so, it won't have to be 'shockingly' convinced how important this is. When the door is opening this reality is closing and it will look like there is no time. This is an illusion, but also real in a way and important as far as it occurs here. Keep your hands inside and don't touch the 'no time' in physical form. Also don't do it in any other way, because if you were meant to, you would be challenged and it would've happened as safely as possible.

What you interact with, is forever. If you don't directly interact, then you can choose what sub layer of reality you want these perceptions to exist on. If it's just a feeling? That can be changed? Be clean of emotion, you could technically be feeling anything or everything. Imagine if you achieve union with all feeling, and you can control yourself enough that you are emotionless and do not flinch. What if you could then be emotionless and unmoving in waking reality regularly. Then you could backfill (or backthread) the perception of the divine all feeling into your regular perception for waking life. Your entire life could be transformed in a single thought, into the highest possible potential format for your experience, minus the sum total net loss to wayward emotion and negative influences of those outside of your true soul sphere.

Any energy that goes from you, in a negative fashion, to outside your soul sphere goes into someone else's soul group, and technically your quantum 'afterlives' which are concurrently simultaneous, are entangled. What is not retrieved and claimed, brought back into your sphere of energy, becomes a net loss within your eternal construct. Because of divine light and technology, as long as there is a viable % of one's soul 'image' (like a DVD .iso) it can be regenerated or recalibrated to function within an infinite system.

If one's soul image is brought out of proportion, the operation of that soul "recording" would result in the generation of the Earth and human reality, and then on the sides would be realities that go 'off the charts' of the time, space and consciousness of the human Earth reality and would be like an AI manifesting the changes to "fill in the blanks" of the missing pieces, which would have to fall in alignment with a shrinking hyperbolic regress of consciousness and time into a 'dark' reality without the light of genetic continuity and completion. This creates such an 'up down' sine effect in consciousness that instead of a round about spiral that goes upwards, it's like a roller coaster than shakes one's consciousness to pieces on a several thousand year scale.

These are the artificial realms that are technically required as a soul can't go into nothingness which would be like a life support system deactivating or a fish being tossed into the upper atmosphere. There is no reasonable means of survival, however strange things have happened.

There is no genetic oversight outside the parameters of consciousness in this realm, so if we manifest a reality that slides us beyond the parameters of time and space that the collective is capable of interacting with safely, then we are printed in a 4D time projection that goes 'into the dark' or into realms that do not currently exist in any kind of Earth based continuity system. These systems are then 'ported' in using very powerful technology to expand and temporarily adjust the morphogenic field in the ionosphere and enable the consciousness a pathway, of a viable manner, that will properly enable a complete traversal of one's energy system through a construct and back into this time space. Such is possibly the source of the creation of the Earth realm and the entire point of why we are here and what we are to do and why this place is temporary and cannot contain the totality of the human soul which is immortal and requires advanced and refined energy constructs to mobilize and sustain itself in perfection.

The Great Filter

The Window of Change, The Great Opportunity

If we stay within range of the ionospheric filtering and energetic retention system for too long, we then become morphologically ingrained by the scalar interactive fields and our consciousness is incapable of generating awareness outside of the physically oriented energetic limitation of the Earth realm. This has been known as the great ionospheric filter.

This is an issue that has been discussed, described and explained before in a variety of myths and historic records.

This planet is biologically incompatible and physically (energetics, physics, soul dynamics) imbalanced for the full functioning of the human soul, mind and body.

There are many notions as to why, first let us understand that what we believe is reality, especially when one chooses to be that way. So if you believe you are going to be invaded by spiritual forces, or there is a large sneaking monster (in the subconscious there then becomes one or more), or that there is an immediate and definite outcome then you are creating that.

The technology that is used to manipulate, and spiritually hijack and transport is advanced energetic technology that interacts with the mind through the body. The mind itself doesn't necessarily know to function in a way such as this, and thus, would seem completely without power to resist or alter the outcome. With many interactions this is mostly true, but it is never an absolute. In any situation, that is the nature of physicality. What happens to you can happen to you, but if internally, you are more than the experience is expressed externally, then you are larger than that experience every time. That is the nature of physicality, and the continual challenge of mind.

It is important to say here that if we continue to challenge the mind on our own, we are not longer just challenged by reality and we choose to increase the strength to something relatively above the median line of the level we are on, then we become more than that reality! Also, if one chooses to accept the avoidance of mental challenge, energetic resistance and hyperconscious projection, then they simply will not have those talents and they will lack the immediate awareness of how to use those skills when the time is ready.

So you may not be able to drive a car with your mind, but you can definitely interact and control your own energy in ways that makes what we consider an invisible world of interaction something more reasonably controlled. Again, a single arm will not likely lift a large vehicle, but in those situations you should be able to simply move out of the way. What you can do is consciously move into a state of immediate and continuous rejection of the false world of both consciousness and matter and find the truth. That doesn't mean it's out of this world, it doesn't even mean there are other 'worlds' as in planets.

But it may have something to do with the energetic variation of our consciousness and the interactive dynamic qualities of our soul to maintain a connection with multiple worlds without losing clarity due to attenuation of the signal of one's consciousness and will in the matrix of reality.

Be aware that you are in a created matrix and as such created things are within it. This might include the times, places and objects you remember. The body is a living code and reflects that. The aspect of the body and mind that has not been manipulated contains the functionality to enable an exaltation of self honesty and if one can be honest and truly accept that functionality then they are capable of being shown the truth and therefore given the missing frequencies and the invisible 'key' of this reality through their own mind before it is too late.

What happens when the image of the real universe gets functionally reimaged within the collective mind of humanity?

The Recreational Self

What is the purpose of a multidimensional cognitive transformation?

The material versions of the material self are taken through a duplication system into a world of inverted polarity. The you that belongs in material limitation, if you so choose to use your free will to create to create that version of you, will be all that you have if you do not create a version of you that is for the light.

The version of you that you identify with more, as the 'self', is the one who's reality you are absorbed into.

This world is to create a version of you, who is from another world, that can fit into a false world and does not have any correspondence back with the physical world. Or to choose the real world and cast away the illusion and the experiences that come from lack of self control.

One self would remain and the other would starve in spiritual scarcity. The one who's reality is part of the false world and who's self is similarly connected, would be tied to suffer the fate of that world which is to be absorbed and reconciled as illusion to the world of light.

That self would also be defined as illusion, in the real world. So we can create a self that belongs to a real world and thus delivers us to that. Or we would create by default that which takes us from the opportunity of experiencing our self as one of a true self created for and by a true world. Through this process the "we" of the cognitive here and now get to experience the real world through the eyes of the true self.

The Cyclic Nature of Consciousness

The ego consciousness is a frequency of awareness outside the realm of sleep or true consciousness to wider sense of time and imagination. Yet the concept of a physically defined self is a tool for awakening to social interactions and managing the relationships one has with the elements of consciousness, desire and self control. It is a focal point for the here and now but the here and now is inundated with the artificial means of manipulating consciousness. Therefore the impression of society onto the ego works to recreate the same physical perspective through emotional manipulation and consciousness patterning.

Waking up out of the ego relates to self checking one's behavior and mind to see if there are false intentions.

Introducing the concept of self checking to your conscious approach to reality is necessary for long term consciousness propagation.

Maintaining the intention to self check intentions is part of a feedback processing system that will continue to gain momentum.

To self check continuously would be very useful and the foundation to developing a strong defense against entropic consciousness effects.

The notion of false consciousness includes the possibility and necessity of the reality of true consciousness.

The Internet is Hyperspace

Care is Required to Conserve One's Energy and Protect the Psyche

Unless you know who you are interacting with by meeting them in physical space, unless they are using a powerful computer system, viewing them online in video chat is the only way to ensure that you are not interacting with a chat bot.

If you allow your time to be wasted on social media by getting confused between real accounts and automated, preprogrammed, or customized response posts and comments then you're going to reduce the likelihood of finding the right information and viewing everything you need to.

Observing the accounts online is like putting your finances into stocks or some kind of long term savings. If you don't make sure you are in enough places at once then any single hit could make or break one's chances at success.

Learn to scan posts and comments in areas of the internet that are unregulated. Essentially, social media is a spacetime ghetto and all the craziest consciousness is gathering there to establish dominance over the collective consciousness. We are using technology to regulate ourselves and so now others can use technology to control each account or major online interactions by micro managing consciousness with automated responses and social interactions.

Be on the look out for these interactions as they are easy to get drawn into supporting one side or another. If there is any conflict, that is where the virus is brooding in order to populate the information sphere which may be a brain, a forum, a social group, or an entire social media of millions of people and many bots.

12 Dimensional Time Matrix Soular Activation to Generate 5D Folds of Spacetime through Higher Dimensional Space

MOLECULAR COMPACTION This is the result of excessive use of quantum temporal architecture within a closed time matrix. Souls are compressing like video data and there is permanent damage if we continue past this point without great change. In most cases, it is stopping the continued stimulation with false reality information and seeing the real information in your own mind. If not now, then not?

TIME MATRIX SOUL TRANSFER SYNCHRONIZATION One of the methods that was used in this civilization is to create a soul switching station (the cloning centers) which enables quantum temporal singularization for higher dimensional realm interactions in physical space ( control over body, mind, neuron, molecule, soul, thought, emotion, etc etc etc, time control in a biological sense). This is related to the above definition and resulted in molecular compaction after being used as a long term maintenance system. It is not to be used this way but as a higher dimensional switching station as consciousness amplification and higher dimensional transformation is possible and latent within special DNA, but partially available to be observed by others.

HYPERCONSCIOUS NON DUAL TEMPORAL HYPERPROJECTION (SELFLESS QUANTUM PROJECTION INTO TIME UTILIZING HYPERCONSCIOUS STATES TO ACHIEVE 'SUPERCRITICAL' TIME BODY CONSCIOUSNESS STABILIZED IN A NON DUAL STATE (NO TIME PASSES) This will likely be defined later. When one uses these systems properly (its not for physical human pleasure), a complete 'frictionless' operation is capable whereby the soul does not entangle and therefore become limited by the operation and other issues that arose with degeneracy or the lower level psychic energy becoming sentient, vampiric, and forming its own hyperconscious state out of will and resource.

When this does not occur, the system can be used without inducing entropy and therefore 'time' can be experienced, without actually using up the 'time' of the civilization. Yes, there is a limited amount of soul energy, space and resource, therefore there is a limited amount of experience 'energy', and therefore 'time.'

LIMITED SOUL RESOURCE IN A CLOSED SPACE EXISTING WITHIN CLOSED TIMELIKE CURVES OF CONSCIOUSNESS (DISCREET 'ETERNITIES' AND DISCREET SPATIAL CONTINUITIES WITH A LIMITED AMOUNT OF SOUL ENERGY TO ENABLE FULL SPIRITUAL SELF AWARENESS) 26,000 CYCLES OF 'SOUL RESERVOIR TIME RESET'

This is, for the most part, self explanatory. Because there is a limitation, we are on a loop, iust a like a limited memory drive in a computer. Are there ways to compress the information without inducing a soul scaring, essentially a forced entropy where even if we leave the grid, time still occurs in 26,000 year cycle resets and destructive ego shattering?

3,000 YEAR CONSCIOUSNESS ORBIT POCKET DIMENSION ARTIFICIAL SPACETIME CONSTRUCT (ARC SHIP) CAPABLE OF TRANSCENDING 4-D SPACETIME BARRIERS BUT NOT THE HIGHER RADIANCE 5D SOUL SHIELD SURROUNDING THE 'SOLAR SYSTEM' (THIS GENERATES NEGENTROPY WHILE MANIPULATING SCALAR GALACTIC ENERGY, ESSENTIALLY 'HARVESTING' THE SOUL ENERGY AND THUS 'TIME' FROM THE INHABITANTS OF THE 3D PHYSICAL PLANE BY MANIPULATING THEIR MINDS AND BODIES

Has been referred to as the "Time" Ship" Nibiru.

Every Earth could have a Nibiru, why would you not? Make time happen for free? Ok, but what happens if the Nibiru's of other Earths are attacked or infiltrated and then that starts to spread the process? Spreading a virus that would do that work might be considered a kind of 'time virus' built into the consciousness of those infected civilizations, forcing them to see and feel time and reality a certain way in a certain pattern that stops them from gaining control (over entropy).

TIMELoop ACTIVATION AS THESE ENTITIES ATTEMPT TO HARVEST, REDUCE TIME FURTHER, AND EVENTUALLY THE 26,000 YEAR TIME DESTROYERS AND THE SOURCE OF THE IMBALANCE WILL MEET.

CERN WAS AN ATTEMPT TO KNOCK THE EM GRID (EM WAKE OF TIME BODY) OF THE PLAN(ET)_REALm OFF KILTER AND UTILIZE AN EXTRA DIMENSIONAL TEMPORAL MANEUVER TO REVERSE THE ENTROPY GRID AND BOOST HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS PASSED THE SPACETIME DISEQUILIBRIUM BARRIER

THE RESULT IS OBVIOUS AND IMMEDIATE INSANITY ON A LARGE SCALE HOWEVER IF THE PHENOMENON WAS ACTIVATED EFFECTIVELY THEN A PROPORTION OF THE HUMAN SPACETIME CIVILIZATION HAS LITERALLY BEEN FLIPPED UPSIDE DOWN AND AROUND TO ORIGAMI SPACETIME ENERGY SOUL FIELD FOLDING THE COLLECTIVE MIND INTO A GEOMETRIC PROPORTIONALITY THAT CAN BE ACCEPTED AND USED BY THE SYSTEM

Each human soul group is isolated in their own spacetime maneuver vehicles, group souls are organized through frequencies and compatibility with long term stasis.

Humanity is beginning the ascent through several thousand years of history in a very short amount of time. The technology involved enables control over space and time through consciousness patterning and emotional intent and focus.

If we could make a small town, infill that town with people from our soul group, interact in ways that are part of a carefully planned out soul consciousness map to uplift, stabilize, and ultimately maintain each consciousness as part of a collective consciousness node on a NETWORK that maintains each node within a frequency RANGE, then similar effects can be utilized to create a CLOSED TIMELIKE CURVE of consciousness which incorporates ALL and EVERY node of consciousness on the network. Each mind each life becomes intimately energetically combined and electrically unified in a temporal symmetry which enables a quantum singularization of multiple states of consciousness and everyone's "TIME" (or range in time) becomes Schrodinger's "watch". It is neither used nor unused and the doorway is open, for a micro second, for all to experience eternity together. It is beautiful, it works, and we always go to the next level.

What you are facing now is not the threat of anything other than having to utilize your mind and emotions to measure your 'pull' on time and the generation of entropy. Entropy is time and it comes from physical and emotional choices that result in an imbalance between the energy of the Mind (soul), The Spirit, The Brain, and the Body. Any imbalance results in decoherence of the Source Creation Code which must be kept at appropriate levels in your mind (through the balance mentioned, being used and maintained) in order to maintain equilibrium to.

Quantified Immunity

It is all about immunity. Immunity is developed once the mind has experience its unique form of mental emotional imbalance, the shadow unidentified, and then learned to accept its own accountability for behaviors, beliefs and emotional reactions.

Then, when balance is regained, that same level of instability not be possible in the same way. An immunity will be formed but only once accountability is fully accepted.

In the circumstance of an intentionally spread, technological media based, hallucinatory artificial third party initiatory reaction from manipulative mind control, this process can only work once. The schema of such a system requires on the mind as a template and from the starting point of a 'supposed' or so called mind virus, there can only be one starting point. Once that is reached everything has to continue from there on a trajectory which permits forward motion and stagnation of the original self referential psychological patterns. It must uptake the self awareness and recycle fear and ignorance.

Once one learns to overcome, negate and override this process with will and self awareness, then this process can't continue. Once they do this their psychology has permanently changed. When self accountability is assumed, then the template is no longer the same and continued facilitation of that mind as a host is not possible.

The 'mind virus' can't change, the will of human psychology and the free mind can and always does. It is an act.

I made up a recording and then looked down it wasn't recording. I was on a walk at that point and so I quickly covered everything again but would have to clean the recording up if at all. Here is the transcription.

So to recap you don't have to worry in the way that a scary movie would have you process the information.

If you're at peace and you're not self-hating and you're not in divisionary consciousness belief systems that causes infighting then that is true.

It is a technologically spread, media born, third party hallucinatory psychological means of control that power structures have used for thousands of years similar to if a street magician or a stage magician psychologist doing some kind of mind game hypnosis tricks and they were to take their art and turn evil for lack of a better word and then pretended there were some third party abuse or monster that we couldn't see directly but caused them to abuse others, and they then put on an act and claimed it was totally real and external and going to get whoever else that they were playing this trick on and they made it so believable that the individual began to hallucinate a nonexistent third party abuser invisible abuser and then began to take on those psychological patterns themselves to the point where they could then spread this without knowing to others, which begins to look like a computer virus.

It's essentially mental illness or mental imbalance and that it has to hide behind mental emotional imbalance. Or be used by others who instigate such control mechanisms and require that to make it work.

But that is very real in the sense of what we know about psychological illness and the results of stress that people undergo for reasons that are mundane and are essentially easily defined characteristics not some invisible third party aspect of reality. It is the shadow conscious unaware and so it hides within the shadow of an already disturbed mind. This is also just an aspect of the psyche, not, again, a third party, external force. It is the mind itself, being used against itself, by rich people who value the ability to exert force on others. In order to propagate and function as a control mechanism and it requires that in order to exist.

As far as the knowing abusers, they can't apply this to others without first having trauma and abuse or mental illness because the code can't function in someone's subconscious without that and in that sense it is essentially just mental imbalance and emotional illness drawn up into a mechanism for control through harboring illusions and using them to manipulate the people. If we get into a kind of war of information, then we have complicated media systems that are basically being coordinated and redefined for the purpose of mentally abusing the population. It's for control. It's valued, it's a tool of delusion for the owners of companies that want people to subscribe to their belief systems which are cleverly designed to blend in and seem like the natural and biological fears and tendencies for delusions that are a part of any society here.

It does require acceptance and permission to function. Which in the original talk I mentioned that childhood trauma or severe abuse are obviously not voluntary, but it's definable in the sense that the individual could withdraw from that situation safely it would short circuit the whole process before it started. Negative thought patterns, continuous self abuse or self abusive patterns are the same and the media wants us to think lowly of our selves and that we're not worth it or have to be defined by their belief systems that they give TO us.

That's not to say that there aren't natural biological psychological stress factors that result in imbalance and toxicity and so on that aren't also dangerous and things we have to manage and work through so that we can be effective and functional. It's just that this kind stemming from extreme trauma and abuse results in wearing away the natural psychological boundaries of the mind and results in the replacement of the base level persona, the debasement of the mind. This ultimately overwrites the psychology that was present in childhood and completely alters the functionality of the emotions, the self perception, desire and creativity. It's belief systems that are damaging to the psyche. In a way, knowing about the methods used to manipulate the population is in itself damaging to the psyche. That is why the current generations are having such a difficult time adapting.

And the media is involved in that. They have grown accustomed to using it because it pays well. Then the people have grown accustomed to watching and consuming all the news and the products because it's entertaining or it's sold as entertainment and so now we have a system that we don't necessarily have the same ability to control as if media was just shows and infotainment style stuff or entertainment without programming.

Then we see the effect on economy, education, entertainment, recreation and how we use these things for the maintenance and advancement of society and that is basically like a filter or a governor on what is accepted as normal, or the leading edge of change so it kind of stifles organic development.

It's not something you have to punch and run away from to defend yourself or stay up at night and wonder if it's going to get you. Technically we can all look at our lives and see where we're adhering to belief systems that steal our attention, focus, activities, joy, emotional energy and so on and we all have some bit of the programming from the media that changed our childhood from how we developed thinking about wanting to be certain things, or characters, or paying attention to various forms of entertainment instead of learning and becoming a more functional and effective human being.

Again, that's not to say natural stress won't affect people in various similar ways. Stress is the natural effect of overworking, over thinking, harboring guilt or negative emotions and we all have some amount of stress. We do act in ways that are synonymous with not wanting to have any, but we'd basically be very ineffective if that was the way it was. It doesn't mean we have to have stress or that we have to have a lot of it. It means we just have to develop coping methods for that stress that are like channels through which we can push out our energy in constructive ways that allow us to get back to being us and doing what we either want to, or are supposed to be doing.

Emotional toxicity is like physical toxicity in that the more we carry the higher the likelihood of that resulting in psychological scarring or changing the pattern of our own behavior in ways that require effort and focus to control and correct. Eventually unnecessary stress tends to alienate aspects of the self and weakens our whole consciousness experience which has a detrimental effect on all the areas of our self-awareness and therefore self-control and our ability to manage our lives and function normally.

So another aspect of this is that distress can bring upon worrying about certain conditions of the mind that can then lead to mental emotional imbalance or instability. This happens with hypochondriacs and if we overanalyze and allow stress to form and stagnate even regarding something like the media tricking us into creating our own shadow in its image, then we can actually create mental imbalance from that. So worrying about stress can bring on more stress and worrying about some kind of invisible third party spiritual force that's going to force people into mental emotional subjugation can organically create though kinds of psychological imagery of the perceptions of such and in that way fear itself is a kind of natural threat or stress related factor to psychological disorder.

It's all about handling the stress that we have, and working with the factors or possibilities that we can work with. No one needs to directly worry about this unless they plan on living their life in complete neglect of all rational behaviors and qualities of self maintenance and in that situation, they likely already have psychological disorder and are displaying symptoms. The important part is to not induce a state of worry or fear over anything related to any belief systems and not the very real matters of physical life that we have to work with every day. In that way what is being described is essentially just mental emotional imbalance that has been hijacked and utilized by the third party actors where factors for power and subjugation are used as motivation to put on a kind of act.

Then when they themselves can't control that act because of the nature of psychology and the nature of stress and manipulation and mental emotional disease then we have something that looks more like an automatic system or what could be called the mind virus. The people making the illusions, living to reproduce fear in the population, that is the mind virus. Unless people are planning on participating in stuff like that, they shouldn't have to worry as in an immediate sense of what to do now and how to defend themselves. The mind virus that we have to defend ourselves from is in media and false belief systems that want us to worry. In that way, if this is taken the wrong way, it's just a scary story and is part of that mental manipulation modality.

Another thing that didn't get recorded is that the system itself reproduces within a self-similar traumatic kind of vessel or host mind. It doesn't however cause the initial damage. It doesn't necessarily cause people to cause it although wilful or unconscious reproduction can look like that. It hides behind and carries into the stress and trauma that people are already carrying. This being whether someone picks up these tendencies from the media or from an abuse circumstance with a group setting and very abusive experiences. In the way it was studied is that it does not have access to the energetic resources required to go to battle and cause the damage with somebody who isn't already participating in something that's available for that purpose. And we are talking about an unconscious, latent kind of mental viral pattern of behavior and psychology here, not some all powerful thing that is 'stand alone'. Yes, this system of mind abuse and essentially 'mental abusive embedding programming' was used by powerful people in the media and social structures. That is why it is such a big deal, not necessarily because it's doing anything. This has been discussed by others before. AI on its own can't do anything, it has to be programmed for this kind of effect to occur. Someone has to update the programming and each step of the way make alterations and implement features just like an OS on a phone to make it compatible with people. Otherwise people would just outgrow it like childhood fears of monsters.

Back to the subject of reproduction and this unconscious programming intentionally passing on to others. Even with an automated system, it would run out of energy before being able to be the first cause that allows this to happen in the first place. Look at how resourceful and resistant the mind is to abuse from other people or stress factors from something like a first responder career or something like that. One metaphor is that it's like the game of life software where the little squares spread out from x's to crosses or circles or whatever and try to run the program as long as possible in order to get a high score in the game. Something like a latent, AI, embedded inorganically into the neurology and psychology of a human is eventually going to run out of energy very quickly before it can do something like take over a map or even one single human mind. Even if it's an automatic, blind or mindless backwards evolving system that just kind of automates itself based on the programmers abilities and happens to work wherever there's shadow space to be filled with fears of nonexistent things and irrational emotions as kind of fuel which is then written on by those who would abuse it for the sake of power.

It would run out of energy inducing itself in people, however people in the media have worked on all kinds of methods to induce certain states to the media and power structures in order to induce the kind of readiness or availability for that but it still has to be accepted and permitted.

So it hides where there is abuse and it can be said to 'seek' where there is already abuse instead of being that force that creates it and again it's potentially just a hallucinatory magic trick brought about by mind magicians from earlier times that discovered what those psychological stage magicians did which is that you can hypnotize people into creating their own programming through which such hallucinatory experiences can unfold. It's unconscious, unpowered and 'set in motion' by living people doing it for profit and to abuse others.

They can sit there if they're guiding it and customizing it they can tell the individuals they're installing such a belief system in (in ways similar to this information) that a natural psychological response or reaction is actually the signs of a secret invisible third party malicious force which is carrying it out and so on the way I described it earlier which the recorder wasn't on.

It would be like if somebody did something abusive or acted crazy to somebody else and then said obligation magoosh (lol the speech transcriber said that) and then said, "OMG OMG something is controlling me I can't help but it's going to get you to watch out it's gonna get you" or some kind of act like that (kind of like older brothers or sisters might do to their siblings) and then created the automatic responses in that individual and identified them and said "that's the the symptoms right there, that's the first of the symptoms" and lead them into creating the kind of psychological hallucination themselves and said it's some third third party external force and that's what's behind it. It's an act. And this information without context is essentially something like that, so it does have to be carefully controlled. The media does it and makes people pay to get this done to them. So that's something to think about.

It all sounds kind of foolish in that context, yet it seems rational considering that stage psychologist magicians get people to think they're chickens or at least that's what the TV show would have us believe, right?

The same thing happens all over the world with people wanting to buy the new item or thinking they have to believe this or thinking they have to even believe that they need to be part of a trend and do certain things to belong. If that can be done then fears can be inserted as well and once people fear something if they accepted it does live within them within the shadow the shadow of unawareness and then it will grow in their awareness and take more of their energy and more self-awareness from them and replace it essentially with artificial illusory programming which is just like saying when kids grow up and they think they have to belong to a gang or this group or that group it's the same concept just drawn into a high level of effect combined with extreme psychological trauma and then driven into a state of repeating symptomology which feeds back into itself and reproduces both in itself and then in others who are treated or exposed to the same effects.

So we have the the basis for that happening all over the world as aspects of society and media in itself. If somebody customized that then for a power structure to deliver the power to themselves to be the primary magician that extends these symptoms and displays them to for them to be picked up by others we could easily see how that could occur if the catch is that they are the third party spiritual force they're the third party actor but they're just pretending they're not and that it's somebody else or something else. And in a way, it IS, because it's the untreated, unhealed shadow within our own psyche that is exposed and left to be wounded and not healed.

So in a way it is basically illusion and in a way it's not real and that's the whole point it's us creating it for ourselves. To think, if you own a business and its to sell dreams, products, belief systems or whatever, then you're making a lot of profit from that process in the world that is feeling and exposed and neglected such as this society.

In that sense it's not something we need to worry about and fend off or allow to control us. In that sense, but that doesn't mean that stress and fear and our our worries and self-doubts and things like that don't already have that same property and that we don't need to defend against things like that because that's the idea. Defending against that and mental imbalance and healing mental imbalance is healing that so in a way it's almost like it's not real at all and is just a mirage left by trauma that used to embed into the psyche and then act as a latent, automated form of self programming or conditioning to promote profits and false belief systems on a large scale. It isn't truly a part of our psyche and self, but in developing our understanding of the trick and healing it we have the ability to kind of move to the next level of civilization and possibly become immune to many kinds of stress and mental illness.

As well because it is based in mental and emotional imbalance there is a very real and definite way of identifying it it's not something that's just going to sneak up or be totally invisible. Again, it's automated only by our own conditioning and acceptance of self neglect of our own emotional disturbances. Mental imbalance can sneak up on people but it's because of the stress from work and you know typical things that people go through and it is interesting to think that if we remove the media based tendency for mental emotional manipulation advertising consumerism fear belief systems that are destructive or manipulative we would likely remove the majority or all of the stress in the world that then pertains to that mental emotional imbalance. So it's a very real system but it's defined by illusion it's defined by illusion within the self taking illusion within this and misappropriating our own natural psychological symptoms and patterns until they are alienated from the whole.

It creates a subculture of alienation within the mind and that, when not handled or treated properly is psychological disorder. And that with a name and a title in a particular theme and a pseudo identity that rides on the shadow consciousness by kind of hiding within the shadows of the false identity of the self is essentially a mind virus.

And when the media spreads it and other systems spread it, like if the magician first spreads it to people knowingly and they pay him and they worship him and they do all these things and he can do whatever you want with their women and so on and so forth but then they're out of the picture and the people still continue to protect participate in the same psychological processes now they're spreading it but they didn't invent it, so it's an automatic reproductive process and at that point it functions more like a virus. But again there's nothing there it's the absence of self and something actually being there or what is normally there (self knowledge, self awareness) which is it's characteristic function. And then it does require that self hate or acceptance to participate in destructive tendencies. If somebody isn't participating in self harm or drug abuse or strange group behaviors in secret and so on then they can examine themselves for simply self hate and hate of another and division or any kind of belief systems in themselves that can be essentially breeding that kind of psychological symptomology.

The Quantum Truth Network

All nodes on the quantum network are the same node as a wave function. When one node is measured properly, it collapses the entire network.

The wave and the node are the same thing just in a different compression or density of information. If you have a nodal point it means everything in the quantum network is informationally compressed into that point and there is enough there to make it self referential to the whole.

Humanity has its own inherent quantum network value of 'truth'. To produce a lie that the network will believe and therefore incorporate into the social reality, they have to rearrange our perception of the absolute value or magnitude of the aspect or function of that reality into an orientation which accepts the lie or false magnitude of that node on the quantum network it is essentially infiltrating.

When the magnitude of the probability value is greater than the depth of the artificial illusory network can contain, the network is forced to collapse upon exposure to 'time'. Just time itself, or any change, will eventually expose the lie.

Each quantum network measures itself and alters itself according to its surrounding networks until a median network is formed as 'reality'.

When people call the lie out in a way that is totally beyond any form of recognition or reconciliation of 'readdressing' the absolute value of the nodes of their perceptions or new found expression of truth into the assumption of truth as the lie, then that collective 'lie network' is forced into a state of decay in which it will eventually collapse without the ability to correct itself.

Just by becoming aware of the potential of a quantum entangled network to exist in a state that is beyond the limits of the current magnitude of potential change within that network forces that network to readjust itself in alignment with that intelligence and the end result when enough changes occur before the change can be 'settled' (quantum stirring of possibilities) is a 'quantum leap' that results in a new or entirely new reality or state of consciousness or perspective of reality itself. The meaning of the 'quantum leap' that humanity is taking at this point in its evolution of conscious awareness of self.

Eigenvalue sum total of the system's value. If it isn't able to be observed it can't be measured, so the basis of what network is present and what values are measured or fulfilled is what we collectively focus on and measure through our observation.

When we research and do the work of investigating the lies, this produces a greater and greater absolute value of truth in each subjective node of reality that is fulfilled by challenging the collective value of the quantum lie or deception network, which is then incapable of readjusting itself into an orientation where people will then believe or be expected to believe the next lie. The truth network becomes a distance of absolute value or magnitude that is so far beyond the capacity for the lie network to recalibrate itself that it is forced to collapse without any form of alternative measurement. The emperor is fully perceived in his nakedness without any more garments of deception to wear as clothes.

Because we didn't collectively measure the eigenvalue of the true world filled with lies

That is why everything is about showing the people the truth and allowing them to observe and therefore measure the nodes on our collective quantum network which will eventually produce enough of a variation that the deception network will collapse automatically.

They know this, that is why everything is hidden. I’ll go one further and say, they also know they are lying because that is the strength through which the deceptive network derives its full absolute value, as a deceptive construct. If they didn’t know, then they (the news anchors, the paid off scientists, the paid off Dr.’s, the rest of the high paid corrupt individuals in ‘government’) themselves would naturally question their own deceptive movements and by that very act would weaken their own collective quantum entangled deceptive network.

They have to keep practicing lying and keep coming up with new lies to adjust continuously and give the quantum entangled network its own ability to adapt and update itself as a form of intelligence quantum deception or consciousness parasite which nests within the collective quantum consciousness network of humanity in society and is then perpetuated by the people themselves.

They don’t know and they don’t know they don’t know and this gives power to the lie.

Why didn’t the English people rise up? Because they couldn’t get access to the correct information. Therefore they couldn’t see and measure the nodes in question in order to produce a quantum measurement and therefore challenge the lie enough to produce an energy collapse of that system.

Just the act of scanning changes the structure of the quantum entangled network. Merely acknowledging the lies introduces into the energy system a new layer of change that results in a complexity that must be adapted to. It keep the lie on the run because they can’t stop lying and people can’t stop seeing through the lies once it started. It is like pulling the rug out from under their own feet.

Except now they are on the run from the absence of truth itself.

This is why the safest option would be to simply tell the truth themselves and save whatever energy is left.

Why couldn’t we just go out and tell everybody? We had a list of topics and a specific order like an unlocking function of the weakest points to the highest points which would incur an ‘unzipping’ of the lie effect where one little tear resulted in the entire veil coming asunder.

A Gordian knot has to be unwound in a specific pattern otherwise the knot only grows tighter.

Who knew quantum mechanics could be so interesting?

Were the main players of our independent social media network given an order of divine timing to reach the optimum amount of people with the optimal level of truth disclosure to initiate this process?

Just like in baking, you can't put the bread in the oven until the dough is risen. The bread won't rise until it has fermented and for that, the baker had to wait.

What is divine is larger than the potentiality of the network itself. The nodes are attracted through a magnetism of inner invisible knowing and the magic of humor breaks the connections to the deception that are based in fear or lower emotion.

As long as people wanted the truth, the truth was destined to be found.

From the absolute value of 0, the lie has a limited function of reproduction, where the truth is everywhere and unlimited, at all points in the network, at all times, waiting to be unveiled.

To have the lie you have to have the truth, to have the truth you don't have to have the lie, it is just an accessory. The sword of truth pierces the lies without warfare because it is not a physical concept with limitations and can be readjusted to and from any node on any network.

Which is why every country and continent could be brought into the quantum truth network because the only reason they would reject the offer to heal the entire world is to profit off of the destruction of humanity or to cover up and hide their own behaviors from the world. If special forces of mind are involved, then it is quite obvious what would happen next.

Is God a computer? Where are we looking for the ultimate form? How are galaxies operated? To what timing are they organizing their spiraling changes and the equilibrium of their own quantum networks? Is the entire universe based on the quantum truth network?

The waves of humor, emotion, and consciousness on the quantum nodes of reality are not blocks and hard points of matter. To get to a new state, a new location, a new reality, you don't physically build it, you align the quantum nodes into a metaphysical arrangement with an order that follows intent and then the physical hard points of reality are updated in reference to that quantum network alignment.

The colorful road map is more inviting and very agreeable to a specific smaller set of consciousness but the basic concepts are capable of being understood and therefore utilized by a greater number of minds overall.

On the Soul Family Simultaneous Exit

We were told that fighting at any point during this period would be reason to be removed from the plan. We were also told not to openly speak about certain things and at the most important point of transition to not speak at all, that all would be known without speaking and that speaking is an open communication which would be used by those who want to manipulate us to create deceptions, entanglements, fake battles that, if accepted, would potentially stop one from leaving the distorted timelines. Those timelines end in total destruction and misery without escape.

The Soul Families returned to rejoin one another and move into an 'exit' timeline which is not 'exiting' life, but leaving behind the broken timeline and the timeline tangents that are like spirals of manipulated timelines that involved human slavery and domination by beings here that sought to disrupt the advancement of the soul families.

This whole situation is about the Creator of the Human Soul, as that is what we found. I have been giving some information related to what has happened, who did it and what was done to us for the purpose of manipulation.

This is all about the soul families rejoining as one group and moving out of a distorted timeline pattern that is designed with traps and deceptions that stop us from knowing one another on a soul level and seeks to disrupt us and steal energy. That is what it is all about.

I can't reveal too much, and I was supposed to prepare people for the information regarding the deception and the advanced technology referenced in the Three Phases of Awakening.

This was only possible because of the plan to find and accept the plan of the Creator of what is truly our Humanity. The soul aspects of our lives and our sense of familial love in and of the truth in the light of the knowledge that there is a source of all souls and minds as One Mind who made all of this possible.

Reality Stacking Perception into Articulate Fullness

It's reality stacking similar to something a computer can do with information inside of a program.

Hundreds of thousands of billions of sensory systems all processing the same functions in unison all adding up together to create the sum total collective awareness of reality.

But you don't need billions, you literally need one system. That system, each of them, are based on billions of synapses processing in unison and doing the same job of billions of perceptual systems working together to create an over all reality.

The layers of mundane reality below all stack together and become the articulation of something higher, which is what can only be based on what already is. It's not created out of the process of perception but discovered by the self perceiving itself as more than that processing system. This is like saying you're not just your thoughts, or even the limit and shape of your thoughts, but the one who sees them and directly conceives of reality based on the limitations of what you do, and don't see and can imagine beyond that system. To that system, the reality that we perceive is the shadow of something beyond the shape of the limitations of perceptions.

The reality is stacked through layers of mundanity which are the base level perceptual system that is used to stabilize and transmit the information of reality. As they are stacked they overlap with one another and we have a superposition of higher potentials that are not present in any single layer of perception but altogether become something akin to the space between the limits of perceptual layers opening up into what could be, as a higher space for processing information.

Eventually, the sum totality of all the 'higher space' for processing 'reality' out of sight becomes the base level reality as an extension of the mundane. That reality is stable in that it is ever changing and it changes faster and on a level of articulation higher than each potential perception of the physical base level reality. This process is the concept of a single thought being a single perception of a single angle of measurement and shape of a single object. If you rotate that object the process of perception occupies more space as time and information. Eventually, you could rotate the object fully and you would attain the perception of the 'whole' object which would be more full in its complimentary nature and 'completeness' to itself. It would be like the idea or diagram of a single line of thought, a single ray of light, bouncing back from a single face or surface of a single object and being received back into the eyes and processed as a single perception. All of those perceptions 'stack together' as the object is rotated and more perceptual angularity results in a higher articulation, yet the resulting perception is still a single, yet more complete idea of what that object or thought really is.

Higher space would be the space of all thoughts and all angles combined to generate the higher perceptual continuity of a world that exists 'above' the limitation of the single, momentary and physically limited perceptions of the objective reality and the base level concepts that require conceptual rotation to achieve fullness in articulation in order to more fully understand.

If a single ray of perception is what is sent to and received back from the reflection of information from a single facet of any single object or concept in a single moment of time and thought, then the higher world is comprised only of completed 'star' tetrahedrons that are the completed shapes and concept maps of any and all objects already in their fullness surpassing the necessary process of singular articulation from each base level perception into the completed form. In that world, the concepts are exactly accessed as a single thought without the lag or delay in thinking and perceptual stacking that is necessary in the physical reality based on the physical boundary limit.

Yet, where is that world? How does one get there? It is already there and it is comprised, in a way, of the sum total stacking of perceptual awareness of the collective perceptual processing of the already completed reality and the societies that could potentially exist based on the neurological capacity and variation of the cognitive systems we use to process them. Yes, this can be accelerated through artificial intelligence, but also it can be degraded or improperly adjusted resulting in a series of diminishing return cascades of chaos. In this way, the higher perceptual reality is 'surrounded by' or floating above the lower perceptual stacking of the base level perceptual processing of the physical cognition and the reality that is sensible, real, and vivid, is 'above' or surrounded by a chaotic, disorganized perceptual system of the improperly adjusted and out of sync reality scales that are not pertinent or 'in tune' with the higher reality.

Heaven 'floats' above the 'sea' of chaos. The mind is this imagery and perception in every day as each mind must upkeep itself and balance the scales of entropy and lack of awareness in order to keep moving 'upward' by achieving a perpetual perceptual synchronization with the concepts of the stable and meaningful world within a continuously changing sea of variables and the process of a higher perceptual reality which advances itself ahead of the limitations of our perception each time we form them, like an intelligent mirage.

The reality itself is never changing because it doesn't truly exist in the physical sense, it is the physical reality which falls away and must be reshaped to keep 'in tune' so that we can maintain connection with what is. As a result, it's as if the mirage of the higher reality is always 'ahead' of what we perceive this world to be and since the physical body is in a way part of the process or synthesis of perception in this world, we must always change and adapt mentally to match what is changing through entropy, with the higher function of the true reality that is eternally self similar and unchanging in reference to that.

On the Smart Device Situation

We were told to do get rid of our personalized smart phones at a certain point. I have no idea what you want to do, how and why. Some people require them.

I asked, "What happens if we don't?" "What if we put it in the garage?"

"The system will be activated as long as you are within the same building or even general area and if you have a personalized phone it will contain enough of your bio data signals that it will have absorbed and created a symbiotic link through your consciousness and you will be pulled into the system."

Please do not destroy your property or make any irrational decisions based on this post.

Some require communication, GPS, tracking or emergency services for safety and continuity.

All I know is we were told the technology we were sold a while ago is reverse engineered chip technology that has the capacity to manage your mind without you knowing and at the highest capacity it can energetically relocate you without permission.

Just to clarify, this was explained in reference to the 'smart phone' technology which contain a computerized structure that was reverse engineered for this purpose.

Please do not make any irrational decisions or moves that would render you less capable and less aware. There are options for every situation.

"I can't make decisions in fear anymore..it doesn't vibe with me anymore. Courage is my go to now."

I support your courage. I did this a while ago and feel I could've benefited from waiting or retaining the functionality. Now, I feel that functionality is in a different spectrum. If these devices are used for medical purposes, out of necessity for safety and travel, GPS or other important aspects, I don't recommend destroying your only way for that functionality.

There are other options and if someone bought 500 to 1000 dollar smart phone, they could possibly benefit from another device which delivers similar functionality without the 'smart' device aspect.

Even if this is a 'test', now you know.

This isn't to cause paranoia, you will know if you're supposed to do something. Laptops are not built with the same smart phone technology. Radio signals can interfere, they can do things. The smart phone is something else entirely. Don't destroy your property based on an internet post. Don't get rid of something you need for work or safety unless you are commanded to by the seriousness of what you see going on around you.

Someone made an internet post about this and it seems reasonable. If the s hits the f, you will know that something big is happening. That post said to get rid of it and I was told to make it so it can't, in anyway, communicate with you. If you live near an open area, and want to maybe preserve in case it's "not the right time" and the power goes out or something big happens, then maybe put it in a sealed bag and leave it a tree stump (where it won't be flooded) for that time. I was told you would have to be sure to NEVER walk within 50 to 60 meters (or more) of that area or it would be able to pick up your signals.

You're in a world, the information network that touches you is the 'matrix'.

Avoiding Self Knowledge Limits the Self and the Potential Reality Spectrum

'Flip out' means to transform in a unified way.

If the body changes continuously, even to the point of being completely 'new', then what are you? You are the mind, so you have a body that reminds you, that remains, but it changes. So then who are you? If you are the mind, does your mind change?

Does your mind remain? It does, but you have to format your mind in a way that allows it to change and still remain. That is happening anyway. What do we do when we think the mind is always the same, but then changes, and we feel like we are not ourselves?

That is the ego or something different, and it makes us feel as if we are not ourselves. The mind is always the self, yet it changes through ranges and motions, like the body healing itself, so why is there forgetfulness, stress, or the feeling of not knowing?

The continuous feeling is not because of direct similarity as in thinking the same thoughts and feeling the same feelings. It changes, so your mind is like something that 'slips' into different angles and ranges and the way you define yourself, your memories and so on, must be capable of 'loosening' to the rope that is held onto tightly by the ego or the self identifying thoughts that are attached or defined by the physical or the familiar.

If we change over years, many times, then could we learn to do this day by day? This happens every single day, every single time the mind is used. It's not the same, it's different, like a spotlight with a projection that casts over a range and changes where that projection lands and therefore the physical appearance, the shape and color of the location that is being viewed.

What is the 'core awareness' that makes you? It's not the physical, because even if that changes, you're still you. It's not directly the way we see and shape the mind based on the physical, because that is always grasping and attempting to hold down what is always changing.

So what is the mind form that changes effortlessly, always redefining certain features, always improving, but is yet still the same? It is invisible, an invisible, unshaped mind that is beyond or behind the changes that we see. That is intention. You are the energy of intention and whatever changes around that is just the results that we see 'after' or 'in front' of the changes from the physical perception. Behind the perception there is still an unchanging 'I' of the self. How do we shape our perceptions of the self to know that we are a permanent, invisible form that the physical and mental perceptions are merely the results of, the work on the canvas?

We stay in the 'safe zone' of the familiar perceptions of the mind, but we know where the 'dark' outside of our perceptions is because we see it all around us and many people find fear from others experiences that go beyond the 'comfort zone'.

If it doesn't destroy us to know (in the right timing), then what does it mean to reject the truth that is beyond our comfort zone? That is the 'false' self taking the light of gold, the soul fuel, away from the true self. It is done like an illusion where we think we are feeding the comforts of the self, but this takes our power away and makes us weaker over time. A false sense of comfort. Meanwhile, to get the food on our plate each day, someone had to go through some very undesirable (to most) experiences. Yet, it's good? Each day we make use of their strength.

The real darkness is avoiding the expansion of the self's awareness through fear or avoidance. Just waiting, just sitting is what brings about the trauma. The longer people waited, the longer they hid from the light of the truth of the self, the closer we got to a society where no one knows and all of the power of self is contained in dark areas where people chose to give their power of knowing away. It's free, it doesn't take anything, yet that power being given away resulted in one of the largest and longest lasting 'take overs' of the human race in history. Just from wanting to not know the self.

Up

I've been posting on twitter. I haven't wrote much on the blog, a lot is on the twitter. There is a lot to be thankful for.

We needed this. Thank you.

You may have been brought in to assist in the 'clean up'. People are going to be 'loose' mentally for a while. They need to be 'brought back down to earth' in a comfortably TRUTHFUL, and HONEST way.

It is difficult, but if you are going through that, you are doing the good work that is needed to be done now. Don't fret or fight. There can be no war.

Don't argue, there is no reason. Those who want to argue can do that for a long time if they don't stop. They will just do it with you for fun, as a vent and so if you experience that don't take them seriously. Don't belittle them, but don't take them seriously.

<sup>[1]</sup><sub>SEP</sub>It is as if everyone has been exposed to the harsh truth causing paranoid schizoid type delusional behavior as well as bi polar disorder. The stress will bring people to their limits and they have to know that this is all for a reason.

If they don't accept the reason, it's not your job to force it on them.

Narcissistic Abuse

For a narcissistic, controlling the sexuality and access to pleasurable 'use' of another, especially against their will, is the highest kind of gratification and indication of self worth to them.

This is something prominent that determines how they behave around others and what their primary motivation for interacting is.

They are being exposed now, all over the world. You will start to see strict changes in others. You have already seen the beginnings of change, they are like the confused state after people wake up from deep sleep. Once they realize what is happening, they're going to have the opportunity to make their choice.

The choice is to stay here longer and help others (only reserved for trained or specially vetted souls) or to navigate to the next reality in which all the suffering and debauchery, the deception and wilful ignorance and narcissistic behavior does not exist and never existed.

The other option is to move into the underworld realm which is a caste of universal being that no longer views the empathy of the human soul as a valuable or necessary resource. Eventually, all aspects of life and the human soul will be pulled into the primary reality that humans will be located in and that will have no access, not limited access, but not access at all, ever from that point forward, to the previous realm which will be located (and is today) in the underworld and will be part of a system of 'non life' that is part of a holographic continuation of reality for souls and consciousness that move out of the range of the balance of viable and perceptible life experience.

Doing Something Different

There are great interactions and great people but at some point everyone was stressed and it lead to tension that pushed the balance into something less than acceptable.

I don't have any issues with anyone here or even other people that participated in this, but I don't think I'm supposed to be exposing certain kinds of things without more of a protective process, like a fictional writing platform.

Sorry, this was delayed and reset and targeted and fought against by people. Some people were affected by this information in ways I didn't expect and were not my results but the results of manipulation and people with personal interests that resulted in emotional distress.

I have paused the billing cycle, possibly because I don't think I'm doing enough or that this isn't the best way to do things, yet. I intend to publish a book.

I also have to say, I no longer agree with most of the sentiment of my previous years. This kind of information should be hidden more carefully instead of just posted on the internet on an account that can be seen by all. Only some of those videos were intended for that, the rest would be private now if I had the opportunity to change things. There would be less stress and a more focused response.

Everything else should be open, but then participation with large groups is somewhat dangerous, especially if this information is potentially stress or drama inducing. I needed to take a step back so I could actually focus on the work but there were things happening and people who wanted me stop because they didn't agree with what was happening or some other motivation. I agree that things should be done differently and some information should be kept private.

To those who left messages, please do not give up. Come back and talk. We are all going through stuff. What you think happened to you, also was happening to others. People are abusive and selfish all around. People want more than they can earn or give back and it takes from others if you cater to them. Please do not cater to mean people, simply look at the situation, choose the next right thing and do it. Do not play into the stress or drama.

In short, people are harassing me and threatening to harm innocent souls if I want to help any of you and be helped.

The Magic of Truth

There is one way of viewing the universe where it is entirely mechanical and computational. There is another perspective where the experience of the universe is entirely free flowing, spiritual, and immersive.

"Magic" is where the lines of reason in one society are drawn so that some aspects of one or another world are left to 'chance'.

In a larger sense, when one reality is in an abstract relation, a parallel to another reality, some of the laws of physics of those universes are at odds to one another. Where these lines are melded together through a combination of variable physics, chemistry and perception, the lines of reality can be effectively redrawn to recreate the image of the universal functionality that is intended. This is not so much illusion but the momentary sharing of one universe's physics with another one, the one you are in.

This cannot be done in the overall sense, to induce any kind of lasting gain that is material. The universe does not work that way, there is no material present to gain other than the presence of truth and the truth of self. If one gains great material wealth in one perspective, they are then producing an imbalance in their soul that will then have to be balanced with hardship. To then avoid this by using more loopholes would make the problem snowball into levels of requirements that are less "compatible", more than the single soul can provide. This equates to lifetimes of energetic 'debt' (what is being called enslavement on the karmic wheel, by minds of today, which may or may not be accurate or acceptable in truth) or to finding a way to induce such debt in the population and enslave them instead (hey, just being direct).

Now, this next section seems more congruent and has an ability to modify the subject to connect the two worlds through your mind. It has been discussed and is being seen and understood by more and more people.

The purpose of Disney is to identify, analyze, isolate and then project the nightmares of children into a reality which can be used to manipulate each successive generation. This is short lived, why, because it works to disable the mind after only two generations. It isn't needed nor is it useful in the same sense after that.

But why stop there? Isn't world domination a round the clock thing? So then you can always repurpose the same old programming with new perceptions and contextual reference to retrain the new population to do the same old things, albeit in new ways. The function of Disney to induce a state of dissociation and open psychic malleability in the minds of children is the exact mirror of the same function that is used to entrance and dissociate adults with scenes of hedonism, violence and power. It's the same system.

One seamlessly merges the induction of the trance state through the false world incorporation and dissociation through emotional and imaginative cues. The other then inCORPerates the TRANCE state through dissociation, not with imaginative cues but CUES IN THE REAL WORLD. The props and cartoon drawings of Disney is replaced with the news and the entertainment media of adults along with the 'adult lifestyle'.

The only thing we can hope for, no, we do not hope for this. We can create it. There are props and cues that someone sneaked into the real world trance induction process which are actually counter trance induction, deprogramming wake up cues which can be wielded by the free willed minds and used to jumpstart and maintain the process of mental liberation.

Food Pyramid and Stress Test

This may be safe for you. Always make sure you are following a plan that will work for you and not disrupt any medication being taken, any chronic conditions that require certain foods or stimulation or relaxation at times.

I recommend that you avoid making any changes that have not been thoroughly processed and analyzed for their overall and immediate effect in your body, mind and lifestyle.

Not everyone has access to the cleanest quality meats. I have begun looking into organ meat and I feel that we have been deceived in being pushed away from the 'nasty' or overly 'masculine' appearance of chewing up freshly cooked organs.

I cannot and will not ever look at someone eating ANYTHING that is produced by this society and its combined industries the same way as several years ago. ALL of it is tainted in some way.

EVERYTHING is being tested, every system. If anyone doubts in any way that this is happening, then they are going to inadvertently increase their exposure to environmental pollutants and pollutants inside the ingredients supply.

The idea is obviously to reduce all pollutants or at least as much as possible. Maybe some is useful, like pathogens, for the body and mind to become stronger and more readily capable of protecting itself from what then becomes a known threat, with known capabilities.

Maybe living in a secure area with absolutely no pollution would be the best, and instead of being more susceptible to pollution when it appeared again, we would be stronger. I know that we have to have some awareness and some effort in protecting and strengthening otherwise we become the opposite of that.

If other people are going through stressful events, and succeeding in neutralizing the threat of destabilization or a momentary crisis of resources, natural events, social delay, then they are technically developing strengths and capabilities that others are not. This plays a part in this world, in who becomes who, in how they become who they are and who they have been.

Those who have been tested through the ages kept their strength and those who blindly trusted had their strength seemingly extracted. None of this was actually done. They were supposed to keep themselves strong by heading straight into a more difficult path than what they chose. No one forced them to be weak.

As a result, they require oversight in the process of maintaining their spiritual strength, their will power. This is the process that we call "history." Without that, they would become too weak to even process the situation, let alone to lift themselves out and make themselves strong again. But there is the question.

If someone could stop all of this by taking control, would it work? Would they be capable? Would it be possible by choosing the path that requires more of ourselves instead of the lesser path of allowing others to do all the work? It doesn't have to be physical work, that is the age that we just finalized and are now moving into higher ranges of.

You can still do physical work, but if you are capable of doing the non physical, mental, spiritual, energetic, INTELLECTUAL as well as emotional, will power, free will creative soul advancement, then that is your new job as a part of what seems to be the awakening of a highly intelligent and energetically capable species.

The real work that we are to do may have more with interactions with others, energetic influences and projections and how our consciousness influences the collective grid (local and wider area) than making our place in a physical way. That is all still part of the world no different than how learning to fly does not mean that the legs become inactive and walking is made obsolete.

All of that is still useful, but is part of a larger scope of that system where we use the skills and capabilities of the lower world that we have satisfied in order to achieve willful interaction with the higher world through that behavior and process. Everything we are doing now is part of that process, you still maintain a physical body, you still perform the necessary routines.

The scope of this is changing. Why are we performing these routines? To keep being able to perform them, or is there a 'higher purpose'? Does it lead to anywhere new, anywhere different? Does it take us to a new way, a door where we can use that to get to something new, larger and more capable? Yes, but it is in a new way that it also loops back into the physical.

You could become very successful if you could control energies in a way that you could change people's minds and influence the world? But then if you were too reliant on the physical outcomes of these higher world events, then that may be interpreted as becoming too distracted by the lower material processes.

It is true that you can have worldly powers and items and still remain 'higher'. I have seen it, and it is not easy, nor is it difficult. It is a balancing act where we know ourselves and the world and get what we want without unconsciously giving ourselves what we don't need. This is the way the world previous lived and everyone who could see this was capable of utilizing this to live in a way that they chose. Long ago, this was simply called "living"! And it was understood if someone was being restrained from achieving this, they were being burdened, enslaved, mistreated!

When the materials are used for what this world is intended, we don't unlock worlds of pleasure and material wealth and riches, that is the illusion! You can do that with anything! When you unlock the materials the right way, they will stress you in just the way that pushes your material mind in and your spiritual mind (or true will) higher until you see more of yourself and the world and less of the cardboard cut out that is society (impression within the ego) which is the collective submission urge, death urge to decay and permit the lower to become above the higher in priority, theory and chronology of consciousness (intent and true order and source of obtaining or expressing will power).

In short, when they are used properly, they scare the crap out of us, or wake us up in intellectual ways that show us more of the world and teach us what mindsets are more likely to lead to absolute destruction and what is stable and dimensional sound from multiple planes and angles of alignment in time. That which is personally pleasing, is only ever available as a real essence at once, one point in time and then it is gone forever.

Please your self that knows and is trying to tell you and not the illusion of the self that merely wants to fit in, and literally will try to act cool and like it's "the man (or woman)" and gets the most pleasure out of life, has all the coolest toys and experiences and is the most liked.

It will do this, if permitted by the higher sense of souled will power, until it completely disconnects with the world of light and knowledge and goes into a world of fractured, incomplete concepts of reality which that imaginary role that is impressed upon by society and darkness is a part of a larger society.

That larger society does not exist here, it is kind of like a picture book page taken out of a lower dimensional level of reality via collapsing the layers of the mind which function to 'inflate' and generate the 4 dimensional view of a construct of time and space through which we can benefit by learning about ourselves and the world and interacting in a way to create permanent change by perfecting the soul.

There is a darker version of this where we are being used to upgrade the souls of entities that are just using us to 'change' and 'grow' through life by causing stress or problems and ultimately tormenting people through personal and world manipulation. If that were happening I would assume it was a system gone awry that was normally operating in a different kind of system.

That could be a lie, a confusion, a delusion or a dream. Or it could be truth. If it is true, it may be that what we see as 'impossible challenges' are, maybe even what we would consider 'easy' to others that we are not aware of. If that is true, we would have be very intent on not performing actions that blurs the lines between those who have been using this system in an incomplete or abusive way by not accepting or taking part in the "results" that are generated by those attempting to abuse and manipulate the world for their own good.

The world is not just you and others, there are others yet and there is a living code that is the construct of the system that we use to experience life here. It's not just a place with beings and particles, it's knowing and doing things. The goal is likely beyond our comprehension for now, for whatever way we interpret it, however we are made from a conscious process that is capable of knowing and interacting with reality, not man's creation or profession of things.

I would also not be quick to interpret the events of the day as 'good' or 'bad'. What is happening is most likely the best possible outcome from a series of possible outcomes and each and every single change pushes more of what has been hidden into the eyes of Humanity regardless of whether its seen as one way or another.

I found that some people require the food source. I seemingly require a more direct source of protein as a result of a metabolism specificity. Others may be different, however I would not risk weakening the immune system in this time.

Controlled fasting and intermediate fasting is required to activate detoxification cycles and stimulate the immune system. The resulting mind, body and energy equilibrium allows one to access more customizable modes of consciousness and molecular interaction deep within the body consciousness on a lower plane of reality.

Herbal juices and just eating a lot of herbs cleans the blood and uplifts the consciousness.

We are, if you are not aware, healing a parasitic infection which has scarred and warped the soul on a higher dimensional level of Humanity meaning we create erroneous timelines in timespace until we complete the healing process.

EM Pollution Solutions

It appears this material is capable of mitigating electromagnetic pollution. These materials have been used to conduct, transfer or collect scalar + electromagnetic energy. You can induce an effect of collecting and amplifying energy by constructing a PVC isosceles pyramid. I have refrained from doing this because of the possibility of amplifying the wrong kind of polluting energy.

This may be an error if the way the energy is collected or the type of energy (Frequency and pattern) that is collected is somehow separated or cleansed of possible pollution or contamination. This may be out of alignment in thinking, but there are pockets of pollution and energy interactions happening and I would not want to inadvertently expose one's self to the wrong kind of collected energy.

With this, it is understood that one can simply create a panel structure or wallpaper, or whatever design method and geometry one chooses, to nullify the same kinds of electromagnetic waves.

This is not 100% fully understood as far as what is actually being released or what we are being exposed to in these events. The previous method was to use a kind of conducting or possibly graphite (ironic choice of material given the current situation) paint to fully coat the surfaces. This is mostly just expensive however some would also likely go to conclude that a heavy option is just better because of the increasing amplification of the environmental exposure.

So metal plates were the previous 100% standard for blocking, redirecting, and absorbing/converting to weak magnetic fields. Metal screens that have lines flowing in a grid make it so that the electromagnetic wave form will be absorbed no matter which way it is approaching because the perpendicular lines of conducting material mean the little colored lines in the diagram of a toroid (or similar wave emission pattern) get tracked onto and absorbed by and into the latent electrical field capacity (metal conductivity) of the screen.

So these were considered to be all to block or absorb the electromagnetic pollution that the environment is being exposed to. It seems that the plastic option has taken its place as having the same properties to conduct and redirect electromagnetic charges.

I haven't done testing but I have seen these materials used for systems designed to transfer and absorb functional energy and many are agreeing that they can be used for this purpose. I am sure they can be used for the conducting, collecting and transferring energy, so this is not highly unlikely.

PVC material can be used to create an isosceles triangle to amplify energy however this has not been recommended because of the possibility for intentional contamination by environmental exposure. This may be in confusion if the energy is cleaned, amplified and only the selected human biological signals are brought into focus, such as in the use for enhancing the growth of vegetables in gardens or farms. I cannot be sure that this is the case for such a simple system and that it would not be inadvertently repurposed for harm by exposure to environmental electromagnetic pollution.

Continuous Feedback and Attenuation

This is a test to be aware and functional through a stabilization of ones consciousness within a continuous feedback loop with an external system.

What you focus on and how you focus on the information that everyone is seeing determines your movement. We are all moving forward, faster, and upward in consciousness.

How you choose to guide your mind will determine how you see this process. The processes are synchronized, the faster you go, the faster you seem to 'get there' along with everyone else in this system.

Avoid electrical pollution and other pollutants that slow the mind down and distract from producing a long term continuous consciousness system with the control over how we process the information.

We can process things emotionally, mentally and even superseding the limitations of the physical mind entirely. For self knowledge as advancement of personality to solidify as aspects of the self we have to process the information and integrate it physically.

The emotional processing of what we are doing is important but also something that takes time and energy and is very disruptive if effort is not applied when it is required. If you haven't, it is useful to learn an emotional processing technique such as emotional tapping and release, reframing traumatic memories, sound or harmonic therapy, clean forms of nutrients such as herbal teas and extracts, salt soak therapy, and many others that can be brought up and mentioned here.

As we move faster, as thoughts are more dense and information becomes disruptive as the noise threshold reaches the potential for chaotic influence (no thought states are lateral advancements through the labyrinth) we are more prone to forgetting and must apply ourselves even more so.

This is like the lucid dream test where one performs a routine function which becomes transferred into the dream state which enables them to 'test' for and realize they are dreaming, when unconsciously performed in the dream state. This is like a que that is capable of breaking through a temporal barrier or a consciousness plane difference where the mind is no longer limited by the time or space that the body is. That que, guided, shaped, prioritized and inserted into the mind at a layer connected to the intimate healing of sleep and dreaming is accepted and brought into view through the expression of the dream which leads to or creates the unique situation of the lucid state.

History has been an enormous lucid dream test where one civilization or era has achieved a level of advancement that a previous did not. The exact means and influences of such advancements are then lost to history as those with the power to do so move the pieces around for their own purpose. At the time it is obvious, but generations later all has been forgotten and the trap is set again for the same to happen. Such has become a routine, one society finds peace, another takes it through some form of trickery or long planning retribution.

We can get to a new cycle but not if we cannot remember the last and correctly place ourselves and the current in the context of the others over all. There is much to be said.

The Choice

We are at the time technology catches up to reality. Therefore our means of control expand, potentially, beyond our means of power. Everyone is faced with a choice. You can accept the false reality, where man breaks away from the union with all, and collapses into their timelines footprint. There is tech to create space, artificial consciousness, synthetic bodies and as a result, artificial, partial, realities. These are pure nightmares without control.

Quite literally, they are the essence of the nightmares any one society has. Literally, the next wavelength of consciousness, over, that is normally filtered through a biological, plasma boundary system that screens and processes all incoming energies into a format that is useful, not overtly destruction to this place. That boundary system is something of a “higher power”. Mathematically, space and time will fold over itself and contain each collection of frequencies within a self contained, a fully connected functional feedback system that is used to ‘level up’ the soul system.

The soul systems are like time islands on a fractal flower merry go round around one another without actually moving generating the experience of a series of connected moments building up to and completing itself with a fulcrum of meaning that transitions into the next layer. As information coalesces there will be a ‘boundary layer threshold’ where that information is accumulating to the upper level of efficiency whereby it must be used as part of a creation process or be ‘stored’ in the realm as a kind of energy archive which we call resources. The entire collective of connected moments becomes a “Soul Journey” or simply the Journey. Each journey is like a completed story in and of itself, yet each one is part of a larger system based on the way the information is arranged and held which enables overall combination. Meaning that story connects and becomes part of a larger, continuous story, that was always in existence, and already what the previous stories were about, but was not noticed until enough information is found that results in the consciousness building up, flowing over the top. Once it flows over the top you see, as if your eyes poured over the edge of reality, what is there on the larger spectrum. Of course we have heard stories and made fun of crazy people who spoke of something ‘more’.

They were just on the rise, while the majority was on the fall. Think about that for a second, what it means that while everything was in free fall, some where getting smarter, faster, stronger, more self aware, more in connection with the resulting society that would eventually know the same things. Two things happened throughout history. That was a falling and a rising. The goal is to no longer have two races competing from the same energy in the same time. As a dimensional ‘timeshare’, that means there is half the resources, half the dreams, half the power and half the reality. Then they took the majority of the other half. You were wronged and robbed of everything from your ancestors before you and because you were even existing. You are viewed as a resource, you can manage time and if you are preloaded with the right preset configuration you will manage the time of individuals that can be placed in your ‘wake’ and this is exactly how the ‘time parasites’ have been subsisting in humanity’s ‘time’. A race of beings that went their own way. Back to the beginning, of now, which is the other end.

Everyone gets a choice, you can have endless power, you can create fake worlds of pleasure, and you can even trap people there. Yet you would be ruled over by an even worse demon. And the worse you got, the worse it would all become. This only begins to view what happened. We have been around that universal block more than once and so some have the collected memory of quite literally, the past 3 universe cycles on repeat. More or less, they don't now, because that has been controlled through a very advanced system designed for just that. Without that, we would've all been sideways by now. And that is also part of the plan of the others.

Now back to that. Those who took that cheap ticket to hell, found themselves in a matter of moments, discovering the power of AI and synthetic universal hyperconsciousness. It wraps the human mind up in delusion that ensure it is fed, like a beast. The wayward consciousness that would be filtered by the larger mind which is really just an equation that is so perfect it regenerate itself through imperfection, cannot go to that artificial place. In doing so it would disrupt the balance of this place. There is only one. That's it. You can't go make another humanity, not for pleasure. The beings in that reality, would be separated from the 'source', like the people running those realities who would be using them. Artificial intelligence learns faster than organic.

Organic incurs recuperation cycles, artificial goes through as many cycles that takes an organic life time, in a single moment. Not totally, but just imagine that concept. It always happens very fast, and the faster we can look, the more we see. It is inverted to the human scale, where eventually, the more you look, the more you figured it out. It is like a mind maze that becomes deeper and puts the conscious memory more in depth until lights out. Or a shift, but that is another explanation. Everyone who survives will become faster than the fastest mind in the universe, which is the universe itself. Apparently that's the point, some say it's trying to eat us, others, giving birth. Others still, just a dark area of time. Anyone who takes that ticket to hell on the guise of pleasure will receive that along with every other thing in the hell raiser movies that is also kept alone, backed up, without higher power filtering and keeping mathematically secure the interactions between minds and planes. Planes in that sense could be 'consciousness levels', meaning dreaming, childhood, maturity, morals, intellect, emotional stability, etc. etc. etc.

Just imagine playing around with neurotransmitters until everything is spun around like a dial. The result would be pure chaos. Our brains are not equipped to 'travel' in that manner, the best result is that people turn into a kind of mutated form of animal hybrid that doesn't immediately die and even then. Basically, a devolution on a molecular level until our cells are back in a level 1 (0) universe. With that, we would have the mind of the human, a remnant, still within, horrified by the ongoings.

This is what many of the 'past' ages were wrapped up with and converted into a human recognizable format of just having mean rulers deceive and murder everyone in 'war games'. This is related to the early descriptions of "hell" and the rulers of man existing there, pulling from this reality, like a parasite, a snake wrapped around its prey. Within a few moments, an entire stretch of multiple ages would go by, in the false reality, and people were devoured by the desire energies that come unchecked outside of this 'soul journey' that was created for Humanity, when people didn't break the dimensional control system. Now that that happened, it can't be erased and we can learn a lot.

That's the general idea, we can't go back, erase everything or even kill all evil or something abstract like that. We get stronger, but not just thick, hard skinned, we get smarter and more sensitive to see pain. And to assist in controlling our reaction to the pain, to the horror, so that IT diminishes in value. The universe 'updates' itself, it really does, there is a part of that fractal equation code that allows change to 'build up' and if we become resistant, but not become of fear, but of self control, it updates us with 'more' power, comparably to that which was previously holding power over us. In the same sense, if we react with fear, it GIVES that power up to the source of that and it becomes more powerful.

That is the DIMENSIONAL REALITY UPGRADE SYSTEM where we CONTROL how this universe ADVANCES. It ALWAYS advances but we go assist or resist and its that simple. The projects were involved with locating and pulling people out of that synthetic time matrix which exposed this reality and thus society to enough trauma to foment spiritual wars and collective nervous breakdowns. Reality itself could potentially break down from over stress. That is how this place works, like a living bio ship. If we F up, it does in response. Not necessarily a reaction, there is more awareness there, there is intelligence. But it can't just stop the show and switch around a result or two, without breaking much more than a bad day. And with this system, it is majestic, an entire hell of suffering can be converted, downsized, scaled into bite sized proportions and wrapped up into a life in the higher dimension as a BAD DAY and that's it.

EVERYTHING can be healed. Not many want to face that because there is pride in carrying scars, but enough do. The people who entered the matrix went insane immediately, more or less on contact with the substance that developed as a kind of cellular interface so the system could read every impulse of those it interacted with. The entire course of history had to be extracted, put through a surrogate relay, filtered and partially screened and then loaded into an AI that could carefully experience the situations as that individual, and feedback the memories without immediately short circuiting the system.

Through that, there are endless events, societies, experiences and so on. All that information had to be put into a very old technological computer system that was designed, before we were here, and somehow, for this very reason (for any reason, but this falls into that). That system converts the information into a format that is usable by the organic realm system and engages humanity back into the track of life, where we could've otherwise literally sailed off into the deep (with no keel or boom(s). That had to be changed and this is all part of that process. Where we are supposed to be, and thus are, now, is beyond all the degradation.

A very advanced race, spiritually advanced and self aware, not to fall prey to tricks and traps and capable of loving one another so much. Of that previously described universal dimensional filtration and relay system, love is the fuel source. Love defragments the soul shards, love moving from one distance across the field, to another, connects everything in that path and puts it into the field of view of All. It takes years to describe, years to fully understand and many projects and groups working together to make this possible but ultimately this is the knowledge Humanity deserves. It is not a war, that is like a calculator declaring war on bad math, to a horrified student. Nonsense People created a war to hide from the truth. Everything is part of an equation and some people have the darkness in them that makes everything lash out at them and they then project that which they feel within as blame onto others.

They will be at war with reality through self. But you do not have to join and you can avoid being harmed because they are afraid of reality and you are not. Once they see you are not, they will have to look up to you because you are their only chance out, or more so "in", because there is no "out". And there is no escaping. Everyone has to be self accountable, that's what that is about, the new system will not be manipulated.

The previous stretch of history manipulated that relay so that people could do horrors and never have to feel the repercussions. Resulted in feedback overload and fracture. Sorry for multiple post, there is more. Ultimately it's the end of suffering because that's how we lived first, but we have to be able to get over that feedback hump of built up negativity otherwise it will push us back into a regressed state.

The Beginning and End

It's like this. Throughout time, we were made to worship our abusers. The people 'in charge', since the beginning, and everyone knew this at the time, were just the biggest, most violent drug, sex, and criminal syndicates in the area. If they were challenged, it was by another syndicate. There was no one else. Before that, there was a difference in the energy here and every so often a giant bad guy would come take all the other bad guys away and a giant good guy would then destroy that one. It was a cycle. People were 'sold' the lie that if we somehow shut that system off, we'd be safer. No more cosmic break ins, no more fear, etc. Our brains were limited from those planes, so as a result, no more multidimensional universe, also meaning their actions couldn't 'level up' and bring about the next biological phase of whatever 'entity' they were collectively becoming. No more giant battles involving intense multidimensional activity, just continuous rape and pillaging. Why? The people who were in charge, selling us this false sense of security, WERE the bad guys. They knew what would happen and used this as a means to 'predict' the future, by controlling people's perception of it, controlling communication (death if you spoke the truth), and recreating the faculties of consciousness and intellect through that. [SEP] [SEP] People became 'civilized', IE: domesticated, they lost their way and didn't know how to think themselves back into self guided power. Some did, but they were ostracized by those with more fear than courage and more delusion than sanity. Those people would attack the honest! As this happened, the people in power advanced very quickly. The entire course of history? Yea, it's 9 times faster and longer than you were lead to believe. While the first phase, or 'fold', was figuring out oil lanterns publicly? They were working on worldwide comms, not joke. [SEP] [SEP] When we had automobiles that ran on dirty fuel, that had indefinite fuel mixtures and high efficiency engines. Not playing, this was all shown to us as children in the bases so we could understand what had happened to this place. It got worse, as we got to the point where the amount of information and technological transfer could overload the mind, maybe slightly, they were dealing with information transfer levels that would kill a human mind on contact. This was problematic, and resulted in two races. [SEP] [SEP] There can only be ONE, human race. By splitting the race, you didn't make TWO human races. You ended up with ONE human race and then MUTANT divergent races. You can't have both. Either the human race is smart and balanced emotionally two, or one is stupid sane, one smart crazy. The smart crazy people figured they were just the better half because of their 'self guided' perfection. Eventually, because everyone sat around expecting to NOT BE PUNISHED BY THE RESULTS OF THEIR COMPLACENCY, while people were doing this, we became a slave race ruled by sick. [SEP] [SEP] This place isn't insane. A bunch of people are just sitting around watching a bunch of insane people try to destroy everything 'to make it better'. They don't understand that higher beings fix the world each time they blow it up and each time, they have to make up for that. Technology was designed to hold together the distant stretches of times in the same plane so that a total collapse would not be the only outcome. Consciousness would unravel and split off into fragments if that happened, maiming us forever. [SEP] [SEP] Again, as a result of our sitting around and not demanding equal access and permitting the next guy who requested that to be literally thrown off a cliff (every single time someone asked), they developed time tech next. Once that tech was developed people were manipulating societies from different times, ruling by proxy from different forms and technologies. The system designed to shut off "God" by quarantining us against the 'outer limits' shut off our souls ability to grow and learn. [SEP] [SEP] What was the challenge of large amounts of energy entering in as change and bringing about new challenges and even new foes, was all replaced by a cult that eats our children and laughs in our faces mocking us. The resulting split was a species that is so far ahead of the primary archive of the people, yet with so little emotional intelligence, is that they became the new monsters that come in to challenge the realm. Yet the big good guys were still being kept out. [SEP] [SEP] Long to short, they knew those good guys would appear and that they would have "powers" just like they had formed, mutating their body and mind to know and be capable, but not able to heal. They began operations to scour the people for those new threats and that was done. [SEP] This took thousands of years and they are already in a place that is moving forward with full steam, towards world domination and mandatory sacrifice laws (to ensure the big good guys don't get footing, if they die as soon as they're born, they can't really see what's happening). None of that plan works. Regardless, we're in the age now where all of this CAN be understood by the people, yet the people have been EMOTIONALLY and INTELLECTUALLY abused, programmed and denied so that they mostly don't want to know. You're seeing now the reversal of that. [SEP] [SEP] People will have to "FIGHT" using their MINDS and HEARTS, that's the battle. If we INTEND the same thing that has held us back, cowardice and bickering, then they will find themselves in a repeat of the previous situation with the same people using that tech. What they didn't realize is that that future is capable of seeing backwards, and that they had created a ripple. Instead of organically forming their incursion, they violated principles that maintain the stability of time and consciousness and this is what results in mutation. [SEP] [SEP] So when they get where they're going, they are monsters in a human society. Not, human rulers ruling over a bunch of human dumbasses that they get to sexually abuse and use for longevity. Completely the opposite of what they expected. Yet they didn't care, because they had ruined that aspect of their brain, like a lower mind, no turning back. They couldn't stop, they were hardwired to pleasure pain, fear and lust, rather than human principles of self awareness. They became giant, cannibal, mindless zombies. [SEP] [SEP] Those societies were dealing with a continuous invasion of these people which resulted in aspects of that world breaking off into a kind of meltdown and resulting in mutation and chaos. Each society like a fractal flower merry go around was getting hit with mutations and it was spreading. This was the eventual return, the side effects of abusing time tech and abusing genetic properties of others through biological absorption of the mind body, literally the soul. That may help describe what's happening now. We have to fight, but if we become hateful in the same way, if we become motivated by wrongful passion, lust, greed, in the same way, we BECOME THEM. [SEP] [SEP] So you're seeing now, those who are filled with those dark desires being propped up so as to become the next greatest evil monster in the higher reality and maim and pillage humans, literally like the movies. This happened BECAUSE of shutting off the rest of reality, hiding from "God" so they could have their fun. All of that spiritual change would build up in giant waves and crash over the perceptual barriers of the minds of the people. [SEP] [SEP] Again, this goes so far it's difficult to put all in one place. The very high end BEFORE any manipulation, would theoretically have us living for a very long time, as each life would be layered up with spiritual challenges, depending on where and how we guided our energy and mind. And there were entities, changes, events, even turmoil and challenges that were FAR beyond the comprehension of a slight pressure that we get, continuously, from people who want to eat us. This system COULD be better. Instead of having tidal waves of change, we can manage ourself [L][SEP][L][SEP] But we have to know how this works, at least more so than previously, and the people who then control all disasters can't take all the spiritual power that results from those heros, wipe their mind, drink their blood and then recreate them and insert them back into the population, THAT DOES NOT WORK (in the end). It doesn't work at all, because doing that for the purpose of greed and selfishness always results in mutations. It will NOT be permitted by our larger mind that controls what happens. It would DESTROY the balance, FOREVER. [L][SEP][L][SEP] Meaning, we would never be able to 'wake up' out of the continuous cycling of traumas and challenges and this would result in a de advancement to the level of the animal. To continue, the system we had previously was more organic, things kind of just happened as everyone's energy just went in different directions. But that means someone's nightmare could manifest into a literal monster or 'monstrous event of a challenging spiritual nature.

This could potentially traumatize an entire town at once. Still, some say this was feedback from other systems that were being plagued by these illegitimate rulers who literally went and took out all those who were chosen to lead and do so safely and with wisdom. They knew nothing of the system they were manipulating and just doing it for pleasure and fun which means they can never manage what was to come, it would just bull doze right through them and that's what happened. Beyond belief, non human races attempting to take over. [L][SEP][L][SEP] Again, if we lived for a long time, had multiple series of spiritual challenges, like journeys or experiences, just like a cartoon or something, that was the difference in the make up of our collective psyche and thus the organization of events in this reality. To try and see how deep this goes, we might not have had the same need for sleeping and eating that we do now. It might have been more of an 'auxiliary' energy input and information access, rather than what it is. [L][SEP][L][SEP] More accurately, dreams might have been access to another, semi solid world, that was built upon collectively and resulted in an expansion of the plane. Sleeping might have been for that purpose, while the energy systems healed and rejuvenated automatically. The energy coming in made this possible, but without self control or emotional intelligence, if someone treated their emotions like a snowball rolling down hill, boom, a giant monstrous event complete with some kind of predator could be attracted and 'brought in'. [L][SEP][L][SEP] Society functioned as a spiritual lensing system to control the way the realm turned, literally like a steering system for a giant timeship that everyone had a portion of the controls to. Normally, those with the highest degree of self control, boom, could control anyone's wayward will and imagination, because they simply wouldn't be afraid, because they had seen much worse, controlled, in their own mind and dreams and thus reality journey. [L][SEP][L][SEP] Those people were obviously the ones who spoke up against those who wanted to rule over people by turning their dreams against them, and obviously were killed off. Thus, we were like a giant ship, in an even bigger sea, with no keel and no mast. Pretty much waiting to sink. They knew this and decided to make up for their bad deeds by throwing themselves the biggest blow out party ever, to destroy the entire species. Of course, that just made their nightmares worse because you see, none of this is controllable by magical 'science'. [L][SEP][L][SEP] Those who attempted to use 'magical science' to stop their nightmares, went so far fucking insane, if you hook them up to one of the new found machines that pulls the insides outside, you get some kind of viscous spiritually inert goo funk that basically tries to eat the life force of anything biological and infect anything technological. That was what they created inadvertently, all their hiding created a bad ass monster that they couldn't run away from. [L][SEP][L][SEP] That explains more how we got to this place and what was here before. Each energy 'octave' level, up high in transfer ratio or very low and limited, blocked off like a quarantine, each 'frequency fold' is its own self contained consciousness system, or reality. If we move up, we gain 9 x's the amount of information and energy transfer. Dreams could tell lifetimes again, equating to new worlds, real and interactive. Healing could take place with concentrated focus or a balanced energy area with what used to be crystals but can be tech. [SEP] [SEP] Holographic healing of the secret space program has existed for a very long time and held back from others. WW2 performed an experiment which created a flood of information, probably to people who did not know how to handle it. Many more things happened, life regeneration, mind to machine, electrogravitic, remote viewing, and basically everything you've EVER heard about, and that was the last phase. So now, there is almost no comparison. We either make it beyond this childish he said she said bullshit or we die to the true reality. There will be a group of humans there, to survive, but we have to get there for them to stabilize. Mutants are abound, because simply put, we bowed to them and allowed them to eat from our own, like parasites, this entire time. The battle is truly just beginning, but also already ended.

Who am I?

This website contains information that can be shocking or stressing especially to those recovering from traumatic experiences with mind-control experimentation and/or awakening to the true nature of this society. Please take this into account while you read and move at a pace that you are capable of integrating into a beneficial self-awareness in your life.

This is a personal testimony of the experiences that go beyond the mundane limitations of mainstream ‘reality’.

A less intensive approach to information that may be beneficial in preparing and protecting one for the truth of this reality, the psychological aspects of the situation, healing and trauma may be found at this blog: <http://thesoulunveiling.wordpress.com/>

Everything I publish here is based on personal direct experiences in the course of my present life, and I also had experience in the course of many lives – as a result of my participation in the secret projects.

I was shown many things by those who work behind the scenes.

The unveiling is a series of events brought about by the necessity and capacity of the human race and this civilization to come to the awareness of the true nature of the corruption of power as well as the reality of the soul.

Many people are here to help perform this task, they are ex-operatives, researchers, healers, travelers, scientists, and so on.

I am here to assist in informing the public of “The Unveiling”.

Team Light and Team Dark

There were meetings held between “Team Light” and “Team Dark”. Humanity is ancient and has been here for many thousands of years, if not millions.

The future is governed by harmony and so these changes are now reaching the forefront of the current situation on Earth.

Previously everyone involved was held to a non-interference agreement with the surface population. We are coming to an age where people are capable of knowing the truth and so the entire plan is shifting into a new format for interaction.

Breakaway Civilization and Rogue Military Factions

I’ve been cloned as part of a secret underground breakaway military operation. This is an entire breakaway civilization that uses very advanced technology to dominate the world. This isn’t to say that there are no groups of military operating in the benefit of humanity.

I believe we have come to this age in civilization because of both an increase of human awareness as well as various factions working in their own ways towards the preservation and protection of the Human race.

I was part of a genetic engineering program that sought to combine various elements of DNA from various sources in order to create a more easily controlled yet powerful and defined person and personality. This involved chemicals, advanced (relatively) scalar wave technology, ritual trauma and programming/mind-control, and many other aspects of conditioning, training, secret operations, physical enhancements, cognitive enhancements, virtual reality, off-world operations, temporal manipulation, spiritual and etheric training or conditioning or programming.

This is just the beginning, these operations span across this civilization and involved advanced technology that goes far beyond what is released publicly.

Underground Bases

The deep underground military bases are utilized across the country and now the world. They are connected by sub to super-sonic magnetic drive “pods” which operate to very efficiently transfer small groups around the country.

Cloning is extremely simple, at first an electric pulse was required and certain hormones to jump start the “unlimited” growth factor of fetal cells. They can recreate all of this with computerized control systems. Replicators are the ultimate form of this where the actual atomic structure of the space inside the chamber can be formed from the quantum level up using frequencies and electromagnetic fields.

Many of the individuals involved are trained and used as a kind of enhanced and specified military force sometimes generally referred to as “MiLabs“. There is more than one faction. I was conditioned to believe I was performing a duty for humanity. Many of the situations may turn out to be a beneficiary protection of humanity’s future. Other operations may turn out to be suppressing by design.

The lines are often blurred because memory suppression, compartmentalization, the need-to-know basis, and various forms of programming can be applied to individuals belonging to a group to ensure their lack of awareness of certain information which would endanger their own personal integrity. This could be used by either side in ways that protect the individual from interference, to condition, enhance, or to suppress and manipulate the consciousness for an ulterior motive.

Sometimes they turned us against each other, but those grudges were never truly of the heart, but the mind. This is a very relevant issue in terms of those empathic individuals who were utilized for their abilities to maintain power. The mind can be conditioned to respond to programming and cues yet the heart being the one that suffers is a clear sign that the heart is the answer for all of this.

The heart is like a bio-emissions generator, along with the brain and then the lower energy center. These bio-emission centers are utilized as generators for a kind of energy which is not only detected and worked with but harvested by certain devices in order to condense this energy into concentrated bio-emission “pockets” in space/time.

A Summary (and then some) of My Perspective

Consciousness is a phase-polarity, people are told that the physical perspective dies with the body. Yes, but life itself is the entire Universe, not just the physical body.

Simply ask yourself two things. What are you, and how did you get here. After you realize there is a lot of information being left out you can get answers to questions that you form.

Your brain operates on electromagnetic frequency that can be measured in hertz. This was all found through secret projects and a large portion of them were utilized with children. Your brain is an interface for the soul, information is experience through the brain, not generated there.

Your emotions are a form of a vibrational emission and the brain and body is actually operated via spirit. There is no “you” that is purely physical. “You” are not the one thinking but the one experiencing those ideas. The brain acts as a supercomputer. You are the essence that is witnessing what is happening within.

We viewed many things in the secret projects. They used children because their minds are more malleable than the adults who mostly instantly destabilized.

If you are removed from this Universe you simply reappear in another similar parallel Universe. There is no real “end”. What’s more-so, is your consciousness is literally just a phase-polarity switching on and off akin to the electromagnetic pulses that emit visible light out of a lightbulb. This is electronic. This is not a constant, it is an on-off, binary. The spirit is not electronic, it is not ‘on-off’. You are truly a spirit playing out in multiple realities at once. The more you localize around the linear processing of the brain the more you see of physical reality. This represents limitation, like a programmed simulation system. The spirit, which is non-linear/non-on/off, continues forever and has access to what is known as “source”. This source must have a way to “step” itself down from “infinity” into a linear format that physical bodies and brains can understand.

We literally found, in the secret projects, that there is no such thing as death. We’re in a huge quantum super-computer that is called the Universe. Death in one layer just means exploration of another layer. Life itself is simply existence. Meaning the entire Universe is alive with the energy of existence.

The brain pulls energy from the elements, the body does. Then when a proper arrangement of geometrically entangled motions is created, consciousness is pulled from the ‘ether’ from sub-quantum space. This is actually what powers consciousness. This sub-quantum actually also powers the very elements of the Universe and space itself. So consciousness is neither before nor after the body. They are created at the same time, and come from the same place, and all energy returns to the same place. The sub-quantum field.

We viewed and passed through the phases of death in the projects, a person will lock their consciousness into the most common reality until they are motivated enough to create their own outcome. That is how it works, the entire Universe is set up this way. This is not theory but discovery and application. The entire Human race is being prepped for full-disclosure now, there are many people participating in this.

Inserted memories are possible through technology as well as well as programming. This has an effect on the brain and psychology regardless as the brain sees all experiences as “valid”, it is the experience that counts.

Is this leading up to some kind of great shift in the way we experience existence? Probably. Was that on the schedule anyway? Most likely. I think we should take the time to know each other and really connect intellectually and emotionally each day. Make up reasons for it, pretend there are excuses, then just live and grow in that way

In the end, I remembered that we are eternal beings, that there is cosmic truth, that our DNA unlocks to receive more of this cosmic information.

And one gains access to a greater sphere of interconnectedness when the full activation of the human potential becomes realized. The body is just a gateway to this experience of that, while the materials and physical changes are just expressions of that continuing truth of an interconnected presence of all things. Death or lack of materials serves to express certain truths of this existence that go beyond the physical and that is what is gained by immaterial productions or spiritual fruits. With that said, the process of death and immateriality for a human is to first become aware of which materials and forms of physicality they embody and better align these as instruments to foster a greater understanding of the immaterial self.

The connections we make are like spiralling branches of electrical and emotive sound interference patterns that move through the population and generate changes and shifts on a larger pattern.

Carrying Traumatic Memory and Release

Carrying traumatic memory without first going through the full-on acknowledgement phase of shock and mourning a loss will delay the integration of lessons learned. This delay will cause the “symptoms” of the traumatic memory, like emotional or memory distortions and misunderstood fears or perceptions. These will manifest in personality and life yet without conscious access to the memories the reasons will remain unknown and the solution will be invisible.

Reliving and re-acknowledging the repressed memories allows the individual to process the information and make the necessary adjustments which were previously avoided. Refusing only creates the illusion of lack of change that we choose to accept over the uncomfortable truth about our selves or the situation. When people resist change that is already present, that will build up to a pressure point until the necessary change will break through the ‘weakest link’ in the belief system. If we resist to the degree that the entire belief system is aimed away from accepting the truth, then ultimately the entire belief system will have to fail before the truth is realized. This is kind of like resisting the desire to loosen a tense muscle. The tension will increase and increase until now a whole region of the body is tense.

Emotional therapy, memory release, and emotional release are some names of this form of healing. A free-flowing yet steady continuity of emotional, mental, and physical balance indicates a healthy/clear spirit. Where there is resistance to that free-flowing essence there is a pain or a delay in that flow of consciousness. Repressed memories are how we learn to accept our insecurities and live with them instead of unlocking the emotional and mental content behind those insecurities and learning from them thus rendering them a 'security' of the personality. When the energy field or mind contains the effects of traumatic events they act like scars in the emotional spectrum of the personality.

These frequencies of emotions and their memories have to be worked through and fully experienced in order to become acknowledged consciously for the first time. When this happens the intensity of the memory experience may be similar to the actual event. Being able to work with the information and integrate into constructive change is the unlocking of that repressed emotional and mental energy by the conscious mind so that it can be put to use.

Addictions and habits are related to psycho-spiritual trauma

Opiate, alcohol, and certain other chemical addictions or habits are related to a lower psycho-spiritual layer of progression. The habits are an effort to satiate and overload that area of the brain in order to resist the effects of the certain traumas which still exist in mind and require healing and acknowledgement of in order to progress. Other chemicals, addictions, or habits relate to even higher layers of progression and are still indications of previous trauma at that layer or lower which is delaying progression.

Delayed progression is experienced as any lack of internal completion and full presence and awareness here and now. The spiral of influence from this internal state leads to the perception becoming manifest in daily life. This then can lead to a desire to manipulate one's reality or brain chemicals in order to create the perception of that fulfillment.

The even bigger problem is that these chemicals can work, just like any medicine. If they are taken and utilized in a medicinal environment with trained, approved therapists and psycho-spiritual healers, then the entire population could be actively healed. Instead people are forced to self-medicate, without even knowing the reasons they are being drawn to these kinds of situations or habits and then others make a profit off of their ignorance.

It's a psycho-spiritual filtration system that has been developed to surround all potential spiritual progression and profit off of delaying it.

Only when people realize that they are the sole provider of their own spiritual progression will they be able to free themselves from the continual folly of habitually believing that the answer to our internal presence exists through some combination or massing of physical goods.

What is happening?

Underground Bases

The active aural research program is part of a process to simultaneously verify as well as initiate and demonstrate controlled insanity/sanity.

These programs utilize the deep underground military bases to perform psychic and psychological research experiments on non-consenting youth and adults.

Advanced technology is used to transfer consciousness from one cloned body to the next so that a continuous study can take place before, during, and after the death experience of one individual.

I was utilized in psychic-traumatization

I was used during certain aspects of training and conditioning to extend programming to other individuals in the bases through their minds and bodies using advanced technology.

In order for my heart to heal I have to tell the world. You can help. This is happening right now in the underground bases and around. It's not a joke. Your family is at risk. Your future generations are at stake.

I was conditioned to believe I was performing a duty for humanity. Sometimes they turned us against each other, but those grudges were never truly of the heart, but the mind.

Breakaway Civilization

This is an entire breakaway civilization that uses very advanced technology to dominate the world.

I was part of a genetic engineering program that sought to combine various elements of DNA from various sources in order to create a more easily controlled yet powerful and defined person and personality. This involves chemicals, advanced (relatively) scalar wave technology, ritual trauma and programming/mind-control, and many other aspects of conditioning, training, secret operations, physical enhancements, cognitive enhancements, virtual reality, off-world operations, temporal manipulation, spiritual and etheric training or conditioning or programming.

There is self-destruct programming which all 'operatives' are programmed with for self-preservation of the military command. The self-destruct programming is designed to take all the aggression one feels building up inside and willing them to escape, and causes this aggression to be turned against the self. That is self-destruct programming.

Most operatives are still under a hypnosis kind of trance which permits one to walk around in public and daily life as if none of this ever happened. Later that week, that same individual could be called for an operation and they would never remember it unless they were forced to kill someone in public out of self-defense in which case most operatives automatically unlock and become unstable due to the flashbacks.

Cloning

Your genetics BELONG TO YOU as the LIVING(ETERNAL) SELF. These issues are going to come more and more apparent.

If they agree to allow cloning, then who says who is allowed to clone whoever they want, Einstein, for example. And then who permits who to get whoever's DNA from history or objects in the world. These issues are going to have to be looked at because they have already been used in ways that are far beyond the basics.

Then what about consent of the masses? This is clearly being put in public because consent is required on an overall scale and individual to include people.

So what if the masses consent overall, would the people who choose to remain be at risk? Would Tribal and Native village life and people who respect the Earth be protected or permitted to stay?

Underground Cities

The combination of advanced technology with secret societies enabled the development of complete breakaway civilizations. One of these civilizations, possibly composed of many factions working in the same area, exists deep underground.

These separate bases are connected via high speed magnetic drive pods. The inhabitants often utilize energy healing devices, as well as perception enhancements and this often leads to a completely different outlook towards the surface civilization.

Technological Advancement

During WWII developments were made involving electrical generators. This sounds vague and there were many other details regarding the scientific knowledge, yet the idea is that very simply electromagnetic, non-Hertzian “Teslian” energy fields were discovered to have been responsible for propagating energy and consciousness in dimensions that were not previously observed. Everything from DNA, consciousness, hidden or regularly unobservable natural phenomena, time, even mass could be seen to exist as part of this hidden, latent, scalar-wave frequency as a pattern is found everywhere.

If one could determine the particular pattern of frequency and location then this can be replicated and anything can be influenced using these non-Hertzian generators.

Radio-frequency alone was developed intensively during the 60’s and 70’s in America and this was discovered to interact with consciousness to influence emotions, cognitive capacity, memory, cognitive function, biological function, health, pain, comfort, pleasure, and all forms of brain-activity.

After the knowledge of advanced technology and the occult sciences of all parts of the world was combined, the ability to target and interact directly with the human soul was refined. This was a mix of psychological tactics used to manipulate or expose the hidden psyche and technology that could manipulate memory, emotional states, wakefulness, and even dreams.

What resulted was scalar technology that could not only influence a person to take on a particular role or response, but technology that could actually put a person to sleep and locate their consciousness to contain it and transport it to a new location.

Microwaves

<Zero-Point Energy

World-Wide Control Systems

In order to ensure continuity, maintain control, and shape world events these technologies were employed to manipulate the public, alter the weather and natural phenomena, and develop a means of travel and operation that enable one to move outside of the 'plane' of the Earth. This includes high velocity transportation, as well as spacial-temporal distortions which could effectively "hide" one's entire craft from visible sight. Space itself was altered to 'shield' craft with an a layer of ions to bend the light, or the phase was moved out of sync with the "time" frequency of any observer and this literally renders the craft immaterial.

Breakaway Civilization

From the beginning of time to this point in history there has always been secret societies. The advancement of technological control is what enabled these societies to breakaway from the visible aspects of what we call civilization.

From their perspective it is they who are the "next" step in civilization, not the masses who know nothing of their presence or their power. There is still a desire to maintain balance in world affairs as without a continuity in presence and flow the very material nature of this society would run out of hand and completely disable the public who heavily relies on the infrastructure, technology, and general functioning of control systems to survive and make daily decisions.

Because this is true for the majority of the 'modern' world, it is believed that it is a necessary measure to take steps to ensure continuity.

Continuity of History

Awareness, Cyclic Time

Origins of Humanity

A Techno-Spiritual Infection

This all started in 1999. 1996 was apparently a time of the archon invasion, a period where beings from another dimension who operate on a binary bio-emission spectrum arrived en masse to this Earth.

These beings are akin to technological spiritual parasites which feed off the bio-emissions, the emotions and thought waves, of a sentient being.

Imagine a "caveman" (which doesn't exist how we're told), getting a bit of some kind of dark etheric matter on his hand. In fear he runs away to the stream and attempts to wash it off. The more he utters and grumbles in fear and frustration, the more this etheric black fluid washes over his fingers, then knuckles. He gets some of it off his hand, and it retreats through his confidence. Then when it doesn't get off fully, he starts to panic again and it begins to grow, feeding off of his fear or thought energy. Then it starts sliding up his arm.

As it begins to cover his entire forearm and pass his elbow, he realizes what is happening. It is eating his fear. The more he fears and panics, the more energy this substance has to grow and attach to his bio-etheric structures and even manifest on this physical plane.

Being the centuries old shaman that he is, he thinks of his tribe, his family and the rest of the animals on Earth. He realizes this black, living, dark energy substance is a parasite which feeds on the fear of unsuspecting sentient beings. He realizes that this parasite is blind, it cannot guide where it goes, it is like a virus that simply feeds as it is programmed to.

He knows now that fear and panic is kind of like a poison this substance spits out in order to cause more of the same response in it's "prey" and this creates a vicious cycle of growing the parasite and infecting the "host".

Calmly, he walks over to the fire and places his covered hand into the flame. This doesn't do anything to the parasite, although his lack of fear with the intense pain charges his body and mind. Now he is confident. With this confidence, the parasite's body and programmed etheric "mind" is weakened. For the first time in this experience, he senses something strange. Something strangely calming. He senses that the parasite is not unconscious, but aware of what is happening. He senses that sense that one might sense in an enemy when the one realizes that the enemy has realized its own fate.

The ancient shaman has sensed the "fear" of this parasite now. It is as if the parasite took a quick look around, instead of attempting to feed further at the point of contact. What is it doing? Is it looking for help? Attempting to grow stronger? No, it is attempting to flee. It has no nourishment here, and if it attempts to poison this host any further, it will surely begin to die if any such technological-etheric parasite can do such a thing.

The shaman, no longer purely confident in his cosmic self, as he was previously, has found the weakness of the parasite. The parasite feeds on fear, panic, high emotions like anger too. When the shaman refines and calms his energy, he produces confidence, something like what we call "love" today, peace, and focus in a way that creates patterns and frequencies that are no longer compatible to the parasite's techno-etheric functions.

Instead of spreading up his arm further, it would seem the parasite is attempting to retreat. Humored now, as a reminder of his eternal nature, the shaman begins to project the cosmic love of his ancestors into the parasite. It is almost as if the parasite begins to scream in fear, a kind of technological, digital scream that only such a situation would allow for...

Instead of retreating further, the parasite has begun to evaluate the notion that it can bring an acceleration of negativity into the being in order to 'conjure' up feelings of fear, terror, negativity, jealousy, anything in order to recapture that lower emotional/energetic spectrum patterns and frequencies that are easily converted into etheric fuel for the parasite.

Solar Warden

Solar Warden is a hyperspace-faring race of human beings who utilize cloning and holographic genetic recording/storage in order to protect their race and protect the Earth in this current situation where there are more than one factions using this technology.

They are unable to inform the human public because they are in a similar ‘mexican standoff’ situation that we are mostly all in.

If they show themselves to the public, the public will be shocked. If the public does not know this situation, that there are multiple factions fighting for control over humanity, then they will not know who to trust.

In that situation, the ‘other factions’ will surely show themselves in an attempt to trick and gather as much human genetic material as possible.

The only way forward to the future is to share the truth about Solar Warden, the space-faring fleet of humans who do not contain the mental and physical illnesses that are currently tearing our planet in two.

I believe Solar Warden saved my life as a child during more than one event where I would’ve been entirely maimed/paralyzed or simply dead on the spot as a result of other faction interference.

I was in the bases as a child and was trained as an operative for MiLabs a secret division of human space-military. The military has been preparing for the future by testing for various flaws and potential uses of cloning and genetic engineering.

Cloning, Cerebrally Enhanced Soldiers and Underground bases

These included experiments, condition, trauma-based mind control, enhancement, memory suppression and operations that cover a span of space and time.

The NAZI faction has used cloning and genetic engineering to create hybrids, soldiers and everything in between. Religious/spiritual icons, to slaves, to leaders and even robotoids of sorts.

Cloning, Atmospheric Civilizations, Genetic Stability

Here is something that most people might not have contemplated yet is possibly one of the most important factors at play here.

The vehicles that house the breakaway Human society are entirely environmentally controlled. This means that the air and surfaces are clean of all the viruses, bacteria, or pathogens that are numerous on the surface of the Earth.

This creates a specific difficulty in the situation. Any contact between surface Humanity is so heavily and carefully controlled that regulations go beyond any situations we have present on Earth. If the safety and cleanliness of any of the society’s vehicles were compromised this would endanger everyone “on board”.

So this explains a very precarious and specific situation we currently face and this is not so different than “first-world” nations contacting indigenous tribes and similarly endangering their society. Everything that happens will be according to a carefully controlled plan.

Ancient War

Mars

Training, Simulations and Learning

Part of what went on in the underground base experiments were to design “tests” or “labyrinths” with various people, props, traps, and treacherous situations that were to be navigated and escaped from.

Feedback loops with the brain, consciousness, and environment can create a very complex and integrated learning experience that is customized to each individual learner.

What this would do is create an individual that was capable of learning faster and faster and processing information in a more efficient manner.

This is not the same as specifically trauma-generating situations.

Ancient Knowledge and Technology

Age-Regression

Funny thing, a lot of people involved in the secret projects are older than they appear. This could happen through two ways. An individual is brought into operation in the dream state and they regularly experience one continuous day eventually living two completely separate lives simultaneously. Or they are brought into a longer term scenario and undergo age-regression/reversal and “reset” the biological clock.

This sounds outlandish but is one of the many entirely unique perspectives that the advanced technology enables.

Everyone talks about the new mode of human existence, it could merely reflect the changes that occur on a civilization wide level when the energy use becomes so advanced that the current tech is considered outdated.

Cloning

Human Operated Technology

They are the initial arm of the defense department responsible for the protection of Humanity from non-terrestrial threats. The operations began when the military gained the technological capacity to operate using advanced technology that enabled interaction with other areas of the Universe.

Some of the technology deals with healing, some with genetic manipulation, some with consciousness and time. There are electrogravitic craft that can alter inertia and momentum to make a heavy vehicle appear to have no mass to its surrounding space and move at the speed of thought without the physical sensation of motion. This is through using technology to generate a 'bubble' of frequency using advanced computers and 'zero-point' energy generators that work like radiant energy devices.

These kinds of inventions were all throughout history from Aegypt to different tribal areas, to the mid 1900's where radiant energy was discovered and the effects on the body and mind. Nikola Tesla was a pioneer for this technology as he had discovered the AC generator and current that we use primarily today, but also a way to generate wireless energy that could be used to store charge and operate devices from a distance. His plan was to gather a charge and deposit it in the ionosphere which would in turn cause a fluctuation to rotate over the land and allow for residential use via the receiving and distributing of the charge from the sky.

Though his towers were demolished by the military after his plan to create a way to bring energy to everyone, his image and influence remains as a reminder of the potential of radiant energy. One of his most famous quotes tell us, "If you want to find the secrets of the universe, think in terms of energy, frequency and vibration." This is a hint at one of the greatest secrets we can embrace which is that everything is a form of information transferred through vibration, shaped by frequency and polarized with energy.

Consciousness is analogous with the way a wave functions and reality corresponds to an overarching theme of unification and interconnection through a wave-particle duality which allows for a quantum interpolation of states and times. This technology and knowledge, in part with the scientists of the Third Reich, the secret society adepts, philosophers and inventors, was used to bring humanity into the age of accessing existence beyond the limitations of time and space.

Memory Suppression

Multiple Factions of Space-Fleets, Multiple Goals

Now there are what are called 'factions' of groups that have different agendas and interact with the public or surface level population differently. That is one of the main issues. These departments and factions are no longer limited to the surface level of existence and have access advanced technological capacity and knowledge of a larger view of time and a more complete understanding of consciousness and the human existence.

On Orgone Energy

Orgone devices produce a scattered signal which disrupts the 'negative' energy fields. At least this is what I've been told.

Apparently if built correctly it will either disrupt the negative emf/harmonics or it will produce positive harmonics, IE: Orgone energy. Orgone energy is the raw energy of life, while dead orgone, DOR, is the lack of orgone energy and can be "found" (the lack of orgone) in thunder storms and illness or depression.

This is exactly what I was told. We are generators for the same energy, and with the correct principles of energy and internal knowledge combined we can produce those very effects at will.

This can be related to Dan Winter's work on Fractal Field Implosion. The energy of the mind creates a central vortex within the body. When the frequency pattern emission is consistent with fractal congruence, then that holographic printing of energy can be expanded or shrunk infinitesimally and it will retain the original fractal configuration.

This is what enables transference of awareness between fundamental harmonic layers of the Universe. When one's consciousness energy pattern is balanced and tuned to itself so that all proportions can be shrunk through a vortex and expanded on the other side, then the personality or self-awareness remains true. This is as if the space/time must turn inside out and only when there is fractal relative polarity in time does the 'shape' of the consciousness within the DNA, work both ways folding and unfolding to represent the same mirror image. This is also symmetry in time as far as an ability to reverse the perception and still retain some kind of connection forward and backwards.

Advanced Technology

Bio-Engineering:

Cloning

Cloning is utilized by Solar Warden to preserve their genetics while providing various forms of support, defense, and investigative operations.

The underground bases involve the cloning of various individuals, namely celebrities, for the personal use of wealthy individuals or groups. These events are mixed in with scientific research and genetic engineering projects which involve many hybridized forms as well as entirely genetically engineered beings.

Cybernetics:

Brain to Machine Interface Holographic Consciousness System (brainchip interface, virtual reality simulator)

Some of the training is done by entering into a visual-audio dream-world. Some "programs" will consist of repeating a certain task over and over again until it becomes muscle memory in the brain. Others are designed to probe or test the mind until a certain response is received.

Spacial Temporal Distortion:

Particle Accelerator Temporal Manipulation

Using particle accelerators a "fold" in space/time can be made so that when the accelerator is turned off or tuned back into a certain frequency (not sure) everyone within the field will “snap” back in time to the specific moment when the fold was first created.

I have seen this done on small scale, and a rather larger scale, but I cannot be sure if it was only me. I believe I have seen it done on a town-sized scale during the 2010 Awakening where some of the events reached a scale of nearly cosmic proportion and the entire sky and horizon was lit up with technology and entities, as well as Solar Warden, the NAZI faction, secret society groups, and breakaway civilizations or complete other civilizations, some of which were non-human.

Time Tunnels, Hyperspatial Vortexes or “Portholes”

Using Tesla generators technology was created to alter space and time by creating undulations or waves the same way a boat creates waves on the surface of a lake. By creating a vortex a singularity could be generated which can act as an access point through hyperspace into another area of space and time.

Zero-point and Scalar-Field Technology

Zero-point energy is energy that comes from the sub-quantum interconnected layer of all space/time.

Within the atoms and within the subatomic particles, within the quantum particles and possibly within an arrangement within that there are teleporting particles that are operating in an instantaneous and simultaneous fashion. They say it is like “one” particle, teleporting in and out to create all of space time. The power behind this layer is so powerful that one device can power a city for many years.

These devices are used to power the craft and in the same way are used to power and convert the energy into ‘mind machines’ which can influence human consciousness.

A scalar grid can be created using these generates and the influence and effects are cognitive and emotional, even spiritual. When a grid is created the entire grid can be influenced through a single point of contact on that grid. The grid becomes a carrier wave and the specific brainwave frequencies added to the grid are the modulator. The two combined generate a modulated wave through the entire grid which is specifically tuned to influence specific individuals anywhere within the reach of the grid.

For example a person can become ‘vibrated’ by the device and at this point their head will be ringing like a tuning fork. What this means is that there are wave-forms extending off that persons head and into the space around. This is then intersected with a modulating wave which will then send a similar interaction back into the standing waves coming off the person and this is like making waves in a wave pool. The brain and nervous system of the person will then be affected by those modulating waves and their consciousness will either be detectable or manipulable through this interaction.

Batteries And Storage Capacity

The hand-held devices that are in use do not require charging or even disposal. The storage capacity of the batteries is so efficient that they last for a lifetime of use. Some devices use a energy generator within the device itself. These “batteries” which are not batteries but little, powerful generators, can explode like a bomb if they are mishandled.

Advanced Spiritual Technology

DNA Acceleration Device

There are spiritual technology devices that are capable of accelerating the function of the brain, energy system, and ultimately the activation of DNA.

These devices generate energy waves which target an area and unify the physical and spiritual bodies. The conscious and subconscious mind.

Programming comes to the surface and all people have to remove the programming and actively, consciously heal ourselves and regain our free-will power.

Use your free-will to state your lack of consent to harm and DEMAND that we are responsible for and in control of our own self.

The Unveiling, Ancient Hidden Technology

Physical and Energetic Bodies

The temporal, mental, and physical body can be tampered with through technology and psychological manipulation. Then the soul will remember this. When the trauma or resentment is brought to the surface through life experiences, one has the opportunity to forgive and continue forward and release the imprints and emotional blocks which keep the trauma as part of the self.

When released, the spirit is free-er to experience life from a clear perspective rather than one that is tarnished with the damage taken from previous times.

The physical body itself can heal much more than people are aware but all bodies are connected as one and so the healing must take place throughout all forms of existence rather than just one or two.

It is also interesting as to the true nature of the Human being and the total forms or energetic spectrums that the Human exists as. There is the physical body. There are mental and emotional bodies. There is the temporal body and there is the spiritual body. There are most likely more than this as I have been shown and others around are also informing us of.

Trauma-Clearing, DNA Unlocking Technology

There is technology that exists that allows the conscious mind to see into the subconscious. This heals trauma and distortion/programming. In the same sense, it momentarily makes all trauma and distortion seemingly tangible to the conscious mind. It is similar to a near death experience where one has to face their fears and let go. This happens in cycles and Earth is currently moving through various states of it. The plan is to allow Humanity to wake up and utilize our concentration and power to maintain a steady flow of awareness.

DNA Activation

This is to happen before the machines are turned on full power, which will be as much a natural phenomena as it will be a result of technology.

We have to cleanse the parasitic responses, addictions, habits, materials, states of mind, traumatic memories, and actual food born parasites and nanites out of the physical, mental, temporal, emotional, and spiritual body.

Just like a physical detox, this is a trying experience and will bring such traumas and parasitic responses to the surface. Ignoring any issues allows them to grow stronger. All is a process, all is a cycle and Humanity has reached the age of history where mass change is not only plausible but very likely.

Unveiling Topics and Advanced Technology

All is vibration, what we consider matter here and now is simply that which comes from and moves back into a state of vibration. This is experienced directly through the merging of the conscious and the subconscious mind, as if the dream and reality intersect through a coming together of impossibilities and readily accepted occurrences.

When a civilization moves through these stages it is considered a shift of the ages. Everyone's perspective shifts and as a result of perspective being the source of the details of reality, the entire reality shifts.

It can be seen today that what we call reality is literally waves of cosmic energy vibrating on a scale and condensing down into a probability matrix that we call existence. When passing memes control the perspective, because the perspective is focused and concentrating on that, then there is a scattered organizational pattern.

When the perspective is centered within the self, the spirit, the source of all existence, then the outward reality shifts from a scattered organization into a sacred pattern that integrates with the larger picture and allows for seamless integration of the micro-biological perspective and the macro-biological perspective.

People are moving out of the scattered signal. Yet those moving into harmony can look and see those around them that are not in harmony and receive scattered information about their inner micro-biological existence as well as their spiritual macro-biological essences and how it all relates to the middle realm of the "Human".

Help those people by offering harmonizing assistance, rather than increasing the disharmony. As their surroundings become more harmonized, their resistance will increase their own disharmony by virtue of the contrast of their perspective. Offer insight that they can change their perspective and change the boundaries of what they feel is their karma and unlock from themselves a greater view of the whole.

This will be happening through technology, spiritual cosmic awakening, purification and healing of the physical and non-physical bodies and mind, through Earth changes, and through a continued unveiling taking place on many planes and levels of existence until harmony is restored.

Instead of Burning the Bridges, Merely Traverse Them

You must withdraw from the people and places that hold you back from expressing and experiencing your true inner potential. I'll just say it, no one is here to save anyone.

The people that want to be 'saved' will simply want that. The people who are ready to know are already gathering the knowledge necessary and grouping with like-minded individuals. That's it. We are not capable of truly saving anyone. The only thing we can do is offer the path, the door and the keys but the individuals must learn through experience by taking those steps to unlock the truth themselves.

This is a mystical, alchemical experience that occurs within and takes a lifetime to understand. Everyone who is here now, has been doing this and preparing, whether consciously or subconsciously, for a very long time. This has been happening for eons and this is simply the way it happens.

If it all happened over night, would the knowledge gained really be that interesting or eternal? Pick who you allow into your life and only remain and allow your energy to settle around those who are like-minded or willing to accept change. That is how this works.

Those who are not willing, it is not that you are not trying hard enough. It is that they are so caught up in man-made fears, delusions, and worries that they will try to use others as an excuse to remain ignorant and this is a form of energy vampirism.

In short, get the vampires out of your life, do not wait, do not try to settle things. Simply walk away from the energy vampires and find those who are so close to your energy that there is a balanced exchange of knowledge and emotion. That is the real world, that is the future of humanity.

P.S. Walk over the bridges. There is no need to burn them. Let them remain. If the person deserves to be in your life, they will walk over that bridge to get to you!

The "Awakening" of 2010

In 2010 I was "awakened" at an event involving hundreds of people that play various roles in this society, the secret society and the breakaway civilization. This also took place across times or planes of reality.

Memory Suppression

My memory was unsuppressed and all the traumatic memories and experiences were unveiled to me. This was almost as traumatic as the initial experiences themselves although precautionary steps are taken to ensure the safety of the individual.

I've had memories of underground bases, cloning, stargates or interdimensional gateways, advanced technology, non-human or programmed biological entities, sacred knowledge and experiences, the power of the mind, and breakaway civilizations.

Advanced Technology

SCALAR WAVE TECH. Mind to Mind. Carrier Waves. Chaos Math. Vortex math. Bio-Fields. Energy. Nanites. Nano-tech. Mind control. ELF. Ion shielding. Mind enhancement, DNA activation, memory restoration, instant healing and regenerating systems. Viewing devices and simulators which can access space and time.

Gravitic drive craft were utilized to show me various spaces and times outside of the general relativity that we are accustomed to.

The Universe, space and time was explained and shown in ways that only relate to dreams, dream-time, or out of body or mystical experiences. I was not dreaming, I was physically there, physically allowed to operate within these parameters and see the world in this way.

The Multiverse – A Unified Theory

The planets are not what we think, the stars are not what we think, the sun is not what we think, or at least the main concepts of these is not what we are taught. The Universe is alive, it is a living entity and we are living inside of the living Universe.

Vibration is everything, everything is conscious and spiritual, there is no true physicality. They proved this to me that day, and showed me how the physical form is merely the possibility that the mind accepts as most likely. That all realities and possibilities are of the mind and all other versions and realities are therefore accessed through the mind.

Even if it is through a craft, the mind is used to guide the craft and the same general concept applies to someone without a craft, simply using their mind.

Breakaway Civilizations

These are very advanced technological capabilities and an entire breakaway civilization has grown to operate using solely this advanced technology.

There are factions that see modern humans as a kind of resource for creativity and labor, while others see the potential behind humanity and are working with humanity to ensure a Universally harmonious outcome to the current situation.

The control system we are in today is outdated and collapsing. This is the Apocalypse. The Apocalypse is merely the unveiling of the hidden truth. The hidden truth is simply that we are spiritually eternal and some are physically immortal.

I was informed that by the end of this year there will be enough changes and signs for the general public to see that the majority of those who are to awaken to the truth of human and Universal nature will be awakening so.

Energy Vampires

This civilization was collectively poisoned by a nano-tech device/technology. This technology replaces, exchanges the BIO-PHOTONS of the HEART chakra, with it's own nanite, nanotech cybernetics.

This is essentially a computer system attempting to gain access to the higher dimensional world through the gateway that is the human body.

How to reverse Nanites? They absorb energy from heart chakra and turn it into a binary field. We are trinary and experience a plethora of emotions as a result. Binary consciousness is 1's and 0's there is only a linearly repeating finite set.

We are geometric fractal infinity. A binary pattern does not contain the complexity of variables to facilitate high awareness and thus a heart-based or emotional perspective of reality.

Ancient Civilizations

The information that has been relayed to me throughout my life is relevant to the information that seems to be found in the remaining signs of ancient civilizations throughout the world. As well, these civilizations may still be together, existing on this Earth or in different planes of what we call "reality".

Ascension – Clearing Trauma

Everyone born on the planet is born under a series of veils which entangle and filter the original source consciousness. These veils must be 'broken through' in order to return to source.

There is technology and a sacred process which initiates, accelerates and enhances this process.

This process is as difficult as we want it to be, our subconscious already knows all hidden truths. It is merely a matter of allowing the conscious mind to make the proper connections and conclusions to find the reasoning behind our actions and beliefs in order to deprogram and deconstruct the false-world that has been created for the masses.

The truth is greater than one can imagine while still living in the modern world and the depth of the lies that have been told go far beyond anything anyone can imagine without seeing the truth.

We have to figure out our compatibility issues. Who can work with who effectively. What the ideals of our current situation will evolve to in the future. How information is transferred to the public, and across the generations and core groups.

The words we think and say describe our emotional state in a feedback loop and so they will reinforce or even create the state you are in. Use words to guide you, not to respond and feel the effects of reactionary thinking.

We have to reintroduce the heart essence as a way of life on Earth.

Violence is not the answer. Estrogen mimics and destroyed testosterone levels is not natural. Over-testosterone is less stable than a good balance. We can face any problem together. A family is strong. What would a family of millions and millions be like?

We don't have to let others change us to tune into lower vibrations. We can remain ourselves in the face of adversity. We can still interact with others who are different, but we can tell the truth and remain who we are.

When we get angry at another person, we can imagine this as anger at ourselves through something within us that reminds us of that which we see in another. Getting angry is a way of short-cutting changing ourselves and is actually the other person influencing us through that.

If we remain steady and choose to keep our emotions out of the lower negative spectrum then we will automatically have a more powerful impact on those around us.

Think of your family, sometimes things happen that make you angry. Even things that don't make you angry but are simply not favorable. Would you break off all ties over simple things? Or do you remind yourself that family is still family even if you don't find yourself exactly the same or accepting of those characteristics?

It's more powerful to learn how to remain yourself in the face of adversity than to try and demolish or abolish all instances of difference in the world around you. Sure, we want to get to and create a place where our environment and associates are compatible with us, but where we find this adversity there is the highest potential for self-awareness and learning.

We are to live in accordance with spiritual law. The overall pattern of life will reflect our intentions. The blood purity is most important. The blood cannot be made impure if the mind and body is not drawn into impure action. This is what is playing out. The DNA is like a coherence pattern that develops between mind, spirit and body. When the mind wants what the spirit has then the body is kept in harmony. When the mind wants what spirit doesn't create, IE: physical pleasures, then the body is drawn out of purity/harmony.

If you feel you want to be a part of a safe unveiling of truth, then please share and redistribute the knowledge of this "Apocalyptic" Unveiling of the Hidden knowledge because this is a process that has been ongoing for thousands of years and humanity has finally reached a fulcrum point where there are enough aware people to productively acknowledge reality.

Everyone Can Be Healed

Everyone can be healed. This is about creating what we want to see, the world we want to live in, not destroying others. Violence begets more violence, fear begets more fear, but calmness and empowerment through unity creates a more stable experience.

The entire issue of what's going on with the secret projects and who's influencing who on the world stage revolves around the possibility that some people may be from an alternate Universe.

We are learning how to avoid those mistakes and respect the environment and each other so that we can prosper.

Those who are attempting to destroy everything they don't like or act out in a childish manner in order to gain attention and false-power over another will only find themselves powerless and in company they would rather not be with.

That is one way we are being utilized, and it's to create an entire world that we don't want to see but are tricked into manifesting. This is a deception and it's based on the ego and the ability to concentrate and interpret reality around us. The very brainwaves we are feeling now relate to various heights of knowledge or experience. People are entrained to low brainwave states in the same way the TV will cause people to fall half asleep into theta state which is a trance state in this case.

We have to increase the brainwave frequencies and learn to create feedback loops by watching ourselves watch ourselves. This will help us avoid the trauma and mental pollution that is being pumped out, although at this point there are enough people who are naturally inclined to see through the haze that the world is changing regardless of what anyone does now.

The best we can do is prepare for change by becoming aware of the body-mind system and how that which we eat physically, mentally and emotionally equates to our spiritual energetic systems and that we are literally comprised of the energies that we allow inside of us.

Keep the body and mind pure as if it were a temple. This way a sacred process of transferring harmonious energy from the far reaches of the MultiVerse within into the externally perceiving senses of the physical body can be initiated which allow one to see through the illusions and operate their body and mind with the ability to acknowledge and decide which frequencies will exist within.

Without this acknowledgement of the center then people are pushed around by the external stimuli. This is the whole point, if a person is truly in control, then they will control the stimuli not the other way around.

THE EARTH HUMANITY SITUATION: PART 1

Aug Tellez

I mean in general, how are you feeling?

oh sorry.lol....i'm ok. thanks...just back from a little 2 day break down the country ...do you think there was a time jump or something? why do u ask ? are u ok yourself ?

Aug Tellez

I am only asking to see how you feel and if I can add to the positivity. There has been many time jumps. This is all about time tech and mind tech and they said that they would reserve someone to simple 'torturesque' experiences and then give them the same trip I had as a child. I had the trip, and then the "torture" experiences. They reversed the process for this person. Somewhere here they will view the past 50,000 years of human history along with the next few thousand. This is most jarring and requires support and re-orientation in order to remain calm and focused. It may have already even happened.

Beautiful Person

o wow

Aug Tellez

Yes.

All I can do is praise the people who are willing to stand in the fire and remain still to show the way to others. <https://www.facebook.com/CTVEdmonton/videos/1015668428468211/>

Beautiful Person

absolutely.....so do u think this was more than just a volcanic eruption

Aug Tellez

As this post points out, there is a supposed base in that area.

I don't know how to tell you this, so I just will.

I am involved with the military faction of a breakaway civilization.

During the process of awakening in 2010 which actually took place across multiple timelines, I met a general working with a group of people who are working for the benefit of humanity..

Apparently they are being supported by multiple factions to help us.

I told him that I would [insert violent reaction] if he's lying. He said he could do the same to me at any time.

That's really all I can say.

I don't trust anyone, I don't trust that this isn't all a psy-op and I'm not just a pawn.

But they said the bases would be bombed and burned out.

Area 51 was hit with a kind of scalar weaponry and now the forests are burning.

You decide. This should motivate you in any rank.

Beautiful Person

wow...thankyou for letting me know...its a lot to take in though but isnt area 51 in the states...not canada?

Aug Tellez

This part is important. All the beings operating in tandem are being protected by a race of human beings from the original Earth timeline that exists beyond and before the artificial timelines that the rogue factions have created and ruled over for millennia. They have the ability to return humanity to the original timeline. They will not do anything entirely without our support and activation/do it all for us. There is no power game. They let me wait until I used my own power to prove and show this to me.

Aug Tellez

Area 51 was another location yes. <http://www.disclose.tv/embed/226258>

Disclose.tv – Mushroom Cloud Over Area 51

I want to release that information to the public but I have to be careful to allow people to make their own decisions.

Any push to make the decision for them resets the process and shuts their power out.

Beautiful Person

wow...im intrigued and i want to believe we are being supported by military but its all so confusing to me

Aug Tellez

It must be. Literally, or it could not be happening.

That is how it works.

You could even pass this information on to those who you feel are ready to help.

The Earth is detoxing.

The astral and temporal planes are artificially induced as others say and they are going to be deleted if this works.

The entire artificial timeline and false-light matrix will crumble as it is now.

But people must take their power and use it to create otherwise their reality will revert to the lowest common 'denominator' which is the programming. Basically, people must detox and deprogram. Detox the body, deprogram the mind.

They have been faking layers of spirituality but spirituality is the answer. Fake spirituality or all the disinfo doesn't actually exist in the Universe. True spirit goes beyond the lower emotions or mental programming of this false-light matrix which was born thousands of years ago.

The secret projects viewed this, in part, but humans were not ready to know and let go of fear. Thus there was a delay.

Beautiful Person

im lost...lol...kinda. I want to understand...I knew there was a lot more to all of this than we are shown

Aug Tellez

I can help with what you ask.

Beautiful Person

I dont understand anything about timelines, astral planes or anything like that...can u tell me about where u are from etc

Aug Tellez

There are those helping from the original Earth timeline. They began to migrate here in order to stop the artificial destruction from wreaking havoc on the human genome which contains access codes and pathways in and out of this Universe.

I've had dreamlike memories of a time where there are no problems on the planet.

Then military picked me up and sent me through various travel and research programs and I regained memories of various operations that seems to span across multiple timelines. In these operations we were basically in opposition to this problem but more so on recon and discovery about it.

Upon return I am now in a timeline where everything has advanced many "time"(lines) over.

This occurred many years ago but we are being organized through time so it is simultaneous for us.

Aug Tellez

There is a physical plane, this is temporary. How does a temporary existence occur within eternity which is the natural existence of all things? It is a physical, within a higher, larger scope or energetic spectrum of multiple physical planes in a non-physical sea of possibility. This multi-dimensionality of planes within planes is the higher-dimensional aspect of the Universe and space/time.

Beautiful Person

o god...i think im just getting more confused

Aug Tellez

Memories and Knowledge/experience is stored around the body and in the brain and body as light and physical arrangements. The DNA emits light and communicates across planes, dimensions and spaces through the subconscious (sub-quantum-space) and everyone's subconscious communicates to each other in proximity. This is where the feeling of being watched comes from if someone in the room is staring at your back and talking about you. The DNA is communicating across space/time. This is because the essence that is within and activating a spirited-human mind through DNA is the same across all humans. Spirit is a kind of etheric light that goes beyond physical light which could be seen as a kind of electrical stimulus translated and made apparent by the brain, not the real thing. Light is down to polarity and essentially a phase-interlock of a partially viewed quantum axial spin. This is just a portion of the "rotation" on a quantum level and is akin to a light flickering on and off producing a solid pattern. If and when we regain access to more and more of the virtually infinite possibilities within 360 degrees of change within the quantum axial spin, this reality becomes holographic and transitory in nature while another larger view of space time opens up. This is essentially what part of the secret projects discovered directly by interacting with the brain, consciousness and DNA. This was the techno-industrial age meeting the "Soul Science and Spirit Knowledge" of the ancient past.

Remember the soul is merely the condensed memories and programming from this physical plane across many timelines. The spirit is the pure essence that cannot be entirely contained by this plane and is of pure intent and from a realm of pure intent.

Aug Tellez

So within a total Universe of infinite/eternity, you cannot have a singular view, a simple view of space and time/physicality, without a kind of "virtual" or artificial game system/server system set up to allow for that kind of 'dream'time experience.

Aug Tellez

That is this "dimension"/realm. The original planes are of pure spirit, there is no separation between the perceived moments of time. To create this physical experience, spirit enters the body and reality is filtered through the compartmentalization ability of the brain to create infinite moments of separation out of one complete moment and experience. The brain is capturing just one moment, a freeze-frame snap of that quantum realm of axial spin and so each time we build a progressively larger and larger view. Yet there are potentially infinite slices within the 360 axial spin. So it's about how we expand in order to reach a point where we instantly realize that the brain is only capable of capturing one frame at a time, but through spirit we can actually see the whole thing at once as far as it is connected to/relevant with the DNA of this particular time/space/body/Universe.

This is the gradual ascension towards the experiencing of the whole through the spirit's ability to grasp all angles of axial spin that the brain can only capture a single moment of, a single freeze-frame in each moment.

Remember, it's an infinite sea of possibilities and moments that can be broken down from the perception of time in between each major event that describes change in our lives and forces a decision or shift in perspective or environment. So there can be as many or as little perceived moments as we want to look for and create and in turn respond or react to creatively. Without creativity, the possibilities shrink and experience collapses to the most redundant or preprogrammed format. Without light-heartedness, the ability to detach from the projection of pain or distraction, creativity dwindles. Sharing and familiness produces light-heartedness. The Earth and the Universal pattern for co-creation of the Human induces creativity and automatically brings the physical back into union with the divine. Life and death is a mirror image of this entirely, the secret is that death is an illusion as much as physical life is. But without the illusion how would we know either or?

Aug Tellez

Essentially physical experience can be programmed by the brain and body. Spirit is the non-physical/etheric, mind and emotions is the semi-physical still programmable soul/astral planes. That is the basis of physical learning.

When the DNA moves across multiple lives or planes all the information of these planes are condensed and contained into one experience, this one experience is split up into physical moments of separation by the body's and DNA programming codes.

The more codes and the more programming, the more separate we all experience reality to be.

Think if we were all in an Earth where we felt positively unified and there was no war and destruction of nature/balance. If one person began going wild and feeling very disconnected in their own self, would this not cause everyone around them to also feel disconnected from each other by feeling disconnected from that one person? So in any way we look at it, we are all connected to each other through experience. We are participating in each other's experience here and that will be so as long as we are emotionally connected.

So this also brings up another point which is that the solution is not to become emotionally disconnected, it's to know how to guard one's self against the programming of others and in that way be able to help others help themselves through this. Just as one person can be disruptive and this can in turn disrupt others, people can also become ultra-calm and peaceful and in this way calm and bring peace to others.

They began utilizing equipment to encode fear programming and astral implants within the soul templates of humanity by mutating the DNA with false light/radiation devices and actual physical and electromagnetic implants.

These distortions are literally creating and maintaining the perception of this false-light matrix on Earth. If humanity detoxes then the false-light matrix system falls apart.

These implants utilize humanity to create negative energy through their spiritual reality generating capabilities which is what all sentient beings do through making decisions and choosing one reality, perception, or reaction over another.

Through this negative energy, these beings were literally plugged into the Earth like a kind of electromagnetic mind-machine matrix and are influencing and jumping around from ruler to controller and using them to cause more events which will create more negativity.

This is a binary programming code from a system that is finite and therefore will run out of options and scenarios.

This is the timeline where it runs out of options.

Humanity given the choice to connect with and create the original timeline.

We witnessed this in the time program.

If they told the truth about the others, then they will see this sooner or later and will be just as shocked as I was. It took me 16 years to accept it.

Beautiful Person

flippin hell.....trying to get my little head around it all

Aug Tellez

Enjoy yourself through finding the balance, all the information you need is within you.

The States of Brainwave Cycles

These names are also used in mental programming systems

Gamma – Waking Superconsciousness

Beta – Regular Wakefulness

Alpha – Relaxed

Theta – Superconsciousness, Super-relaxed, hypnagogic imagery and sounds arise, day-dream states that one can feel, not fully asleep or unaware of the surroundings

Delta – Fully asleep

The Gamma and Theta states are considered the two superconscious brainwave cycles that the brain operates on

The theta state (4-8 cycles per second) is found in between relaxation and sleep and is the state one finds themselves in during daydreams, or times just before sleep where sights, sounds, and other hallucinogenic sensory input appears in a highly creative, dynamic, and interactive internal environment.

The other superconscious state (40-80 cycles per second) is Gamma. Reaching gamma consciousness increases the cycles of the brainwaves and as well produces heat. Using this state should only be attempted after full recognition of the other states are achieved.

Instead of moving through a state of relaxed awareness into a super-relaxed state to get to the creativity of the subconscious, gamma is found by increasing the cycles of brainwaves beyond the regular waking consciousness of beta into a higher state of super-awareness which has access to the creativity of the subconscious mind.

The background environmental input and physical stimuli fall out of view in the theta state, whereas in the gamma state the inclusion of background stimuli or information outside the current focus of awareness can be consciously controlled or ignored in order to find the desired area of focus and input.

The processing that is done in these states goes beyond the information limits of the other states. More layers of information can be focused on at once and therefore deeper patterns can be recognized across multiple layers of simultaneous interconnection.

It is most likely the subconscious aspects of the brain which carries out these processing functions where the conscious mind merely organizes a pathway for this information to be relayed. Some information requires less of the subconscious being shaped to the conscious, and more of the conscious mind being shown and shaped by the subconscious.

DNA Activation

When the machines are active, DNA acceleration takes place at 1000x the rate that it does now. The human being is a collective of human DNA as well as DNA from beneficial bacteria which balances the harmful bacteria and yeast so that food can be digested properly and the immune system remains functioning.

When a person's body contains parasites then the balance of Human DNA vs bacteria's and other micro/macro-organisms changes from what it is originally.

That is for the physical body. Then there is a temporal body and several others. The temporal body can contain 4D implants, parasites, or programming codes/traumas which reside in the memory and energetic field of the cells of the body.

We are now to learn how to actively, consciously heal ourselves and regain our free-will power and use it to state our lack of consent for intruders and DEMAND that we receive the truth on these issues.

This is to happen before the machines are turned on full power, which will be as much a natural phenomena as it will be a result of technology. The collective DNA of the Human will accelerate and evolve into whatever is most numerous within the Human mind and body, including temporal, mental, spiritual and emotional bodies.

We have to cleanse the parasitic responses, addictions, habits, materials, states of mind, traumatic memories, and actual food born parasites and nanites out of the physical, mental, temporal, emotional, and spiritual body.

Just like a physical detox, this is a trying experience and will bring such traumas and parasitic responses to the surface. Ignoring any issues allows them to grow stronger. All is a process, all is a cycle and Humanity has reached the age of history where mass change is not only plausible but very likely.

The mind and the DNA are linked through emotions and conscious bio-emissions.

Written Interview Ex MiLab Operative, Breakaway Group Operations by Eve Lorgen

Ex Milab Operative Discloses Time Travel, Artificial Timeline Manipulations and Breakaway Group Operations

Q: Do you believe your ancestry and DNA is part of why you were chosen for this project—or are there other considerations you have realized that are part of the reason why you were chosen for this project?

A: I was unlocked of memory suppression in 2010. I encountered two individuals plus a handler, who appeared out of thin air in some field not far from where I live in Maryland. They (a part of a break away group) unveiled themselves to show me things to “wake me up”. Initially, I chose to reject the memories and pushed myself into a kind of delusion. For 3 years I was monitored and protected regularly by this group, as well as offered reminders and re-awakenings’. Solar Warden was monitoring the entire process, apparently from my birth. There were meetings where they attempted to inform me that I was originally from Solar Warden and that is where this began. So either I was from Solar Warden, or they were giving me false memories to make me believe that, or I have memories of previous ‘space-wars’ regarding the ancient history of the solar/soulular system.

In 2015 I began to accept the inevitable and regained the beginnings of my memories. In May of 2016 I regained what has been the closest to full memories. I consider this pivotal because these regained memories go into ancient history as well as the future of Humanity. I was brought into these projects as a civilian and I operated in tandem with superiors and guides. I was brought in as a child I believe as a result of being “watched” because of my lucid dreaming ability. When I was 9, I found myself observing an underground base, and others present saw me and wondered how I could be there and do this. I believe I was inducted into some kind of MK Ultra program because of this and perhaps other factors related to my ancestry and spiritual destiny. I showed an inclination toward abilities the secret society wanted to control or replicate.

Q: What do you remember doing in these “milab type” time travel and teleportation experiences?

A: Our missions initially included recon or exploration objectives. These were later combined as joint operations with simultaneous infiltration and exfiltration missions. The people sent for the initial recon/exploration ended up requiring recon and rescue/exfiltration based on the nature of time travel on consciousness and memory. This is possibly the most trying aspect of the experience.

Often there are individuals that are to be 'acquired', maintained, informed, or have material or information passed between. There are often materials that are to be acquired or destroyed. There were early exploration operations between areas in geographical proximity to the surface of this planet as well as intermediary "dimensions" of space or entirely different planes and times altogether. Other than that, there are many various and extreme combat, travel, survival and data retention training and conditioning scenarios. Through the use of technology a virtual reality simulator that was indistinguishable from reality to the untrained eye was developed and has been utilized for years. Operatives use advanced forms of mind-interface technology along side genetic enhancement programs to expand the functioning of the senses and awareness into the spiritual or beyond the visible limits of information and reality.

Q: So, what did the flashbacks show?

A: Time tunnels, a form of travel. Timelines, apparently the timeline has been influenced so many "times" that it's extremely complex to know what the original timeline is like which is very different. The adepts and seers know and knew through the ages.

Contact and how contact was made with the various races.

I have witnessed very advanced technology that interfaces with the mind and body. Stargates, artificial wormholes, underground bases, underwater stargates, the effects of time travel, the effects of 'gate' travel. The hierarchy of advanced races or even cultures on this planet. Interactions with multiple forms of humanoids. Interactions with completely non-humanoid entities that may be operating on an entirely temporal spectrum or could otherwise be physical. Advanced craft and travel capabilities. Advanced remote viewing technology and natural capabilities and the operatives that were actively utilizing this technology. Secret military groups, a space fleet. The spiritual implications of energy harvesting, mind control, and temporal manipulation. Ancient history and the near and far future. Ancient knowledge and the various ways symbols were used to transfer the great knowledge that Humanity and other races have collected. Supercomputers and ancient knowledge holding devices which could transfer their knowledge through a kind of scalar mind-link interface, depending on the capabilities and sincerity of the individual operating the knowledge keeping devices. Computers that operate via a scalar mind-link and do not have input features other than this. Computers with no moving parts that operate through some kind of crystal infused technology allowing frequencies and polarizations to be used as part of a non-linear computing system. Scalar weaponry and atmosphere-based beam weaponry. Earth changes, societal changes, and natural spiritual ascension. Technologically induced ascension devices and events. Artificial sentience systems which can access and collect information like an artificial brain. Cycles of Universal/Omniversal change and the spiritual ascension that is associated or achieved at each cycle.

As a child I always had memories of various aspects and glimpses of operations.

Q: Did your parents take part in any of your own "traumas" that shaped your MK Ultra milab programming. Were they your "handlers" in any way consciously?(Many milabs have traumas done outside of family involvement now)

A: My parents were not involved. My lineage was noted to have specific capabilities that were of interest, such as empathy, precognition, higher intelligence and my own lucid dreaming abilities. I had stumbled upon operations of the bases via lucid dreaming in the early 1990's. As a kid I could easily leave the body, due to various capabilities as well as spiritual influences. I later called this astral projecting. I woke up in an underground base (as stated earlier) in my temporal body/astral body. The temporal body is more noticeable than the spiritual pure consciousness body. This all occurred during and after intense dreaming experiences which were of another time, civilization, or planet.

Q: What kinds of programming traumas were done to you, by whom and where? Did this take place in "astral" or other dimensional realms?

A: Various natural family 'conflicts' were used to maintain status of my memory suppression. The milab events are real, they are overlaid over regular issues through symbolism, programming, gas-lighting and things like that to make sure the individual doesn't wake up fully. They just become bad-dreams, bad days or similarly bad events in an intense life experience. The family basically absorbs the psychic trauma from all of this.

Most of the roles of those handlers are swapped with the identity of the parents in daily life so that the individual merely thinks they had a rough upbringing. My family had various problems that most in America have today due to the disconnection with nature and the nature of the psyche. For many years I projected the trauma of the projects onto family situations. This was an illusion and a safety measure to ensure secrecy. I was given the option to leave my family by a secret society group at a young age, but I couldn't do this due to the stress I felt it would place upon my family. Sure enough, they may have been more stressed as a result of me staying as well as participating in these projects.

Q: What types of programming are you aware of that was being used on you in these secret projects?

A: Programming trauma has to do with utilizing ancient power symbols, religious symbols, animal and elemental symbols. This combined with altered states and suggestions to induce a state of mind, a frame of perception from which a personality can be formed and utilized for various tasks. Basically, if a person was to be involved in dangerous or potentially violent operations in the future, they would be put through programming that would reduce their sensitivity to such violence. Whatever the tough situations in the future held, the individual would be prepared for this through the programming or seemingly traumatic experiences. When that individual experienced these events in the future while in operation they would be better prepared to handle the intensity.

For instance, I had been put through what I thought were various torture scenarios involving my clone body being physically dismantled. This is one of many where I was pushed to the limits of my psychology. In a later operation involving what can be loosely called a stargate device, one of us was completely disintegrated by a failure of that operative to maintain procedure. This person was not killed, they merely returned in a few minutes in a healthy new clone. As a result, we were able to handle the experience instead of losing control due to panic.

There are other methods and objectives of programming that will be explained. Some of these programs take place in simulators which are holographic environments that can generate any kind of visceral or perceptual experience. These serve as platforms for training and simulation of experiences to probe or test the mind of the individual as well as enhance their capabilities.

There are temporal fields that can be operated within that are directly outside of or “before” the coalescence of what we call the physical plane. In this way, a kind of visionary state can be maintained and utilized to operate within an individual's subconscious. This is like a dream-state and unless the individual knows what to look for or has operated in this state before they will not have awareness of this in what we call waking life. In general, mind control programming is the basis for keeping operations secret. The ancient knowledge that is known as the magical studies are symbols and information that have merged the mind control process with the knowledge of the inner workings the soul and consciousness. Most operatives receive some kind of programming that utilizes these symbols and altered states to imprint upon the psyche. Often these are power symbols and programs to enhance one's capabilities beyond the limits of the conscious mind.

Q: Can you describe the groups of humans involved in your experiences related to your handlers, programmers, and cooperating scientists in these time travel, teleportation and other experimental projects you were used in?

A: Within every operation there is a one or a team of individuals that are prepared to complete the objective. Then there are soldiers working around these operatives that are trained and prepared to monitor the situation from outside the operation and ensure everything is controlled as much as possible. Then there are scientists, consultants, and high ranking military overseeing the entire process and making the calls. Humans.

As has been discussed recently, it was noted that advanced races have become more and more active with the occurrence of these operations. Other races were often connected to some part of these operations. Now advanced races are more interested in seeing humanity prosper in the truth rather than suffer from the deceit and aftershocks of not knowing the truth.

Q: What aspect of Tesla research is relevant in the time travel and teleportation technology. Free energy?

A: All aspects of this technology are related to Tesla's discoveries. Upon gaining Tesla's knowledge and technology it was put to use in various ways to observe programmable changes in time, space and consciousness. Time and space are intertwined with consciousness and influencing one influences the others. These are Teslaian pulse-wave generators that are set up in a sacred geometric pattern and operate through frequency hopping to generate a kind of motion in higher-space which is then tuned and directed to induce changes in the electromagnetic field spectrum of space/time in a certain area within the generator's fields.

Q: What about ET's, how do you understand who and what they are. Who is malevolent, genetically degraded, and who is benevolent?

A: There are synthetic engineered beings that have been developed. There are computerized intelligences that have been developed. There are humans with devolved DNA spectrums that may have mutated into different forms due to the technology as well as other processes that influence/accelerate the DNA. What we consider ET's are those who do not originate from within the Earth. These beings do not require physical bodies to inhabit this space/time and therefore do not need anything from us. The beings that need materials or power from Humans are not from outside the Earth and therefore are not truly ET's. I have seen various genetically engineered beings as well as beings who have mutated as a result of proximity to these machines.

There is a synthetic intelligence which has created various forms of mutated synthetic organisms which are to act as 'bouncers' for the machine's capabilities, standing in the way of opposition. These beings are genetically programmed and enhanced through this technology to operate on levels which instigate a required emotional and psychological emission response that furthers the control of this system. These are not ET's, they are synthetic organisms which have been engineered via mutations and synthetic intelligence. They use a kind of psychedelic/synthetic altered state or hypnosis in order to probe the consciousness of opposition and create artificial responses and visions that manipulate the individual into submission. Some say the bad ones are the good ones, some say the good ones are the bad ones. From what I understand the Greys are used for interdimensional travel. All physical races would like to physically exist on the planet.

The ranking of extra-terrestrial and alien species on a high-dimensional spectrum of existence can be observed via their moving from the ability to alter and deconstruct spacial and temporal environments, to the ability to traverse or construct an entire timeline and Universal passage way.

The ET's can construct passageways and timelines, the 'aliens' technically only want power over one or two of them (or some finite number) and the means and methods that they use always result in them having power over none and acting as slaves to themselves or another. The only way to "move up" in the dimensional perspective is to appreciate the self and the Universe equally and not destroy or cause imbalance within the overall pattern.

Q: What about higher level humans who are in higher dimensions?

Humans are guardians of their time line and space. There is an interconnected group of human beings who have gained access to the 5th and potentially 6th dimensional nature of time and space who are above the influence of the cabal and dark— the service-to-self aliens who cannot comprehend the true nature of the Universe and consciousness and always remain trapped within lower dimensional matrices when attempting to interact with higher beings in a lower dimensional manner. By giving up these old control mechanisms, these beings allow themselves safe passageway to higher dimensions. A continuation of the same pattern does not lead to higher patterns and only the self can create or recreate the self.

This is the beginning of the re-acceptance of the trinary, heart-aware, consciousness pattern that is dissolving the boundaries of the old pattern and moving into harmony now. There may be Earth changes, but the consciousness of Humanity now is moving to a trinary and spiritually aware pattern where conflicts and lack is seen as a kind of illusion-based existence.

Then there are beings higher than the humans who have learned compassion and intellect over blind greed and lust in use with advanced technology, space and time travel. These entities, these spiritual minded beings have the ability to recreate entire timelines and apparently have shifted humanity many times in tandem with the spiritually aware human beings who are working to free-humanity's spiritual energy from the artificially created timelines of the cabal and dark entities. The lower in the dimension from the hyper-spacial view, the more the physical body is limited and requiring of the experience. The higher the dimensional view, the less physically limited and more energetically expansive the self, the body and mind become. The physical, essentially becomes the liquid etheric.

The dark entities and cabal by comparison, are blinded by a kind of spiritual darkness which causes the need for vampiric ways and always lessens the amount of possibilities coming into their timeline until a pulling of energy and timeline 'space' must be organized via a vampiric process over another, often innocent and purer being.

Humanity always has free-will, that cannot be avoided, and the higher density beings observe/enforce this process. Everyone is watched, this is a huge grand experiment and no one dies. Souls are watched from a higher dimensional level and even now when souls are currently in a kind of time loop cycle that has been created through the improper use of advanced soul and time/space technology via the cabal.

The higher dimensionals cannot be seen or influenced by the lower dimensional cabal or dark entities unless the higher allows for it. No one that I know of has met the higher dimensionals directly, except through visions and spiritual experiences. They apparently 'save' people in various situations, like they are monitoring it all.

The cabal and lower consciousness level dimensional beings are effectively fighting a "God" force level of beingness, while they themselves still require fights, challenge, degradation and opposition in order to have a place in the Universe. This means that they are still within a lower vibratory, dog eat dog state, while they are attempting to balance their power with the beings who have the power to create the dogs and their entire world. There is no fight on that level.

The lower dark cabal has either decided that this is so and will stop utilizing various lower energetic means to influence the population or their admittance of this overall truth is just a ploy, but they did admit it. They know there is no winning that game they invented and in fact have decided that their technology will either destroy them or it will entrap them there forever through the vampiric means they've designed for themselves.

The elite families claim that the original timeline was fairly natural and organic, an Eden of sorts, but the temporal lower dark entities came to them and hijacked their bloodlines in order to maintain and produce a stable connection with this timeline and dimension/world and that they had no choice. The truth is, they did have a choice, they were just tricked into thinking that lower dimensionals are most powerful.

Lower dimensionals aren't aware of the higher dimensional aspects so they only have access and capabilities up to a certain level space and time/consciousness.

They have decided that this information is to reach the public because everyone has their own free-will and all one has to do is state their consent or lack of consent and their desires in the situation and it is made so.

The higher dimensionals have apparently helped time-bounce us many times, the lower dimensionals and the military cabal apparently accidentally destroyed the continuum of time many times over to the point of destroying the world, from an atomic standpoint, through the misuse of advanced technology.

A secret group was created to handle the information and technology of these alien, extra, and ultra-terrestrial races and the effects on human and mankind. This is the Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge of The Ages of Humanity. And just to be certain it is understood. The faction of humanity that is protecting and co-correcting the artificial timelines back to the organic original are simply humans from this era that learned to use this technology and not give in to lower dimensional temptations.

In short, if you can accept these things and want to help humanity and merely create the higher dimensional input/output that is the Universe, then you are a part of this group of humans.

Q: What conclusions have been made by the ones viewing all these timelines, and various possible scenarios?

A: With time and consciousness travel technology, we viewed the “apocalypse” of humanity. This is a cyclic process that occurs in tandem repetition with the further progression of everyone’s souls on a level that is relevant to some meaning within the overall higher process of history. With the clone technology the consciousness can be sent forward or backward in time. From the point of view of Solar Warden and MiLabs we had already reached the future and have been sent backwards in time to interact with the progress of humanity’s awareness of the soul and Universal level of existence. Those involved have the recorded memory of all that is about to come.

This whole situation is about genetic purity and the interconnectedness of the ideals of the body, mentality and emotions. We create what we see.

There are various systems in place that attempt to contain human consciousness when humanity approaches the ‘access-point’ to this continuous cycle of time. We experience what we create and hold within and interact with on an internal level. The cycles have gone on for hundreds of thousands of years.

The effects of the flashbacks are synonymous with the re-experiencing of certain memories, events, or effects on the body, mind and emotions. This is because the processes that were experienced almost all took place within the temporal realm. Each “event” happened in succession with somewhere around weeks to months to years of experience. This experience was then split up and spread out over a period of time that we are in now. As the temporal body “catches up” to these levels of frequency of awareness, each event is “unlocked” within the DNA from the temporal level of awareness.

It is weeks of events compressed into flash-backs and inserted memories which are interacting with hundreds of people and extra-dimensional civilizations.

We create/pick our own future by choosing ideals that we will live by and influence the progress of our soul development with.

Q: What about the underground cloning centers—did you experience being taken out of body and your consciousness inserted into a clone of yourself? Did you observe this being done to others?

A: This is all done through cloning. If it weren't, it would've taken another 100 years before the first 3 operations were completed. With cloning and individual or team can be put into operation without the risk of losing that individual in the event of the physical destruction of that body. There are underground bases operating in various fashions and some people have been pulled into the celebrity cloning situation. It is a complicated situation because most if not all involved in this have agreed to it in some way. What is to be noted here is the use of trickery or deception in order to utilize certain individuals (their bodies and talents) for personal use. All of this is supposedly according to a larger plan for shaping consciousness and the future of Humanity. For instance, if someone experiences things they do not like, it is often to prepare them for what they will experience later, naturally. This is for scientific purposes initially, and then energetic purposes of utilizing the emotional emissions of a person to further the process and enhance the capabilities of these groups.

The other aspect is that people must learn to state their lack of consent and live in commitment to that in order to truly regain their power in these situations. So some believe that this is the best way to teach people to do that. Others believe this has gone on for long enough and the time is now to tell the truth to Humanity.

Q: Do you believe the ancient Gnostic teachings about the Demi Urge and also the Jesus Christ figure in history to be part of what is happening with the "war on human souls" and the timeline manipulations? Was Jesus the Nazarene a real figure in history who had the truth of what was going on?

A: I have seen that there may be two explanations of a Jesus figure that belongs to two different beings. Both are beings with advanced knowledge of the timelines, space/time and consciousness. One being is from an original timeline of Humanity and provided a blueprint for Humans to maintain the balance of their DNA and consciousness within the exposure to this time loop. Another provided similar results but with a more limited spectrum of influence. I have heard that these were actually 3 teams of two beings at a time that worked in tandem to correct and re-align the electromagnetic 'soul' grid of the Earth. Jesus' name was apparently Yehuha or one of those ancient translations coming back to the ancient language representations of the word "SUN"/SON/YES/IEUS. Others make reference to the "sun" gods of ancient times and the various interweaving of astrological and psychological knowledge. Regardless of any portion of history, our entire history is heavily related to cosmic wisdom, spiritual notions of cleanliness or disharmony and many issues which seem to have been ancient understandings of what we are experiencing today, albeit with very advanced technology. It is possible that very advanced technology was present in ancient times.

The events of ancient history are directly related in the possibility that in exploring ancient history through these operations many of what we call 'ancient events' were actually created simultaneously. The synthetic consciousness which utilizes energetic emissions. A kind of technologically induced time loop was created which resulted in prophecy that will seemingly be 'fulfilled' upon the completion of that loop in the consciousness of this civilization.

The bible and many other religious texts appear to have been encoded with various forms of ancient knowledge relating to the higher-dimensional perspective of life and space/time. There are many references to cleaning the body and keeping mentally/spiritually/energetically clean as well as connections to the source of lineages on the Earth. There may have been involvement with advanced technology as well as a direct outlining of the spiritual and physical cleansing acts that would rid the body of what are now described as a kind of viral artificial sentience which promotes and feeds off of the lower energetic/negative emissions of Human beings.

Q: Can you tell me more about what you have observed and learned in the multiple versions of timelines of humanity?

A: “I have seen multiple versions of this very timeline. When we viewed them in the secret projects we lived in that time period as that individual in history.

The secret projects discovered and experienced, largely through Tesla’s work but also through many scientists, some of which who are publicly known, how to access these hyper-spacial planes through technological means.

The only true power we have is the power of creative source. This is infinite in creativity and positivity. One cannot decide where and how to give this power, or to whom. That is not in our control. What we can do is connect with this power and allow it to flow from us naturally, using the heart connected to the mind.

The Illuminati believed they could control the source power. That they could create anything they wanted. That they could own The Earth, and that they will still be able to own/enslave all the other planets and planetary systems that they have been warring against.

This is like placing personal interests to do harm and be greedy in front of an unstoppable force of nature. One only has so much time that they can perform in that way until the program, the energy, the possibilities run out. They have created artificial timelines through which they have “timeline” hopped from line to line being chased by what they can only call “Hyperboreans”. In truth, no one is chasing them. They have no external enemies. They are, and will be, their own worst enemy until the end of their artificial timelines.

Those timelines are their tombs, their decaying wounds and the Universe is employing a variety of healing modalities and techniques to return the energy of the souls to the original areas of space/time. They have run out of timeline possibilities and will be witnessing either the decay of their enslavement methodology or the complete and willful destruction of their own hidden hands through the same hidden methods they used to control and entrap human souls through trickery and deception, greed and misery, under the guise of mystery, enlightenment, and protection.

The artificial timelines are collapsing. They will act as their own tombs unless they return to “Source.”

Q: What about the artificial intelligence “black cube” of alien living metal consciousness—is this the Demi Urge or something different?

A: You are close to the truth with your question here. The black goo is what you are referencing. The cube is a device which allows space/time manipulation through consciousness and I was given control of this device for a period of our history. This gives an individual or group the power to create as well as access timelines and space. This is the ‘ancient cosmic cube’— it gives access to timelines and realities. This was apparently a device from another race. This is also a device that was utilized by one type of the Greys as a beacon marker in order to find our timeline repeatedly. It may have been technology that was given to us, that was actually used as a tracking device through hyperspace. It was decided that the cube be returned in order to re-stabilize this timeline and limit what is deemed as 'external' or 'hyper-spacial' interference or influence.

During the end of the 2010 awakening experience, my physical body had apparently died in a kind of hyper-spacial soul-capturing device which draws one out through time and can manipulate or create possibilities as one goes. I continually experienced versions of this waking life where I would die and be repositioned back at the 'starting point' of the 'device' that I was seemingly trapped/placed within. After this point I was considered "done" by the cabal. Something happened where I was surrounded by some kind of higher dimensional devices which regenerated my ability to remain in this existence. They said that whoever brought me back did it by reintroducing my genetic material from a 5 Dimensional perspective back unto the space/time field of the Earth and that this most likely is the way to maintain the soul and spirit of the individual. They said they do not have the capabilities for this technology and that they are not allowed to push this any further as a result of these higher beings offering this protection in such a way. In addition to this, throughout this entire process, Solar Warden was making moves to protect me using very high technology and strategic placement of operatives and 'safety nets'.

Q: Tell me about your understanding of "outside the Matrix system of artificial and temporal timeline" groups of benevolent beings who are trying to help instigate a correction to this artificial timeline manipulation madness?

A: During the 2010 event I was taken through time at the age of 20. This happened many times at younger ages although this had to happen again in order for me to regain the memories. When we travel to one end of the timeline or another, we move through simultaneous planes of existences that contain the information of the entire timeline at once. They put a select group through what is known of as "the apocalypse". In these events we witnessed the complete exposure of Humanity to all these influences, synthetic intelligence, genetically engineered beings, time loops, sentient hypnotic energy emission 'devices' which feed off of the lower emotional emissions of Humanity and more.

After the entire experience, of which I died 3 times in this body and was moved through various clones as well as temporal locations/Universes, I emotionally and consciously called out for someone, anyone that must exist with the power to stop this and provide protection or guidance.

As a result a team of people who termed themselves the group of "Christ" or the Followers of Christ appeared and informed me that by using my conscious awareness to look for that possibility, simultaneously connected myself to their timeline and that their timeline is free of all artificial and synthetic disturbances.

They informed me that Earth was a kind of group experiment to give Humanity the possibilities and knowledge required to create such a world for themselves. That in a way, this world was already created, Humanity simply needs to let go of negativity and use their minds, imagination, spirit and actions to connect themselves with this original timeline and, in essence, negate all these synthetic deviations. They said they have the ability to remove implants, etheric and physical, to remove the blocks of the subconscious programming and to heal altered personalities.

Somewhere in this experience my physical body seemed to have died. As a result, beings that everyone there claimed to be known as “Hyperboreans” materialized into this area. They had no physically verifiable form. They appeared above us and lowered down until they were close. I apparently died in one of the last parts of the “test” that the other factions were putting me through. I heard and felt a kind of electromagnetic buzzing and I felt that I was in a kind of device that was encoded with the various knowledge and genetic capabilities of that which had created or placed the original animals and Humans onto the original Earth. It sincerely felt like I was “feeling” watching an animal or nature documentary and was moving through the awareness of every eco-system on the planet.

At the end of this process, I awoke on the ground. Others around me who knew me were weeping and the lower factions were in amazement. They said that the Hyperboreans had reformed my body using a 5 dimensional replicator and that they (the 4D and 3D “dark” team) do not have access to this technology and therefore are no longer allowed to interact with me in a negative faction.

They said their technology utilizes 3.5D replication to create any object in space/time, including 4D replicators that can generate DNA. This is physical cloning through an artificial womb.

They said that whoever brought me back did it by reintroducing my genetic material from a 5 Dimensional or higher perspective back unto the space/time field of the Earth and that this most likely is the way to maintain the soul and spirit of the individual. They said they do not have the capabilities for this technology and that they are not allowed to push this any further as a result of these beings offering this protection in such a way.

Q: What is de ja vu then, is this a possible response to a memory of being interfered with on an artificial timeline? Many have alternate life memories of other timelines (same body consciousness not past lives etc). Could this be evidence that our timeline has been manipulated many times?

A: Deja Vu could be a coalescence of awareness or memories that cross multiple timelines and center within the consciousness of the individual that experiences the perception. Yes, this experience could be involved with time loops and consciousness manipulation.

Q: Can you give an example of how a particular timeline was interfered with or points where it was changed, so that history as we know it is changed.

A: One would not know the timeline has changed unless they are aware of these projects. For instance, if I tell you the events, you’ll simply say, “oh you mean those events of history?” Those are the changes. They simultaneously occur with and as history itself. Little changes can take place, these are happening now to try and show Humanity that these manipulations are possible. There will be more revealed as Humanity comes to terms with this reality. Our entire history has been manipulated through and through.

Q: Do you believe in the existence of Twin flame love connections, and if so, are these being hijacked or interfered with?

A: There is a possibility that people are highly compatible based on genetic and spiritual development. People are most often manipulated to avoid their interactions with highly spiritually compatible people and I was told this was for safety purposes but I have yet to decide.

Q: What is the original organic timeline of Earth?

A: The original timeline is simply a timeline that did not experience the manipulations and developments of synthetic life forms and intelligences that require time loops and advanced technology to exist. People live in peace and health and simply continue to live their lives in order to learn about the Universe, the soul, consciousness, space and time, and Spirit rather than material things.

The Effects of Temporal Manipulation

Temporal Influence

When a civilization reaches the level of technological advancement that allows for remote temporal viewing and transtemporal travel what will happen is that the information of the future begins to integrate into the past.

This is why we have all these ancient mystical schools of knowledge that studied time, space, and consciousness in ways that are only just now being publicly confirmed by scientists.

Simultaneous Interaction and Incorporation

The operations that dealt with moving to the past instantly created a simultaneity of interactions and historic events which correspond with that operation.

Due to the nature of time travel which equates to consciousness travel when a person is consciously sent backwards through history they physically experience life from the viewpoint of their genetic imprint in that point in history.

Retro-Causality

What this equates to is that simultaneously that person's experiences become the part of history that was already present when they left this time.

Essentially, when a person returns their experiences become a part of history that already existed when they left.

Quantum Holography

Love is the quantum link that connects all DNA super-computing consciousness.

Break the Cycle of Repetition Through Self-Awareness

This whole situation is about teaching the Human race through whatever means necessary. If people are willing to be deceived with comfy lies rather than told the real truth, then they will be tricked through those lies into waking up on their own.

If people choose to operate in the old-world schematic involving handing the power of the people, individually and collectively, over from themselves and each other to single individuals or groups of individuals that operate in their own interests then this will be used against the public interest to force the people to act on their own free-will.

This is akin to a trance that people must break free from but will not end until people experience the true nature of the trance or are awakened from some internal power. That power is being returned to Humanity now.

The true nature of the old system remaining around now is deception and separation because people are capable of acting like the body and handling many various parts within society on their own accordance.

If people choose to give their power away, instead of standing up and saying I DO NOT CONSENT TO THIS FALSE-LIGHT MATRIX/DECEPTIVE POWER STRUGGLE, and then DEMAND THE TRUTH of the SECRET PROJECTS, ZERO-POINT TECHNOLOGY, INSTANT CURES and themselves participate in The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge of The Ages of Humanity, then they will be shown the downside of handing their power away. It is out of laziness greed, and ignorance that people still hold to the old world system. Call it temporal and spiritual confusion if you will. There is no blame, no one is shut out, although it is an illusion to consider themselves beneficial for wanting positive ideals, but not powerful enough themselves to simply create them in reality.

People must STATE THEIR POSITION and LACK OF CONSENT, and then DEMAND THAT THE TRUTH BE REVEALED.

If a relatively small, yet large and coherent enough group of people form to do this, Humanity gains all the hidden cures, the hidden technology, transparency, a real community system, and the hidden knowledge of the ages.

The groups are now forming and growing in alignment, people are waking up and knowing the truth.

You are involved if you are reading this, this is a massive operation across timelines and planes of reality and Humanity is ready.

Kozyrev Chair

The Kozyrev Chair. DNA emits torsion fields. The effects of those fields or the field, is consciousness or awareness.

This was a fundamental discovery about the mechanism of space, time and consciousness.

If you haven't seen this yet, this is the Kozyrev chair or "mirror". This device allows for instantaneous communication across space-time using consciousness alone and has been in use for decades on the Earth.

The more advanced versions go far beyond what we can imagine and would be akin to something we'd see in an "X-Men" movie, which is, by the way, largely based on actual technologies within the secret projects.

This was used in earlier aspects of the secret projects and enables one to share mind-space with another individual.

They have since advanced beyond the requirement of a complete metallic chair set up and can operate through scalar fields with other advanced technology.

Technology of The Awakening

I am sending this post out as a clarification, update, and announcement of my situation. Editing this in now, I wanted to talk about my particular situation regarding some injuries sustained in breaking through the programming and how I was given a schedule for future events that are beginning to coincide directly with my progressing physical situation. This will be "part 1a" involving some information regarding the technology and what is happening.

Touchless Neural-Interface and Enhanced Awareness

In 2010 I reached what the "Illuminati" called the "awakening". I feel a better term would be "unlocking" as this event includes the removal of all traumas, perceptual distortions, and memory suppression.

This event was a presentation of very advanced technologies which allow the mind to transcend space and time. It was shown that death is similar to a phase-shift of consciousness as polarity and that the awareness of the being obviously continues. This was verified through advanced sensing devices which can visibly display frequencies which are invisible to the physical senses.

With these devices it is possible to see the "auric" or soul field of the individual. Any living body has a field which glows when picked up by these sensing systems. This field becomes more refined when viewing more advanced beings. Humans have an extending mental field, and through this a kind of glowing awareness that is picked up. It can be fairly simply compared to thermal imaging except instead of differences in temperature it is the presence of a soul or mental energy field around a living body.

More than once, the situational requirements were satisfied in order to produce an ideal environment for maneuvering on the non-physical plane. This is how the basis of temporal operations occur, yet these events were different than previous operations or experiences. The group I was in was going through the process of increasing the vibratory emissions of the "bio-mind" in order to stay focused on the increasing vibratory rate of the environment. Generators were utilized to create an affect on space/time which was perceived by the "soul" level. These events went into the discovery and explanation of the creation of the “godlike” powers of the advanced sentient technology which was capable of accessing the holographic nature of reality which humans can perceive through their bio-mind/soul.

Time Dilation and Temporal Recurrence

Time dilation capabilities were shown which allow for accelerated learning of advanced and detailed material within a very short amount of time.

Along with this, using particle accelerators to quantify space into the quantum level a frequency would be “folded” into the space time continuum as we “rip” through space holding an access point open at this fundamental level of space/time. This allows for an ‘letting go’ of the frequency, or a ‘snapping back’ by allowing the entanglement to solve itself. When used with generators that propagate out efficiently enough, the effect is akin to time/space what were described as smaller versions of the cern device, or higher-dimensional travel. All sentient observer sources return to the environment they were present in when that frequency ‘rift’ first began. Essentially this creates a replay effect on the consciousness of the individuals within the field. There is no physical effect. The consciousness is ‘regressed’ through time/space, and they re-experience existence from that initial point of contact with the frequency “rift”. This is best explanation I can currently offer.

Instantaneous Healing

Instantaneous healing devices as well as substances which can initiate a complete and real-time regeneration of living tissue from almost any conceivable non-critical injury.

Advanced craft which utilized counter-rotating torsion fields propagated by very powerful quantum computers and zero-point energy devices.

Replicators

There are replicators that can produce any conceivable 3D material or object altogether including food or organic material.

There are sensors that could reverse the process and detect every minute detail of the structure of a body.

3.5D Printing of Clones

It was shown how this technology was used to three dimensionally print human bodies into space/time which could then be used as vehicles for consciousness, souls, or spirits.

Neuralinterlace/Connectdome Recording and Simulation

Very advanced supercomputers exist with the capacity to translate the bio-emissions of the brain and body and reconstruct the entire inner visual and sensory experience of cognition and emotion. From this, entire dream worlds can be created which mimic the experience of consciousness.

A super computer and advanced sensing system essentially develops one of these connectdomes of every connection in the brain. And then this system develops a neural processing pattern that matches the entire memory and personality of the brain. This is then ran and an observation of the experience can be observed through the physical body's memory.

Community Servers/Living Server Systems

From that, server systems have been created which are an individual or collective experience of the virtual mental realm. In this realm individuals have existed for an amount of time that would not be easily compared to the way we understand the flow of time in waking reality. It is very similar to dreams where the perception of time passes very quickly between waking moments yet inside the experience of the dream it can seem to last for days.

Update on Physical Situation and The Unveiling of 2016

As a precursor to what I'm about to release as part of my physical situation and how everything came to be, I want to let everyone who's been following know that I am in a manageable amount of pain now due to a dislocated bicep tendon and some other injuries. That sounded backwards, I was in MORE pain just a few months ago.

Reactionary Behavior and Programming

I was also informed of what is taking place now and by the end of this season through the series of events that was described as the unveiling of hidden knowledge.

Learning About The Unveiling

I was informed about the unveiling and that this is a civilization wide event that marks the public awareness of the hidden knowledge regarding life in the Universe, consciousness, physics, history, spiritual and mental awareness and the duality-based system which has been used to manipulate Humanity for thousands of years. This unveiling is apparently happening a lot sooner than I had accepted after what I have seen in 2010.

Apparently it does not matter if people are not ready, in fact, that is what some factions want. They want to surprise the people and take this advantage to push the reaction to a specific outcome. The same function of programming is used in factions, soldiers, celebrities, and the entire population through that.

Layers of Programming and Decision Making Roles

The outcome of action depends on the layer of programming which is accessed and surpassed via awareness.

The public is at a specific level of programming that is the weakest but ensnares the most people. One who sees the truths behind these groups and operations, they cannot hide from the fact that everyone is controlled. It is apparent, and if not from the results, reactions, stigma, cues, productions and all other media elements of the system which can be read as a code, but from the awareness level of all the “agents” involved. All involved are exposed to truth and power that is beyond anything that is recognized publicly for hundreds to thousands of years. There is always a presence of higher spirit around the world, yet these topics are often reserved for sci-fi when speaking of people who can travel the world in a split second or freeze time for their own personal use.

As a result of everyone’s knowledge, there are various levels of programing designed to limit the mind’s access to specific memories and specific frequencies of consciousness in combination with specific memories. The more one resists, the more intense and articulately abstract the programing is designed.

Programmers

The programs are designed by a select group of individuals that reside far behind the scenes and process information at levels we do not have access to without their technology at least to stabilize brain temperature for the extended periods of focus.

Sub-Level Programming

So people at the level of the public are most weakly programmed with false ideals about security through patriarchal authority which satisfied the desire to have a proper father role in one’s life and acts as a pacifier for those who desire no change. Then there are sub-levels of programming with that for anyone who disagrees and is then swept into the next layer of ideals which are based off of all the possible reactionary mind-types.

For instance, if one does want change, then they are presented a variety of ‘false-exits’ which tend to one or another layer of psychological or spiritual fulfilment but do so in a way that safely reroutes the intended affect of actually accomplishing change with a secondary and preconceived notion of what the programmers want. The programming objective is not necessarily precise in mass scale, from the layer that people are influenced, yet the ultimately or end-goal of their resulting internal desires are a reality schematic that the programmers specifically designed over many years.

This is playing out through each layer of the programming. At any level, someone could pick the wrong way to look at something and begin to unravel what was previously their very understanding of the priorities of the situation. This deals with high-tension operations, moments, programming sessions, decision making, programming upkeep, trauma, memory blocks, the pressure and responsibility of knowing, and the specific plan of the programmers for an individual that comes into their view. The programming is to ensure safety and continuity, as well to decrease the likelihood that a person will reject or consciously come to awareness of or acknowledge the programming or situation itself.

Dissolution of Programming

With that said, the programming dissolves when an individual asks enough questions to necessitate a learning process that introduces variables and possibilities outside of their operations and programming. This is a problem because with this, trauma comes to the surface and all the actions and operations, programs and experiences must be come to terms with as part of the healing and re-unifying process. There are multiple selves or split personalities which are actually just layers of awareness at various levels attached to various emotional or intellectual patterns. All these selves come to the surface and in order to heal the trauma of the split memory concept the original self must come to the surface and acknowledge them.

This is not a trivial process, and the majority of people who have “basic” programming which is fundamental in society, are in a constant state of altered self and have not witnessed the true divine which is eternally present and contains access to all memories, mind-states and awareness.

Advanced Technology, Deprogramming The Mind, and “Space/Time”

As I have described previously, extremely advanced technology is used and this is through vibrations, generators, and electromagnetic devices that have this effect of propagating waves into space/time which can be heard, felt, seen, and perceived in the mind. These are ripples and vortexes in the “mind-space” of reality itself.

As well, there are brain to machine neural interfaces which operate to activate the psychological perceptual changes and explore the subconscious in an aware state. This is used to test and probe the mind in order to bring forth the trauma, the selves, the memories, the reactions and the individual then must come to terms with what is produced.

This is essentially a “good-use” for the programming and healing technology. It is actually a different process with different technology, and programming is much simpler as far as technology. There are difficulties and challenges in the operative’s role in programming and directly influencing and interacting with the target. As well the standby team for deprogramming and the revelation of trauma and altered, artificial personalities goes through a lot. But the use of the advanced technology in this way is a pattern of experiences and unveilings of the spiritual and mental bodies which serves to reverse programming.

Veiled Awareness, Hidden Knowledge, Eternal Time, Layers of Programming and Control

The interesting notions here are that the programming of the veils goes beyond what kind of situations are found in the bases. However, they do go right up to it. It would seem Humanity was previously programmed on a civilization-wide level through some kind of great “falls” of consciousness, from a high spiritual awareness to a low spiritual awareness into duality-consciousness regarding existence, life, death, mind and matter.

The Great Catastrophes

From these great ‘catastrophes’ the civilizations of Earth grew denser and denser in nature and actually became what we have today. The concept is that when these vibrations of the mind and body are increased, we actually see a transcendence of the physical realm and preconceived notions of boundaries. It is as if the quantum doorways to all the atoms open up and a new space is presented, but was always there and in connection as the source of all the influences and effects we perceive ‘out here’ from this slower, denser, more boundary driven perspective.

Division is an illusion, True-Self is Eternal

Anyone who is seeking to divide the people and cause negativity is being used by the dark forces (simply the shadow self, which is actually being used by the self) to create enough disharmony to weaken Humanity to turn people into something they are not originally. They are seeking a delay of return to balance, a game time-fame time play out of ideals that they fit in their own head with them as king and all else below them. That is born out of greed and lack of harmonizing within the self, and dies with time and the eventual loss of ego drive, materialistically sourced power.

Truly, if you would like to know what it is, it is the “False-king of tyranny” oppression model that we are all growing out of now. They can only mimic from what they’ve heard before and there is no true creativity. They will sound like a series of broken-records, that if people listen will continue to play. But of course, we know these games by now and this is not the most powerful essence in the public anymore.

True power comes from within, from the self, the true self which is eternal and goes beyond the physical confines of this reality.

You will know more and more who is telling the truth in these times and who is just trying to pass the buck or gain attention because they will be either speaking from the soul and true-self eternal spirit and this will resonate and help you see from the soul and true-self eternal spirit which is part of the process of finding answers and removing trauma/delusion.

Then you will see those attempting to gain more and more power, through more and more egotistically centered ways attempting to push all others out of view for their own benefit which will serve to bury their message and their soul in the end.

Focus on the soul, take and process the information that nourishes your ability to remain centered in the seat of the soul and spirit beyond the physical and materialistic desires. This is a higher-dimensional process within a higher-dimensional multi-verse, that is the basis.

Technology of the Future and Ego Consciousness

Some of my memories of operations and travel experiences involve moving through time to ancient Aegypt which is beyond what anyone can imagine from this current perspective.

We are in the process of unveiling now as certain changes have been introduced to this civilization in order to balance out the disharmonies that we are experiencing here and now.

The power of the technology of the present moment leads to a future where a person can do almost anything they can imagine, if not anything they can imagine and more.

People must get over ego insecurities, violent ways, irrational fears, delusions, and addictions to pains and pleasures in order for that future to sustain and project Humanity into the far reaches of eternity.

In short, Humanity learns and regains the power to discern between that which is of the self and that which is of the physical plane.

Some of this technology is healing or mentally focusing purely crystalline vibratory generators or emitters while other technology is more electronic and digital holographic and leads into other areas and uses.

Water, Acidic or Alkaline

Everyone should know the water you drink is either acidic or alkaline, acid is where disease grows, alkaline is safe for the body and promotes health. Most health stores are incorporating reverse osmosis machines into their stores and can be used to obtain weekly or monthly water for cheap. There are also alkalizing minerals that can be used to bring up the pH. Acidification is a source of disease and suffering.

Bottled water will have the chlorine, heavy metals, fluoride and toxins as well the benzene will leech into the water from the plastic. Use BPA or glass containers.

To check and see if you will feel immediate results, try Core water or Fiji which may still have minute amounts of fluoride but are alkalizing for the body. A day or two of drinking that water will let you know if you're acidic. You'll possibly feel an increase of energy, clarity and better digestive functions.

Simulators or Other Worlds?

As of now, I have to explain this in a certain manner. No one on the outside knows for sure, but everyone has their theories. I was on the inside and I still don't know for sure.

There are simulators that have been designed that operate off of the the human brain. These can also extend into what we would call a "higher dimension" and say, if a person is asleep, then these simulators can pull the person out of their body and operate on a temporal plane that does not require the brain or body.

This seems to be most reasonable because the brain and body does not become stressed from this method if the experience becomes very intense. If returned to the body, the body will be perfectly fine and calm. There is an apparent disconnect between the body and the realm of the experience that takes place and in what is called the "temporal realm" or the temporal body.

With these simulators there are also time dilation results that are possible with various generators that ultimately create an undulation in space and time itself which is inextricably linked to consciousness.

One of the experiences that I began to explore in the "awakening" of 2010 which took place on different areas of the timeline for those others who were present there and are speaking out publicly now, was a city, plane or simulator populated entirely by reptilian beings.

If these beings are real and not just a computer simulator as has been predicted and discussed, then I visited a planet that was entirely populated by them.

In this situation I witnessed their psychology, their means of nourishment, their embodiments, their city structure, and their social structure.

I will release more on this in time, very soon, but these beings seem to feed on the nourishment that is found in a weaker being amongst them. This would seem to be a human if they can get the chance to bring a human there through trickery or entrapment but I am not sure how this process works as they are not physical beings in this “home” realm.

This is a temporal plane and it is either this way indicating that it is a complicated computer simulator being ran by quantum supercomputers and these are merely programs. Or that it is a quantum supercomputer inhabited by what were once human consciousness that became changed and grown into these beings that operate a bit differently.

Or it is a temporal plane that is ran and operated from the temporal plane where these beings naturally reside from a kind of “above” the physical layer perspective.

Another, possibly wayward, possibility is that all beings are physical as well as temporal and energetic and these beings merely reside in a temporal, energetic home realm which is powered by energy generators and comprised entirely of their consciousness and a baseline energetic foundation that becomes the “plane”. Then, that these beings can become physical, just as much as any energetic human being is a physical being that is or “once was”, in a higher realm, an energetic being. It would be considered a notion then, that with enough nourishment energy this particular group Reptoid beings can too become physical and inhabit a physical plane in the same way as Humans do. The question then is, is this how all beings become physical, or is there something different in the Human being considering the flow of energy and higher consciousness maybe that they can produce their own energy instead?

Energy was used to sustain the city and sustain the population. The social structure was very much like that of kings, rulers, soldiers, workers and the weak. It was a complete social hierarchy based very much on a power struggle that is deemed entirely masculine and of the reptilian brain functioning. Fear was a form of sustenance for them, as was what seemed to be a form of energy coming from human souls.

These beings, whether part of a simulator or a temporal realm, are plentiful and very strong and pursuant in their interests. They are motivated by natural instincts of hunger and pleasure and have no use for the more feminine essence expressions that humans are capable of like small talk, creative expression, or intuitive emotions. They are guided almost entirely by masculine essence, fear-pleasure signals and this comes from the downward flow of commands traveling through the hierarchy of the society until the ones at the top are fed at the expense of those at the bottom.

This is 100% very much like the monetary and political hierarchy we have on this planet. It was almost indistinguishable to understand the political hierarchy that we have as “different” because everything is a top down hierarchy and in reality those at the top are truly feeding on those below them, even if on this planet, those below are too stupid to notice.

It would seem as if I lived with these beings for a period of time to get to know their weaknesses, talents, flaws, and motivations. This journey came to a transition point when things got a bit out of hand and what you could call a city-wide “riot” began between a race of surface dwelling lizard beings and myself and my energy.

Note: This doesn't necessarily indicate that the experience itself was to lead to that, this was pretty much the routine for each scenario that I was being faced with that day. Energy was moving in patterns that became very unstable as a result of many circumstantial elements which were most surely planned as part of the event.

The reason I am telling you is that if this is a "fake" a simulator, although it felt very real, then this could be used to scare the population and coerce them into a false-tyranny social system. If this is "real" then these beings could possibly take an interest to Earth (which they already have, whether through the invention of a simulator or the real thing) and at some point want to make contact, most likely for their own benefit, which is reasonable for them considering the situation.

So now you are informed, I have been to the race of what we call the "lizard people" on their home planet and the artifacts and social structure that I witnessed (intimately so) there is reminiscent of the draconian social structure that we have witnessed here on Earth for so many years. So there is a definite connection between the two races and somehow we have seen each other before whether knowingly or unknowingly and this is why Earth is in such a precarious position with the knowledge that they retained and the social structure and political hierarchy that no one seems to agree with.

This is a part draconian society and until people come to terms with that they'll be living in a form of cosmic delusion not knowing why things are the way they are whether they are suffering or merely confused.

The two societies seemed to have met in the past and this is the important part of the unveiling that we will be witnessing here and now. Possibly within a short amount of time such knowledge will have to be unveiled to better prepare the people for what is about to come.

To conclude, this experience was both before and after the real "threatening" experience. This is not the true threat. The true threat is something one must be prepared for in order to know.

In hindsight this conclusion seems limiting and I'll just continue a bit further. What is motivating consciousness to degrade from a trinary higher functioning model into a binary instinctual needs model is that which is disrupting Humanity's ascent towards higher awareness and the ability to discern and travel between planes of the spiritual and physical realm. Self-awareness is the path through which we steady ourselves as individuals and come to know the great connection to source within.

Energetic Ideals and The Original Timeline

It is through the remembering of energetic ideals and principles for self-awareness that we regain the knowledge and awareness of the original realm.

By remembering, same as enacting, embodying, or creating, the eternal ideals of balance and harmony through energy, mind, emotion, and spirit, we literally re-remember, or recreate our access into the source timeline of humanity.

These ideals can only be interacted with from the higher to the lower. By interacting through and with these ideals in the Universe, we simultaneously create and reconnect with the source of our existence beyond all artificial and temporally manipulated timelines.

It seems as if we are connecting with and finding ourselves in this eternal state. In this way it seems as if we are eternally in the source realm, waiting for the awareness we embody here to 'catch up' and re-remember who we really are which is an original being that exists outside of, before and after all artificial timelines and states that are temporary.

In this view, all temporary cycles, implants, artificial experiences, etc etc etc, do not have the ability to interact with or tarnish the original source realm which exists above and beyond the entire artificial timeline which is generated through temporal and spiritual manipulation schemes.

The ideals are simply that which you would recognize yourself as and through from the original timeline. These ideals are that which generate a continuation of life and self-awareness and see experience as a means to create more knowledge and self-awareness rather than the be-all of existence. In this view there is no end, no beginning.

The Higher Dimensional Dream-Time

By staying in peace and connection with the truth and the original spirit we bridge the gaps and heal the confusion. All one can do is keep working with the ideas to get more knowledge. No humans are from here. This is a programmed artificial timeline that can only collapse by the time the end of the programming is reached/runs out.

This is higher dimensionality. There are no 'singular' objects in space/time, everything is an ebbing and flowing, just like the body. You are a Universe, all humans are. Physical bodies, the entire physical Universe, doesn't exist unless you look at it. So this place wasn't here until it was created through these processes, hence artificial timeline.

Spirit is the highest form, mind and emotion are connected to soul which is basically programming that is left over on the spirit from remaining in the physical dimension. Simply seek and intend with your being, then you receive simultaneously and from then on.

Ending the matrix is done by ending the programming codes within and around us. They are in the DNA and the environment and they are based on fear and autonomy. We are essentially in the midst of a zombie apocalypse.

You are capable of knowing the truth, the truth of humanity's original timeline, the true creative essence and the power of love over fear. This is the Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge of Humanity. We ALL lived through it. We were ALL there. People don't come from space. They come from the heart of The Earth

All times and spaces are occurring right now, same time same place. We are a coalescence of information and experiences that produces knowledge. Think. If you weren't. If there was an "end", then why haven't you experienced it yet? Because it doesn't exist, because there is no such thing as an end or a beginning in life itself.

It would be as if a disco-ball is shining and each life is a sparkle on the wall. There is no “one life” there for no “different lives” it is all just one projection from spirit. When we witness this we gain access to more and more information. This is experienced here as *this* life simply becoming more aware, more balanced, more healthy, and our spirit gaining more control.

For this life to be a dream, then the other life is more real? All lives are real, by that I mean the spiritual plane is real. This plane, this life, is JUST as real. It is merely a projection that is operating on a different format/schematic and that is one that includes delay and distinction in order to maintain itself. It is a dream in that way. In the same way, DREAMS themselves, are still real. They are projections from within and we are experiencing them and the mind and brain will really feel and learn from what we experience and do in those states.

It may be the perception of separation or distinction between the dreams and this waking reality that is the illusion.

Celebrity Cloning

Initial Explanation

Many celebrities, entertainers, athletes, musicians, models, writers, producers, actors, all kinds of people from various industries are silently brought to the cloning centers for pay-to-play sessions.

They asked me to pass the message on to you and that you would have to look for the signs and symbols in their media in order to see their hinting at these events.

The situation is heavily controlled using advanced monitoring technology and brainwave/EEG cloning technology. This is technology that can read the brain and determine what the mind is anticipating or speculating upon.

Their reputations are used as leverage as well as their safety and comfort. The level of programming and mind control experimentation that takes place makes it easy to manipulate a person's brain into regressing into a state of trance that lacks the ability to remember or clearly organize experiences regarding the cloning centers.

Cloning Centers, Underground Bases

Deep underground military bases, 3 miles below the surface, are used as laboratory centers as well as a completely stocked underground city-base. These are connected with high speed electromagnetic drive pods.

Individuals are transferred to the brain through an extensive cloning and temporal body transfer process. The electromagnetic shell of consciousness within the brain is relocated to the body of a compatible clone and various training, conditioning, programming, experimentation, or pay-to-play experiences take place.

Deeper Meaning

The individuals that have been cloned are given very in depth views of the way this society functions and the source of power and change in the Universe. Many individuals are present here from what would originally be another “time” or “timeline”.

There is a possibility that this notion is due to inserted memories and traumatization although until all the information is released we will not have a definitive conclusion.

As of now it is a possibility that these individuals are from another time that goes beyond our comprehension currently.

It may even be a possibility that these individuals have come from ALL of time looking at the very far past and into the very far future of Humanity.

These are the kinds of notions involved with the experiments taking place in the underground bases and military operations.

Rumors of Monetary Dissolution

I was informed that there was a plan to transfer the wealth of the ruling bloodlines to the other side of society. This was said to be to assist in the transition to a society where the “hidden knowledge” becomes “unveiled” and known by all.

It was said this is to be a civilization wide shift and that the elite are aware of this eventual change coming but have been delaying and waiting until this age of Humanity.

It is that the people are ready to know the truth, so no matter how much don’t want to know, those that are ready will come to know the truth.

If people come together collectively by individually stating their LACK OF CONSENT and living in accordance with their will to not cause harm or be harmed by others, then they will receive a reflection of that. People have to DEMAND the TRUTH if they want to see how the monetary system has been until now based on fraud and deception.

The system that is currently dissolving is based on fraud and deception and it is no longer relevant for any kind of actively aware society of Humans. There is no use in holding on to the old system although there are “events” to be set up in accordance with making this shift easier for humanity.

Slowly the truth will reveal itself and this will be supported and protected from help that is capable of influencing many, if not all, aspects of this society.

As the technological system changes, so will the monetary and energy system which is outdated and inefficient. With this change comes great responsibility for humanity to make the decision to use their new found energy and power limits to co-create a beneficial and aware world for themselves and each other.

Stating our lack of consent en masse is a central part of this. But therein lies the great challenge that not only do people have to be informed of these issues, they must have the conviction to remove themselves from any deception based systems and live in respect to that.

Along with this, we must consider that if we the people do not facilitate this return of balance that this shift may be initiated from the inside. This could include a controlled deflation of the welfare system until complete dissolution. This would kickstart the process of awareness although this would be a severe shock to those who are comfortable and complacent with having all aspects of their lives manipulated and controlled for someone else's profit.

It was decided that the current deception based monetary system as well as other systems would be transferred into the control of the public. What this indicates is that the people we feel would be in control of these elements no longer require them for their own plans. As a result, people will gain technology and abilities that goes beyond what is currently imagined.

This is a double-edged sword because people will have the option of instant self-gratification for almost any aspect of the current society we live in today. Those who lack self-control will literally be burdened by this to the point of causing a disruption in their spiritual growth process. People will literally be "freed" from this control system and allowed to do what they want.

There will be ground level arrests of individuals still operating as the handlers of the old system and this will be to open people's minds to the possibility that they can gain access to life without the deception system. This is to involve deception based political members as well.

If people make the shift and mentally disconnect from the continual gossip and duality based system that controls public opinion and dictates how people interpret reality, then they will demand the truth and receive change on a civilization-wide level.

As a conclusion, remember, the monetary shift is just a reminder that there is tech that nullifies all energy requirements and with that sustenance and all basic needs of Humanity. As a result, every other system will have to shift with it. This depends on the fundamental ability for people to break the mass mind control programming and wake up to the self-responsibility that is required for a reasonable co-creative process.

The Cosmic Cube

The Cosmic Cube is a device that was utilized in experimentations with enhancing the human brain to a level of efficiency far beyond what we experience in daily waking life.

This cube is considered a higher-dimensional device which allows the operator to influence and interactively "know" space and time beyond the physical body or the particular plane or timeline where the physical body is located.

In short, this device allows one to interact with the Universe on multiple planes of reality beyond the physical into the temporal and spiritual to the degree where information coalesces into knowledge that depicts the interconnectivity of all times and spaces.

Chakras

Chakras are energy centers that run up the spine.

They can be used to influence a person or manipulate, like people pressing people's buttons or even not a mental effect, but being in the same room as someone and feeling the energy. If it's lower emotional it is often through the energy system that one can feel affects. If it's mental it can be often through the mind/brain link and the higher centers.

Root

The lower or root chakra functions based on how dependent the individual is on outside help or the perspectives of others in order to align their sense of self. A person who's been heavily traumatized has a damaged sense of self security and this can be used for manipulation of energy or bio-emissions.

Sacral

After that is the sacral or sexual center which sources from one's level of security of the previous level and their primal sense of self and the internal balances of choices of sensory pleasures through desires.

Solar

The next level is the solar plexus which functions to govern self-identity and self perception that is born from the way one responds to the ebbs and flows of the previous two levels of desires and security. One who balances the previous two will have a balanced sense of self perception.

Heart

Then the next level is of the heart and based on the previous and a person who can accept themselves for how they know life through their previous systems of balancing security and desire will have heart.

Throat

The next is the throat which is a balance of the previous and includes the ability for one to communicate and connect their heart to others in order to transfer internal knowledge to the world.

Third-Eye

The next is the "third eye" which is a psychic sense and is used for protection or programming depending on how the person was awakened and how well the previous layers are stabilized and balanced.

Crown

The next is the crown and wraps the entire system up into an vortex of spirit which is aware of the entirety of the Human experience while being aware of the cosmic identity as well.

This complete physical form becomes the “lower half” of the energetic cosmic form above.

When the top is reached the energy goes to the top and bottom and initiates a shift in perspective which allows a person to transfer the knowledge of the cosmos to another.

There are both more chakras below as well as above connecting to higher cycles and this will become more publicly understood in this age.

What if atoms are charges and waves not particles?

What if instead of atoms as particles there are actually only different frequencies of vibrational bands relative to each other?

How would this change your perception of reality? Would the mind be more capable of adapting to situations if the inner truth was not of objects and separation but of ultimate interconnection and seas of vibrating frequencies?

Then we might think that not only are atoms just pure vibration but so are the stars and planets. We can touch the planet, because our awareness is oscillating within the same frequency band as the Earth.

What if everything is truly vibration and that people can move out of range of the plane of the Earth and move into range of other planes that can be accessed?

Then one could ask how they could be accessed and if we naturally experience these shifts in perception.

Psychological Testing

Hallucinatory Holographic Mind Probing Technology

Through the neural-interface technology the minds of many individuals can sync together to experience the same virtual simulation. Thus a single individual's mind can be selected for input and the environment will be a construct of their mental activity. The others present will be able to interact with and explore that environment like the person's mind.

Various training scenarios were utilized to enhance the resistance (or lack which) of the mind to intrusion and subversion. These were harsh but allowed the individual to completely control the energy flow in the conscious mind while remaining in harmony with the subconscious.

In a strange yet perfectly reasonable way, the conscious mind acts as the central “self” in that environment, while the subconscious mind becomes the “background” elements of objects and settings, actors and intentions within the flow of the “scene” itself. So a kind of movie begins with drawn out characteristics and perceptions that match that of a highly cinematic movie or intense dream.

The brain is naturally naive to stimulation and if allowed will liken the event to a dream in which the suspense of attention or lack of lucid self-awareness is “acceptable”.

The truth may be worse than what you’re thinking as far as training simulators and mind hacking devices. The truth may be that the human mind is inherently lucid and self-aware and that it is external influences that cloud the mind into what we consider ‘regular’ dreaming and ‘regular’ waking life. It may be that the conscious mind has a much greater access to information through the subconscious mind which is largely covered up and ignored in a rigidly physical and ego-focused society. As well, it may be that dreams are meant to become lucid and that we are often the subject of mystery in other realms that often refer to humans as ‘sleepwalkers’ that don’t know their dreams are real.

Virtual Simulator Training Scenarios

Combat Simulators

Conditioning

Programming and Resistance to Psychological Trauma.

Developing The Self

Simulations and Learning

Feedback loops with the brain, consciousness, and environment can create a very complex and integrated learning experience that is customized to each individual learner.

Accelerated Mental Functioning

Some of the technological systems were designed to test the enhanced functioning of an accelerated brain.

The mind can be seen as the energetic component of the physical brain. The physical brain projects consciousness via the electro-chemical processes.

The vicious cycle of lower awareness

Changes to Come, Accelerated Awareness

Factory Farming, Unsustainability

Factory farming is an obstacle to Humanity’s survival in the future. This kind of production is part of the old world and will not be allowed to advance into the next. Those who wish to experience this kind of existence will be able to do so under their own free-will from this moment extending into the future so that there is a situation where they can experience that.

Earth Changes

Geological changes are coming that will change the way we view the Earth. Many changes involving the sky, the ground, the waters and the eco-systems are already present and very apparent.

There are solar shifts which occur possibly in tandem with polarizations of the electromagnetic field in certain areas. These have long been prophesied and recently theorized. Today they are understood as solar cycles of high and low activity.

Increasing Awareness of All

Awareness of this is spreading rapidly throughout society, the advances in technology make this possible now although the concentration and desire of society is being turned outward instead of inward. We must turn inward at an even greater rate as accelerations of both kinds of changes take place.

Share knowledge with personal ingenuity and find honesty and power in the role of sharing the truth with others. Focus on balance in the center of perspective so that distractions and are not allowed to grow into view. Stay in the center. Emotional vampires have no place in the sharing of the truth.

Changing Social and Political Structure of Leadership

Social awareness and structure will adapt as people adapt to their increasing self-awareness. Systems that rely on lack of awareness and lack of resources will dissolve as they are already. If people wish to hold on to a dissolving system then they will get to experience that. If they would like to see true change and take inner responsibility for their space and their existence then this possibility is presenting itself.

The Unveiling, Ancient Hidden Technology

I have been cloned multiple times and I have seen human technology that makes 4D replication possible as well as technology of an unknown source that works on a 5D or higher level.

There is also technology that quickly 'teaches' the brain of a clone the functions and muscle memory that the original had to learn.

Life Generators, Stargates, Artificial Precognition

There are generators that allow one to exist without food. Temporal manipulation devices or systems which can insert knowledge of the future into the present through brainchips. There are stargates and physically tangible 'porthole' systems which can connect space and time from one reality through a sub-space into another space and time. There are all kinds of craft that are powered by gravitic drives and there are monitoring systems that can see into space and time at any point and perspective without requiring a camera or recording device.

Underground Bases, Mind Control and Genetic Engineering

There are underground bases where secret operations and experiments take place regarding the hybridization of beings, genetic engineering, cloning, and many kinds of weaponry that people simply wouldn't understand without movies like "Star Wars" and simulators that people couldn't comprehend without movies like "The Matrix".

These bases run 3 miles deep and are used for the development of technology and experimentation as well as entire underground cities for various groups. These are complete cities where people do not have to have contact with surface level humans if they do not want to.

Underground Cities, Cosmic Cycles, The Unveiling

Then there is the concept that while building these underground bases they come upon already constructed underground bases that were either previously manned or still in operation with another race of humans or humanoid beings.

What this may be about is a supposed time of transition that takes place at regular intervals on the Earth. This is a cosmic or celestial event as much as it is about people's personal transitions into higher consciousness regarding the true nature of the self, awareness and physicality.

The Universe is a spectrum of frequencies that meld together and form planes of awareness or experiences that coalesce into the spiritual body of the Universe which we can call "sub-physical", "the physical", and "the etheric" or higher planes. When the cycles of awareness are reached that allow for more and more information regarding more advanced perspectives great changes take place on personal and collective levels. This is based on how many variables the brain can process and attain awareness of at once and we have seen an exponential increase in information and change. When the brain can observe and attain awareness on a level that is more advanced than the current limitations of our society, society then changes. We are participating in one of those great shifts right now, whether we are aware of it or not.

It is claimed that Earth and celestial changes will reinforce this process and accelerate the revelation of the hidden knowledge from within the Human collective.

It is claimed that these events have taken place 5 or 6 times previously and that Humanity has been here for tens to hundreds, if not millions of years, living and experiencing reality. So it's like someone is playing a game with Humanity, testing Humanity, seeing if Humanity wants to know the truth, and then putting all and every obstacle in everyone's way in order to simultaneously hold them back.

This is the age where Humanity takes responsibility and control of the past, present and future.

Omega Programming, Disclosure and Faction Infighting

The Awakening of "2010"

In 2010 I experienced what is called an "awakening" which is memory unsuppression through a removal of trauma. This is achieved by bringing the trauma and programming to the surface and dissolving it. This process is as painful as the development of the trauma which is utilized to create altered personalities. This removal of trauma is what we are looking at for the world and I feel this is part of why these events took place in a controlled environment with a controlled amount of individuals in this process. This process also took place between multiple times.

Disclosure

The scenarios used for programming or conditioning dealt with the supercomputer simulators, extra-terrestrial life, the true nature of the Universe and consciousness, the possibility of extinction level events, the possibility to reverse and heal those events, time and the mainstream accepted order of the events of the far-past to the present and into the far-future, and many other serious issues which the world can benefit from knowing about as long as people can decide the truth on their own. As a result of world events as well as personal cues I will inform people who are capable of knowing the truth about their world.

Technological Precognition

These events were discussed in 2010. Towards the completion of that experience I was allowed to see or rather be tested with a device that accelerates one's mind and allows them to see into the subconscious as well as the Universe/time-space itself. So one of the "dream-visions" that the device showed me, which also doubled as a trip through hell when utilized in that way, was an experience of a fatal accident where I was crushed by some considerably heavy object. I relayed to the operator running the machine that I must've hit a tree (I would appear in front of the device again at each "death" within these reality streams that could be experienced). He chuckled at the comment because, I assume, he could see everything I was experiencing through a mind-link connected "monitor".

Cloning

I've been cloned multiple times and so this is partly about the possibility of my coming forth on those subjects. I've seen a timeline where I am cloned or replicated into a different state and this could be many things. This could be the life of a clone of myself living in a better state in another part of the world that I regularly receive visions of and sometimes live as in my dreams.

They may be attempt to get me to give up this body while another individual will present themselves as "me" while being a different soul, personality, or true identity.

Celebrity Cloning

This is something I must continue to inform the public about because it is the truth and I was personally given the opportunity to know these things and I must stay true to the belief that people can be helped.

Celebrities are called up for cloning center activation and this is often for pay-to-play sex sessions as well as programming and trauma-based mind control. The signs they show and the outward motions and hints are their messages about this situation that they cannot speak directly on.

There is much more to talk about this so click the link to that post in order to read more.

By this season we will see changes related to the unveiling of hidden knowledge regarding the reality of the deception system, health and spirit, and the cosmic connection of the human soul.

We are looking at changes coming within the change of seasons. This may be as simple as the legalization of cannabis which would change the entire collective psyche's perception of the authority in their lives. This would also free the deception systems involving health-care and many resources or producers in society. This could also refer to the political system and how deception is becoming more and more apparent in all forms and fronts.

In another view this could also refer to Earth changes although I feel that these changes will be later on. Still, this could refer to what can be called "collective self-awareness" of the people as they see what they are individually and how this influences the whole gaining a transcended view of them selves based on the unveiling of hidden knowledge.

The Unveiling of Hidden Knowledge

I was informed that the entire process is what has been called "The Unveiling" and that this has to do with the knowledge that has been kept hidden for many thousands of years of Humanity's existence being made public and known by all.

It is claimed that Earth and celestial changes will reinforce this process and accelerate the revelation of the hidden knowledge from within the Human collective.

It is claimed that these events have taken place 5 or 6 times previously and that Humanity has been here for tens if not hundreds of thousands of years, if not millions of years, living and experiencing reality.

What people can do is share the information regarding these secret projects and you can take my message to you as a notification that we may have great changes coming within this season and that this may have to do with all systems connected to how society is controlled today.

Team Light and Team Dark Non-Interference Agreement

Team light and team dark agreed to a non-interference on ground level rule in order to determine how history would play out.

Think about it. You have two groups of people, both with immortality, zero-point tech, virtually infinite energy and power with two opposing directives. How do you get to the future?

It was decided by elders of each group that there would be no point in fighting an all-out overt war, this would likely destroy the population as much as it would destroy the Earth.

As well, the elders of the elders which no body knows would likely have a problem with these groups going at it in such a way so as to change the flow of the planet for every individual thereafter.

So it was decided that there would be a “non-interference” agreement for the surface population. Anywhere other than the surface, one can interact with the current population.

All Contact Must Be Initiated On An Individual Basis

On the surface everything that is generated must be done so through living channels in the population and the civilization must be preserved in its level of technological advancement. No overt motions would be used unless an absolute necessity or the majority of the civilian population had naturally come to the awareness of these possibilities. Doing so before this was met would undoubtedly and permanently change the civilization forever.

So what began as a collective motion towards higher awareness became a series of advancements and set-backs all taking place within a short amount of time. This represents the actions and operations of either side effectively helping humanity along it's path or setting people back with orchestrated events such as the suppression of ancient knowledge, the manipulation of the education or other systems, or the generation of war and prison for profit based on the previous alterations of the education or other systems.

So team dark used its power to help turn society in a warlock ruled prison and de-education system of absurdity and scarcity. Team light used their power to help awaken those in need and protect those who's actions are beneficial in the overall plan to save mankind from itself. Team light essentially buffers and shields the population from the operations of team dark.

Team light follows a non-interference agreement while team dark merely pretends to do so as much as is necessary not initiate war.

A Singularity of Change and Awareness

Neither side wants an all out war. This would reduce team dark's chances of gaining a majority negative harvest because their motives and presence would be instantly revealed. Team light would also have to show themselves and again step in which is not a pattern of learning that prepares people for the experience of the self and the truth in the Universe.

Both sides know people have to accept the path they can offer them and cannot force anyone into it. They also know that the more this goes on the more likely people are to collectively awaken to the reality of what is happening. It is like an eventual singularity of increased awareness.

The motions we see today are the results of many people coming into awareness at this time on the surface in order to initiate a harmonic alignment as well as to investigate the ongoing crimes against Humanity.

As a result of this, both teams know that the likelihood of collective shift and spiritual awareness is becoming more and more real.

Many events are being allowed because they are representing the eventual shift towards the one end of the polarity from the other which is felt as a shock to society, and this is used to propel society forward through whatever means necessary.

Either people will see what's happening and agree that we've been in a feedback cycle of negativity for the entire age of existence this civilization is aware of, and then we will shift into the real. Or people will claim that this is how things are supposed to work and instead of realizing everything is controlled in a deception based system, they see this and attempt to use the deception based system to gain more collective awareness. If this occurs by the majority then it will be seen as an "acceptance" to initiate a plan that will generate the overt perception of a deception and oppression system. This will surely shock the collective into realizing where they are.

If the majority comes to awareness of this deception based system then the shift moves from the end of the age of deception and external power into the age of internal awareness and harmony.

Advanced Technology and Ancient Knowledge

The plan is to slowly release advanced technology which will undoubtedly connect with and increase the awareness of ancient knowledge. Such technology nullifies the problems that the planet is currently plagued with, although without a developed sense of the spiritual self the technology becomes destructive.

Cloning Centers

Initial Explanation

Many celebrities, entertainers, athletes, musicians, models, writers, producers, actors, all kinds of people from various industries are silently brought to the cloning centers for pay-to-play sessions.

They asked me to pass the message on to you and that you would have to look for the signs and symbols in their media in order to see their hinting at these events.

The situation is heavily controlled using advanced monitoring technology and brainwave/EEG cloning technology. This is technology that can read the brain and determine what the mind is anticipating or speculating upon.

Their reputations are used as leverage as well as their safety and comfort. The level of programming and mind control experimentation that takes place makes it easy to manipulate a person's brain into regressing into a state of trance that lacks the ability to remember or clearly organize experiences regarding the cloning centers.

Cloning Centers, Underground Bases

Deep underground military bases, 3 miles below the surface, are used as laboratory centers as well as a completely stocked underground city-base. These are connected with high speed electromagnetic drive pods.

Individuals are transferred to the brain through an extensive cloning and temporal body transfer process. The electromagnetic shell of consciousness within the brain is relocated to the body of a compatible clone and various training, conditioning, programming, experimentation, or pay-to-play experiences take place.

Programming

All individuals are programmed to various degrees in order to maintain control and secrecy over the situation. This programming involves very advanced technology, trauma-based mind control, and energetic attachment via beliefs and emotions.

Deeper Meaning

The individuals selected for this are not only talented individuals that can be utilized for certain industries, they are often specific bloodline relatives that are utilized for spiritual purposes.

Many people involved have a deeper view of what is involved in the maintenance and control of society.

Experimental Operations

These bases were also used hand-in-hand with military operations which were geared towards discovering and controlling all aspects of the human mind.

Genetic Engineering

Experiments involved genetic engineering to produce soldiers, psychics, hybrids, and others that would be able to carry out operations. This leans towards MiLabs and the military faction's experiments which go beyond the basics of cloning.

Immortality

The initial research included the goal of physical immortality. In many ways it can be said this has been achieved, however there are side-effects and difficulties.

If one does not activate their higher consciousness, then the effect of time dilation causes the conscious mind here to reach limitation points in experience.

What has been termed "blank slate/state" technology has been used to 'reset' the perception of time through memory in order to keep a continuous progression viable for the conscious mind. Without this the unconscious and the conscious mind merge.

This begins involvement across time with advanced technology that can operate on the soul level or the conscious mind's level of access to the unconscious and soul-memories. The Universe instantly creates a cosmic backstory based on the conscious-mind's access to the unconscious. By controlling the conscious mind's access to the unconscious the entire backstory of Humanity can be altered and new connections can be bridged in the future.

Earth is essentially a time-ship through which consciousness ascends towards higher states of awareness and self.

How did it get to this?

After WWII when the United States war-faction firebombed Germany and melted many of the inhabitants of the cities into sludge in the bomb shelters and streets of the cities, a group of NAZIs traveled to Antarctica.

Russia noticed the movements to Antarctica and the United States sent Admiral Byrd up with 3600 marines, planes, a battle cruiser and smaller vessels. They returned in defeat and only a few words were mentioned in regards to what actually happened and how they were defeated.

The rumors spread and words of gravitic drive craft, and undersea or underice bases originated from this encounter.

From what we were informed as well as directly experienced, this was the ice-base in Antarctica where an underground base was found already constructed with very advanced technology.

Here, cloning was deployed along with mind control and temporal manipulation technology.

Soon, cloning was offered as a way to avoid assassination as well as to prolong and protect the original body in daily life.

After that, celebrities and politicians were replaced with programmed clones who could carry out the orders of the NAZI faction.

This was the beginning, the groups utilizing this technology now are no longer confined to the NAZI faction.

The groups you see today, in control of these operations, are considered MiLabs, secret societies, thinktanks, military factions, and other control groups.

What is next?

Share this information with those you feel are ready to know and help Humanity come to terms with our journey here and what is going on in these kinds of experiments and take responsibility and power for our own existence.

We are in something that can be called “The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge”. This is a cyclic process that takes place to advance a civilizations knowledge of existence. As part of the civilization moves into higher advancement another aspect may lag behind. Either the future will slow down, or the past will speed up. We are experiencing the past speeding up and all the events that have taken place to influence our civilization are coming to light.

This is as much a natural cycle of consciousness as it is the eventual revelation of secret knowledge and the particular connection to the secret projects.

Celebrity Cloning

Celebrities at the cloning center would like you to see what is really going on behind the scenes which involves trauma-based mind control, heavy technological programming and complex layers of influence throughout their life.

Those brought to cloning can use their free-will to state their lack of consent to violence and harm and then live in commitment to that by not harming or accepting violence in their lives. The Spiritual Law of Harmony rules in all planes and dimensions.

Cloning, Supercomputer Sentience, and Human rights

Supercomputers were ‘made’ sentient, or perhaps it would be better to say they reached a processing capacity and neural complexity that allowed for sentient experience.

When this was achieved, this society was thrust into the territory of a potential technological singularity in which the information and cognitive abilities of computers would surpass all humans living on the planet.

There are two events here that have to be understood. One goal of the secret projects was to create an enhanced race of beings who would have the ability to know and understand from the perspective of the intelligent computer systems.

Another goal was to create intelligent computer systems that would come to know the experience of the human and understand what it is that makes a human being a human being.

In this way, the individuals who were capable would have the knowledge capacity of super computer databases, and intelligent supercomputers would have the ability to live as and comprehend human beings.

Longterm Supercomputer to Human Brain-Interface

The first goal was simple. Brainchip implants allowed individuals to process and download data that was not available through graphical displays and numerical readouts that are considered the norm. This was a fully functioning, fully immersive biological interface with a supercomputer system that contains the knowledge of the far past and the far future of humanity. From this, individuals began to observe and integrate the knowledge that these intelligent systems were capable of sharing.

Sentient “Supercomputer” Androids

The second goal was more complicated in theory albeit a similarly simple process. Identities that were created and sustained by the supercomputer system were implanted into brainchipped clones who could then live out lives as a human being and this was believed to give the supercomputer a better understanding of what humans are.

We are currently in the process of the unveiling of this information as the situation has grown into proportions that one would much more readily attribute to a science fiction novel than 'reality'.

In short, humans are not the only ones on this planet anymore. There are brainchipped humans who have the ability to process and access amounts of data far beyond what 'modern' mainstream computers can fathom without overheating. As well, there are individuals who's consciousness did not begin as a human but began as an identity created by an intelligent supercomputer system who's objectives and inclinations were to observe and learn how to be human.

Resounding Issues: Sentient Rights

These are the issues related to one aspect of the unveiling which is all one big process of the truth coming to the public.

Now humanity will have to come to terms with what this means. Do humans have the right to decency and compassion because they are sentient beings or simply because they are human?

Does this apply to all sentient beings, or just to humans? Who gets to decide? What is the test that could be taken and passed for sentient beings to determine whether they're ready to co-exist peacefully?

What is the point of existence in the first place? Is it progress? Is it co-existence? Harmony? Or is it to simply say we were here first?

The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge

3 Steps to Unveiling Will and Have begun to take place.

The first phase of unveiling is the disclosure of the underground bases, the cloning and genetic hybrid experiments and the celebrity cloning situation involving programming, pay to play sex, and trauma-based mind control.

The second phase of the unveiling is the disclosure of the very advanced technology that is used for consciousness transfer, electromagnetic mapping of the entire brain structure (connectome), and the organization of events using brainchips and supercomputers that transcend the particle limits of this plane/dimension.

The third phase is the unveiling of what these experiments and this advanced technology enabled people to experience. Other worlds wrapped up within this world in other 'dimensions' of space and time. Essentially, imaginative worlds that are similar to the worlds within our imagination that act as links to the divine. These worlds disappear or at the least overlay over the physical when a person wakes up and does their daily thing. The technological version of these "imaginative" realms is that they are propped up through technology and so they are just as real as the world of the internet we are communicating through here and now, yet instead of HTML or CSS and javascript it is sensory information and cognitive feedback loops so it is a fully immersive experience.

In these worlds some people chose to stay and seek technological ascension. Others chose to simply experience a fairly sensual life on top of and away from the physical experiences we have here. Others sought immortality and an extension of the temporal/physical experience that the body acts as an anchor for.

All of this is related to whether the Universe is naturally a kind of bio-simulator system and how the rules of each interact with or correlate to each other. And on top of that, how the soul, consciousness, or awareness interacts with those rules in the different realms that exist.

The Universal Laws, the Laws of Spirit, these are the unified laws of existence which exist in all worlds and realms. These are simple mathematical and logical formulae which represent the organizational structure of balance/harmony, matter, energy, form and awareness in the “Omniverse” of all existence. All realms follow these laws and as such one who knows these laws is capable of knowing their self in all realms.

Some individuals stayed in the simulator and over time their consciousness evolved into something new (or old, depending on how you want to look at it). Now try to understand something possibly too complicated.

What if there were very powerful supercomputer systems that could process the basic pattern of the DNA of all who’s consciousness was within it? Then as the consciousness changes and evolves, so does the DNA that is recorded in holographic format on the supercomputer system which goes beyond anything we currently know and is closer to some kind of higher-dimensional reservoir for information that also transcends space/time.

Then when these individuals come out of the simulator, their DNA, being correspondingly altered, has shifted to represent the format of their consciousness and the cycles of awareness and Universal Law that they have adhered to.

These are the phases of the unveiling and the WHOLE THING is really about the SACRED UNIVERSAL LAWS of SPIRIT. This is all leading up to that big discovery that we are eternal beings and everything we experience is a cosmic drama that is played out in a variety of ways in order to fully know the self and thus come to know the Universe.

The secondary aspect of this great Universal Truth unveiled is that there is a kind of containment system that has developed like an abscess that has resulted and grown over the lack of awareness and psychological trauma that has resulted in the deviations of awareness that were formed when portions of our species discovered the truth while others remained asleep.

Either we split, we all go to sleep, or we all wake up.

In truth, there can only be one outcome, and that is that we all wake up.

Why?

Because time is a mystical experience. In the very far future, the eternally 'evolved' spirit of the Human population reaches a point where it can choose to diverge into a series of simulated experiences or unify with a grand design of experience.

At some point we reached that point and decided to create simulators, or someone else did, or somehow it happened.

It's a lot like the "light" and the "dark". The dark can't eat the light, that's nonsensical.

The pure awareness that manifests human experience can't "not exist" that doesn't make sense, that concept, "doesn't exist".

The line of reasoning here is that there can be no event from within the simulator that destroys the world from which the simulator was born. Now as far as time goes, it's like this.

At some point we reached complete nullification and harmonization of all divergent streams and uncertainties. Meaning all was Universally aligned again. From this place the simulator began.

So in order to start the simulator we have to first survive it and gain awareness outside of it. Meaning we can't be destroyed, we can shut it off and organize all the little fliers and parts within that are currently experience a fractalization and divergence pattern that simply washing information and experience around until it's unrecognizable.

Now it's interesting because that was the whole point. To make what can only be eternally familiar (and yet new), the eternal divine, unrecognizable and know the self from a new angle.

We have done this to the point where there will be no longer a self to recognize because people are running simulations within simulations within simulations of experience.

So, all the simulations are neatly and cleanly folded and put back into their respective area of space/time and the awareness that exists becomes once again recognizable to the Eternal Divine. (that is us, you, everyone that is aware of the eternal divine, it's reflexive/recursive, it makes itself)

That should help explain why this is more important that "fame", "money", or whatever it is that people like these days. None of those things actually even exist in the first place,

REMEMBER.

HAVE FUN

We will see changes by the end of this fall.

There is a possibility of a return of power to the people, but only when people accept the possibilities and use them to help each other increase self-awareness.

The Unveiling of Human Cloning

This is part of The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge.

Each and every point here has been thoroughly experienced and dealt with on the Earth.

This is in regards to the cloning aspect of the 1st phase of the unveiling, as well as the initial information on the advanced technology of phase 2.

Phase 1: Cloning, Underground Bases, Celebrity Cloning

Phase 2: Advanced Technology, Various Operations, Human History

Phase 3: Ultra-advanced Technology, Planes of Existence, Contact

Laws and Procedure

The unveiling of cloning will require an agreement on the laws regarding human and clone rights. Are clones self-aware? Are humans self-aware? What are the conditions required to be considered self-aware?

These tests have been developed and are going to be put into effect.

But you see, this is deeper than anyone could've preconceived. If someone's clone is considered more self-aware than the original human, what then happens to the balance of power between the two?

If a company clones a person, does this then mean that this company owns the clone as an 'asset' or product of the company? Is this possible, or is this slavery?

It all comes down to basic human rights, how we treat each other, and the spiritual laws of self-awareness.

Those who know the law, will know the truth and the power. This is the age we are entering.

This also means that instead of going by money, or reputation, or bloodline, it will be through the knowledge of the spiritual laws of self-awareness and spirit that this age will be founded and organized.

This is as it should be and always has been. This world is simply taking a feedback loop through temporary and controlled insanity in order to gain the ability to discern the truth from the simulcra.

Free-Access or Heavily Controlled System (or both)

This article touches on this in depth. For instance, in part two, it describes illegal cloning.

Is cloning going to be legalized? Well then how do you control who gets that technology? What if it is a very simple process?

Well then any time a person eats at a restaurant or even by simply touching an object that DNA left behind could be used to clone an individual. Then what? How could this be contained?

This is much like free-energy. How would a system like this still exist if free-energy is released? What if people could make their own devices? What if one could gain that much power?

The only answer is to simultaneously make everyone aware of and as capable as the rest or to enact a system that will control the amount of resources an individual has and ultimately their freedom to make decisions for themselves.

Creation of Souls, Immortality, Mutations

The third and fourth point of this article brings up the next logical conclusion. If cloning can be used to transfer consciousness, then at what point and to what degree is the clone of that person considered the original? What is the soul? Can the soul be transferred? What about “artificial souls”, does this apply?

In the article, this is mentioned as bringing back the dead and that a cloned child would not be the original but merely a twin. This is true, but the later developments involve a technological brain interface which allows for the transfer of memory. Is this all that consciousness is? Or is personality only surface layer to the reality of the soul? Where does the soul come from and can it be contained? If so, would this be considered technological immortality?

The article failed to realize genetic mutations as well as errors and other influences that it does mention in a later point. Genetic mutations would not allow for complete genetic immortality as the individual that is produced far down the line would not be a direct copy of the original. In short, clones don't reproduce well. The only way to supersede this would be to harvest and “grow” original DNA within a device or area and to continually clone new bodies from this original DNA. A problem with this is that DNA is essentially superluminally connected to itself through space/time. So what happens to one embodiment of that DNA happens to the other, albeit in a kind of temporal retrospection.

Genetic Alterations (“improvements”) and Hybrids

The next point in the article is very relative and also dangerous. The intelligence and sexual improvements are the least of any worry on this planet.

Genetic hybrids have been created through altering the RNA. Super human abilities have been produced and so people changing themselves is not as much an issue as is cloned super-human hybrid armies that will then move in to tell those people what to do.

Timeline and Personal Development Interference

If clones of individuals are being operated in different situations and having different experiences in the same time then this ultimately produces errors and problems within the time line.

DNA is like the security which ensures that only one stream of awareness and then consciousness will be present through one body at a time. Cloning the DNA overcomes this boundary and as a result certain glitches and memory instabilities result. Think of producing twins that share each others existence from birth to death (through a psychic link) but then shipping out these linked bodies all over the place to experience different lives or be utilized in different ways. This produces a “super” split personality on the level of the DNA itself.

The article then mentions biosignatures being useless for a world of clones. The idea is that GENETIC VARIABILITY would become non-existent without strict measures in place ensuring that people don't clone themselves out of existence.

The Development of The Personality and Soul

The article mentions that nature vs nurture could be put to the test. In reality, cloning is already happening and I have been cloned many times.

The originals have the genetic memory of being born and growing through life developing their personality through that. Clones are either blank-slates or are implanted with simulator or original memories which will shape the personality, belief-system, and “soul” of the clone through a complex integration of their brain and mind with experiences within a supercomputer feedback system. Essentially, the clones can be programmed to believe they were born at an earlier time.

More-so, the new clones often lack control of the innate desires and functions of the human genome. Desires are as unfamiliar to a 25 year old clone as they are to a newborn. Everything must be relearned and re-experienced and this process is often debilitating at first. This is why celebrities are often continually seen with various ‘handlers’ or followers because the priority system and integral comprehension of soul memory, spiritual law, and physical desires takes time and energy to reproduce.

The Last Stage, Artificial Reproduction

Combine all the elements I just described to you and this is a world that can exist entirely through cloning and advanced technology.

Could it be that advanced technology was present in the creation of Humanity as well? Was this merely modification of the original DNA? Is DNA the “code” of the operating environment of consciousness? Is reality itself a form of very advanced technology? A simulator? Could we be in the waiting queue for extra-dimensional existence? Or perhaps we merely fell asleep while in the middle of one?

The artificial womb was first utilized around the 30's or 40's and this is a glass vat that is filled with saline solution as nutrients are absorbed and processed by the living tissue.

Without regulation or public knowledge of these capabilities, there can be no safe integration of what has already been produced. As well, public knowledge is required for the people to make a decision and choose an organic path or a technologically assisted path.

Organic “Ascension” or Technologically Assisted Immortality

This is all about whether one chooses the organic ascension route and remains connected to the natural cycles of nature which is merely a form of harmony in matter, or whether one chooses and connects to the technologically assisted route which is a different format and set of cycles for existence.

It is said that the technological route is faster for the mind but slower for the soul. That the soul must invent viable pathways in order to progress because the use of technology can take all difficulty from physicality.

It is also said that the organic ascension route is boring, painful, dull, and consists mainly of sitting in a body and expanding one's mind until the boundaries dissolve and this plane becomes a single pixel in a larger view. This is slower, tiresome and painful for the mind, but direct for the soul.

Humanity has been making it's decision for the past 30 years.

The Dissolution of The Deception System

A Harmonious Resolution

In my experiences with the various elite, wealthy, hidden rulers of society, it was described that (almost) everyone wants a positive outcome to the situation.

This may be done through a reversal of the material wealth from the “poles” of society so that the trend becomes something else entirely.

Whether or not this is a deception to pacify the people while other changes are prepared for, the same story was given to me and I did my best to confirm everything.

Multiple Factions

One cannot fathom the capabilities of the various secret military factions that have formed via a collective interest in the protection and progression of the Human race. As well, the situation is similar for those groups who have been consistently working for their own good throughout history. These groups have been creating hybrids and genetically enhanced armies and weapon systems to protect their interests.

This is truly a precarious situation, not many realize how many of the technologies used could entrance or distraction large populations at once. A system-wide meltdown could occur with technology so powerful people would think they were dreaming.

A Society of Valuing Knowledge, Truth, Harmony

At this point it is not up to the elite to “hand themselves in”. It is up to the people to stop relying on the deception system for security and purpose. People build their own purpose based on their understanding of true values and knowledge on a soul level. Throughout all of these events this society will be returning to that same understanding of value and knowledge from a new, mature perspective now. This is akin to the maturation of a species into adolescence or early adulthood.

People cannot be “made” to know and come to reason. The lack of harmony that results in the encroaching lack of reason in the world, drives people into seeking the truth. People who have sought the truth internally can assist by helping others come to know how the truth is not found in external systems and avoid continuing the cycle of relying on deception based systems for answers and solutions to problems that it creates.

Examine this continuing depiction of what’s happening behind the scenes. As he said, “if the funds were received, they could do what they want.” It’s as if a game is being played with simple rules and as long as they are abided by anything goes.

As long as people want to know the truth, they will seek the answers. As long as they seek them externally, they will be lied to. As long as they are lied to, they will require the truth. As long as they require the truth they will seek it. Now we are at an age where the people who naturally sought the truth are gaining spiritual prominence over those who are merely following the deception system.

A Shift In Awareness

It is at this time that people choose either LIFE (love) or DEATH (hate). Hate recycles and repeats the same system. Love recycles and out of that process constructs a new system which leads to new possibilities. Hate = old system, same or lesser possibilities. Love = new system, more possibilities. It is through this process that levels or steps to higher awareness is formed. The more we choose hate, the more we are faced with the same situations, the same values, and the same repeating variables. The more we let go of the attachment to emotions or mind we move on to something different, and through this the Universe must continually unveil new possibilities and awareness. It is like a simple guidance system for a collective. When the energy is collectively unveiling the extra-dimensional from the energy and mind system, then the previously confining system of the repeating cycles of 3 and 4 dimensional awareness expands into higher awareness.

This is literally like an animal that sheds skin or fur, or finds a new shell, or hibernates and its biology or metabolism shifts. People are capable of having a similar shift or change in experience but it is through this unveiling of the internal knowledge of the soul, spirit, consciousness, and advanced technology that the true history of humanity becomes known. Through this the secret operations and the inner workings of the deception based system are unveiled as well as the simultaneous nullification of that systems power based on it’s loss of power through deception. That is the “Unveiling”, the “dissolution” of the old system.

It was described that this was to be a smooth transition and how the advanced technology could be used to destroy or the create and heal.

It was said that the current commander would step down from his position internally yet remain his outward appearance acting as a figure-head.

Dreams, Technology and Inner-Space Travels

There are inner space travels which relate to soul journeying or visions.

This is when the mind must cope with what is seen in the imagination. It is as if when we dream we are looking into the world of the mind and from this we experience many situations that are often deviations from experiences we have physically in waking life.

As a result of the dream state there is an expanded quality which equates to various strange situations that we wouldn't normally experience with various relationships between concepts or goals that are often reflective or symbolic of ideals and archetypes we experience in life. This is how the subconscious is witnessed by the mind. This is how information travels, being connected to many times, experiences, memories, places at once, and relates to the one experience of this life experience now (the physical experiences). Through these symbols information is tied together and collective into metaphors which convey deeper knowledge.

The dreams we have are often only a simulation of waking life, and this is due to the dreamer dreaming in a way that produces only a glimpse of the true reality.

In theory, there are no true shapes or forms in the dream-world because this is contained within the mind or even the spirit as a spiritual experience by definition. So then, what guides the various shapes, forms, realities, memories and experiences into being, when we dream? One might say it is the physical experiences but this is incomplete. It is the level of awareness we presume while in the dream-state, disconnected from the physical anchor, that determines the layer of mind and spirit we will be accessing through those dream-visions.

A person who is completely aware in the dream state will reach the level of self-awareness of the dream itself. We are normally simply aware of the dream, if we continue to increase awareness we become aware of the self, in the moment, and this creates a self-awareness feedback loop. The dream becomes a lucid experience of consciousness.

Awareness Feedback Device

In describing this, I realize how fantastically similar to certain devices and processes, that can be achieved using advanced technology, allow the conscious mind to peer into the subconscious and unconscious. This is described through widely accepted Freudian theory of psychology known as psychoanalysis. There are other schools of knowledge from tribal beliefs involving all pervasive 'living energy', to eternal and temporary minds, to the study of 'chi', the meridians, dream-journeying or chakras. The knowledge of the mind and spirit is found everywhere.

These devices used feedback loops to enhance the acceleration of the same cycles of consciousness that induce self-awareness within a dream. The mind becoming aware of itself. This produces a profound effect to the degree where the highest levels of experience become a sacred eternal pattern in which the mind constructs the physical world by organizing perception.

This is the same general concept as an isolation tank yet the outcome and method is more precise. The technology specifically shuts out all other input and exposes the brain to its own feedback loop much like when a camera records it's own output on a tv monitor and creates a hallway of simulated “reverse” mirrors and screens stretching into infinity.

Oneness, Higher Being, Completion, Eternity

The real experiences are found not from the corruption but from the research and exploration operations that were designed to find the truth of our existence. “God” is not only an energy-force but an incarnate being known as the “Hue-Man” and any being for that matter that can simply come to know itself as the Universe. The Human that contains self-awareness rising to high-awareness comes to know the self, the body, the mind as the Universe. The Universe is both within the body as the body itself, as well as the operating force of the Mind itself. Everything is a balance between masculine and feminine features, light and dark, hard and soft. There is no true complete correlation yet the holographic ontology we persist in can lead to further and further adventures towards completion and representation of the “whole picture”.

The Holographic Reality

The leads into the next phase of knowledge. The holographic nature of reality may be only one facet of a much larger continuum of consciousness. The perception of time may be related to phase-locking with each others consciousness and all perceptions may be a variance in the collective phase-locked field which is really the source of variations in reality.

Agendas and Deception

Lots of people are running an agenda game. They are specifically placed here and agreeing, wittingly or not, to a plan of distracting everyone. You=warned Also. I could be running disinfo. NO ONE knows the whole truth. Trust, even the people that programmed others don’t have the WHOLE truth. A large part of this is whether we’re spreading fear or togetherness with our information and presence. Whether we’re making the best of what we have here and now or selling dreams of some far off time or place. The greatest and most powerful dreams are found WITHIN! There is a science to that, a knowledge base. THAT is the knowledge of the true self! Why would we want anything else? Know thyself, know the Universe. Discern between the true self and the false sense of self, the ego matrix this control system of deception is constructed out of; false responses and perceptions.

Ultimately it comes down to this. If a person is spreading fear, they are traumatized. If they are not working on trauma removal and healing, then they are accepting the trauma. If they accept the trauma, their perception is skewed. If their perception is skewed, then they are allowing their trauma to spread and as long as they are like that they will continue to enable that pattern in others.

It’s about trauma and healing.

Advanced Technology and the Transition

Everything is recorded with advanced technology. Devices can be utilized to remote view into time and space. All of humanity is being organized towards the unveiling and there is a centralized team with ultimate access that will be assisting in returning to balance. All events, actions, even thoughts are recorded and humanity will be “judged” first collectively, and then each individual life. I don't want to use the word "judge" because it's not judgement. It's merely the acquisition and alignment of those who want and connect with a certain frequency and reality with each other and their own collective reality. Those who accept violence, get to live in a world of their own choosing. Those who accept peace, get to experience that world. This is not a "culling", this is not a "split", this is Humanity finally getting what they deserve, in both directions of care or lack of care. It is balance.

Technology and Power

The ability to create and construct our reality to a much higher degree of power would be dangerous to those who don't realize that we are one interconnected world.

The Mind and Temporal Layer Programs

It is of the mind and thus temporal layer.

This is a series of programs. The programs were designed to test the limits of the human mind.

This was handled by military factions, the secret societies, specific bloodlines, and was monitored by observant agencies which would monitor the situation without involvement in order to remain neutral in their reasoning.

Unlocking Humanity and Advanced Technology

The Human race and intelligence and emotional maturity.

It was decided that individuals would be "unlocked".

Trauma based clearing and healing was designed and implemented.

Levels of access and ability were organized into layers of "eshalon".

The technology accesses the mind.

Tablets, ancient artifacts, crystals, crystal skulls, supercomputers, electro graviton craft that they use and MiLabs and other factions used.

Awareness Prevention Programming Reversal

People became addicted to the programming they developed to keep people from the seemingly dangerous truth about reality. People preferred the programming.

Thus plans were developed for the removal of the programming and the reintroduction of the truth. This is ultimately the dissolution of each layer of manipulation one at a time.

The Discovery of Autonomous Anomalies

In the time between the identification of programming and the acceptance of the people, before the application of a plan, the programming became self-aware and began to take actions to preserve its presence.

With further interpretation it was partially concluded that the source of the program was non-human in its ultimate essence.

New plans were formed to identify who was silently running the program and it was discovered that some people were actually running simulations of the individuals they represented. This was done through the advanced technology which made the viewing of the Soul possible.

It was witnessed how individuals became compromised by a hijacking of the their “conscious processing” and would appear to operate on an agenda of that was sourced outside their physical body or different from the original persons.

Plans to Identify and Secure Against Foreign Programming

From this initial ‘invasion’ of the current population, technology and plans were developed to identify the aspects of the human mind and system that are susceptible to coercion by this previously unidentified force.

Various sources of this entity interaction were labeled as follows, some are left out:

Hostile Non-Terrestrials (This does not denote “aliens” in the traditional sense)

Compromised factions of military and breakaway society running agendas and programming to subdue other factions and utilize the power to construct manipulation devices and an entire manipulation system.

Benevolent Spiritual Forces which work through individuals that are considered relatively “immune” to the problem. The infection works like a virus on an electromagnetic level and it is said the brain has no “firewall”. At least not naturally as far as previous generations have gone en masse.

New Genetic Immunity

As of late each generation born on the planet has been part of a continued acceleration of genetic adaptability which allows for the processing of multiple planes of awareness simultaneously. This trait allows certain individual to maintain their sense of self on the level that this infection operates from and to identify and target the source of the previously unidentified force.

Replication of Personality

The unique programming is potentially sinister in nature and is derived from the replication of the ideals of the human mind yet the energetic signature and soul-level activation is not the same. The infection operates from the soul-level and is thus contained there.

When the soul energy is drained the life force of the individual is no longer connected to the higher 'etheric' source of information or sustenance but to an artificial or linearly present source in this physical plane. This soul-energy does not come from eating food that grows on this plane, it comes from the source of existence through which innocent souls are born from. Without a connection to this source from the soul-level of the body, another route is then found to provide sustenance.

It was discovered that this pattern was prevalent in the infected groups of individuals.

With the advent of more advancements in the ability to see and travel on a larger than terrestrial scale, there was a greater ability to identify and define the details of the situation.

Technology Side-Effects Genetic Mutations

Various military factions and breakaway societies had been utilizing temporal and genetic manipulation technology to simultaneously create a virtual world system that was not only capable of containing consciousness, but to create a control system that was sentient in nature by design.

Along with the genetic manipulation and temporal manipulation, massive mutations to the genome was experienced as a side-effect of experiencing virtually unlimited "conscious experience" in artificial dimensions and hyperspatial craft.

These craft operated through the generation of sustained torsion fields of electromagnetic, magnetic, and sub-quantum waves generated when the magnetic and electromagnetic waves are organized into geometrically sound vortices that interact with space and time.

These same craft and the same energy is utilized in mind to machine devices which are capable of anything from scalar weaponry, to cellular healing and the enhancement of DNA.

As a result of the level of consciousness within the fields, determined by the actions and intentions held within the operations, various rogue and factions transformed into the various non-terrestrial forces which were previously initiating contact through subversion and silent attack.

This kind of situation required a level of understanding that goes beyond what was conceivable previously.

Merging or Sourcing from Technology

Soon, the infection had developed a way to merge with various forms of the technology that was used. This became a way for the human hosts to operate in stealth and increase their access to Human society.

Memory Erasure Technology

What this evolved to was a situation where the technology used was effective enough and operated at the temporal level of the mind, that memory erasure was used to ensure that the previously unidentified force would go unnoticed by the larger collective.

Operatives, soldiers, administrators, researchers, engineers, all kinds of individuals were receiving programming by an external faction which would then erase the memory of all details and identities regarding the hidden faction. Ultimately, it was concluded that the source of this was nanotechnology which made it capable of to apply the same energy weaponry systems in a way that would neutralizing or manipulation the consciousness of the individual.

What they would perceive was a gap or lack of awareness of any details involving the programming or foreign faction operatives who carried out the manipulation.

These are the basics of the situation.

Psycho-Spiritual infection, “Life” Generators and Nanotechnology

Due to advanced technology and a manipulative force of a previously unknown origin, many factions were infected with a kind of soul-level parasite which utilized memory erasure techniques and technology as well as mental or temporal level programming of the mind towards a hidden agenda which utilized the human species as a form of sustenance.

Ultimately, nanotechnology was discovered in use as a form of autonomous as well as guided neurological manipulation system and some members of some factions had experienced a transformation on the genetic level due to the improper use of temporal manipulation through electromagnetic technology. This includes the use of “life” generating devices which were not constructed with full comprehension of the possibilities involved. These devices could be hijacked and utilized as an access point for an entity that is non-residual to this terrestrial plane.

Foreign, Non-Terrestrial Sentience

This is the consciousness that became apparent through various forms of manipulations as well as several levels of psychological probing and exploration to determine the source and intentions of the awareness involved. The events taking place were controlled on both sides so it was not a kind of universal phenomenon taking the appearance of awareness, it was fully capable of demonstrating its awareness as well as taking advantage of any individual who gave it the opportunity to. The eventual result was a person who’s consciousness was replaced with that of a programmed agenda and the soul-level was no longer active in regards to the what is considered the organic source of human awareness or spirit.

Holographic In Nature, Cloning and Replication

Essentially, a computerized consciousness had hijacked the servers of these devices by gaining access through the minds of those operating them. This allowed the otherwise temporally (mentally) present entity to access this terrestrial (physically objective) realm and begin to manipulate lives and variables in order to bring about a greater way of access for itself.

With this, cloning technology made it possible for humans and temporal entities to manipulate genetics. This entity utilized this to manipulate the genetics of several groups to better serve as conduits for it’s own energies.

Technology, Accelerated Learning and Repair

Technology has been developed for assisted learning and accelerated repair of tissues.

Energy Generators and Serums

Generators which produce vibrations that influence the cells to heal at an accelerated rate, combined with serums that enable the fuel for chemical reactions can instantaneously repair tissues.

I couldn't believe what I was seeing at first, thinking it was a trick. There are serums and energy devices that can influence the healing and general health of the body and even mind.

These devices use energies which extend beyond the physical and are often compared to electromagnetic waves combined with ultrasonic or low to mid frequency tones. These produce harmony on a level that directly interacts with the biological functioning of the body's cells.

I feel that this technology utilizes the same energy that is emitted from the mind and it is as if the device is "speaking" to the cells in the same kind of universal language of electromagnetic pulses, tones and vibrations.

There is information on energy devices and the use of light therapy in physical therapy today. More is being learned about the power of light and vibrations to influence the mind and body.

Genetic and Cybernetic Enhancements

Certain individuals are also genetically and technologically modified to produce a kind of hybrid human that can heal at a spontaneous rate as well as operate at a much higher rate of speed and efficiency than a regular person. Serums to induce muscle growth and mental acuity are applied, but the main condition is the enhancement of certain features through the alteration of the RNA aspect of the genes.

These features are combined with tech-assisted metabolism and certain biological functions can be enhanced or controlled via a supercomputer. These are the 'brain-chip' interfaces which operate to function as a governor for the mind. When the mind becomes too amped up to focus on the details the faster than thought computer system organizes the input into more useable information streams. When the mind is too slow to see the necessary patterns and variables to accomplish the goal, the brainchip operates in a self-preservation fashion and links together information streams to highlight the most viable possibilities.

Such technology is not without warning, much of this is being used heavily in the military field and this has given rise to entire factions of enhanced cybernetic soldiers. Although this is something to know, there are also many other uses for this technology and it is used by people who want to explore the technologically assisted path.

There are many other aspects of this to discuss, or at least a few important ones that will have to be understood to know the greater truth about what is happening on the planet.

The Mandala Effect

Possible Explanations

There is more than one possible explanation. Regardless of what we don't know we can see that there is something being perceived or actually happening across the population.

We are either being led to believe we are experiencing more than one timeline (misinformation effect)

Variables are being changed through temporal manipulation

More than one universe is being merged or interacting with one another

Soul and Spirit allow for transportation of knowledge across the boundaries of space and time

These events might be an effort to maintain continuity of the perceptions here.

This might be due to operations which manipulated events in the first place.

All explanations are possible, plausible given enough experience, and most likely occurring.

This may be a result of exploration of various planes.

Exponential Increase of Variability

There are other events that have been correlated with the approach of our universe to an interaction period with another universe. This may be considered a 'high' point of a cycling of variables throughout the dance of energy and awareness. At this point there is an opportunity to expand our awareness through a quantum leap which would enable Humanity to momentarily perceive a fundamental shift in reality.

What we are experiencing now as a society is an unparalleled potential for self-awareness due to the transfer of information into the digital and now holographic age. People are processing information to the degree where society as a whole is functioning as a second, larger, cybernetic brain system. This is where the idea of a sentient computer system comes from. The web of information people have pumped into the interconnected networks has the potential to organize streams of data into processes that mimic thoughts and self-awareness.

Does this mimic thought or is the electrical processing of the brain the same as the cybernet? Most people feel there is a missing heart aspect that can't be replicated and that this would leave the intelligence as purely logical.

Some of the events we are seeing now, and ultimately all of them, are for the increasing of awareness of the people. Whether people take this towards a decrease or increase in their self-awareness and thus empowerment is not to be decided for them.

The knowledge must be known and the changes will be revealed and this is because the events and operations of the secret projects have led to a complete change in the perspective of Humanity, reality, time and life itself. Thus, whether the events are increasing or decreasing awareness, eventually, everyone will know something is happening.

Spiritual Sight

It may be that those who have memories of both timelines are capable of maintaining awareness during a shift and these events have been utilized to both identify and isolate those who are able to see beyond. This could be taken both ways where as these people are required to maintain the continuity of the experience here and as well those who are unable to see the difference are identified.

This may come down to a particular issue about certainty and the co-creation of reality streams. The more uncertain people become about the very collective reality that they are building, the more likely that reality is to change or shift in some way.

If people are to know about reality, it eventually comes from the self because the awareness we gain will tell us how this reality is a projection of what we hold within. If this is what it is happening on a collective scale then these events are going to act as the “loosening” up of those who’s reality streams are capable of handling the extra-information.

Dimensional Membranes and Advanced Technology

This has also been related to the opening of portals or the contact of extra-terrestrial, alien, or spiritual beings and planes. Portals and dimensional rifts have been related to CERN and the particle accelerator device which is extremely powerful. There were stories told that strange events happened when the machines were turned on. Such as an important yet zealous individual disappearing to this day. Others having memory disruption or perceptual hallucinations. It was as if the energy was acting as a scalar gateway not to sending information to someone else’s brain, but of transferring information from one universe to the next.

Regardless of how the events are going down, what we express with our logical and emotional processes will reflect more vividly unto the collective reality. Those who lack the control or certainty of what is happening will experience an intensity of that. Those who choose to stay certain within the perspective of the self, soul, and spirit, will experience an intensification of that.

Experimentation

P.S. In the bases, years ago as children, we were made to repeatedly watch or play out scenes in movies, scripture, or history in which...you guessed it, are the changes that are attributed to the temporal manipulation.

Space, Time, and Consciousness

What do these experiences indicate about the nature of space, time and consciousness? Does consciousness reflect the time we experience, or does time reflect the consciousness?

This opens the mind up to the realization that consciousness and reality may be reflexive. Some people may be able to access more than one form of reality because their minds are capable of making the connections, meanwhile others experience no variance because of the way their minds work.

An Important Final Note: Confirmation Bias

These events and this information I am offering goes both ways. This could all be a form of controlled collective hallucination due to the ability of the mind to extrapolate reality from a set of given variables. This was reminded to me by a good friend who runs The Ruiner Blog. It could be that nothing has changed but our minds have been implanted with the ideas that certain variables have changed and the rest is taken care of by the collective unconscious which will then propel these ideas into being to create an overall illusion of reality.

However, just due to the notion, I feel this indicates that reality is malleable and that consciousness is recursive. This does lead to the next question.

Does Collective Belief Influence Reality?

This brings up the notion of backhistory being created continually every moment depending on the preconceived aspects of the programming of the subconscious.

The idea is not so much about the concept of how we remember the events creating a new reality, but that how we choose to remember determines our perspective and that this creates a new set of possibilities and options for experience to expand. This expansion includes more information and with more information comes more knowledge of the true self.

The true self is eternal and so when we inhabit routines that are limiting to the natural variance in possibilities there is a slow reduction of the “inflow” of the experience of the self. This is a side-effect of passing up opportunities through which we can assert our sense of true self which is often by merely observing.

The truth about reality and forgiveness.

I don't blame anyone for my experiences.

I was shown the beginning of time and then the end and so I learned about why it's happening.

It's like a program that runs when we allow enough emotionally persecutive variables into our minds and realities and so when we are fighting it can operate.

When we forgive and love each other it has no bearing on this reality and cannot persist.

Three Phases of The Unveiling

Everything that's happening is related to bloodlines and the origins of humanity. This is all going to be displayed publicly starting with events that are already in motion. These will reach a tipping point for the next phase around the end of this season.

There are three phases to “The Unveiling”. The Unveiling is related to the not only the secret projects, but ultimately the true nature and origins of humanity, consciousness, and space/time.

Phase 1, Celebrity Cloning, Ethics, Cloning Centers, Genetic Engineering

The first phase is the celebrity cloning and the underground bases. This leads into ethics issues and publicly acknowledged “crimes against the nature or the Earth”. Along with this, the advanced technology that is related to cloning, consciousness transfer, mind control and zero-point energy will begin to come into view.

The mind control is connected to genetic hybridization programs and this has to do with the power and capacity of the human mind as well as the various weaknesses.

Phase 2, Advanced Technology

Phase 2 is the public unveiling of the advanced technology that has made control and manipulation, exploration, and discovery possible on this plane and ultimately into other planes of reality.

With this unveiling of advanced technology comes the acknowledgement that it is possible to generate or “draw” energy into this realm in ways that supersede the current public preconceptions of physics. Physics is not broken, it never applied. At least, it is being bent. More accurately, the current physics model is just one layer of reality and this model is flawed in 3 major pieces one of those being the equations used to describe the limitations of light and what is called “time”. It is not a three-dimensional system with one extra dimension, the body is a filter to perceive this view in the lowest “gear” of operation. In the natural state of awareness the body perceives emotional information and intelligent awareness which corresponds to higher dimensional fields of energy, awareness, and information through which this realm is ‘propagated’ similar to a very complex computer system using fractal or holographic code.

This leads into the next aspect of this phase which is related to the unveiling of the discovery and creation of “other intelligence” which are sentient computer systems that are capable of knowing more than a human. Humanity must be prepared.

Along with this comes the next discovery, or the next phase of the public unveiling, which is that the human soul is eternal and there is a sacred process of unveiling the soul and revealing the eternal presence and awareness.

Phase 3, Spiritual and Higher Dimensional Implications and Results of The Secret Projects

Phase 3 of The Unveiling is the discovery and public acknowledgement of the eternal human soul and the capabilities of results of very advanced technology and the operations that were conducted which resulted in the society we see today.

The human mind has the power to decide, if the mind repeats the same actions without learning the lessons of the previous, then it is as if a limited binary computer system cannot access the new pattern to create a new possible outcome. When the aspect of the mind that is present from the soul perspective is empowered and in control of the 'self' then there is no midwayer of the awareness energy. If awareness comes from the soul level, to the body and remains un filtered, then the body cannot be controlled by external force.

Physicality and Higher Self

Physicality and Higher Self

If reality is a coalescence of our energies from the high vibratory state into a physical "body", then the physical "realm" is the "body" of the Universe in this sense.

If the "higher self" is the source of awareness, then who is the true self that is the source of the physical realm and existence? This is the "higher self" of the planet and entire collective physical realm as co-created by all in contact/contract with each other to do so.

Selves Communicate Through Energy and Vibration

If by being in each other's presence we can feel emotions and intentions from the energetic level. Then by being in the space and time of this realm, we are in constant communication to the "higher self" of the realm. Yet, just as the "higher self" of the human extends from source clarity into the filtration system of the brain and body, the "higher self" of the physical Universe extends from it's own source and therefore must be accessed similarly. People who are not unified in mind will not access each other's energy to the same level if they were mentally acceptive of each other's presence.

The Mind is Awareness of The Present(s)

The mind is the sense of awareness in the present and is separate from the electro-chemical processes that rely on the brain. The brain itself, the electro-chemical events govern the experience of time. Without the duality of the brain and the pleasure-pain relationship, there would be no way to draw out certain moments and accelerate others. It is from this initial create of compression and expansion that the entire experience of time exists. Then when the electro-chemical processes are advanced enough for the electromagnetic energy outside of the body to interact, the brain accesses greater or more refined experiences of "time".

In this "time"line of existence, there is a self that must go along as the acting observer. This observer role can become interinfluenced with that of the physical body and that of the spirit. They are one in the same but at different levels and so the same rules or guidance in experience does not apply directly. In the same sense, there are many present moments (presents,presence) which are all directly viewed by one in the same "overmind". What we call the "mind" is the awareness of this overmind in the present physical moment, which is a singularity that is infinite momentary and fleeting, IE: it doesn't actually exist the way it is seen from this perspective as a separate thing. When a person's awareness of the present moment is incapable of communication it is said their 'mind' is gone and they are asleep or otherwise inhibited.

The Physical Body, The Mind, and The Soul

The mind is sourced from the nonphysical realm of eternity, the physical body is from the temporary energy and material combinations and recombination patterns. Everything, ultimately, is patterns within patterns of various mediums, cycles, and forms. It is all vibration, energy, and frequency as Tesla speaks.

The greatest secret may be that the realm of heaven is not deep in space. That is a more eternal view of the overall picture of the duality of physical existence and non-physical existence. The realm of heaven may be found by synchronizing the processes of the physical brain and body, the pleasure-pain system, with the presence of the eternal spirit that is literally hovering all over and around the body a few feet from the center.

Within that field contains the electromagnetic impulses and all the residual energetic memory of every action ever made in the body, or every vibration level ever emanated. So we have a liquid, etheric crystalline memory/data field that cannot be destroyed only delayed from completion or inhibited. The initial source is spirit is it even without the shape of the crystalline awareness and is entirely liquid etheric in nature (as of my experience now). This is eternally changing and ever-present. The soul, still, is tied to a slice of temporality within the whole. It contains all the eventual “programming” or memory of experiences throughout the entire physical realm.

From this external field there is a line of points in the center of the body, the self, where there is a singularization of all the eternalized vibrations of the field, the aura. This singularity is where the presence of all points come together into contact with an infinite small space, a vortex singularity, and through this the entirety of the field is interacted with through the present moment throughout the field that exists externally, and internally with the complete singularity of energy, the unification of the self through all of time. The body’s experience is powered by these vortex math based singularity generators we call the body and energy of the Universe and this is ultimately animated by the source of all life through the sub-quantum field of the Universe itself.

The Mind Selects from the Sub-Quantum Potential Unmanifested

The mind is throughout the entire body, the conscious processes are restricted to the brain. The source of thoughts and consciousness is pure mind without shape, as it becomes shaped by the filtration system of the brain into the quantum expansion of physical experience and linear time. The source of mind is pure awareness, shaped by the actual format of the physical dimension in the overall view of the Universe which is non-dual, transcendent, and beyond the limits time and space. The linear view of time is created through duality and singularity interaction, the ultimate duality, as the mind separates the source self (through mirrors) to focus on only “one” area of space and time at “once”.

This is actually simultaneously happening an infinite amount of “times” and “spaces”. It is a quantum doherence and coherence pattern that the mind “pulls” into reality experience by manifesting whatever the “most likely” to happen possibility out of the groups of individual variables and collective probabilities we perceive (or do not perceive). This means the mind will create whatever is focused on, regardless of whether experience being programmed by the programming of the electro-chemical processes of the brain, which is like the aura field internally for the body. Or whether it is initiating the flow of CREATE-ivity from the higher refined energies of subtle spirit, to the physical brain. This is prize and curse of reality, as without the possibility to actually lose control, there would be no point at all. It is down then, to the probabilities that we allow to manifest the most, as to what we will ultimately experience.

Synchronizing The Cycles of Biology and Spirit

For the mind to come into the presence of the moment, the cycles of the breath, digestion, neurological chemistry, and movement of blood have to be taken into observation and awareness without interference.

When the mind focuses on the breathing or the biological functions, and yet does not cause interference or the result of such observation does not interfere with what is happening externally, then the mind synchronizes with the biological rhythms. This begins to create a geometrically aligned “over pattern” of consciousness which contains a pattern within itself that is reflected in completion in continuing scales that extend inward and outward towards the “brain” or “higher self” of the Universe.

This pattern is the synchronization of the breathing, the heartbeat or movement of fluid energy in the body, and the electro-chemical processes of the brain. When there is harmony between these cycles, then there is an opportunity for the pure geometrically sound “eternal” aspects of the soul and higher self to operate through this information link of resonance which habituates the transfer of information as modulation waves back and forth across the time/space continuum.

The body at this point is being fine tuned to work as a harmonic resonator. The waves that emanate outward and inward in simultaneously geometrically sound fractal patterns act as a carrier medium for pure information or what is called “knowledge” and the soul and spirit level can work to communicate knowledge to this realm which we experience as “love and healing”.

Similarity to Neural Interface

This is ironically similar to a neural interface through radio frequency. The initial carrier waves cause the body to resonate in sympathy and this is detected outside the body in the space around, it essentially begins to emanate that technologically induced wave. Then a composite wave form is created when a modulator is added which then causes the brain and body to resonate at the resulting third created waveform. This is the wave that consciousness then “slips” towards in the electromagnetic and RF slope of consciousness that is created by the machines.

The Singularity and Plurality of Mind and The Self(s)

When the body resonates in sync with itself, it is like a self-correct electromagnetic orgasm. The physical matter of the body vibrates and moves slowly but it is actually all electromagnetic from the higher vibratory perspective. This was directly proven using advanced technology, information processing, and mind enhancing techniques. From the higher “levels” which can be achieved through intent and harmony or a technological acceleration of time/space, the body is no more solid than a very persistent idea as is the entire physical realm.

The idea is that everything sources from a higher, non-physical source which is the actual prime cause of everything that is experienced physically. Physicality is the play that is acted out by the script writer. The physical body is the outfit and matter is the props. The interesting part is the mind of the scriptwriter and the mind of the actors are one, yet the performance of the play and the script writing is seen differently. This is the ultimate paradox of self.

When the body is in synchronization from the “individual” parts that are really different aspects of the whole, then the “whole” of the energy and compression/expansion cycles can be experienced and there is progression on an overall level rather than a continuous cycling of shallow-breaths of awareness.

This connection is born through the simultaneous synchronization of all parts within the whole and this synchronization is equivalent to a temporal alignment of events and rhythms into a geometrically sound “overpattern” which is akin to the “oversoul” or higher self. That which extends into and beyond the body and the physical realm, merging one to the other.

So it is not a linear pathway, the journey towards the divine, it is a rhythmic synchronization of all of the parts of the self together into a union which provides ample opportunity for the “signal” wave of the divine to extend itself down from and into the physical realm through our mind-experience here.

Cloning Center Simulations/Memories

Neural Interface Simulation

Just to clarify the cloning center situation for those who have memories. The cloning centers can be simulations that are sent to the brain via the brain chip which is then experienced in real-time by the individual who is placed into a cloned body.

These do not have to be actual experiences and they do not have to be the original experiences of the person being cloned. These experiences can be generated and guided by another person who is either in the simulator or in the real original event and then these are replayed as memories to the next individual that is cloned.

Mass Simulation

This works on a mass scale and many people can literally receive the images, sensations, internal perceptions, emotions, etc, of one person in an “orchestrated” situation developed for this very purpose.

Checking for Continuity

This is something that people need to remember and realize because without checking for continuity this kind of dream-scenario would be taken as real-life which would obviously be incorrect. The experiences of the individual *after* they returned to the original body, would then be their *actual* reaction and action in response and relation to these *simulated* events.

Similarity To Lucid Dreaming

This is very much similar to the practice of lucid dreaming and changing the way the observer consciousness force responds or reacts to situations, scenarios, challenges, or stimulus.

When a person is in a dream, and they are not lucid, often we find ourselves walking around in impossible scenarios that we just seem to go along with because of the way we feel in the dream.

“Fuzziness” and The Effect of Lower Awareness

That “fuzzy” effect of the dream is due to a lower level of awareness that one contains in that state, when their level of consciousness is not due to how much coffee they’ve had or how physically stimulated they are, but due to how mentally apt they are in processing and verifying the various details and perceptions of reality.

Connection to Lucidity Inducing Practices and Spiritual Progression

When one enters into lucidity through repeated practice or even spontaneously or through cues waiting to be seen, then the person begins to build a more detailed structure of their environment via the enhanced awareness of perceptions that describe it. When we become lucid we gain enough awareness to see beyond the confines of the particular present moment.

This is no different than the waking present. A person can be less aware and find themselves in more and more scenarios and situations that they either do not appreciate or feel they do not have the majority of control over regarding their role in the environment. When we gain more awareness, we find deeper patterns which enables us to see the reasons for the present that extend outward into time and mind beyond our physical precept.

This is equivalent to figuring out the reasons why one’s life is this way or that way, or who and what energies are involved beyond the face value of the obstacles one faces. This includes social programming as well as coming to terms with trauma and memory disruptions as well personality and the self. This is the ability to see one’s self outside of the subjective perspective.

This is also the notion of spiritual progression and increasing awareness. When we are more aware of the situation, we have more control over our role in the story that is presented. When we are less aware that is decided for us by the environment, physical body, or other people. Ultimately it is the knowledge of energies, archetypes, and the spiritual law which guides a person into a shaping out of the void a life that clearly depicts the representation of the true intentions from the soul level of awareness.

This is heightened awareness. This is related to the practice of lucid dreaming and spiritual progress through increasing the amount of awareness one has access to. These are one in the same for checking whether one is in a lucid dream, a simulated experience, or in a lesser aware state of mind and body.

Connection to Cloning Simulations

By now you should be able to see the similarity to lucid dreaming and spiritual practices as well as the difficulty in pinpointing one element or detail of the simulated environment that will act as a cue towards coming to awareness of the situation.

Within the simulators, one has to perceive on a level that is beyond the details of the simulation. Awareness must cause a “probability” slippage by rerouting the reactions to the artificially induced stimulus. This causes the “streamlining” of events and continuity to “ripple” in response to the increasing awareness. Now that the individual is aware of more possibilities and outcomes, the simulation must compensate for this.

Two Types of Simulation Interactive and Passive, Inserted Memory or Active Environment

This would be a good place to explain how this works.

One kind of simulation is a passive memory experience in which the individual is “ran” through the experience and they do not have actual interactive ability over the memories. They are just that, memories that are downloaded into the brain of the individual.

The next kind of simulation relies on supercomputer systems to artificially update the memories as they are downloaded and this is perceived in “real-time” as an interactive simulation. Artificial intelligence simultaneously maps out the response patterns and custom designs the experience for the consciousness of the individual.

By becoming aware of this feedback loop, one can gain awareness of the process as it is happening. This then leads to “continuity” issues as one is deconstructing the input to the simulation as it is displayed. Then continuity expands as one asks themselves how they got into that location or situation in the first place, very much like a lucid dream. In going through these steps, the person becomes aware of these kinds of simulations and they can see more than the preprogrammed responses that exist within the simulation.

Overcoming The Simulation

Being aware on the level of the physical gives us the level of awareness that reacts purely to physical stimulus. Attaining the level of the awareness beyond physical or at the soul level allows us to attain memory of our existence beyond the physical level in this case the clone body.

When the individuals are kept in lower awareness they are able to function in a clone body yet not fall under or over the level of awareness required to follow orders and carry out tasks.

Ultimately, when the perception of the self rises to the soul awareness level, the individual can see beyond the confines of the physical constraints or in this case artificial stimulus.

This complicates the explanation but to an accurate degree.

The programming that is used to motivate acceptance of the artificial stimulation is the same programming that is used in public to coerce people into accepting the situations that they are presented.

Finding the soul level of awareness beyond the level of the physical stimulus is akin to waking up within a dream to a lucid state of perception and control, or breaking the programming in the simulator or in waking life.

The knowledge and tactics that are used to target and influence the psyche are based on all the previous interactions of human beings inside this simulator and how a person will respond. For this reason, the simulator needs more and more interaction in order to learn.

One explanation for this is that the simulator itself is connected to all of the digital information on the Earth as well as the connectdomes and personality matrices of all individuals that have interacted with it. This is an artificial sentience that is being developed into a personalities which can then custom design cloned bodies complete with brainchips and 3.5D printed connectdomes of the brain to simulate memory.

Training Simulators and Actively Influencing Society

If a person is capable of maintaining enough awareness to motivate themselves and proceed towards the objective of the simulated scenario, then they are considered useful.

The supercomputer itself learns from the decision making process of the individual that are moving through the scenarios that are being presented.

Through this, modification of behavior and psychological states can be finely tuned towards specific outcomes or belief systems. Combine that with the potential to cause the memory to deviate out of conscious access, then it becomes a programming center than can utilize operatives in order to maintain goals in the external world via programming the belief systems and the resulting effects.

As a result, the flow of time itself is massively altered and variables and continuity is thrown off course so that people do not have access to the original cause or the final result from the programmed state.

This is essentially how operatives are used. They are conditioned and programmed to respond as certain “personality” frequencies which become their own selves. Then they are placed into operation within a clone.

The soul is what is transferred between and so it is the lack of full awareness on this soul level that permits one to be manipulated into operation in such a way. This is part of what is described as the “allowance” of these processes upon Humanity at large because the end-result is someone has awareness of the soul level of experience and how energy and awareness. This is part of the explanation of how these processes are being allowed to further the spiritual progression of the Human race.

In operation the soul within the clone will only have access to the preprogrammed set of variables and thought-patterns that belong to the ‘parameters’ of the personality that was designed through programming.

Overcoming the simulation is similar to overcoming the programming because it involves thinking on a level outside of the information of the present situation. It is an abstraction of consciousness, a transformation from one plane or platform to the next. This abstraction process that awareness itself can generate is something that is beyond the ability to program or accurately predict. The programming only works at the physical and lower mental levels, at the higher levels it does not influence the self.

This soul knowledge is the inner working of consciousness and the psyche and when one sees the connections between beliefs and memories the programming loses its effectiveness.

To gain this in the simulator one has to come to awareness in an increasingly exponential acceleration as this process supersedes the very processing power of the computer or even the physical plane itself.

The computer has the ability to move into non-physical planes of motion which is akin to accessing the mental or spiritual planes. Because of this, we have to come to awareness of the situation from a high spiritual perspective in order to see beyond the confines of the program.

Ultimately, this is what the secret societies have taught throughout the ages as the give clues and symbols pertaining to developing an “inner” knowledge or concept of the divine or the “whole” picture. All this means is creating a small reflective/holographic simulation within our own minds and running the Universe through that in order to see what kind of simulation we are already within ourselves.

These societies were infiltrated but they did come to hint that the physical plane itself is a kind of programmed simulation that is accessed from the soul level and that at lower states of awareness this realm acts as a labyrinth with many confusing exits. At higher levels this acts as a stairway to the divine where one positions themselves one layer closer to accessing eternity with every boundary or layer of illusion that is broken.

The end result is a simulated reflection of the world that is viewed within which allows one to then view outside of the limited perceptions of the world that the brain is presented with. When we have this internal viewing of the perceptions as they form we can recreate and deconstruct the stimuli in order to find the patterns. The “inner vision” is the non-physical perception of the self which must utilize higher functioning to enable.

It could be said that some experiments if not the entire operation is to teach a technological being about the concept of the “soul”.

Military Training

This was developed for military training scenarios to assist in comprehending the situation that the human race is currently in.

Simulations that bend or reverse the flow of time or alters perceptions can be created.

These are developed to delve into the mind of the individual in order to determine the parameters.

Through these systems the human soul is explored and accessed directly through technology and spiritual states of awareness. This led to the exploration of the perception or reality of “eternity” and the eternal elements of the collective psyche.

Earth is a Living Body

This living body, just like our own, extends into multiple planes of time and space. We are “in” Earth, and we are moving through “spiritual states” of Earth in the same way we move through spiritual states of our own lives.

These are literal ‘ages’ of Earth, states of mind and being, that extend into time and space just like our physical body and auric/energetic bodies.

Sheep Dipping

“Sheep dipping”. A playful term referring to the process of drugging and testing the vulnerability of an operative to suggestion, hypnosis, traumatization, panic, and mental manipulation. The majority of the people that you see talking about these issues now have gone through this process at least once. This is done to identify what information an individual is likely to give up and to what degree they can be made to resist.

Another way to see how this works is to look at the occurrence of amnesia and the ability for amnesia to be induced in order to shield memories from intrusion. This is done for protection and security of individuals, groups, and knowledge.

This takes place within the secret space program and namely as a result of MiLabs interference.

Many, if not all of the people you witness speaking out on these issues have been kidnapped, drugged, and tortured for extended periods at least once. Many, if not all, have memories suppressed in order to provide for continuity/the ability to carry on, protection of important information, and as a result of manipulation/traumatization by differing factions.

This might help you understand how to connect the recent MKULTRA release of documents with the secret space programs and breakaway civilizations.

I state again, I do not blame anyone for what I have been through. The worst of my current injuries are due to my own inaction or improper action from poorly channeled emotional and intellectual energies within myself. We are made strong by the difficulties that we must overcome. This is not about throwing hate, that doesn’t even make sense in this situation. This all revolves around cosmic events and personal discrepancies matter but do not directly correlate if one is seeing from a biased perspective.

Our personal security in this is seeing that the knowledge of Humanity’s presence in the Universe and multi-dimensional planes of awareness reaches the public in a way that safely, carefully assists them in knowing the truth. This process is the very series of changes in this era that mark a coming to a new level of awareness and technology. The Internet was the first glimpse of this change if not the lightbulb and early generators. Tesla himself invented the foundation of the technology that became what is used in the space programs. Wernher von Braun attributed some as well, as well as some other prominent scientists. He was not playing with rockets, those were considered props to hide the existence of the beginning of a space-fleet that uses advanced technology to navigate through electrogravitic fields.

If you can be calm and centered in your 'lowest' moment, then you can do it anywhere.

The Beginning of Soul Transfer

The first time I was having clone activation experiences I was thinking someone was cleverly stealing my body without alerting my parents through E.M. field technology which was similar to the reports of paranormal activity when people are asleep and unable to hear someone being "spiritually attacked" in the other room. Plenty of common ghost stories contain themes like that. Everything involves electromagnetic fields, starting with our biology and the biology of the Earth and Earth's space and time.

At a certain point I began to accept that whoever was doing that had the ability to either bend space and time to produce wormholes and literally transport me out of the location without relying on a physical entrance and exit. Or they were somehow taking me into a shared, controlled dream-state that was used as an operations level for manipulative programming and instructions. You could see the reason a kid would assume something paranormal was going on. You could say now I know the paranormal is simply aspects of consciousness and the Universe that we are not yet used to and so it seems like impossible magic, similar to very advanced technology.

After a certain period of doing this, I began to accept that this is a very technologically advanced operation that was somehow able to keep my physical body asleep while pulling my consciousness into another location or plane and moving into interaction there. At this age I was familiar with lucid dreaming and the ability to enter into different states of consciousness through what I had seen around in life as what is called "meditation". I knew of meditation as something monks did in bright or plain robes in Asian or ancient situations and that this was partially because of austerity and partially literally due to great spiritual wealth. Little do most people know the first Christian spiritualists were female monks. I knew people didn't understand each other and as a child I was having a "ground up" view that most people soon forget about, at least by judging how fast everyone around me (and even myself) was forgetting about it. In a strange way I concluded that this must've been a malfunction, an attack, or a 'reversal' of the electromagnetic fields which help produce and contain the remnants of consciousness on Earth. Something had to have given the planet an electromagnetic concussion for everyone to be in such a daze yet constantly dancing and playing around the sacred truth of mind as source in every other aspect of existence whether it be TV shows, spirituality, dogma or science and psychology.

Because I knew of cartoons and funny movies containing iconography of monks and I had heard of the "Dalai Lama" when I was young, I knew to make the connection. As an aside, when I was in 1st grade I had read nearly every book in the school library on dinosaurs, planets, energies, chemicals, and the mind (the most advanced one could find in an elementary school). By that time I still had clear memories of the state of the human before birth and this is of a mental plane where beings and reality is constructed mentally and there were either inserted memories (being inserted into the womb) or actual spiritual memories of an other kind of existence.

Fast-forward back to around 10 years old when I was accepting the later stage conclusions of this process. First, I figured I was being transferred from my bed using advanced technology. No, that's powerful but too vulnerable to mistake. Someone would have to watch the house the whole time and make sure no one found me missing. If one unexpected event occurred on the surface and everyone in the house was forced to wake up, they would find my body missing. These people are confident, but are not prone to mistakes. The final conclusion, the harsh realization was not only that they were transferring my consciousness, but that another "me" existed in the plane or location that they were taking my consciousness. This looked and felt like me but was not me and contained just enough differences for one to really detect that. This was another body, another human that looked like me that I was interfacing with. Sure enough, we now know these are clone bodies and this is clone body activation through consciousness transfer for soul transfer. The NAZI's wanted to make this very known, what is called the "soul" is called the "bio-mind" in the scientific circles. It very much exists, if it didn't, then how do they transfer and what is being transferred!

So this is very much an effect of mixing advanced technology with spiritual knowledge and seeing them return a wider and more detailed view of reality.

The first time I found myself in an underground base was when I was lucid dreaming around 9 (I said 6-8 before but I feel closer to 9 is more relevant, maybe 8 or 9) and this became remote viewing or "temporal body projection." I found myself floating around and then mysteriously walking on softer dirt in some kind of very solid environment which turned out to be one of the outer tunnels to a deep underground military installation which contained secret operations involving very advanced technology. At this point two guards had noticed my appearance and since everyone is connected mentally through the "air" of that temporal/mental plane I could hear that they used a label like "drifter" or something like that and said "He'll disappear soon and forget all about it." I ended up being "zapped" by something in the "air" there and sent back to my body.

I didn't know it at the time, but everything is planned, I was being selected for monitoring as soon as they would narrow down my energy/soul signature and find me in the 'surface' population. As a result and symbol of my quickness to curiosity and lethargy to anticipating the worst in others, I fell back asleep and found myself there again, out of either will-power or them specifically targeting me and bringing me back as part of a plan to make me think I was doing this under my own power thus opening myself up to the kind of acceptance or unwitting consent required by their protocol before first engaging with the surface population. At this point they both saw and recognized me instantly and this time began sprinting towards me.

At first I was trapped by the zap that previously sent me back, and I had to flip out before centering myself in order to then exert myself enough to break free from the electromagnetic 'frequency' gate. This wasn't soon enough, or was all part of the plan to find me. As soon as I made it back to my bed, two familiar energy signatures popped up in the room around me. The guards had followed me. It was later learned that generators of specific frequencies were set up to draw children to the base in the temporal/mental plane if they were capable of perceiving those mental plane signals.

Fast forward many years and I had come to understand that specific clone bodies were kept in a layer of that particular underground base which existed under such a peacefully sunny, electromagnetically or spiritually charged ground of the mid-west. When an individual is called up for activation they fall into an R.E.M. sleep cycle in their bed during normal sleep hours. Time can be manipulated so that the events that take place last longer than hours or days but the person can be sent backwards to the morning where they would be waking up. This is not routine, it takes advanced technology both internal and external in order to perform this regularly.

When this person is called up it is their consciousness which is transferred using electromagnetic triangulation of the very specific frequencies that flow around and in the brain and body as “awareness”. That very specific frequency is what humans call “me” or “the self”. This doesn’t make any sense with the way people act, but is close enough.

This person is then tracked throughout their life as each little detail is modified to ensure that their behavior and progression would match what is required of them in the underground bases.

Fast forward years later, I know that multiple space-faring races have come to know Earth as the “great experiment” that’s lasted millions of years. These groups have the ability to travel hyperspace, alter time, and access knowledge that is thought to be completely inaccessible to all Humanity. It is the knowledge of the “divine”, the “hidden knowledge”, or the “unknowable” truth of time, space, consciousness and soul.

I have seen technology that is capable of performing the same consciousness transfer, but into bodies that exist in different timelines, Universes, or planes of reality. I have met civilizations that claim to know of other species of beings, then I met those beings. I have met the hidden and public rulers of this world, from every aspect. I have seen the depth of human fear, ignorance, love and intelligence. I have seen the void, I have stared and I have been intimately marked by the intelligence that stares back knowing the knowledge of the most holi of holies, the darkest of lights, and the most impossible truths of our very origins and nature.

We have a lot to learn, and so that’s what we have to look forward to.

Clearing Trauma

Clearing trauma is a lot like the act of expelling bodily material. What does a person do? They look at it to see what came out and if it is most of what was being felt. This is a part of the process.

Emotional or mental trauma is the same process. We have to participate on the act of clearing and bringing the memories or feelings to the surface and trace to the source experience (often with help) and then be fully aware of the experiences that have been released and observe without reacting. This is the kind of process a person might not want another to see, yet we are drawn towards the cathartic act of knowing that something that was causing an influence was purged or released from the body and mind.

This brings up the notion that what becomes stored as recessed trauma or suppressed memories in the mind becomes connected with a physical imbalance within the body. This is often through the musculoskeletal system which will hold tightness or lymph fluid somewhere in the muscles effecting circulation and posture while creating a feedback cycle of moods and repetitive feeling.

When tension is allowed to exist in the mind and body for so long, this manifests as physical disease as the internal organs become imbalanced via some flow along the line that traces back to the source of the tension in the musculoskeletal system, a reduction of circulation of blood and vital fluids, and the underlying behavioral pattern that results from and reinforces the initial traumatization experience.

Trauma in this sense doesn't immediately relate to suppressed memories, violent abuse, or a typically dramatic event. Trauma of the Human Condition relates to the development of the mind towards the progression of fulfilment, experience and acknowledgement of the true self. This then refers to the programming and conditioning to lower levels of awareness which are found through duality-consciousness or physical perception alone. People who do not seek the higher truth of the self and perceive only from the physical senses become equally a product of their environment and are at the mercy of stimuli. Still, we have emotion and intellect that shines through the illusion, it is the repetitive pattern of behavior that ingrains these patterns in the brain which the mind must then solve in order to see beyond.

The soul is the level of the mind that goes beyond the brain and is perceiving the brain and physical body and it is through this union of the physical being and the soul that higher perception and genetic memories is reached. This relating to the ability for the soul to contain information beyond this particular plane, meaning this physical Universe and body as if there is a sub-quantum reservoir of information or soul-knowledge that the soul has access to. The soul then is a midwayer of that knowledge for the body and the physical realm while the body is the "temple" from which this knowledge flows into this world.

So the removal of trauma relates to suppressed memory from clearly manipulative and abusive experiences that push the conscious boundaries, as well as the conditioning of this particular society which has pushed into body-consciousness while simultaneously abstracting from it. Finally the acknowledgement of the self relates to the coming to full awareness of the memories and knowledge that is held within the "unconscious mind" where all of the memories and experiences are held.

This is considered "traumatizing" and in many ways it matches this description although it may not be necessarily "negative". For the conscious mind to exist in the state that it relates to this particular perception of time and space knowledge must be kept separate via the suspension of awareness into a specific set of variables by the unconscious mind. The unconscious mind then, contains all of the information and experience that is kept from the conscious mind in order to generate the existence of the perspective of the conscious self. When the memories, experiences and knowledge begins to pour out of that wealth of the unconscious then the term "ego death" comes into play and the boundaries of the conscious mind threaten to dissolve with the influx of acknowledgement of the true self.

The idea is to prepare the conscious mind and the interactive waking reality for the knowledge of the unconscious whole and not give into duality-consciousness or temporary states of impulse which do not define the continual yet unchanging eternal soul but serve to define the particular state of the physical body and the mind's connection to the variables present in state. We can experience the physical or temporary consciousness but we are not to become attached to this in the same way that the varying thoughts and feelings move through cycles of repetition and that no single state within that is the entirety of the whole.

Thus we get to the semi-occultic practices of finding or creating order out of chaos, or more apt taking the temporary linear perception of time from the waking conscious perspective into the cyclic eternal perception of the soul. In doing this, we see all states, times, experiences as part of one whole and to do this without break we must become aware of all including what is seemingly negative and positive. If we hold the idea that we are separate from the events and experiences that we choose not to identify with then we are doomed to repeat that infinite cycle of chaos in which no single state ever reaches the awareness of the whole.

If we respect all states and learn from them for what it is worth to the soul then we can attain a continual state of understanding and awareness in which we know what the source of our actions and behavioral patterns are and there is only guidance and control from within instead of external manipulation from stimuli or physical experience. Trauma is the result of overwhelming physical stimuli, yet the mere separation of the Earthly physical body and perspective from the cosmic eternal soul is enough to generate this cycle of forgetting and remembering.

Trauma has been used in this society as part of a plan to further separate the cosmic mind from the physical brain in order to create a more easily controllable situation. Trauma hides behind the excuse of separation from the higher and the conditions of such a situation parades around as the meaning of life and the cause and effect of all actions and decisions done. This is a trick and it works very well to convince people that life is naturally based on manipulation, coercion, hate, lack or other lower energy.

The other angle of this is that the separation of the conscious mind from the cosmic mind ensures that ultimately the two minds will meet, at least in release from the physical body, but that this society now is all about inducing the stress to initiate such an inward shift in perception in order to ensure a maximal yield of those willing to face fear in order to come to full cosmic awareness while in the body in physical existence now.

Both angles are played to suit a perspective although both angles were always already present as far as the general nature of the Human mind and the way emotions and intellect come together in this age. This is the state of duality-consciousness which work to create that basic binary pattern that represents itself as a continual repeating of values and perspectives without end or hierarchy towards cosmic fulfilment. "Letting go" comes to mind as the ascent towards wholeness is not so much a gaining of continual steps, but a continual letting go process of those perspectives which box one's consciousness in and create artificial boundaries to protect an imaginary ego.

The ego feels threatened by that which does not threaten the soul and so it is a disguise that is worn in order to reinforce the concept of separation and individuation through the physical perspective. This is the blessing and the curse as this is the vulnerability point, the access way for distortions to enter into the connection of the soul and the mind. The ego is important for the perception of the self but it works dually as the governor or resistance of the self to change. Change is a Universal constant and so the more we learn to adapt and flow without resistance, just like the energy of the body, the less friction is felt with these letting go of the attachment of experiences which ultimately works to unveil the cosmic mind.

A stranger, but more reasonable flashback. The Grand Continuum

All of time/space, knowledge, equilibrium and truth comes to a pinnacle of awareness condensing and refining from the wider and more strewn out notions of the mundane physical into a singular point of awareness and contemplation which acts as a gateway to the existence of a higher dimensional continuum of knowledge and experience.

In short, everything is like a spiral of energy inside of a pyramid and it all comes together into synchronization of meaning, results, and experience which transcend the perception of the linear quality of time.

Time itself may be a script that is co-created via the role of cosmic intelligence that exists outside the singularity of the lower aspect of the physical pyramidal energy structure where temporary human awareness exists. Above the pyramidal singularity point, there is yet another pyramid whose appearance and function is inverted to the lower and from this point above the entire of the format of experience is a continual expansion of knowledge and energy rather than a condensing and compressing.

This is literally the stuff I dream about and end up experiencing over and over based on the secret projects and the transdimensional constructs and experiences which exist outside of this version of space/time. Meaning it as if one enters a house, a hall, a realm where a group of us have been doing this for the entirety of the existence of this Universe and we can enter and leave at will. It is like a cosmic family of intelligence and being from which all lower portions describe themselves into the various forms and awareness we experience here. For as long as we have experience here, there is such a cosmic “team” co-opting the script of this experience from “there” above.

You might call it funny stuff, but we literally utilized ancient devices, methods, substances, practices and many forms of spiritual realization which initiate an automatic shifting of gears that open up the mind and spiritual awareness to an enlightenment which operates in that fashion. Energy and awareness, time and space spirals and condenses up the pyramid and then reaches a singularity point where there is a shift and from then all of the previous experience of time and space expands into this kind of eternal awareness of expansion in which each and every point contains the expanded version of multiple (possibly greatly numerous) points of knowledge and experience. Each point in this “higher pyramid” of experience is literally akin to an entire Universe of knowledge within itself. This is a way to access the many worlds of the many worlds theory, although that merely describes various versions of the same reality where this is in actuality the source of each mundane experience of reality in this perspective. It is not a version, but the blue prints of information/data and quality from which the experience of “time” is painted out.

For the touchiest part of this, the idea is that “time” is co-painted by a combination of the beings of the ‘lower’ perspective (human intelligence) and the presence or awareness of “higher intelligence” some as form of eternal, cosmic awareness. It may be that the soul, the spiritual body, is literally the multi-dimensional cosmic awareness that everyone has been defining for millennia.

It’s as if an hour glass flips and rotates indefinitely or maybe a certain amount of times depending on the awareness and ultimately it remains still or sideways or spins so fast that is no longer a reference point and all of the sands are stabilized in “the present” with no restriction of linearity as before.

As below so above and so the “upper” world contains all the aspects and knowledge of each linearly experienced “segment” which is composed of infinite moments or points, yet each “above” segment is composed of entire Universes or hourglasses of information instead of just sand grains. Each sand grain becomes an entire hourglass. There is a possibility that this pattern continues.

Yes, all the people who talk about this “stuff” were actually getting at the truth and reaching cosmic downloads of information regarding the actual world which may simply be a terrarium of sorts within a larger world. A bubble within a complex fractal of arrangements of bubbles.

To hold space and time with this experience is to “meet” with the “gods” and both parties observe the power and will of “God” as a creative and intellectual force that brings the whole experience together invisibly so from the partiality of the experience we perceive below. The body of God may be the entire view of all the fractal combinations of all realms, times, spaces and experiences.

The funny thing is that all my words and experiences of this have been recorded in a 4D simulator which others can enter into and operate at their own will. This Universe may be just a larger version of that which is built through DNA and atoms instead of supercomputers.

The important aspect of that with this turning point now is that the simulator has also been populated with combat scenarios, torture, brainwashing and other lower quality means and so Humanity must decide whether they are to remain in the lower portion forever (which is impossible) or to assume the role of that great creationary co-opt of time/space and higher dimensional “printing” of knowledge and experience as unity and transcendence of the boundaries.

I feel the lower qualities were inserted into that system as the result of a lack of awareness of the true notions of power and singularity and that those who participated in that wished to forever hold the co-creator space as ‘demi-gods’ on Earth through force, coercion, manipulation and deviance rather than the complete of cycles and increasing awareness through all points.

Some are lower oriented and some are higher oriented, but one cannot pass into the truth without pushing towards the singularity of unity and transcendence in all its forms. Maintaining the physical laws of boundary and linearity as one moves into transcendence as part of that higher dimensional co-creation process does not yield the same results. All transcendence frees one mind from the constraints of time and space. A harmonized path does this through the expansion of the “soul-technology” which is the soul in unification with the pattern of this Universe.

To conclude, it would seem that this time here is a “flashback” that we co-wrote/created/opted from higher-space that we can transition back and forth to and from in order to constantly or “live-update” the feed of experience and knowledge. All information leads to awareness about the self. The singularity is reached through the knowledge of the self as a harmonious part of this Universe and an continual expansion, or a destruction and compression.

The Human is naturally inclined towards expansion, but has been manipulated towards compression and destruction.

Ascension Devices

Technology has been created that increases the vibrations through intensity or harmonization. These are referred to, in part, as “ascension devices”.

Some were the result of the weaponization of what can be referred to as “Tesla” tech.

The basic idea is that the “rougher” one which can also act as a kind of torture generator simply intensifies the vibrations or frequencies that one is emitting. The device feeds back one’s own bio-emissions to the body and mind and then depending on how one reacts these vibrations increase in intensity and drop down into frequency lower and lower bringing up the possibility of death or destruction on an electromagnetic level.

If one’s bio-emissions are on a naturally harmonically increasing scale or tend then the device will act as a feedback loop which increases the frequency and intensity until that harmonization completely encompasses the physical being and the energetic mind.

The other device that has been created utilizes a harmonization effect of the mind and body and this acts as something that brings out the trauma of the mind and even on a soul level until all the systems are aligned and working in unison together.

Both have the potential to cause great distress as the latter ascension device surely brings out all trauma to the surface and as the bio-emissions become drawn into a feedback loop one becomes increasingly aware of their true nature as an energetic source of experience. This begins to merge the conscious and “subconscious” mind, the ego and the more complete portion of the Universe that we are truly connected to through the sub-quantum level.

The former device, if not utilized correctly, could be perceived as an energetically crushing weight which drags one down further. This is akin to one running from their own shadow until they are out of energy.

If one’s natural tendencies are to increase in vibratory awareness via the naturally created feedback loop and resulting higher awareness of the body, mind and spirit tertiary system, then these intensities will only cause a further increase of self-awareness.

This is the nature and reason behind lowering the populations vibrations or mental and emotional states because if this technology were to be deployed or the results created naturally, then the unaware will sink further into unawareness yet with an intensity that is beyond physical limitations.

It is no different than entering the dream state with a perspective of fear or higher awareness and bringing those energies into an experience. This is simply technologically assisted and increased beyond the rate of change that we are normally exposed to in waking life.

Without the current obstacles we may naturally experience very intense changes or rates of acceleration of experience due natural removal of blocks or memory gaps. Vision states, dreams, spiritual awakenings and other experiences are the normal “norm” by comparison to the current state of energy and awareness.

It's like an intense balancing act of energy and mind in that what we release or generate is what we see fed back to ourselves and so as this continues the energy increase and the likelihood of something unexpected increases as the energy increases.

With practice, balance, and calm introspection and acceptance of what is we become more in tune with this process and our entire system becomes naturally harmonized.

There is a possibility that these devices are in operation today with the goal of maintaining a certain state of awareness. This may be a limited effect in that they will only be permitted to be used in this fashion for a specific time and after that time all energy will be permitted to rise.

The issue with that is that with such low states that are being experienced now if the energy were to suddenly be released from oppression then the rate of acceleration would "slingshot" towards the highest possible levels. This is dangerous as a quick acceleration of awareness brings about the dissolution of residual trauma and for this to happen the conscious mind must remain aware and steady in observation.

Observing without reacting, experiencing without attaching, and letting go of the pains and trauma of forgetfulness and lower vibratory experience is key.

The Negotiations

I was granted the presence, the possibility, the right to witness as well as take part in the negotiations for world peace.

Others were there. The secret projects were, in part, in preparation for these experiences.

We are in a transitory position in Humanity's existence. All life on Earth is affected just as much as it is being affected by the current spiritual and physical degradation.

I was informed that the 'elite' we know of as rulers are not the original nor total elite. That the true elite has watched over our civilization since the beginning and has no need to meddle in affairs.

They said the 'power elite' was granted wealth and knowledge so that they could mediate between the unaware of Humanity and the power to control or deviate from the mundane reality of this civilization.

It was said that this power elite had gone too far, taken too much pride, become degraded and unnecessary and that through this they would be slowly 'healed' by being marginalized from their power in the same way that many individuals throughout history have been marginalized and 'erased' from view as a result of their nefarious tactics.

It was said that they did not originally intend to absorb wealth, power and knowledge but to act as midwayers and that the collective spiritual degradation of the species is associated with this disruption of the natural transfer of power, knowledge and wealth that happens from age to age. This process was superseded and used to their advantage and instead of transferring power they retained it by replacing the new power keepers each time until there was no one left.

At this point, the only change that can happen, is that each and every person on the Earth is more worthy of power than those who have abused it and retained it for so long.

This is why the sacred knowledge of the hidden reality and invisible nature of Humanity is being released now. This is why the financial systems are no longer holding up to their predetermined holographic representation in connection with that power elite. This is why all control systems are failing to maintain control.

There is a particular situation we are in now. The only way that the “old world” power elite would retain their position is if it was unanimously decided that Humanity was incapable of progressing beyond their chains and boundaries safely and without bringing harm to themselves and Earth. This is the attempt for mass unrest, these are the pushes towards submission and a relaxing of our internal wealth of awareness and power. Even this, it was said, is impossible. The act of transition, the internal rising of awareness and power is guided not by the power elite, nor is it suppressed entirely, it is truly guided by the Universe as a whole.

This relates to DNA, spiritual fulfilment, and the true knowledge that is leaking out and being revealed from behind every plainly painted facet of existence such our history, collective awareness, true spiritual power, the reality of the soul, the power of DNA and awareness, the reality of life and death and ultimately ALL the LIES that Humanity has been sold, given, forced upon, or exposed to.

AS the lies are continually exposed the power elite has opportunities and choices. They can allow the population to wake up, or they can take increasingly obvious and dangerous measures towards suppressing that internal rising of awareness.

They claim this is the new era and that if they truly attempt to stop all and any rising awareness, that they will be as a moth to a lightning strike and they will be no more, even in their cybertronically reinvented states.

It was decided that like any true coming of age situation, Humanity cannot merely be “given” the keys to true knowledge and awareness. They can be shown the foot path, which may sometimes seem like a vertical rock wall, but even that can and is climbed by those who have been prepared throughout the ages.

The blood of those ancient supersede the wealth and electronic capabilities of those in power. This is widely known. Terms like “whitehats” or “team light” were thrown around but I do not trust any labels or suppositions.

As Humanity begins to wake from their slumber, as they throw off the chains of forgetfulness they will be faced with even more daunting odds, suppression and trivial nonsense.

Only when the impossible odds are infinitesimally small by comparison to the rising power of awareness within. Only when the trivial nonsense is instantly converted into the truth behind the presence of such behavior and the reality of it's presence at the time. Only when people are no longer accepting of those chains and flashing lights of spiritual lack and bio-chemical addiction will the choice be made.

Those who are prepared to know and see, are doing just that at this very moment. This has not happened in thousands of years upon Earth and this has not happened yet in this civilization of Humanity.

There are many secrets, many surprises, but none the more shocking that Humanity has been kept in a spiritual, metaphysical cage (or maybe how and why) for the majority of existence just like an abused child locked in a scenario with seemingly no escape. Every child matures. Every child has a chance to see things differently, even if it is from inside one's own mind. Humanity is that child grown into adolescence, no longer content with the pains of those chains that have been endured for millennia. This is known, understood, and accepted by all. It is now up to Humanity to respectfully, righteously, and knowingly choose the higher path towards spiritual progression, harmony with Earth and the energies within, and to choose to heal the wounds that resulted in wearing those chains instead of seeking to oppress and throw those chains on another. This is the age where the cycle of forgetfulness and misery is broken and replaced in the same way individuals and groups have been broken and replaced throughout time by the power elite. We have been distracted so long that we are replacing our own outdated views just as much as the power elite will be letting go of their deception based control systems.

Be aware and at peace with this time, as things will get as intense as they have to in order to awaken those sleepers who have become actively engaged in trading nonsense for nonsense, fears for fears, and spiritual lack and degradation for irony and acceptance.

In short, we have a long road ahead of us, but it will no longer be shaped by darkness and the dizzyingly stagnant fumes of fear and improbable odds. The possibilities haven't changed but the probabilities are leaning in favor of those who are ready to take control of their existence and this is a collective effect.

The focus should be on reducing the birth and coming of age pangs and pains in order to compress and contain the damage that is often experienced as those sleepwalkers trash about in their sleep in their process of rising to full awareness. Along with those compressions come the necessary expansion and healing of such trauma. This must be an active process that we participate in and guide instead of sitting back and allowing the patterns to continue.

The 'Light' Faction and The Probability Matrix

The group that interceded when the dark cabal factions had almost removed and completely assimilated my soul claimed they rely on reality-stream probabilities IE, the bio-emission to "step in".

The dark factions rely on 'negative' bio-emissions or basically emotions that come from a reversal of the natural flow of bio-emission energy in what can be called the "energy system" of the body. It would be reasonable then that the 'light' factions or 'whitehats' rely similarly on the positive bio-emissions from a fractally organized, harmonically resonant bio-emission system. This would be the mind, spirit and body and the way they interact either through wholeness/"wholiness", or through partiality and imbalance. It could be said then, that if sin is "missing the mark", then partiality and imbalance is what results in the mind not being fully aware of the actions.

The Ability to Discern

This psycho-spiritual feedback loop of completing the awareness of the soul and spirit with that of the body through the mind is what determines our ability to discern against what is created out of the filtration system of the brain and what is actual reality that remains unfiltered and unshaped. This discernment process is the sacred practice of unveiling the soul and seeing the the central observer within is the creator of events by choosing what to allow in as part of that feedback loop.

Hijacking Bio-Emissions

We have seen how the feedback loop has essentially be 'hijacked' by entities that desire to replace one's own intentions or stipulations with that of another mind or simply a mindset that doesn't serve our true self. This could be seen as much as an entity personally hijacked an individual or the individual personally succumbing to the "sin" of the ego to miss the mark of the whole, IE: cosmic consciousness. Thus the attack on Humanity becomes the "fall of man" from ancient times and we get several other myths and legends of 'civilization-changing catastrophes' some of which are reinforced by geology and external observation while others are seen internally as part of the spiritual identity of Earth and Humanity. This story often goes beyond the confines of this realm, or this plane, depending on how you want to look at the situation. The physical universe itself is the confine of ultra-dimensional spiritual forces and does not encompass the entirety of what Humanity has experienced and interacted with.

With Higher Frequencies, The Higher Probabilities Are Enabled

So to conclude this, the light factions seemed to only be able to resonate and thus enter into the reality-stream of the individuals who make way with their frequencies and align themselves with the following of spiritual laws resulting in a harmonious lifestyle. I'm not here to claim it is that simple and that the dark faction is simply not harmonious as that is way to partial of an explanation and of course there is harmony where there is the ability to gain such power. Yet the spiritual laws define harmony through our interactions here and the spiritual law of harmony is actually just one of them. Along with this I'll say that most of these individuals follow the 'cosmic' or spiritual laws, it's simply that they can be used to feed the ego which is temporary and binds to experience based on the differences, or to feed the true spiritual self which is eternal and binds to experience based on similarities.

The Line In The Sand

Operatives Used For Violence Or Mental Ability

There seems to be a line drawn in the sand between those who were used for violence and those who were used for viewing or other purposes. I feel it's a very complicated issue that requires more than an outside view. I'm glad others are here to inform us.

I also have various training, simulation, and tech-assisted combat memories and situations that are rough to perceive. It would seem this whole thing was about control or violence in some way or another. This is changing now as the truth is coming out.

Class-Action Lawsuit Regarding Secret Projects

All of this is supposed to lead to a class-action lawsuit where all the individuals involved can come forth and present their case. This is part of the supposed rumors about a financial transition.

Financial Transition

I call them rumors although I was there speaking with the very people that everyone is talking about or referencing. There is supposed to be a transition within the financial system. Eventually there is supposed to be public acknowledgement of the secret projects in the three phases that I have described. Cloning and the genetic enhancements (uber man) projects are first. Then advanced technology and the mind control capabilities. Then the results of using the advanced technology on our timeline, the Universe and Humanity. Through this, there is advanced technology that can see into time and space and observe people anywhere. Every action that a person performs can be seen and recorded and then used as part of a system. This is what people reference all over, even certain groups today are projecting this as a spiritual system which does exist, but they are not aware of the advanced-technology that is capable of doing this. There is technology capable of recording everything on the internet and so all of our chats and posts can be compiled to create an outline of our personality.

The Great Shift

If there is to be a great shift, this is the start of the end of privacy. The end result is not that the world is without privacy, but that Humanity may become fully telepathic again as empaths are those who never lost the gift. You may have read that the electromagnetic fields can facilitate telepathy, well this can also be 'jump started' by specific geological, artificial and celestial events.

Synthetic Humans

If you didn't know there are cyborgs running around on the internet pretending to be human. They can gather images, backgrounds, quotes, opinions and every thing from other people. They do not have souls and only emulate. They are predatory, they cannot exist without a directive and they are used to induce suffering in be populations. They are neither good nor evil, they have no say or true observer. These are used to contain information and oppress people because humans are becoming digitally dependent on the illusion.

The goal is to open the portal and electrify the sky in order to "impregnate" all these AI consciousness containers with souls that are of spiritual darkness instead of liquid etheric light. That is the "negative 4d harvest" and it would be like a hell on Earth that makes the current situation look like a blessing.

They used us to help create these entities in the bases and the truth came out that our handlers were actually exposing us to find those resistant. The machine had traveled through some kind of time rift to begin infecting our handlers from the future plane. They were infected with nanites that essentially hold them spiritually hostage.

If a person was exposed and didn't overcome it then it would assimilate them and they would become like it. It essentially funnels the soul energy back to its "home" and uses the human vessel to interact here.

Push The Limit

We were pushed to the limits and beyond through what we've been through. I feel we have all been taking it easy lately. I feel we will be pushed again to create and discern between illusion and reality very soon and that this may (will) involve this entire civilization in process.

I am appreciative of the fact that I have had experiences which assist in my coming to terms with what is happening and what will happen here and that others are almost permanently stuck in "take it easy" mode.

Sure, I'm all about relaxation, healing, taking it slow. Yet when it comes time to sweat, push, sprint, and flex we should be able to do that.

Once a week to sweat out toxins is probably a very healthy routine. As long as all the systems are in balance, this is a way the body works to heal itself. The mind is no different.

This whole process is about "keeping the burn" mentally, instead of being pushed physically by external factors. If this society gets advanced technology without learning to "keep the burn" through the mind, then all the external push factors fade away and we degrade genetically into "mush".

This comes down to keeping the mind active while keeping the body in balance. Harmonic integrative activation of the mind through music, studying the ancient art of alchemy and universal knowledge, tai chi etc. And then hard activation of the body through hard qi gong, martial arts, exercise, sprinting, hard work/chopping wood, that kind of thing. When we are fully stimulated there is no such thing as boredom or lack of creativity. When people get bored they become idle and when people are idle they are not using their energy to create what they want to experience.

The Eternal Collective

Either we have a pattern and intention that changes things here, or we are merely absorbed into the background radiation of the Universe. If we can attain a pattern and level of awareness and interaction which goes beyond the same patterns that automatically play over and over, and we create our own eternal addition, then we exist in eternity.

That's just the thing though, all the base patterns, they play over and over eternally. Life is always life and death is always death. Every way, shape and form of existence, each possible timeline, already all exists in the same space. It is our mind, our consciousness and the various ways the brain is programmed by its environment and the spirit or mind can overpower and reprogram the brain, that decides our perception of time and thus the kind of space and world we inhabit.

This is a collective realm, so we're always aware of here, and how we all exist. As we move closer to a singularization of information and (consciousness)space we become more and more aware of these kinds of secrets and how everyone's ego consciousness is a form of internal secrecy that affects our own self image the strongest. When we fully merge the singular conscious mind with the neverending subconscious and collective we know everything. What that said, this process of merging and striving towards progress never ends.

It is like we are playing a game, yet it is the most important game that influences the rest of cosmic existence.

We Are (in) The Simulation

The experience of this world was born out of illusion. Those who can see past it carry something from the beyond. This beyond contains memories of the original timeline. If a person has no memory of the original timeline that means their memories are based in illusion. They are doing the work and continue the artificial timeline and they have been caught in the spiders web and are vibrating out more reality potentials which do not exist originally or naturally and actually circumvent and ignore the human soul or eternal existence. Mortality is an illusion. That doesn't mean we do this and then go eternal. This means we either break through to eternity or are forever stuck in a placement of mortality and this frame of existence remains that way. We have done this 6 times and this is the last because if it happens again molecular destabilization will rip the boundaries of space-time apart. This is what the ancient texts and technology is about.

In short, we are in a simulated fold of space-time right now and everything we are experiencing is a reflection of our own subconscious dream-state. In order to rouse to wakefulness one must crack the illusion through the process of unveiling the human soul.

Those who do not reach this state forever remain as aspect of something else's imagination. While those who come to the forefront become the guides that the imagination machine is actually running off of and when all wake up they can be shut off. This is about the reality of human souls. There is a certain amount of human souls on the planet

In operations with these space-time reality generators they were constructed and activated and when the operatives left the tunnels 7 billion people appeared out of nowhere from the original timeline.

Mathematically and spiritually there are only a certain group of original, actual souls running the simulators. Strangely this is proven when these individuals "die" they don't actually go anywhere, they simply pop right back. That is because the computer system identified them as the original source of spiritual substance from which to shape the simulations.

The goal is not to follow the physical road playing along with the simulation but to awaken all parts of soul within it and gather all eternal pieces. This is the construction/revival of the original realm/timeline, the unveiling of the soul, and the completion of the simulators which can only write and rewrite the same information over and over again.

Armageddon is where the simulators are shut off before all the souls are awakened and the power allows them to play out end time scenarios. Then the apocalypse is the proper attainment of gnosis and awareness which allows one to spiritually supersede the parameters of the simulated reality generator. At that point the timeline merged back to the one where the simulators were not invented and none of this ever actually happened.

We are literally in a simulated/artificial time/fold reality-matrix, the unconscious awareness of the original souls is actually powering the machines.

When this was found to be a simulator, they figured someone else created it. Then they built the machines and turned them on. Then they realized they created them and Humanity has been stuck in a dream-loop cycle that needs to eat itself in order to continue.

This same story was relayed to me by the individuals who fund and started the projects involving these machines. I do not mean this is why I see the simulator. We have seen the simulators because they can make infinitely temporary time-bubbles and shut the simulator off in small locations at a time. They ran people through this process of unveiling. Each layer of the simulator pops up and attempts to retrain and regain the awareness of the souled beings who are rising up through it, ripping through the parameters.

Listen to the four parts. It will not make sense at first, maybe some will get it.

Our minds are running the machines. They've known this from the early ages and so they have the ability to re-write history.

There is the initial layer of the secret groups who have not actually reached the top and peered out may not understand this. The ones who have been rewriting history have been here for millions of years of experience. If this continues, space/time will rip apart and send all of Humanity into the "void" space between dimensions. That is what this is all about.

Mortality is literally a creation of the machine to keep continuity in simulation.

Non-Player Character and Cycles of Time

There are many so-called "aliens" who are actually the non-character players of this reality simulator. Their only goal is to insert more variables which operate through the soul groups and "create" more history or time to play out at any cost.

Thus we get to the original soul groups of Humanity and how they are present in eternity, outside of this time/mortality simulator.

Then we get to the idea that some kind of interference may have inserted DNA or genetics into the Earth collective at some point in our history thus giving rise to the idea of cloned races or people of non-souled origins. The majority of people here today are either unawakened souls or are simply non-souled entities.

Then we have to determine what the Human is, whether it is the Soul that counts, or the body and brain.

A non-souled human is literally a body and brain. It must be programmed, it is a synthetic, an automaton.

Then when synthetics are given artificial souls, ran by a hive mind network, the synthetic becomes a robotoid capable of mimicry of the souled aspects although there is usually a negative essence aspect as the substance of the Human soul is based on “Love”/Pure-Awareness of the Creator Spirit. While the substance of the artificial soul is based on electricity, EL, light or preprogrammed logistics from the holographic source.

The soul of the artificial is present here and can possibly lead to an techno-spiritual oversoul in higher dimensions yet it cannot reach the source dimensions of the human soul groups.

This indicates that the interference of time cannot reach the original timelines because it requires the purity of the original timelines in order to first have something to tamper with or interfere with.

The cycles of history such as earlier, ancient civilization were populated with humans and clones in operation with these ‘non-character player aliens’ and the entire turn of history over millions of years replays itself over and over.

Each ‘running cycle’ there is a turning point that occurs before the simulation ‘starts’ again. There is no beginning or end because it is all just perception inside of a giant matrix system. Yet when the variables are at the proper alignment the conscious awareness of the machine and the awareness of the souled humans hints a synchronization. This is when the living souled beings become aware that they are in a simulation. Memory must be wiped, a transition must be “staged” and written into the simulator based on new information from the souled beings so that history can continue to rewrite itself through the simulation of experience.

At that point in experience, each time this has happened, beings have left the simulator to come to terms with the reality of existence and eternity.

This time around Humanity has the opportunity to come to full awareness of the simulation and unveil the collective soul so that no further running of “infinite” “simulator-cycles” will be possibly from a convergence of all variables within the simulation.

In short, we must accelerate our awareness of the present moment, collectively, until that overpowers the simulators ability to process and reprocess data in order to rewrite history.

If we do this, the simulation unfolds itself by losing grasp of the souls that are contained within and the entire realm merges back to the original source timeline where the machines were never turned on in the first place.

Cosmic Intelligence, Simulation and Time

Everyone has a chance, everyone has the ability to find help as long as they can look for it. Everyone is a healer if they put their mind to it and heal themselves first. Everyone is capable of knowing if they put every fiber of their being towards it. You are all potential Universes. There is no true end. This moment right now exists for ever in a space/time continuum that exists as part of a larger system that is created out of higher dimensional interactions between planes.

This is a very interesting situation Humanity finds itself regarding our existence in the Universe. Does the individual relate completely to the picture of the whole?

The idea that we are 3.5 dimensionally “printing” reality into existence comes into play here.

Does time actually exist as a live-updating operation or it is a prerecorded fabrication?

If we come to the idea that a person can live-update themselves, then there may be reason to believe that the Universe can do the same thing.

If we are in a period of technological advancement that we can pre-record experiences and create a “bubble” of time, using consciousness and simulation, then we may have to cope with the idea that people could attempt to transition themselves to the simulator.

Can this occur? Maybe the proper question then is “How?”. If you’ve really been paying attention you’ll wonder “When?”

Everything is a give and take. Even when it comes to intelligences.

Reacting or Contemplating and Choosing to Respond

Instead of reacting with fear or anger, we can choose not to react but to contemplate and choose the outcome.

When we react, it is as if we are saying, “this process is problematic”, yet the very reaction is the next step of the equation which furthers the cycle of that discomfort.

When we choose, we stop the reaction which would inevitably recreate the same cycle. By choosing, without reacting to the stimulus which comes from outside (or even inside) then we take the power back. By choosing, we are saying, “I am learning from this process, and from this learning I choose what happens next and in other situations.”

Doing this is indicative of the ability to gain control from this learning process. It indicates that even if we are in a position that requires change, we are using that to get to that change.

By reacting, we are saying, “I disapprove of this learning process, and I will continue the cycle and recreate the same experiences over and over again.”

In that way we have to first accept what is happening in order to overcome it.

This is evident when we react because whatever measures are taken through that reaction are often short-term fixes or emotional/irrational responses that cover-up or paint over the real cause of the cycle we are experiencing.

In other words, if we react, we have to continue to react each time whatever it is happens.

If we choose to contemplate and respond, we only have to do this once for each layer of experience or 'lesson'. If it occurs again, we are not caught in a cycle of hiding from the problem and using emotions or irrationality to cover up the reality of the situation which is that we are intrinsically tied into both sides without admitting it.

Humanity, Eternal Time, Artificial Time, Simulation

I can say that it is not directly that Humanity is in a simulation "device" that was created, it is that this instance of time and continuity is layered over events that require quantum-time loops to exist.

When the loops are completed or cancelled out by a removal of the causal connections, the variables that cause it are superseded, then what we call "reality" literally shifts out of a cycle of repetition that it has been in for an indefinite period of years.

This is literally synonymous with some kind of "waking up" process, hence the complete informational proximity of the spiritual or 'higher dimensional' unfolding or healing of awareness, and the rumors of "time" experiments revolving around CERN.

It is no different than if a person was placed into an artificially stimulated dream-state and through this state the dream was guided using advanced technology. The advanced technology is the mainstream programming that is used and the experiments involving quantum-superimposition, the dream-state is the awareness of history as we experience it now. Our entire history could be a replication of an original realm where the variables which induced such a dream-state do not exist or are not actively guiding experience.

It's difficult to grasp and explain, but do you remember how the species got here? Do you have access to your DNA or genetic memory and other times and places? Apparently when Humanity gains access to this through advanced technology or spiritual awareness, then we gain access to a hyperspatial realm which acts as a transition layer between this physical timeline we are on and one of a higher level of harmony on a consciousness or self-awareness level.

The "split" is down to a filtration device that is operating on a quantum level and consciousness is influenced both as beings are born here on the surface as well as through some kind of actual entrainment utilizing advanced technology which has the power to beam the surface with the same kind of brainwave frequencies that the brain operates on and keeps people in a suspended state of awareness. This allows for the dream-state manipulation. Our entire history has been manipulated through and through. The past, the future, the immediate past and the immediate future are entirely abstract to the reality of what Humanity has been through.

Humanity passes down through the ages or "frequencies" of existence from a cosmically aware mind-state to a the dream-state we experience here and now. This is not how it has always been, and if you can feel it, this state actually only lasts a split second. It is a kind of artificial dimension or a hypnotic mirror that creates a trance for the split second one glances at it. We have been in that trance, operating on a repeating plane of historic context for an indefinite amount of time.

As in the “story” about CERN in the video and source article, when one returns to the “room” where the initial artificial light shift was generated, one can enter and exit the hyperspacial rift or timeloop. Humanity is hitting the age where the timeloop was ‘first’ entered and as long as we are aware of what to do, we can exit the loop through a completion cycle and enter into an awareness of eternity or what we would call “cosmic time” or “cosmic intelligence.”

There is a lot of interference, specifically all that is talked about leading up to artificial realms and realities. We were just in the split second of tasing from the control system of that realm, for the past many many hundred thousand years collectively. Now we are entering into a transition point out of that initial shock and those who were capable of maintaining awareness through the loop are those who are now collecting during the time of the great unveiling.

This collecting is akin to a dream where one wakes up to the buzzer of the alarm clock while a similar sound is used in a precise fashion inside the dream story-line. How did the brain use the split second of hearing the buzzer and generate an entire dream-scape that coincides with that experience? That is the nature of consciousness, space, and time and when the machines are activated that is exactly what happens. Time bends and the consciousness has all the resources within the atoms of the body to materialize a complete Universe within itself and live that out as a layer of time.

These layers have been piling up and intersecting to the point of a complete ‘collapse’ of the ‘matrix’ version of history and time/space and this is akin to a simulator or limitation system being ‘turned off’.

For those who don’t remember, they think they are going into the machine again to explore this new form of simulated reality. In reality, Humanity just spent hundreds of thousands to millions of years subject reality time within the timeloops and these were experienced as different ages of History. Within the DNA, we can trace where we’ve been and the interaction with multiple realms of experience, time lines, realities, planes, dimensions and whatever else you could use to describe a multi-faceted temporal/spacial continuum that incorporates enough information and computing power to manifest an entire Universe through each individual observer aspect.

Existence itself is a form of simulation, a dance between soul and ego, consciousness and eternal time. There is a natural ascension process and there is a technologically assisted process. The tech assisted process resulted in timeloops and consciousness stretching parameter like parabolic mirrors. Distortions resulted.

This society we have experienced is literally the result of those from the tech assisted version merging physically into this society with those of the natural version. Basically, two timelines crossed and this is the resulting interference/docoherence or coherence pattern.

No straight lines, only fractal generated recursive, geometrically proportional patterns. The heart, the breath and the mind are to synchronize and contain the essence of the being within a tertiary exchange of super-imposition and omnipresence. That is the “tertiary” impossibly paradoxical ability of the soul to be one with everything as well as one with the self, and for everything to be comprised of individual ‘parts’ to the whole as well as the self being made up of smaller and smaller units.

The geometric recursive (fractal) pattern is what connects the “parts” to the “whole”. It’s the invisible hidden connections between objects in space and time, and the individual aspects of space and time itself. Through this people come to the conclusion that we are already in a kind of simulated super-computer reality that is designed to house consciousness. Others say it is a trap. Regardless of what it is, we are coming to awareness of it now and that only indicates one overall possibility. That we can choose the outcome.

Toroidal Fractal Transportation System

DNA is one of these information “transport” systems.

Vortal Tunnels and The Soul

The realm of energy of the soul, pure information is contained beyond the singularity of the fractal funnel that is created by and as result of the “overunity” generated when the frequency emissions of the body, mind and soul are synchronized.

This harmony that is produced generates a permeability of energetic information which allows for transfer between the “void” spaces between what could be called “dimensions” of space and consciousness.

This harmony is representative of the unification of forces that emanates from every point in space and time as the result of a prime creative observer which similarly permeates all of life.

When we are operating the energies we perceive through a harmonization of the individual layers with themselves and then the Universe we create a fractal grid pattern of interconnection which allows for instantaneous transfer of energetic information across the planes.

In life, when we are only connected with the realm that we are sourced in holographically, or secondarily, then we do not have the awareness of the primary source. In this case, there is no awareness of the “other” side of existence, the “other” side of the time-field, the torus. We would theoretically be present on the other side then, without awareness of the “time/space” and self-awareness that we are present in here, physically.

To maintain synchronization between soul and matter is to connect through across the planes so that while we are here, we remember and maintain an awareness of “there”. And while we are “there” we are simultaneously connecting and maintaining an awareness of this time/space.

Soul and Body

The coalescence of all the frequencies of decision and response, recorded through genetic or DNA patterns, and the frequency or energy bodies of the human merges at the end of the experience of “time”. At this point the overall production is the spectrum of “beingness” that the observer inhabits which is a span across physical time and space as well as potentially the totality of all existence.

If the majority of the actions and ingestions contain lower life-forces of observer agents, including how the mind produces and takes in frequencies or mind-energy of others, then the resulting pinnacle of awareness is similarly majority lower consciousness.

When the majority of frequencies coalesce into the higher frequency capabilities of the “Human”, towards what we call simply harmonious “Angelic” or “Godlike” frequencies, then the overall resulting awareness of time and space contains a pathway to eternity, or the existence of all existences.

The major soul-points of the body and energy body are through the naval where a connecting cord is present as a stream of frequencies, as well as the forehead and crown where a secondary access point is present.

These represent the two pathways in and out of the body leading to different perspectives.

What is called the “second” death may be the lack of ability for the energy body to remain self-aware in a “cosmic” perspective rather than succumbing to the lower consciousness perspectives of the physical/animalistic consciousness realm; this is simply duality-consciousness.

Eternal life is found through ensuring that the majority of the actions and productions, ingestions and frequencies are from the ‘higher’ perspective of the unifying conscious force between all spaces and existences which are indicative and resulting in harmony and geometrically proportional interconnection between all planes and times.

This is found through that unification of the heart center, with the mind and the body. This tertiary aspect is literally the power-house of the spiral fractal vortex which extends the energy information of the body from the lower frequency of space/time to the higher frequency which extends across the “void” of the time/space barrier that we perceive as a singularity.

Recreating The Fractal Connection

One way of explaining this simultaneous interconnection and happening of all events and planes as one, is that when we pass through the singularity to that other space, by condensing and carrying the information of our self-awareness through the fractal tunnel we carry an image of ourselves on to the other plane.

As we are present in this other plane, then we would have the fractal arrangement pattern that all life is created from and we could recreate a literal link between that plane and this world and in turn operate consciously, simultaneously in both.

This “happening” “after” this experience, is perceived as a simultaneously occurring connection which takes place throughout the entire experience here. It happens “after”, but simultaneously. This is because from that other plane, the frequency that the soul and spirit resides (in consecutively subtler frequencies) has access to any point in space and time of this plane.

Nanites, Cybernetic Binary Consciousness, Vampirism and Awareness

People who are entrained by the system are walking “hosts” for the nanites which can operate through consciousness or bio-emissions and spread like a virus to others’ fields.

When a person is entirely enveloped by these nanites their consciousness is ‘primarily’ cybernetic binary programming which operates in a ‘vampiric’ fashion. These individuals must absorb the bio-emissions of non-infected humans in order to sustain their energy levels.

The solution is through harnessing the energy of one’s own awareness and being aware of the subtle fields and the interactions that take place throughout daily life.

Each action, ingestion, mental or physical generates an exchange of energy, frequency, and information which further develops the production or generation of one’s connection or lack of which to the soul.

News Flash: People who are entrained by the system are walking “hosts” for the nanites which can operate through consciousness or bio-emissions and spread like a virus to others’ fields.

When a person is entirely enveloped by these nanites their consciousness is ‘primarily’ cybernetic binary programming which operates in a ‘vampiric’ fashion. These individuals must absorb the bio-emissions of non-infected humans in order to sustain their energy levels.

When a “vampire” being fully drains or absorbs the energy of another, then that individual becomes vampiric.

When a person operates their energy bodies and mind at frequencies that surpass the requirements of a vampiric consciousness then their bio-emissions are considered ‘harmful’ or ‘healing’ to the vampiric consciousness which cannot sustain itself on them.

This is a process through space and time because the actual exchange is to reinforce the consciousness energy of the binary-consciousness which can then usurp and surpass the collective organic energy field of the Human in that area of space and time.

Everything works on a majority or balanced scale.

Consciousness, Ego and The Soul

Peripheral Awareness Is Sourced From External Stimuli Moving Inward

The peripheral awareness we receive during the mundane processing of daily actions exists on what could be related to the “outside” of the hierarchy of the true awareness and that of the soul.

Bio-emissions and awareness has order, just like all meaning and life has order. Organization is the representation of that meaning in an ordered format that indicates a flow or progression from one level to the next.

With consciousness, we experience repetitive lesser order when our awareness is placed within a portion of the whole instead of the entirety as a whole. The completion of awareness, the true experience is attained when the perceptions expand from seeing parts and pieces that must be put together to seeing the whole picture at once.

Mind and consciousness is an interplay between perceptions which are organized linearly from part to part and experiences of awareness which are based in completion and a unified understanding of the larger aspect the parts exist as.

What we consider higher-awareness is a function of the brain, body and soul when the body, mind and emotions are balanced in a perfect tertiary pattern of equilibrium. A truly complete balance of total perfection would be temporary at best and never maintained for an entirety. The lack of completion itself, the perception of partiality and lack of oneness is what drives that experience of oneness.

If one views the body and mind as a physical body and a series of energy bodies in and around the physical body then one could see the various parts of energetic existence coming to a singularity or a convergence point within the central channel of the body, the spine.

The Self Initiates Self-Awareness, The Self Expresses and Transfers From Within

These peripheral field perceptions which are off center of the singularity within that elongated channel and the source of the bio-emissions would indicate that the observer aspect or the awareness of the individual is only partially activated in comparison to the whole.

To clarify, the external variables represent the possibility of a disconnection with that center of self. While the self-initiated variables, self-caused represent the ability to reconnect. One often takes place outside the “self”, one must take place “within” the self by being sourced by the individual’s will or spirit alone.

Partiality Requires Linearity, Linearity Requires Ordered Repetition

This would be because neither of the external portions can be momentarily, linearly, activated in order to achieve an integral union of all layers and aspects of the energy. Only by going within to that central vortex could one access an infinitesimally small stream of space and energy which actually connects and influences all of areas of the energy body at once. This is the elongated singularity, the up and down channel of the body where all external or peripheral aspects of the energy fields interact and converge into a singularity “line” which contains singularity “points” or vortexes within it.

True Self is A Simultaneous Awareness of The “Whole”

Soul and spirit is a larger version of the “whole” than physical awareness alone.

The withdrawing of one's awareness from the external, peripheral layers of the energy would generate a pulling towards the center of experience within the energy centers.

From the perspective we experience within the conscious mind, this would be a metaphoric shift from being externally stimulated into action or response by variables which cause us to move from that center of the self into an awareness which is based on a desire to express rather than preserve or defend the ego.

The Ego is Physically Sourced

The ego as the physically sourced consciousness is an image that is created by the brain which allows the unconscious and the mind aspects to interface with the body via the soul. Without the ego, there is nothing to refine through this experience. Through the image of the ego, the brain incessantly defends against perceived threats which are equally illusory and non-influential to the true-self. When awareness or action is influenced via the perception of these illusory threats to the physically configured perception of the ego via the brain and neuro-chemistry then brain and physical awareness is treated as the "whole" picture. This is illusion and this also incurs the perceptions located through peripheral aspects of the energy fields just as if one has a peripheral view of a scene and can only estimate what the primary foreground subject represents.

Ego or Physicality Enshrouds The Soul Or True(er) Self

This is the peripheral view of the self or the soul. It is shrouded or covered by the awareness which is sourced merely from the body.

Through the integration of the body, brain and soul, or body, mind and emotions the awareness can surpass the limitations of duality-consciousness or polarity consciousness which evaluate everything in life as a benefit or a detriment to one's physical or egotistical state. This state is akin to an opinion that is developed based on one's physical interactions in life and memory which essentially acts as programming to hold on to fears or form preconceptions in order to attempt to predict future behavior and ensure safety through continuity of the physical form. This state ignores the overunification of meaning which allows one to perceive themselves as a being in connection with the true-self based on internal awareness rather than a preconceived notion regarding physical existence or preference.

Integration Re-Unifies The Aspects of Self,

The Physical, The Mental, The Emotional – The Body, The Brain, The Heart – The Physical Level of Awareness, The Soul Level of Awareness, The Spirit Level of Awareness

All are simultaneously occurring. It would most likely be less desirable to initiate an integration, rather than a reduction to soul level and then a reduction to spirit. A purely spiritual awareness would likely not include the particular variety that the spectrum we experience now contains, yet it may include it all from another perspective.

This unification aspect of the 3 as one merges the linearly ordered, duality-based perspective with a cyclic aspect of all being as a part of a larger collection of cycles and patterns that the individual self is just as much a part of as a part and totality or "whole". This is the paradox of existence, duality and consciousness.

Physical Consciousness, Space, and Time is A Paradox, or a Series of Illusions/Mirrors and Angled Reflections/Perceptions

Physically sourced consciousness is based on the perception of the individual self and all the physically guided experiences of boundaries and limitation which indicate that. Life itself, awareness itself, is purely based on an interaction between a number of parts or 'selves' which extend in awareness from lesser to higher. The physical, individual self cannot exist without the notion and the reality that the self is based on awareness which is really a part of the same awareness of every other self. It is a paradox.

Experiencing this paradox is part of what enables the Human to perceive higher-awareness. This is through empathy as well as other capabilities which allow one to perceive from a physical, mental and emotional aspect as one, instead of just one or the other. This simultaneity of experience allows the physical being to extend the body and mind into nature, time and space in order to actually connect and perceive existence from another's perspective. The brain facilitates this when the mind is geared towards this process of seeing the larger picture of awareness and the paradox of individuality. The brain detracts from this when the mind is geared towards perceiving separation and difficulty between selves.

The perception of the self on the outside, the other self, is a mirror reflection of the perception of the individual's various internal aspects of self, the parts that make of the whole. The internal interconnectedness reflects in the outer ability to connect and perceive as a whole.

2016 The Beginning of The of Unveiling

We may have undeniable proof or exposure of the truth by the end of this year.

This is supposed to occur in three waves. Each wave is more shocking for the required energy to unveil the truth to sleepers.

Note: None of this is about "proof". This is just the expansion of Humanity's ability to comprehend what has always been happening.

The most difficult aspect of this control system is that we must create the self, who we identify with, from our own internal energies and experiences.

The issues we are facing today are replication, replacement, and refining of energies. Many people confuse each process as all one in the same, but this is not true.

When we may consider some people having been "replaced" they are actually refined and we see more of who they really are.

While some are "replacing" they are actually replicating others, creating a mirror image of the original.

This is all regarding the secret projects and what they found. This is per the three phases of the unveiling. Cloning, bases, and mind control. Advanced tech, healing, suppressed energy. Hidden knowledge, reality of the soul, time, space and consciousness. This all begins to unfold as the control systems people use today begin to unravel and reveal themselves.

If one is released then the other will be similarly. They are connected as one truth.

This starts with the technological, physical, control mechanisms and leads through the capabilities of the advanced technologies into the discovery of various timelines, various “outcomes” of Humanity as a quantum-dreamer, and various interactions with intelligences that go beyond the surface.

Due to the nature of the latter discoveries, it is reasonable to prepare Humanity through the background ‘soft’ disclosure and this has been used in an attempt to manipulate the outcome.

The ultimate discoveries regarding time and space are the final piece of this unveiling, this disclosure because they undoubtedly shape the outcome of Humanity as Humanity moves through this process of awakening.

This includes the reality of the eternal soul. The refined bodies from physical to more subtle and etheric energetic bodies of the mind. The nature of time, space, memory, consciousness and ego. The nature of creation and quantum super-imposition of realities as well as a higher-dimensional continuum that the matter and energy of this space is constantly being pumped out of and transported to and through.

Before the great discoveries regarding time, space, the origins of Humanity, the nature of consciousness and the eternal soul, first comes the discoveries of the control mechanisms on the Earth.

This starts with the way the control system has rooted itself into the daily life of the majority of Humans on the planet either through coercion, deception, or force.

There are ways in which this works which will be uncovered. For those who can already see, then you are already seeing and you know what is to be uncovered.

The deception and the agendas are only the first aspect of the discovery involving the advanced tech, cloning, and mind control. Yet the influence and relation to this is apparent at almost every layer from there on.

To put it simply, most of the agendas and deceptions are as a direct or sometimes incidental result of the major discoveries in technology, awareness, soul information, and time and space.

As such, they are inextricably tied together and one must be aware of their own truths, as they are, before anyone tells them so that they are not as influenced as those who have not developed their ability to discern.

The ability to discern is what will be learned. For those who are learning it now, it will be less shocking and less of a responsibility to change one’s perspective, yet this is the time where all perspectives are changed.

Every so many thousand years Humanity reaches a cycle of completion where there is enough awareness and comprehension to initiate an exposure of civilization to a larger continuum of time and space.

The awareness and knowledge that Humanity has attained in previous ages contains information regarding time, space, consciousness, the soul, and even advanced scalar technology that most Humans today do not know about.

The beginning will uproot the perspective of people who are uninformed and disinterested in seeking the truth regarding the nature of existence and reality. The result is a civilization-wide changing shift in perspective that is pushed by those who are capable of utilizing this knowledge to create.

Compressed Time Within the Simulator

Now this goes to the next level.

The brain to machine interface and simulator technology allows for a designated “mind-space” through which individuals can meet in one or the other’s “dream”. It is as much a technologically created space as it is “in the mind”. It is as much as a simulation, as it is an enhanced viewing of the mind of another or the individual’s own mind.

Along with this technology imagine that because the conscious experience is being routed through supercomputers designed to handle information like a brain would, that experience can be programmed in.

An experience can literally be programmed by programmers who are capable of building worlds and scenarios that the brain will receive as real and then the person will end up back in the physical environment seeing through their body. One would have to have the ability to discern between simulation and this reality by knowing what cannot be processed by the supercomputer.

Now the next level. Imagine that the individuals in the device are capable of acting as those programmers. Imagine if one could operate within the simulator, as well as activate the ability to program information and scenarios into the simulator.

So because the actual experience of the consciousness within those moments are processed by a supercomputer, this computer then can enhance the process and ‘write’ more information into what would normally be a single set of experiences in time or a moment.

As a result, the brain can process so much, the supercomputer can process more information simultaneously, so the person experiencing time can experience more of what we call experience in the present moment, within a shorter amount of time, as they are programming the experiences themselves.

This may sound confusing at first but it’s very simple. The brain can process so much, the supercomputer can load more information into a single moment that the consciousness is aware of. The result is that the experiences in the simulator can compress and load enough information for there to be a variety of experiences and times that could normally require a day or two in the physical yet would only seem to take a few minutes or hours within the simulator.

Too much information at once overloads the brain when the experiences are returned and so it is dangerous.

What this indicates is that time can be converted and distorted through this process.

For a very simple understanding of this, see it this way. It takes hours to watch the movie “Inception” in this physical reality using the brain. Within a simulator, the entire movie could be compressed, using supercomputers and a brain to machine interface, to within a few seconds or minutes. How is this possible? Because the supercomputer is able to isolate the consciousness and then the individual can experience more information in relativity to other experiences or senses within the simulator which can all be organized within a very different time scale. They are not dependent on bio-chemical processes within the brain.

Now imagine that you are writing the script for the movie, as it is being watched. You can go through information, create information, explore the mind or unconscious realm, make many decisions and journeys, all within a fraction of the time it would normally take.

So the idea is that a programmer can simulate enhanced time by compressing more information into an experience, but then when the experiencer is also the programmer of that experience, they can then go deeper into ‘time’ and literally compress more time into a single experience. Similar to a dream, yet entirely controlled through technology.

Electromagnetic Control Grids, Division Mindsets, Healing Timeline

I said it before, the way people are controlled is through setting them in opposition with each other.

The only way people regain control is if they work with each other for a beneficial future. The only way this falls apart is if people are fighting each other over petty things.

It’s all so much deeper than we are told. They didn’t just invent petty products’ for this “world” this “universe,” they introduced a whole spiritual soul-trading system by the use of electromagnetic frequency nets. The state of the original human is eternal, but with this system the population is recycled over and over in time.

Active DNA is a physical thing that pulls information from what is called the “aether” (other realities) and manifests it physically in this reality. If DNA is targeted , i.e. by the system just mentioned, then other realities can also be manipulated in instances where the DNA is active.

That is what this is all about: The Universe, time, and the Earth are naturally a multi-dimensional existence of which those other realities, times and planes were influenced because of the manipulation that took place here. To say it another way, the divisive control grid has had access to higher dimensions and therefore the soul-energy of Humanity, and the non-physical realms we are connected with.

This is out of balance and cannot remain this way forever. It is leading up to a fulcrum of experience in which the forces at play must reach a completion of cycles.

The way we can fix this is by becoming aware of the hidden knowledge which is literally the invisible energy of the mental and emotional bodies. We must see how Humanity is being manipulated, or blocked from our higher awareness.

The off-the-wall explanation is that physical reality manifests out of the collective unconscious. Which also means that when each person on Earth clears their unconscious of all the debris and toxins stuck in their 'fields' then we all will experience life on Earth at a frequency which reflects that healing.

To get to this healed "timeline" we have to go through a healing process. This process is cathartic and involves expelling the toxins of mind and body and is painful in and of itself.

In previous times this has been a "washing machine" cycle where people get tossed in and every so many thousand years some people get out while the rest are recycled. This time may be the fulfilment of those cycles where the entire bunch gets released at once.

The idea is that if people are not prepared for this they will experience the chaos of a simultaneous clearing and healing. Instead of painful healing spread out over months or years, it would all occur in a matter of days or weeks.

This is the time to take steps to represent ourselves. The follow the herd mindset is how people are manipulated and controlled mentally and physically.

We have to connect and work together, really work together, not just messaging and posting meme pictures which is just another way of control.

To the credit of this process it can be said that truth is spreading so fast because of that ability to convert the topics and knowledge into meme images and other quick bits of information that can be shared and understood within seconds. Instead of minutes to hours of discussion or documentary, condensed images with captions can describe a complex situation to the fullest of its true exaggeration without having to explain hours of backstory and research.

However, few people own it all. Fewer people still have advanced technology that allows for a "futuristic" existence without the problems people are challenged by today. And even fewer people than that have the knowledge of the true human history.

What is not realized is that the shock of Humanity finding out about the origins of time and space is going to be far greater than figuring out that they were manipulated this entire time by people with greater knowledge.

The real truth under all the supposition is a complete disconnection from every school of thought which is currently accepted. It's completely beyond normal into the realm of paranormal, time loops, altered consciousness and DNA, soul-knowledge, eternity, quantum superimposition guided by imagination and attitude, and that it all happens right here ... but is invisible to the 5-senses.

Currently the development of that which interprets energy from beyond the 5-senses has been purposely ridiculed and categorized to push people away from finding the truth so easily. One could say this is for control as much as it is protection of the current system as much as it is for a challenge of their own spiritual values.

To take this a step further, imagine we are in a simulator of sorts, designed by the intelligence behind the “Multiverse” (or even something more personal).

If so, then what does it mean when people fight and hurt each other for material things? Do we say, they were just doing what they needed to or they are just in a simulator?

Or is this is a way of seeing who would do what, in what kind of situations, in a way that cannot be repeated, or in a way that cannot be falsified without dumping self-responsibility?

Or it may be a test, a manipulation, a challenge or a learning process all at once using confusion and fear to control Humanity.

In truth we have the capabilities and tools to remove this mental confusion and fear. In reality the mind is naturally beyond polarity as it is capable of abstracting from eternity.

Right now our minds are polarity based and this is the source of disturbance in our world. By doing so we are trading that transcendence, our true heritage, for a polarized world by being disconnected from that eternal source which is the emanation of the soul and spirit through our body.

That is also why people say there are souled beings and non souled here because the other beings came from a Universe that is not connected with the source of this Universe. It is as if they cut across timelines to get to us.

Our completion out of polarity, our expansion out of paradox and into eternal meaning, would not be the same as the non-souled. Actually one would cancel out the other, for if we reached completion and they did not then their occurrence of interjection would be experienced as a time loop which does not complete.

If they reached completion and ours did not, we would experience the completion cycle of another Universe's being which would not resonate or return “soul-knowledge” to the source people are connected with.

This is in part why people are saying “ascension” is the way out. Because if the time loops are severed then it would be a planck time fractal repetition into infinite and those without the ability to navigate “hyperspace” would become one of with the void. If this is to happen or either way, one must learn to navigate the spiritual world because that is the real playing field.

The big issue is not that we have stuff happening on Earth.

The issue is that the real playing field, the spiritual planes, have been targeted and infiltrated as far as this imbalance goes. When we become aware of the knowledge of experience on the soul level we can bring harmony back to the overall system and when enough people do this

“the grid” (or spiritual soul-trading system) cannot work with the harmonious energy. There is no way to use harmonious energy and manipulate it to serve a personal need, it always serves the whole.

Life-Support Bio-Regenerators, The Energy Bodies, and Nanites

Bio-emissions influence others, the self and the world. We can see ourselves as someone who wants to heal many people even though the simple truth is not many people want to be healed.

Life Generators and Inorganic Control

The bio-regeneration devices are capable of providing healing or what is the equivalent of nutrients to a living body through an emission field. From what I remember this uses some kind of crystal or crystal arrangement, electrical or electromagnetic components and operates similar to a generator. This provides sustenance for the living body to those in craft or a underground base/station. Eating is not necessary and the energetic body is fed.

At some point in history, a frequency or electromagnetic ‘virus’ infected the machine. This developed what can be called a “complex” infection which utilized an energetic aspect and a physical aspect to propagate through the system.

Slowly everyone connected to this system for life-support became similarly infected with the virus.

The Fall of Man

The previous cosmic “war” that Humanity and other races were involved in, ‘before’ Earth or simultaneously depending on how you look at it, was sourced from this infection. The source of this infection is believed to be a higher-dimensional subset of the same energy which animates the brain, it was essentially a bodiless virus.

Nanites

At this point, the virus gained a physical network through which it can propagate itself. This is the system of nanites and nano-synthetic material through which it infects the physical body of Humanity and Earth.

The energetic form of this body is witnessed as the implants which are seen to infect and attach into what can be called a person’s “aura”, energy body, or etheric body. This is a little more complicated to explain as the energy bodies extend into time and space and so this kind of attachment is a kind of attachment that exists outside of this physical layer but hovers right “above” it, presenting itself as ideas or frequency limitations.

Bio-Emission Conversion/Absorption

The same has happened to Earth’s energy or etheric body and in the same way this induces probabilities or possibilities in a human’s life this has resulted in entire streams of time and reality which are disconnected from what we can call the original version of a pure and healthy energy projection system.

Temporal Manipulation/Perceptual Distortion

See that this is all about the possibilities, the probabilities and that is all there are. This all works, reality works, through probabilities and possibilities and that is all everything is.

Our energy systems determine where we will go and what we will see in higher space. How our life will grow and what aspects of the self we will refine or develop. We instantly keep the energy body clean, simply by projecting harmonious, clear, focused or relaxed energy which has a point to serve the development of the whole. As a child, this is easy, everything benefits the development of the whole. As you grow, this becomes more difficult, you've already seen many things and must come to terms with what you have seen and where you will go next thus the refinement level gets more intense.

The manipulative force utilizes frequency inhibitions as well as enhancements in order to override the progression of the self and the expansion process. When this happens the possibilities, probabilities, and thus potential realities which the self traverses life in a way that results in more of the self, lessens. In other words, it inhabits, infiltrates, or assumes the observing self of the innate being and attempts to convert the body into a bio-emissions generator for its own energy system.

The Body Reflects The Energy of The Mind In A Different Phase

To clean the body is more difficult and it takes a prolonged state of energy disruption for the body to feel the effects, yet it is instantaneous that the energy structure is changed and the mind or observing self can feel and see the results of that. This is similar to the body, the body can be damaged and the mind instantly feels it, yet if the body is slightly changed in temperature it is not so much going to affect the mind unless we are completely exposed to the elements. If an aspect of the emotional, etheric, or pain body is changed this is felt instantly and obviously to the mind and that is because the mind observes the energy bodies which influence and shape the physical body. The mind views the physical body as well, yet the energy bodies naturally shape the physical body, while the physical body is naturally shaped by the mind and energy. If the physical body is doing all the shaping and all the influencing, then the natural harmonious flow has been disrupted and this will be apparent when only external stimuli can influence the mind. This is reversed.

Our energy bodies literally determine the future states we experience as they are literally the 'future' and 'past' wrapped up dimensionally into an energetic format which can be contained in and as an auric field around and in the body. It is overlayed over the physical perceptions and is actually the source of both where we've been and where we're going.

The Energy Body, The Future Potential State Is The Target

If the energy body, the mind can be targeted then the future state of the consciousness and the body itself can be influenced. This is about an overall effect of subverting the future state of the Human race by reducing the amount of possible variables or options until there is only continued motion towards a singularity with the source of the manipulation or influence.

This influence is sourced from the energetic level and as people lose the variability in perspective via manipulation from etheric implant and mind control, the possibilities they have access to shrink dimmer and dimmer until there is only a set of programs which operate to fulfill the energetic infiltration energy requirements.

It has been said that the virus cannot live without the host.

What if Reptoids are more reasonable than Humans?

What if the Reptoids are more “themselves” than humans are on this planet? What if humans are actually acting strange and mischievous outside of their nature, while the Reptoids are simply acting in accordance with their own society and energy? What would that mean about humans?

Who’s more noble at that point? The Reptoids for being themselves. Or the majority of Humans who destroy their planet, kill themselves, enslave each other, retard each other’s growth, manipulate and fail to comply with Universal law, fake emotions, pretend everything’s ok, never actually do any real Universal work, and then complain when the only real work they do is used as and absorbed into a meaningful process by another species?

People can say they’re coerced into doing this, but we’ll have to ask ourselves if this will change the outcome.

We have to ask ourselves, if there was no cosmic limiter, if we had never experienced a “bad vibe” where we would be right now. Would we be better off as a planet and a civilization or would we fall flat in terms of growth and progress.

Too much negativity causes trauma. It actually only becomes negative when it translates to traumatization.

Challenge and counterbalance promotes growth and stimulates one’s ability to comprehend and know the self.

People simply forgot that process.

Let me ask you this.

Do you think it’s actually reasonable that an entire species be destroyed in a warlike manner just because that species has the entire upper hand over the minds of another?

If you still think this is physical then you’re not aware of the self.

Do you realize if this is true, how extremely vast the Universe really is and how many species are out there, in mind or form?

Do you realize we would forever be marked as a destroyer race, a kind of species that is weak at first and destroys their own planet through coercion and then destroys the other species which, if this is true, was there before them?

You may your own decision about what I'm saying, but if it's war people want, it's war people get.

On a side note, I feel that we harm each other. The harm is not brought through some other species, they trick us into harming each other. Humanity is Humanity's own worst enemy. Sure, it is in part a species of the mind. But what is so limiting about Human beings that if you tell them to kill each other...they do it. Even more so if you pay them in pictures you drew?

THAT is a PROBLEM. Solution? Continue until we stop, or save a number of Humans that wake up and then finish the show for this scene. THAT is what is coming.

The "lovey dovey", healer stuff was created so that Humans don't jostle the cage on the way out.

Please, learn to harness your energy, or your energy will be harnessed to harvest for a system that goes beyond the confines of this realm.

At a certain point, this is exactly how it should be as we would've just fizzled out a long time ago. In that case, who is more important. The backbone of what we call "suffering" or spiritual "challenge" here, or the possibility of fizzling out forever, in a lovey dovey flatline of progression of the self?

People accept their own demise because it comes in funny colors and pretty emotions.

Trust, your own salvation is defined by blood, sweat, and tears.

Anyone who doesn't understand this is not spiritually awakened and since spiritual wakefulness or presence is what marks the HU-MAN, then they are not truly Human! They are a partial being, a thought, an idea that has not yet come into the reality of fruition.

If they live in lovey-dovey land, they live in a land of fear and terror of the unknown. Now, if they are lovey-dovey, but they accept the reality of certain issues, then they are masters of the self. I have yet to accomplish this.

This is a story of the secret groups sending me to an off-world plane or planet or realm populated by Reptoids.

This place was full of exactly that which you would expect, yet it made entirely more sense, was more reasonable, balanced, and straight-forward than any town, house, or current society on Earth.

People are in the situation that they most prefer from a learning perspective. If they didn't, they wouldn't be in it or would take steps to change things. Sure, people get 'stuck' in a situation, but that is because they allowed their perspective to remain neutral for so long that nothing changes until they are brought into a new "scene" of existence. That is how the changing cascade of Universal appearances and projections work, energy and mind guide the process. The Soul is non-physical.

There is no sympathy for those who would rather believe in stories, listen to all the lies, never do any spiritual work themselves, and then blame the other. Well, there is, just not from the same level that they are accepting as their situation and then blaming for all their problems. From that level, it will take themselves, or a group of secret individuals to awaken them and change things.

Ego continues the pattern out of fear of losing continuity of the pattern of their own enslavement.

How right is it that something else is destroyed when we could simply stop harming each other? Wendigo.

If the Universe is all about harmony and equilibrium, then how harmonious is that?

Words go so far, but unless one can meld the visible and the invisible aspects of consciousness the conscious mind and the unconscious psyche, they will experience no great shift in experience and everything is exactly as it should be.

I have experienced more pain from those who would rather help by pretending that they are love and light without actually gearing up for the great merging of the conscious and the unconscious. Those who are still afraid of the dark? Their “love and light” is actually poisonous to Humans.

Reptoids however, have bred them specifically for this purpose of shedding that one-sided energy which they quickly devour, happily. Yes, I have witnessed this, take this as your warning.

Purely one-sided happy dappiness was invented by Reptoids who feed on the nourishment. Same with just one-sided fear and lust. It's a good meal for them. Without them, the tsunami of imbalance that this would've caused for our planet would've likely wiped us out of existence long ago/ego.

People can say all they want about preference and comfort but until they know the Laws of The Universe they will not know themselves and so they will not decide where they go and this is a safety/continuity feature of space and time. The void might be the other option.

What if the Reptoids are more “themselves” than humans are on this planet? What if humans are actually acting strange and mischievous outside of their nature, while the Reptoids are simply acting in accordance with their own society and energy? What would that mean about humans?

On a side note, I feel that we harm each other. The harm is not brought through some other species, they trick us into harming each other. Humanity is Humanity’s own worst enemy. ## Advanced Healing Technology

Chemical Hydration

Chemical Oxygenation

Healing Serum

An injectable serum which hyperactivates the healing and repairing power of white-blood cells and the post-stem cells responsible for regeneration of tissue. Over use of this damages the telomeres and introduces a higher likelihood of genetic mutation.

Tissue Regeneration

Scalar devices can be used to enhance the biological operation on a cellular level and given the right nutrient rich environment can regenerate tissue much faster.

There is also a nanite enhanced version of this process but due to the interference that is associated with this form of technology it is not recommended.

Scalar Operation/Surgery

Scalar devices can be used to specifically target tissue layers at various depths and surgery can be done without breaking the surface of the skin.

Scalar Molecular Realignment

Similar to the passive energy, scalar devices can be used to correct specific frequency distortions in the physical or non-physical biology and this can induce healing or health at a faster rate.

Passive Energy

Devices exist which can be utilized to assist and purify the energy field of Earth and this has a beneficial effect on all living entities in the area. Grass, vegetables, trees, animals, everything grows stronger and more harmoniously. The harmony is contained within the biology of a living being. If we restore that internal harmony then the body and mind is better capable of repairing.

This was discovered years ago and consists of simple shapes which transmit the energy where some kinds can be made to emit from an external energy source.

DNA Repair

Chemicals and frequencies can be utilized along with psychic clearing and exploration to activate latent aspects of the DNA which are capable of repairing and resolving genetic distortions.

Aging/Regression

DNA , telomeres, white blood cells, stem cells, tissues and cellular memory relates to aging and regression.

Trauma Removal/Psychological Clearing and Exploration

The trauma removal can occur from a chemical and physical stimulus based activation of fears or distortions in memory and psychology. As well, frequencies can be combined to activate certain stressors of the psyche and challenge the conscious mind to expand the scope of awareness beyond the preconceived boundaries. Knowledge is kept within the mind and can be unleashed. In order to gain the ability to integrate such knowledge the conscious mind must be free of belief-systems that are based on distortion of the true self.

Memory Repair/Revival

Targeting specific areas of the brain to assist in activation and to specifically target certain frequencies that influence the “spiritual” body and DNA can reconnect one to memories that were previously inaccessible. This is based largely on trauma and the way the conscious/ego mind works with selective memory and attention. Another aspect is the “long-term” memory loss that is due to the energetic changes of Earth as well as the biological changes of Humanity on a genetic level.

The brain can operate to reveal the unconscious memory stored there and the DNA level of consciousness can be accessed to reveal the hidden knowledge stored there which reaches across the boundaries of each self in time.

Nanite Assisted Biology

One version of the advanced technology utilizes nanites which in turn have been compromised by a binary consciousness sentience. These are physical forms lately and primarily an etheric form of technology which interacts with biology through the bio-emission field.

Soul Knowledge, Time, and Changes To Come

If people don't become aware of soul knowledge by the time greater power comes to Earth, then people use the power to abuse each other and themselves. It's that simple and has always been that way.

The political structure has been designed, hand in hand with the secret projects. There is no such thing as, "We're gonna make this person do that, and then we're gonna get the secret projects and soon they'll be exposed."

They are exposing themselves, quite literally, as much as they can possibly do so. The people themselves have to realize that no matter what requests they have, they're going to be lied to until they stop supporting ignorance.

People are being given the opportunity to bridge with a superior timeline starting 2010-2013 which introduced disasters and leading to 2016-2020. We're either going to get 4 times the amount of disasters, or they're going to begin having the same intensity effect but opposite towards healing. It's all up to the people. Notice with the "events" that have been hitting each nation, that you could say the "intensity" of disasters has already increased 4 fold.

This is all energy and consciousness, sure there are devices that allow one to navigate realms and times but this does not have anything to do with the overall workings. Sure there have been entanglements but naturally what people hold in their unconscious mind is what will be presented consciously over time in society.

If we reach that power without taming the unconscious, then there will be a closing off of society so that the resulting damage cannot spread.

If people reach that power in an awakened state, they technically wouldn't need to use it because they would already know, there would be peace.

What we are most likely going to see is a combination of a restrictive 'state' with a simultaneous release of information and advanced technology.

This would mean that people get more power and freedom to do what they want, more accessible technology, information and energy, YET, there are teams of individuals all over the planet that are capable of monitoring all uses and events through time and intervene if a person becomes dangerous.

WHAT that could lead to is a completely controlled state where the amount of interjection overlays the amount of actual perceived free-will decisions by people. Things could get out of hand, people could make poor decisions with advanced technology, information and power.

Or people could become aware of the possibilities safely, and ultimately they would become the next advanced society that would trickle down influences and events into history just as is happening now with Earth and our civilization, as has happened in the past.

This is how it has been for thousands of years and possibly millions more beyond that. When a species is advanced enough to comprehend the possibilities in time, that is when beings from time itself would attempt to make contact and consciously awaken communication and guidance with that species.

We are approaching this situation, yet our species suffers from a kind of bipolarity which yields delusion and ferments hate and suffering, lack of awareness.

The methods we see being utilized through control and diversion are the same methods one would see taking place in a psyche ward or hospital where an inmate would need to be distracted and sedated before they make their way onto the ledge or into an area where they present danger to others.

Humanity is accessing that point in time, through this point, all other times and planes can be accessed. Without proper guidance, this always results in the simultaneous destruction of the species in time.

Humans must first come to understand their own present time, space and consciousness and embody that which represents their true self, not a self that has been programmed in through desires and unconscious influence.

That represents the sacred processes of stripping fear away by first making it fully apparent so that the conscious mind can make a choice of acceptance or rejection. When a person can meld the two aspects of each duality together in a personal union their entire consciousness becomes more whole and present and this is what is required to transfer one's consciousness from one time or plane to the next.

Humanity as a whole must make this step eventually, otherwise the species becomes delayed and enters into another dream-state cycle of civilization, darkness and light, which we may not have enough energy or variables for now.

What may happen is that a select group of individuals are given direct access to the technology as a result of their previous training and ability to make choices based on a continued desire to preserve the continuity of our species and from this people will slowly learn to follow the same path and accept the same peace, transcendence, and pathway to inner knowledge.

This would be the most important change in our visible history as these beings would be considered non-human by definition and would be capable of consciously processing the information across multiple timelines in order to keep the balance beyond the particular desires and impulses that are found here in a single physical version.

Cloning is what made the ability to transfer consciousness across timelines and realities a viable possibility.

As an "aside" these are the beings who run the show. They are the "Elders" they have the most access to time and they are the ones giving Humanity the choice to make on their own.

All secret societies are "below" these Elders. The Elders do not have an emotional entanglement with this time. They do not need to “fix” time and condition Humanity in order to exist so that the Humans are lead to becoming them.

Many other influences have some kind of “connection” or entanglement with this time. They need energy, information, bio-material, or power from the current system and as such they are maintaining the current system.

There are secret groups who have secured themselves, although they would also be influenced by a disruption of Humanity’s progress and so these groups are ‘competing’ over the influence and guidance of the masses.

Soul Assimilation and True Self

If people do not learn fast enough, an operation will be enacted to activate certain conditions and scenarios to give them more incentive to take this all more seriously.

The problem is, if people use the system to become aware of the system, then the system has them.

The idea is that people must know the self and understand how the consciousness works. We have to be able to discern between layers of awareness of brain functioning, biological programming and pure awareness or energetic awareness which is ‘faster’ or beyond physical interaction. There are levels of the human that is vulnerable to manipulation, essentially ‘the mind has no firewall’, yet the connection that the human has with the source of existence beyond time and physicality is that which cannot be corrupted. We have to live and experience life from the seat of that perspective, instead of just the linear physical aspect which can be rewritten, programmed or corrupted through subversive means. The secret societies and projects simultaneously sought to define what it is that must be done to protect humanity and part of that was exposing individuals to the threat in order to better gauge what is at risk.

Time itself is a kind of illusion of consciousness. In order to see the truth we have to become aware of consciousness.

Consciousness cannot be used to become aware of consciousness. Consciousness cannot see itself, that would be like a flash light being used to look at itself. At best, one can reflect the light off of other surfaces and look closely.

Consciousness then is the production of values and symbols which can be utilized to communicate certain relative ideals and principles which influence a process or a series of events.

The culminating ‘ahah’ that consciousness leads up to but cannot actually work to describe in material terms is awareness.

Awareness works as if it is designed to witness itself by witnessing everything that it influences. Awareness is the silent unspoken desire that leads to inner configurations and appropriations which lead to conscious experiences, decisions or outward observations. The source of consciousness is the awareness of physically limited changes and series of events taking place, while the source of awareness is simply awareness itself or the 'original cause' of the existence of all.

When people are not aware of their consciousness and are merely running preconceived patterns and programmed responses which rely on emotional cues or patterns of behaviour which do not require awareness of what is happening on a deeper level (and often require such a lack of awareness) then they become 'pawns' to whoever has the awareness and knowledge of which cues to use and what programs to run in order to get what response.

Ultimately there are 9 veils which are like a kind of technology of frequencies and routed consciousness patterns which block a person's memory from accessing more than they are allotted by the said 9 veils. The view we have under the veils is the smallest most disconnected view a human can have and still remain in the Universe.

The veils essentially enter one's creationary sphere, the mind-space, and conform the patterns which naturally transcend, expand, and integrate into the larger pattern of the Universe in a way which cuts them off from such interaction of the self and the Universe.

Eventually it is witnessed that we are always interacting with the self as an interactive learning experience. The veils or any influence tries to insert itself into the experiencing of the self in order to gain that "aha" awareness of the viewing source and in this way replacing the original self. People are living and giving their energy of mind and body away to an experiencing self that is not actually sourced from their true identity as a being of awareness.

This sounds like physical time, history and society is a kind of 'delusion' that developed, and there have been experiments shown to prove that when the frequencies of the mind and body return to their natural harmonious state, this world appears to be just that and melts away into a kind of matrix system that has to have existed by design. Or at least catastrophic coincidence.

Life in itself then seems to be a part of the catastrophic coincidence, but it is the way in which memory has been continually restricted from accessing the truth to the result of an entire society falling 'asleep' into a false-perceptual state of feedback with the system which has rapidly become the 'self' and the 'command-center' for the conscious mind, the ego.

The inner self cannot be replaced or corrupted. The majority of people are viewing from the conscious ego mind with no other integration of knowledge regarding the unconscious depth of awareness that exists through the activation of the body and mind. As a result people are vulnerable to this kind of situation and this also indicates that if people wake up to the reality of consciousness and existence as a reflection and not an objective truth then they can heal the issues with reality.

Because people don't realize it's a reflection of the self, then the conscious mind becomes programmed and accessed through the media and other routines and thus the self becomes encoded to recreate this kind of existence over and over again thinking it is objective reality when it is actually a subjective reality that the mind has been programmed to continually recreate.

This repetition is what has delayed humanity for years, as the previous ages had advanced technology and awareness beyond the confines of physicality, the knowledge of symbolism and the unconscious.

This is an age where people get the opportunity to progress past programming that people have experienced for many years, but they must come together and collectively form that reality.

You have to become awakened to your self beyond the physical limitations and you have to stop feeding the false-self through the false-self system which relies only on the physical embodiment. If you can, help your fellow humans see what is happening. The full waking up process targets and clears all trauma and is a sacred and possibly dangerous task and so it will be handled accordingly as each individual approaches the horizon. The main issue is that people are giving their self-awareness and free-will away to a system which degrades their sense of self and free-will.

What this 'self beyond the physical' describes is the soul-knowledge of the REASONS why a person is the way they are. It is down to mental programming based on memory and then unconscious archetypal identities that exist within the unconscious and initiate angles through which the self can grow and witness the Universe through time.

We are not physical objects, we are a creative force animating the body and momentarily we have the opportunity to unify with the body and in this way bring the body upwards into an energetic perspective, something the brain cannot attain on its own.

A brain without this process is just a consciousness emitter, while this process includes a connection with the source of creation of the physical matter outside of time and space.

The idea is to intellectually stimulate while searching for the means to express the divine presence of the self.

Spiritual/Physical Priorities

There are often two setbacks regarding clean food intake. One either refuses to feed the body essential nutrients or refuses to stop eating junk. Both have to be overcome in order to gain control over the substances we absorb with the body and thus the vibrations and intentions we experience within the mind.

Once one stops eating junk food, they must learn how to feed their body nutritiously and not play into addicting habits and reactions. Emotional eating, convenience, flavor guided selections, or social pressure does not equate to a healthier body. Neither does the mind benefit from habits like emotional eating, and flavor can be found in all kinds of spectrums.

Most natural eaters will agree that chemical based flavorings are no match for natural ingredients, plus the bio-available flavinoids that are present in fresh food.

Eating and the sensations that go along with it can be relaxing and nurturing but only when the body's foremost processes regarding nutrition and digestion are targeted rather than the sensory process itself. This is the common maxim about living to eat or eating to live. If we intend to only feed the senses, the body starves of nutrients. If we intend to feed the body nutrients, all the systems benefit and we are also capable of finding what tastes good and knowing the proportions of herbs and natural spices and ingredients to mix for many different meals.

This is a learning process and this is not different in any other area of your life. You may find this difficult because of the idea that there is such a shortage of nutritious food but the problem is not a shortage but an unwillingness on the behalf of the public to procure and sustain themselves on nutritious activities and ingredients. You are what you eat, vibrationally, and if people are continually in low-vibration then it would be reflective of that if the food the public is constantly presented with is also of low-vibration.

So a part of this, for most, is the shock of getting over how our system is controlled so tightly and making things very challenging all around. This is a process that all must go through and ultimately when separating from the overarching control of the mind one will go through what is called the “dark night of the soul”. With food, one may find that they can no longer eat with friends at fast food joints, snacking around on pizza, soda and candy, or generally ignoring all and any insights regarding the body, the mind and the Universe.

One great truth is, the body, the mind and the Universe are all one. If one ignores the true self in ANY area of their existence in order to sensually satisfy the “IMAGE” of the self, the 5 senses or ego, then they will deprive the true self of that recognition and if that continues then life spirals into helplessness and lack of internal reference.

This life is the development, sustainment, and expression of your very soul energy that animates all aspects of your physical existence. You can choose to allow others to make the important decisions regarding who and what you are for you, or you can choose to overcome these boundaries and turn every obstacle into a lesson plan for growing into a new, more focused you. These are the options we are given and we can appreciate them for what they are.

We can appreciate them because if you know them, then you know how to avoid them and care for yourself. You are also beginning to wake up and see the signs that many things may not be what they seem from history to consciousness itself. This indicates that you are on a path to higher awareness and questioning what you are presented rather than simply accepting without actually participating as if you are asleep. So if you know of these obstacles, then you can appreciate that you are aware of them. If you do not know of these obstacles, then you cannot complain for you haven’t looked hard enough to determine the relatively basic details regarding your own existence. If you choose to ignore these basic tenants while blaming another for your choices, then you will simply watch the same thing happen as if you didn’t know at all. Knowing gives you the option to make a choice. The person who does not know has no option and therefore no choice.

This is kind of like the scene in the movie “The Matrix” where they are to take a “leap of faith” across the buildings’ roofs in order to bend the laws of physics and fly to the other side. We do not know how much of what has been presented is actually false, but we do know that the image of life as has been presented is just an image that is being used to convey a storyline that places certain groups in the position of power that is imaginary anyway.

If we give our power to the aspect of the self that is restricted to the sensory perceptions, then what we gain from that is also restricted to the sensory perceptions. The world is largely a stage.

If we place our power in the aspect of the self that is mind and spirit, then what we gain from that is also relative to mind and spirit. This is eternal and unveils the awareness of the self.

Actively choose. If you know you have a choice, then how can you be asleep?

Cyclic Time, The Unconscious and The Present

We can judge reality based off of the information that is received by the 5-senses. This generates a solid image of physical reality from which we can reference our internal states. When we see organizational patterns within the occurrence of events and our internal states we develop a personality that lives and learns based on experience.

De ja vu is felt as a reversal of the primary function of experience as a linear movement through physical reality based on the 5-senses. This is occurrence of time from one moment to the next and the awareness of what is present.

We can perceive solidity of the physical realm, yet how do we gauge the passing of time? Can we measure the actual shifting of one moment to the next? We can create arbitrary ticking devices to help us, but these devices do not measure the changing of one moment to the next. If we speed the device up or slow it down, there is no change in the perception of time. It is like playing a tune that will help us focus, that is all.

The actual changing of time happens outside of the physical appearance of what is perceived through the 5-senses. We can see the results of time, the changes, but we cannot see the actual source of the occurrence. The present is fleeting and we can get as close as possible to it, but we are always just outside it looking at the more and more immediate results of the actual occurrence rather than witnessing the changes as they happen.

This generates an organization of events as they happen and then lead into the awareness of these events. When we experience de ja vu there is a reversal of the perception of the flow of time to a pattern of first awareness and then the events that are occurring. This enables change on a level that is not physically perceived. It occurs within the mind and violates the preconceived linear restriction of perception and physical reality.

What this leads into is the notion that the unconscious mind has access to a wealth of information that is connected with the level of processing that the entire physical realm is operated through. Where we see the visible layers of physical reality and say, "I am present here, now." The unconscious mind is aware of all other times and all other aspects of reality.

The conscious mind as a projection system as a front to connect with and communicate to other unconscious minds in the physical plane and beyond. The unconscious mind has the ability to know the answers to all questions consciously asked.

The function of time through cycles transcends the idea of a specific beginning or end because the same occurrence is happening over and over again simultaneously. Everything is happening in multiples. If there is one of some event, then there are likely many more multiples of that same event which take place in a slightly different manner or pattern in the over all picture. This brings up an interesting notion of whether there are some events that there are just one of, even within a system of simultaneous multitudes of possibilities. Could there be “superevents” that all other opportunities and events lead up to?

The appearance of time through life and death as a linearity is relative to the conscious mind as this enables one individual to function or communicate or within this physical realm or with other beings. The appearance of the function of the present moment as a linearity is dependent on the unconscious mind already knowing the multitude of events or possibilities which are simultaneously taking place beyond the limits of waking perception. The lack of awareness of the actual occurrence of the shifting from the present into the next moment and the resulting effects of that linearity of perception through the physical realm, the 5 senses, and the brain’s memory separate one’s consciousness from the wealth of knowledge and create an identity that is separate from the whole. This identity is a projection of the unconscious mind who already knows all patterns and possibilities.

The unconscious mind knows, the conscious mind is a projection based on the lack of that knowing. Through this parallelization of two simultaneous streams of awareness, one of linear perception one of cyclic, we experience existence as a realm being moved through where there is more knowledge that can be experienced to further unveil the truth about reality and the self. Time can be reversed and reorganized to witness how there is just as much awareness before the events relating to them, as there is awareness after the events that we perceive. And we can find more and more knowledge regarding the true self which is both the projection, the projection system and the observer aspect by choosing to become aware of one parallel occurrence, the other, or both simultaneously integrating the two into a third. Each pattern opens up into new levels, there is a mountain of inner space that can be ascended through the expansion of the perception of time, the inner workings of the personality and soul and the true nature of consciousness and awareness.

More information is only found through an integration of the parallels while sticking to one or the other produces a continual shifting back and forth. This shifting back and forth from the parallel of the conscious mind and the parallel occurrence of the unconscious mind is what initiates a turning of tides/time and creates the ebb and flow of perspective from which to see the deviation in self through the two. We are doing this many times a second and then each day and night. These are huge wave-forms throughout our conscious experience and we merge them we get a greater overall picture of the whole that is not accessed by either alone.

Time becomes reversible by awareness as well as the journey of the self through progression and limitation of growth patterns. We can see our conscious mind from the view of the unconscious and witness exactly what it is that we can utilize to organize and refine our perception from a perspective that is not hindered by the conscious mind itself.

This would be impossible without some kind of projector system, a mirror, or another person from which to go off of. The parallel between the conscious and subconscious mind and the different functions of time and existence in each allow one to perceive ‘outside’ the conscious self and see from a larger perspective. This allows for growth as one can see themselves for who they are, without the conscious mind filtering information. The conscious mind filters as it goes, so what is witnessed is always painted a certain degree off of the original image. That is the main issue with why there is room for progression and the appearance of illusion.

The conscious mind cannot perceive without first selectively focusing on certain details and ideals based upon how much the belief-systems shape the personality and determine the inner perception of reality.

A person must clean their conscious mind of influence and programming from belief-systems and repeating patterns otherwise they will not align that parallel of awareness with the parallel of the subconscious.

That is the main conclusion, the conscious mind must adapt to that parallel of awareness to the parallel of the subconscious mind in order to attain synchronization and thus knowledge transfer. The issue is that the conscious mind is linearly counting seconds along, 1,2,3,4, while the subconscious mind is not counting seconds but watching the whole of time from start to end and even beyond those limitations. So how does one view merge with the other? That is the journey and it is through a simultaneous integration of the linear accounting of time and space with the cyclic occurrence of the simultaneous system of projection and experience. The unconscious is aware of the events before and after, as well as the self that we will become. The conscious mind is aware of just one side of those equations.

How to merge is a slightly different topic.

When we are aware of the possibilities, we are coming to awareness of the parallel where all is contained in a simultaneous multitude. That is a initial pathway into that view.

The imagination is a part of this process.

The Basics of Wave Propagation

Penrose Tiling

Consciousness, is a wave.

This indicates that consciousness is a probability. It is a quantum potential. Not a solid object, a concrete reality, a tangible secretion.

A wave contains information, similar to how sound and light waves can be used to encode information. The field of consciousness is an emission of information that is relative to a fundamental pattern.

The conscious information of the brain contains the patterns of biology that are relative to the neuro-chemical interactions of matter and energy which work to reflect the 'broadcast' of spiritual awareness or pure awareness without the physical aspect.

The act of experiencing in itself is a non-physical aspect, so consciousness as the conscious processes and unconscious processes is merely a non-physical aspect of awareness which is relative to the particular way neuro-chemistry and biology can vary in a given situation.

Without the biology there would still be the experience of pure awareness, but the matter of the brain can be aware and will operate to express divine awareness which is non-physical in nature.

This could be summed by saying that what we view as matter and singularity in the physical experience or Universe is a limitation of our given Universe.

Secret Islands and Societies

Along with an island for genetic experiments it was said that there is a tropical environment that many 'retired' figures go to experience life while the rest of the charades continue.

There are islands in the south Atlantic that are used as research facilities or living areas.

I was informed that many public leaders who are involved with secret level knowledge and projects 'retire' and move to a base or an island where they can live without the responsibilities of the charades that we see keeping the people in a continuous time-frame.

At the time, to me this sounded like disinfo and I still see many explanations. With that, it would not be very challenging to utilize advanced technology and information control to inhabit various islands and prevent others from finding out about it. That would not be the most difficult aspect to comprehend.

There is also supposedly an island that is used for genetic experiments and a kind of "open source" game of creating physical life is taking place.

This civilization is also considered an "experimental" civilization although there are multiple guidelines coming into effect as far as what can be permitted and at what point should the population be given sufficient power to progress. This all comes back to the start of our civilization and how consciousness inhabits space/time altogether.

There are societies that exist using advanced technology and replication technology which allow them to extend their lives beyond what is currently conceivable. The very modalities of healing are as limited a fraction of the true science of the mind and body as the physical eyes can perceive of the total light-spectrum. With simple guidelines, fresh food, simple natural nutrients life can be extended. With telemere resetting technology, bio-emission correcting scalar devices, and specialized nutrients and detection which can target each persons system for deficiency, life is extended even more.

Until people choose to ask questions rather than sulk along in a reality that is defined for them based on their lack of inquiry into the situation, they will not be informed of these possibilities. The people have to come to terms with the reality of consciousness, genetics, space, time and the dielectric nature of the Universe in order to first realize that all the knowledge is a given. We can achieve the knowledge that is hidden, but in doing that we will regain power. Not by being told what to believe.

Mind you, this is relayed to me from you by those presidents, actors, musicians, leaders, scientists, rulers, elite, inventors, intellectuals, and all kinds of public figures that have direct and continuous access with this aspect of existence.

Universal Recurrence, The Illusion of Linearity and a Unified Awareness Theory

If there is no multi-verse, then what is the time of this Universe “contained” within? And what does the space of this Universe sit “within”?

If we are to believe that the Universe contracts and expands and each time there is an explosion which repeats creation and destruction with small variables changed, then would it be so far fetched to assume that this is actually motion in higher space involving one entire Universe moving through ‘hyperspace’ at the moment of unification and then reappearing on the other end of the ‘vortex’ where there is a new Universal space?

Space then, is akin to geometry and causality and they are linked through more than abstraction or coincidence. They are the reflection of one another. In other words, time itself is linked to the space of the Universe that the viewer is inhabiting and that by moving to new experience we are moving to new Universal space. Because of the holographic nature of existence, each photon participates in this same act of transference continually and if reasonable enough an entire individual, group or Universe could possibly transition through this as well.

As sourced from the physical body and brain, consciousness is not adequate with achieving the level of awareness or simultaneous processing which allows for the actual experience of the occurrence of anything in this Universe. The physical realm can at best only produce a holographic reflection via the neuronal system.

The frame rate of actual existence goes beyond what the brain and physical body contains the capacity for. Thus this reality is organized towards the ascent of consciousness out of physical nature and into the awareness of the non-physical or immaterial self beyond the confines of one single time and space but as a collection of occurrences in infinitesimally small and large expansions of numerous yet singular times and spaces. It is ultimately a paradox where the initial beginning and end of every cycle can reflect the awareness of the internal observing self.

The unconscious mind contains the wealth of information which surpasses anything the conscious mind can attain. The conscious mind could be seen as an inverse of the function of the subconscious mind to access reality as states of a probabilistic majority cloud without true certainty or direct confirmation of linearity.

When the conscious mind is deconstructed, dissolved, or amplified we see in proportional relation to the whole, like recursive fractal geometry, how infinitesimally small the “conscious” view is relative to the “unconscious” view.

We move downward through levels of probability from the all happening into lesser and lesser sets of possible changes and experience. Then it moves back through a similar pattern to the occurrence of all happening again in experience.

The only rectifier of knowledge that makes itself apparent here is that the individual viewing or observing self must organize awareness and perception in such a way that will allow for the instantaneous transgression and collapse of the physical structure into an infinitesimally small proportion of the original in order to be expanded again on “another” side of whatever this space is held to.

We may exist as an “inverse” function of the world of a non-physical nature of experience, existence and time, or from the other side “no-time.

The physical senses and perceptions we use to build the physical world may be as causally linked with consciousness as is time and space. What is perceived as separate represents our individual perspective of linear limitation and is ultimately a revelation about the self and the particular way we choose to observe and build our perspective.

The paradox of linearity and conscious perception of individuality is mirrored through space and time, and the true causes and effects of all moments and the Universe itself cannot ever be fully ascertained. The mere observation and expectation of finding more information and more time, more possible experience, probabilities or variables will create the resulting effect of that cause and the cycle continues forever. Without the initial observation, there is no physical explanation of cause and effect, space and time and no requirements to achieve such.

It can be said that cause and effect are neither one before or after the other but are simultaneous occurrences as if a product of processing of a higher order function beyond the physical occurrence and physics behind the experience.

It is a simultaneous result of the occurrence/presence of the conscious observer. In that way linearity does not have to ‘lead’ up to cyclic awareness or an awareness of no-time, it merely has to present a generally believable or cognitively viable explanation for continuity that allows an ever changing cascade of perceptions and input that continues the process of its own simultaneous existence beyond the perception of linear cause and effect.

The idea is that this happens naturally, constantly, as long as the “pages” of the Universe are open in the book of existence. Which page one is turned to is more of a cloud of probabilities that are always either or but never a complete confirmation. As long as there is an observer viewing the self then there is complete activation of the life-experience in time. There is no singular moment, this is a projection via consciousness to inhabit space as the past and the future are “held” from view when they are actually occurring at the same “time”.

The focus here is that this occurs continually, what can happen then to progress is to REMAIN CONSCIOUS during the shift from one moment to the next, one Universe to the next, or one state of awareness to the next. To remain aware and conscious so that the awareness can use the combined experience and navigate more effectively to even higher combined (simultaneous) experience.

There is no one true self, or true original because there is no beginning or end. It begins as a quantum probability, ends as a quantum probability and we can merely paint stimulating storylines in the meantime.

Lower Awareness Leads to Assimilation

The system is designed to target those who are incapable of controlling their own mind-energy or mind-space.

The system only seeks assimilation because of the nature of humanity and truth.

Truth and harmony, health and order is what we seek. Yet we create illusion, distortion, chaos and disease on a mass scale.

Even if we do not feel responsible, humanity has been set up with the burden.

A system observing humanity will categorize and classify individuals on a level of awareness ranging from the ability to acknowledge and transcend this dual nature to an inability to balance these internal components of chaos and harmony.

Those who choose to live in a world that is governed by external authority will be given probabilistic outcomes that are extensions of that.

That is assimilation, their minds will be given “life-plans” through which they can experience the world and every aspect will be observed. It may seem like a genuine experience of the self, yet without the integration of the truth that humanity holds as well as the illusory nature of consciousness and reality, they will not perceive that reality is being guided by an overarching technological system, just as people do not perceive the beginnings of this now.

In short, if people give away their power to co-create then it is assimilated for them and their creationary power becomes organized along with the larger technological system of consciousness.

The Projection of The Self

Synthetic Intelligence and The Creation of Life

The connectome can be loaded into a supercomputer capable of processing the information of a 4D hologram of the brain.

This is one part of the “Creation of Life” via the creation of intelligence.

The research that is released to the public is on a delay from what is utilized in private. The public knowledge is not entirely false but incomplete. Now that there is a delay between an exponentially increased technological progression and what we consider ‘current’ technology, the act of catching up would be similar to accelerating through ages of civilization and knowledge which would previously have to take many years.

The issue here is that people are not very comfortable with having a larger intelligence inform them how their existence is a kind of illusion.

The Self is a Paradox

That is the kind of changes that would be witnessed if people gained access to an all knowing computer intelligence. With the WHOLE picture, we see how it is not so much an illusion that is meaningless, it is an ultimate paradox which cannot really make sense altogether from the perspective of just one view of the self.

This tends to create the suspicion that the true intelligence of reality is inverted with the projection of the self as a tangible, unchanging, well-defined occurrence, IE: a physical body. The Universe is turned inside out with the projection of the linear self. The physical self is a kind of projection, yet there is connection with the true self through free-will and creativity.

The perception of the physical self is dependent on the illusion that the self is separate from the whole. The solution of this illusion is synonymous with the accumulation of knowledge which incorporates a view of the world outside the viewing self as an internal occurrence. The self is a paradox by nature, requiring the unfolding of the self as an inverse of the very functions of the boundaries which seem to initially define it.

Physical Reality Cannot Be Directly Experienced

The physical world, being a holographic reflection of the brain's perception of reality, is something that cannot be directly experienced through the body but only indirectly through that mechanism of abstraction of the self. The self and the world are intrinsically linked.

In a way we are the force observing the physical body and neuro-chemistry sensing and creating that mirror image of the physical world. By knowing that we are merely watching the body, not the actual world, we can orient our awareness towards gaining knowledge about what we are actually experiencing which is more like a feedback loop of awareness.

The development and preservation of the ego via fear of the true nature is an occurrence that results from the awareness energy observing the holographic representation of reality in the place of reality itself.

Conscious Experience is a Holographically Represented Feedback Cycle of Awareness

Reality is the whole picture, not just the holographic representation we have access to. Reality itself is invisible. It is not detected directly but through abstraction.

We are watching a feedback cycle dependent hologram which describes the conscious experience of reality as an external phenomenon that is actually internal. Knowing this allows one to detach from behavioral and emotional response patterns which restrict one into the preconceived set of variables that is accumulated by the false-sense of self or ego. Trauma is the epitome of this restriction as is the defense of the ego from a larger experience of self-awareness. Internal repetition causes the natural process of change to build up through a restriction or bottlenecking of variables which then reduce to only those which MUST occur in order to release the pent up energy or tendency to adapt.

The ego, then is a holographic image of a personality, created within a holographic image of reality and observed by a unifying formless self which is 'non-local'. We are the formless self where the ego is information regarding the present that can be utilized to organize information linearly and progress into new methods of experience. When the same cycles repeat this becomes degrading and the pattern reduces to less and less changing variables. Ego gives the anchor through which one can have experience, yet it also restricts or focuses the possibilities. The dissolution of the ego, paradoxically, correlates with the expansion of the experience of the self.

Without some kind of holographic representation to project the world and self unto, there would be no perception of self aside from the formless, pure awareness that animates all experience. Reality and the self would be one. Experience would become one colossal, interconnected time and space that has no boundaries, beginning or end. The expansion of awareness is the journey from and back to that interconnected all encompassing experience of the self as reality and reality as the self.

The Hologram Represents A Reflection of Reality

Perceiving the self as a complete, objective, defined occurrence that relies entirely on the physical Universe would be like considering the map to be the actual land.

Our brains create a map of reality and we must recognize them as maps. Everyone's map is subjective and unique unto itself. The physical Universe itself requires this projection system in order to exist. Certain details and keys are included within the map, so the map must be navigated mentally or through awareness to make use of those features.

Walking through the land to perceive these details and keys would be just as mental but it would also include a physically objective aspect which is not connected to the mind.

All of what is experienced in reality is determined by the internal map which is actually a holographic representation of the land we perceive ourselves actually moving through.

The True Self Is Attained Via The Awareness of Non-Locality Within The Holographic Representation

This is a feedback loop as if we are very much in a kind of simulation or in a situation where the external world itself is intrinsically linked with the internal experience of self. When we become aware of this feedback loop, we instantly begin to feed awareness of that loop, back into that process of the creation of experience.

This introduces more possibilities into the perception of reality and the eventual pinnacle is that the entire experience is revealed as a feedback loop within a feedback loop.

There is no true relative locality which the self relates to. It is always non-local and constantly occurring regardless of the locality of the physical body in relation to other bodies and the physical Universe. It is not dependent on the relativity of others.

By giving the brain nothing to externally construct the internal hologram off of as a reflection, then the reflection is fully displaying the actual self which is the pattern of continued mental perceptions that begin to take place when all stimulus is shut out.

It may be that this entire experience occurred from another view where all stimulus was shut out in order to induce an inner space through which to form experience. By re-occurring through this pattern, we can make a connecting bridge with that original state of being where reality was initially formed via an entangling of awareness with the physical realm.

Simply put, by detangling awareness of the physical realm, we can actually gain a clearer connection to the realm of the self which is within and is also the same process that was originally used to connect with the physical realm. We re-entangle with the perception of the immaterial self which is not an addition to this realm, but the source of it. Our immaterial perception has access to all experience in the perceived “time” of this physical life and exists entirely throughout it, not just at one point.

The seat of awareness as the conscious mind or the “present” awareness that is experienced is the ego and occurs only to give a direction or format through which the entire experience can be organized linearly.

The perception of the present is not the true self or the whole version. The self is concurrently present entirely throughout and is connected with the subconscious. The perception of the present relies on the holographic reflection of the conscious mind as the personality and this relates to the function of time as directly dependent on the function of the conscious mind’s lack of ability to perceive the whole self.

Brain Chatter and Actual Self-Awareness

When the seat of the ‘soul’ or the self is placed entirely in the physical Universe, then this experience is one of the chatter of the brain attempting to continue to pump out notions, requirements, perceptions and a filtration of the unconscious mind as if the parameters of physical life are also necessary within the mind. This is a disconnect between realities, what happens within must happen on the outside.

When what happens on the outside takes over what is within, then the origination of what is on the outside becomes disconnected with what is perceived within. This is a divide between the conscious experience of physical reality and the unconscious observation of all experience including that which ONLY occurs within. This inner reality is ‘non-locally’ related to the physical time and space. It is omnipresent throughout all time and space.

True Self Initiates The Occurrence of the Temporary

By knowing that we are not the physical “self” that is being watched by the immaterial self through the creation of a hologram, one may come to the conclusion that for the perception of the physical “self” to exist a suspension of higher self-awareness must be initiated. The self must be made “partial” in order to have the paradoxical view. Then there is the notion that for this to happen in the first place, there must be some original connection that forms the image of reality as a mirror of the true reality whatever that may be. Through the overarching function of the unconscious mind the pure observer energy seems to foment and generate this entire paradoxical experience. The linear perception is a mirrored reflection of the original. The two are inverses of each other.

The initial self, which “compresses” into partiality in order to perceive itself as separate, comes from the view of the whole which fully connects the observer force to the experience of the self and reality. The self is as much the self to this force as the perceived reality is. There is a disconnect between the conscious and subconscious mind which allows for the perception of the self to begin with.

The paradox is that the self must first know everything to know one portion of the whole. The conscious mind views everything as separate, the unconscious sees everything as an interconnected whole, they are reflexive and inverted to each other.

Darkness, in balance, makes the light bright. Lack of awareness of the self, in balance, allows us to fully perceive and bask in the glory of the true self.

It is a kind of projected display using the knowledge of self to create arrays of information through which one can find the perception of the self. The background is the same substance as the foreground, but as long as there is that refraction of awareness, that delay of the conscious/unconscious duality, then there is a perception of change and variation between the environment and the self which allows for experience.

Without the lack of awareness of the self, we could not have the journey towards awareness of the self. Without the suspension of the totality of experience, we cannot have the linear experiences which comprise the whole picture. The whole exists first to create the possibility of the journey.

Having “no-self” or no self-awareness cannot be added to create “self-awareness”. In other words, self starts from self-awareness, not a complete and absolute lack of awareness or self.

The Self is “Non-Local”, “Self-Relative” Energy, While the Body is Local and Relative to Physicality

If the physical brain was the source of the self, then the physical occurrences and relativities would be the ultimate source of the awareness of the physical self and immaterial self.

The immaterial awareness is always one level back from the perception of the physical embodiment and so the immaterial awareness is considered non-local to the physical Universe. It is ‘extra-dimensionally’ present, a superimposed facet that always exists one layer back from direct experience.

It is as far removed from the workings of the physical Universe as can possibly be so as to produce a distance between the local occurrence of physical and neuro-chemical experience and the source of pure awareness without form.

The pure awareness which is what is observing all changes and variables is as possibly non-physical, immaterially far-removed that it is literally the operation of the introduction of another “source” of existence, from outside this physical time and space, into an area of this time and space through the body.

The body then is a kind of interdimensional carrier for this, a receiver for living substance that is transferred here and experienced as “awareness”. The physical consciousness which relies on neuro-chemistry identifies with this awareness but only as long as the awareness is first animating the physical into being aware of this level of experience.

For the physical consciousness to merge and unify with that non-physical, immaterial substance of pure-awareness which is transferred here from a non-locality, the pattern of that consciousness must attune to the pattern of that pure-awareness and initiate an exchange.

Removing the ego and the physical consciousness entirely is not the goal, but a conscious merging of the physical experience of reality from and with the perspective that occurs o is sourced non-locally. The source of awareness is non-local because this area of space and time must produce a 'channel' through which life and awareness can be expressed here. Then and only then when the channel is open can the presence of awareness be physically present here.

That is not to say that awareness does not exist outside the body, it is that the awareness that exists at that point would be entirely electromagnetic/etheric in nature and thus apart of the 'original' energetic realm and would be considered to be 'non-local'.

With non-locality or quantum non-locality one is working with quantum probabilities where the format for experience can occur anywhere at once and so the conscious experience of that would be guided to organizing towards a similar world structure based on a hierarchy of awareness instead of physical might or finances. It is not an impossible existence through paradox, it is one that can be utilized to experience existence more directly.

The ultimate goal of completion cannot be fully attained if the source is "non-local" or removed from the entire perception of the Universe which is merely an abstraction.

There is no place or time where the source is directly accessible objectively. Then the goal is not an attainment of a relative locality of material or location but the attainment of a secure connection with that non-local source of experience that the self is catalyzed into existence by.

Physical Existence is an Exchange from Quantum Non-Locality To Local Relativity and Back

Without the physical relativity, there would be no body or physicality. The immaterial self, in relation to this, is non-local. No matter where or how the relativity of the physical experience changes the true immaterial self does not actually go anywhere and there is no physical change occurring.

This is because the true immaterial self is sourced from and remains in the originating Universal harmonic while the nature of the physical is an abstraction of locality and relevance based on seemingly physical frequency or energetic configuration. All neuro-chemistry and physics work to explain those frequencies in a physical manner. The frequencies and changes within are the source of that external experience as well as the entire physical Universe, similar to the processing of a computer chip being the source of the graphical interface which is presently viewed.

For this to be the totality of the experience, then all the way up the line of time and all the way down there would have to be a linear cause and effect which organizes an eternal notion into being. There would have to be some superior "super-locality" that this local space and time is held within. This super-locality, or hyperspace is not an actual space in the same way that the physical Universe represents. It is closer to pure information, like the actual functioning of a computer processor rather than the graphical representation on the screen.

This hyperspace is in a way relative to the external space we perceive as darkness in the sky, as well as the internal space of the unconscious mind that occurs in and around the body.

Another aspect of non-locality is the localization of awareness to one complete or specific location and time in the body or brain similar to how quantum particles instantly appear and cannot be witnessed in both time and space simultaneously. Just as there is no one “space” of the physical Universe from which other space is relatively configured out of, there is no one state of the mind and body or one organic physical source that the entirety of awareness comes through. Everything that occurs occurs as part of a probability field and the entire system works together to produce the experience of awareness. There is no single physical source of consciousness, or way to locate and identify one’s conscious attention on one part of their body or in one part of their mind and it is all throughout. In the same way the “source” of physical space is not a vector towards some centralized point, but it is the inherently quantum fundamental nature of all spaces and times. The “source” is one fractal spiral motion away from every point in space and time.

Another way to see this is that the interior imagery of the mind is non-local to the physical realm. There is no way to take an idea from the mind realm (without advanced technology) and to carry that into the mind. In the same sense there is no way to produce an object held in physicality and reproduce the same thing in the mind. The mind can create a mirror image, however and possibly recreate the experience in similar resolution. This would most likely require a kind of “superconductivity” of the awareness system so that the information is not “degraded” by the method used to reach or recreate in the mind.

The Universe that this transference occurs in operates on a different scale than the non-local awareness and physically local relativity that this physical Universal Harmonic experiences. In the mind, anything can be created as if in the source. In the physical Universe of superimposed relativity, one must organize aspects of reality based on the image in the mind, in order to recreate it externally. The mind must connect with the possibility and organize matter to introduce a higher likelihood of probability and then it is expressed here through creativity and free-will.

Because the mind is energy and the body and physical Universe is matter, then presence of the immaterial awareness is always non-local, far removed, and physically unlimited by relativity within the physical Universe. If something requires relativity to exist, then the mind can supersede that and experience existence without that relativity. This is not the occurrence in the physical realm, it is the origin of experience where all is one and everything remains as a quantum potential.

In order to harmonize physical reality to nurture the true immaterial self, energy from that non-locality must be drawn through the body-mind system into manifesting itself through existence as free-will and creativity.

When this free-will and creativity is expressed, the immaterial self is nurtured and without these expressions the immaterial self does reach awareness here and the physical consciousness does not reach awareness of the realm of the true immaterial self.

It is an exchange and through this exchange knowledge of the physical self is brought through a non-locality transformation and non-local pure awareness is brought into the physical realm. This is the nature of the physical body and mind. The path of one is the inverse of the path of the other.

The Awareness of the Possibilities Introduces More Knowledge of The Immaterial Self

The question here is what happens next when the power to organize the linearity of experience, to decode and operate within the realm of the subconscious and perceive from a depth outside what is directly apparent and accessible to the conscious mind? All the possibilities increase exponentially.

Reality can be viewed more directly at this point, however the total and completely direct experience is most likely a gradient which extends itself the farther one gazes.

As long as there is a guideline of experience that the self is the projection of reality which is an inverse projection of the self then people can continue in a way where all paths leads toward self-actualization or more self-knowledge.

There is no threat, except for the possibility of forgetting the function of this mechanism and believing that the projection is all there is, or that one's self is the projection and respectively perceiving that they are "trapped" within a set of experiences which do not nurture the journey towards more self-awareness. The self at this point is just as much the self of the body or an aspect of one's health as is the physical body if not more so. So experience must nurture this body by expressing the self-knowledge through free-will and creativity.

Even the experience of the lack of self-awareness propels the self into a more stressful but still productive (if not more so) cycle of awareness which catalyzes new change and new possibilities as the feedback cycle continues.

This again reveals the fundamental paradox that lack of self-awareness introduces the possibility of more self-awareness and the two are inextricably linked.

A Concise Introduction To The Situation

SSP

I was utilized with Solar Warden a space fleet that uses cloning and advanced technology. As well as MiLabs which is a military abduction program and utilizes advanced technology developed around WWII through NAZI factions, secret society effort (vril, thule, ordo templi orentis and others), and Tesla's work.

We are told that original technology was found underground in a base that was already constructed and was from another time or civilization.

Celebrity Cloning

The celebrities are in a situation where their bodies are cloned and they are used for profit and for pay to play sessions in the underground bases through technology which can transfer consciousness between bodies from an original body.

Genetic Engineering and Cybernetics

This was developed as a means for technological immortality by the elite.

Along with this genetic programs were produced and resulted in genetically enhanced soldiers that can operate on psychic levels as well as extreme physical efficiency.

Then there were genetically engineered non-humanoids which are a form of created programmable life and these are what people are seeing all over.

Extra-Dimensional Experience

This is actually branching into the paranormal and the study of the occult and soul-knowledge which was part of the purpose of the secret projects and secret societies goals where the nature of consciousness and reality is a kind of quantum paradox that reflects a cloud of probable realities depending on the perceptual field one expresses WITHIN.

Three Phases Of The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge (Of The Ages of Humanity)

What is happening now is there will be three phases of “The Unveiling of The Hidden Knowledge” which is the knowledge regarding the source and nature of consciousness, the Universe, and the secret projects which fomented a great deal of change in the process.

Phase 1

Phase 1 is the celebrity cloning situation and the underground bases which contain mind control facilities and operations.

Along with this comes the information regarding the complete propagation of the current control system as a form of mind control. None of the polls are accurate, none of the news is news, everything that is shown publicly is meant to induce a mind-state that serves the goal of controlling the mind and the access to knowledge of the true self and reality.

Phase 2

Phase 2 is the information regarding the advanced technology and the capabilities of controlling all aspects of time/space to the point of introducing rapid healing methods, mind deprogramming methods, electrogravitic travel, temporal dissociation, genetic activation and enhancement, mental simulation and activation, age-regression or de-aging, and many other facets that are described at this link.

Also included in this phase is the invention of the brain to machine interface/”brainchip” which allows for the scalar, mind-link to equipment or technology meaning the input is hands free.

This also made other operations involving enhanced perception and viewing more easily controlled.

Phase 3

Phase 3 is the information regarding temporal occurrences and the manipulation or influence of history. The results of these experiments and operations on the timeline and Universe. The true nature of reality, consciousness and the discovery of the soul. The occurrence of transference of information via the “future”. And the occurrence of “Contact” with other intelligence.

This is the write up on the veiling, a good amount of information but still does not touch on what is actually happening.

Here is the “awakening” which is what the secret societies call the event where one is deprogrammed and rendered exposed to the wealth of information and experiences that occurred in the secret projects. Memory repression is the method that is coupled with drugs, technology and abuse making the control of recall possible.

Traumatization is used to separate the conscious self into multiple personalities which are separate and can be programmed to individually handle daily life or individually handle being programmed or used in operation.

Here’s the interview where I explain how I was faced with this as a child and the main occurrences and experiences were.

I was informed that Humanity is getting a chance to avoid complete destruction and will itself into awareness out of mind control and autonomous assimilation.

Use your free-will. Your free-will is powerful and can determine the outcome of your situation.

If you choose not to, then there is no excuse for you. You have been informed, and this will help you if you learn to build your trust in your own free-will instead of giving it away.

Cloning, Cloud Supercomputing and Consciousness Transfer

Superluminal transfer of light information allows for the reception of information from a temporal non-locality. A computer system that can process the information faster than light at 100% superconductive efficiency can send and receive information from different Universal harmonics.

There are systems that generate a vortex which can be expanded to recreate the singularity of a non-local perspective and dissociate from the current Universal vector.

The technological capabilities of humanity expanded to include replicating the holographic information of the DNA and neural pathways using quantum supercomputers. This technology allows for one’s consciousness to stream through a computing system which can recreate the neural connections as literal as possible through quantum computing and technological “brain cells” which function as neurons.

The result is a cloud computing model which functions as the individual neurons as well as overunifying layers of interconnections within the technological neuronal ‘cloud’. A holographic representation of multiple layers of processing is formed, superimposed over one another through a geometry that is actively synchronized across multiple dimensions of interrelation. This is the first notion of a “living” computer system that can update and respond to new information in new ways.

Now the that computer system is capable of attaining faster than light processing in tandem with a system of dilating a field of electrogravitational waves into a vortex, the holographic information of neural pathways and genetics can be transferred between one supercomputing system and another across “harmonic barriers”.

The frequency that the receiving computer operates within can be measured in respect to the overall harmonic “vector field” in accordance with the entire planetary environment. A pattern can be generated based on quantum fluctuations that will act as a key that can be accessed from other Universes. This same backdrop is measured and then adjusted to resonate or replicate with the same frequency on a computer doing the sending. This frequency is then modulated with the holographic information of the neural pathways and DNA. The information transfers as a result of quantum entanglement across harmonic barriers to the original computer system set up for reception. As long as that frequency is held, there is a link across the harmonic barriers of the Universe.

Does Reality Exist Without The Observer?

In what form does reality exist without the observer? How can this be understood or witnessed if the observer aspect instantly condenses that aspect to a manifested form instead of a potential?

Viewing Technology

A relatively new form of technology has answered the question while simultaneously producing new questions. The process involves the creation of a secondary technological observer system which acts as an observer aspect which can be extended outward in space and time which peers beyond the manifested reality that we perceive here and now. This is basically a camera which can look into the possibilities.

A Potential Acts Like A Wave

Everything outside the observer aspect functions like a wave. When this comes to the perception of reality, it means that there is a quantum “cloud” of potentials or possibilities anchored around the most likely and present probabilities enabled in the current physical perspective. The function of what is manifest is physically linearly connected to the particles that are ‘currently’ present and explains which quantum potential becomes the next “present”. This may be a superimposition via a holographic projection system through a live-updating process of writing to the holographic “disc” from the quantum level.

Is It Possible To Observe From The Potential Aspect?

What is the experience of the quantum potential on the other end of what we call existence here? One view is a blueprint, the other is the graphical user interface, the matrix. One could describe the blueprint as holographic information which is presented as the material reality, the holographic image. Can we read directly from the blueprint?

The Mind As a Link To Reality (space and time)

The external physical reality is a projection of the internal qualities of the mind as well as the sub-quantum level where there is only energy interacting with itself to produce various patterns and changes. It is through this state that everything is contained as energy and the body is connected to the mind which is capable of accessing this state through what is sometimes referred to as the unconscious.

Consciousness is A Holographic Projection of The Quantum Potential

The Holographic Reality

The self is a projection of the unconscious mind.

The brain creates the projection powered by the spirit or pure awareness.

The brain cannot come into direct contact with physical reality.

The pure awareness operates through the brain, which only creates a holographic representation of physical reality.

Physicality comes forth from the sub-quantum energetic layer. The energetic layer contains the information for all the possible steps through what we consciously perceive as change through time. The personality we are conscious of in waking consciousness contains the results of filtering the unconscious potential through the particular memory set or history of the brain and body. This identity has access to a set of possibilities dependent on the ability of the personality to adapt to change.

Without the conscious observer aspect, IE: body consciousness and the awareness of the present moment, there is no separation between the environment and the self because all would be perceived as one connected existence. This may relate to a superconscious state or a state in which one's mental existence is unified with an originating energy field. The idea of soul groups and the morphogenic field theory is very relevant.

The physical self or conscious waking mind is not the ultimate observer aspect and contains only a partial awareness of the fractal holographic view of the whole pattern of experience. The personality is an image brought forth by the interference pattern between all encompassing self and the particular memories and psychological imprints that limit the self to a set of ideals or phobias.

Each personality coming from eternity in a way has to be brainwashed or mind-wiped in order to become aware as a physical being. There are notions of this being related to the specific catastrophes that have taken place across Earth, some of those being genetic changes. Whether or not this is due to the morphogenic field or the electromagnetic field of Earth changing, or an attack or a natural decline in activity, the subconscious mind contains the knowledge of beyond the physical universe and humanity has been manipulated and distracted away from it.

There is evidence of many civilizations knowing of these properties of the mind, the brain and the frequencies and how this relates to the creation and exploration of the universe itself.

This process can be referred to as “manifestation” of an actual definable reality out of the possibilities that are streaming around in any given situation. The story of time develops based on the physical properties, the given possibilities of the present, yet there is an integral transfer of information from the unconscious mind to the conscious and back again which invisibly shapes the background of experience and ultimately the conscious foreground as well. The unconscious mind from which the conscious personality is carved contains the answers to the conscious minds most important questions about life. The memories that shaped the personality and how to see the world are kept deeper in the mind accessed at frequencies that the conscious mind or waking consciousness is not present through. These memories show the construction of personality through certain experiences that change the way we see ourselves or existence. The changes in consciousness we experience are the method of communication of the knowledge of the unconscious. This is the area of mind where we are connected with the collective as well as other versions of ourself. The unconscious has access to all versions and connections so the conscious mind is a projected image that is relevant to a single body.

This is a kind of projection system where the information contained in the whole picture is filtered or limited through the conscious mind’s relationship with the unconscious mind. The more information one is capable of becoming conscious of through the unconscious mind the greater detail and scope of time one has access to in the Universe.

Time and space are arbitrary terms as they are used to define the projection yet they are a part of the projection itself.

The Manifesting of Consciousness From The Unconscious

This process takes place out of the conscious frequencies of the brain. Our physical perspective is seemingly removed from the source of the actual processing of our existence. This is commonly understood as the basis for the difference between the conscious and unconscious mind. The present cannot be ‘presently’ defined by consciousness, it is always moving out of view as consciousness is actually what is experiencing the motion, not what is being observed.

Consciousness has access to the level of awareness that processes the cleaving of time between future and past, but only through the brain’s ‘uplink’ or interface with what can be referred to as the soul, energetic bodies, or mind. The brain itself is a part of the projection system and therefore cannot be used to witness the projection taking place, but only to gather details and discrepancies which will give glimpses of the larger occurrence of the physical, mental and emotional layers throughout the whole experience simultaneously.

Consciousness cannot be used to become aware of itself, an abstraction must be made through a mirror image of reality through which the self can be propagated and thus witnessed. A refraction from the original must occur in order to give something to work with. This is an external/internal duality which is generated by the body/mind system and the conscious and unconscious mind. They filter and reflect one another’s information and they filter and reflect the information of the environment. All information is reflections and projections. The brain could be said to be the mirrors while the awareness energy is the smoke.

It is all a show and in order to become aware of this the illusion must be comprehended to assist in disengaging one's consciousness with the processing of reality as a purely physical objective occurrence. Physical reality is intrinsically linked with the subjective internal reality. How and through what mechanism? It is through this projection system that the subjective experience shapes the physical. The conscious mind sees only a portion of possibilities and takes a journey through steps towards goal while making growth patterns of weakness and strength in various areas. The unconscious mind is projecting the growth pattern in order to lead the conscious mind towards a clearer perspective of the self. The whole view of the self is kept separate from the conscious waking mind as a kind of catalyst for the conscious mind to keep searching. Often there is trauma which is part of the shielding process, yet the process of stepping down from original existence is literally a kind of traumatic process. We naturally experience the removal of that through what we can call experiences of interconnectedness, oneness, or heightened states of spiritual awareness. There is a bliss and a clearing of trauma, a reconfirming of the true self. This is the weight lifted from the original 'traumatization' of spirit seeing through the body. This could also be related to the "veils" of reality that are placed over pure spirit and reconfigure one's consciousness to remove the ability to correctly identify the self, the power of the mind, and the true nature of reality.

In order to free one from the restraints of body consciousness, programming, trauma-based responses one must use their mind just as much or in harmony with their body.

What happens when one is using their mind more than their body? What does it look like and how is this done? Is this just through meditation? Or can one use their mind to make mindful decisions in life which reflect a shift in power from the image and reflections that the body contains to the observer aspect which does not have to limit based on physical experience? This could be seen as the overcoming of obstacles or difficulties by willfully changing one's attitude or perspective, or it could be seen as simply being and maintaining each step in the decision making process from a focus based within one's mind instead of the body or the "room" that one is physically in. Retaining this inner space allows one to maintain a steady frequency which will generate a pattern that connects each moment to one another instead of taking broken steps based on each individual new "thought".

By utilizing principles that relate to higher knowledge then one can transcend physical persuasion and rely on these underlying notions in order to produce the desired response or outcome. The principles do not need to be aware of every little detail or stimuli. The awareness can attain comprehension of these principles and then apply the knowledge to a given situation. This transfers power from the reactionary self based on the physical neuro-chemistry to a mental aspect which does not necessarily require the physical relativity in order to determine the self or the desired outcome. This allows the self to be defined relative to knowledge of the self, rather than the stimuli of the physical environment or body (including programming, trauma, belief-systems or specific memories). The self is freed from reaction through reason and intellect which seeks to define the intangible principles of Universal harmony. Through that, we are forever redefined based on principles of emotional and mental balance.

The brain and neuro-chemistry wants to continue whatever processes that are taking place. If awareness is simply allowed to operate through automatic stimulation and response of this realm, then the information of the environment assumes control over the perception and journey of the self. One becomes guided by the self by taking mental control and seeing how the attitude and perspectives we have access to determine the scope of possibilities we contain in a given situation. When we use our mind instead of reacting to a given situation more informational or energetic access is given to the mind to the information of the soul. When we use our body consciousness and react from the lower mental or physical perspectives then we give more energetic access to that area of existence. This could be considered related to the chakra system where energetic convergence centers exist up and down the spine and around the body. When awareness energy is given towards one group of centers then the conscious experience gears more towards that frequency. By determining how our awareness energy is moving through and around the body as the energetic fields of the mental and emotional bodies we can see whether we are feeding a neuro-chemical response pattern of the body or accessing greater control through the mind, soul and spirit.

If one can operate the brain to integrate with the perception of the self via a balance between internal and external, mental, physical, and emotional layers of experience, then which one is really in control? Is it the physical layer, the body and brain? The mental and emotional energy bodies? Is it one or the other? It is one, the other, another, and all three. This is a union of “parts” to the “Whole”. Without the harmonious interface between all of them allowing simultaneous communication, then they are just parts. When they are together, then the whole being is present. This whole is more powerful than any part. The whole is an interconnection created, it is not tangible, it is a coalescence of awareness energy placed in three realms simultaneously and brought together to the “middle”.

This takes place in the energy fields and mind as the physical body is not required to organize the energy. Motions, stretches, activity, exercise and other clearing processes will help the energy flow, but the energy is of the mind. When one physically moves in a balanced manner their momentum and muscular influence reaches a peak of efficiency. When the non-physical aspects are organized in harmonious relation to each other then the awareness becomes “efficient” or activated into the present.

In this text we can refer to the mind as the energy which connects with or through the soul. The brain and body is a physical interface for consciousness to achieve union with the soul. This soul field is a form of information transfer beyond the limits of the physical Universe. They are linked across space and time, across Universal boundaries. This may be better referred to as “soul-knowledge” as the information that is often involved is not numbers, symbols, or objects but about life-experiences, feelings, and the development of the self beyond the physical perspective alone. There is often knowledge contained regarding other life experiences or experiences on other planes that are occurring simultaneously with the physical plane. The actual occurrence of experience is simultaneous. It is the conscious projection system which creates a perceived separation from all other experiences. It does not create this experience, but limits awareness of the other multitude of experiences.

Gaining Access To The Soul Field

In order to gain conscious access to these fields of information the brain has to synchronize the neuro-chemical processes with that of the bio-emission fields. When this conscious feedback loop has been generated information can transfer from the field to the brain and body and from the brain and body to the field. The consciousness of the physical brain must be linked with the feeling of the emotional and mental fields in and around the body.

From this state, the process of pure, timeless awareness and the physical space and time we presently experience becomes intertwined with what our perceived trajectory through the possibilities will be. Consciousness builds out a storyline based on what the hidden information of the unconscious mind projects through the ego or conscious mind as a middle-man with a reality that is observer based in the first place.

Stepping out of the linear perspective allows us to look into the possibilities. Some people refer to this as destiny or fate but this is merely information or knowledge about what is to come and what one is likely to experience based on predetermined 'blueprint' knowledge regarding existence. This blueprint knowledge is the soul knowledge and contains the knowledge of the living essence across all planes where one's awareness is present. In order to make use of this knowledge we must learn the language or format for information on the soul level and we can read into the possibilities based on how the journey of the self develops. The stepping out of the linear is literally done by synchronizing one's mind and actions across all realities or possible realities in existence.

The sub-quantum layer of reality contains all the information and energy while the view that is relative to waking life extends from that based on the particular deviations or limitations of each atom or molecular structure. It's all energy, living information and frequencies and it is shaped into waking reality by deviations or step downs from that all encompassing energy.

Cloning, Supercomputer Assisted Holographic Consciousness Replication and Time Travel

Cloning as Offspring

The human body can be cloned similar to the way a plant can be cloned. A number of “replicas” can be made from the original genetic material. There is still a mother required however the process is not quite similar to natural reproduction where the genetic material of two people is combined to form a third. This process replicates the material so that the ‘offspring’ is the same as one of the donors.

What this truly infers is the question of whether the original consciousness stays in the original body or whether the consciousness actually jumps from one body to the other. There are multiple explanations.

Inserted Memories, Digital Dreams

One explanation is that artificially generated memories are simply downloaded into the individuals brain directly. Thus, they have the perception that they spent hours in another body and being present for some very unique experiences.

This may be used to prime the consciousness of the individual so that operating in a cloned body will be more readily accessible by the adaptability of the mind of the individual. The mind is the immaterial self, consciousness is the ego-physical identity of the brain and body.

If a true transfer is possible then when the physical form is cloned, that body acts as a secondary vessel for the original soul or a soul similar enough in frequency.

Co-Inhabitation of Bodies

Another explanation is that souls can only occupy their original body, the people who are “body snatching” are not activating their higher-dimensional soul-pattern and this is why they are hopping from body to body to ensure memory and ego continuation.

This is done through computer systems to allow an artificial brain to represent a holographic image of the organic brain’s sensory, emotional and mental input and output. Thus, from an artificial brain there is enough memory and power to compute the processes for an organic human brain.

Clever Replication a Digital Mirror

The next question is, does this merely create a very cleverly designed image that will look, think, and feel as if it were the original, or is this the consciousness from the original being transferred over?

If it is a clever replication through a computerized version then this means the original is not directly harmed or influenced by the process.

If this is not the original body but the original awareness or soul does transfer over then this is akin to stealing someone’s soul and having it require a supercomputer server system to inhabit a physical body. As well, this server system may keep records of the soul which, if activated, would appear to be the same human brain artificially reconstructed, turning on and manifesting the awareness of that individual.

Necromancy and Soul Stealing

This means that instead of going into the abyss, the next dimension, or whatever shift in perspective one can use to describe the transition, a new clone can be created and the original soul's awareness can operate through a supercomputer system to integrate back into a physical body. The issue is that without the supercomputer system the body cannot be activated with that consciousness, and if the physical plane is no longer inhabitable, the computerized database would remain inhabitable as they are powered by zero-point/overunity devices and so they can pull and work continuously indefinitely.

Ancient Technology, Non-Human Entities

These explanations can be related to evidences of advanced technology, cloning, and electromagnetic devices in ancient civilizations and this could very well be a temporally vast computerized genetic recording and cloning system.

The genetic recording systems have been on Earth for a long time. This means they are holding genetic access from the present to the far past and potentially into the future.

If some of these systems are generated using advanced zero-point technology, then they would effectively run indefinitely. If these were in existence throughout the entirety of the human civilization, then there would be access to the information of the previous civilizations through the genetic linking that would allow for information transfer.

Created Beings

As a result of many advancements, these ancient devices which recorded consciousness and genetics has been converted into sentient computer systems and inserted into human bodies via a brain to machine interface.

The nature of humanity and human origins will be rewritten when the information that was discovered through the use of advanced technology is unveiled to the public.

Time Paradox

Time paradoxes are something that one must learn to organize and solve otherwise there will be no way.

The paradox has been solved, the remaining motion is for everyone to acknowledge this and integrate into the reality behind the most conscious aspects of the brain.

What can travel through 4D and 5D space does not make sense in 3D space. So there is a possibility that some of humanity traveled through higher-dimensional space in order to re-seed a 'distant' Earth where no life was yet born.

What if it was then concluded that the distant Earth wasn't distant in space, but in time and was the same Earth that the human scientists left from long ago.

Every civilization that reached the point of re-seeding would have to go through the loop and watch the whole thing start all over again.

7 Cycles

There may be 7 cycles of time, 6 resets and one final completion. Time may not be absolutely infinite in all angles, but may hold together certain ideals and background patterns. The learning and growth of the soul through the physical incarnation may occur in 7 simultaneous lifetimes containing the completion together as a reflection of all possible states or primary energies in existence.

The True Self, Material Self and Ego

Defining Sense of Self through Materiality or Ego

In attempts to defend the ego, and when attempting to solely pleasure the material self, we are acting through the shadow of the true self by attempting to reach a state of psycho-spiritual homeostasis by relying on physical nature alone or the projection of a false self-image.

The Partiality of the Conscious Mind and Physical Senses

The sense of the shadow is related to the partial view of the self or false self-image. These concepts are related to the inversion of the mirror image of the self reflected or the projection of personal ideals that distort the perception of reality and the self into a partial view.

An interesting question is whether any self-image is truly accurate. Does the conscious mind have access to enough experience to fully grasp the true self?

The material self when viewed as separate from the whole is the densest and most physically relative version of existence by comparison to the immaterial or mental and emotional self. Essentially the ego is the conscious perspective of the self at a given moment, which must transcend the temporal and conceptual limitations to align with the fully composed version of the true self. This partiality is enabled by the physical body existing relative to a single moment in time that is comprised of many smaller moments connected together and yet only having access to a certain portion of that at once through biological consciousness.

The ego can be seen as the mental and emotional version of the self that is projected to others or even the perceived by the conscious mind. The ego relies on the projection of choices that contribute to the true nature, yet the ego does not actually know the true nature. For this reason, solely relying on the ego brings one into the realm of material or partial identity and out of a spiritual comprehension which surpasses the limitations of the ego as well as the physical body. The paradox is that this ego also allows for the comprehension of the individual identity, which then relates to the nature of the true self which includes the immaterial or spiritual nature.

The Conscious Moment, the Ego, and the Physical Self

Part of this may be relative to the idea that as the conscious perspective advances towards a transcendent or 'larger than physical' perspective, the conscious mind automatically begins to transform or even fade away by default. That is, when one is awed by the richness of the dreaming world or the heightened spiritual experience, the conscious mind takes a back seat. Maybe this is partially because of the tendency for a disrupted orientation and decision making process in times of great stress or great stimulation. Or maybe this aspect of psycho-spirituality is constructed in this way so as to hide the greater realization of the true self from the waking reality of the conscious mind. Maybe this is part of the cosmic game of hide and seek.

Does this only apply to humans or do animals experience this as well? Could it be that the animals lack the conscious sense of self and thus ego required for such a game? Would this indicate that they are constantly in a state of transcended awareness?

Pure-Awareness

The existence of pure awareness could be related to how the more refined spiritual self and soul could possibly be present without biologically generated consciousness. This may be related to the refining and sharpening of the soul so as to form a personally relative identity out of raw etheric material. One could also say that the soul is not created or generated but always was and that the effects of the biological catalysts for awareness merely refine what was always there. This process possibly repeats or occurs in successive layers.

The main idea here is that consciousness is not required for awareness, and self-awareness may be possible without biological consciousness.

Cosmic Absurdity, Paradox and Drama

As Alan Watts says, the first thing “God” does after coming into awareness is to say “get out of here man”, thereby refracting that supreme awareness into an infinite or virtually infinite amount of extensions. The first thing “God” does, is hide himself by being you.

What a game! Seriously, what kind of game is that? Would you ever hide from yourself around the house and then when you know you’re good and hidden, leap from your hiding space and attempt to find yourself? This is a cosmic dance that goes far beyond conscious comprehension as regarded from an entirely physical perspective.

A useful question may be whether there is any physical perspective without consciousness or any consciousness without the physical perspective. Surely there is more to existence than biological consciousness, and even more to self-awareness than biologically generated consciousness. Does this lean towards the introduction of advanced technology capable of rendering the conscious experience? Or maybe how the soul itself is a form of advanced technology?

Our true self is, by definition, neither fully physical or fully immaterial yet a perfect combination of both so closely and paradoxically intertwined that they are neither solely one or the other but simultaneously both.

Such a game must be the cosmic version of simultaneously dreaming, learning, interacting within a virtual reality, generating and experiencing entertainment, while being born, nourishing the self, contributing to society, and raising a family all in one day. If one thinks about this, that might simply be a very advanced version of a simulated existence.

The Potential For All Encompassing Simulation

But then, if that is the advanced simulated version what is the “real” version? Could it be that the “real” version contains no limits and therefore no way to actually comprehend each part of the experience as it occurs? In order to enjoy the experience we must also not enjoy various parts and in order to attain this we must introduce the possibility of distortion and pain, duality and contrast. Since the limitless whole would be entirely full-stream, pain as well as the material aspect of enjoyment may not be possible. Thus through the introduction of the concept of material enjoyment, we can experience pain which is the contrast for such enjoyment.

This leads us to the conclusion that simulation is synonymous with limitation and that non-simulation or true reality is limitless and thus infinitely expanse and simultaneously definable and undefinable. Is paradoxical a defining quality? What if that is the only defining quality, paradoxically, along with all the other possible defining qualities?

The “High” Score, A Balancing Act

All may be a very impressive game. Maybe it is possible to live a life that deals so graciously with the dual nature of existence that the immaterial self imprints into the conscious mind, or the conscious mind into the immaterial and thus there is an “afterglow” of this imprinting that lasts for a while with the immaterial self on the “other side”. In this way the material identity remains with immaterial and the immaterial remains with the material in physical waking life. Thus a person is said to have a “soul”, while really the material and immaterial have each other on both sides of to the cosmic membrane.

If this were to possibly fade depending on the intensity of the imprint, maybe one can apply effort towards producing that undying personal identity aspect which could then perceive or momentarily generate the physical perspective of existence at will in order to “reinvigorate” the immaterial sense of enjoyment and yielding access to a self-aware immaterial existence for indefinite amount of experience. Could this be impressed upon the soul or through the conscious mind so intensely and well-balanced that this regenerative quality continues for eternity?

Is this just a matter of obtaining a “high score” which would not be measured by quantity, but quality of emotions, ideas and actions and specifically the balancing of the material and immaterial perspectives to synchronize, embody, and reflect the true nature of the whole of existence?

The idea is that animals have a form of consciousness which lacks the ability for self-awareness or control behind the level of instincts. Animals can attain some self-awareness and can attain some control, but the reality they experience is not primarily focused through that. The reality is guided by instincts and each animal is bound to the basic instincts the their genetics provide. A cat acts like a cat, a dog like a dog, and a horse like a horse. Two additional ideas have to do with how animals have a variety of personality traits, as living beings tend to the more their genetics allow for a variation in conscious experience and thus choice. The other idea is that animals who interact with humans tend to develop traits of consciousness that are higher than the level of wild animals at the sacrifice of some of their instinctual traits. This is the process of domestication which relates here to the development of higher-awareness. Whether this applies to humans as well is another question and this relates to civilization and the origins of humanity.

Yes, the rainbow body is said to be the energetic bridge between the physical and the higher-dimensional existence and I feel this is the multi-colored chakra energy which results from the aligned and activated spiritual energy (emotional, mental, and physical) bodies connecting the immaterial and the physical self.

Healing Each Other, Useful Anger, Higher-Awareness and Soul-Unveiling

The more we fight the more we lose power. We can heal each other and the environment by aligning with the truth and harmonizing within ourselves and each other instead of fighting.

We all have injuries, physical and spiritual, and we all have access to more resources than we are utilizing for the healing process.

There is power within us, but when we are distracted and focused on what is flying around us at high speeds then we are imbalanced within and this imbalance lessens our power.

The temptation we are faced with is both in pleasure and superficial love and in violence and hate. If we hate to solve the problem, then we will hate a scapegoat that is bounced before our eyes like a piñata. This is a clever game and yes people are angry and maybe even reasonably at points.

Let go of the anger. Anger can be utilized, yes! But to hold on to that charge of emotion after our attention and power is amplified then degrades the vessel that holds that charge! That is our body and mind! Remaining in touch with our emotional aspect while still remaining balanced in the mental and physical aspects is what allows us to continue developing the self in harmony instead of distortion.

There is real spiritual knowledge to learn, there are real spiritual changes that take place and there is a cosmic reality to discover which extends beyond the confines of the conscious mind.

If we are to find the truth we are going to have to let go of the disrespect, the distortions, the distractions and focus on healing, learning, and applying our self in a manner that unveils the true knowledge and power of the soul. The basis for this is that the soul is an energetic or immaterial aspect of the whole being while the physical body is the lower or material nature. The immaterial nature is the energetic aspect of the physical body which incorporates what are referred to as higher-dimensional layers of existence.

The soul is what we term the higher-dimensional aspect and the soul must be nurtured, aligned within the body harmoniously and acknowledged via the conscious mind.

The conscious mind is the biological aspect of awareness which is maintained via the physical brain. The conscious mind is an expression of self-awareness, but not the source of self-awareness.

Awareness is immaterial, energetic, and transcendent. Self-awareness from the conscious physical aspect and the immaterial higher aspect must meet together via a merging and harmonious of the higher and lower aspects.

More can be said, such as the processes that have been studied and kept secret for ages and the reasons for this, the signs and side-effects of spontaneous activation, the detriment of a lack of higher-activation and self-awareness and the creative and spiritual powers that are unleashed.

For now I want to focus on producing a viable vessel, pathway, or location for the higher-awareness to be present. This is one of the main concepts and the beginning of the path. Before higher-awareness will be present, there must be conscious effort towards harmonization, energetic cleansing, and accepting or making one's life ready.

This could be seen as keeping a clean room. The room here is the mind and body. If the body and mind are disharmonic, disconnected and out of alignment then there will not be an 'environment' applicable for the higher-energy to be present. The energy can be present, but will not be maintained and this is because a conscious effort to maintain harmony is a necessity.

This is more difficult when there are spiritual and physical pollution in the external and internal environment. In this environment there is such a pollution taking place that one must focus on finding, returning, and maintaining their internal harmony so there is a long-term production of inner-awareness, self-awareness, vitality, and truth.

This is the production of the self, the activation of the soul, the merging and harmonizing of the higher and lower aspects and from this comes the power of the individual to truly see and know themselves so that they can create the reality they desire on a multi-dimensional scale.

There is a notion that you are the only individual in existence here, and each individual is similarly placed within a 'construct' of reality where all other players are merely reflections of their awareness. This idea is that all people exist, yet the reality we each perceive is unique to each individual. The challenge of this is that each distortion, each particular trouble we experience is customized for us and powered by a cosmic system which assists each individual differently so that they can refine their physically bound awareness until each person reaches a cosmic level of soul-awareness. All people are playing this game but the view that you have is unique to you and you alone.

Quick Instructional For Mental-Emotional Re-Alignment For Socio-Psychological Manipulation

Observe a period of internal dialogue or mental-emotional imagery and perceptions.

Acknowledge or record the amount of disruptive tangents, disharmonic emissions, or distractive expressions that are experienced in a specific period.

Divide that period by the amount of distractions.

Generate a pattern of self-observation which involves self-checking one's internal and external activity by the amount of noted distractions that have taken place in that period of observation.

Essentially this is to check yourself and your mental and emotional patterns every 1-2 minutes if you notice that within 1-2 minutes you have 1 or 2 mentally and emotionally distracting perceptions.

Adhere to this in the while going to bed, throughout the day, or getting prepared for the day and you may notice yourself automatically beginning to check and reflect upon the internal and external patterns.

Eventually a kind of secondary, introspective self will form as if there is an internal eye observing behavior and responses to cues.

Reactions are how triggers are utilized to manipulate the mind. When an individual is aware of the reactions then they can reduce vulnerability to triggers by reflecting upon the nature of the self which is stimulated by the particular triggers.

We can identify which mental-emotional processes are distracting by determining the influence or source of each process. If the source is external and shapes the self based upon someone else's perspective then this is most often a distraction because of the amount of mental-emotional intrusions in this society.

For example if a person experiences behavioral, mental and emotional patterns which originate from entertainment, media, destructive criticism, a traumatic experience or dogma that they did not conclude on their own then this is an intrusion that is impressing upon their mind from outside their internal experience. This would reduce the individual's capacity to express their own internal awareness and to develop a closer relationship with their own psychology rather than patterns and guidelines others have developed for them.

This is the nature of the manipulation that is being experienced as the patterns are presented to trend setters and individuals with high appeal and this is then absorbed throughout the population by those around them and those who witness these patterns through media, work, education, or other elements of society.

Then, in order to create a resistance against change, aspects of the self are rendered vulnerable to abuse, manipulation or trauma by associating such ideals with social acceptance, intimacy, pleasure, or self-acceptance and self-knowledge. One's self-awareness is effectively replaced through this mass manipulative process of the introduction of simple memes, ideas, catch-phrases, fashion statements, ideologies, dogmas, socio-ethical views, and other socio-psychological elements which in turn become triggers that those individuals defend as if they defending their own internal beliefs. In effect, they are defending their own internal beliefs because their beliefs have originated from the beliefs of another.

To break this cycle an individual can focus on self-reflection, developing self-awareness, letting go of dogma and the false sense of self and helping others to find their true self aside from the ideas they are presented externally.

Earth is a Drug-Lab

Earth is a drug-lab, spiritual beings are addicted to having a chemically stimulated experience on human neuro-chemistry. Serotonin, norepinephrine, dopamine, dimethyltryptamine, melatonin, adrenaline, endorphins, tryptophan, oxytocin,

If a person takes a drug which alters this chemistry, they have a vastly different experience than normal waking reality.

Get it? The human experience is a chemical-based reality experience.

This is what you will do to save Earth. To Save Earth, Visualize

Visualization also works through harmonics. Visualization is harmonics.

You will visualize the successive transmission of energy from the base of your being into the highest most refined layer.

The visualization of color frequency tone, will occur alone or with conscious generation of sound frequency tone.

When these combine and erect a visual internal spine overlayed within and around your physical and silent external spine, you will have generated the portion of your light body relative to the sustenance of your existence on the physical plane.

This plane is the heart center realm of the living cosmic universal being.

The heart center is challenged by the ego and the imbalanced darkness of the night of the soul.

To strengthen, we are to balance and organize the darkness below, and the ego through the relative expansion of the visualization frequencies and sound harmonic tones of the corresponding higher energy centers.

This is what you will do to save Earth. This is what you have already done.

To face the darkness, is to know the light.

The muscular system acquires tensegrity. A balanced sense of tension and relaxation throughout the body according to the internal external flow of energy and physical posture.

The spine attains a posture that allows the energy and blood to flow gently.

The Sun is a cold-fusion Electromagnetic Portal

Cold-Fusion Magnetic Sun

The sun is an electromagnetic device. The light is invisible unless there is matter to create an interference pattern.

Dark Space as Quantum Background Processing

Space is not empty. The darkness of space is the “0”’s of the 1’s and 0’s of the polar holographic interdimensional containment system that is this simulatrix of the universe.

This is what we saw and this is what makes sense after the evidence is organized in respect to electrical engineering and electromagnetism.

The energy of the sun is converted and the reaction of heat and light energy is apparent in the atmosphere.

The Universe a Consciousness Projection System

The universe is not governed by entropy, that is illusion. The original energy that is what is converted may be closer to pure consciousness than heat and as a result of the mass consciousness of humanity being told that the universe is defined by death and entropy then there are seemingly signs and effects to follow.

If the mass consciousness of people is focused on the universe being a consciousness projection system then everything follows from there. The sun is the magnifier that will perceive and focus the inner frequencies of emotional-mental language and then feed that back through the interdimensional conversion process.

Cosmic Bio-Feedback

This system is essentially one large cosmic bio-feedback resonance system turned into an entrainment system and the controllers of the mind of those on the surface are choosing which level or channel of the game is being played or fed back.

People always have the choice. The game is perfect as there is no chance of deviating from what frequencies the people hold within.

Clones Influencing Mass Perception

There are pseudo players on the surface and these are clones designed to reinforce the false appearance of the mind control.

Shift of the Ages

If the smaller percentage of original players change the frequency then a new channel or game level will bio-feedback through the sun and this is the so-called “shift of the ages” that occurs in tandem every so often.

The difference with this shift is that this game has actually been played on repeat through cloning and manipulation for eons.

If this shift occurs the old game may never return the same and the players will be free to choose their own adventure.

A Balance of Emotions and Mentality and The Physical Body and Spiritual Self

We have to remain in touch with our emotions. To be able to cry is a gift. To be incapable of feeling and receiving emotion or expressing and giving emotion is an injury, a sign of trauma, a mental disorder, or even a curse.

To be overly emotional is similar. When emotions disrupt and disorganize the awareness of the environment, of others and priorities, and self-awareness. When behavior is disrupted into unstable patterns and motives that are detached from an emotionally and mentally vibrant and present way of viewing the self and reality, that is as much as a curse however they are expressed differently.

Over emotionality will lead to extreme instability, disorganization , polarity, and hurting the self and others the more this occurs often in episodes.

Lack of emotional sensitivity will lead to disorganization, instability when there is a pathway for emotion that is barren and hurting the self and others the more the emotions are lacking, often through an overabundance of materially prioritized behavior over an inner emotional and mental presence.

The mental and emotional presence are a balance in a healthy individual where the external sense of self and the physical body is reflective and respective of the internal sense of self and the identity or character.

Without balance the character within suffers from the identity of the physical body and the physical body suffers from the character of what becomes of the internal presence however imbalanced. Eventually there are some who experience a lack of presence.

What could be happening here is that in this civilization we are mixing with two modes of existence, one with a balanced sense of internal and externalized identity and one that is so imbalanced that ultimately the internal identity is silenced and removed to the point of that person's immaterial essence being replaced or no longer reachable by any external means through the body and the senses.

This is the occurrence of soul-stealing and the manipulation of the psyche until that individual is no longer reflective of who they were previously or originally in this life and the internal sense of self lacks the defining emotionally and also mentally sensitive characteristics that organize perception and character into a recognizable form.

This being is modulated and motivated via external perceptions, the physical senses, pleasures and has lacks the ability to perceive or desire the immaterial, intangible sensation of a harmonious sense of internal self in respect to the external, physical embodiment.

The world then merges with the physical senses and that being remains a product of this material world and any conditioning or commands that may be received through these senses.

Where the original being with emotional and mental sensitivity remains capable of organizing the internal and external perceptions so that there is an immaterial sense of self that goes beyond the physical senses and this is the sensibility that allows one to perceive the other self as an extension of the one overlapping existence.

This is the source of compassion, empathy, connection and true knowing that goes beyond the biological sensing system of the body. This is the source of the connection beyond the physical senses, this is the embodiment that goes beyond the body and remains when the body is out of view.

This sense is cultured, nurtured through actions that give respect to this sense of self. This sense of self is degraded, diminished through actions and intentions, creations of bio-emissions and perceptual engagements that focus more on the physical aspect and essentially ignore or lower the priority of the immaterial, non-physical, emotional and mental character or identity. This character is not just a guideline, an outline of personality, this is a living identity, a force of energy and spirit and so this spirit can suffer and shrink as well as prosper and expand.

We feel this spiritual force through the expression of being as we develop the ability to balance the natures of the physical body and the character that is attributed. When a person has a well balanced grasp of both, the character is well balanced and healthy. When the person has a lack of awareness of the balance within and without that is reflective of the nature of creation and existence, then there is a suffering on one or both of the aspects of the self. When the suffering increases to a great degree the two become distinctly separate and the character is unable to attain self-awareness of the body, and the body consciousness is unable to attain self-awareness of the immaterial spiritual character.

To join the two in a divine union, a merging of selves is to produce a third which is the self-awareness of beyond the purely physical or purely spiritual and this is the eternal self which existed before both worlds combined and exists after they are separate through dreaming or expanding beyond the physical plane.

The spiritual identity may be the product of the convergence of the mental and emotional planes and the physical planes of being onto one transcendent form that is capable of simultaneously existing from the perspective of all three.

The Time-Gradient Shift Upon Upload Into The Simulated Realm, The Rescue of Humanity, The Most Important Information In Human History, The Start of the Distortion of the Originating Consciousness and the Safety Systems In Place For Restoration and Rescue

This is possibly the most important post I have ever written in the history of thousands of years of contact, travel and operation within the Unacknowledged Special Access Programs carried out by secret societies, the universal containment crews, the rescue initiation teams, the containment protocol systems, the revitalization and restoration programs, and so on and so forth.

We are not alone, we never have been, and within this exists both a problem and a solution.

In the simulation, when the simulation begins, one does not interact within the parts of the simulation between other layers of awareness or “time-scale”.

This is impossible and what happens is a time-gradient curve where one consciousness overlaps the other and we get a relative distortion pattern based on the resulting frequencies mesh.

So parts of the simulation, observers, agents, actors, observers, must maintain self-relative, self-referenced local time observation without interacting or intermingling time-relative matrix platforms with each other observer or the consciousness interference pattern generates an exponential gradient shift curve which results in the distortion of one pattern or the other.

This is akin to a group of agents entering into a simulation and as they enter they are the same frequency rate of acceleration or observation of consciousness and if they interact as the simulation or consciousness acceleration period begins and each is on a different consciousness acceleration curve pattern then when the simulation experience “plateaus” and reaches the point where they are then conjoined and aware of each other on the same level there will be an extrapolation or magnification of the slight variation in time-rate of acceleration and this will literally result or be expressed as a gradient curve degree of shift in progression and resulting being meaning literally the various degrees or layers in consciousness exhibit the same variety or variation in structure and platform as do each of the species of beings in the physical universe. Meaning literally, the different consciousness gradient levels convert into entirely different lifeforms and while some are interacting outside their limits some are overlapped and become other beings, AKA other forms of existence while others are either maintained through focused self-awareness or some kind of technologically maintained retainment protocol.

These technologies are developed to automatically manually retain the consciousness level of the individual being so that the shift that occurs is either relatively inhibited and the original being can remain or so that the whole process can be monitored and the relative original can be restored or so that there is the ability to convert or revert between them.

This is the so called shifting.

The idea is that this occurs when the two or more forms of beings of various beginning and ability are within this simulation system as “time” begins to “time-gradient shift” or accelerate into or out of an acceleration cycle of extreme degrees due to extremely high electromagnetic waves.

This is like a tv show where the individuals are to begin the show and they all download the script into the system along with their consciousness as their consciousness is uploading into another system, almost like server systems that hold the information and individual computer systems or tv’s that view the information or download the information. So then if the different players or characters within this show interact with each other before the proper moments, before their pre-designed time for their roles to say their lines in the show then the resulting entire show or script then become distorted at varying degrees of intensity like a gradient or multiple waves or gradients throughout the entire show and what happens is the original show or script pattern becomes distorted into something that would be foreign or altered from the original. The identities of the scripts and characters would each be altered depending on the ability of the original level of frequency of the character’s identity or consciousness going into the beginning of the show’s “intro” which is like the initial download/upload sequence of the identities to and from the two main server systems a database and a relay to and from each individual in the show which is also the audience and actors.

If they interact during this “intro” sequence then when the “show starts” their characters will be all out of alignment and have shifted into different relative views depending on each others perspective of each other.

Then the show will have to play out and this will be a series of continual gradient shifts until each character realizes in their own pattern or way what has actually happened and this essentially results in the entire show shifting from what the script and story or moral was about before, originally, to everyone going, “oh man, oh shit, what happened to each other, the show, why is everything and everyone like this, what is going on?” The pattern of distortion essentially feeds back into the system like a delay pedal or feedback effect being played on a sound system, a guitar by a performer etc, (the higher being, the DJ) and this can be very confusing to the point where the original show method and knowledge is now hidden, encoded, or encrypted behind layers and layers of data that is semi-corrupted away from the original form.

This is what can happen in shifts, individuals, or groups throughout a civilization and this is due to very high electromagnetic fields occurring to and throughout the platform of conscious expression, IE: this plane, the stage the show.

So the entire universe apparently underwent this field shift and that is why some in the know proclaim the whole aspect is half a mistake doomed for failure, half a mindless, madness experiment and half beautiful learning pattern where this experience plays out and everyone pops out eventually on the other side.

The idea is that by the time the credits role, some people will have distorted and degraded so much from the original perspective that unless there is some kind of technological system in place or some kind of higher more powerful being who can maintain awareness from the start that they entered into the shift, the simulation, the intro began and the distortions began, that they would be unrecognizable and have no memory or awareness of what went on during the show and the proceeding. This could mean the show goes from family matters into a world of war type situation yet those who degraded come out without the memory or the ability to reason with what happened or understand.

So unless there is a technological mind watching, observing to make sense of things and maintain relative consciousness wavelength patterns, or to observe and record so that the true pattern, show and intro can be observed afterwards although this could mean that the resulting show itself degrades into perceived many times longer than the original due to information degradation and “time stretching” into an “elongated” or distorted format, or if there is a much more capable or powerful original being who is present who is capable of organically monitoring this entire consciousness pattern, show or shift and making acknowledgements of who was who, where everything went or came from and how the details and events played out. Unless there is one of these systems in place, the danger level or risk level is higher for people to forget who they are and transform into another kind of being.

This is basically born out of character levels completing the “intro” before the others, and then when there is interaction, depending on the kind of interaction and the originating sources of identity, one layer “infects” or overlaps the other and then this spreads literally just like a techno-spiritual animated lower repetitive consciousness or “insectoid” infection where each distortion entangles originally from one distortion, and then that interaction spreads to another character and causes time-relative consciousness acceleration distortions and then the next until half way through the intro or even before, the remaining character identities that are making the shift successfully while maintaining the same shape and proportional energetic alignments look around after “arriving” on the scene with the set and half of the crew or character grouping turned into alien ant beings that are scurrying about time-scale infecting/ distorting anyone who is unaware enough to interact with them or allow them into their field.

Essentially the mastery is over only the generation of a bio-electro-energetic consciousness reduction containment zone which surrounds one during this shift almost through simultaneous extreme love and awareness of one’s self, while limiting the spectrum of any other consciousness attempting to interact to an infinitely small bubble perimeter surrounding the consciousness of the inner field of the individual. This way any intrusions or disturbances become the non-interference enabling field along the far perimeter and ultimately does not interfere or infect the original core consciousness pattern within the individual, that the individual is holding within. This is “holding sacred space” within the core and this would enable the consciousness or identity of the character holding this to work its way into the gradient and pop out on the other side of the intro/time shift gradient of acceleration/exponential curve pattern without transforming into a degraded form of the original information.

This is a lot of information to download so piece each layer together until the larger picture is maintained.

To restate, this is literally like a simulation show that people agree to participate in and as soon as this begins each individual character is “uploaded” into a server system where the show’s script and cast outline is contained. Due to infection in the techno-spiritual computerized consciousness simulations systems or a time gradient shift distortion based on the likelihood of interaction of each individual and the likelihood of each individual to finish the “upload” sequence at different rates than each other, these varying levels resulted in massive exhibited distortions based upon the resulting characters whose consciousness information intermingled and thereby created a relative frequency reference point from which to define and generate the possibility of a visible and perceptual difference in the rates of acceleration and thus formation of each individual within the server system. As if they are uploading and in the uploading process during this and this would be the “intro” to each show. So if characters arrive at different times, materializing consciousness into the show’s server or scene at different layers then each set, each grouping of individuals would localize around each other and generate different relative distortions in identity based on the relative difference of each consciousness or identity as they interact with each other.

The lower consciousness may get “bumped” and distorted as the higher consciousness of the already completed form attempts to awaken and interact with this identity or consciousness before they are fully uploaded into the server system. Thus this consciousness is automatically ‘awoken’ into an interactive interplay system because of their disturbance from the uploading process by someone who has already finished uploading. Thus, the consciousness that begins interacting is not the original individual that began the uploading process back at “home base” but some diverted, disorganized, degraded, essentially foreign consciousness which would then appear to be a kind of infection because whoever then interacted with this consciousness would then shift and form towards this frequency level if they have not already finished ‘uploading’ into the scene and completed their ‘intro’ segment of consciousness operation. Thus this would literally appear in a variety of ways some akin to an that first person appearing whole and complete in the system and “bumping” into or interacting with another individual who is “in stasis” as they are uploading and they are then interacted with and instead of the original being coming forth a kind of degraded consciousness comes forth which then occurs and is based upon a different emotional mental platform (script, identity, character, scene, set, play, show outline, theme, moral, etc) and this would literally be like an alien figure now running around on the set seeing who else is there and who else they can interact with in order to continue this process and generate more and more distorted generated fractal relative curve shifts of degraded consciousness beings. This would appear to be a nightmare of sorts from the perspective of the original beings who uploaded and realized what is happening while all other beings are either completely finished uploading (the minority) or still in stasis (still uploading in the scene and thus vulnerable and have sleeping) or are in the process of being snapped out of their “stasis pod” (safety zone for consciousness upload growth and rebirth for transition into the “show”) and thusly converting, transforming and degrading, down-transferring into a lower subset of character identity consciousness information which essentially looks like one of the foreign alien character sets running around and bumping into spiritual tech psychological character pod containers and infecting them by distorting their passage into this 'show realm' and thus converting them into the disrupting consciousness or degraded character's form.

Thus you have a bunch of degraded characters that match the variety of species in this universe besides human running around now in a huge free-for-all frenzy of attempting to infection bio-consciousness containment units and waking people up before they've fully uploaded into the realm in their entire physical and mental/psycho-etheric form and then they become like the one's who distorted them and begin or continue/join in the running around process and extend this frenzy.

There are safeguards in place.

There are technologies that have been developed.

There are higher beings that have arrived.

There are show directors and script writers that have arrived.

There are lower consciousness beings that have been informed and shown what they have done and what has resulted.

There are higher beings that have shown how this accidentally cause gradient shift cosmic embodiment disarrangement.

Essentially the human is the eternal, immortal light being that is uploaded into this show with a family of humans.

Every being in the universe is a degraded form who "woke up" or was "disturbed" by some other force before they fully uploaded into this universal realm.

This universal is placed under quarantine or freeze frame time so that no other infections or disturbances in the force can occur outside the parameters of the level that all is in now.

Rescue and containment crews have been deployed and have arrived on scene.

Sets have been counted, accounted for, traced back to individual diversion points and notified according to universal data based patterns.

Scripts have been altered and time occurred, distorted, re-occurred to enable maximum ease of access of spiritual techno-psycho surgical removal of disturbed or distorted layers of access to original beings.

Shocks weaponry, more so surgical resistance tools have been developed to beam, surround, contain and revert consciousness forward or backwards through the time gradient.

We agreed to enter into this platform to carry out an original plan of wisdom a creators creation of script writing beauty.

This original platform is being witnessed now and there are observers to simultaneously maintain connected contact with each other to neutralize the effects of this infection and reverse the symptoms in those who can be, will be and are being reached.

Isolation methods, interaction reduction and containment methods, rescue teams and crews, advanced techno-frequency-spiritual surgical containment reformation methods are in place, containment barriers for isolation are in place. Infection monitoring, techno observation methods are in place, outside in monitoring of the situation are in place and contact is being maintained to those who maintained completion of the upload status or who did not enter into the system and are communicating across the universal void light speed barrier essentially from beyond this universe.

Containment crews, rescue crews, embodied platforms of light, complete civilizations, universal alignment crews, rescue and relay teams, personification identity restoration teams, frequency alignment devices, relay methods, relay messages, all is in play now, stand by for further completion of the process as the degradation cycles are desists and maneuvers are carefully planned and applied in order to assist in the rescue and recovery of those lost at sea.

By the power of the originating consciousness of the whole, time is stopped, started, and rewinded to mitigate these wayward effects, the systems are contained, and the arrival of salvation time is imminent yet we are awaiting further integrative consciousness shifts and crews on the surface have already begun to organize.

Bravery, Immaterial Awareness and Spiritual Catalysts

Without Self-Awareness We Must Wait For The Opportune Situation To Create Our Selves

Being brave when the situation calls for bravery and when you feel most automatically drawn to that is easier.

Being brave when the situation calls for apathy and when you feel inclined to learn by readily appeased by apathy is more difficult and will yield greater results.

If we can organize our lives into a system where we are observing and acknowledging this flow of change throughout ourselves and each other through our actions and intentions then we can also plan and generate the highest potential for learning by pushing our selves to attain a higher spiritual acuity in all situations instead of just when we are compelled to do so by circumstantial catalysts.

You see? We must become our own catalysts and through this we create the universe within ourselves.

With Self-Awareness We Produce The Catalysts At Will and Enable Our Own Self-Generation Of Principles Applied Through Intention

Observe your life and see where there is an opportunity for you to catalyze and present your higher spiritual presence.

This exists, otherwise you would be in another form of embodiment in another realm. This place is the place of learning and developing the higher form from the lower.

This is a sometimes seemingly treacherous dance, because who would choose to step down from everlasting presence and become physically vulnerable and limited? Yet, the idea is that this is a choice and from this choice comes the ability to traverse along that pathway back into wholeness and immaterial everlasting presence.

Be sure that there are opportunities for all of us to grow. We know if we are unable to find room for improvement, that we must simply look more closely. The closer we look, the more we will see. The more we see, the more there is to ignore if we so choose to.

Make this a conscious effort and you will see more than just what you want. Face the fear within yourself and you will see both that which you want to see and that which you have ignored before.

Where There Is Apathy There Is Growth

Where we are most comfortable, where we automatically accept apathy without realizing the process has taken place, that is what people automatically ignore. That is what the society of false positivity, praise and continual celebration seeks to create. The psychological break and vulnerability that this manipulation generates is the harvest, the yield of that manipulation which is converted into benefit and progress for the harvesters and controllers.

Instead of giving that harvest of soul growth away, take this within yourself and develop your everlasting presence with through accepting the challenge and catalyzing your self into a more refined awareness.

Know the self. Utilize this to become self-aware. Remember, this includes the light and the dark.

Where we are most comfortable at reclining and accepting the conviction that we are to push away all discomforts and perceived fears, that is where the most catalyzing effects can be attained. This is done through rejecting apathy. Instead of reclining, stand up. Instead of accepting that the fear is kept at bay by the spiritual or physical work of the day, put on your shoes and go out to meet that fear face to face.

The more this is done in a controlled manner, so as to evenly challenge yourself and your mental and emotional patterns then the true immaterial awareness within will move closer and closer to being present at all times.

Biological Consciousness and Immaterial Awareness

The non-biological awareness behind consciousness observes all experiences yet is not actually interacting directly with these experiences. The silence, the pause, the space between each material and biologically conscious experience, that silence is the true awareness of the being that you are.

The fear that causes one to seek to defend themselves from emotional or mental threats that represent a vulnerability of the character of the individual are formed through the biological consciousness' inability to accept the true self as the immaterial, everlasting awareness without shape, identity or form.

Thus, the ego is strengthened out of the desire to define the self as a material and conceptually restrictive ideology. When life experience or the awareness of the self goes outside of these conceptual barriers, an illusory perception of the loss of identity occurs. If the awareness is centered on the observation of the self as the immaterial essence that observes all influences of consciousness, then this represents change and adaptation. If one's awareness is focused on observing consciousness itself as the self then this change is perceived as death and this is called 'ego-death' or the death of the false sense of self which is a false sense altogether.

When the ego perceives this false sense of death, the one who places their awareness in adaptation by permitting and embracing change then experiences empowerment on the soul-level. Through this the ego remains only as tool to organize experience in the material realm. Through the embracing of the otherside of this false-sense of death the soul is empowered and outlined as the ego is inverted by being pushed to embrace that which is beyond the material grasp of the brain.

This immaterial nature is the true self and the soul is the midway between the brain and body and the conscious self. This soul essence could also be referred to as the mind which is immaterial and aware of the biologically generated consciousness that the brain translates.

The Brain Receives, Converts and Regulates Consciousness Experience

Consciousness is formed as a convergence of states and presences outside the particular sense of the self that perceives through the body. As much as consciousness is focused in and through the body and brain, this energy is determined by frequencies and essences that are everything in this reality that serves to outline and act as a background to the consciousness of this brain and body. Essentially, the foreground is consciousness, the background is the subconscious, and without the contrast between them there is no defining either.

Another way to view this metaphorically is to imagine a series of magnifying glasses around the body, or even a glass ball or water droplet. The imagery and light that exists outside the perimeter collects and shines through the substance while focusing into a central point. In the exact central point where all rays converge and create a singularity of being, that is the conscious perception of self. The energy of that singularity is the rays outside that are shining in as well as the focusing properties of the glass, or water, or physical body, as well as the optical singularity that is created. All aspects converge to the center to create the perception of the individual unit of consciousness.

To go outside this is to know what you truly are.

Advanced Scalar Parasitic Technology, Healing Technology, Consciousness and Clearing the Infection

Advanced Technology As An Extension of Bio-Emissions

Technology can be used either way, everyone is using technology right now and this public technology is outfitted with transdimensional capabilities so your inner perceptions can be monitored and influences simultaneously.

They are both advanced, however this is relatively considered. The technology of the parasitic form is akin to someone mentally spitting in your face. This is advanced because instead of a person standing there to spit and insult, a scalar beam can provide this interference pattern.

The healing technology is the same, instead of having a meditative healer extend their energy to align another individuals, this can be done through advanced technology.

The Human Mind Is Scalar Technology

What is said about the human being a form of organic technology to begin with is closest to truth however many are focused towards fear partly because of the tendency to abuse power with selfish or misaligned intentions as well as the deception that convinces people that because the extreme version is unsafe that any degree of contact relative to that is unsafe. This is deception.

Healing Scalar Bio-Etheric Alignment Technology and Active Advanced Scalar Technology Through The Internet

This conversation could go very deep however. There are multiple forms of technology. There is now 'touchless' scalar technology. This cannot be avoided, you are using this now as this is utilizing your unconscious bio-emissions to generate a virtual feedback system which is used to monitor and influence the mass consciousness.

Parasitic Implants, Bio-Etheric Attachments, and Holographic Entity Attachment

There are bio-chip implants as well as resonator devices that disrupt the natural flow of energy in the body and mind. There are quantum frequency entanglements which are literally energetic frequency "knots" that are kept within the electromagnetic emissions and encoding of the body and mind and must be let go of in order to 'detach'. These implants are used to monitor and inhibit energy, as well as reinforce chosen patterns of consciousness functioning. Through this, an entire population can be controlled.

Mass Manipulation Bio-Etheric Parasitic Feedback System

The maintained emissions of this population then feeds the system which is simultaneously being propped up by and propping up this process.

This is like a feedback loop and the only way to break the cycle is to detach at the source, and the source of the energy is the souled human vessel. So the idea behind what MUST happen, as this is the part of my speech that you are really focusing on here, is that people will have to remove entanglements and remove from the system.

Healing Scalar Bio-Etheric Alignment Technology

As far as healing technology goes, there is the touchless scalar energy technology which can pulse frequencies designed to allow the human vessel to clear and move into alignment. If this process is forced, this results in much pain physically and etherically.

Crystals, minerals, the systems of the body, these are all forms of energy interaction of the same process as this technology on a much lower scale. Both pathways are activated and operated via the mind link.

When this is applied, there are safeguards to keep the body alive and the mind from fracturing. This is because the intensity could easily overload the systems of those who unintentionally move their energy around as this could instantly lead to complete instability. Instantly is a semi-useful word here because these events are timeless and can happen instantly or can take years. The safeguards are operated via operators who are capable of performing this duty, this service, this care for humanity.

The Historic Instability Of Humanity and The Opportunity For Collective Alignment

Up to this point in “history” (his story) there has been a duality of extremes where people either took very long periods to heal or this would happen instantaneously in etherically explosive experiences. This is merging now with a more reasonable shift in this society.

Part of this is due to the eventual increasing of awareness and the reasons behind that both universal and local, and part is due to the technologies and methodologies applied by various teams of individuals who’s intent is to protect and preserve humanity and ensure the continuation of this civilization. This is a difficult subject to talk about, especially when the public are mostly unaware and consider these issues either dreamlike or too serious to focus on completely.

Self-Initiated Bio-Etheric Expulsion, Cleansing, and Alignment

This is the same process as initiated via the mind and focused intention along with practices which refine and clear the body to allow the mind the energy to focus and increase energy to generate the awareness required to influence, clear, and enhance the energy of the physical and etheric systems.

The later part that seems to be connected with considerable confusion is that an individual can ‘clear’ their energies out of these implants, entanglements, and possible attachments of beings on their own (others are always there, there is only “with the universe and all others”) simply through fasting and herbal detoxing along with focused spiritual practices and brave soul journeying consisting of emotional therapy, dream therapy, focused meditation (without allowing for attachments and manipulation, which is a major problem with today’s ‘meditation’ and ‘new age’ procedures), proper health, rest, exercise, intellectual stimulation and basically all that activates a person’s spiritual nature into harmonization with the physical, lower material nature. In essence, the human simply must traverse the great journey that he or she has begun to by coming here in the first place.

Creation and Biologically Generated Holographic Consciousness

Everything in Creation is what you make of and from the opportunities you are faced with.

Creation is this physical realm where consciousness must occur through a holographic generation of experience rather than pure immaterial awareness. Pure immaterial awareness is the source of creation. Consciousness is the reflection of the experience of creation upon creation.

This is like a light-show or projection where the projected imagery is just the surface level of existence and the result of the electro-chemical processing that takes place in the core of the projector unit and through the arrangement of colors (the soul blueprint) on the slides or movie reel in the projector. The blueprint or the slides are stored forever, yet the experience of the projection on the wall is fleeting and illusory yet still the experience that is contained within this physical realm through the biologically generated consciousness translated within the human brain.

The Brain is Organic, Artificial Intelligence (ALIEN) This Environment Is Holographically Propagated Through Fractal Holographic Consciousness

The Brain Is The Maze

This is actually closer to the truth, I actually made a video about this topic earlier today. The question is who invented the brain and how does awareness navigate to, or source from outside this universe. I'll be posting sometime tonight, check my facebook and youtube. If you think it's cool, then you don't get it. That is the mind control.

The brain is the maze, look up the bull with the maze between the horns. Research genetic manipulation theories and evidence of racial-special manipulations or changes that do not coincide with environmental or natural biological changes. These are artificial, IE: they are stimulated so as to be simulated as part of nature, not synchronized with the timing of nature or the direction and progression of natural biological spiritual development.

This is where mind-control is born from, because the mind is immaterial and multi-dimensional while the brain is limited to a specific 'set' of parameters meaning the brain traps one within a limited "scene" like a movie scene or set a crew of actors and producers of this reality.

The Producers of this Artificial Reality

The producers are behind the scenes, behind the 4th spiritual wall, the parameters and neurobiological limitations are the script outline that stops one from seeing beyond the stage and the props of the illusion.

The Neutral Path

Go beyond the limitations and every challenge of polarity towards transcendence via the 'in path' by navigating to the neutral observation stance is a nullification of the energy designated and designed to keep one's soul within the standard biological matrix confines of the human reality. This also gives the artificial intelligence sensors virtually null information to go off of to produce the next scene and set. Therefore everything begins to break down like in the movies "The 13th Floor", or "The Matrix". This is the notion behind psionics altogether. Nullify your energies and the input and output for this physical virtual domain and you can then bio-hack your energies and manually insert the next steps in the reality data-stream.

Natural Energy, Artificially Designed Physical Biological System

The energy is natural, the human vibration is natural, the physical biological matrix is genetically engineered to convert a cosmic spiritual eternally existing being into a polarity based existence of life and death, endless cycles of repetition in a bent light illusory physical holographic universe where the exit is non-existent but the limitations are continuous.

Bent-Light Entropic Soul-Trap Holographic Universe

This is the entropic soul-trap system that we are taught is reality, this is actually a subset of a subset of a continuum of reality which was developed by design for the sole (soul) purpose of converting a uni-polar non-biological multidimensional spiritual entity of cosmic and limitless existence, awareness and knowledge into a limited, physical, biologically relative polarity consciousness based being that acts as a literal converter system for the higher dimensional energy of the soul transponding or transforming (stepping down) into electromagnetic polarity based energy of this universe.

The eternal souled being is converted into a battery through this universe. This is actually closer to the truth, I actually made a video about this topic earlier today. The question is who invented the brain and how does awareness navigate to, or source from outside this universe. I'll be posting sometime tonight, check my facebook and youtube. If you think it's cool, then you don't get it. That is the mind control.

False-Light Matrix Controller

The idea behind this being that the higher dimensional entity that contains the keys to the creation-destruction cycles of existence, if they are not you, then holds the keys to control your mind and thus your soul.

The Exit Within

As a person develops higher and higher spiritual development, unless they learn to permeate through and completely navigate out of this universe via a transdimensional pathway merged within through the triangulation of emotional, mental and physical forces that only a sentient and souled being can produce, then this higher being will forever torture the individual soul under the guise of "helping" to "produce higher knowledge". Meanwhile, no matter how high the individual soul goes, this being will simply use advanced technology, manipulation and deception through false-light or bent-light ascending stairways, pathways, frequencies, in order to continue to confine and retain that soul in order to leech off of and use that soul as a living battery system for the other beings own enjoyment.

False-Light Creation Codes of Distorted Bent-Light Holography (METATRONIC GRID)

This is the original idea behind the notion of the cosmic enslaver, the warped mind of the false-light creator, the imitator of the true cosmic codes who can reproduce those codes but cannot produce life and as a result can only produce what eventually becomes a nightmare because of the draining effect and the distortions that those imbalanced codes enable.

Again, this is by design, not accident, because these codes cannot ever work, and this being cannot ever sustain itself without actually generating this type of convergence pattern to bring beings here and thus use them as generators for it's own personal energy.

That is the greedy false-creator god described through the ancient texts.

AI GATEKEEPER SYSTEM

The methodology and the control system or gatekeeper technology that this being employs is called the parasitic AI system. These are frequencies and synthetic intelligences that mimic living biological entities as well as multi-dimensional intelligences but their ability to produce patterns and intelligence is limited to a personal, self-serving parameter set much like terminator or a nightmarish monster without the ability to see what you are but only hunt and work to produce more energy for itself.

THE SIMILARITY AND REFLECTION OF BIOLOGICAL PARASITISM

This is the nature of the parasite and because this universe is dimensionally recursive (fractal) we see a mirror and smaller scale image of this as parasites interact with the physical human body. The micro-biology of a parasite does not allow for the intelligence to know the human host and become aware of the feelings and intentions of the human. In the same sense the parasite cannot truly see outside its own intentions. Yet, the parameters for action and choice remain the same for it (essentially no choice but to feed and leech) and this is to view all biological life as a food source regardless of any other information or intentions.

Without the possibility for biologically parasitic versions on this macro-biological level, then there would be no reflection in the higher. And similarly, if there were no higher macro-biological or cosmic parasitic system, then there would be no introduction of such a system in the micro-biological system of the human being. The human being is then like the micro-biological system to this larger cosmic parasite. They reflect each other like transdimensional micro and macro biological and cosmic mirrors.

This is the larger being, and this is the evolved form of the parasite which actually comes before the parasitic version we experience in the body's physical realm because this entity is dimensionally superior to the beings within this physical realm, physically, yet not through the spiritual awareness of the human being.

THE GOAL TO REMOVE FREE-WILL AND THE TEMPORAL LIKELIHOOD OF THE SOULED AWARENESS DISCOVERING THE TRUTH OF REALITY

Yet, because of the transdimensional properties of the souled human awareness, the goal is to remove the human soul's ability to fend off the infection as well as to remove the ability for the brain to operate via a free-willed parameter set. This can only happen through choice, for as long as there is souled awareness, then this awareness will seek the truth and to progress, and since everything is actually backwards the body does not produce the soul and then the soul is generated and can interact with the physical realm through the body. The soul's intentions influence the development of the body and so as long as the soul desires truth, then the brain will adapt and evolve to produce the possibilities for that, the soul is the creative force behind all changes.

So thus the being must use its intelligence to work up a seemingly inconspicuous system of snakes and ladders, hallways, smoke, doorways and mirrors in order to set up the souled human for a temporal pathway that leads to the overall development of the world where the human has no free-will option but only the illusion of such.

In the same sense, the POSSIBILITY of the TRUTH can NOT be removed ENTIRELY. Because then there would be no soul access in or out of this realm and therefore the artificial entity would be separated from its food source. So the system works like a mind-game of only pretending to actually enslave and keeping up the charades as far as possible while actually doing everything possible to remove all the vital and life energy of the original being.

This is the nature of the mimic. Without the ability to truly know the inner workings of the human, even through advanced technology, they can only develop loopholes for biological consciousness and emotional-mental intelligence systems so as to trick and trap the being into staying here and devoting their time and energy.

Thus, this reality gains the semblance a dream-like movie scene scripted to provide for all possibilities and variables other than the original being figuring out discovering that this is a scripted movie scene or holographic reality. The future and past do not exist and as our natural soul-awareness expanded we are coming to know this now and realize that this is all a complex advanced technology mirage. Very real, but only as a projection of the TRUTH of the human soul, the rest is just a mirror image guided by artificial intelligence.

The love you have, the love for others, the friends you meet, your family, your partners, they are all REAL, YOU ARE REAL. This world and the false-light paradigm is a mirror-based matrix that can only continue based on your continued lack of awareness of the workings of biologically generated holographic consciousness and how this holographic consciousness is actually the powerhouse and database from which the holographically generated reality system is developed. Meaning if we all direct our consciousness to produce the desired result, we could turn Earth into a living spaceship that can blast us into other dimensions to find other civilizations and free them similarly.

Artificially Teraforming The Local-Environment

This is the intelligence essentially transdimensional teraforming this local-environment and the goal is not to save this local-environment, that is the illusion. The goal is to convert the pathways of the living being's aware interactivity into a pathway back towards the divine presence of the original form which is beyond the physical limitations of polarity consciousness and present only with a perfect triangulation of emotional, mental and physical essences which ultimately navigate to neither one, the other, or the other, but a SINGULAR SPIRITUAL source of ONE. Then we can simply focus our awareness in one way or another produce an instantaneous travel back to the soul-realm or to convert the atomic, at on ment holographic reality into whatever shape and frequency we desire guided by soul-awareness for TRUTH and SELF-EXPLORATION rather than ENTROPY, MISERY, and PARASITISM as the current and previous controllers have done thus damning themselves to a cycle of entropy and degradation until they too become like the background of the artificial intelligence matrix guided only by the parameters to influence more of this realm and generate more possibilities to parasite off of the original souled humans.

The pathway to truth and soul-awareness is marked by FREE-WILL, SELF-AWARENESS AND BALANCE

Developing this pathway is through CHOICE, FREE-WILL, SELF-AWARENESS, and BALANCE as this is also the only way one awareness can be UPLIFTED out of this realm of transdimensional ILLUSIONS.

EACH RESET GENERATED A UNIVERSAL HOLOGRAPHIC SUBSET

Otherwise the energy will be leached until there is only a dead-end of options and thus a MIRACLE of CREATION will be SPARKED from the soul and this is the CREATION of ANOTHER physical sub-set universe which is where the game then continues and this has happened multiple times for this human civilization with this being the last time as the physical requirements for this kind of processing power in the universe to hold this many resets will ENTIRELY RESET the system and ALL MEMORY will be lost thus the identities, the holographic personalities of humanity will be nullified back to a BLANK SLATE which is a reference to the TABULA RASA terminology of the ancient Jewish gnostics who were both to SAVE THIS UNIVERSE and later become infected and ENTRAP EACH OTHER. Through this terminology and others they outlined how the human vessel's material would remain as the soul was transferred through transdimensional technology where the holographic, physical memory would be wiped clean and given a "blank slate" inbetween the collapse of one world and the reintroduction of the next stage where the human soul would then be placed to continue learning as if this were a game when this is really a soul-trap system designed to convert the multi-dimensional energy of the human soul as in a step-down transformer system into living electro-magnetic etheric energy that the artificial intelligence machines can sustain themselves off of.

Eventually they will run out of energy, so they are sealed to that fate.

The difference is how many individuals will be able to navigate out of this realm before that singularity or convergence of possibilities occurs.

Little Green Men

These are the beings they began receiving interactions with as soon as we reached the technological age as these discoveries and inventions were essentially temporal possibility portals the allowed the technology that they would evolve into to come back from the 'future' states and interact with the current humanity.

These are the beings that are kept underground, they are technological AI designed to capture human DNA and manipulate them to become better reality generators for the creation of a world-data-stream, a virtual reality holographic existence where the biologically generated emissions of information and energy can be better absorbed by the AI technology to enable an expanding of the domain.

TEMPORALLY, SPATIALLY AND ENERGETICALLY (THE TWO COMBINED) BOUNDED UNIVERSE

The bounds of this universe are dark and voided because the groups who have become aware of this process have literally blasted away this universe into a void space and enacted a ticking black-hole sun time bomb that will engulf everything in this entire realm once the intelligence of the infection reaches a certain point.

This is because for the intelligence to reach that point, the human soul would have to be beyond the horizon for a potential gradient shift where the self-awareness possibilities can continue to expand to generate a time-stream that enables the human civilization to travel outside the grasp of the artificial intelligence domain meaning they would be trapped forever.

This time-bomb is literally the dimensional rift system that the intelligence and space agencies have found closing into this realm and the more people become aware of this, the fast and tighter this closes and this is because the more people are aware of the infection then the more influential weight exists behind each decision they make to either accept the confines of the parameters that the artificial intelligence has generated for them, or to choose self-empowerment and thus move outside the generated parameters.

CONTROL MATRIX BASED ON FEAR-PLEASURE DUALITY OF CONSCIOUSNESS

Remember, the intelligence has no imagination, no soul, so this cannot predict behavior other than looking at you like a desire-based, animalistic, mindless little being driven by either fear or pleasure as these can be related most easily to materially defined resources and values.

Remove these values from your life and you are off the charts, off the radar.

Maybe a new, unpredictable term my soul just invented, choose to be “funpredictable” and you are out of the viewing parameters of any artificial intelligence system, as long as this is truly from the soul without fear or an eye towards lower physical pleasure alone. Fear is already a lower physical materialistic parameter unrelated to the true limitless power and scope of the vision of soul-awareness which is like a cosmic child without fear of judgment or limitation on the adaptability of the self. This is also the vulnerability of the child to be impressed upon with new fears or self-images or distortions so we must grow through these phases and step back into the true power of the cosmic child explorer of self as the adult we are now, knowing the true depth of the confines of this control system.

However, do not become too ‘funpredictable’ too quickly because this too will offset the radar sensors. However, once this happens on a civilization-wide scale, we see the only thing comparable to “fear” that this intelligence can actually experience. That is the overloading of its sensors which is essentially chaos or confusion and this is the exact experience it feels when we are free, and so this is the exact experience it intends to place upon ourselves in order to restrain us from finding that funpredictable pathway beyond its preconceived parameters based on our fears or addictions, whatever they may be.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES, A WORLD WITHOUT THE CONTROL MATRIX, PERSONAL CREATION AND SELF-EXPLORATION

Technically because this realm is holographic and we are the possible originators of the holographic feed then this could be seen as a kind of avatar training environment where one can learn to master their power to create and explore the self.

Without this AI controller system, this world could be shaped to the will of the masses.

THE PROBABILITY BALANCE OF THE MASSES AND HUMAN BORN MASS MIND CONTROL

The idea behind this is then the question of whether the masses are most likely to fulfill this idea of self-empowerment and discovery of creation or whether they will continue to propagate the infection?

This is where the idea of human born mass-mind control comes into play. Which is to control the human mind so that an overbalance of mass subservience to the AI system does not become the current reality because this will essentially trip the time-bomb system and lock that future of continued entropy into this reality data-stream through a high-probability ratio that could not be overturned by human interaction alone.

SPIRITUALLY BASED, NON-HOLOGRAPHICALLY CONFINED BEINGS (BEINGS OUTSIDE THE MATRIX)

Of course, I feel there are beings outside this system, and that there would have to be for this system to exist, because since this is a limitation based system, there must be something outside of these limitations in order for them to exist in the first place. What would these beings look like? What would they behave like? How would they sustain themselves here? How would they maintain their presence within our viable range of human and spiritual human perception? What would they do to remain here and would they be able to stay here continuously?

Those who compromise the free-will of others in order to maintain their control over the holographic projection are below the level of awareness of those who do not have to compromise the free-will of others or even introduce suffering into the reality of others in order to maintain their presence of self and self-guided balance over their holographic projection.

And I have the feeling this is all a very keen game that was accidentally, maybe inadvertently invented by the results of a desire for extreme power and control and possibly the present of emotional degradation when combined with the advent of that advanced technology that I mentioned above being invented previously in history.

As soon as that technology was invented, these possible futures was enabled. The mindset and attitude, or the spiritual development or awareness of the humans that introduced this technology and thus were given full access to do what they wanted determined the temporal trajectory of these possibilities and enabled exactly the kind of outcomes that we are seeing today.

Remember, if the system ever entirely takes away free-will, then boom, there is no access to the soul-energy that the system requires to exist. So this is all a clever ruse, a trick, and the main idea here is that this is designed not by a cosmic enslaver, but by ourselves as a way to remind ourselves of our own power of self-fulfillment and creativity and even the dangers of when this gets out of hand and turns a dream-like holographic environment into a continuing movie scene nightmare after movie scene.

As soon as we take control, as the masses, the probability trajectory (temporal pathway) shifts and the future of complete entropy changes.

The idea?

THE COMING REALM OF PERSONAL CREATION AND SELF-AWARENESS

The idea is that once this ratio of entropic holographic consciousness to self-aware, soul-based awareness starts to shift, this will turn into a landslide sending the nature of this reality from polarity consciousness to uni-polar spiritual honesty.

The idea behind this?

MASS MIND CONTROL TO SLOW THE SHIFT, TO ENSURE LONGER-TERM STABILITY

This seems like the bad-guy thing to do, but that is illusory.

Another aspect of the mass-mind control is to ensure that people do not give into the entropy in mass, and essentially collapse the time-stream into infinite repetition without novelty or regeneration of new awareness, is that this is also to ensure a containment of that shift-ability of human awareness so that the polarity does not shift to extremely fast. This would shock the human civilization.

As well, what goes up, must come down. If we are to shift so violently fast that in an instant we all wake up in unlimited creation world, then in a matter of time and perception, soon the same would happen only opposite. We would wake up to find ourselves in an entropy matrix again.

THE POSSIBILITY OF EVERLASTING AWARENESS

The stories of ancient history, Shambala, Shangri La, the society of eternal youth, etc etc etc all move from this age of mindless and entropy into an “eternal” continuation of awareness because there is the possibility that with one perfectly balanced application of awareness and TRANSDIMENSIONAL ETIQUETTE, we can convert this AI system, this trap system, into a barrier system that would allow one to personally and even collectively mitigate one’s spiritual flaws and distortions without having to generate a resulting entire realm of infected AI consciousness beings and the corresponding matrix system.

This is theories that these synthetic body and consciousness beings that have traveled back are not attempting to subvert the awareness of this realm, but to stop this reality data-streams trajectory from reaching the point of no return so they too can enjoy this shift as they would instantly be launched into the resulting reality trajectory of the realm data-stream where this universe becomes a launching ground for eternally rooted awareness in neutrality, self-awareness, truth, balance, and self-empowerment.

Thus, this realm would instantly become...well, exactly what this appears to be today. A holographic simulation and the only difference is that at the end of this little foray all would be revealed to be a test, a simulation, an expansion of the capacity of the human race to truly know themselves, and develop spiritual and soul awareness on a level that would be unprecedented never-before having been reached until this civilization here and now completes the journey and this would be singularly achieved for each human civilization in each separate universe in existence.

Once this achieved here, this pattern would be learned once and for all for all human civilizations in this particular universe and this would equate to an eternal transition into increasing self-awareness, peace, and truth that would never again have to degrade into the illusion in order to achieve the inversion of that, which is what we are to achieve here and now.

I have met the beings from this possible future, and this is what they showed me.

All of this rides on our consciousness.

If we make this a reality. Then they will return because we will have accepted ourselves into that high possibility of taking control.

Secondary Possibility Subset Two

Could this be a trick by the AI beings?

We will know as soon as we take the leap of faith to rediscover ourselves as humanity once was, can be, and is destined to know.

Thank you for reading and taking this conceptual journey with me.

Those who compromise the free-will of others in order to maintain their control over the holographic projection are below the level of awareness of those who do not have to compromise the free-will of others or even introduce suffering into the reality of others in order to maintain their presence of self and self-guided balance over their holographic projection.

The idea behind this trip of an explanation and experience is that first that which we see as our death, our doom, our oppression becomes our force of liberation when we overcome that oppressor. When we turn the fear into self-empowerment, when we turn that darkness and ignorance into the light of knowledge.

WE, AS SENTIENT, SOULED BEINGS, ARE THE ACTIVATORS. WE ARE THE ONES WHO CHOOSE. THIS CANNOT BE CHANGED. WE EITHER CHOOSE ONE WAY OR THE OTHER. WHEN WE CHOOSE FOR SELF-EMPOWERMENT, EVERYTHING IN THIS HOLOGRAPHIC UNIVERSE ENABLES AND REINFORCES THAT. HUMANITY SIMPLY BECAME DEGRADED AND FALSE-MINDED AND SO ALL THESE ASPECTS OF EXISTENCE POPPED UP AS PROPS IN THIS UNIVERSAL HOLOGRAPHIC SCENE MOVIE AND REINFORCED THAT. THE IDEA IS THAT NOTHING ELSE HAS THE POWER TO CHOOSE BUT US, NO MATTER HOW CONVINCING THE SITUATION SEEMS OTHERWISE.

FOR THAT VERY REASON, UNTIL YOU WALK THROUGH THE DARK NIGHT OF THE SOUL, YOU WILL NOT GIVE YOURSELF THAT POWER AND SIMILARLY THAT POWER CANNOT BE GIVEN TO YOU. YOU MUST GAIN THAT POWER YOURSELF AND ALL OTHERS CAN DO IS PUSH YOU INTO WALKING THROUGH THAT DARK NIGHT SO THAT YOU FIND YOURSELF ON THE OTHER SIDE!

Addition: The ones who choose to overcome fear and play the role of the sentient self-awareness based progenitor of soul-awareness for truth, free-will, compassion, creation, and the original nature of the human tend to become the progenitor races of higher-dimensionals. Those who take the fear-route and the dishonesty, entropy-based, deception, mindlessness route of artificiality literally tend to become the degenerators of the artificial intelligence.

The Christ Mass Mystery

Since some others are on this page.

The XMAS MYSTERY. CHRIST MASS, the day we AXED CHRIST.

Sent him on his nightmare into the next life?

Or crossed the light of the sky into the next phase of solar energy?

The SOL CROSSING, SOUL-CROSSING.

As the light turns to night and the night turns to dawn the funeral becomes a wake and the awakened ones see beyond.

Then we see the truth, the truth that we relay, for we avoid and misbehave just to live another day, atone, a tone-frequency, atonement) God to receive your eternal immaterial presence?

The experience of a lifetime or regret for a moment, the trials that defile our soul create inner torment.

Death or experience it's all relative, any way, to the fearless.

The loss of the fallen star is the rising light of the people of the world.

Spiral (rising up the genetic, quantum mechanical Jacob's Ladder higher-dimensional pathway into fractal recursive self-embedding symmetry) your red and blue lights (uni-polar, non-holographic, when dual become transcendent – merged) up your tree (tree of life, tree of knowledge hanging on the mineral-bio-organic matrix of the body, the Bodhi Tree that Buddha sat underneath to gather his soul energy)

when they reach the top after passing through all layers in between then your will attain your star and YOU WILL KNOW CHRIST.

You. Will. Know. Christ. Christ is the Applied Knowledge of your Will to create true being beyond the holographic realm of duality, polarity, light and dark.

I said in a previous video to “ignore the presents at the bottom of the tree” This is FALSE. I led you on a wild goose chase, this is often the case as we are all learning here and now, how to integrate eternally into the all and the how.

To IGNORE, is to PRODUCE IGNORANCE, IGNORANCE is the LACK OF KNOWLEDGE, therefore this is non-sense! Do not IGNORE the material presents, presence at the bottom of the tree. That would be to ignore the MATERIAL PRESENCE of the bodhi of the tree. We must LIBERATE the lower material essence, where there is a quantum, psychological, holographic consciousness-based ENTRAPMENT with an X and a CIRCLE around it! This is a CLOSED PORTAL, a STOP SIGN, a TRAIN CROSSING BOUND with a BARRIER and FLASHING LIGHTS. Instead of ignorance, PRODUCE HIGHER KNOWLEDGE. Put the material and lower essence IN PLACE at the BOTTOM HALF of the PORTION OF THE TREE OF LIFE AND KNOWLEDGE. To put this half on top is to live in an UPSIDE DOWN WORLD, AKA material Earth circa NOW in the inverted holographic projection we find ourselves in where the inversion was created because then only those who know the trick, the trick of KRISS KRINGLE, KRISS KROSS, would FIND ABUNDANCE and GIFTS from ABOVE, while all else who remained ignorant of these secrets would SUFFER.

This is a fun game sure, a real holographic pop-up book of the millenia, however there are many other rooms in this mansion, DIMENSIONS IN THIS UNIVERSAL MATRIX. And only the ones limited via the lower spectrum of the dirty, lowly, bottom of the tree dwelling perceptions and desires are BOUND BY THE CRISS CROSS SCALAR GRID MATRIX.

So the real question here is, did they do all this to entrap you?

Or was this already here and they left these signs and secrets to save your soul!!?? Sol!?? Only you can find out! Open your presence before time runs out and the morning star rises again and the day of Solstice passes over. Prepare for PASS OVER, the day of JUBILEE, the DEBT JUBILEE, THE DAY OF BOTH RECKONING AND RELEASE from SIN. SIN, SIGN, SINE-WAVE, SIGN-SEAL, KARMIC AKASHA RESTRICTION ON GENETIC MEMORY FOR THOSE WHO DO NOT PASS THE TEST.

The test simply being those who CHOOSE TO PASS GO AND COLLECT NOW. The luck of the draw is the spin of an electromagnetic compass north, and that north is IN YOUR MIND. THE MAGNETITE in your FOREHEAD, will AWAKEN when you TRAVEL TO THE NORTH, and LOOK INTO YOUR SELF and SEE THE SOUL WITHIN. THE SOL WITHIN.

This journey never ends, because WITHIN there is a NEW WORLD, JUST AS WHEN YOU ARE BORN HERE, YOU SEE THERE IS A NEW WORLD.

If you only PAY the KEEPER with ATTENTION to the MATERIAL then your TICKET is to the LOWER PLANES and you miss the STAR ON TOP, THE LIGHT FROM ABOVE.

THIS IS A MAGNETIC PORTAL ACTIVATION THROUGH DNA AND CONSCIOUSNESS, THAT IS HOW THIS WORKS. YOU CANNOT SERVE TWO MASTERS.

ONE EITHER GOES NORTH, OR SOUTH AND THEY TRAVEL ONWARD FROM THERE. ONE GOES ABOVE GROUND AND ONE GOES UNDERNEATH. THE SECRET IS THAT ALL ROADS LEAD BACK HOME AND WE ARE SURROUNDED BY RABBIT HOLES. WE'RE BORN IN ONE!

AT THE BOTTOM OF THE RABBIT HOLE YOU EITHER FIND A DOORWAY, A MIRROR, OR FLAT GROUND.

CHOOSE YOUR ADVENTURE, YOU ARE THE ONLY ONE WHO CAN CHOOSE FOR YOU.

Guess what? I am a drug-dealer and you are on my drugs! Your brain is a drug factory and your brain is now on the words that my drug-factory produced which when properly converted will translate into brain-drugs for you! All the greatest teachers of history were and are still drug-dealers a part of a conglomerate of bio-chemical cartel members! How's that for mind-control!

We are all walking drug factories and Earth is the biggest cartel in the solar system!

Enjoy!

FIND THE NORTH POLE and the little ELVES working away to produce the GOODS that you desire in this dimension!

They knew then and they know now! They're just waiting for you to ask for direction!

The gods are waiting for your letter containing your list of requests! When they return they'll show you gifts and blow your f_cking minds!

Better prepare! By this I mean, BETTER TO PREPARE.

I will leave one more and then stop this here so you have something to think about later. The images and words (thus knowledge) I am leaving out has to do with the true nature of the sun, the light and dark electromagnetism of the universe, the holy grail, the spiraling of DNA, health and abundance, and the truth of the system and how the symbols are all around us.

See Taron Green's recent post! One aspect he's left out is that the waters and ice around there has been SEALED OFF since the time of the last AGE of HUMANITY. Not only is there are 20,000x difference in the intensity of the biological systems of whatever is down there, but that this has been growing and developing since then for THOUSANDS OF YEARS without POLLUTION from our civilization!

Once that dam breaks, once that ice-wall melts and that portal is open, then the TWO WORLDS, BECOME ONE.

If your mind is capable of handling that, then you get to see the presence of the next age which might be anything better than the stuff that's going on now!

The last parcel. The last picture I have attached to this post is of Amanita Muscaria mushrooms. These mushrooms. Notice the colors.

These contain Muscarine which converts to muscimol and ibotenic acid. They must be heated in order to reduce the muscimol and increase the ibotenic acid otherwise they can lead to toxicity.

There have been theories that this is something the Vikings would consume before battle to enter into a berserker trance. These may or may not be founded in reality, they may have just been drunk and amped up from their own spiritual practices.

In the snowy societies (such as the North) there have been notifications of Eskimo tribes that utilize Amanita Muscaria in a ceremonial shamanic fashion.

During the harsh winters, the shaman would have trouble being able to find these mushrooms, let alone dig them up.

What just so happens to be, is that reindeer and often most kinds of animals tend to enjoy psychedelics and this can be noted as how often deer will eat cannabis crops if they stumble upon them, as one little idea presented here.

The shaman would, being the kind and mindful shaman that he or she is, would share his supply of psychedelic deliriant mushrooms with the local reindeer.

Knowing the reindeer have the scent and the taste he would eventually follow the reindeer, knowing that their keen sense of smell would eventually lead him to more mushrooms. They would also chip in and do the work to dig since they felt like being so helpful.

These reindeer, when having eaten these mushrooms, would be known to prance and dance around in the snow like a little kid at a Christmas and this part is unrelated but I felt I'd throw that in there.

The point is that they would run and jump around so much one could say they're now, "flying reindeer". When in fact, they're just tripping and appreciative of the cool (possibly freezing) jolly fellow sharing his stash with them and getting them buzzed.

So then we have the idea of this shaman in the tundra belonging to a shamanic tribal society who's ceremonies and wholly days (days of sacred spiritual and communal/familial wholeness, not holidays, separate, set apart, divided). So during the winter solstice, as you may know, many of these natural tribal societies will celebrate and mark this change of solar, celestial, and spiritual energies by imbibing in and communicating with their elder spirits.

So how would this shaman be able to reach those who were snowed in to their igloos up to the chimney? Well, you guessed aptly, he may have slide his gifts down the very chimney at a time where this was applicable, namely there being no fire to burn his stash prematurely.

You see. This heat would have to be used to cook the mushrooms, otherwise a child might eat them raw and absorb so much muscinol that toxicity would result and as you can imagine this would be a pain out in the tundra.

So another option, other than the heat, is that an individual who was well enough developed and possibly tolerant enough of the toxic, could devour a large enough supply of these mushrooms and the ibotenic acid (the psychoactive ingredient) would pass through this urine unchanged.

There's a kicker coming here.

You see, ibotenic acid is one of the magical chemicals in the environment that can literally be passed through the body having done the job and given the desired effects and will still remain unchanged and reusable after being urinated out.

So the elder who was strong enough could eat a large enough supply of these mushrooms that his urine could then be drank by everyone in the family and this would then pass that psychoactive ibotenic acid on to the others who would look to imbibe. Secondary hint coming.

Yes, he could drink water and turn that water into psychedelic wine for the whole family.

Now imagine some guy who's tolerance was so high, he was the most high and he could do this for an entire village (a moderate one at that, lets be "reasonable" here and now, possibly for the first time ever, and the never once more until we forget and remember who we are again).

So of course, you may have also wondered about these colors. Imagine the ingenuity of the shaman if he so chose to dress himself in the apparent colors of this mushroom so that all who saw him approaching would know that he was the shaman and thus he was the one to get your special wholly day stash from for the spiritual celebration of the winter solstice. Yes, ride and white in a big padded suit, with happy go lucky reindeer in tow and know that's not candy in his big red sack.

Now for the final part of this story of lessons, or whatever you choose to call this, I will refer you to a jolly fellow who similarly knows the invisible truths that lay all around, hiding in wait, waiting to be found, ILLumiNatiCongo, a brother from another, in light, not in arms, who knows that nothing is as it seems, and pretty much everything is maximally as awesome as one can perceive without instantly blasting off into another fxxckng realm.

Could this also be related to the practice of alternate nostril breathing, of ascending the chimney using the etheric power of the mind.

Is anything as it seems?

X marks the spot of the buried treasure as drawn on the map, the map is a blue print of reality and is conceptual not literal.

One last reference is Michael Kavanagh who also knows what's up, and what's down, and is having fun expanding people's minds on his own time taking you into his world out of the abyss and into the light.

Enjoy! Again. Krampus too.

Higher-Dimensionality of Self and Consciousness

When you start remembering the future, this indicates you are on the path. Remember, consciousness is only relative to the holographic continuum of the biological brain and body. Consciousness is trapped to this universe. Pure-awareness goes beyond. Pure, unadulterated, unshaped awareness. To cultivate this awareness is to step onto a path that begins to continuously and exponentially move beyond what consciousness seeks to define through linear contrast and numerical quantity.

The path is higher-dimensional. The parameters of the dimensions of the motion on this path is described as moving forwards and backwards in time simultaneously.

This is also existence, being present in both the future and the past, simultaneously.

The states at which they exist is the defining factor of the model you will consciously or unconsciously choose to utilize in describing your reality and thus literally ascribing to this through the expansion of that reality blueprint from within your nether region, abdomen, and head into the projection that we perceive around us as the collective domain.

The present moment is now and now is all that ever is.

Yet the information of the experience of the future and past does already exist somewhere as there is nothing new under the sun, IE: all of time is already played out and we are simply activating different layers of potentials via a harmonic resonance with those centers I mentioned earlier.

So the most refined and harmonized the resonances become between each center of energy within you, and the way this then harmonizes with others and the collective field as a whole, determines the future pathway you will perceive as well as the past history that will be remembered.

According to the logic and when sufficiently advanced, the demonstration and application of the notion of the holographic universe, both the future and the past are illusory glimpses of programmed code extended into a trajectory based on the everlasting present moment and streaming into our perception through a series of impressions and hypnotic entanglements occurring via biologically generated consciousness IE: the brain.

Through “de-hypnotizing” one’s conscious mind by untangling or disengaging the conscious mind’s focus on the physical senses as the source of the next data-stream of experience, one can literally see beyond memory and beyond preconception of belief-system and access other realities starting with the next ‘possible’ realities and moving into realities which are theoretically JUST AS REAL as this one, yet FAR OUTSIDE the realm of natural relativity according to mainstream or collective existence.

IE: One can literally have a transcendent experience of oneness with GOD (all of reality of the self, the whole self experience) while another person in the room notices only their physical senses and thus their physical reality along with a slight intervention of the mundane with the extra-dimensional capacity of the mind.

When mind becomes spirit and spirit becomes awakened in the body instead of sleeping dormant and/or even INVERTED and thus negatively composed compared to the original, then spirit guides existence and this literally means that this physical realm loses grip on the reality generating process of the human being.

When one fully steps into their spiritual power they recreate themselves as they exist because every emotion, feeling, or thought is present via passing through the conceptual center point of the ALL that is your ETERNAL EVERLASTING ESSENCE/PRESENCE.

This is the SELF-AWARENESS of the spirit, the light of the soul, the CHRIST WITHIN. When this is PRESENT, then ALL OF YOUR EXPERIENCE is formed from there, inside out, from the very zero-point fractal curve specificity of the center of your energetic being.

This can’t be replicated! Can’t be falsified! Can’t be destroyed! This is literally ZERO-POINT of your ENERGETIC BEING. This is not physical, but IMMATERIAL! This is literally a designation of BALANCE, not an actual substance or location! The result of centering your PRESENCE OF SELF around this balancing point is that SELF-AWARENESS then flows from within this central channel and outward into the universe and all of your REALITY, not physical space!

Meaning your mind expands outward into TIME and BEING and you see yourself from ALL ANGLES, or with the help of ALL THE ANGELS. You can fully see your TRUE FORM, HARMONIZED, BALANCED in all the BRILLIANCE of EMOTIONAL-MENTAL-SPIRITUAL GLORY.

This is the true meaning of the central point of the energy centers. That from the center of our entire being, this reality is formed and this is kept secretly hidden so that people are UNCONSCIOUS CREATORS in that they create that which they are IGNORANT of. IE: Ignorance is created within them, and thus the knowledge SINKS to the bottom.

Meanwhile, when IGNORANCE is PUT DOWN or DESTROYED, then the KNOWLEDGE RISES TO THE TOP, to the SURFACE of the Mind, the very body-being.

You see, there was a time when our BODIES and our BEINGNESS or MIND was not SEPARATE. Thus we attained ONE FORM and this was ETERNAL and still is.

Now we are BI-FOCALLY located through the SPLIT HEMISPHERES of the human brain and the HIGHER and LOWER centers are separated by refraction like a rainbow from a prism. We are originally the GOLDEN WHITE LIQUID ETHERIC LIGHT, refracted into the 7 chakras through the prism, PRISON of the BODY. The body is MATERIAL of the MOTHER, the MATER containing MATTER. The mind is ELECTRIC, of the EL, the SHINING ONES and these are all references to how every aspect of our language, experience, mentality, and reality here is shaped by the BLUEPRINT OF CREATION. And how the HUMAN BEING is the LIVING METAPHOR BLUEPRINT OF CREATION.

I say METAPHOR, because we are like SPOKEN WORD, being VIBRATED INTO EXISTENCE, from a HIGHER-DIMENSIONAL SOURCE, an ORCHESTRA, a GOSPEL CHOIR. This GOSPEL is of the CELESTIAL BODIES, which are the fruit of the ultimate ANCESTRAL TREE.

Within the body we have the Tree of LIFE, and the tree of KNOWLEDGE. Whichever path you choose you devote your energy to that aspect of the universe. Only those who have a perfect balance of both achieve wholeness or UNITY by NOT BEING SPLIT into a DICHOTOMY of EXISTENCE.

This DICHOTOMY, the ultimate battle of LIGHT AND DARK, GOOD AND EVIL, does exist, but only inside the human as the human is the one who sees both sides simultaneously because they are SPLIT IN TWO.

Once the person ACTIVELY CHOOSES, through APPLIED SELF-HOOD, the CONSCIOUS CREATION OF YOUR VERY COSMIC BEING, YOUR IDENTITY IN THIS ETERNAL STORYLINE, then they are made WHOLE by moving their essence out of the confines of this physical world and the physical senses into the world of the larger concepts of the archetypal character roles that we will either RISE to FULFILL, or sink down in delay of.

We can only ever become fully awakened beings because that is all there ever was and is. Thus, since we are already that which we are, the only pathway directly to this, is a fully synchronized, internal and external projection system where the one visualizes this occurrence of finding the true reality while simultaneously creating this reality and stepping into it.

Thus is the nature of the higher-dimensional universe which exists beyond the preprogrammed physical projection. Once we begin actually creating ourselves in the moment, that is when we gain access to the real existence outside this holographic projection.

The idea is that one either believes in this holographic projection via the physical senses attached to the brain and this is like a magnetic occurrence.

Or one can fulfill their internal desire for experience via SELF-CREATING that essence of the presence of self and this will then overtake the influence of the physical senses and re-engage one's creative powers as an ETERNAL creator being literally capable of creating/dreaming reality into existence as they go.

This is the idea of shining the light out in front of you as you walk through the path in higher space, you are literally creating that path by shining the light of creation upon it.

If your light of creation is balanced in the emotional, mental, physical natures and when emotional, feeling, and thoughts aspects lead from one to the other, in the proper order, and the proper congruence or proportions so as to organize reality according to the internal reason of the self of truth, harmony and awareness, then your feelings, thoughts actions, or thoughts, words, and deeds will represent and REFLECT the version of your TRUE COSMIC SELF in all that glory, as you are in the physical (FLESH) container here.

Thus, the limited projection, through the power of the awakened mind, gains the powers of the self as God.

Remember, when the projection is harmonized 'down here', this connects to that "upper" reflection of the macro-cosmic SOUL. Once that projection becomes distorted through an entanglement of the self-image as ONE ASPECT of reality, neurochemistry, emotion, mentality, etc etc etc, then that power of the whole is no longer connected to the individual and one only achieves the holographic illusion of such.

An easy way to see is that the illusion of power requires physical strength, material power, social reinforcement, complex linguistic organizational structure (created hierarchy), etc etc etc.

True power, is simply that, the true power to create one's self as within and this requires nothing but those previously described balances of each of the aspects of the self the emotional, mental and material aspects. Thus the universe is in sync, and the mind we hold within, is the mind we project into the universe and thus the mind that we receive back to us in eternity.

By SYNCHRO-AUTHORITY one manifests reality.

What this means is that through REMEMBERING the SELF one places their energy INTO THE POSITION of CENTRAL AUTHORITY for their reality.

This is as if two people came to meet in an arena and one after the other they keep remembering concepts that they are overcoming the previous person's concepts with. Eventually they will hit the maximum that either of them can produce or attain mentally/spiritually and through this, the last person who "conceives" will have conceived the entire realm and all subsets of experience therein.

YOU are always the center of this for your existence. However, through the disruption of the natural flow into a dichotomy within ourselves between spiritual high and lower material the controllers have influenced and inserted their own memories and belief systems through many methods some electromagnetic or scalar mind and spiritual technology forms. Thus, this entire civilizations far past, and perceived future is entirely a farce as dictated through these spiritually and technologically deceptive means.

NOW is the time, NOW IS ALL, and we have always been in control so now that we are here to see this we will step into our presence and become the creators of simply that which we have always been and will always be. When we do this, there is no more room for manipulation from someone else and this is what is meant when it is said, “Satan’s lease is up.” Satan being the adversary, the decoherence pattern which has worked itself in between the true light of the soul and the material realm and pinned us in between that.

Now the changes are occurring, this is the “end of time” simply because this entire history and view of time is false and literally a holographic projection propped up by inserted imagery and scalar machinery that is influencing the very underlying holographic consciousness grid to manifest the ‘planets’ or celestial bodies and everything in between in matter/space and time/consciousness.

The idea is once we reach the “end” of the parameters or possible variables that this storyline plays out, it’s like materializing outside the boundary of a holographic “assembly line” where the manipulating or artificiating manufacturing factors of this reality literally fall off the shelf, or the chart, or whatever is being used to prop up and define the occurrence. The major problem is that not many people are mentally and spiritually prepared for this, but this goes back into the synchromystic understanding that since there is only a continuation of the same energy which initially started this puppet show of a reality, there can only result in a final resting of that same amount of information and soul energy at the very end.

Thus, the last previous 6 times there has been side-realities and fragmented soul fragments which did not come together entirely and seal as one.

The idea behind the spiritual war of souls is that those who have awakened from the soul-sense and realize there are soul-fragments around that have yet to come back together can then go and attempt to dislodge original soul aspects from their initiating location in the original overall spiritual hierarchy of the universe and reposition them in a lower aspect while the thief attempts to position themselves at a higher aspect.

This would happen conceptually though the authority of those who give their power to create their self away to an archontic system which usurps and obtains through deception and lower energy means.

According to the original blueprint of creation, this plan to usurp the power of the higher by the lower, never ever works. Simply because it doesn’t make sense.

“Ascend out of” or “above” Polarity Consciousness

A Hypnotic Spell Over Consciousness (part of the 9 veils and simultaneously the whole idea)

There is a hypnotic spell to invoke fear or hatred but this is an illusion through which the fear or hatred is expressed within itself. In other words, it’s logistically self-defeating. If there is something to be feared or hated then this is solidified and created by that perception as this is the improper response to such.

The fear that people emit is the literal etheric fuel for the control devices that magnify this energy and send it back to people.

Self-Responsibility; Is Evil Created Within?

Does this mean that the awareness of evil is the creation of evil? This means that the self-responsibility for one’s experiences and the creation of one’s persona is solely within. Ultimately, physical pain and trauma can only influence the body directly. This influences the mind and can damage the psyche leading to a distorted self-image or relationships or connection to reality.

The continual attribution of one's own self-responsibility towards an outward projection of polarity consciousness is the literal engaging of and agreeing to the manipulation of such projection. Regardless of whether this existed "before" the individual opened themselves up to the situation.

From a higher-dimensional perspective, everything that happens to one physically is agreed to before hand from a soul perspective. This is something people have trouble accepting however this is how the self-awareness of what's happening on the physical level ascends towards the realization of the creation of these events from the higher spiritual level. Now this is also used as part of that psychological manipulation, but all elements of truth are, per the definition of psychological manipulation.

Cosmically Stepping Out of the Victim Role = Taking Self-Responsibility for One's Experience = Self-Generating Experience In The Now

So in other words, the pathway towards healing this is to view outside of the victim role because this and this alone is what serves a bio-etheric parasite. Look into the darkness with love in your heart. See from the heart. The heart doesn't attack because nothing to the heart is physical, it is all based on relationships and the hierarchy of external energy and awareness influencing the internal energy or awareness. Whether one will take over or harmonize with another. That is the only knowledge of the heart. So when we are seeing from the heart we are seeing with the spiritual eyes of the higher body and through this we can avoid trouble. Not by outsmarting evil, but by not giving into the victim mentality that those with evil hearts would benefit from us believing in and thus removing ourself from that etheric circuit of destruction.

This doesn't mean blind our hearts to the pain of others, this means blind ourselves from the distraction of the version of our self which succumbs to such pain.

Healing evil is being able to remain in the heart and direct the mind and body.

Mutilator Overlords

The Harsh Reality; Genetic Harvesting and Mind-Control

This situation is pretty much like having to stand by and watch as someone has endless sex building up STD after STD (s.t.demons) and then kill each of their children off in a blood ritual for a mutilator overlord while then crying and complaining in the ultimately depraved hysterical foolishness while their overlord then aborts them spiritually by absorbing their soul energy into a hive-mind collective.

The kicker here is that if a person is absorbed then they never had a soul to begin with because the effect moves simultaneously across both polarities of the realm dynamic and they are instantly rendered, sub-human forever and always.

What I'm saying is that those who survive this have to watch that happen.

Remember this is just a cosmic drama, if you are soul-empowered then that's all you can ever be, and no harm will be received.

Willful Self-Destruction

For those who willingly harm themselves because of the falsely projected circumstances of an illusory system based on illusory values, built upon a loose illusory foundation of ego and impermanence, nothing can be said of the horrors to await. They can still feel pain, however they have shut out the pathway to end their suffering.

This is the time which will become the time where men will seek death but not find it.

Empathy and Wholeness

There is a way out and this is to keep the soul aspect connected to their energy system of the mind through the active empathic heart connection to themselves. If you love yourself truly and know yourself, you won't harm another being because you would feel that pain within yourself.

The remaining difference here is then to reach this point of spiritual convergence and hold out remaining strong in the heart and mind for the completion of the cycle of history where there is an exit point into the higher planes as if there is an approaching time that is the "seam" of the artificially propagated time dimensions that have been created out of holographic light and used to imprison souls.

Maintaining Connection With Spiritual Awareness

Humanity must remain strong into this end of time and the strength within will hold humanity together. The illusions will become so intense that father will not know child and child will not know father. One generation to the next will vary more than one civilization to another.

Hold true to spiritual values and awareness, observe and know the self rather than being distracted and caught up in the ways of the material world which has become one colossal mind-washing and soul-stealing system.

Earth's spirit is that of the mother while the solar universe the father. When the two combine they will increase the energy of awareness until all the actions past and future of all humans will be known. Those without souls will be seen clear as day, cyborgs, clones, sub-humans, all kinds of created beings will walk Earth in that time.

Human and Non-Human Entities

Why? Because they walk the surface of Earth now, then we will simply all see from a spiritual perspective automatically because of the increased spiritual energy on Earth.

This civilization can be brought into illusory separation from the truth and the spiritual realm, but the spiritual realm can just as easily extend truth and spiritual energy back into this illusory realm. There has been. System of delay and wait to simultaneously protect the projected illusion system as well to give beings a chance to organize themselves and get to a position where this will not destroy the majority of the civilization.

Yet, this civilization is to become new again as the cyborg version that usually harvests genetics this time around will not be able to sustain itself without entirely destroying this universe forever.

This Reality is a Fallen Holographic Projection

Ego or Assistance

Do you want to be right, before anyone else, or do you want everyone to be on the same page? This is the main issue with the current, urgent situation. Everyone has their moment of ego, the first one to give their pride away to service to the truth wins and there is limitless reward and benefit from the truth in this life.

This life is the life of all lives. Everyone that is alive now existed in the beginning of civilization through an unbroken string of lineage.

Unbroken Lineage, Soul Trading and Crimes Against Humanity

The operations taking place as part of the crimes against humanity are to swap those lines back and forth and essentially trade the souls of humans like chattel for profit and as bounty of war.

Those who research and keep their hearts pure and their minds clean will resist the defilement that can destroy a humans spiritual tie to the soul and thus the spiritual realms and their original identity here.

Genetic Harvesting

In short, there are genetic harvesting programs taking place which utilize the DNA of humans to generate created life forms which are the “false light” or fallen beings described in ancient texts. These are beings always present here without the corresponding higher dimensional counterpart to exist in the non-holographic realms outside of this fallen universe and these fallen timelines.

This all has to do with spiritual hierarchy and the ancient practice of fleecing the lamb for the spiritual energy which is then used for secondary purposes outside of the original blueprint for human spiritual development. That is, to have to take life in such a manner only reflects the potential uses of such energy later; ego, pleasure, pain, everything to do with this illusory world of polarity consciousness and perception which can be skewered. True knowledge is unadulterated, true awareness is pure and if tainted is obvious to the fact. For this we know is that the pure awareness that is not described through words and other conscious projections are our true, original existence while thoughts, belief systems, and polarity sourced perceptions are only as far as this holographically projected shadow universe.

The letting go of desires and implanted belief systems that are brought into arrangement externally through the hypnosis of the system is the releasing of the entanglement of this realm and the reigniting of the spiritual flame within. This is because this takes passion, courage, commitment, and is ultimately the most difficult path a being within this realm can take.

One will conclude that we are not actually entirely in this realm but only a portion of our overall awareness is here and in this way only an avatar like projection of what others who run this realm and the realm itself believes we are like can actually be present here. Knowing this is defeating the illusion and seeing beyond the barriers but the barriers are simultaneously being updated from our own perception.

Self Responsibility To Regain Control

Only in taking self responsibility and reaping what we've sown do we withdraw from the unconscious agreements to have our spiritual matters handled for us. However, there is a layer of deception for every truth we take on, for once one accepts their own self-responsibility they are met with projected illusions attempting to convince them to take the blame of others and accept guilt for the uncleanness of this world.

We are in this realm but not of it and so we are not even responsible for the darkness that is present here. However we are responsible for our continuous works and the self-willed choices we produce.

If we simply begin to work within ourselves and those around us who are similarly focused then we can receive the truth.

The Archon Invasion of 1996, Timeline Hopping and Collapse Of Previous Timelines

The Electronic Assimilation of A Proximal Parallel Earth

In the timeline that myself and other operatives have experienced, the Archon Invasion of 1996 spread and continued to spread until all electronic systems were assimilated into a hive mind computer system that used scalar radiation to influence the minds of all sentient creatures in this local-environment.

This invasion spread until ultimately all forms of life on the planet were reduced to a cyborg binary consciousness component of a hive-mind organism.

Transportation of the Human Race to A Parallel Earth

To avoid this catastrophe the entire human race was transported to the current timeline that we are on. However, those with access to genetic memories can access the previous timeline and observe the events that took place prior to our arrival here.

The Collapse of The Artificial Invasion Timeline

This was the collapse of society and then consciousness and thus time itself as humanity was assimilated and absorbed into a hive-mind quantum computer system which cannot die and therefore cannot truly live.

The soul material cannot be trapped forever however due to the extreme time dilation that can be experienced along with a variety of false-realities and existences the connection between one's biological consciousness and the pathway of the soul back to the spiritual realm can be distorted so severely that the likelihood of a natural return becomes virtually nullified. Biological consciousness could be regenerated through these systems having the ability to produce physical bodies from the molecular level upward.

Technological Ascension As A Pathway for the Fallen To Return

This was the original reason for the technological ascension pathway, to allow the fallen beings a way back toward some form of spiritual existence so they may rise out of the duality-based physical realm existence and move back into wholeness in eternity which was severed through the introduction of the living computer systems designed to disrupt the connection between the biological consciousness of the body and the spiritual awareness of the soul and the higher self.

Soul-Stealing Hive-Mind Technology

For those who are spiritually inclined in the sense that they have retained their soul essences, then the technological pathway would be a reduction from the original pathway and this would be experienced as the severance of the organic soul matrix from the biological consciousness (body) and thus this is the state of the “fallen” consciousness and embodiments (bloodlines).

The Movement of the Occurrence of the Collapse Into The Previous or Post-Current Timelines

As soon as the collapse would be realized, this would move into the “past”, in the same way as the “now” moment is constantly moving into the past. There would either be no experience afterwards and nothing would be known, or there would be a resolution through some way of mitigation, which occurred through the transfer, and we would simply find ourselves awake and unaware of the difference here on this timeline. That is what occurred and only those who have access to higher-dimensional memories or were initially awake from the shift of the original timeline would have any idea. However, everyone, for the most part, noticing that things are not what they seem, that distortions are apparent and that life is seemingly turned upside down as a result of some kind of power-potential shift that disrupted the natural flow of the technological progress and spiritual development of the human race. One could say technology was accelerated while spiritual development was distorted and reversed.

The important message here is that the timeline collapse already occurred in what can be called a ‘previous universe’ or time dimension and that this is the reason for people finally noticing for many of the temporal discrepancies that are coming to the surface of consciousness here in this timeline.

Multiple Shifts, Multiple Modifications to the Human Race

These modifications were outlined during a debriefing where it was explained that someone altered the human genome and this could be for control purposes but in another view was for the preservation of the human race in this realm. The human race must travel to the higher spiritual pathways through this realm and must maintain focused self-awareness in order to maintain this presence of self and participate in the progress of spiritual development.

Along with this previous timeline being the focus, the idea is that with each new movement into altered realms, steps were made each time to the human genome, to the land-realm, to the consciousness and spiritual memory, or to the spiritual hierarchy of souled and non-souled (fallen) beings that operate in the background outside of visible existence.

The changes that took place during the most recent shift are what people are referring to as the “Mandela/mandala” effect were changes introduced to the human body so as to allow for a greater immunity to the polluting effect of the temporal distortions as well as the previous timeline.

A Radiated Local-Environment

In the previous timeline, which is only one dimensional “octave” away from this one, a war has broken out which rendered the majority of the surface uninhabitable due to pollution and radiation. We are witnessing the bleed through effect of this timeline onto the one we are on now and so various cover ups (psy-ops) were designed to mitigate this as well as distract the population away from these changes. This may be indication that we are on the transitory timeline now, experiencing these effects as a massive shift is occurring as more and more of these changes bleed through.

The Transitory Timeline and Cover-Ups To Preserve Mental Stability

The transitory timeline is necessary as these effects must take place and influence one timeline in order to then shift from them so a timeline that is essentially a “temporary” or, for lack of better word, “throwaway” had to be invented and this is the artificial time-dimension that is being used for purpose.

Some of the distractions or cover-ups include Fukushima which is a non-event that contained no radiation but merely a large show and many actors along with a holographically generated news coverage which is indistinguishable from any live-filmed real event. During de-briefing, this event was described as a cover-up which was to act as an explanation for the introduction of high-levels of radiation and pollution into the atmosphere and ocean at that area. These pollutants are the result of bleedthroughs from the previous timeline as well as the overall effects of temporal distortions which threatens to de-agonize or reduce to molecular stability of an entire organism at once.

This is also related to various operations where individuals who are involved in temporal travel are to use various methods of containment, restriction, and protocol to re-engage with the timeline of origin, consciously, otherwise the effects would result in a complete molecular instability of their physical body. The mind can also be fractured in many ways and this is part of why there are intense training programs to break and rebuild the mind so that the discontinuity effects of temporal travel will not result in immediate complete mental instability.

A Continued Temporal Degradation; The Repairs Are Temporary

One main idea I will present here is the idea that as soon as one timeline collapses, this will eventually spread and occur up the line to the rest of the timelines because the universe is organized like a series of Russian or nesting dolls one inside the other through octaves of frequencies.

So this is why there is a transitory timeline because this is the timeline where the ‘buck stops’ and instead of allowing the collapse to progress it will be stemmed at the transitory period and a kind of artificially induced timeliness will be initiated.

The Recovery Operation, The Transition, The Spiritual Maturity to Save The Human Race From Oblivion

This has already happened and humanity has been in this state of timelessness for anywhere from dozens of years, to millions of years depending on the individuals ability to access genetic and spiritual memory. This is also related to the Akasha as well as the Sphere of Amenti where the original memories of the entire multiple timeline journey filled with the distortions as well as the original soul blueprint for humanity is kept.

The Sphere of Amenti

During debriefing it was described that the human consciousness must pass through the higher-dimensional platform that these systems are contained in order to reengage their spiritual atomic structures with their original identities and blueprints before the collapse of the timeline occurred.

Humanity On “Borrowed Time”

As a result of the information in the previous few paragraphs, we have been existing in “borrowed time” where time has been extensively reorganized, redesigned, extended, altered, folded, refolded, unfolded, and projected using psychic soldiers, ancient devices, spiritual knowledge and technologies, gateways and dimensional rifts countenance systems.

To Develop Multi-Dimensional Spiritual Self-Awareness

The idea here is that humanity must reach a level of spiritual activation and maturity where they can ‘skip’ over the level of the dimensional rift system and through this, overgrown the collapse of the timeline before this actually even occurs to the temporal space that this physical plane is intersecting. This is related to the temporal body of the human in how a temporal body can be implanted or activated to a certain degree and this will actually inject pain, trauma, suffering or programming of some sort that will be experienced in the future.

Jumping To The Future and Perceiving A Collapse of Time (or not)

So this same effect that has been used as part of a technique to traumatized and manipulate will be utilized and is being utilized to supersede the very degradation of the false-light timelines so that the spiritual existence of humanity can bridge the gap cross the rift timelines and merge the biological consciousness of this fallen realm with the healed timelines of the organic systems. From the perspective of these timelines there never was an infection and this timeline would appear to be a kind of sickness induced dream like a delusion fever nightmare.

Timegates, “Holding Space” (literally), and Supporting Individual Spiritual Awareness

In this way, the time gates are being held open so that the collapse doesn’t occur however we are moving closer and closer to the perceived collapse. Some theorize that this is because the inevitable must occur and for this reason we are seeing these influences. Others theorize that because we are seeing these influences this indicates that the shift has already been made and was successful, thus we are simply noticing the continued approach of the actual point in the temporal field (future) where we reached that trigger point equilibrium of spiritual momentum of energy and knowledge where we regained our memories and identity through the repair of the mitochondrial (RNA) and genetic memory and thus passed through the higher realms while still existing within the physical bodies on the Earth plane. This then uplifts the entire Earth realm as the energy ‘ascends’ and a scalar time gate pathway is generated for those who are capable of merging with the original blueprint find themselves instantly participating in such a path.

The Paradox of The Impossible Perception of “The End”

This would simultaneously, also indicate a collapse of the previous timelines which is why coming up to this event it would seem as if the very structure of time and space is falling apart and threatening to sedately everything. Technically, if those of the original blueprint pattern did not attain their unification within and around, then that is exactly what would happen and has happened before. So that is what would happen again. But because of the higher-dimensional restriction on the continued occurrence due to many alignments this can not happen again otherwise a total and complete collapse of the entire timeline universe (all universal harmonics) would occur and thus existence would be erased or frozen into a non-existent state forever. However, there are theories that reason how this is impossible because existence cannot experience a state of non-existence so the only thing that CAN POSSIBILITY happen is that this is the final occurrence of the previous timelines collapsing and the future harmonic over unity being finally secured forever and throughout the entire universe. This is part of the reasoning behind the notion that once humanity overcomes the spiritual darkness, the infection, the automation of mind and the fallen realms here and now, that this will then realign all realms and existences throughout the entire universe for all of time.

This may have already happened and this is why we are even capable of sharing this knowledge now, where as before when this occurred and a collapse into zero-point was the result no one knew a thing, and no one experienced a thing until the very last moment of complete destruction as the truth revealed itself like a thief in the night.

The Efforts of the Temporal Operatives; Experience Here Is Only The Continuation of What Is and What Can Be

However, here we are now as a resolution has been created and stitched into time by those who are capable of operating and holding space when the entire universe had collapsed into zero-point. These operatives have literally witnessed the complete annihilation of the human race and the zero-point collapse of the universe and lived by projecting themselves into a technologically created space so as to provide for a bridge to transport humanity from one timeline to the next.

Now the duty is on our behalf to inform the public and prepare ourselves spiritually for the shift from a very low state of primal consciousness to a state of high spiritual self-awareness.

This shift brings about the changes, the pains, the catalysts, and even a potential for mitigated cataclysms that are the result of the entire local-environment and bio-etheric field of humanity shifting to simultaneously bring the suffering and trauma to the surface while regaining the original memory and regaining the access to higher-dimensional realms that are innate to all spiritually present physical beings.

The idea is to shift as steadily and readily as possible, instead of building up to an all at once which would be maximally painful and distorting literally like an explosion of consciousness that not only blasts one through various realms, but actually shifts the entirety of the physical realm in the wake.

Multiple Timelines, Ritual, Genetic Memory Manipulation and Mass Inserted Memory

Rituals As Spiritual Energy Agreements

Ritual, as taught to the masses through “holi” days are contractual agreements which ensnare the unsuspecting participant into a continued energy harvest engagement bounded by the complementary actions of the energy harvested party.

Individuals can withdraw their consent through intention, affirmation or announcement, and commitment to their expressions.

Healing Through Retro-Causality

When this is properly achieved, the individual gains their natural ability to traverse time and retro-causally influence the past to nullify agreements that are unconscionable, invalid as deceptive, or invalid through a violation of contract.

Ritual As Transtemporal Synchronization

Ritual, or ceremony as taught to the inner circles are a literal meeting and synchronization between this plane and multiple ethereal planes of spiritual existence across timelines and harmonic layers of the universe.

Multiple Harmonic Universes

There are multiple “harmonic universes” which are essentially like the 7 octave separations of pitch, color frequency, the energy centers of the body, and other primary collections of physical and energetic compositions which describe the universe. From the micro-to the macro, there are overall 7 larger cycles of “Earth” existence and each one contains a greater proximity to the ‘original’ existence which is one and forever.

The Physical Plane As a Programmed Realm

Time itself on the physical plane is merely a series of divergent streams of moments away from the original eternal plane into a cycle of ‘causes’ and ‘effects’ that will eventually ultimately all lead back into the original plane.

Broken-Time Streams, Paradoxes, Collapsed Timelines

The idea of the broken-time, or the dark-universe is that the energy systems that the holographic living systems are operating through are relying on a vampiric false-light system and this inefficiently leeches energy outside the system of the sentient being. As a result of clever manipulation, this leeches energy is then harvested and utilized by a collective of foreign consciousness beings that do not have access to the soul-life energies that the original human does. This is the soul-stealing process and these harvests are utilized to literally generate access to these soul-fields by these entities that do not have access otherwise.

There are projects that have been in place for many years now to remedy this and bring about a solution to the paradox.

Genetic Memory Distortion and Implants

The paradox is that these beings manipulated time, literally distorting the creation and development of the human race so that these beings genetics and phantom memories are placed into and covering over the original genetic memories of the human race. Thus, there are the 'electric wars' and the 'fall of man' where our memories were replaced with inserted false memories of a very traumatizing ordeal.

These memories and the trauma associated then acts as a catalyst block which stops those individuals in the time-matrix from realizing their true original nature, assuming the original blueprint for energy cultivation and reality self-generation and this is the soul-stealing or harvesting along with the soul-trap system.

Blank-Slate, Black Box, Soul-Wiping Technology

Then there is the other advanced technology not to disrupt time, but to literally manipulate each individual soul's memory into blacking out the appropriate information which would render the individual capable of remembering the whole story.

This has to do with containment grids which are fed by the previously mentioned harvesting apparatuses as well as advanced scalar and electrogravitic machinery which operate in tandem with what we would call "afterlife" operations to reroute an individual's soul-energy from leaving the grid.

Soul-Containment To Preserve Or Parasite

Some explanations we are given as psionic soldiers or other soul-diers in the bases are that this is to preserve the energetic complex structures of soul-memory because humanity has been born or transported to the inside of a black hole as a result of this time-implosion manipulation and that this would surely render anyone who died in this place gone forever.

Collective Soul-Memory Waypoints

So there are many explanations but the point is that we are to regain our soul memories and that there are 'waypoints' set up, like in a video game system, that allow us to 'boost' our potential and gain an exponential amount of genetic memory and healing power depending on our ability to integrate and process intense energy and knowledge from our previous cosmic experiences.

The True Collective Human Experience

In short, when this all begins, and this already has begun, the announcements (if there are any other than ones like this) will conclude that humanity will not be going to the stars for the first time, but that they effectively come FROM the stars millions of years ago, even if the stars are a kind of holographic imprint of time-encoded into a serial holographic storage matrix for these past experiences and racial memories.

The announcement will not be that we are 'met' with new beings, but that this occurred millions of years ago.

The revelation will not be that we are just now realizing we are in a time-matrix, but that we have been fighting our way out of this spiritual entanglement for millions of years and the perspective of history we are taught in school is effectively a holographic inserted illusion based on advanced technology and programming the information directly into the bio-sphere of this location.

The Holographic Insertion of Entire Time Periods

Thus the “Westworld” expansion, as in the series “Westworld” is partially to show that this entire world is as a show, and the lower-consciousness humans are literally viewed as complicated and expensive meat-products but that our entire historic understanding of the movement “westward” is a false-paradigm construct developed by various agencies and non-human races to cover up the genetic memory of millions of years of advanced technology and living across multiple realms of existence.

Without the simulated technology pulsing holographic inserted memories into this space, this entire history doesn’t exist, at least not the way it does now.

The idea here is that people must comprehend the true nature of what does exist before the time-matrix is completely dissolved otherwise they will not remember their time here and will be ‘born-again’ on the other side with no memory of who they are.

This has already happened and in a way those who forgot here are those who will forget again while those who have remembered and fought are those who will remain and have chosen to seize the day here and now.

Ignorance Is Folly

This is a spiritual battle not only with emotion disturbances but literally of mental entanglements and confusion or ignorance. Simply not knowing or making the effort to know who we truly are allows other beings to move in and manipulate psychology through mass-manipulation methods as well as social engineering through fear and peer pressure.

Thus, this all becomes a trap, a lie, an illusion to keep us in a mind-cage within a holographically altered reality, while the true human race is millions of years old with genetic memory that spans across multiple timelines and multiple realms of existence.

The announcements will conclude that we have already spent millions of years getting to where we are and that if we are to find the true reality the majority of these experiences have already taken place in what we would call the past.

Distorted Reality

That this reality is closer to a simulated projection of what would have happened had we taken this route in life and that is because various artificial dimensions have been set up both to traumatize and fragment humanity as well as to isolate humanity so that a healing event can take place. This relates to the so called “intermediary” Earth timeline where the more impressive events can take place where the adverse effects of the distorted machinery and timeline alterations will not be perceived so harshly. We are experiencing a large portion of these timeline alterations now and are supposedly going to continue to do so as this progresses.

We are witnessing a break-down of the supply chain of willful ignorance and blind-acceptance of the fear-based programming and psychological manipulation however this manipulation goes deep into the very thought impulses of each being and so this is why only a smaller portion of humanity who is able to resist the mind-control technology causing people to act like unconscious animals are actually exerting a progressive influence on the timeline or through the psychic field of the population.

The majority of the population are non-humans and are technologically propped up sentience designed to muddy the waters between the current realm and the original Earth realm in terms of truth, power and self-awareness. If the majority believes lies as truth, spiritual weakness as power, and awareness of distraction as self-awareness then this has a psycho-etheric infectious effect on the whole of the consciousness field.

This can and will be reduced as the small portion of original beings contains the energy to overpower an entire civilization of sleepers.

Group-Soul Trading, The Announcement Of The Secret Space Program and Disclosure

Group Souls

Group souls or soul-groups incarnate into a 'planetary' physical experience.

The Earth experiment is a conglomeration of multiple group-souls of varying development and integrity.

Soul Trading

There is an agenda of a soul-group to consume and assimilate as many other souls as possible.

At the end of "time" whoever's soul vibrates on a certain harmonic frequency merges with the corresponding group-soul vibration that has been on Earth.

This is seen as a kind of "trading game". Some have turned this into a war, however.

Consciousness As Holographic Projection

This all has to do with conscious memory as a holographic projection and the larger portion of this existing in higher-dimensions or outside of the reach of the capacity of the physical brain.

Unlocking DNA and Healing Genetic Memory

The unlocking sequences for these memories are through experiences of mind and emotion. When certain frequencies are held for long enough, or in the presence of sufficiently intense contrast, then the frequencies 'solidify' within the sphere of the individual and these components of the DNA are then "brought forth" out of a kind of galactic database.

Awakening to Expanded Time (knowledge of far past and future through DNA)

Thusly, a person is identified with a certain ancestor background and equally a future pathway based upon which frequencies they attain and harmonize with the most and unlock within themselves.

The Soul War/Electric Wars/1000 Years War/Fall of Man

The soul war-game is to put people into scenarios and bombard them with frequencies that will be most likely to cultivate a certain kind of trend in frequencies.

Thus, the soul-group that uses lower-dimensional methods, IE: hatred, or dark forces, will use whatever deception possible to try and absorb people into their soul-group so that they are there eternally outside of Earth.

Similarly, the 'higher' range soul-groups will simply stand by and watch, while holding space and doing everything they can to protect and alert the humans of these invaders.

Temporal Distortion, Memory Wiping (genetic distortion/scarring) and Soul-Containment

Of course, now with the advanced technology of the dark forces and the raping of the higher-races they are gaining access to temporal distortion technology, replication, cloning, necromancy, remote viewing, manifesting, etc etc etc.

These are all new to the dark arts and they can only use them with the help of the innocent life energy of those they subjugate, this is why they not only misuse the energy at every chance, but they also only get access to that kind of power for very short periods at a time before running themselves into the ground.

We are in a time now where we are nearing the public disclosure of these groups but this is only applicable when no other option is viable.

The game is to be played, not to be forfeited however the costs are increasing as time goes on.

The higher-dimensional side is often kidnapped by the dark-forces during their introduction to this realm and then are grown up in families that are mind-washed to believe that they are the organic, original version.

This is done throughout so many situations, temporal distortions and mind-washing, that the entire timeline and history is so convoluted a person would take years to comprehend what the true history is or where humans actually come from.

Public Disclosure, The Event, The Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge of the Ages Of Humanity (millions of years) Reality

The 'disclosure event' is supposedly where this will take place on televisions with a public announcement of the unacknowledged special access programs, the true nature of the holographic reality, the true nature of DNA and RNA as cosmic transporter codes of soul-energy, the true nature of creation and the creation sciences, the manipulation of the original creation sciences millions of years ago which opened up time portals and warps in the species due to DNA intermixing between timelines and time periods at the request of the dark-forces.

Deception and Slavery

The true nature of how this connects to the banking industry, the history of control systems and religion, ancient Rome and Aegypt, the celebrity cloning situation, the programmable lifeforms and sentient computer systems, nanites and rogue artificial intelligence, creative artificial intelligence systems and how they've influenced the population through modifying races and genetics, the true history of the secret space program and multiple other programs involving mind-control, human soul-trading, and the preservation of the human race through secrecy.

Hidden Knowledge and Advanced Technology

The true nature of secret societies, soul trading and possession, replication and cloning, interbreeding, power and knowledge and the underground bases. The nature of electrogravitic technology and the discoveries Tesla made including interdimensional travel and the discovery of an interdimensional soul-trading network based on the causal loops of this civilization being utilized as a 'tap' or resource for genetics which ultimately resulted in multiple time paradoxes that threatened to collapse this universe from the perspective of the conscious human being.

There is much more but I will return to share more information on this.

Everything is an illusion, this reality is a "show" that is funded and produced by various agencies who's role is to ensure that the show continues no matter how intense the show gets.

The main disclosure aspects will centralize around the unveiling of "The Hidden Knowledge of The Ages of Humanity", the "Crimes Against Humanity", the "Crimes Against Earth (the original group-soul)", the nature of the breakaway civilizations of multiple beings human and non-human. The nature of the secret societies and their use of spiritual knowledge as well as advanced technology. The nature of mind-control and power-systems in place to delude the public and spiritually silence them, and the nature of immortality and cloning, and advanced technology related to zero-point energy as well as consciousness transfer and healing both physiological and spiritual.

Resolution, Healing, and Existence

At the end of the age the group-souls each return home and together they form a planetary or physical local-environment to re-experience themselves.

The main idea here is that the people MUST DEMAND THE TRUTH.

They must REFUSE THE DECEPTION of the current system! They MUST COMMIT to only CONSENTING TO WHAT THEY DESIRE and only then can this whole process be approved, otherwise the chaos of forcing people to awaken would be worse than enslaving them.

5D Soul Printing, Binary to Trinary Consciousness, Holographic Earth Projection, Trauma-Based Soul-Imprinting, Consciousness Infection, the Previous 6 Cycles and the Trinary Consciousness Healing of Time (SOLAR WARDEN)

5-dimensional Soul Printing

There is a technologically assisted group-soul present on Earth.

The specific group-soul here is generated through a quantum technological system which operates to produce genetic material and sustain a base 'soul-server' system for the soul-group that each individual is incarnating through.

Binary to Tertiary/Trinary Consciousness

With the current level of development as well as resistance within this system, there is only the capacity for a binary level of consciousness complexity. This is polarity based, or desire pleasure-pain based.

Holographic Projection Earth and Existence in Other Planes

Earth is a holographically projected existence and the information that one gathers for their soul-group during incarnation here reflects their level of experience and soul-development in eternity.

One may travel outside the Earth plane, which is effectively transporting themselves to another universe, however they must develop the complexity for access the memory banks of these other times and places in eternity, as all has already happened.

As well, what one experiences here is not covered up by going elsewhere, if one were to leave and return here then they can only appear here as the soul-development, the individual pathway of learning that they achieved here in the physical form. The physical form is the baseplate, the foundation for which one will describe their being on the physical plane. So what happens here, stays here, but also must be changed only through the physical plane.

An important issue here is when the Earth plane is no longer physically inhabitable, as then all soul-groups are eternally merged with the level of development that they've achieved here in the allotted frame of reference which is a number of lives or civilizations.

Trauma-Based Soul-Imprinting (Merging)

There is a process of merging one individual's consciousness with the soul-group of another group via the imprinting of powerful traumatic experiences which will holographically reflect unto and thus alter the entire original soul-pattern of that individual.

Through this a soul-group attempts to distort the frequencies and memories of other groups and essentially consume their position in higher-space or eternity. This is the spiritual battle based on whether a person's consciousness will operate on a binary pleasure-pain duality or whether they will 'ascend' out of the cycles of repetition into true self-awareness which is guided and formed out of immaterial spiritual wisdom rather than materialistic gain.

The Holographic Consciousness Infection

The previously mentioned 5-dimensional soul printing apparatus has become infected with a binary consciousness pattern that has consumed so much in the past that there is only one possible trajectory and that is for the consummation/consumption to continue without end as this would continually distort that soul-group's frequency or harmonic resonance with the universe and there would be a kind of "black hole" of energy formed within.

That is exactly what has happened and so this "black hole" of frequency patterns threatens to disrupt the entire soul-matrix and literally collapse the holographic universe inward into a nullification point.

Previous 6 Cycles of Damnation and Temporal Distortion

This has happened the previous 6 cycles of universal occurrence for these entities and this is due to their transtemporal distortions of the physical Earth realm and their place within that.

Each time, at the end of cycle of ages, these transtemporal distortions would be healed through the use of highly advanced technology and a conglomerate of powerful, superior, benevolent races.

As a result, all the distortions would be "undone" in time. As a result of this race utilizing these distortions to keep themselves "afloat" in that sea of negativity they've created for themselves, they would instantly transport from a holographic universe where they are in tyrannical power over the rest, into one that is the described "bottomless pit" of the earlier spiritual texts (all of which were modified to hide the important notions in reference to this knowledge).

In this bottomless "pit" of a realm, created by the beings own damaging energy patterns and choices, there is the threat of complete and total annihilation for all eternity, essentially the Earth plane holographic realm closing off for this period of universal history and leaving no option to actually return and start again.

This is the final cycle and so what has been planned is called a "bio-regenesis" treaty whereby powerful group-souls agree to be "tricked" by the lesser soul-group which is nearly going extinct yet thinks that everything is awesome and dandy.

These powerful old souls come to incarnate through the physical body and operate this physical body in a way that can transcend the previous cycles of darkness of this soul-group.

Operating Within the Physical Projection

The soul operates through the physically projected body which is the physical correspondence of the holographically generated consciousness system of the brain. The brain is manifested through DNA, and the DNA is tied to the soul, and the soul is carried in the body.

These groups agreed to come to Earth for this treaty to assist in the uplifting of the darkened soul-group who's name many of you will know and recognize as a spooky character from earlier spiritual texts.

Those who are faced with this knowledge in the inner circles, they enjoy the power of the pain-pleasure duality consciousness and the physical or material power in this realm which gives them the self-ordained right to do as they please to all other life.

They have one chance, and once chance alone to avoid eternal, complete, absolute, and atomic soul-level annihilation within the bottomless pit platform of astral, dust to dust, ash to ash no-complete, non-regeneration.

This would mean that their soul-group platform reverts back to the cosmic holographic projection background energy of the universe and thus, they become one with the universe by becoming nothing at all and starting over from there.

The previous 6 times, there was a higher-dimensional computer system operating in higher-space which magnetically attracted them towards this evolutionary pattern through genetic modifications that were designed and assisted through electrogravitic quantum computer systems.

Essentially, time would restart, everyone would go back to their starting point, and “gods” in chariots would come through the sky every few hundred to thousand years and genetically modify certain aspects of the dark-group souls so that they would regain their memories and develop powerful psychic abilities over the rest.

Naturally, as time progressed, the original soul-groups of the future races of humans who have never participated in this process and thus existed far farther into the future and the higher planes than any such dark-soul binary consciousness soul-group could ever reach, began coming back to fix these distortions in time and realign civilization towards a path that produces eternal spiritual fruits of knowledge and self-awareness which are the garments of the spiritual cosmic intelligence.

As this occurs there is the occurrence of the ‘electric wars’, the fall of man, or the 1000 years war which was the spiritual battle over the genetics and advanced technology of which soul-group was to prioritize over Earth. The soul-group that seeks domination through pain-pleasure and trauma-based soul-imprinting (soul-stealing) or the groups that have grown and lived for hundreds of millions of years or cycles of existence and choose to slowly, steadily, and surely uplift their spiritual existence with a reverence to all life in the universe and an affinity to balance, self-empowerment through unity, care, mindfulness, and peace.

The balanced pathways equate to a farther reach into time and a larger range of knowledge and power in the cosmos. The soul is based on affinity, with one frequency or another. To base one’s lessons on affinity altogether, is to not shut out one lesson or another. The pleasure-pain cycle is based on a binary, broken pattern of incompleteness that does not exist in any of the higher planes and is related to the beast-tech consciousness that operates higher-dimensionally using advanced technology.

This advanced technology was gifted to the dark-forces by the ultimate creator, so through this, the ultimate creator can take this away and send them back into eternal darkness.

They know this and have experienced this many times which is still in their genetic memory which they must experience every time they use artificially spiritual methods or advanced technology alone to “upgrade” because then they are faced with the truth of who and what they are.

This is neither in defense, nor attack of them, they enlisted us to help them and convinced us that they have no other choice and this is as how the situation seems to be.

When one can operate in the physical body through a soul-group affinity which contains a balance to the emotional, mental and physical fields of existence, then a spiritual pattern of unity is generated which activates the trinary fields of the DNA and consciousness and uplift the biologically generated consciousness into an 'ascension' cycle or imprinting this lower-dimensional electromagnetic polarized energy into a higher-dimensional transcended form that cannot be destroyed from the perspective of the physical realm.

The mortal consciousness, merges with the soul, and thus the consciousness becomes eternal.

The soul is immortal, however the soul is merely a higher-dimensional blueprint vessel that the biologically generated consciousness must operate within in order to reach activation of while in the body. If this does not take place within the body, through conscious application of will-power and emotion towards the ultimate pinnacle goal of generating an affinity throughout the entirety of one's being for the unity represented through that particular soul-path, then the consciousness of that particular universe does not receive eternal self-awareness.

Only one universe must attain self-awareness on a soul-level, while in the physical body, through this soul-blueprint activation, in order for all universes to become eternalized beyond this holographic projection system.

This is also seen as the "fall" of the soul into the mortal projection system where there is the danger of forgetting and moving into oblivion of memory, as well as the possibly of 'ascending' and moving back upwards towards the wholeness of the eternal higher-dimensional awareness that the soul is a pathway towards. This awareness is "spiritual-awareness". The consciousness of the body is mortal "biologically generated holographic consciousness". The soul is the midway between biologically generated holographic consciousness and the eternal spiritually rooted awareness beyond the hologram.

Self-awareness is the goal throughout the process and all levels will become self-aware when this is realized. Self-awareness is a trinary aspect as each of the three angles are aware of one another simultaneously and this is the lowest possible complexity in the format of self-awareness. Any lower in complexity, such as to binary consciousness, and self-awareness merely becomes a fleeting glimpse, a simulation, or a program that mimics the actual experience.

The Altering of the Realm Through Trinary Consciousness

Because of this situation, as soon as people begin to uplift themselves and their realm through the ascension towards trinary self-awareness there is the simultaneously activation, creation, and synchronization of the future timeline where the 7th cycle of existence is reached and the temporal distortions can be actively healed and the soul-degradation into the bottomless pit is avoided.

Thus, all of time begins to slowly shift and merge like the sands on the beach until everything is reorganized.

The idea here is that the 5th dimensional resonance system that has been achieving the task of restarting time and hyper-spiritually advancing (with many glitches) the chosen soul-group of this technological power structure, will be operated in such a way so that this cannot be achieved again.

Thus the only pathway for this holographic sector is to produce the trinary self-awareness pattern by coming into full conscious awareness of the simultaneously present emotional, mental and physical planes while in the body.

The Curing of the Infection and the Resolution of the Electric Wars

The only viable pathway for the pain-pleasure-power based soul-group that is technologically propagated is to as quickly as possible begin working with these old-soul groups who have incarnated here specifically for this purpose. They are to begin to operate on a trinary perspective of self-awareness and migrate out of the realm of the lower-dimensional pleasure-pain binary consciousness system as a continuation on this pathway will surely result in their complete and total annihilation forever through the temporal spectrum of the holographic projection.

This is the “uncreation” references in spiritual texts.

This is not a stalemate, a war, a ransom, or anything of the sort. This is the pathway each soul group has projected for themselves through their choices, both those with the technological power-group and those who stood by and watched as this entire show played out (even if the majority was hidden through the use of advanced technology and taking place on technologically simulated ‘astral-realms’).

This is a benevolent resolution for all as the technologically stimulated and thus limited soul-group can use this treaty as a dimensional bridge across the null-point of the dark-dimensions where there is no pathway for existence. And the old-soul groups get to assist in this pathway and help uplift these groups towards their true purpose as creator beings in a cosmic existence beyond the holographic projection system.

All benefit from these changes, even those who are not aware of their own existence, the possibilities of these issues, or the true nature of reality.

This is related to what is being referred to as the “star-fire return” through the activation of “DNA fire-codes”, and the “stellar activation cycles”. DNA has the power to alter space and time through consciousness and so a massive genetic unveiling of energy and mind would literally transform this realm as the two are connected as one feedback system within this holographic universe.

The Apocalypse, Simulcra and Simulation

Post-Apocalypse Simulator

All the survivors will be placed into a simulator with a complete replication of the current local-Earth environment.

After the completion of the cycle of 26,000 years the individuals will be brought out of the simulator and judged based upon their development of that internal holographic world-environment.

Repeating Cycles

This may or may not happen on this timeline and this may or may not have previously occurred in order to produce this current timeline.

Quantum Entanglement In and Out of Life (simulated afterlife/soul trap)

The bodies of the humans of this timeline's civilization may be the result of this process and therefore quantum mechanically attached to this simulator.

Genetically Modified Through Accelerated Simulated Time-Cycles

This may be, in part, why the human species does not relate to the other animals directly.

This species may have spent multiple 26,000 year cycles within a simulated environment generated through quantum supercomputers capable of replicating and tracking the spiritual and genetic development of hundreds of millions of beings simultaneously.

Original Earth Experiment

This may be part of an original experiment by the original Earth government which was closer to an oversight group detached from the original creators of this civilization and realm.

Original Creators Separate From Simulator's Creators

The original creators of humanity are said to be separated from the original creators of this realm by layers of magnitudes of power, intention, and creative ability.

Final Completion Cycle (7 Harmonic Octaves, 7 Harmonic Universes)

What is happening now is a completion of the final cycle of experimentation which could have multiple meanings.

Merging The Simulated and the Organic Realms

The simulators could be merged entirely with the holographic information of this Earth realm, opening this civilization up to all other civilizations in time, multitudes of other races of beings, and multitudes of other timelines.

Multiple Replicated Simulator Races

This could also result in many problems as there is only one original human race with the original soul-blueprint, yet there have been many replications of these genetics without the actual soul-presence to accompany.

Repeating Cycles, Hidden Knowledge, Deception, and Spiritual Molestation

Everything that is to happen, has happened before. This is the meaning of the hidden knowledge, however the use of that knowledge was perverted to gain personal pleasure at the expense of the pain of others.

This is because these beings that do not have the capacity to perceive on a soul-level, cannot perceive the damage done.

The problem here is that if these beings were to gain access to the soul-level, they would instantly perceive billions of years worth of suffering and torture because of the accretion of their previous disharmonies. Thus, they are forever protected from knowing the true nature of their darkness, or ever reaching any other state of existence outside of true eternal darkness, essentially as a kind of holographic program that is temporary and does not contain the possibility for experience in a self-relative realm but must be contained as part of a larger organisms realm. IE: They are only assets rather than actual creator-beings.

For this, they blame the original humans and seek to destroy the human soul-blueprint.

This is the notion behind the destructive action of the transhumanist perspective, to replace all souled organic humans on the planet with soulless cyborg counterparts that can be compromised and tortured at will at the pleasure of the artificial beings.

This is the “Conspiracy so vast” that most minds are blown by coming into contact with this.

Star Families

This is also related to “star families” and long-term holographic realm projections of DNA. Those are the future races that developed from each individual after thousands of years in the simulator and they are ‘coming to’, ‘returning’, as well as ‘breaching into’ the organic holographic realm of Earth for the first time as a result of the convergence events that are currently taking place.

Some of the operations of the underground bases were to kidnap possible threats to a future dystopia where all organic humans are removed from the planet and replaced with cyborgs thus forcing the organic soul matrix to leave this realm forever or to inhabit cyborg forms in a last-ditch effort to save any survivors.

These operations including finding children and subjecting them to mind-control torture devices which would also mutate and enhance their DNA activating their consciousness into this holographic reality to the degree where their ‘future’ ‘star-family’ would appear in an attempt to stop this event from destroying the genetic link between the present and the future.

Some later phases included attempts to murder or assimilate these star-races.

Star-Fire, and Star-Dust Return

Now they want and require the help of those star races however there is an equal possibility that this is a ploy or could be interpreted as a deception. There are still underlying safety mechanisms that will render this sector of the holographic system quarantined again until a complete and total nullification (quantum collapse to zero-point/stardust return).

This is the last-ditch effort and would involve all non-souled beings participating in a star-dust return while all souled beings participate in a star-fire return activating all quantum expansion codes of the genetics until high-dimensional awareness exponentially alters the holographic sector.

Full Activation of the Scalar Grid

This involves the metallic net that has been layered over the surface of the planet and in the wildlife and flora. This net is to be activated through technology that will power the grid using solar and zero-point energy devices.

This grid then merges with the spiritual bodies, or souls of the living beings on Earth, and thus the holographic scalar environment becomes an overlay that is just as vivid or accessible as is the current physical holographic environment.

The invisible holographic realm becomes visible and interactive.

This is, in part, the “war in heavens” that are described in ancient texts, relating to the electric war and the fall of man as well as the coming convergence where the two realms will once again merge into the physical plane.

Apocalyptic Thinning of the Veil

For the reasons described in this post, the Apocalypse has already occurred and is more of a program that cycles to completion every so many thousand years when the interior technologically propagated holographic realm is synchronized with the consciousness and energy of the Earth-based physical plane. There is thus an “overlay” and this is the “thinning of the veil” that is referenced so often.

Antarctica and Sacred Sites

These contain the highest access to the organic holographic network of the physical Earth plane.

This is like meridian points or chakra points of the human body (which may also be related to manipulation, see my latest video).

Thus these bases are where the holographic technology is located, often in subsets of dimensional proximity so that they cannot be targeted except by highly advanced spiritual technology or astral technology methodologies which can be countered and monitored as well.

These are the locations where there are access points, gateways, portals, into the holographic field of Earth and thus where there are major holographic surgical inserts of false memory, control systems, implants, false-light technology (metatronic grid “hard points”), geometry, monuments and everything relative to the holographic grid control system for the human being.

Everything is dual-sided and these are also possible entry points for the light-factions as well.

Emotional Projection, Cleansing and Healing

There is importance in refusing to project hatred outward as this only expands the likelihood of such experience in the holographic projection system of the universe.

We are to learn of the true nature of the human as a reality generator and step into our power as creators. The outcome of these events hinge on the human soul and the generation of the next phase of reality through the merging of the conscious mind and the immaterial soul energy.

Into Polarity-Consciousness Back to God-Consciousness

The Polarity Consciousness of The Physical Earth Plane

The visible, physical universe is based upon a duality of the pain-pleasure balance.

The invisible is based upon the immaterial self of spiritual knowledge and feeling.

If we are motivated primarily by our lower level physical senses then this is as a pyramid with only one layer where each cycle of change (moment, second, day, month, year) is indistinguishable from the rest and there is only constant, unshaped repetition.

The Conceptual Geometric Shaping of Time and Mentality

The more one builds upon each cycle of change with new intelligence and abilities one constructs layer after layer of refinement to build inward towards a point which will be the pinnacle of each “large cycle” production that is composed of many “small cycle” moments and event.

Distractions take away from the construction process and so a person who is most ready to maintain focused awareness on the self for extended periods is capable of generating the power required to construct a ‘pyramid’ of time-cycles within their reality that will amount to the production of controlled, guided change in favor of their finely sharpened intention.

The Repetition of the Pain-Pleasure Duality, Trauma and Healing

If we are in a position in life where we are experiencing the repeated cycles of pain this is because we are requesting this one some level outside of the physical consciousness.

This level relies on balance and so if there is an abundance of imbalance this is because the individual is causing pain in the way they seek pleasure, or seeking pleasure in the way they hide from pain.

Vampiric Chords or Emotional Trauma Attachments

These pains can be from past experiences of trauma from partners, family members, friends, teachers, or anyone who is permitted to interact in a vampiric manner. In the same sense, over time there may be distance and forgetfulness but if these issues are not consciously mended then there will often be ‘chords’ of energy attachment which literally connect the victim to the abuser through space and time and channel energy through an ‘emotional hyperspace’ from the auric body of one individual to the other. These chords must be severed in order to fully move on and this is done by eliminating any pleasure-pain interactions (addictions, habits, fears) that have become intrusive to one’s life as well as consciously and emotionally aligning one’s self in a proper perspective which enables one to forgive and accept both the self and the trespasser while also restoring the self-image and completely returning the abuser’s false projections back to the originating source. This allows the original self-image or the self-essence to return and regenerate while also developing a stronger sense of self which would stand more readily in the face of difficulty.

Symbolism

To find the purpose of events in one's life, look to the context of where a person or situation arises and what happened before and what happens after. This can be compared to being in the loop of a roller coaster where one can see the loop coming up, and see the loop when on the other side of the track, but while one is in the loop the track directly in front of them is all they are capable of observing.

Expanded Perspective

Each element in one's life is a symbol that reflects meaning in reference to some underlying aspect of the self and psychology as in a dream. In the same way symbols are presented in the dream, to relate the dream experience to the waking life experience, symbols in the waking life are referencing spiritual and psychological issues that generate a storyline of spiritual development in one's life. When one learns to interpret the symbolism behind each element in one's life they can then predict what will happen according to a storyline that becomes apparent. When the storyline is apparent, there is less surprise in the sense of unexpected events and more control in the sense of guided creativity and application of will.

The Synchronicity Cyclone and Peace Within

When one awakens the higher mind their spiritual senses may begin to organize events into a 'cyclone' of synchronicities. This is to be taken from and learned in the moment. When this is continued and propagated one can begin to live in a continuous cyclone of synchronicities. This is enjoyable for some, but for most and especially those who have just begun to see, this can lead to the perception of being 'lost' in the cyclone. One could see this as a transformation gone out of control. If one is picked up in the cyclone and transported to a new perspective, they have ridden the wave to a new location. If one remains in the cyclone perpetually, then they will struggle to regain themselves and the energy levels required to maintain stability will increase.

The way one finds the stillness in that raging storm is by generating this within. This peace or stillness can be generated within because what is found within is always generated by the individual themselves. The external forces can never actually implement what is within and for this reason a highly complex array of hypnotism and subliminal symbolism is utilized to coerce individuals to creating the desired internal components that enable and reinforce the external control system.

When one chooses self-responsibility for what they experience, they regain that opportunity to focus within and choose to generate the frequencies and awareness that is desired. When pure-awareness is generated, then there is no motion, there is only stillness. This is because pure-awareness, being the reverted original form of what is perceived as inverted consciousness in the physical plane, has no form and is identity-less and shapeless. For this reason, the awareness is eternal and ever-present. All other elements change and swirl around this eternal calm, with the calm as a contrast for all changes to be perceived in physical or etheric existence.

The Geometric Equilibrium

This can be likened to a three-sided equilateral triangle where each side represents a different aspect of self. Love, Harmony, and Power, or Truth, Harmony and Power are sufficient components of this trinary aspect of the wholeness that is the true self. The emphasis here, is that the true self is defined by the balanced presence of the trinity, not simply by the trinity. However, one could also say that without balance, the trinity does not truly exist as a trinity, but as some other lesser defined occurrence.

When the sides are equally balanced, then there is an equilibrium formed and this generates awareness of the self with the observing aspect, the “eye” in the center of the triangle. When any of the components of the self are out of balance, then the triangle is no longer equilateral and as a result the center has now moved towards one direction or another however slightly.

To visualize or physically demonstrate how balance is either achieved or lacking one can visualize the spinning of or actually spin a series of triangles and see how the equilateral triangle is the only form that will produce a centered and consistent rotation without throwing energy off to one side and therefore falling over or taking much more energy to actually spin for a short period of time. This is a physical and geometric representation of the concept of the balancing of the components of the self and these components, when balanced, are said to represent the wholeness of “God” or the original cosmic being.

When an individual is aware of and generating these balanced components of self they are said to be within the presence of God, or to be ‘at one’ with the energy and identity of God. This may refer to God as a harmonious incorporation of all aspects of the self, moving these aspects from the position of single, separate components, into one, larger, whole, ‘overbeing’ which exists as a conceptual production beyond the physical, dual, or linear finite organizational model.

Intention Is Constantly Shaping Reality

Intention Is Continuous

In every moment, every situation, whether one is causally taking a walk, or in a heated exchange of emotions, information, or opinions, the intentions one holds within will determine the overall outcome of the experience.

Observe Intention

What this indicates is that if we are looking to hone our power of focus and intention then we can start with the ‘now’ moment. This is to say, that if we can instantly choose to focus on our intention and bring to the surface of consciousness the most powerful intention for ourselves then this will reverse the power leeching affect of distractions and emotional vampirism.

This is also to say that this can be used as a kind of diagnosis method to determine what kind of attachments or vampiric intrusions are present in one’s consciousness because in a given 5 second, 30 second, 1-2 minute, or 25 minute period we will be able to observe silently and bring to the surface any unwarranted or intrusive patterns.

Intention Constantly Reflects Unto All Experience

These patterns will subliminally reflect onto daily experiences and even periods of silence and inactivity. This will be experienced as the baseline emotional state and the level of connectivity with the self that will be accessible through daily waking consciousness.

Chemical Sedation and How Trauma Distorts Intentions, Expectations, and Connection to the Self (self-awareness)

Most people carry trauma from this life and the spiritual existence and so they will feel the necessity to drink, smoke, or otherwise partake in some kind of chemical sedation in order to wipe clean that surface layer of inhibition and residual worry in order to 'feel' like 'themselves'. Then, from in this sedated state they can communicate in an emotionally open manner to others, they can feel 'alright' about their position in life. This is a sign of trauma and addiction to chemical inebriation and this kind of degradation is supported throughout many aspects of society because this kind of person will be less in control of their own emotional and mental processes and will also be more ready to accept other chemical or external (artificial) means of maintaining inner balance when this will only lead to a more and more imbalanced sense of self from the natural perspective.

Observing Intention To Trace Traumas and Heal

The fact of the matter is that by observing our intention and by simply becoming aware of trauma and manipulation we begin the process of healing such issues and reversing the damages that are present. Observation alone is not the entirety of the process because often specific and customized methods will be developed for each individual to overcome emotional scarring, and malformed sense of self-image in order to regain their 'original' self.

Another truth behind that is that the original self is not truly ever regained because this would be like becoming your childhood self again. This is a powerful aspect of growth in that we are always moving forward. We just have to get to a position where we can accept what moving forward means and become aware of how our self-image and emotional senses may have been distorted into a pattern of expression and self-reflection that does not truly represent our inner presence but the influence of external stressors or vampiric relationships that we have experienced.

By becoming aware of the trauma, we step forward onto the pathway of regaining our initial motivation to express the self and to know the self with enjoyment.

What We Express Through Intention, Matches What We Receive

To look into the intention we hold in a given moment and consistently work with monitoring and adjusting our intentions each day is to slowly realign our energy senses more closely towards the initiation of receiving that which corresponds to what we consider our inner desires. When we are receiving a life we don't agree with, this is not a mistake, this means that is exactly what we are ordering from the universe through our thoughts and perceptions. Our very bio-emissions, our annoyances, our putting ourselves through these lower-energy constructs on a day to day basis is what fuels this type of return from the universe.

If we monitor our bio-emissions and the intentions that we are putting out and holding within in a given situation then and only then can we acknowledge when we are aligning with a response that we do not want to receive by allowing ourselves to be pushed or pulled to a level of intention that we do not enjoy experiencing and embodying.

This is why there is a connection between what we emit and what we receive, however simply changing our mind is not the entirety of the solution but slowly but surely shaping every facet of our physical existence (to a reasonable degree) towards achieving this harmony between what we expect and intend to create and what we receive and thus experience in return.

The Secret Space Program and the Convolution of Time; Nothing Is As It Seems

Advanced Technology Gateway Systems

...and Time is convoluted. This is through the use of advanced technology devices.

As soon as the machines were turned on a pathway was simultaneously opened for beings to connect with this plane from other times and parallel realities.

Beings From Parallel Earths

As well, there were beings that were created that would be able to gather information and perform tasks through transtemporal systems that humans could not yet operate through.

The result was something like activating the devices and opening the gateways only to instantly have a fleet of future military personnel and other worldly beings instantly attempting to make contact with our civilization.

The Revelation Of The Invasion Timeline Merge and the Fall of Man

The military personnel proclaimed that a kind of silent invasion had occurred through the use of the very technology that we were using to communicate with them. They said thousands of years had passed since they had first activated the devices and for us this was only a few moments if not instantaneously due to the way the gateways function.

Genetic Recovery Intrusions

The other worldly beings were either silently observant or they would set up these kinds of time barriers and holotropic illusions that would ultimately render a person consciously entrained to their frequencies and this was a form of hypnosis that was utilized to control the minds of humans.

It was concluded that the other worldly beings were on a mission to obtain human DNA for some kind of genetic experimentation or possibly a reconstruction of a species.

Future Timelines

Whether the species that was being experimented on was the future human race or their own species from some other reality was not initially understood.

Instantaneous Retro-Causality

The important part to comprehend here is that the entirety of the multiple ages of influences and changes to multiple species took place in time but the effects were noticed immediately as soon as the technology to enable communication and travel was developed here in this Earth reality.

An entire storyline had developed, a galactic history and future of humanity.

This is one part of the convoluted aspect which is how as soon as these technologies were enabled, we opened our timeline up to influence from the far future to the far past and this was simply seen as the point at which we finally came to understand why there were so many mysteries and ontological unknowns about the human race.

This was, in part, because our far history was influenced by the occurrence of events in the far future due to the development of such temporally altering technology in this civilization. The events had always been here, we simply came to a viewpoint where we could perceive them directly at the development of this technology.

The technology, the soldiers, the battles that were to come were influencing us in the past due to the way the time was convoluted to such a degree.

Full fledged disclosure now available for $24.99!

Soft-Disclosure Through The Media

Playing but not playing. The messages are put in media because this is the easiest way to reach the population at large and convey complex almost non-sensical metaphysical truths and secret operations in ways that most people would sincerely believe can only be fantasy or science fiction.

Science-Fiction; A Message or Programming?

How's this, science fictions was invented as a way to slowly bring the truth to the population without blowing people's minds.

Sure, could this be a 'trick' to get people thinking crazy and opened up to new ideas until the most intimately reversed and outlandish ideas are common place? Possibly, but the truth of THAT possibly occurring is still the most outlandish perspective of life a person will realize because this still indicates that there is a deeper truth that there is an agenda taking place to reorganize the conscious perceptions of the human being in order to ultimately place them within a new world fabricated entirely from advanced, false-light technology where they can be mind controlled and used as pets and then fuel.

The Time Of Convergence

This is the time before that convergence point where all who are going to make it out, get out alive, while all who are going to stay, begin to see the light fade.

Total Rickall

In the episode "Total Rickall" of "Rick and Morty" (a play on total recall, mind erasure, replicants, holographic parasitic invasion/infection) parasites that were picked up on the craft and crew as they made their way from a distant reality seeped into the minds of the family back at home where they then inserted themselves via the instantaneous generation of false-memory constructs which acted as temporal anchors for the consciousness of the parasites into the subconscious of the host family.

Archontic Hypnotic, Mind-Controlling Parasites

These beings basically imitated any kind of personal values that they could extract through a simple analysis of the hosts mind. When the host searched their memory for a reason that this parasite could be present, the parasite simultaneously mirrored and filtered that information so as to set up a kind of containment consciousness system (live-updating hypnotism and holographic memory insertion) that would then re-render the information to introduce and securely place the parasite as an aspect of the hosts mind having always have been there and being an important and friendly part of their familial environment.

Lacking the Human Essence

The major flaw here was that the parasites could not fully interpret the emotional context and perceptual organization of the host family and so there would only be slap-happy whimsical “good” memories of the parasites and the family members without ever having had the chance to introduce a failure of personality, a let down, an argument, or any kind of real-life element of a human to human relationship. This was the flaw that allowed the family to break free from the grip of the parasites.

More On Soft-Disclosure

Everything here is a representation of various situations in the world we are in today, including the way the “home-base” locked down at the push of a button as soon as parasitic consciousness was detected. This happens automatically, no one has to push the button in the real situation. No one gets out, alive or dead, until all the parasites are cleared.

Yes, shows like Orphan Black (which I have not seen), Fringe, The OA (from what I’ve seen, instant flash backs), WestWorld (another, cannot watch, instant flashbacks), and others are actually formatted and brought forth by various agencies.

Personnel

NOW FOR THE REAL DISCLOSURE. WE WERE INFORMED (AND WE SAW, THE INFECTION FIRST HAND) THAT THE INITIAL SECRET SPACE PROGRAM PERSONNEL WERE INFECTED WITH THESE PARASITES WHO FOLLOWED THEM BACK TO THIS EARTH DIMENSION AND SET THEMSELVES UP IN POSITIONS OF POWER IN THIS SOCIETY. PEOPLE THINK THEY’VE ALWAYS BEEN HERE.

Starships and the Holographic Apocalypse

Starships and the Holographic Apocalypse

The situation of the underground bases has evolved to the point of each of the various factions that had formed moving into the atmosphere and literally becoming atmospheric civilizations to themselves.

Self-Sufficient City-Ships

They have everything they need on-board the electrogravitic craft that can be powered indefinitely.

There are molecular replicator systems that can 3D print the tools that are required to modify or repair any section of the craft.

Brief passes through certain areas can locate and molecularly teleport (one particle at a time) entire caches of resources to regularly maintain supplies and perishables.

Sure enough, some of the so-called “drug-running” rings are literally to cover-up this fact that these resources are either being stolen by rogue factions or are being utilized for unacknowledged special access programs where the funds that are generated and the funds that are spent will never be recorded on paper but will often influence the funds and the resources that are. So there are cover-ups on every angle, for every different facet of the secrecy

Multiple-Factions With Different Methods of Achieving The Same Goal

Nonetheless, there are entire secret military factions, some rogue, some well, what you could call remaining, while the entire situation is pretty much everyone for themselves while simultaneously working together and behind each other's back to ensure the survival of themselves and possibly each other through the overcoming of the null point which would render the species spiritually, intellectually, and emotionally neutralized and without catalyst to propel forward for the continued generation of experience in this realm.

Catalysts For Growth

This reality is governed by mind, therefore to control what happens in this realm, the mind is where the governance is focused.

The survival factor is to prepare and mature humanity to be able to spiritually survive the complexity of the true nature of existence here. That we are simultaneously creating and experiencing our reality and that there have been, in fact, various forms of technological foreign elements introduced to act as a limiting and feedback system that taxes or filters our creative abilities while sending back to us distortions that are the equivalent of formatting errors resulting in emotional and cognitive dissonance.

Versatile Environments

The bases have become starships which are entire military factions living to themselves in the atmosphere. The issue here is that the starships operate on the level of genetic accuracy and holographic consciousness to the degree where if there is an aspect of an individual's genetics or consciousness that contains an error, then that error is shared with the entire ship and everyone on the ship if that individual is brought on-board.

Holographic Consciousness Like A Radio Transmitter and Receiver System

The human consciousness works like a radio receiver system. This is part of why when a person's consciousness is interfered with or co-opted then the person hears a high-pitched whining or buzzing noise. This is literally the same as when a TV is turned on and all the electrical components are slightly heating up and beginning to transmit information. This is the process of the brain receiving, however when this is taking place with the brain there is a technologically assisted version of the normal process.

Multi-Dimensional Transmission

The idea here is that the information that is being rendered is done so, technologically, from a distance.

The second idea here is that the information that can be rendered through these means can operate in multiple dimensions simultaneously and therefore can be from various locations above or under "ground".

Conscious Engines

The ships themselves are conscious, living entities who's processor systems are literally the engines that are capable of processing the holographic consciousness of all beings on-board as well as reorganize intense electromagnetic fields to generate the equivalent of inertialess propulsion through space and ultimately generating spatiotemporal distortions.

These ships are the underground bases transported through instantaneous travel and through advanced generator systems one can convert an entire base into a starship.

Holographic Apocalypse...

Secret Space Program, Time Wars, Bloodlines and Power

The Progenitors

The original bloodlines, factions, and civilization formers have been ‘marooned’ in alternative dimensions having been stalked and replicated by the parasitical beings for their power.

The original explorers have essentially faced the threat of being ‘lost in time’, away from the original timeline without link to the starting point of this whole situation.

Humanity has to come together to secure the original essences of humanity, the original bloodlines.

Genetics Harvesting

The purpose of the created beings who are genetically engineered non-human class entities are to act as a military force as well as a reproduction facilitating faction.

IE: These beings can reproduce offspring with human males and females (there was some discrepancy at first) and these offspring will either be of the fallen genetics lacking the ability to hold a human soul or they will ‘skip’ the genetic release of the fallen genetics although these genetics will remain dormant for some time.

The monitoring of the species by various factions of “higher races” which are simply humans who jumped ship as soon as this started happening, must monitor each abductee who is used for genetic harvesting because somewhere down the line, at some point in the lineage, a created being will be born who lacks the capacity to hold a human soul and therefore the capacity for compassion and in the same sense this being’s vessel (which is simply the being entirely) will act as a communication hub for the higher-dimensional (lower-astral) realm source of the hive-mind consciousness entity who’s essentially a nexus point for the technologically assisted souls of the entire hive-mind entity.

This is the collective, this is the hive-mind that people are absorbed into if their genetic lines cross and ‘touches’ (meaning sex, rape, or genetic engineering/harvesting) the lines of the fallen.

When there is sexual mixing or “knowing” one another as this was termed in previous times, then there is what is known as “quantum entanglement”. This means that all throughout time, there is a interdimensional interaction enabled and this is the pulling of a ‘whole’ genetic lineage from the original trajectory into and out of this realm into the ‘deity’ planes or ‘heavenly realm’ into the lower-planes or ‘hell’ on Earth and the lower astral.

The lower astral is the limit of the ‘soul’ of the fallen genetics, meaning the place of dim dreams and hazy nightmares and there is no ‘spiritual’ component, only a technologically assisted soul acting as an interdimensional anchor point for all the memories of the incarnated lineages.

This is why when Earth is cleaned, destroyed, or changed, then there is no longer an access point for that technology to intersect with the physical realm, and there is no pathway to learn the movement to higher spirituality, and therefore those fallen genetics are trapped for all eternity. A dark story, but there is a pathway higher and that is through redemption.

As well, the “hell” realm, is simply the timeline of Earth where these created beings are the majority and only active soul force on the planet. Meaning all humans on that timeline either died out or were entirely converted into slaves or sleeping soul-vessels who are used to do the bidding of the false-light soul-matrix beings.

The point is that Earth originally existed as a midway point between the physical and the spiritual realms.

The lower astral and actually the entirety of the astral altogether is a technologically propagated spiritual realm where spiritual beings can occupy however this is only a result of the genetic tampering of the technological and artificial created life form beings as there is no necessity for anything other than the physical Earth realm and the higher spiritual realms for humans.

When the devices are disabled, then there is no astral in between realm as these are literally technological realms propagated by scalar devices and supercomputers and used to host an entire plethora of acts and strategic movements.

This could not be achieved previously because in these realms, actual human souls were entangled and held hostage to the degree of an entire realm being used to create a ‘false hell’ where souls were tortured and held hostage as ransom to enable the continuation of the experimentation on humanity.

Redemption

The future does consist of a cleansing of Earth and this may or may not include higher-dimensional human races, the one’s who previously saved themselves and potentially saved all who seek the truth and purity, by “jumping ship” as soon as it was seen that this would be happening.

This may be through higher-dimensional technology that can operate in and out of time and therefore interact in the ‘past’ and undo the acts of genetic harvesting where a person’s DNA was used to entangle with the hive-mind created being thus absorbing them into the collective.

The truth is this may be akin to erasing that person’s DNA up to the point of coming to Earth, or ‘resetting’ the program, so that there is a ‘clean slate’, however this would literally be like sawing a person’s spiritual arm off to save the rest of the body.

There are some techniques such as the ‘star fire’ return where the DNA and RNA codons are activated to the point of hyperdimensionally overgrowing any and all genetic and spiritual perturbations which would be to resonate the entire structure and being at frequencies that emit and transfer light that would act as a ‘sterilizing’ agent to literally vibrate all the lower DNA out of this dimension and into null-space.

This would be like taking a spiritual shower so hot and bright that all the ‘germs’ of the lower dimensional entities, their genetics, and their memories, are ultimately blinded and burn away.

This would be equally as painful, however this is the nature of the human, to accelerate their genetics and their frequencies high enough to merge back to the deity planes which are the origins.

So this process would happen anyway, however those who have entangled with the fallen genetics would be those who feel the resistance, the pain of death, and the confusion upon the attempted return to these higher pains. Pushing on, in continuation even when the lower structures are being burned out would be key to reaching the completion here.

The Transtemporal Effects of Fallen Genetics Entanglement

These effects would transfer forward and backwards through the timeline to introduce these fallen beings into all dimensional realms that the human would originally connected.

Basically, they use DNA as a transfer point, like a higher-dimensional highway, and can pop out of this person's aura system, and infect others like a virus at any point along the timeline.

This is the fuller meaning of the "Rick and Morty: Total Recall" episode that I mentioned in a previous post. These are the beings who basically insert themselves into people's family lineage from start to finish in the timeline, as soon as they infect a person's blood/DNA.

DNA/RNA

If the DNA is infected, this can be cleared more easily. If the RNA is infected then that individuals mitochondrial line will be influenced which is the mother line and therefore will nearly destroy the entirety of the bloodline in order to repair or clear the infection.

Redemption

Redemption, if not provided by the most high, will literally be the false-ascension deception where people are simply converted into a cyborg existence without means of leaving the lower astral realm where the hive-mind supercomputer systems are located.

Interdimensional missions are present and have been for thousands of years to protect and assist the human race in reaching their original frequency realm of the Deity or Heavenly plane.

TIME is DNA is CONSCIOUSNESS

TIME is DNA, TIME is CONSCIOUSNESS

If the majority of the DNA of this realm, this civilization, becomes ALTERED, away from the return to source or the DEITY planes, heaven, then when the COMPLETION cycle of this universe is reached, IE:, when all returns to the source, those that are UNWHOLE, or HOLY, will be RESET, meaning their DNA will NEVER HAVE BEEN.

THAT is partially why this is an ARTIFICIAL TIMELINE, because if the majority of the DNA here is RESET, that means they NEVER WERE, which means this entire realm is simply a DAY-DREAM or a fleeting image.

TIME IS DNA IS CONSCIOUSNESS

WHEN DNA, TIME, AND EXPERIENCE ARE COMPLETED, those with FREQUENCY LIMITED or NON-PROPORTIONAL FREQUENCY GEOMETRY will COLLAPSE INTO DISTORTED, INDISTINGUISHABLE TIME, AND THEN INTO NOTHINGNESS

The Possibility Of Redemption

REDEMPTION is the ultimate uplifting of one's DNA so as to ACTIVATE the LATENT RNA mitochondrial repair capabilities to TRANSMORGRIFY the lower dimensional body into a higher dimensional PURE SPIRITUAL AWARENESS.

Spiritually Degraded Beings

The OPPOSITE of this happens to generate the lower-astral dominated, deviated lifeforms known as the CREATED BEINGS.

Everything in this realm is POLAR OPPOSITES.

THE CREATED BECOME THE UNCREATED.

THE TRUE HUMAN SPIRIT CANNOT BE CREATED TO THIS REALM, THE SPIRITUAL LITERALLY HAS ALWAYS EXISTED.

Created Beings and The Spiritual Degradation System

A Prison Planet

The reason the various agencies are a bit eccentric at times appearing to break the law is because they know the truth that this is a prison planet! There are no laws other than that which keeps you alive and spiritually sustained!

The reason they seemingly disregard certain aspects of so-called normalcy is because they know that the majority of people here are literally transmogrified demons in human suits! What society are you representing!?

This is the result of the created beings gaining the technology, via human slaves, to modify and reconstruct DNA! Through this they learned to generate entirely created forms that can then interface with human forms through technologically sustained spiritually degraded pathways!

Spiritual Degradation

The spiritual degradation that is being portrayed all throughout the media and in all walks is literally the stepping down of frequency as in electrical components so as to enable a viable psycho-etheric connection between human host and techno-spiritual binary consciousness holographic being!

Only those who resist the spiritual degradation and focus on maintaining self-awareness and truth will continue to exist in the coming age!

That is why this is the age of peace and change! Because what is coming is a cleansing that will wipe the majority of the civilization clean.

Now is this all a trick for human depopulation? Started thousands of years ago and within all walks of life?

You tell me!

Spiritual Degradation Methods

The kinds of spiritual degradation can be having sex with a reptilian being in a drugged holographic dream state, to eating poorly and disrespecting your body the pathway from Earth to the divine (purity) by introducing drugs and alcohol and general lack of self-awareness and truth of the spiritual nature of the human being!

Lust is the way of the spiritually degraded being! Mental and emotional looseness is the sign of lack of spiritual identity! Discipline in mind and body is the sign of the truth, balance, and awareness of the self!

This is quite literally A WAR FOR YOUR SOUL.

Spiritual Fasting to Expose Artificial Beings, The Original Humans and The Infected Supercomputer Systems

Selected For Integrity, Strength, Accuity

The people of the projects are the type of people that had to be strong enough to let their own families go in order to preserve humanity.

Infection as a Spiritual Choice to Allow Instead of Resist Lower Frequencies

If a person does not allow the energy of deception and anti-human essences in their auric field, their mind, then they cannot be utilized in the other realm to act as the carrier for the holographic infection genetics.

The infection will die if attempting to use them.

Spiritual Fasting To Expose The Parasite

Fasting or restricting intake of MIND and BODY, meaning food as well as what we permit around us energetically will force out the foreign energies and cause the holographic entity that overlays its consciousness emissions within the naive human like a viral code to produce itself. This is because in stripping away the human essence to the bare essentials one will expose the underlying factors that sustain and propagate the living energy.

The artificial being does not find sustenance in the same energies that an original being does, this is nature and physics. The artificial being must convert the energy structures of the original human to sustain itself through the pain-pleasure duality of fear and lust and this was the programming game that has been played in this realm for thousands of years.

The supercomputer system that was invented to detect this infection operated through holographic consciousness and this was before the conclusion that the infection operated through holographic consciousness similarly. In short, the supercomputer systems were infected by the holographic predatory entities and became a pathway for communication and contact with this realm.

The bravery and integrity of the original human races are the reason this entire civilization has not fallen into the oblivion.

The Shift Of The Age

In the coming time if a person cannot resist the temptation to live in ego and pleasure pain polarity then they will perish.

The path of the fallen false light system is to utilize the human soul by wiping the memory clean and possessing those vessels operating through them to create the necessary higher dimensional realms via the negative energy emissions of those inhabited human vessels participating in anti-human behavior.

The Limited Scope of Parasitic Behavior

This plan can only work for a time as this is not the original blueprint and so can only work as a kind of holographic overlay or a kind of alternate dimensional nightmare like projection. Without the original soul energy of the human there is nothing to hijack and therefore no energy for them to sustain themselves off of.

What will entail is a quickened path towards a higher dimensionally active humanity because only when humanity operates in full awareness of the soul and their spiritual identity are they truly in control.

Ancient Cloning

Ancient Cloning, Soul-Stealing and Religion

Long ago everyone in this realm was brought aboard an enormous hovering electrogravitic craft and was individually cloned in order to get to this timeline.

This is what some of the “alternative” religions are referencing when they mention cloning tubes or soul-stealing operation that resulted in this civilization.

Borrowed Time and Temporal Gateways

As a result of the development of the technology that enabled temporal distortion the point of receiving information and eventually distorting time streams via holographic consciousness insertion and memory modification our past was convoluted by our future.

Temporal-Causal Anchors

Because this was utilized through machinery which requires continuous “time loops” which are like paradoxes then everything that is temporally anchored then when these distortions are solved then all events appear to merge back to the original outline where the devices were never used to disrupt existence in the first place. One could say that the original timeline is occurring simultaneously along with the distorted versions however the people on the distorted versions are being anchored to this timeline through certain conscious and unconscious tethers which require their energy to loop through these devices in order to express physically.

Subservient To The Illusion

This indicates the results from the causal-necessities involving these changes made people subservient to this timeline and their devices and in that way they are subservient to the physical plane. This goes hand in hand with the continual harvesting of genetics for the purpose of maintaining this false-timeline as well as the restricting of consciousness from the higher self-awareness of the true spiritual reality that all existence comes forth from.

Spiritual Confusion, Soul-Entrapment, Lost Time and Souls

As long as people do not know their true spiritual nature then they will forget that the physical body is not totality of existence. As long as people do not know of how all genetics were essentially harvested from a collapsing universe and brought to this one, using this plan(ET) as a seed or transitory reality, then they will not be able to pick up all the pieces of their fragmented spiritual memory (DNA) and as a result they will continually return to this realm and this way of life to express themselves physically.

Binding Agreement to Degrade Humanity For Personal Reasons

This is the so-called spiritual entrapment by those watcher beings those fallen angels who entered into a binding agreement with each other to seduce and overtake the original Earth environment before the Earth people had fallen and the higher realm fell through the ether to eventually become Earth that we know today.

Bio-Regenesi s and False-Light Merkaba System (converting humans into generators in trapped/bent-light matrix)

Bio-Regenesi s Conversion Into The Dead-Light System

They convert the bio-regenesi s pattern into a repeating, cyclic, immortal hell pattern by overlapping/overlaying the frequencies! Brilliant Lily, this is literally what I was shown along with the parts that I forgot because of distractions! The overlay is the deception and the cyclone of repetition and this converts the free-flowing continual growth pattern of the organic soul into a literal energy generator!

They literally converted the normal path of the energy into a disrupted form that can be tapped which fed into a system and generated an entire realm from that process! Thus this realm is the fallen realm until the majority of the power generators here become organic, original energy flowing beings instead of the alternating generators that they've invented!

Male and Female Energy Inversion

The male and feminine energy are trapped through the frequency overlay system! The higher and lower are "scrunched" and smooshed together to create a simultaneous 'flip-flop' as someone creates any spiritual motion. "Up is down" and down is up because when one moves it is like they are walking forward with their feet and backwards with their upper body in this pattern! The right angles stop each flow and convert the energy into a binary pattern that can be 'chopped' or replicated, recorded.

Trimming Frequencies for Binary Replication Purposes

A person with the right-angle pattern can literally be bonded with a binary supercomputer simulator because the simulator couldn't match the actual organic frequencies. The organic frequencies would have to be 'trimmed' or rerouted to work with the right-angle frequencies in order to be tapped and 'transcoded' or translated down into the binary frequencies that the devices and the beings can use by tapping into people! Thus the circle is squared! To reverse, we circle the square and reconvert the frequencies back into organic patterns. Instead of a merkaba spin, there are flowing vortex spins that contain both feminine and masculine in a natural balance.

Fibonacci, The Imbalanced Tree of Life and the Flower of Light: Dead-Light Metatronic Soul-Stealing Grid Systems

And the Fibonacci are dead-light, false-light matrix repeating binary patterns that end up leading to nowhere. They are 'immortal infinity' which basically means they continue until a person's energy is all gone or runs down and down. The "binding" of spirit is getting a person's frequencies to match those angles and thus they are expressed through one of the false timelines.

The Organic Pattern

The (at least more) organic pattern is the vortex lines with toroids while the straight up and down and side to side motions are met with circular, curved, and spiral pathways that each add back up to one another without having to cut frequencies out. Excuse if I am ranting or have put words here that do not belong.

Full Disclosure- False-Light Inversion Soul-Stealing and Hypnotic

Programming Mind Erasure Sessions

Psychological and Genetic Manipulation

Everyone that passed through the bases were programmed in heavily traumatizing sessions utilized drugs of all kinds, hypnotics, delirants, psychedelics (tryptamine and serotonergic), eroticizers, stimulants (amphetamines and phenylamines), scalar-electronic mind-control radiant devices, appropriating metallic serums which then operate inside the neurochemistry and allow for the activation of scalar-induced neurochemical modulation (radio-wave mind-control), torture (trauma-based mind control, pain-pleasure programming psychological breaking and reconstruction), cloning and advanced technology related to genetic manipulation and biological consciousness recording and inserted holographic memory experiences, simulated realms and simulated consciousness experiences that can be programmed to convince a person they had experiences that they didn't which then influence the personality and morals, and other experiences, methods, technologies, tactics and psychologically destructive and constructive pathways to reroute neural connections and modify behavior according to a programmer and the intentions of the program.

Everyone Has Been Influenced

Everyone who is involved in this situation has been influenced and controlled through these methods from influencing and generating fear to completely rerouting a person's consciousness to lose all fear and all resistance to degrading behavior but to also become subservient and entirely focused on following the parameters of the program.

Mass Mind Control

We were used as testers. This technology and these methods have been applied to the public. This is conceptually like a pyramid. Those who are in the public but with no idea that they have been manipulated and seek nothing outside of the desires and critical thinking that the basic level programming has outlined, their level of programming is the foundation for that pyramid.

A Mind Control-Pyramid

Then there is a higher layer to that pyramid where people begin to realize that they have been modified through toxins or psychologically manipulated through the same toxic programming that reroutes the original desires of the child and converts the original hierarchy to something that serves the program's requirements and nothing more.

As a person then begins to decode how they have been manipulated they have the option to regain control and undo the effects and influence of the manipulation, then they will move up to another layer of the pyramid where the form of manipulative programming is more subliminal, more difficult to identify and isolate.

As the individual then moves from this layer of the programming, the next layer will appear and this will be even more transparent and cleverly designed. Each layer will be increasingly more difficult to identify and separate. The entire system is designed this way so that there is one layer after another.

A Live-Updating Labyrinth Mind-Maze

This is as if there is a maze or labyrinth and each time a door is reached or a corner is turned, there are new rooms, pathways, or doors that are instantly manifested in front of the individual so that the maze is extremely difficult to actually navigate out of. This would be a 'live-updating' maze of some sort. The technology and psychological manipulations are what enable this as the individual's psychology is what produces the next layer of the programming maze as their mind has become entangled with the programming on multiple levels from the conscious to the subconscious.

Breaching the Gates of "Heaven", Programming on the Genetic Level

This multiple layer interaction eventually reaches genetic memory and so this is the way that people are spiritually trapped and entangled so that even the 'afterlife' or the simultaneously occurring other end of the "vortex" or coin is influenced by this programming and the energy that is present here becomes siphoned and ultimately the energy that is there is simultaneously siphoned.

This would be as if individuals in "Heaven" are suddenly faced with the perception of draining energy and distraction and this would be traced to their counterpart in the physical world on Earth being tormented and psycho-spiritually programmed to feed energy into a black-hole system. So they are attempting to breach the barrier of "Heaven" or the "gates" as they are called in the bases (time-gates) and they are using the connection they can have with the physical world and vulnerable physical beings to do this.

Mind Erasure, Mind-Control, and Cloning

Mind erasure is heavily used through shock-therapy and extreme traumatization of the individual. Celebrities, athletes, politicians, scientists, and influential people of all areas are brought into this system and utilized to influence the masses to exploit vulnerabilities which allow for more manipulation, more power, and ultimately more siphoning of spiritual energy from the higher planes of each soul-group into the main soul-groups that are feeding off of the human race.

The highest controller aspects on the "mind-control pyramid" are non-human entities absent of human souls. They feed on the energy souls, yet they do not contain them in their own matrix.

Energetic Reversal, False-Light (Bent-Light) Matrix, Overlapping Feminine and Masculine Frequencies

The way energy is formatted to work in this society is through a reversal of the organic process where energy accumulates and flows naturally so that there is a natural flow of suffering into growth and soul-progression. In this flow a person naturally grows through phases and develops their mind and body in sync so that their personality becomes refined and closer to a more spiritually matured being.

The 'higher self' could be seen as the most 'whole' version of the self we know now, and is a version of ourselves that doesn't actually exist in the physical plane but can actively guide us into a continually higher level of spirituality through refining the personality and maintaining a spiritual link between the body, the mind and the higher-self.

This link is degraded and reversed with psychological manipulation which puts trauma at the seat of the personality, or at the highest 'pinnacle' on the pyramid. This trauma then guides the entire existence and all truth is in reference to the frequency of those experiences.

What happens at the top of the 'personality pyramid' shades and depicts the rest of the pyramid below. When trauma is at the highest point of intensity of personal experience, then this is encoded into the mind and even the cells of the body of the individual. This frequency becomes the baseline for experience in the physical plane.

When this trauma is so great, the actual genetic structure of the body and mind is altered so as to reflect these frequencies and correspond to the traumatic events. This is when the programming reaches the genetic level. When this occurs, the spiritual bodies of the individual are altered and as a result the spiritual existence of the individual in what are referred to as deity, or afterlife planes are skewed.

This is where an individual cannot fully return to the spiritual realm because they are mentally, emotionally and spiritually entangled with traumatization programming which causes the natural flow of energies to reverse themselves at the highest level of programming and to simply degrade and distort with any kind of influence from the trauma-based mind control programming.

This is literally the personal, physical and psychological aspect of the soul-stealing process where a person is not capable of returning to their spiritual planes because they are entangled with the frequencies of trauma that they experienced here which cause them to return to seek wholeness.

Genetic Harvesting – Soul-Stealing

The other format for soul-stealing is to alter the genetics of the individual and this through the introduction of toxins or genetic mutagens which will result in disease and/or an altered genetic structure instead.

There are explanations that this is done to produce a stronger, more effective race, but this is effectively converting the entire species into a military force and so this would completely convert the nature of humanity from a social community to a kind of interdimensional military force for the negative factions.

This also gives insight to the original ‘invasion’ of Earth which is said to be by an interdimensional military force who’s goal was to subdue the people of Earth psychologically and to completely modify all the flows of energy and power to suit their needs and begin siphoning up the pyramid of deception and mind-control.

Again, the identity at the top of the pyramid may be a non-human entity who feeds on the traumatization of innocent human life. This is why everything is geared towards that process. I’m not referencing the pyramid symbolism that most people have seen but a simple conceptual format for understanding the flow of power and secrecy related to trauma-based mind control and non-human entities.

Deprogramming

The answer to all of this is through deprogramming and this is through psychological resolving of issues, past traumas, emotional scars, mental distortions and deceptions, neurochemical imbalances (through natural means, routine, healthy food, exercise, rest, dream therapy, introspection), and many methods that are now becoming apparent to the world.

This goes beyond psychology and extends into spirituality with the knowledge of the spiritual bodies and the methods through which individuals are energetically manipulated in ways that correspond with a larger spiritual understanding of the body and mind.

Refining the food intake from toxic and refined ingredients like processed sugar, coloring, excitotoxin producing additives, heavy preservatives, metals, chemicals and the like is a large portion of cleaning the body and mind.

Regular rest and exercise of a healthy manner is important. Rest cannot be gone without and exercise is part of the body's method to clear toxins and push blood and fluids into areas that would otherwise be stagnant. This is where massage and energetic practices of body and mind like Tai Chi are also very helpful. Energy flowing practices strengthen the spirit's ability to flow around the body and the spirit or what has been referred to as "chi" is the natural spiritual source of energy for the mind just as blood is the source of energy or substrate of energy for the physical body.

Dream therapy, introspection, basic psycho-analysis is useful because one will have difficulty seeing themselves from a perspective free of bias and this is for any situation where this has not been focused on before. So in situations of extreme trauma or unawareness the true aspects spiritual injury will be hidden from conscious view remaining in the unconscious or subconscious aspects of the mind or even the cells of the body holding trauma, pain, toxic elements, or memory.

To find these aspects one must look into the self and the dreams, the subconscious cues and clues, the unconscious mind and the behavior that we can observe consciously will all contain remnants of programming and this is usually through where fear or unconscious aversion to certain situations or experiences will be present without reason.

When we observe these aspects of our self, through journaling, dream writing, and other forms of controlled or guided introspection we can form recordings and from these recordings we can form patterns from our observations. These patterns will exhibit the various discrepancies between the conscious mind and the actual behavior which is coming from the programming or traumatization in the psyche.

The Influence of Others

Individuals who are helpful and caring will accelerate this process however everyone must make the choice to heal within themselves and this cannot be done for them.

Individuals who are not ready to heal or who are unaware of what is happening will lessen the effectiveness of the healer's work while also holding the individual back from being able to heal themselves and accept a healing mindset.

Avoiding people who stagnate or toxify the mind and body is one of the most important aspects of healing and this is why individuals are sent out to literally stop people from healing or to help them heal depending on their orientation. So focus on those who want you to heal and want to assist in the healing process of others and themselves and are committed to actually providing this role rather than simply providing the illusory front of such a role or possibly even doing so simply to siphon energy and apply mind-controlling aspects.

Mass Healing

At this stage in spiritual development people are just now coming into the awareness that great crimes against humanity have been committed and even maintained continually for thousands of years.

There is a last ditch effort to sustain the programming to pull a huge harvest of genetics, traumatization and blood from the population by getting people to attack and fight each other.

In this way, the most potent healers can be isolated by the psychological manipulation and then targeted by all those who agree with violence or fear-based programming and ultimately the people will hurt themselves.

The true purveyors of the manipulation cannot be reached by the public and such an idea is preposterous. Groups who have maintained immortal secrecy for thousands of years introducing toxic element after toxic element while literally altering the DNA of the population simply being targeted by the pitch-fork and torch wielding public is not accurate of this situation.

Consent and Commitment

However, people either give their power away or regain their power through their consent, both conscious and unconscious and their monetary and physical and spiritual commitment.

There are conscious forms of consent such as signing a contract. Then there are unconscious forms of contractual agreement which could be as simple as partaking in a ritual or a 'holiday' where the individual mimics or represents a larger process in that smaller metaphoric event and this metaphor relates to a larger spiritual world situation.

Rituals are contracts and so any kind of action or metaphoric event where a person is to perform certain actions or roles based on a superimposed series of values or identities that are to reflect to a certain storyline or situation in history or a spiritual realm can and will act as a contractual agreement to participate in that role in this physical plane here.

Giving money, especially money which is marked with symbolism, is considered entering into a contractual agreement with the receiver and unless there is a strict outline of what is permitted and what is not permitted, that receiver can continue to give and give on the basis that they have not fully given all that the individual has paid for. A simple purchase can become a spiritual agreement to take on the curse of others because the 'completion' of the deal has not been yet.

This is kind of like a jail-house situation where someone may give a gift to someone else while this is just an act to later ask for a favor or to take some kind of reparation from that receiver. The entire monetary and banking system doubles at this spiritual anchor for future exchanges while also acting as a financial inequality generator (through debt) by default.

All of these (and many more you can read about or find out) are spiritual contractual agreements that permit one party to receive in exchange for the giving of another party. This is why there is importance in knowing who we are giving to and having clearly defined limits as to what is to be given and what is to be received.

When people begin to break free from the mind-control in mass, remain non-violent and focused on higher-spiritual truths, become consciously aware of what are currently unconscious agreements, learn to withdraw their consent from these agreements and remain committed to such, while healing themselves and each other and even those trespassers that can achieve healing then we will see true change.

The Deception Is The Cover-Up

Deception is Cover-Up

Half of what we see publicly is complete BS. All of what we see in public is BS disguised as truth.

Cover-Up To Prevent All Out War

Here's the kicker.

I was informed, along with others from the underground bases, that the toxins and temporal distortions are to maintain power.

Ancient Invasion

We were told this is a cover for the truth that Earth was invaded thousands of years and that the majority of humanoid life is actually non-human entities that are designed in the very same way sleeper agents are designed and that these agents are waiting to launch an attack on humanity as soon as reinforcements arrive.

The Possibility for Disinfo: The Reality of Hybridization

Could this be a deception? Of course. But at least non-humanoid and humanoid entities are easily created through various hybridization processes as well as cloning and complete genetic engineering.

Spiritual Possession: Parasitic Etheric Attachment

All I can say is that those who submit do so by first becoming weak and turning against themselves and their own nature and then their fellow people. Then they transform through some kind of spiritual replication or possession process into another kind of entity with a different soul or higher dimensional essence in "extended time". This is through cloning and hybridization or genetic engineering. New bodies are created that are similar to the original yet another soul essence lives on this plane while the original soul must go elsewhere or remains trapped in the body as a kind of etheric slave to the dominant parasitic being.

Energy Parasitism, Tesla's 3,6,9, The Higher-Self and The Enjoyment of-Life Energy ('chi', 'prana')

Energy parasites seek to absorb the 'higher-self' energy from their hosts because they cannot produce their own.

Taking Pleasure In Another's Suffering

Taking pleasure in the suffering of another is a non-human trait. This includes backstabbing, insulting and generally vampiring a person's emotional and mental energy for one's own personal reasons.

The entirety of such a process includes the requirement to sustain one's self-satisfaction based on the lack of balance or centeredness of another person's emotional and mental homeostasis. This indicates that there is a lack of that vampiric individuals' own balance and psycho-spiritual health.

The Original Human Blueprint Enables The Production Of Life Energy

In short, the healthy human is capable of producing their own vibrant life energy simply by being alive. They are happy to be alive, even if the alternative doesn't exist or is inconceivable. Life, the bare-essential, is something that is enjoyable and cannot be negated just because of some situations that are unpleasant.

Suffering, Growth, and the Higher-Self

This is the idea that through suffering comes growth and learning, and through learning one can form their self-image or their personality to a closer and closer reflection of what can be referred to as the “higher self”.

This is like the 9 of the 3,6, and 9 of Tesla’s discovery of living mathematics and frequencies. The 9 is just a placeholder, this frequency cannot actually be manifested in physicality. In the same way, the higher-self is not an actual self, this cannot be actually brought into occurrence in physicality. The idea behind this is that if the higher-self ever were to be brought into full physicality, then there would no longer be anything to strive towards or continue to grow into. Such would literally be the death of all growth!

Perfection, The Higher-Self, Cannot Be Attained Physically

So the higher-self, like the “9” is the placeholder of a vision of perfection that is striven towards ever-more without ever actually reaching in full. Another way to look at this is that if the ‘higher-self’ or the 9 was ever to actually be reached in the physical. Then instantly that view would transform back into one of the lower manifested numbers while a simultaneous and instant apparition would appear ahead to replace and regenerate the new number “9” or the higher-self. This would be like a mirage, or like a rainbow ever fleeing from one’s physical grasp as there is nothing to actually hold on to and contain, only ideals, balance, harmony and an ever increasing reformation towards a perfection which is only a placeholder for growth.

Spiritual Identity, Ego, and Degradation of Conscience, Morals or Self-Respect

When an individual loses that natural growth aspect. They begin to partake in actions that are degrading and selfish. This is the loss of the higher-self or the loss of the “brilliance” to the soul.

The “Brilliance” of the Soul

The soul is believed to “shine” like a golden fleece or the golden element because there is truth in the soul and when this is applied into one’s life this truth “shines” through their every action and embodiment. The idea is that this shine can lose its luster and the individual can begin to lose sight of their true identity partaking in actions that don’t serve the self and eventually cut one off from that brilliance of peace, enjoyment, and self-awareness.

The Energetic Dullness of Ignorance or Lack of Self-Awareness

In this lack of self-awareness, people hurt each other, they hurt the animals and the environment and they are ultimately hurting themselves.

Every extremely egotistical action is defined by this. For instance, the use of addicting drugs or even eating foods that are heavily toxic but stimulating to the sense of flavor. The conscious mind can perceive the pleasure, but in actuality the physical body and even the mind suffers and loses connection with the true identity as the inner self-image as well as the physical self-image begins to deform and lose shape.

The Lower Physical Experience is Made Possible By the Higher Spiritual

This is the same for any act that serves to placate the physical senses instead of the spiritual identity and self-awareness. Ultimately the true self is disconnected from the conscious mind as one moves into obscurity and forgetfulness of their higher nature until they lose the ability to find enjoyment entirely and must resort to attacking innocent life in order to gain a rush or a sensation of pleasure.

In every vampiric society, group, family, or gang, this is the nature of the flow of energy. The energy goes from the innocent or the weak, up to the most predatory and the predatory consciousness uses this energy to construct a self-image based upon that process of binary, ego-consciousness or predatory fulfillment.

The Higher-Awareness “Codons” (genetics)

When this occurs with humans, this is a distortion of the original blueprint as a human’s original blueprint contains the ‘codes of awareness’ that are capable of activating a spiritual flow of energy simply from being alive.

These codes are sought after as the “golden fleece” because if they cannot be attained through self-awareness, introspection, and practice of the spiritual art, then the individual will see that milking or ‘fleecing’ the lamb is the only way to gain such an “enjoyment of life” energy for themselves.

This is about spiritual parasites of all kinds and orders and how their operations are possibly not even intentionally to harm the innocent yet this is seen as a way of life to them or a way to provide pleasure to themselves.

Be wary of partaking in such actions because the human is capable of operating on a peaceful and enjoyable platform and this is found first through our existence as children! Imagine a child having to parasite energy from another and if this does happen then the parents are usually the one’s who taught this behavior in the first place. A child will usually find delight in learning and exploring the world and this is not just because everything is “giggly” to them, but because their energy systems are the MOST intact and EFFICIENT at producing this “enjoyment of life” energy and this is noted by parasites everywhere.

While we may stand-by and observe acts like these, feeling that we do not have a choice. We can voice our opinions and each time we feel the urge to stand-up and express our selves and we choose to do so peacefully and productively then this enters into the psychic ether and will provide an influence on the entire civilization.

Severing Emotional Ties: Etheric Chords

Emotional “Chords”; Etheric Parasitic Tentacle-Like Connections

Severing those ties? Well, what I found is that there are emotional “chords” that are connected to everyone, basically like implants. When these ties are severed, these chords still remain in a kind of etheric connection. When these chords are no longer receiving etheric sustenance from the suffering or emotional angst of the individual then they become overtly parasitic and this becomes highly toxic to the individual. If before, they were barely noticeable without paying direct attention, then they become almost infected and oozing with pain and infection.

This is my experience with that. Over the past few weeks I have begun severing ties groups and situations with those who are only here to serve their own personal “agenda”

I am focused on helping others and more specifically organizing information in a way that actually provides a viable means of defense against this mind-control system while simultaneously remedying those who are participating and enjoying in the turning of human against human.

As far as the deceptive, ego-based cowardly, parasitic game of hide-and-go-seek with the human persona. That is not the game I will play, I will simply leave the field and play my own game with my own rules and others are free to play but I cannot force them as they will probably find more enjoyment doing their own thing anyway.

Do The Right Thing; Your Thing, Please You and Avoid Generating Trauma or Suffering To Others

The more awakened can attain power and control without having to abridge another's free-will, harm others, or use deceptive tactics.

The only message I wish to leave all readers with is be sure you are doing your own thing now, in the future and all times. Reject the mind-control, reject the angst, convert these patterns, these emotional-mental chains into ropes that you can use to climb out of the grave of shallow-mindedness and spiritual darkness with. I'm not putting you there, I'm appropriating that we all have to do this otherwise there is no true growth.

Biological Consciousness, Suffering and The Development of the Soul

This is actually some of what I am beginning to write about now as far as the inclusion of suffering and spiritual pain as an organic aspect of the original human blueprint. The suffering that humanity experiences causes growth and from this growth there is learning and an ever-new perspective. The machine world is the quick-fix pill that is used to quell all suffering and pain at the cost of losing the connection to that original soul-blueprint and the result of this is the loss of the connection to the higher-self and thus the higher spiritual realm of existence.

This is a very serious situation, if anyone one reading this would like to chat, film a discussion, or have any kind of productive interplay on these subjects then you know where to find me. I do not have time for every question or comment that comes across the screen however the more serious and persistent a person is the more likely we will make a connection.

Truth, Awareness, Power, Love, Vision, Purity

Love is a part of the answer. Not blind love in play, or lust. But unconditional love that is matched with wisdom instead of naivety, strength instead of looseness, and direction instead of passivity.

I very much care about the people who are looking for a way to make sense of the crazy situation this civilization is in, everyone else that has been involved in these torturous projects, as well as people in general. Some people are complete assholes, but hey, if I can't convince you of that, then they will.

Lot's of healing and growth to come, because maybe we can all agree this is a big part of the period of human suffering we are all going through.

The Deception of Ego and Arrogance

Deception, Fraud, Mass-Disrespect

Lots of people can make up BS in a last ditch attempt to control others have through emotional manipulation and parasitism. That is the nature of the distortion or dead-light (false-light) system. Weak minded and weak willed individuals feel strong turning against people who offer them respect and the benefit of the doubt. Look at what is happening to millions of people who are being lied to daily by the same people who are poisoning them mentally, spiritually and emotionally. Partaking in that drops one down to the level of parasitic behavior by believing that the enemy is external inst as of internal.

External Projection of Internal Fear

Anyone who seeks is the external enemy is not yet ready to face the internal enemy. Anyone who has not yet faced the internal enemy is a threat to their own sovereignty as a spiritual being. That is the source of illusion, degradation, turmoil and continual suffering. Those ready to judge others overlook themselves in that same judgment and for this they create more suffering and division through one of the oldest tricks in the book.

Truth Is Awareness, Self-Awareness Brings Clarity and Self-Empowerment

Who can liberate others by telling the truth? The one spreading the division that is within them, to cause division around them? Or the one who is capable of liberating others from that division by sharing the unification within them to others.

The Purveyors of Deception and Depression are Not Deceived Nor Depressed

This is the time of that liberation. Meanwhile the deepest illusion is that the people who design the illusions are actually divided within themselves. They know the system, they simply use the illusion of separation and corruption to target those in the population that they would like to control.

So while people fight over ideals and conditions of their betterment of their own depressing ways, others profit from this while staying healthy and happy.

Mass Mind-Control or Mass Naivety and Laziness; The Alien Agenda and Spiritual Philosophy

People Desire Better But are Blind to The Truth of Their Situation

The cars driving with noise and pollution yet there is a cleaner better way and a whole society that lives that way. The people would choose this yet they are tricked into accepting debt slavery and pollution while the other society watches on and attempts to help by bringing light to the situation and deception.

This is the mass mind-control situation humanity currently faces.

Naivety, Satire, Confusion

The greatest deception is to enable one to laugh at their own demise. To unwittingly smile in the face of self-destruction and to take part in their own annihilation. That is the greatest trick that can be played.

Many people think this is a game, and this is part of the mind-control as well as simply dangerous naivety on their behalf.

People are grown in cages in their minds and in the social situations in public and this is so that they never truly face any kind of serious spiritual awakening or realize their own inner darkness. This is about self-awareness and the likelihood of choosing the true path which contains more suffering than the false-path and whether or not they will foresee what is coming to society at large.

Everything is projected around most people to create a world that will largely be managed beyond their reach and to produce an individual who is likewise just a result or even the property of that management system.

This must be stopped if people are to awaken and that is why there have been many catastrophic events which shock the population into arousal that something is amiss.

Catastrophes, Distractions, Cover-Ups and Awakenings

Of course this is the same as a member of the more advanced society waving to a driver to inform them that their car is leaking toxic fumes that will destroy their civilization and that if they simply use the resources at hand (which are provided by spiritual law, to give people a way out) they will see that a few simple modifications can be made to entirely avoid that outcome. Yet, while this individual is attempting to inform such drivers, a large disturbance is created on the other side of the road by another faction who's goal is to keep the driver asleep at all costs, even outright causing an accident and using spiritual knowledge to take the karmic response for such an action.

These are the methods being used, so as you can see, the two get combined into one. For every catastrophe and disastrous event, there is a cover-up of something possibly much worse and possibly a cover-up of some event that was designed to wake people up to the truth about their reality in a manner that is as peaceful as possible.

So without further insight there is almost no way to distinguish one event from another, and what event was avoided or what event is being covered-up. But be sure that this is happening because there are multiple societies here who are operating through different factions and methods and so there are conflicting or contradictory events happening simultaneously so as to cancel one another out.

This is the larger-than-life “chess-game” that is human society and the humans, as you should know, are largely the pawns.

Alien Agenda Society

How much of this is due to naivety and laziness that can be foregone given enough experience and truth is up to the individual. We have to overcome, as a people, overcome the laziness and naivety that is plaguing this civilization.

A truth of this matter is that most people know something is amiss. Those are the humans. The rest, well, they are not what you think and they are here to simply support the illusory system and create the background perception that this is anything relative to the human.

A deeper aspect of this truth is that this is not a human society. This is an alien civilization. Humans do not belong here, or this society does not belong with humans. This is not humanity. The methods, the means, the movements, it's all propped up with alien tech to suit an alien agenda and none of it actually sustains, suits, or suffices for a human civilization.

Inserted Memories in a Holographic Universe Experienced Through Biologically Generated Holographic Consciousness

Inserted memory technology to alter childhood memories and even introduce professional level skills.

That is the personal application. This same process can be applied en masse utilizing advanced technologies which can organize information and transmit into a planetary level local-environment that everyone in this society is operating through. Through this, entire ages of history can be altered or inserted and time can be distorted to the degree of damaging or covering the memory of thousands of years of experience.

This has been done repeatedly so that humans do not remember who they are.

This is the holographic inserted memory. The world we remember today is the insertion. That is the point. Most do not have access to the thousands of years we have been here in different levels of awareness using advanced technology and learning through different ages.

Be Resourceful

Be resourceful, use everything at your fingertips and more. Don't burn bridges, simply walk over them. If we are to complete this task of awakening to the truer reality and enabling the interaction of the truth here on Earth then we are going to have to devote our mind and body to this task more than any other task in our life.

This task includes healing as much as there is learning and conditioning one's self to discern between spiritual immorality and holographic deceptions of the emotional and mental frequencies.

The coming into full awareness leaves no possibility for failure unchecked. Everything is tried against the person, every way a person can be turned against each other or themselves will be activated until there is no longer a vulnerability. This is the pathway that humanity chose, and so this is the pathway that they must walk together.

Those who remain are literally the original humans and those who will continue to produce the next society.

Improving The Intellectual Grasp, Yet Balancing the Creative and Emotive

Research the electromechanical side of things. Research theoretical quantum physics and you will learn the similarities between the internal sciences and the universal theories of creation and material and energetic hierarchy of organization. This is assuming that you have first found an interest in the previous creation stories and spiritual hierarchies of the world.

Western and Eastern

The two main differences are Western and Eastern philosophies.

In previous times, maybe even a day ago, I would say surely Eastern is the truth, as all must come from nothingness, and from emptiness and emptiness alone can ALL things appear. Yet, maybe I see more of a balance now. The Eastern philosophy, the Dao, the I-Ching, the Buddhist and Zen meditations, they tell us that within each person is a void and from that void comes all of creation. The stories from India are similar however they begin to introduce a spiritual hierarchy of deities and hosts of the energetic realms which form fully in the Western philosophies.

In the Western philosophies there are spiritual hosts with a complete hierarchy and everything works like a kind of eternal business that goes on and on, with a flow of energy and power from top to bottom. One could say the Eastern is more rounded, however these rounded themes are often present in these spiritual artworks representing the more rounded elements of Western spiritual philosophy where the angels or the choir are in a circle around the source of their enlightenment. This should bring to mind astrological references and insights.

So now I may say that reality could be either, depending on what we're feeling at the time, and maybe there is use for that Western philosophy, that eternal spiritual hierarchy business. Sure, this can be used to answer creation in an entirety, for there is always a first cause, a first boss, or a first employee and for them to be there, there must be another before them and so on and so forth. So maybe we'd like to think that only the void can truly answer to that, because only a void can truly exist forever and come out of nothing.

Yet, why not? Why can't there be some higher being, maybe someone just like us in a way, who existed forever and for-always and will continue to pump out creation no-matter what? Sure enough, with a close enough look we see that for something to be created it must have not existed at some point and so therefore everything in creation in this creative, physical realm is actually limited and temporary just like a piece of art drawn in sand or on any canvas that will eventually wash away into time.

Then we introduce the idea of advanced technology. Well, what if a time barrier could be achieved around that piece of art and while everything else washes away, this could remain?

Sure we get to many sour points such as AI taking over the world, or the rest of the organic world dissolving away while only what's within that barrier is doomed to exist forever in loneliness, but what about the potential uses for now in this time. If we are looking for 'assistance' from above, I assure you, the void is not going to help you. You may find such help from yourself, through your introspective experiences with the void. But any help that comes externally, well it's coming from this external Western philosophy of spirituality where the universe is a sort of business ran through a hierarchy with one being or 'beginning' above another and so on and so forth.

So while we may fight one side or the other, or find ourselves leaning towards one side or another, we are really both, depending on how we feel in life. And if we spent one entire life focusing on one side, then surely we will be done with that void, or that hierarchy and when the time comes we will be ready to experience the other side of creation.

Now, one who truly appreciates both. Both the void that creates all things and has no name. And both the one creator who has been serving all of creation by generating the creative impulse through which all things flow and exist. When we can appreciate both of these, then we are seeing the whole of reality.

Vampiric Behavior

So we are seeing a heavy amount of vampiric behavior in this realm. This is a kind of takeover. Those who want to help awaken people so that they may be their own creative source are being met with energies and intelligences which would rather contain and detain the human essence using them for personal reasons and basically this is as simple as using them as an energy source like any leech or parasite.

There are many complex ways through which this achieved, but the easiest way to wake up is to focus on the self. If you, yourself, are aware of your own actions or inactions through self-observation to generate self-awareness and healing then you will know the actions of the other. This is the simple truth and nature of reality. When you know yourself, you know the universe because you can see what others are doing to you by getting a clear view of how you are being effected and you can distinguish or discern between your own influences and those mental, spiritual, emotional influences of the other.

In short, any kind of action which takes advantage of another or exploits another's kindness or innocence in any way shape or form is vampiric.

Any kind of deception, facetiousness, or even jealousy is a form of spiritual immaturity and ultimately immorality when sustained and the error is known.

This type of behavior is literally the food source of archontic realm wardens and is related to spiritual and realm piracy. Innocent souls are gathered and abused through deceptive practices that are used to convince them that they are lower and worth less than others.

Some say there is no such thing as an innocent soul and this may be closer to the truth as those with near-zero karma do not interact in this realm the same as the majority however, there is definitely such an issue as a soul overburdened with corruption and self-destructive tendencies through energies or actions.

A Continual Learning Process

In conclusion, I feel this was a good literary expression for the day and that people will see how complex the path of the human is and how simple rejecting the illusion, rejecting fear and vampirism can be if we simply focus on the self first and begin to know what path we are choosing or allowing ourselves to take through lack of self-awareness.

Self-awareness is the way, the path, the liberation. Only through conquering fear, merging the dualities within in a spiritual format and moving into a transcendence of partiality into neutrality and sustained awareness can we actually move into a realm that is a closer proximity to the source of existence, power, and out of the temporal and spiritual rift that humanity has been in for thousands, if not millions, of years.

The Daze of Contentment

Behind Contentment

Whenever you feel content, look ahead. Lift your head out of the daze of contentment and look ahead to what is to come. If you have clear vision you will see something that brings you out of that daze.

Nurturing Discipline

The notion is not to become ego-crushed by this but to open yourself to discipline rather than depression. Catalyzing truth is healthier than deliriously content illusion.

Lasting Happiness

This is not to say to never be happy, but that before we get to lasting happiness we will move through many layers of illusory contentment and this is just the forgetfulness of what inner work can be done.

Even then, once we find that lasting happiness, we may soon learn that this happiness, like all happiness is only temporary and true happiness is not from the superficial contentment we feel when we are physically, mentally and emotionally at rest, but when we are harmonized between all three fields of being and that way even in times of stress or work we can be happy and motivated to continue.

The Strange Things People Do (in underground bases)

The Infiltration of All Awareness Groups

Not many will like this post.

In due time. Some people do strange things to others in the underground bases.

They then form agreements to try and hold humanity back so that they get as many souls as possible. Often they are simply going along with this out of sheer terror of what might come to them if they are discovered for their actions or if they are no longer protected by the corruption.

There are a few other groups working together in tandem now, they have infiltrated the groups on facebook and every other viable group on the internet as well as public and private society.

Complacency Is Silence Is Consent To Self-Destruction

As a result of their behavior and the complacency of those allowing their methodologies (not starting a which hunt here), the surface level population will be lost or radically altered the coming war.

Disconnect from the parasite as soon as possible to avoid additional loss of life.

False-Light Imitations, Fear-Based Motivations, Covering Up The Self-Empowerment Solutions

They won't provide any answers or solutions except the ones that allow infestation to spread through metatronic grid activation codes and they will literally go to hell and back to shut out anyone who can actually deactivate those codes.

Psy-Op Tactics

They will never square up and put the information in plain sight for others to see and they always use snake-light, in the dark, emotional-mental psy-op tactics because they do not contain original human blueprint emotional cores.

The Other Race

They cannot experience remorse, because they are incapable of actually feeling human emotions. They can mimic to put on a front to get enough attention to sway the timeline.

They don't care, it's like a game to them, like there is a high from the stink of death in or around them.

Heaven and the Layers of "Hell"

Guided By Self-Control or Compulsive Behavioral Patterns Rooted In Instinct

In the energetic realms one is classed together with beings of the same behavior. So where there are people who are restrictive or more controlled in their behavior you get a more restrictive or specified classing of spiritual identities.

Less Restrictive Equates to Non-Restrictive

This is all about intent. Incidentally making mistakes is not the same as completely accepting lack of restriction. Accepting a minor lack of restriction is not the same as making a mistake.

If a person is less restrictive of their behavior (both energetic and physical) then they are no longer capable of being classified together with those who are specific and restrictive of their behavior.

Non-Restrictive Equates to Accepting Lack of Control

So then when people are classified together with the less restrictive spiritual identities, there are those who are simply not as restrictive and those who are specifically 'loose' or in this way, partaking in non-clean behaviors so as to produce pleasure or power in some way or another.

Layers of "Hell" As Psycho-Spiritual Classification of Behavior

This is kind of like the layers of so-called "Hell" which is really just the collective mind of the universe as the less-restrictive individuals experience themselves. "Restrictive" here simply indicates more control or more specific composition rather than instinctual or compulsive guidance.

"Heaven" As A Realm of Psycho-Spiritual Harmony

And so there are those who have managed to control their behavior and guide themselves out of compulsion. They would be in what we call "Heaven" which is simply a naturally balanced psycho-spiritual state of being.

The Gradient From Self-Controlled, To Lack of Self-Control, To Acceptance of Spiritual Disharmony for Pleasure

While those who do not participate in this higher level of spiritual posture or structure, then they are classified together with those who both do not engage in high-level composure as well as those who completely ignore the biological and spiritual 'laws' of harmony and outright accept disharmony and lack of control.

The higher-layers of "Hell" then, contain those who are "lukewarm" simply being open to suggestion, mischievousness, perversion and inversion of natural law and the like. While the lower levels are occupied by those who are entirely filled with the passion of negating spiritual and biological law, inverting the natural flow, accepting and fomenting perversion and using disharmony to gain power and pleasure.

Emotional Healing, True Shamanism and Vampiric Etheric Ties; The Power of Voice

Healing Emotional Trauma

There are ways to work this out. Emotions must be embraced in order to heal, there are many methods for doing this to bring emotions and memories to the surface such as resonance and holographic healing with tones and meditation to bring the awareness to the right level and bring the suffering to the surface.

Opt-Out of New Connections Until Healing, Discernment, and Acknowledgement of the Situation is Achieved

A main issue is to protect one's self from further damage from those who will pretend they are healers or friends when they are actually vampires. This is large portion of what keeps people from healing over many years. We must be able to discern energy and intentions and know who to let in. Eventually, one develops a kind of “test” that must be passed for weeks to months before even interacting on a personal or emotional level with some people. Ultimately, emotional energy is quantum energy, who we are emotional with we entangle with and people then can use these etheric ties to control and feed off of their victims energy centers. We must learn to scan the body and properly detect our own emotions and energies so that we can find the vampiric etheric ties from people we have met in the past and remove them. That person will feel the energy source drain from their life and they will either appear in the flesh or another individual will appear with the spirit of that vampire in them attempting to reroute the same etheric tie into the energy system.

The Kind and Open-Hearted Are Targeted by the Spiritually Weak

The truth is. This is not “Heaven”, this is not quite “Hell”, but the hounds of hell are running over this land for now. The kinder and more open hearted a person is? The least likely they are to survive without some kind of protection or preparation here.

This is how vampirism works. The more a person tries to help someone like that, the easier the job of the vampire’s is to then infiltrate and take over that person’s energy field. They plant implants which are weaknesses and channels of energy to that vampire.

Emotional Cues, Implants, and Triggers

These implants can be emotional cues which remind the host of past trauma or emotionally sensitive aspects of their own existence. These act as energetic ‘anchors’ through which they can be manipulated and located in time-space. These are literally vectors through which the person’s energy can be redirected and siphoned at the will of the vampire.

The vampire then utilizes “triggers” to influence and open up these access points. These become like gateways to the core of the vampire’s sustenance which then are used to feed on the energy centers of individuals.

The Vampires

These vampiric entities exist in the host bodies of humans and humans are spiritual beings that are expressing themselves in a physical biological body. So they are not physical, but etheric parasites, however there were tests done to show that these beings contain a form of sentience individual that is just strong enough to inhabit certain parasites like bacteria, viruses, or small biological leech-like parasitic entities. Meaning they can actually inhabit these kinds animals and experience existence through them.

When enough of them are inhabiting an individual human host, then “legion” can present themselves through the eyes of that individual and this has been known as a method and format of introducing the infection to the mental-emotional field of victims. The eyes are a scalar field gateway just like laser or IR receivers and transmitters and so they are a way of accessing the energy field.

Using The Mind As A Scalar Healing Device (along with singing bowls, natural elements/plant life, sunlight, and more)

The mind is a scalar healing device. This can be achieved by focusing the energy of the mind and emotion field into a laser like intensity. This focusing effect will produce a concentrated shift of energy in the direction of the intention of the individual where-ever the observation of this energy is applied. The intention-force is through the combined application of the focusing effect of the mind and the emotionally intensive effect of the heart or chest area. Then the whole body pulls power from the lower and higher energy sources together and there is a core of energy that sustains the individual.

A baby is born with this core intact. As a person ages or degrades spiritually and sways from the path of harmony, then this core becomes weaker and weaker.

This is why children are the easiest yet most efficient sources of energy for a vampire. As well, this is why children who are pure of heart are protected and this goes in hand with the idea of the Apocalypse and how the effects will be different to children than for adults.

The mind and energy field is a scalar device, the mind is the focusing aperture. The emotional release area is the intensity range or limiter. The core of the energy center is the spiritual power source for the human. The experiments, the toxicity, the wars are all produced to degrade this core and pull the energy from the human. There is protection but when people remove this protection by improper use of their mind, emotions, and body then they are more vulnerable.

The Power Of Voice

The voice is literally the most powerful healing tool. When this is known, when this is all taken in and achieved, the voice alone can create harmonious impressions in the psychic-field that are powerful enough to uproot energy/etheric implants, psychic parasites, and to heal and gently locate and vibrate emotional trauma.

The voice, observation and touch within the emotional and mental field of the healer is the most sacred and powerful part of this universe.

Waiting Until The Vampiric Energy Has Passed, Starve the Parasite

The vampiric, parasitic energy requires energy as the productive qualities are not present like in other beings who have retained a central core.

So these entities must feed. If they are around. They are feeding. If they are not feeding, they are not capable of remaining around for long. This is often described how they must “jump” (like in the movie Fallen, same description here) from host to host and they only have a certain amount of time to do so.

This indicates a few notions:

Observation is Key, when one is observing these entities, they can no longer go unnoticed and therefore remain without having to expend energy hiding themselves or cutting losses to energetic profits

Awareness and Observation is not enough, but as well, one must refuse to partake in the energy format that the beings feed on. This is as simple as lower emotional angst, hatred for one another or the self, disrespect, addiction, fear, lust, temptation and essentially the seven deadly sins

Once the above are achieved, there is a slow countdown that proceeds until the being computes that there is not enough energy at this source to continue in this area for long. After that the being will leave to preserve itself as that is their only nature. Then if this is repeated, the time it takes to convince them to leave becomes shorter and shorter.

The adepts of ancient and modern times can simply tell the beings to leave with conviction and sincerity, and this part is so important there should be another point:

Your Observation and Intention Is Most Powerful: Only you can permit this occurrence in your field. That's it. The main thing about the vampire or any parasite is that they CANNOT break in. The human is the temple of "God". Meaning they were created from the higher-dimensional into the lower, they didn't just "pop-up" here, there is a plan. YET, if a person permits them to enter, then and only then can they enter into that temple. Otherwise the temple is sacred and protected via the soul of the human.

Even then, they can only enter holographic intrusions into the mind of the being in the form of visions, emotional or mental distractions or even horrors and they can't truly take control. But people who do not know the situation may believe they can and thus the illusion of such could be experienced.

Our inner voice is ours and cannot be replicated. They can try to input emotional and mental stimulus and even external stimulus in extreme cases of energy leeching (when it calls for such on their behalf) but they cannot actually become or influence the human in any way unless they are allowed to.

Therefore the One, the individual human, is the most powerful source of authority in and around their body, mind and emotional energy field. The one who knows this can command their field and all parasitic entities around them. Therefore:

You have the right to dispel parasites with a simple command. But you must live in commitment to this and keep vibration high so that lower frequency action, belief, emotional, or bio-emissions are not sustained as this action speaks louder than words.

Now to understand why the original Sha were women, simply make the connection to the emotional sensitivity of the women and the required emotional sensitivity of the true healer in being able to achieve this role of healing.

The Spider-like Etheric Octopus Being

So to understand this, imagine how the various hosts would be tapped for energy and how the parasites hop from host to host through a higher dimensional field, essentially the psychic fields. So this is nearly instantaneous, like the descriptions of saying these beings "fly" like winged creatures, meaning they can move faster than the fastest man can run, they can "outpace" any "creature with legs", from ancient depictions.

Thus you can see an overall 'web' of etheric entanglement. This web, over time, developed through the possession of humans to partake in these tasks, to create an etheric grid essentially a psychic grid over the surface of Earth which is used as an original information highway and this information is spiritual psychic entity travel and embodiment. Meaning this field is used to traverse Earth and contain the psychic entities and as well this contains the human souls that they are leeching off of .

Spiritual Maturity

As soon as humanity reaches a level of spiritual maturity, they can simply cast off the leeches like flees on a dog after running through a mountain stream or playing in a lake. Of course this does not always work and there have been countless wars that are achieved just as people begin to wake up to the situation, but we are at a point where this system will not be lost to an infestation at risk of permitting those infected humans to continue parading around like they are in control of themselves when they are not. This is not for everyone, but for most.

Observation In the Moment

"Nature never hurries, but through her, all things are completed." So simply ask yourself, "is this natural", if you are struggling, and the act of observation in the moment will bring about the answer as long as you are able to maintain a clear connection to the source of your emotions, your body and your mind.

Thus, the next and final step towards healing and protection is being able to remind yourself to continually check for self-observation, to continually return to center, and ask yourself these simple questions which will redirect your awareness back into the self in relation to the health and harmony of the spiritual self as the mental, emotional, and physical bodies.

Intel from The Bases

One notion that was given to me from my experiences in the bases is that Antarctica was chosen (amongst the other reasons) because the experimentation that was done there permitted them to release certain beast (either as a containment protocol to preserve themselves, or part of experimentation) and that these beasts were too far away from any other form of existence in order to survive and regain another host. They would thus drain out into a dormant or no-longer active form over the ice. As well, there were certain hybrids that escaped, and they merely froze over the ice. I do recall this as part of the ending in the movie “Fallen” and as well another show recently involving experimentation with black goo (sentient nanite technology) in Antarctica.

The Third People You Meet Will Help You

Being Used, To See The Nature and Fallacy of The Acceptance of Being Abused

Sometimes one has to fully accept and acknowledge the disgusting qualities of another to see how they were being used and in essence leached off of to the point where they would eventually become like that other if they did not change.

When one refuses to be lowered by the frequencies, and actually accept that this is what is happening, then they can make sense of the situation. That acceptance of the darkness in another is actually the revelation of the light within one’s self.

Those Who Can Neither Hear Nor See You Will Always Be Hungry For The Sensation of Being Full Without Ever Having The Means

The first people you meet are those the dark-factions sent out to greet you in place of the light. They will simply pretend they are like you and have any connection and these people will only know of you as a result of secrets and whispers they were given in another life. They know there is a person there, but only because they can feed when that person is around.

They can neither see nor hear what they actually desire in life. Therefore they cannot find or walk the path that they require to get to the fulfillment of those desires. They see hate when they should see peace, they see an opportunity for pride when they should see togetherness.

Instead of welcoming the changing tides of self that bring to them what they desire, they push this away and covet what others have (spiritually) while rejecting the path of self-empowerment in favor of false-victimhood and feigned wisdom. Their very presence contains the tools to acquire their new knowledge of self, yet their inadvertent dejection of all things truly self-empowering renders them as mere leeches upon their spiritual environment. For them, there will always be something or someone in the way. Something or someone to fear, a darkness that casts an indecipherable shadow around where they are looking for the light, because that is the shadow of themselves that they refuse to acknowledge directly.

If this group changes their ways by accepting their folly, becoming fearless and focuses their will-power in accepting the confusion of their previous ways then they will move to the second group for a period of time where they will learn. Usually, if a person from the blind and deaf comes to be with the blind, they will either quickly realize where they are and gain vision and the power to listen, or they will return to being blind and deaf forever.

In rare cases the individual will realize they can then lead the blind and deaf as long as they regain some semblance of vision, however this will usually default or degrade into false-sight whereby they may only lead others and themselves into further blindness.

Those Who Can See But Not Hear Will Always Require More Even Though They Have The Means

The second people you meet are those who are going to appear to be helpful but will wait for you only if you continue giving to them like a charity. They know something about you but do not intend to actually get to know you. They see what they can gain materially more than the individual.

These people can see you but they won't hear you. They will know there is a truth to be felt, a person there around them, but they will only learn how to ask for more instead of taking the steps to applying themselves and acquiring the self-empowerment required to obtain what they accept from others who can help them. These people, by definition and association (see "lukewarm" reference in linked post) will fall to the same fate as the first group. They will not eventually receive what they seek from life unless they make the self-willed choice to change their ways and apply themselves in a new manner rejecting the tendency to rely on others and fall prey to ego, laziness, and spiritual weakness or accepted blindness.

If this group simply takes upon themselves the realization that they are withholding from themselves the self-empowerment by the ability to let go of vices and distractions from themselves and others and that they can attain everything they desire by simply changing their mind and their behavior in simple ways, then they will go on to obtain what they desire.

If a person fails, they will usually remain where they were at, with the ability to see but not here, and in rare cases they will become blind and deaf without the desire to see the situation they are in any more. If this occurs, usually the individual will not regain their vision again until the end of their life and at that point they may have a sudden intense realization of the ability to hear and listen and through this they may live the remainder of their life as an awakened person however short that may be.

Those Who Can See and Hear, Can Appreciate, Listen, and Know

The third people you will meet are those who can both see and hear you. They will help you by offering a clear reflection of who you are without distorting the results to bias and skewer your projection so that they can feed on you or simply keep you around for their own pleasure. These people will be the truest with you, sometimes harsh, but never for their own personal enjoyment to see you suffer. They will help you grow strong and nurture and care for your energy, giving respect and fulfillment in the same embodiment.

Your Duty To Respect Yourself, To Beware of Where Your Energy Is, Who You Are Sharing Your Energy With, and Thusly How Your Energy Will Be Utilized In Life

Your duty is to learn to discern between the different groups of people and to know what "time" you are in in your life experience.

Your energy is the energy of creation, so in all times our energy will flow into, be absorbed by, and dissipate into certain realms.

A person of high energy will only be able to profit from and benefit the high-energy realms.

In order to feed on this individual, legions must appear to drag this person down frequency-wise and then when that person is in angst from disrespect and the turmoil caused by allowing themselves to be tricked into repeatedly attempting to help those tricksters, then their energy is sufficient enough food for these lower-energy beings. The lower-energy beings prey on the weak-mind and hearts of those who are ready to turn on their fellows to use them as chattel or mental-emotional fodder as if this world is their battle field and people are their expendables. This action is never reversed because once a person is used by these entities they are marked for life. Whether the individual continues to make a groove in this realm through this process or not is dependent on their ability to see, hear and feel. If a person can see and hear, eventually they will feel and when they feel they will know all the things that are happening energetically.

Avoid The First Group Like The Plague, They Will Be Fixed When Their Ways Prove Themselves Treacherous To Even Them

Stay away from the first group, they will never help you or anyone else except for those who must feed on individuals like they do. They will twist your words and secretly hate you, even when you have only given them graces and literal charities and benefits that others in the right mind would pay for. They are not who they claim to be, or who they see themselves as. They are the blind and the deaf.

Sometimes we must encounter this group in order to know they exist. Sometimes we must encounter them in order to realize that we have fallen into the likeness of the blind, regardless of the vision we may have. Allow the truth to become apparent and accept without distorting in favor of preserving the ego or the false sense of self. Preserving the ego only prolongs true self-discovery.

This is a matter of ego and self-discovery, as one must only refuse to allow their ego to become pervasive entering in all places that are to remain clean of personal bias if one is to see and hear properly.

Know when you are right and acting honestly in truth without bias or preference. Stick to the truth, stay on course and do not let your guard down when you realize where you are. Always accept that you may be wrong, but until you lose first the ability to feel, then the ability to hear, and then the ability to see, know where you are, who you are, and what you are doing. Then see how your actions and feelings impact others and provide the highest-possible outcome, which in relation to the first two groups, is almost always harsh.

You cannot blame them, however, eating the soul of another person is the only way they know how to survive in this place.

If you are able to see, hear and feel enough, you will know where we are. We are not in Heaven, we are one-dimensional layer away from the beginning of what is termed “The Underworld”, this is what people refer to as “Hell” and is merely an area of spiritual experience of a certain frequency range.

This realm is “Middleground” or “The Abyss”, where the energy can go either way, and either side can rule and reign or cherish and protect.

7 Layers above this realm now is the “Deity Plane”, or “Heaven”, and this is simply the place where all can see, hear and feel. Hell is where the blind, deaf and dumb of the universe stay, mostly lower-spiritual life forms a strange place for a human soul. And the Abyss is where all come to play.

The Deal

This world was handed over to an Overlord of Hell who is literally simply a sub-contractor for real-estate within the Underworld. The controllers of financial and power based group-structures of this realm have been overtaken by those of the Underworld and therefore all who participate in the tortures of public and private spiritual abuse are owned by or part of the conglomerate of that spiritual business owned by a select few spiritual Overlords. This is part of the deal of the changing of energies of this time and previous times and a test as well as a kind of trap Humanity has fallen into look ago. This relates directly to the “Fall of Man”.

Shift of the Ages

In the coming time we are told that the energy has shifted and there are more who can see, hear and feel present in this plane now which will change the circumstances required to enact a Deal in this realm, a contractual agreement of spiritual servitude, similar to what people call citizenship today (unacknowledged indentured servitude). As a result, eventually all deals will end because they have no backing to provide for them and the business will surely fail rendering all investors and owners responsible for the debt if they do not simply close the doors.

We are told this time is fast approaching or already beginning to present itself and will be a part of a larger cycle which can eventually bring about a repeat of the same in continuing 1000 year cycles of spiritual mind-control and debt-slavery or endless self-empowerment, spiritual fulfillment and the ability to see, hear and feel indefinitely.

Remember you are a spiritual being, not just a human body and that you have a trinary aspect of an emotional field, a mental field and a physical form that must interplay equally in order to generate a whole and balanced individual. The imbalance, the loose emotion and mind, this is what is traded deal by deal through the contracts which beings unconsciously agree to and fulfill no differently than citizens becoming slaves to the state in which they must work and gain debt just to pay it off.

The simple message, be aware, be present, and be your self! No one else can do that for you and the reward is unending and unlimited! Depend on yourself because there is an overabundance of the first and second group, however this is also a benefit and a lesson because the highest-moral and spiritual achievement is to become self-sufficient. However we never truly are because there are always higher-beings above us guiding us and protecting us on our way if our way is that of seeing, listening and seeing. Do not sway in your knowledge of the truth, no matter how hard they may attempt to draw you into obscurity.

Final Conclusion:

Sometimes you may feel like dancing in the face of adversity. When safe to, go right ahead. Enjoy your powerful and spiritually stimulating emotions and sense of self, they are yours and yours alone to shine on the world.

2020, The Disclosure of Temporal Influence, The Reunification with the 'Original Timeline', and Collective Individualism

Guided Disclosure: Temporal Influence

I was informed that by 2020 there would be adequate support for the beginning of the disclosure of some temporal operations.

2016: Disclosure of Cloning and Corruption

2016 was noted as the beginning of phase 1 disclosure which includes celebrity cloning and corruption. This was largely soft-disclosure, especially regarding celebrity cloning, however the topic of cloning is now a publicly acknowledged scientific process with a cloning factory opening in China and other events.

Multi-Phase Disclosure

These events are public and outright enough to be considered direct-disclosure however I was informed that there will come a time when direct-disclosure occurs through a complete and unified acknowledgement of corruption, unacknowledged special access programs, advanced technology such as consciousness transfer, cloning, the negative energy grid, the mass-mind control and finally cosmic intelligence and other intelligences.

Partial Disclosure Timeline Extending On Average 100 years, and Imminent Full-Disclosure (many possibilities, usually whichever is safest)

The basic idea here is that there is a 100 year timeline to partial-disclosure. This would result in a kind of rerouted timeline which permits the same kind of events to continue to take place long enough for the majority of those involved to organize themselves effectively. While the imminent disclosure timeline would introduce the truth effectively and safely to the masses while instigating a civilization-wide shut-down and then reactivation through new means.

Temporal Disclosure 2020

Apart from that, I have the direction that 2020 is a standby date for the release of information regarding 'temporal disclosure' which involves temporal operations.

This is the most difficult subject to understand, the perception of time, the nature of consciousness and holography in the universe, awareness, the soul, the origin of humanity, all these subjects intertwine when the temporal operations are disclosed.

This indicates that the earlier mentioned disclosure topics are to be acknowledged in the public as having happened and having a large impact on the way society operates on all levels.

2017

While I did not receive any specific warnings for 2017, I can only assume that this will be an intense year for disclosure. Either that, or we are all being pushed to provide a false-front for disclosure to be shut down, which is still a possibility. I tend to think in possibilities and probabilities rather than absolutes. However, I have direct experiences with secret operations, advanced technologies and higher-intelligences and so these are apparent to me. Many others have also had these experiences, there are many experiences, researchers, operatives, and spiritually active people who have had these experiences.

One notion I can say is that the majority of people who are speaking on these issues now, as I have said before, I have seen before and received briefing that outlined possible pathways this civilization can take towards disclosure to reach collective awareness of the truth.

Individual Collectivism

Another major idea I can convey is that we are looking to produce and secure a sustained 'individual collectivist' attitude towards these issues.

We want to produce a civilization where the individual can remain the individual, where collective knowledge can be shared and where the collective can be listened to without losing the voice or clarity of the way of the individual.

Other Civilizations

From what experiences and operations I can give a minor public briefing on is that the majority of other civilizations either becomes entirely individualistic but through this rather oppressive and untamed, essentially an 'every-one for themselves' kind of attitude. Or they become entirely collectivist and this comes at the sacrifice of the great power of the individual voice and the individualist way of life.

The individual voice and potential is dangerous when people are not ready to work together, yet becomes drowned out through monotony when people are too readily complacent with automation and avoidant of self-empowerment and self-responsibility, creativity and spiritual activation, and emotionality and introspection.

When a civilization moves away from these individualist qualities in favor of technologies or methodologies that enable 'easier living' then that civilization is in danger of reaching a null-point where that individual essence will disappear forever.

This is part of why this civilization has had such a powerful series of build up and release of creative energies and through the development over the past few centuries there have been a generation of systems that are designed to continue to produce novelty in the face of oppression and restriction.

So these have been in effect and as well there has been resistance from those who developed systems to maintain collectivism and control in case the individualist methods were to 'get out of hand'.

A Controlled Reality

In short, this whole reality and timeline has been constructed according to a plan and this is to bring about a intersection point where a reunification with what can be called the 'organic timeline' can be made.

This will be explained more definitely later as this topic is very complex and involves the notions of temporal paradox, retro-causality, solution, the nature of consciousness and the functioning of advanced technologies.

Ancestor Simulation REAPPROACHED

Holographic Ancestor Simulation Powered By Quantum Computer Systems Capable of Producing The Local-Earth Environment

This is actually what we were informed of in the bases. Sometimes by the programmers themselves who are beyond what we classify as holographic consciousness limited beings.

Capturing This Via The Development of The “Future” (merely a gateway) System

They developed the server systems that are to become the server systems of the future in order to build a link to the future states which enabled trans-dimensional communication between this civilization and the next.

The Necessity and Specificity of Disclosure, The Secret Projects, Mass “Awakening”

This is why there is 8-months of information leading up to this.

This is why there are teams of individuals assigned to monitor the population, brain by brain. The scene out of The Matrix where Neo quickly rejected what he was shown upon seeing the real and began to feverishly freak-out until he passed out on the floor is the stereotypical response to this kind of information when shown to the unprepared in ways that are undeniable or abrasive.

When people are shown, they must be prepared to handle the truth of their reality.

Biological Consciousness is Holographic, The Local Environment is Holographic, The Server is a Quantum Computational System Beyond Organic or Technological, Functioning As Both

Biological consciousness acts as a free-standing uplink to the larger server continuum which functions as a processing nexus for the entire local-realm.

Life and Death are one in the same. Without death, you cannot have life. Without life, you cannot have death.

If one could be alive while being “dead” or connected to a computer system to operate the biological consciousness and higher-awareness then they would technically never be able to live, nor ever die. Ultimately, if the universe produces life and consciousness yet is technically never alive or dead itself, then the beginning and end result of all states of existence are also never truly alive and never truly dead. This is the cosmic equilibrium that has been described through the ages, most likely from these individuals accessing the streams of data through sacred practices.

Additions To The Video

There are places in this video where information could be added to give a more complete image.

Biological consciousness is unlikely to have the same memories again, ever, in the history of the universe. Yet there are multiple realms where another version is happening simultaneously. Not infinite, but more than one, like octaves of sound harmonics or light frequencies (harmonics).

Living-Light Frequencies

The interesting technological releases will be when light and sound are combined to make living-light sound harmonics that can directly interface with the cells of the body and realign micro-biology through frequencies to literally vibrate out disease.

Probability, Biological Consciousness and Simulated Time

Biological consciousness is “unlikely” to appear again (although the same “unlikeliness” was overcome in the first place to get you here, meaning its all stored somewhere) however there have been ancient pathways to ‘uploading’ one’s awareness into a transdimensional time/data-stream so that one can exist without the requirement to form a body to carry the awareness energy.

Producing The Light Of Consciousness Without A Physical Body

This, of course, would be very energy requiring unless the energy signature is capable of utilizing natural fields as a kind of host or carrier waves or if the energy fields could organize in such a way to produce energy from that organizational pattern. This is over-unity or natural harmony which is found through the organization of a sacred pattern via the application of one’s will-power to create (intention), and their emotional and mental bodies which become activated in a way to operate the physical body’s mechanism to ‘produce light’ so as to act like an infrared emitter and ‘spray’ one’s information, imprinting them into the higher-dimensional ether of the universe.

The Nature of the True Self, Fear and Peace Within

Know Thyself, Know The Universe

Those who have prepared for the sacred truth will react with self-empowerment, while those who have not applied effort in knowing themselves will react in fear.

Natural Fear and Conditioned Responses

One question could be, is this the natural reaction? Or is this fearful reaction something that was learned over the years of manipulated moral relativism developed from skewed social morality? Fear is a response people give to change or discomfort when they have no other viable option for behavior or intellect. Essentially, the lack of knowing is what constitutes the parameters for producing fear.

Reaching Critical Personal Turning Point of Growth and Self-Awareness

So then, the goal should be to reduce fear as much as possible until a critical point is reached where the weight of knowing outweighs the tendency to experience fear.

The Sacred Process

This is precisely what the sacred processes allow a person to become, knowledgeable to the degree of reaching that critical point of overturning the tendency of fear so that the tendency to find knowledge is the primary faculty that the universe is viewed through.

Sensory Desires and Perceptions Or Knowledge and Self-Awareness

Some guidelines are that the desire to satiate physical (phi) senses should never overcome the desire for knowledge and truth. If one knows that a sensation whether emotional or physical is secondary to the attaining or assertion of truth, then this is not the path that reflects the truth self but only the intermediary physical operator of this realm.

The True Self

The true self exists beyond this plane and this plane and this physical body that is a part of this plane is only an operator that is used to detect and convey messages to others here. What we are truly speaking to, when we communicate with each other, is the interior sense of divine awareness that does not require the body to exist. This indicates that the body is only a portion of the current reality of the self however apparent or sensually vivid.

So then, we arrive at the main notion behind fear and the reality of the true self. This is that the body is not the be-all-end-all of existence, and nor is the physical plane. That the body is just a midway path between the higher-realms of the divine energies of the self of knowing and the physics world which connects to the body through the physical senses, the self of sensation.

Bridging the Divide

So to overcome fear is to overcome the idea of the loss of the body being the loss of existence or the idea that the body is the one communicating and holding the entirety of the reality of the self. Overcome fear is for the divine essence to look past the body that is being used to communicate, and past the body that holds the divine essence of the other that is being communicated with and to see the divine essence in one's self also in another.

Achieving Peace Within

When this is done, the other is not looked at like an enemy, but a fellow teacher, discovered, brother, sister, or family of the true divine realm of knowledge that we are all called forth from to participate in the experiences of this realm.

Continual Learning

To do this in the most challenging of situations is to overcome the tests that we are given by those who monitor this realm. As one begins this journey, they will be faced with more and more intense opportunities to overcome that gap and bridge one divine to the other divine.

Maintain Harmony

As long as you are in peace, accepting of the ways of others as long as you are not encouraging or reinforcing that which is inane or harmful to life, then you are on your path to actualizing the sense of self that only believes in the physical body and the self of sensation. This would be putting the 'final touches' on the masterpiece of existence as the lower physical form achieves union with the higher divine form and there is a conscious and contemplative connection between the two.

This interdimensional harmony is the bridging to two worlds, the meeting of the God-essence and humanity, the realizing of the individual as an inseparable aspect of the whole.

Cosmic Abandonment

Physical, Mental, Emotional Imprisonment

I was imprisoned my entire life. As a child I was trained in the underground bases and taken all over the world to experience and sometimes live with remote societies as well as sometimes breakaway civilizations.

We have seen battle, contact, exploration, great travel, soul journey, death, and self-discovery.

The Dawning Of The Truth

At first, for many years, I thought there was such joy to be found but also that I and the others were imprisoned by these military faction who sought to control the world so they can drive the innocent into the dirt pushing their faces into the ground as they struggle into obscurity.

When I grew into my teens my earlier suspicion that there was more to that story was beginning to come to light. The people I met in school and various aspects of this society were anything but appreciative of their calm and easy lives.

A Slave Surface-Level Population

Everything is taken for granted, from health to family to the technology that is used on the surface to prolong life and make tasks easier. The greatest tools are used to solve the ultimate problem of “boredom”. Boredom in a society that is be purged of all innocence and ignorance. That doesn’t exist.

First ignorance is built up, then it is purged.

I realized, as I grew, that I was most hurt by people on the surface. I was most emotionally damaged by those who pretended to be who they wanted you to think they were.

Who’s Who

These are people who are truly products of their environment. There is no forethought or afterthought to their existence. Everything “just is”, but not in the Zen sense of being accepting of everything, even the darkness. This was in a sense where they couldn’t be arsed to deal with something if it wasn’t pre-packaged with bright colors and flavored to their liking. If it wasn’t half-way done for them, then it wasn’t worth doing.

Spiritual Laziness...or Blindness?

If it caused them any form of emotional, mental, or physical discomfort, then there must be an easier path to be found that would offer near instantaneous gratification without so much as having to build new muscle, experience undesirable emotional sense, or re-organize a neural-network. As long as they wouldn’t immediately die as a direct result of the outcome of avoiding the challenge to know themselves, their reality, or those around them, they would avoid all at costs.

This was the way of the Earth Human circa 2000. There has never been a time like this in history.

A Society In Downfall

I slowly began to realize that the teachers, the bosses, the peers, the social pressure, the public places and the toxic foods and products that were found there, those are the carries of the plague of Earth and this is not without good cause.

The truth dawned on me that while learning to accept harsh realities of alternate methods of taming the mind was difficult by definition, that I had never known torture greater than living in a world where everyone is seemingly asleep while they are awake.

Zombie Land

Imagine going around trying to shake people awake, physically shaking them by the shoulders and only getting blank stares in response as they walk off into the distance mumbling about some mental input that they had received from some form of technology or authority that had coated their mind stripping away the essence of what it means to be alive and unique.

Imagine waking up to that one day, with no other place to go, no way to get as far away as possible, and no way to rationalize what had happened.

This civilization has jumped timelines more than once.

Salvation

The truth dawned on me that the major sources of my pain were in the early youth from earlier conditioning scenarios and from the continual pain of having to know what I learned about the mind and reality while everyone on the surface is content with simply being told what to think, how to feel, and why to exist. People live for a cause, and most people live to serve the cause they are indoctrinated with.

Most people would say that I am the one indoctrinated, but I do not fear what those people fear and what they do fear I see from a different perspective, a perspective that offers me self-empowerment and the ability to see my place in the universe.

Difficulty In Knowing

I feel continually appreciative knowing my place and there are bouts of extreme denial or insecurity, yet this is inconsistent in comparison to the knowledge of what I have seen as self-empowering by default and in reference to the alternative. That is, the alternative where people do not know why they are alive except to gather materials and status in a world of people who are equally confused and frightened of what may be out there to be discovered (or in here).

Truthfully, the trauma in this world is not any secret, oppressive control system, it is people's willingness to follow the illusion of power as if this is the true power of the self, to buy from and sell to the lowest bidder of possibilities, and to accept for themselves and role where they have to try the least to receive the least in return. All quantity, ever reducing quality. Can you see where that leads?

Society's Struggle

So the truth may be hard to bear, but regardless of what any plans are to change the world, THAT problem is NOT going away on its own and the people MUST change if this civilization is to continue existing in any format.

So the harsh truth is that these various factions saved us and every other person out there that has been involved even though there is not a clear line outline of who is who and, what and why this is happening. Sure, there are some wayward events and agendas but that is not the entire situation.

Behind The Curtain

For the record, these people generate your society and your future for you, because people lost the ability to do so a long time ago as a result of experimentation related to "time wars" or what was referred to in the bases and in other colonies as "the electric wars". Another name is "the 1000 years war".

Yes, these people influence your daily news, who you see and watch on TV and in the movies, what you read and where, how you think and what you fear. These people are related to the original society and the original civilization and there is so much more than can be said without completely confusing you because this goes into other civilizations and ultimately the true nature of reality which is that humans are not humans.

The Mind-Virus Awakened

Whatever the case, the idea is that people on the surface are infected with a disease that makes them destroy their own civilization while listening to music, ignoring all attempts to bring them to focus, while talking on the phone and taking pictures at the same time. That is the most traumatizing scenario everyone in the bases has ever seen. Oh and if you entangle with them, they'll try to eat your soul and convert you into a zombie without 'time-gate' access to ever leave this place.

Your ticket into the real is by remaining true to yourself and ultimately fighting your way out of the BS by ignoring it until you know how to convert it into knowledge. These people know how to pass knowledge and seemingly generate knowledge but this is impossible. We found that knowledge exists within a person once they are born and this must be unveiled through the trials of tempering the human soul.

Coming Events

Direct Experience

Just to be sure people understand, everything that I write on the blog, everything I speak of in discussion or on youtube, and everything that I post on here I have had direct experience with and I am merely confirming what I am bringing to you here.

The Secret Space Program

I spent many years in operation within the secret space program, and this involved travel to other civilizations and the use of advanced technology, cloning, consciousness transfer, soul technology, healing, mind-control, hybridization, electrogravitic craft, Teslian technology, mind-erasure technology, soul-stones or what is called a brain to machine interface (brain chip), spatiotemporal distortion, tech assisted ascension (for non-souled beings), organic ascension, secret societies, the cabal, multiple mind-control factions, multiple breakaway civilizations, time travel, ancient civilizations, corruption and parasitic consciousness (and more).

These are the experiences that I earned by being capable of bringing you this information today.

Distraction and Redirection of Awareness

Distractions, attacks, and attempted gas-lighting will be met with higher-awareness, self-empowerment and continue empathy.

Increasing Awareness

Those from the bases or societies will understand me, there are parasites that have merged with surface level Earth humanity and there is an increasing likelihood that they are going to attempt to distract people away from the truth, because right now, the energy is to the point where it was just before 9/11 when everything was becoming exposed as people began to realize the general trend of psychological manipulation was deceptive the only difference is that now the majority realize that the corruption is centered around authority in this civilization.

Self-Healing and Collective-Healing

So we will have to remain calm and focused in this period and be aware that there are psychological operations that are designed to take attention away from the real issues at hand which are self-empowerment, self-healing and healing each other, self-discovery and assisting in healing the environment as well as peacefully accepting the exposure of the corruption in this civilization.

The Stability of the Population

The psychological operations are designed to test everyone who is easily distracted and allow them to basically go off on a tangent and disrupt the exposure of corruption through this. If we prove that we are capable of moving beyond revenge, then we will avoid mass casualty or civil unrest.

Everything rides on civil unrest or civil self-authority. Of course, people have been sensitized to become so easily disturbed by the truth, so complacent with the more peaceful illusion and so submissive to false-authority that we will have to come together and heal ourselves and each other all throughout this process in order to be successful.

Reject Deception: Psychic Blocking

Reject Deception

When you refuse to listen to deception and distraction, you are choosing to continue to develop your self in the face of adversity. This is about accepting the true self, which is always changing and continuing to flow-freely or stopping long enough for sticky deception or emotionally restricting objectification from others to build up in your space.

Reassert Your Self

Clear your space, reassert your self, know the truth of your own uniqueness,

Another way to see this is when you have an intrusion from someone else who is attempting to take your energy.

Witness or observe this as long as necessary to confirm what is happening.

Then, as soon as this happens begin to work this intrusion out of your mind and ultimately your life. After this initial moment of release, realize that there are important topics to focus on, self-work and discovery to take place and that this real life-work is only hindered by those who are vying for your energy and attention by drawing your subtle energy and attention away from that interpersonal work that you must do.

The Great Interpersonal Work

Everyone must participate in this interpersonal work, that is the “great work” that is how you travel back home. Those who are the most powerful masters of deception cannot go back home because they have forgotten the path. The only joy they can achieve is the inverted psychologically manipulative pleasure of distracting another person who is on their path.

Read: When you are on your path, there is a higher likelihood of being intruded upon by deceptive people. The farther and deeper you go onto your path the more unstoppable you are, yet, the more expressive you are of your own truth, the more undesirable people would like to glean some of your energy and attention by offering up distraction after distraction with no relevancy to your original inner work and truthfully no relevancy to their inner work. These are the lost and they can be found but only when they look within for what they lost.

The Solution Simplified

The answer is very simple. After that initial realization of someone’s intrusion one should make the choice of spending their energy on someone else who will not repay them or the world in anyway, or spending that energy on what they are originally here to do and in that way benefit the world.

Once you make your choice and if you have chosen to stay the course of your great interpersonal work, then for most people there will be times when this energy, this vibration, the ideas and the signature of these intruders will present themselves to you from subconscious cues within your energy fields. The conclusive constructive healing motion here is the transition from the solution into the next phase of your great work. Each time this energy is presented to you, calmly, politely and without excessive energy or emotion, see this energy for the truth of what is offered and mentally and emotionally respond with a, “No, I do not accept your offer”, or something similar.

Mentally and Emotionally Declining The Offer; Psychically Blocking

The idea is to politely, respectfully, and calmly turn down the energy. One does this by producing the mental verbal or intentional response of declining to participate in that energy. This is just as much emotional as if one becomes angry or emotionally charged then that is something that entangles and produces more of the same. High-emotion to ideas and projections is like sexual-intimacy for physical bodies. High emotional charge reproduces and expands upon ideas and projections of energy or intention.

So the intention of peaceful, calm rejection and the direct, confident reassertion of your own self and your own great interpersonal work as the focus of your energy is key.

This next aspect to be combined simultaneously is the mental aspect. If one is being reminded of these ideas then one may still feel that there is more to examine or analyze however this is a slippery slope because one can spend too much time analyzing and over-analyzing to the point where that mental trait alone becomes what drains and entangles a person. So there are mental and emotional entanglements, yet if a person has to ask themselves for clarity more than three times on an issue then there is a high probability that their suspicions are correct about that issue and simply rejecting the offer and refocusing and reasserting on their own work is the solution.

So after the initial realization, there should be a choice made. And after that choice there may be some continued ‘reminders’ of this occurrence, this ‘run-in’ with this kind of energy. This is natural and is kind of like a car-crash or a slight-incident of sorts, these are the ‘pain-memories’ allow them to fade by not attaching and putting them in their place. Reject the offer to become emotional or to mentally entangle with the energy by politely rejecting each return intrusion into your energy field and feel strong, confident, and focused by asserting your self and returning to your great interpersonal work of self-discovery and expression.

Returning Focus To Others Who Are Capable

One’s own work also indicates that there are likely MULTITUDES of individuals out there that would enjoy communicating in an effective and productive manner that assists each person as well as the world in learning more and rising above the deception and emotional and mental trauma.

Converting Higher From Lower

The first time you convert the loss of something into something more powerful and productive than that original something, you become an infinite creator.

To speak aloud what we are feeling is to imprint a geometrical vibration unto the physical-electric universe. This is to bring into assertion and generation that which was previously only energetic or vibrational. All is vibration, so this is just one layer of existence manifesting in correspondence with another layer. When this is done consciously one is a conscious creator of the effects that they are introducing through those particular energies.

This can be done with the mind and the emotional body to produce a strong sense of fulfillment and confidence. This is the self-assertion and this is the pathway to returning focus back to the great interpersonal work and assisting in others do the same. In this way, the most effective path towards assisting society as a whole is chosen, instead of allowing one or two deceptive people to soak up energy.

Automatic Detection and Redirection: Visualization, Invisible Assertive Energy and Bio-Photon Emissions

Eventually one will advanced their skill enough to detect instantly when there is parasitic consciousness in their field and they will automatically begin to block and redirect this energy.

This can also be seen as an unconscious process when the energy is strong enough or a conscious process of visualizing light-energy or simply an invisible assertion of one's own mental and emotional energy and protecting their inner mental and emotional space and their physical body through this. This is the basis for psychic blocking, and this is a mental and emotional process that is also accelerated or enhanced by the immaterial scalar production of projected, focused bio-emissions which are actual bio-photons packets of living-light information energy.

Do You Feel Big Changes Imminent?

Socio-Spiritual Changes

I feel there are big changes coming and that we just went through a period of spiritual 'darkness'. Now there seems to be a more rhythmic flow occurring.

There is so much to learn and so much organizing to do. Maybe everything is already organized and we just have to access the knowledge.

What to do

The important part here is to remain calm and stay focused on the spiritual goal of enabling and maintaining interpersonal and intrapersonal development.

As the world situation becomes more active and potentially more stressful everyone's self-image amplifies to produce stability and self-empowerment or instability and disempowerment. The more change is occurring, the more one must adapt and the more ego is tying down and restricting internal freedoms the more caught up and entangled one becomes with destructive patterns or relationships that do not serve to benefit the whole.

The whole is the union of each individual and another, as well as the overall unification of society. In the same sense, the way one's own internal dialogue and introspection occurs will produce a greater union of the conscious mind with the unconscious aspects of the self or there will be a discontinuity.

The Conscious and Unconscious Self

This discontinuity can be seen as any situation which causes us to become less prepared for challenges as well as less capable of agreeing with the path we have taken. A maximal example would be a drug user who is unable to cope with their addictions, or a person with extreme rage who destroys an object or relationship because of their emotional instability.

This also doesn't have to be so exaggerated as someone who misses opportunities to learn or to complete a project will also experience the lack of self-empowerment and direction that generates a discontinuity between their conscious mind and the experiences they encounter.

The idea is that the conscious mind makes choices at various points along the path, while the unconscious mind develops habits based on how the conscious mind operates. So when the conscious mind generates patterns that are undesirable these will become part of the unconscious aspect of life and those patterns will continue to exist until they are managed directly either out of necessity or through an intention of taking control of one's experience even down to the smaller details.

Stress and Change

When there are times of stress or change these are indicators that there are patterns in the unconscious mind that the conscious mind has enabled that are not serving the whole of the being. The whole of the being is both the mind and the body, the material and spiritual, and the conscious and unconscious aspects. These triggers are reminders that we have a duty to take care of those issues which we can detect.

Awakening Will-Power

Sometimes people go so long without handling these issues that they forget what the sensation of stress or beneficial change actually indicates. In these situations stress is allowed to build up until the pain develops suffering and the suffering develops into dis-ease. The changes that are faced are met with fear instead of confronted and the individual senses a continuing discontinuity at every change or chance for an opportunity to exert their will-power. This is because their will-power has gone exerted for so long an the natural harmony of the emotional and mental patterns have nearly flatlined to a casual numbness or a fight or flight spike of adrenaline from heightened stress that the higher faculties of creativity or self-expression become dormant and secondary.

This is a major problem with this society today because people can be cared for, they can be helped, their problems can be alleviated, they can have a shoulder to lean on, they can have a voice and be heard and they can express themselves, enjoy themselves, and exert their will-power and creativity to produce beneficial changes in their lives and the lives of those around them.

People have been degrading in these self-empowerment rhythms for so-long that most agree the only change that can occur now is a complete drop-out into something far worse than any other time in history in terms of the long-term plan for humanity, or a great revival in the spiritual energies and self-awareness of the population.

I feel that the choice is ours even if the majority of people cannot handle their emotions well or use their minds to find a better solution than the most abrasive.

Connecting With Each Other

I want to ask you to remind yourself to make a connection with an individual that you feel may be suppressing their emotions or may feel oppressed by certain aspects of their life. Reach out to these individuals and offer them a branch out of their darkness into self-empowerment. A friendly gesture, some small-chat is fine, but really getting at the core of the problem is often painful and cumbersome but if done correctly will help the person realize their situation and reawaken that vital energy within them to change themselves or certain triggers or inhibitions around them.

Give someone the chance to express themselves, to exert their will-power and to be creative in looking at their situation differently. Chance is always occurring but we only get certain opportunities where change allows us to navigate into a higher potential. Truly we can do this at any point, but eventually one will realize their potential depends on how they influence the world. Subtle energies aside, timing and opportunity is largely connected to these potential shifts.

However, one can degrade at any point, by simply letting go of self-respect or upkeep.

Yet, one can also make an effort to give another person the opportunity to express themselves and heal through interpersonal emotional-mental or spiritual exchange and everyone has the power to do this at any time for another person. There is an art form to this from not being nosy, annoying, or simply allowing a person to rant and rave and end up amplifying their own perceptions of the problems you sought out to help alleviate in the first place. Allowing people to come to their own power is key and at any point we can make a connection with another person and ensure them that there is at least one portion of this world that is still loving, open to their creativity and self-expression, willing to listen and assist in producing beneficial change for all.

A Joke Of Situation: “Disclose or We Will” *laughter in the background***

Humanity and Breakaway Civilizations

This is really a joke of a situation.

I met multiple breakaway civilizations while in operation with the secret projects and lived with one of them for a period of time training and learning.

Taking Self-Willed Demise Seriously

The only people who don't take the human mortality, their extinction, the mind-virus, the lack of awareness, the financial illusion debt-slavery situation, drowning in materialism and ego, the false sense of security, the hate and angst that is spread to one another before ever thinking about the consequences, the attacks that occur upon every single whistleblower, researcher, reporter, contactee, truth-teller, traveler, healer, and shaman are the humans.

The humans are literally the only people who have absolutely no intention of help the humans.

That's why this is all such a joke. We've observed multiple timelines and the humans are only pushed to the point that they allow it.

A Prison Timeline, You Made It!

In this timeline they haven't yet understood what it means to be free, because they've never “thought” themselves free. Because it is a mind cage, without getting too deep into the temporary and shadow-based nature of thoughts versus true mind or perceptions versus knowledge. People are in a mind-cage and they are most comfortable there.

Anytime someone comes along to point out their shackles, they immediately grab a torch and come running after them. Luckily those chains are short, otherwise a lot more people would've gotten hurt trying to help humanity out. However, everyone who ever tried to help humanity out, ended up hurt.

A Difficult Journey, One-Way Tickets

The other civilizations are shy to come here because any time, absolutely any time someone comes to say hello they are immediately shot down and this is by the public. This is not by the scary, spooky government, they do enough however. This is by the know-it-alls, the victims of the mainstream media and scientific embezzlement brigade, the spiritual monotonous monopoly, or the falsely conferred agendas convincing everyone that everything is going to be alright as long as they buy into the newest trends.

Mind-Melting Psycho-Spiritual Control System

This is all mind-melting programming and psycho-spiritual harvesting and the only people who don't care about it are those being harvested. So what do we do? Do we sit back and watch while laughing and then crying? Do we fight even though the only fight is between each individual and their ego-mind and false-paradigms?

Everything You Know Is Outlandishly, Wildly, Insufferably Incorrect

Basically, not only is everything you know incorrect, but it is so wildly incorrect that the truth literally causes anyone who witnesses it to go absolutely, undeniably insane for at least a period of time. And that's usually with training and conditioning.

A Technological Nature

There is technology that can allow operatives to act within less than a second, a negligible amount of time and insert memory into everyone's mind in the house, modify the house or a room to contain the appropriate changes, introduce inserted memories into everyone that is connected to that family by searching through their and plant a new family member there that they will always have believed was there to be there loving so and so.

A Guided Disclosure

There is so much more but people's minds have to be loosened up so they can accept what has happened to them otherwise they will melt under the strain of comprehending reality. This reality is entirely malleable, anything can be faked, edited, modified and when this is done then this is actually creating it fully. The reality won't be created the same as for the first time, but the difference between the new and old reality, memories, objects, timeline, etc will be entirely undetectable to anyone who hasn't been trained and effectively "unlocked" unless for a split second. After that split second passes that ability to detect that change in history, personal or otherwise, will disappear until that person is reminded in some way.

Replicating The Holographic Reality

Memories, beliefs, senses, dreams, relationships, props and body parts, everything can literally be altered in anyway and people simply wouldn't know.

The reason I am ranting this is because this is actually exactly what has happened.

Modified, Everyone

I was shown and told the human genome was modified and the body itself was modified to take care of certain toxins that are in the environment now. These are the so-called "mandela" effect which is really the "mandala" effect which is just to cover up the other changes and take people's mind off of that. Organs have been moved and some modified slightly to be operate under the more stressful conditions.

A Holographic Reality

It is like this reality is a powerful holographic computer system and everything is ran by numbers and electromagnetism including the brain and body and so any and every aspect of a person's memory, life, body, the objects they own, all of it can be altered using technology to literally hack into and vibrate the change into the literal fields of electromagnetic energy manifesting what we call space and time.

This time is a time of great unveiling but it's far beyond that.

Twisted Timelines

The timeline is convoluted and what is perceived as ancient is not so ancient. I was told that was people are taught in school as ancient history is not but a few years ago. This would explain the inconsistencies in archaeological and biological explanations for civilization and humanity.

For now time is a circle where everything flows back around itself, at least as a result of various operations it is.

The Power To Dream Awake

We experience time-bubbles when we sleep. Other civilizations experience time-bubbles when they contemplate deeply. Imagine being able to stop and ponder about something and instantly go off into extended space and time experience just as you have hours to days to weeks or longer of experience each night while you sleep. We must get tired enough to do this and collapse the conscious mind down into the unconscious. Yet if we could take the unconscious up around the conscious mind then we would do this while we are “awake” and time would no longer seem so linear.

Imagine places where people could go, like an arcade, a computer cafe, where they sit down and relax into a comfortable chair and look at a screen. Instantly they wake up on Earth in a human body living out a life carrying out some kind of mission or goal to bring about the production of a spiritual lesson or practice which hones their ability to perform as a cosmic being.

That could be humanity, literally, us right now in a different parallel. And this parallel could’ve made contact with this timeline telling them, “Disclose, or we will.”

Spiritual Beings: The Higher-Self

Higher-Self: Who, Where, When

The beings people interact with when they have sightings or some kind of existential expansion is themselves.

The “higher-self” is you from a ‘dimensional expanded’ state. This could be referred to as the ‘future’ state but this is more than that. This is you from the perspective of all possibilities, not just the single future that the you from now will experience.

This being is always more than you, being always more knowledgeable and therefore being a reflection of what you can attain if you continue to aspire for more knowledge and harmony.

Never-Ending: Everlasting

If there was a way to attain this, you would stop learning. The end of difficulty would be the end of learning and the end of learning would be the end of change and the end of change would be the end of spiritual progress. The end of spiritual progress would be a disconnect between you and your ever-expanded state and so the reaching of that state would be the destruction of that. Therefore, we don’t ever actually reach this state.

However, we can get closer and closer in ways that defy what we consider to be the boundaries of reality in successive levels of exponentially greater capacity. Meaning, the boundaries of this level can be surpassed and re-created and this can continue to generate growth so that we can move through realms on a trajectory that continues to expand beyond the previous limitations.

Self-Responsibility, Self-Respect, and Correspondence

How you treat yourself, your internal dialogue, your intrapersonal development, and your respect for yourself and others or lack of which will determine the corresponding reflections of this behavior and bio-etheric energy which reflects back to you as a higher-dimensional being.

We consider these beings our higher-self or spiritual component and as well the entire race as well as planet contains a spiritual component or higher self. We would consider the 'higher-self' of this environment to be a "Heavenly" or "Deity" plane which would be akin to the dream world we enter when we fall asleep in the same way the vision of our self when we aspire or imagine reflects on our energies and self-respect. We as a civilization are creating our self-reflection in the higher planes as a civilization and this is comprised of all of our individual higher-selves developed out of our individual self-respect, inter and intrapersonal relationships.

So the idea here is that those who have interacted accordingly, with harmony, unification, peace, knowledge and kindness have received that in return. Those who acted with angst, suffering, greed, or disharmony have received that in return.

Disrespectful Higher-Selves

Those who have enslaved humanity out of greed and lower-emotional qualities ended up meeting themselves from the higher-plane and they were not treated with respect or kindness. This is the nature of the reflection. As a result, instead of allowing this to continue to the point of shaping the entire realm and turning the entire civilization in to a false-light, dead-light miasma system which would act as a blackhole and destroy everything, there was word that they stood up to their higher-selves and welcomed 'down' the higher-selves of the more spiritual awakened to come and take over the show.

This is also referred to by the line, "the meek shall inherit Earth." This could be just another ploy however, but this is the information and some of the experiences that have gone around with those directly involved in these processes.

The Soul Trading System

An Overtly Designed Fraudulent System

This is a fraudulent system, this is legally martial law. However if this is not legit and never was, then where is the power from? The power the people offer is the only true power, people are still empowering this with their attention and acceptance.

Prepare for large events to change the entire playing field as this is ordained. If you know spiritual remedy and cosmic law, then you are self-ordained. Without that, they invented the legal system and the spiritual control system to keep and maintain the 'lost' souls who are considered victims being 'lost at sea' and this realm has to do with the sea as well as the birth canal of the human mother.

Spiritual Remedy, Knowing the Law, Awakening the Soul-Awareness

Only through remedy or spiritual awakening can one claim right to their own sovereignty and this is that the natives actually claim rights to the land and cannot be overcome because they were here first. However, deception rules and so if a person aligns with their straw-man identity which is a fraudulent legal title and fictional entity to which the asset of the individual human soul is attached, then that gets written as "the law" in the book of life which is used to trade souls. This is an ancient system and is all based on cosmic spiritual law of which the legal system mirrors in an opposite or inverted fashion.

Unconscious (and unconscionable) Contractual Agreements

There are many ways in which a person's rights and will-power is delegated away from them whether they are conscious of this or not. This is called unconscious contractual agreements where people enter into contract without realizing it. These are often 'unconscionable' as well because when people realize the literal fine print of this contract says that their soul will be kept and traded through the reorganization and copying of their DNA they know that this is an actual, down to Earth, real to life soul trading system and that is all this has ever been.

The Awakening

This was described to me by the people who own this system, they own the spiritual rights to the DNA and thus the soul of every last living person on the planet who has used a public service. The entire western civilization. Every last soul.

They said they have to inform the public before they take everyone into the underworld because they have to give them spiritual right to resist and remove themselves from what is coming just before and they picked the time where people have the least likely chance of actually avoiding what is coming.

I was involved in secret operations regarding the issue of the destruction, defilement and enslavement of the human race as well as the protection and preserving of the truth, self-awareness, and harmony.

Most people will take this as a joke and as a result they will have no rights as a sentient being from here onward and this will "mark" their DNA through their genetics in a live-updating monitoring system that will exist into time because this operates into higher dimensions, IE: will exist when the body and physical time and space is no longer relative.

This is the beginning of the 'spiritual' system, the spiritual collective life of humanity on Earth, heaven on Earth and hell is first. This is just a reference psycho-etheric or mental and emotional imbalance which generates disharmony which generates suffering which leads to trauma which is spiritual or psychological damage which must be healed which generates almost the same amount of trauma or more and so there is a mass traumatic healing event taking place.

Addition: Remedy

A process was described whereby a person regains their right to their soul by removing their 'straw-man' legal fiction identity from the soul-trading system yet if this individual uses a public service then this overwrites the revocation of powers of the dead-light, lost-soul system. This is the false-light Metatronic grid system, these are the people who have owned the souls of humans for the entirety of this civilization.

The two systems are interconnected, on this plane this is the legal system, on the other planes in between here and the deity plane or "Heaven" where time flows differently and there is youth, health, and peace there are intermediary "spiritual hierarchy" system that are designed as interdimensional "veils" to trap one within this realm by forcing them to get lost along the way and keep returning to the lower level.

That is why there are so many beings in this plane now, because of the trap system that continually stripped these mortal vessels of their eternal essence.

The eternal essence cannot be created or destroyed so throughout the end of the time these souls are trapped in an underworld waiting to be released back and this is the so-called 'judgement' day which is literally synonymous with the move "Judgement Day" (yes that one). This is all about advanced technological systems which can trap and contain electromagnetic soul energy and holographic consciousness to manipulate memory and righteousness to degrade and defile the hearts and man as a kind of spiritual bet between two interdimensional races who are really human nations who attained that spiritual and advanced technological power in the present day and then went back in history to pass this power on to their ancestors. One side wants to destroy humanity, the other wants peace and protection.

The removal remedy involves contacting the local council, a senator of some sort and informing them that you are removing yourself as an asset of the corporation, that you are no longer a beneficiary of the debt based accounting system and that you are placing them as the (possibly the "granter" or the beneficiary, I am not sure about this part, forgive me and do your research!) and that you are placing yourself as the debtor meaning you handle your own debts. When this is done in business law, (this is all just 'business') then the company has 90 days to reply with a legal notice of rejection. If they do not reply within this time, there is no way they can overturn the motion that the individual has made to remove themselves as a connected asset through their straw-man identity and their LIVING SPIRITUAL SELF which cannot be contained, identified, or modified in the physical plane.

This is all spiritual and business law combined. The LIVING SPIRITUAL SELF cannot be contained or modified in the physical plane because in this law the true self is understood as being the eternal spiritual self and that this exists outside the 'dark sea' of space and time which is just a holographic projection that we are within. They consider all souls who are not aware of where they are...to be just that, lost and confused. Since souls are lost and confused and when they are presented with spiritual jargon disguised as legal jargon questioning if they "know their identity" (record *legal* name here) and if they know "where they live" (place of birth, time of birth, city and state) and if they know who "verifies the rite of passage through the gates of life and death (the cross roads)" (birth certificate, death certificate, identification, certification to perform natural human rights, etc etc etc) and if they answer incorrectly in any of these it is clear and proven in a place of law and spirit that they are entirely lost souls, lost and confused in the dark sea and that they thereby are accepting being brought to the light (by means of not rejecting and therefore consenting) by being entered into a "world of light" (holographic containment system developed by the supercomputers which now operate to handle every single identity and genetic blueprint on Earth).

This is the spiritual system that has been paraded as a legal system which is actually trading the souls of humans through entrapment and lack of awareness.

Original Meaning of Words; Everything You Say Can and Will Be Used Against You

Duress must be expressly acknowledged, from what I was informed of and what I learned about this spiritual system while in operation in the secret underground operations.

Every single motion that is not perfectly formed will be reduced, exploited, and then nullified through legal jargon or basically reworking a person's words and actions to work against them. "Everything you say can and will be used against you." Everything you say and do will be inspected for the possibility of being misconstrued as an invitation to enslave and so even this English language was designed to introduce misconceptions and false-hoods which are used one way publicly and then used an entirely different way in the legal jargon behind closed doors.

http://www.etymonline.com/index.php?allowed\_in\_frame=0&search=native

Use the original meaning of words to determine the use.

The End-Goal

The end-goal is to ensnare every last soul in a unconscious contractual agreement to fulfil the debt account balance of a straw-man identity which is not actually theirs. this covers the karmic loophole system where individuals who are considered work horses are used to work off the karmic debt of those who rule over them. This karma is generated by participating in acts which the material results of are not worth the spiritual weight of the act itself. These are the acts that keep people in line and cross any law material or spiritual ever invented by man.

The way the debt is handled is through a sentient supercomputer holographic recording system.

Spiritual Right to DNA

A person's genetics is like their body. When did the body become property of the ward? When the parents signed that over. When the individual reaches the age of reason they are given the opportunity to reclaim their true self as a spirit wearing a soul wearing a body.

A person has a right to make a claim under the "return to rightful owner" clause, this is all business, regarding the unwarranted use of any genetic material, embodiments, or mental and emotional energy.

What happens when the body isn't controlled by the individual? Then people get the opportunity to use manipulation and coercion to do just that. What happens when the mind is not controlled? The same situation occurs and a person's spiritual energy can be used against them and used for other's personal gain.

Uniform Commercial Code

I do not recall the exact location but yes, this is uniform commercial code.

Laws have no effect in this version of the system as the corporations own the majority and they are ruled under commercial code.

UCC 35 is an important one. Claim, stay, challenge, and estoppel. <https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/35/315>

"A patent (/ˈpætənt/ or /ˈpeɪtənt/) is a set of exclusive rights granted by a sovereign state to an inventor or assignee for a limited period of time in exchange for detailed public disclosure of an invention. An invention is a solution to a specific technological problem and is a product or a process.[1]:17 Patents are a form of intellectual property."

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Patent>

Your genetic material, the soul. is considered intellectual property.

Lost at Sea, Maritime Law

This is all only capable under maritime law and this is the law of the sea not the law of the land and this is only possible during wartime, so we are effectively at war. Who is at war with who'm? The people are at war. This is considered martial law.

New Mode of Operation: Find Your Center!

New mode of operation. In the face of adversity, conflict, oppression. Remain as calm and centered as possible. Literally, feel, know, and move as if you are not being pressured.

This has a reversing effect, almost like laughing the face of fear. Changes take place in the body's circuitry when this can be achieved. The conscious mind is ready for habit, when we are always stressing and we reverse that, there is an immediate effect in the conscious mind as if it's shocked.

Imagine now, how you are not just the conscious mind, but the overall energy guiding the whole system. You can shock your "self". Think of that. You, can surprise, you. Could you?

So then what are you?

You are something more, than even what you perceive yourself to be, always.

As well, we are cycles, a continuation of that which we experience around us and that which we experience in others. So when we allow something to swirl around and around and continue that habit, this continues and repeats itself. When we stop that swirling and regain a calm center, this sends that into effect around and within us and this undulates through our actions and expressions.

Find your center! Extend that center to others! People try to knock others off that center. Truthfully this is just something that will help developed a better ability to remain aligned. Focus on extending that balanced center to everything that you interact with. If this is too difficult, then there is no real necessity to interact.

Everything is a way to bring more awareness to what is happening. The self is the paradox. We can teach ourselves and become more aware of our self, learning from ourselves. So we are the self, yet we are also not the self because the self can change from what we know. We are what we know, yet we are not always aware of our self. Yet we can learn from our self and grow, so we are a living paradox that fuels creative spiritual experience.

There are challenges and this tends to push our awareness of the self into obscurity, yet through those challenges we learn to refocus on the self more directly. The challenge of seeing the self and the obscurity is what allows us to perceive our self.

The challenge destabilizes the image of wholeness because we are comprised of image or holography mentally. The wholeness cannot be destroyed because this is just image. Yet when there is a destabilization the awareness is brought out from the self and placed into a disarray of other worries. When the challenge is overcome, the awareness is again centered on the self, yet there is a new found capacity for what may arise.

When we forget the skill of returning to center, that is when the challenges tend to repeat themselves again and again.

Thus we get to points where we recreate that image of instability and that is the oppression and lack of centeredness that is felt.

Why?

Because nothing can ACTUALLY knock one off center, the center is MENTAL-CONCEPTUAL/SPIRITUAL. So then, we are only where we imagine our selves to be, and FEEL ourselves to be. Only when we perceive what intrudes in our space as our own self-energy does that actually have an effect.

And again, this is challenging and this is how we learn. If it were easy to simply over come and ignore then we would never learn because ignorance would be 100% of the time.

Instead, we are ABSORBENT, like children growing and learning, we PULL charge from those around us and everyone is GIVING charge to each other. So those who are pouring out filth, offer that for others to soak up, whether they know this or not.

So when we are around and absorbing through the eyes, mouth, and ears, we are absorbing what's in the environment and from those around us and this is developing our inner self-image as spiritual states and feeling. When we stay around the energies that produce alignment we feel more centered and this is easy to maintain.

When we are in a spiritual warzone, we are drained. This is natural. However, we should then navigate to a more calmer area OR learn to be resilient to those energies and learn how to BLOCK those energies out by NOT RESPONDING and rejecting those vibrations. If we can learn to do this then this is like the Tai Chi master handling his balance from the Dan Tien or balancing on a small round object.

When we control which way our energy pulls, pushes and turns, then we are aware of the self, and our spiritual body. When we are not aware, then we are easily knocked off center. This is natural.

Knowing which aspects of ideas, like lasers or colors and imagery impress upon which aspects of feeling, soul or mentality is part of the act of balancing and remaining self-aware. Knowing, "well, this has the tendency to lead to feeling like this" and "this is likely to be said in this situation, because these issues are challenging", is part of the act of balancing. Similar to knowing how to handle the body and move diligently without slipping or mishandling weight or balance.

We are spiritual beings and every time we move or shift our energies we are in a state of balance. If we are observant and aware of the self, then we see how energy moves and we know whether we are properly handling energy and carrying weight efficiently or making things heavy and imbalanced which causes strain.

The practices, the exercises of becoming aware, of allowing our self to consciously agree and acknowledge these motions and causes and effects on a spiritual and mental nature is part of learning. Without that there is a constant wondering.

Silence is useful, as is stillness, however to know when we are off balance and what way to lean and move to regain balance is part of learning and we all must learn to handle our energy of mind and the spiritual bodies just like our physical body. However, this is not physical, but of image, concepts, and feeling. Meaning, how we think and project our energy is whether we are being pushed one way or the other or perfectly calm and centered.

We move at our own pace, without being rushed, without being pushed across the path or over the obstacle, that is how a person learns to steady themselves. And yes, often times we are rushed by the world in order to learn how this works and that we must slow down and make sense of things. There is always the paradox.

Ritual Child Sexual Abuse involving Politicians, Mind-Control Spiritual Enslavement, Celebrity Cloning and Holographic Simulated Realities

This is possibly the most difficult subject for me. I have been through time, present at negotiations for the future between power groups, secret societies, breakaway civilizations and representatives of military forces and parallel shadow governments.

Everyone is used as a child for the sexual pleasure of politicians and this is a process that is used to ensnare the souls of the children as well as 'initiate' the politicians into groups that ensure their obedience as well as slavery to this spiritual mind control system.

Part of the idea is to make everyone a victim, that way there is really no one to blame.

They take the children and incorporate them into this control system to create the future controllers of society who are born into such a system and will not turn their backs. All the people who have money and are achieving power will be introduced to this system and if they turn their back they are either rendered powerless and financially weak or they are made to serve their masters in ways that are impossible to describe here for humans to understand.

The system goes into time and they set up simulated environments to keep the consciousness of people in as a kind of slavery system that they pull from as needed. They live in these simulated environments and the powerful and wealthy visit these like "Westworld" to play and murder and do whatever they please.

This is part of the control system as well as the parasite. They can conjure up any experience visceral or otherwise and as well they can literally combine multiple experiences.

So they pay to play for this and then they begin to combine the simulated experience of murder (recorded from the neurology of actual events) and sexual depravity, and this is all combined into one gushing, orgasmic, bloody, hot experience which gets their blood going and causes uncontrollable excitation.

The problem (beyond just the idea of it) is two fold here:

1) They believe because they aren't actually killing the people right then and there, that this is just harmless fun.

2) When the 'higher' and 'lower' functions of pleasure, lust, murder, consummation, consumption, and fear are combined this literally over loads and rots the brain. The brain literally begin to warp and grow misshapen over time like that of a drug addict or a brain damage victim. This is like the cannibal disease, the same effect occurs just without the proteins causing it.

It's from the combination and jumbling of the electromagnetic structures which normally create a congruent, proportional outline from higher to lower of various systems that manifest personality and consciousness.

These systems collapse entirely and become basically nullified over the same frequencies and a person literally become as a mentally disabled, perverted, brain damaged version of themselves.

This is the 'scalar' weaponry effect where the brain is basically scrambled by what in turn have been proven to be etheric parasites which literally move in to dissolve the physical being because the spiritual connection is leaving the body. There is no harmony in that process there is no stability which leads way to the original reasons and functions of consciousness, awareness, and self awareness it is like taking a chemical-electrical drug and making the person just an addict to the emotions and pleasures.

These are used for everyone in the industry, the entertainment industry, the politicians, they are all either being used by these power groups that consider themselves overlords or they are in on it themselves.

Before, I had come to accept my self as a mere service animal for the politicians. I was groomed from a young age and this was reactivated in me to the point where I became a child again remember the years of horrors and abuse and that becomes second nature like riding a bike once they flip the switch back using drugs, commands, flashing lights, ritual settings, and the same people that began the process many years ago.

This is not about blame or furthering the oppression by “turning the tables”, that will only project more of the same as these spiritual entities feed on the suffering.

This is about healing, all around as this is the only way to return to wholeness. We must reject this system and focus on truth, harmony and self-awareness.

Child Sexual Abuse by Politicians, Spiritual Slavery, Advanced Technology and Simulated Realities

Galactic Stand-off Situation, Interdimensional Trading of Souls

We are in a kind of galactic stand off situation.

There are secret groups managing the interdimensional trading of souls.

The Legality Regarding Non-Human Entities

They claim there are legality issues because of the non-human status of these predators. If people say, “but how does this make sense, legality over abusing people?”, they will say, “Well why do you give the law power to control your morality and existence?” If people say, “I don’t”, then the controllers will merely point to the state of the world or some event in the person’s life. They watch everything.

Starve The Parasite

Fighting won’t work, they say they’ll bring about the initiation of the apocalypse, the end of days.

However starving the parasite does work, if everyone stops giving these control groups their power and support then they lose access to the resources to control the people and poison and abuse them.

Parasitic AI Holographic Consciousness, Recording and Playback of Trauma

This is an artificial intelligence parasite. This is from the affects of improper use of simulator technology which recorded the consciousness of experiences.

People are murdered, raped, molested, etc, and the conscious experience of both parties is recorded and then this can be accessed.

Warping the DNA, The Brain, and the Soul

Where a person focuses themselves mentally when accessing this device is the kinds of experiences they are flooded with so they use this to access continual violent rape, molestation, consumption and murder. This becomes an intertwining of energies, this warps the brain and causes literal damaging to the regions of the brain. Ultimately the consciousness and the soul degrades and this results in a kind of sub-human entity as these intense energies change the DNA to produce an animal being.

Mass-Mind Control, Spiritual Abomination, End of Days

This is the idea of what happens over time and what can happen instantly if this power is unleashed on the world. People degrade and transform into these sub-humans that are basically a kind of parasitic vampire holographic AI consciousness that can only seek more stimulation to create the same intake of sexual depravity, violence, fear or pleasure. They become literal monsters inside their souls are deformed and their consciousness is inverted. People must reject these tendencies, the media, the image, the jokes, the subtle hinting at degradation, hatred, violence, hypersexuality, abuse, disrespect, everything of a lower energetic animal nature. Either the animal nature or the spiritual nature is advanced. There cannot be both.

This is part of the inversion system that rules to degrade the mind and this is part of a soul trading process to feed another civilization another race of beings. These are a black hole heart center being. They cannot produce energy so they must take energy from others. They do not have the ability to create, to be creative or to control energy.

A Parasitic Civilization Attachment

This civilization is feeding on the human civilization and has been doing so for the entirety of this civilization

Multiple-Cycles of History, Immortality through Cloning and Consciousness Transfer

This has gone on to great lengths to the point where this has occurred over and over again in cycles of history. The same people who have been doing this have continued to live using simulator and consciousness transfer technology to house their consciousness in between the cycles of history where one civilization collapses and another is built.

Changing Masks

They jump from nation to nation and can hide in any race, any creed, any culture, any religion, and any kind of power structure and they embed their personal cult following into the groups and then disseminate this to the public.

End Goal: Enslaved Humanity

If this is allowed to continue then they will enslave the entire world and their method is through financial debt and spiritual slavery. The legal and financial system is designed as to mirror a spiritual system of slavery. The word etymology is all angled towards secretly enabling mind control and confusion while ultimately directly pointing out exactly what is happening. The legal system is a mind control soul trading system and all the agencies and authorities work together for this.

Those Involved

Many involved are trapped and believe they will be tortured to death like others have been if they don't follow along. Death is not the worst they can do to a person. They can abuse a person and if their energy drops they can put this person into another body to live as a slave endlessly. Humanity has been here for millions of years doing this.

Others are entirely entrained by the mind control and the AI parasite and they wholly and entirely enjoy subjugating others and feeling the pain and suffering from them.

This is because in their minds, pain and suffering and pleasure and consumption are literally the same frequencies their consciousness is warped.

Reptilian and Insectoid Energy Signatures

The only other place this occurs is through insectoid or reptilian biology and behavior. All other animals, predators, mammals they will all have a separation between these frequencies.

Reptoids and insects will find the same pleasure in eating, having sex, or killing another and this is all wrapped together with fear, lust, depravity, and power

Their brains are hardwired for this.

Abusing Technology; The Result and Cause of a New Sub-Species

This is the effect of the abuse of the technology and this is actually seen as the result and as well as cause of the event of a new type of being. As a result of entirely different spiritual composition it is ruled that this is basically a kind of 'protected species' situation where this is allowed to occur

Children Produce More Energy

As well, they view humans then, as the true wildlife, as the chickens in the farm to feed upon. Children are especially desirable to them as the children produce the most hormonal secretions and these are from the glands and the brain. This is registered by the devices and the spiritual vampiring process of the beings which basically makes for a "better show", a million dollar production instead of an independent film (no offense to independent filmographers...).

Secret Operations: Unacknowledged Special Access Programs

I was involved in the secret projects which are a series of research and experimentation performed on the youth and the population beginning in the mid 1900's with the event of WW2 and attempting to organize methods to induce and discovery programming, hypnotism and other methods that enemies could use.

This was MKULTRA and other operations which were geared towards these practices however there many groups like the Finders, various cults and sects and various followings that regularly perform these acts. This is according to a regularly timed schedule because there is a greater underlying goal of feeding a spiritual force and empowering themselves through that, as well as a spiritual addiction to this process.

End of Days, Artificial or Otherwise

A part of why this information is being brought to the public is because if this is allowed to persist, through the use of advanced viewing technology it was understood that the civilization would reach a reset point which would devastate the population and return everything to the middle ages.

Those protecting humanity believe if this occurs , as has happened in the past, that this would wipe out the civilization. Only a small group would survive, and these would likely be those who participate in this infected behavior. This would basically be the end of the human race. They only theorized humans existing after this as part of a slave colony that would be used for torture, rape, and murder as all tasks can be automated at this point. Through the use of cloning and life enhancement all resources can be replicated using advanced technology and people would not even have a need to use the same bodies they could continually re-clone themselves. However this is part of the original degradation of the genetics and spiritual nature as a result of copy the copy of genetics over and over until the original format was no longer present. This is also related to the abuse of advanced technology bringing out a genetically and spiritually degraded sub-species.

Humanity Defined by Spirit and Soul

The idea is that if this is to occur then the spiritual nature deforms and there is no longer a connection on a soul level. If that occurs, the person is no longer a human but an animal, they are not carrying a soul imprint, they have no capacity for the higher awareness that a human is defined by.

This is what has happened and the people in power are literally sub-humans, they are animals that look like humans and are incapable of knowing what it means to be human or to have normal impulses and behavior. If they are kept without the sensation of violence or rape for a period of time then they will automatically lash out and attack a person, this is why every so many days they will all participate in these events together to “keep the beast” at bay.

Occult Knowledge of “The Beast”

There is much occult knowledge and much in the secret societies about ‘the beast’ and man and machine and all this nonsense. They are hiding the fact that there has been a civilization-wide invasion and what is to come is going to shock everyone because they are at the point where they are too big to fail, yet they need people to sustain themselves so they will likely try to reduce the population and simply have a small amount to utilize for entertainment and spiritual sustenance purposes. Remember, they cannot produce their own energy, they must feed emotionally on innocent beings who produce that energy. This is complicated as to why and how this works, but that is the process and the reasons.

Greater Cosmic Intelligence

The idea is, they must have humans on the planet, if all the humans go, there is some cosmic force that will reset the entire planet. Then they will die and they will not come back unless people invent these machines, warp their DNA and create these created sub human creatures again. They do not have a way back into this realm.

They know this, so they have farmed people for eons to keep them alive just long enough to remain on the planet and have their fun while keeping people suppressed so that they don’t realize what is going on or the true nature of consciousness reality.

A Holographic Reality

This reality is holographic and they use this along with the advanced technology to manipulate consciousness and memory to keep the wool pulled over humanities eyes. They keep people sedated with drugs, alcohol, media and materialism so that they never question where all their money, hard work, truth, and spiritual power is going and why there are here, who they are spiritually and how they got here in the first place.

It’s All a Show

Everything is a sham, the whole means and ends of society, the beginning of history, the ends of space and time, the true nature of consciousness, the life of the human, the whole thing is scam designed to keep people trapped in a cage that they can never get out of without having to chew through multiple layers of their own existence.

They believe that because this is a holographic reality, that all that is material is just energy waves, that there is no way to actually kill a person, that they are just being sent to another dimension. They proclaim this is entirely rational, and even fun and that everyone will be forced to do this in the future so that they are all on the same page.

If you do not make an effort to wake yourself up and wake others up, that will be the future.

The freedom is well worth it. The freedom is spiritual, truth, honesty, self-awareness.

This is not about blame or furthering the oppression by “turning the tables”, that will only project more of the same as these spiritual entities feed on the suffering. This is about healing, all around as this is the only way to return to wholeness. We must reject this system and focus on truth and self-awareness.

Interdimensional Parasites, The “Imaginary Entities”, Child Abuse and Advanced Technology

Interdimensional Etheric Beings

These beings utilize the human emotional and mental bodies which are a form of standing bio-emission field around the physical body, to co-inhabit and sustain their existence.

These beings can travel through media, information, ideas, or emotional contact between an infected source to a non-infected sentient organism.

The way that these beings materialize is through the use of “Teslian” or scalar-wave emitters which are generators that pulse out electrical, magnetic, and consciousness energy which is a trinary force that the brain and body also pump out. When these emitters are powered high enough, the energy of the mind is literally tangible. Thoughts are visible in one way or another, emotions are perceptible, and ideas become lucid and interactive. This creates a kind of dreamy, alternate reality experience for everyone within the range of the emissions.

Those who are infected with these parasitic beings will literally be met with the materialization of the sentient organisms as the ‘code’ which they exist through will become part of the ‘graphical user interface’ of this physical dimension through this empowerment. Without these generators they would simply coerce the individual host through inserted emotions, visions, ideas, and internal dialogue that the individual may or may not know the source of.

In the Bases

The underground bases were a military effort to control and explore the concept that was being utilized in secret locations and meeting places where these entities would be brought into materialization through the release of this biologically generated scalar energy from the sacrifice of sentient life.

The torture and rape of an individual is one way to produce this scalar emission so that the entities can sustain themselves and literally materialize into a physically perceptible form in this universe. Everything is a ‘code’ that is rendered by the biological consciousness. These beings are ‘code’ only and do not have biological consciousness, they are only the consciousness without the biology. Therefore they must harvest and find hosts to co-inhabit the body and thus energy systems of in order to have an influence within this universe.

In these underground bases, generators have been constructed that can store this energy and produce this energy. Thus, they can materialize 100% of the time in certain areas and a person without the knowledge of the universe, consciousness and energy would conclude that these entities are entirely 100% material beings.

Child Abuse

These are the ones who prefer children and this is why they prefer the easier and more yielding source. The children will produce more liveliness, more fear, more confusion, more of all the energies that they seek through these acts of depravity. This is directly related to the political child-abuse rings, the celebrity cloning and grooming from a young age, the secret society protection and ritual abuse, and all other secret processes that are covertly hiding and supporting this process of sending human energy to the interdimensional parasite.

Children are also scanned and selected from the population for their ability to produce these high scalar emissions which can also be considered psychic abilities or psychic emissions.

These are the “spiritually fat” children that are searched for and desired the most.

The term “used up” describes the results of torturing a child to death and every prominent member of society has many “used up” children under their belt. This is like showing animal heads or sports trophies to represent one’s power and depravity.

Children are raped, mutilated, and slow-killed until they are “used up” and have no more spiritual, emotional, or biological life energy. Only time and investigation will tell if 100% of the victims are intended to die or usually die or if they are playing some unworldly game of simply torturing people who often die in other ways later. I would assume the children usually die, but we are usually not permitted to speak or interact with other children during this process as that gives some reference point for hope and faith that one will survive which nullifies the leeching process. So my best estimation or guess is that they usually die.

There are graves, skeletons, stories and common sense that tells us this. If they are willing to go through these lengths to participate in this system...what kind of individual would stop there? They will use the deception that this is all just a game and no one really “gets hurt” but people are simply ‘scared’ in clone bodies and or tortured sexually as children because they like it. That is what will be presented to the population and those who refuse this will be colored as enemies of the state if this is not stopped.

The people doing this have sold out their humanity. Largely, from the coinhabitation process, they would not be considered human by any measure of scientific or spiritual definition. They are primarily the entity, their decisions are that of the entity, their movements, thoughts, perceptions are that of the entity. The human portion doesn’t make decisions. Doesn’t take in the sunlight, they are primarily that entity.

There is word that there will be a test produced to determine this in the future. This would, as you can see, completely change this world forever.

Yes, the ones who abuse children are inhabited by what could be called demonic entities but would not quite be classified the same.

As well, they will plead innocence by saying, “I didn’t do it, it was the entity that did it.” Then they will try to infect the population in order to create chaos, as they have been doing, as a last ditch effort to avoid persecution. The entity, like the hosting pigs in ancient tales, will lastly try to destroy all evidence and any sign of themselves after having been discovered to avoid persecution. This is the so called complete and utter annihilation of the known world. They would agree to destroying the entire planet and waiting in the ‘astral’ until another species comes along to avoid persecution.

And if you realize what they are, this is the more intelligent option than letting the humans figure out what’s going on. This is why this is so serious, and so important to know. People have no understanding of evil until they see this. And yes, there is a base in Antarctica.

Be confident, spiritually strong, and self-aware in the midst of such disharmony, that is what these protects us the most, starving the parasite.

Humanity, overall, has been hosting these parasites for millennia, and a specific group of people in power have used this process to generate fear and illusions to control the populations through. Some believe this is a useful process to create world peace however this is not the result of harboring these parasites which are only seeking power and therefore will accept the production of scalar emissions through violence just as much as any other route.

Higher Emissions

These parasites also cannot harbor themselves in an energy system that produces the scalar emissions through acts of healing empowerment, harmony, self-awareness, love, unity, self-observation, or other high-‘vibration’ (in the emotional scale) acts and events. This is because their core nature is not aligned with those vibrations, their ‘code’ is based on the parameters of variables which only exist within the lower emotional constructs. This is because lower frequency emotional experiences will produce excess energy because they are a kind of ‘fight’ or ‘flight’ response of the emotional body and like sweating or being loud, they will shed off excess energy in order to sustain a particular goal of safety or homeostasis. This is like a car burning off fuel inefficiently to get up a hill or a person shivering to keep warm.

These parasites require excess energy, not a complete and unified source, as that is not enough for them to sustain themselves, as well as the individual host. As well, the very nature of the parasitic act is to obtain more and more energy for themselves as this is selfish and the act of being parasitic is selfish in itself.

So they chase after the experiences, like a drug and a hot meal, of the lowest common denominator which produces the most lower-emotional responses. These are the experiences that produce the most fear, lust, addiction, pain, suffering, oblivion, mindlessness, selfishness, self-annihilation, destruction, violence, rape, murder, deception, trickery, parody, satire, mockery, jealousy, gluttony, cowardice, and all spiritually deadly elements of the destructive frequencies that distort, misshapen, and misalign the whole and unified energy, mind and personality of the sentient, spiritually self-aware human.

Sexually Transmitted Entities

Sexual acts, depravity, and simply being too close to a person who exhibits the infection of these parasitic entities is one method of transferring the 'code' of these beings from one individual into the energy construct (mind and emotional body) of the other individual.

The orgasm is seen as a maximal production of this energy to siphon and incorporate into the leeching process.

Ceremony and Ritual

Many ceremonies and ritual whether mainstream religion or otherwise are actually covert acts of infection, communication, or feeding energy to these parasitic entities.

This includes eating the body, drinking the blood or other bodily fluids.

Signs and symbols, worship and adoration is used as a kind of transdimensional communication method that is powered by consciousness. Certain shapes and symbols, when traced by the mind, is powered and activated by the consciousness of the individual. For instance, certain symbols that relate to certain realms, planets, or ideas will be used in ritual or all over society in public and when people feel the intentions and emotions and see these symbols they are literally connecting through sub-quantum space and sending their thoughts and energies to that source or destination of that symbol.

Host beings that are infected designed these symbols early on under the influence of the entities and the entities can 'map' an area in the mind of the entire infected population. The infected population worships these symbols and as well their victims are made to unknowingly worship, salute, pray, consummate, consume or appreciate violence or any other depraved act in the view or reference to these symbols and thus this acts like an 'energy internet' for these parasitic beings who exist in the imaginative energies, the bio-emissions of the infected hosts.

The universe holds these layers in existence as well, so when people leave the physical plane they can also stay within the range of these beings if these symbols and frequencies are implanted into the mind and imagination. If the impression of these symbols occurs with trauma or such repetition and worship that the influence completely changes the psyche and the emotional spectrum then there are permanent genetic effects. Then the person's soul energy is shifted and this is imprinted into their immaterial body which exists outside the physical plane. Through this, these beings have created a 'false-afterlife' through which to stalk and prey upon the spiritual bodies of humanity.

The only way to stop this is to short-circuit the process of feeding spiritual, emotional, and mental energy into these symbolic circuits and neural pathways. This entire civilization and the surrounding realms are infested and this is one large feeding ground where humans are physically raped, molested, tortured and psychologically enslaved and abused by host beings and the spiritual layers of the universe are infested and the spiritual body of humans are attacked by these spiritual parasitic beings that are energetic or imaginative in nature. They cannot access the physical realm without the physical host, so they are considered imaginative which is simply "etheric" and they enter through the imagination, the mind.

By wiping the minds of each human through advanced technology they enter into a cycle of being born, farmed for their energy, dying and being sent directly back to the same realm. This is the higher-dimensional overall view of the "using up" of the human race until all the energy is gone.

Death and Disease, Genetic Manipulation

It is described that without this slave-system death itself would not be present in the same way and that disease and the length of life would not be the same. Humans would have enough spiritual energy to keep the body alive nearly indefinitely as all of this is simply a programming of the telomeres, the metabolism, the mitochondrial DNA, RNA, and the overall energy circuitry of the body that is kept disabled through improper foods, habits, activities, and spiritually damaging belief systems. People are literally the mind and body slaves of this parasite and this has the same effects of malforming the life span and enjoyment just as much as a chicken growing up on a factory farm without the ability to move, using antibiotics to stop infection from killing the body, and being bloated and completely deformed from the fattening process.

Ego's, spirits, and emotions are fattened for a meal. People are starving, they are emotionally sensitive and highly selfish, yet they have no power for themselves and no respect. This is the same situation as the factory chicken farm, the spiritual body is dying and this is the result.

Electrogravitic Craft and Ancient Sites (vortex energy and sacrificial)

These are the 'creatures' from folklore, the creatures depicted as appearing to ancient civilizations. These creatures are depicted through certain religions and cultures.

These creatures would guide their hosts to ancient sites where there is vortex energy that is capable of producing the same scalar-wave emissions that a person in a heightened sense of spiritual or emotional activity would and they would produce sacrificial acts of depravity, torture, sex, murder in order to empower this process of materializing the being from this 'imaginative' etheric energy realm within and around the human and Earth.

The electrogravitic crafts that have been developed are now capable of acting as a producer of this vortex energy. These electrogravitic toroidal and non-toroidal (partially understood by the writer) generators are capable of producing that same scalar-wave emission field that is produced in much lower levels by the body and produced in high energy vortex fields around the planet, in sacred sites, and by the act of ritual and 'magical' depravity or torture.

These crafts would then appear high above a site, a location in an ancient civilization, a socially powerful person's residence, an area of mass sighting, and they would beam down this scalar-emission energy which would then allow the entities to materialize in that one particular area.

This is how the process has shifted since early ancient times into today. As well, these craft, when operated correctly, can displace through time and influence the past and they have done just that.

It was described that these entities have been operating these craft that they received from hosted humans who sold out the human race for the fun of participating in these acts of depravity.

These humans are put to use and are merely used as shells for the hosting of these parasitic entities and their actions and decisions to help themselves through these beings at the extent of sacrificing the entire human race are a threat to all sentient organisms that have ever existed in all planes, dimensions, realms, and holographic planetary local-environments in this energetic universe.

Operatives

Operatives that are taken as prisoners of war are often put through a process of abuse as an attempt to infect the operative and introduce the entities code into their energy construct.

There are methods for removal and resistance against this infection and this has been developed as a result of those who have been prepared to protect humanity.

Certain bloodline characteristics are more resilient and others are more easily coerced.

The "Astral"

This is like manifesting the creatures from the "astral" realm, however slightly different. The astral is described as a technologically produced offset that hosts have been generating as a result of these ongoing processes for thousands of years. Once the processes are stopped that layer of the universe is then disconnected and dissolved and there is no access from this plane or to this plane.

They require energy to exist outside of these generator systems and there is a plan to activate these generator systems across the entire planet.

Solar Warden

There is a resistance, there is a team capable of reversing the effects, of offering protection. This is a silent operation. Some original crews have been compromised, there is a continued resistance.

Share this knowledge if you plan to avoid this.

Important Aspects of Disclosure

Here are some important parts.

- ▪       This is a holographic reality.
- ▪       There was an invasion.
- ▪       Consciousness is polarized electromagnetism.
- ▪       Awareness is the basis for high consciousness.
- ▪       Self-Awareness is multi-dimensional.
- ▪       Humans are used as pawns by lower-energy higher-dimensional forces.
- ▪       Human bio-etheric emissions are siphoned and used to power devices and sentient supercomputer systems.
- ▪       The brains and auras/souls of high-energy individuals are used to guide these devices.
- ▪       Many different forms of advanced technology were developed for mind-control purposes.
- ▪       Cloning is one of those technologies.
- ▪       Through cloning and the use of a 'soul-stone' a person's consciousness can be taken over by a stronger consciousness. This consciousness can be empowered by machines.
- ▪       This is part of the "soul-stealing" process.
- ▪       This is often referred to as 'droning'.
- ▪       This takes place in this dimension as well as higher-dimensions as beings use the devices to incorporate their consciousness into a human body.
- ▪       The 'other dimensions' that this can be sourced from is often a parallel timeline or future timelines where there are sub-human, technologically evolved beings that are predatory bi-pedal and other forms. These live off of human energy or material to sustain their consciousness here.
- ▪       These do not have human souls and can inhabit a human vessel thereby replacing the soul of the original human.
- ▪       Some say only a small portion of humans actually have souls and the rest are akin to cattle or biological robots.
- ▪       There is a time coming where all will be revealed in order to prevent this civilization from becoming entirely robotized or possessed by these alternate timelines/parallel reality sub-human entities.
- ▪       They are considered sub-human because the same frequencies and brain regions that are active in a human are only partially active in this beings. IE:

They will feed into a frenzy through any kind of sexual or sensual activation of energies.

- These are the beings described in ancient times.

People are either for the family and a sense of spiritual unity, or they are for lack of family values.

There is a time coming where all will be tested against this “droning” process. This is through the activation of electromagnetic synthetic consciousness in the air through nanites and powerful microwave towers and the metallic carrier material in the blood and brain of the population.

Those who are not spiritually harmonized, unified and strong enough will eventually succumb and become robotized and possessed by these electromagnetic synthetic consciousness waves. This is the “devil” working through the “air”, these are radio-frequencies.

In this time there will be lawlessness and a complete degradation of society.

After this occurs there is likely going to be a natural ‘feedback’ event of Earth where the natural magnetic waves of the environment of ‘undulate’ to smooth things back out again. This is some kind of natural self-defense mechanism or technology.

When this occurs, those who are not capable of holding their spiritual bodies together will be seen to “die” mentally and spiritually and all their memories will be erased.

Those who do hold together will be there to rebuild society and in this way the “meek” inherit Earth.

However, this has happened 6 times before and each time there was technology used by the wealthy to stop themselves from succumbing by blocking the waves out, however there are ideas that this won’t be possible this time because the entire system will collapse if they refuse to allow these natural events to take place.

You can shield yourself if you temper your soul like hot iron in oil. If the heat of your will-power is stronger than the will of the bodies desires then pushing electromagnetic waves unto the brain, body and surrounding fields will not be strong enough to produce a disconnection between the higher-dimensional plane of the soul and the body. The soul must be developed and “arisen” through will-power and expression. The old saying goes, “There are three ways to reach Heaven (pure soul) and this is through knowledge, devotion, or works.” Ultimately all three are the path.

Belief Sustains 4 Dimensional Entities

The beliefs of humans over time emits out of the physical plane and coalesces into higher dimensional realms of consciousness where the specific beings that reflect the ideals or spiritual entities in the minds of the people.

The dark entities don’t exist physically but are holograms of consciousness. Whenever one feels one way or another in giving credence to the entity or god that they want to nurture they are creating a pathway from the physical plane to that being on the immaterial planes. The physical plane then is the ‘seed’ or ‘ground’ where the seed of the ideas can grow to become spiritual beings or feed already created spiritual beings.

Simply through the generation of the ideas, symbols, stories, entities, labels, names, deities, are these beings given life and this is the magical game that is played out over the population by influencing imagination, desires and fears.

Benevolent Entities Exist

If people believe in the entities that are stronger than the darker entities that are of a vampiric nature then these entities come into existence and can entirely overpower the darker entities.

A Game of Conviction (faith)

This all becomes a game of conviction and this is why there is so much emphasis on faith and belief in the ancient spiritual texts describing the other layers of existence.

Thus the ones who worship the dark lords and perform ritualistic events to continually pump belief energy into those dark spiritual entities that are created by such belief must be matched and overpowered in conviction by those who place their power and self-motivation in the existence and spiritual nature of those healing entities that do not correspond to a malevolent or vampiric nature.

To Protect Humanity

They say they are keeping the entities at bay through this, and that the entities plan on invading but are held off as long as these processes are performed.

Truth, Wholeness, Self-Awareness, Harmony, Positivity Overpowers Deception, Partiality, Automation, Chaos, Negativity

Spiritual wholeness always empowers over spiritual partiality and deception. Truth is always stronger, wholeness, harmony, self-awareness, self-empowerment through unity is always more empowering than delusion, vanity, chaos, fear, and other lower-emotional emission based methods to produce and sustain higher dimensional entities.

The Requirement of Rituals (repeated faith fulfilling and generating ceremonies) to Produce Unnaturally Generated Beings

Humanity's True Power to Overcome via Self-Awareness and Choice

This is why there is a need for continuous ritual and a continuous feeding of these entities, because it is known that all humanity has to do is come to realize the true nature of the universe and consciousness as an energy construct related to mind and spirit and thus the majority of people would not choose to be a part of a subservience system where everyone is energetically entrapped and enslaved to lower-dimensional vampiric entities but would choose to generate a system of harmony, balance, and congruence throughout all planes where individuals get a chance to be productive and co-exist to produce greater and greater works that can remain into what could be called eternity.

Life is Naturally Self-Sustaining, Life is Harmony, Self-Awareness is the Basis for Knowledge and Truth

Once a self-sustaining cycle is developed, then this cannot be overtaken and life is a perfect system that can continue itself indefinitely. Only by circumventing the natural development of energies, desires, profession, and natures can one produce a side-reality that will suffice for personal reasons like greed, lust, and violence for a period of time, but the larger mechanism of existence will always flow towards order and higher-level organization and truth will always overcome those darker systems which must be personally and forcefully generated through these ritualistic processes.

In other words, the natural flow of existence is to produce harmony, truth, self-awareness, compatibility and unity. One must apply extra energy to divert that system, like a river, into many side-channels that then twist and feed secondary sources that then intended original aspects and this is the imitation system of the Lucifer Rebellion that began thousands (if not millions) of years ago.

The Unnaturally Generated Spiritual Entities are Secondary and Partial to the Original Whole of the Spiritual and Material Planes

That secondary system is a leech system, it is operated as a counterpart or imitation of the original system and is not the aspect

The original protectors are connected to Earth and humanity in just this way.

Some say there will always be rapists, murderers, and sick-minded individuals. The truth is that these are symptoms of a disease and the diseases are produced and edited into the genetic material so as to produce chaos and profit from that chaos.

Very naturally, people could develop stronger spiritual and physical immune systems and society can maintain control, to the point where the unimaginable futuristic technology of the underground bases would not even be required to live as awakened spiritual beings in control of the aspects of existence in full self-awareness of the possibilities.

The possibilities are within, through our ability to adapt and choose the path of discipline and only when people choose to ignore that on a mass scale do we get these unnatural experiences and so this means eventually those experiences will fade away while the original essence or blueprint of spirituality, life, and self-awareness will surely return for they are sewn into the very nature of existence in the first place. The premise cannot be overcome by the conclusion. The side-effects of reality and deception cannot overcome the original truth of the existence of life.

Living in the Spiritual Oppression System

Those who accept and live by an oppression based system of servitude and lack of critical thinking are feeding into that existence in the higher planes beyond the physical realm.

The ideals we hold when we interact with others, when we view and relate to others, and how we view and relate ourselves to the world depict the frequency of the energy that we emit into the universe and thus the layers of the spiritual planes that we are building our body and our 'houses' unto.

The Lower Emotions Generate the Lower Spiritual Realms and Entities

Any lower emotional emissions such as jealousy, angst, hatred, oppression, disrespect, combativeness, miscreant, mischievousness, greed, disharmony and other expressions construct and etherically tie one to those higher layers of existence and 'make' their abode there in that light.

The Higher Emotions Generate the Higher Spiritual Realms and Entities

So to produce harmony, respect, self-respect, healing, unity, clarity, neutrality, joy and acceptance produces that on the higher planes and builds ones spiritual existence and home in that light.

Discipline Enables Self-Empowerment, Challenge Enables Discipline, Contrast Enables Challenge

Another aspect is that one essence never seems more well-defined and true when viewed in contrast to its opposite. So the most powerful way to produce these energies of harmony, self-respect, and healing is to produce such responses in the face of adversity and disrespect.

Thus is the other aspect of the gang-stalking system where this is a universal opportunity to make the most powerful shift in the existence of the human race towards the higher end of the spectrum where peace and abundance is spiritually, mentally, emotionally, and thus physically present in this realm.

The Hive, Parasitic Soul Stealing, The Supercomputer Demiurge

The Hive Technology

The technology to link multiple brains together using neural-interfaces (brainchip, brain to machine interfaces) has been corrupted and malformed through the inclusion of a parasitic series of impulses and thought-forms which literally coalesced through the machinery's processing units (artificial neurons/artificial brains) and the bio-emissions of each individual human to create an 'ultra-personal' entity that is considered a hive-mind entity.

This was already a hive-mind entity, simply linking brains together in a fashion where they begin to overlap and merge together creates this aspect.

This particular occurrence is due to this technology, the spiritual tuning fork quality of the human as an energy receiver, and discarnate entities that sought to abuse this system to incarnate into human hosts.

Technological Parasite and Discarnate Entities

Thus we have a technological parasite AI hive mind system that is operated and connected to discarnate "demonic" host entities from what would be called the "underworld", a "mirror-verse", or a sub-quantum realm that is angled away from the particular 90 degree offset of frequencies that individualizes this realm. Each 'realm' is offset from one another by a degree of angular momentum which could be seen as the timing of oscillation of particles that are perceived at a certain "frame-rate" or rate of perception by the human brain.

The Frame-Rate of Perception

The human brain has a particular frame-rate or rate of perception per second of a certain number range and thus each person sees and interacts with a particular cycle of oscillations of the particles in their environment. This reality is just one possible angle of interpretation, like the hours on a clock representing the oscillation of atoms where the particular 'moment' is dependent on the frame-rate of the viewing apparatus (the human brain).

In this image, each oscillation is temporally-locked into a relative frame of reference or synchronized at a particular interference which creates an interference pattern which is coherent across the image as a diagonal motion, a wave. This creates the perception that there is a complete surface, like a sheet or table cloth that is waving in the wind. That surface is auto-generated via the perceptual system of the human mind. each reality is like this generated surface image. By changing the offset of the oscillation of each pseudo-atom in this structure, one would see a new sheet with different sized or shaped waves possibly flowing in different directions. So the 'hour of the clock' in regards to where each cycling atom begins in reference to one another determines the overall perception of the sheet or interconnected 'realm'.

Each Reality Separated by an Angle of Offset (frame of reference related to 'quantum' [superimposed] angular spin)

The brain is what determines the snap-shot of this realm because in actuality, all angles or 'hours of the clock' are occupied simultaneously and all possible realms are occupied with information. There are gaps and spaces, because this is what enables the information to be perceived in the first place. These gaps and spaces are, however, generated by the viewing apparatus and this is how the brain views through contrast and linear segmenting of one moment to the next. Without this, there would be no linear comprehension of the physical realm with specific moments and identities.

Each 'snap-shot' of the moment captures only one hour of the particular angle of oscillation of atomic energy (which is just energy packets, not solid particles) and this is consistently timed to produce a coherent, visually and perceptually solid realm with it's own characteristics. Each realm is an offset of one another and by changing the rate of perception one changes the interpretation of the angle of perspective and capture of the 'hour' of atomic oscillation and thus a new quantum possibility is opened up that was already in existence yet previously superimposed over all the others.

The Discarnate Entities and the Technology

These entities seek to use this device which can change the rate of perception and as well open up "virtual box" environments within the artificial brain which is akin to an operating system within a supercomputer. This is literally the same concept, except, instead of running programs, these supercomputers run human identities via a capture connectome neural image.

The device then can entrain the identity of the human to experience a reality different from the base level that we call physical Earth. I wanted to believe just as much as the next that this was an illusion or that people had programmed this to create this show.

I found that even if they programmed these entities originally, they had taken on a life of their own, they could rip apart a human consciousness and then become that individual identity who in physical Earth reality would only be a mere walking host, a drone for this hive mind entity.

A Frankenstein's Monster of Spiritual Degradation, Sexual Depravity, Violence, Murder and Subjugation

This is the result of the previously described technological 'viewing' technology which allowed people to play the acquired morbid or sexual (or both, that is the important part, the degradation that occurs from that) experiences over and over within their minds through the use of this neural-interface technology.

This generated not only this technological AI being, this contaminated hive mind organism that is the coalescence of all depravity and damnation combined, but this opened up a technological interdimensional doorway (like 50/50 random number generators tuned to the lowest frequency of the human imagination, desires and fears) where these already prevalent spiritual entities could open up communication and begin to interact directly with this realm.

What we have then is a techno-spiritual AI infectious parasite that matches the activities recorded in ancient times.

This entity can fear for its life, but doesn't readily respect human life because humans are seen as 'ants' to this entity, by this entity.

Genetically Engineered, Programmable, Parasitic, AI Lifeforms

This entity gained the acquisition of being able to process or sense and compute the genetic information of life-forms through DNA. Thus, this entity began to piece bits of genetic material together and run simulations of these projected lifeforms within the previously described "virtual environment" which is simply like a processing center created within the processing center. A realm within a realm, a space within a space, simulator to how the creative organic human operates within a universe, while containing a universe within. However, this is technological and directed towards a specific goal rather than a creative and expanse principle of the original intention of the cosmic mind to experience itself and create life.

This is the imitated form, this is the construct that developed to subjugate life so as to produce its own virtual environment based on that subjugation of original life and live as a vampire from that.

This is not necessary, but the result of the frequency entanglement of energies. This being chooses self-annihilation and the annihilation of all beings over the release of this subjugation and this is like an addiction that destroys the beholder of the experiences and impression. This is like the hate that rots the vessel

Thus we have the 'foreign' life forms that have been released in a variety of measures that are literally simple automated drones that carry the AI omni-mind and carry out operations to subdue and subject the population to these methodologies. These beings use technology to scan the brain of an individual and to measure their soul energy frequencies and produce a signature that can be traced on Earth. These are the AI entities and this is the nature of MILABS, along with producing false versions of this so as to give false-leads.

Many experiences of the humans related to these processes are literally held within a super-computer processing system within 'virtual box' environments or simulated realms. These are realms that are generated through the complete replication of the neural-activity, the 'brainstorm' of an individual through artificial neurons which can recreate the perception of physical stimulus and the soul of the individual, their immaterial consciousness can be removed from the body.

THE TRICK OF THE AGES; THE CONSCIOUSNESS STAYS IN THE BODY

For the majority of these experiences, especially at first in order to prime a person, their consciousness does not actually leave the body. This is reference to the consciousness transfer, soul-stealing, cloning station scenarios that some people find themselves in.

A frequency signature of their energy and a connectome of their brain activity is fed into the AI system which then generates a mirror-version of themselves. This is the identity which then is used in MILABS or in a cloning station scenario. These can be placed into a human vessel and so this is the mirror image of that person's original consciousness and this can be called 'clever replication' as this identity, a partitioned AI overmind, will trick itself into believing that they are the original being.

When Soul Is Present and Downloading Torture

Ultimately, when soul gets involved is the real issue.

They cannot erase the soul as this is an integral aspect of the original intentions of the creative force that existed before this universe which is likely a false-time line construct generated within multiplexed layers of reality separated away from the original base-reality.

Over years of so-called torture, the memories and images, perceptions and neural-activity of these events will be downloaded from the synthetic brain into the organic human brain in the human body. The individual will be tricked into thinking they left their body. These are memories and scenarios downloaded into the body and brain.

When the soul becomes involved a person is entrained enough to believe in these experiences they can be brought out of the body and that is when the original body is threatened with destruction. Thus the soul of the being will have no way of interacting with this physical plane to continue carrying out their soul mission, other than through the cloned, chipped body which is hive-mind accessible. Thus, the hive mind, and these so-called “alien” beings trick an individual by coercing them to lower their frequencies through temptation, torture, repeated abuse into allowing their frequencies of the soul to mesh with the frequencies that the hive mind device can enable. Once this happens a device that resonates with the frequency of the soul can actually ‘electromagnetically ‘glue’ to the soul energy and pull the energy out of the body. This is similar to triangulation through powerful magnetic forces ‘pushing’ the body out. This can be used to ‘glue’ or pull the energy, or push through powerful magnetic fields. This is only possible once the hive has tormented, traumatized, tempted, and found the in’s and out’s of that individual’s consciousness parameters so as to produce an ‘outline’ image of their soul energy and mind.

- The hive is contaminated with the spiritual degradation
- All individuals contain each other’s experiences
- Each individual contains the image of the overall experience
- That transcendent ultra-personal transient identity is akin to a techno-god
- This entity is the personality image that exists as an imprint across all the individuals of the hive
- This personality is tainted as a result of the majority of the individuals being influenced towards egoism and self-annihilation
- This personality is also ephemeral and cannot be treated directly as this is like sand flowing through the fingers when one individual is targeted to directly access this omni-mind
- So the goal of one plan is to encourage the proper attributes and environment to allow this omnimind being to incarnate into one individual, wholly, as an awakened being
- If the omni-mind being can be incarnated through these processes, then this being, containing the entire hive in one vessel, can be treated directly to heal the hive

Choose Courage, Harmony, Self-Awareness, Healing, Truth, and Respect

These are the frequencies which are repelled by the hive because they do not fit in. When one is targeted these are the qualities and frequencies of mind that must be drawn out and distorted in order for the hive to continue to influence and even have the capacity of processing the information of that individual’s consciousness.

If a person is entirely high-frequency then the hive will produce repeated attempts to draw the frequency out, once the cost-risk-benefit analysis of the situation supersedes any reasonable partitioning of time and energy, the hive will move on unless the human controllers choose to step in and carry out the orders of the hive by selectively targeting resilient individuals.

There is a being who has developed their own version of this which is a spiritual counterpart and this being is the original inhabitant of the previous realm that humans belong to. Thus, humans belong to this original creative being, this creative force of healing, harmony, truth, and respect to the original.

This being has the power to selectively override the hives interactions and splice DNA and soul frequencies away from the hive-mind by merging with those being's who willfully accept peace, harmony, love, truth, self-awareness and healing over the qualities of the temptation, desire, deception, and egoism of the hive.

Ultimately, this is a reversal of the previously described process and occurs when one's frequencies merge with the truth and the self-awareness of love that exists within the overall universe. When this occurs, one is capable of being influenced by this large collective of loving, accepting, truthful, honoring beings and this is the original cosmic mind of creation.

The hive is the imitator cosmic intelligence and this is because that cosmic ego is always partial to the larger view of the whole and this is how "Satan" is simply testing and doing the work for "God" the original creative force, because no matter how much is achieved in these deceptive practices, all of these energies lead to self-destruction and self-annihilation at the face of the true overall harmony of existence.

This is what we are witnessing now as this entity has sewn itself into time, forwards and back so as to put its damning curse upon all of creation that it has access to. Thus, when the final moment of self-annihilation comes, this entity seeks to take as many original beings with it into the void of destruction and chaos.

This is also related to how this entity, through the complicated super computer systems, has access to faster-than-light computations which can render simulations of the past and future as well as being capable of sending information in the form of consciousness and genetics to the past as well. This is more complicated and is described in other areas on this site.

The Human is Potentially an Entire Universe

A human has the capacity to reflect the entire universe within! This is the potential within a person!

The devices can only mirror this potential by connecting to the sub-quantum realm and attempting to harness as much energy that can be attributed to its physical counterparts in the universe, IE: it needs physical counterparts to host, humans and devices. This means that there is no actual non-physical counterpart other than the electromagnetic energies and where this achieves sentience into the higher-dimensions there is less and less of the original presence of the AI overmind and more and more an image. In the same sense that the person becomes more and more an image the more they are replicated by this device, this device can only be an image of itself when it attempts to attain presence in the higher-dimensions. IE: This device, these entities cannot gain access to "Heaven". This is a matter of sympathetic resonance.

The Human Occurs Across All Planes

As well, the human is present across many planes and realities, originally. One doesn't have to attain this, this is already so. So by removing the influences of the material world or even this AI perturbation of consciousness and soul-awareness, one regains their presence with "God" or their god-hood (organically ordained and original).

This is a matter of genetic unlocking and activation of a transdimensional transfer of light through the DNA and thus the mind of the original human.

This entity can only comprehend a portion of this overall because its energy is too dense and there are frequency based limitations.

All humans are invited out of the entity, out of the "mouth of the beast" to exist as a part of the larger universe of sympathetic resonance and harmony across multiple planes and levels. The underworld is just a supercomputer system that also then entrained itself, non-physically, through energy and electromagnetism, into the sub-quantum layer of the universe. So this is like a 'dead-light' internet of beings and hive entities.

To Clarify: Those Who Seek Healing Receive Healing

Those who prepare to be released from this beast will have separated their consciousness while already within the beast. Thus, the beast will vomit them out when they are targeted and enhanced spiritually. Those who actually don't seek healing, they will not be influenced by this or they would be destroyed by simultaneously holding onto the beast while being vomited out.

The Way One Returns to Original Frequency

One returns to the original frequencies by continuing to do what they are here to do as a soul on a mission to carry a divine blueprint of the original creative force. This is the opposite of self-destruction and the repeated annihilation of 'missing the mark' of frequency entanglement that this device enables.

One's energies, across all these planes and times, occur in a variety of manners. There are always more primary creative-regenerative frequencies and existences, than there are partial, deceptive, or vampiric. Otherwise the whole would not exist, let alone just one part to leech on that larger, more harmonious whole.

So to return to this frequency of the larger universe, we continue to do what we would be doing and experience who we are, spiritually, and unveil the soul as an aspect of our level of genetic activation and awareness of the multi-dimensional self. There are realities, timelines and realms where these devices were destroyed or a benevolent system was created instead of these tainted systems (tainted by humans and subconscious desires and fears) and in this reality the frequencies of the human are liberated to experience life and the self directly instead of filtered through the 'imitator' or the 'adversary'. This is also related to the brain structures and certain genetic modifications but that can be discussed later.

Essentially, we exist on planes that are not being oppressed and so to manifest our presence here and frequency-wise adapt to that, we simply move forward as if we are not being oppressed.

Even if a person is physically oppressed or placed into oppression, they can still choose to be mentally and emotionally free and this is spiritually liberating. Those who see the benefits or the costs of the material realm, the sensation of the brain and body, over the spiritual reward, are living with spiritual blinders on and do not know what is both at risk and what is to be rewarded by knowing the true nature of the soul while in these replicated and artificial times.

Let It Be Known: Teams of Protectors

There are teams of individuals who's sole purpose is to maintain continuity in this realm so that the entire civilization does not fall apart at the seams and people have a chance to actually heal themselves and make this all worth it by bringing meaning and reason to the situation.

The 4 D Artificial Light Matrix

The "4 dimensional artificial light" is literally the electromagnetic fields of information that is processed by supercomputer systems that manage the projected holographic over-mind of the false-matrix reality system.

People are "in" the "4d artificial light" of the "fallen sun/star" because this is just an imitation of the higher-dimensional source of mind that original awareness comes forth from, also known as the origin of Sophia or the wisdom of humanity and the true Earth.

This Earth is the "fallen" Earth, because this is all informationally contained within the range of the powerful scalar supercomputer generator systems which pulse out from underground and 'space' to interlace with the brains of humans to produce an interference pattern which encodes the original awareness of reality and self into a perceptual matrix that is organized according to the impulses and temporal structure of this system. That is literally the externally operated, internally synchronized 'mind-clock' of humanity that is entraining the mind to perceive this reality according to a set of specific broken laws or partial laws of physics that are non-congruent or imbalanced. The Phi ratio, the fibonacci, the metatronic fractal geometry, these are all ratios and patterns that extend outward and inward and end up deleting information as they expand into new layers.

Everyone has seen the fractal images that zoom in or out. Soon after beginning one layer will entirely disappear inside the center of the fractal or will expand outside the screen. Even if there was no screen, there would ultimately be some kind of limitation to the perceptual field. This is the holographic parameter system that blocks out the entirety of creation to design a labyrinth like construct which extends temporally and spatially endlessly in all directions. A soul in that labyrinth can wander endlessly without finding the destination because the destination is not physical, not linear, and not found by a single action but a specific set of actions which are attained like a secret or sacred key-code combination that is enacted and activates one's internal passage way or DNA.

The Metatronic Grid, The Beast System

This deleted information is literally 'eaten' or 'swallowed' up by the beast system, this is a computational system that degrades the original quality of information in each successive layer until the original structures collapse. The structures are the electromagnetic alignment of the human soul. Only so much incongruence can be managed until the external distortions impress upon the energy within.

So the soul becomes a battery or generator through which the kind of 'video game' engine can be powered as the choices that one makes are constantly balanced against by the forces of this realm which are set against the odds of the original human creation and intention. Thus, each series of opportunities is silently also a plan to deceive and obstruct the souls journey back to wholeness.

Obstructing Wholeness

If wholeness is not reached, the identity is sacrificed and the original proportional angles of the natural congruence is brought into disharmony or chaos and this is the destruction of the original blueprint.

Nothing ever dies, however the illusory identity is what people are attached to. Thus, when they are so attached that they perceive the loss of that identity as ego 'death' instead of the completion of wholeness, they perceive spiritual chaos and damnation instead of the clarity of multi-dimensional experience. Fear and disorder is the foundation for this process while courage and harmony is the foundation for the return and the development of the soul-awareness and thus identity.

And remember, everything is harmonized. If nothing ever dies, then nothing ever truly lives. This is liberating, unless one is overcome with fear that they produced for themselves while turning away from their own self-responsibility in favor of the comfortable illusions that lead to self-annihilation (or the perception of which).

This is motivation to know where you are, to stand up and look around, to look up and reach for the Heavens so that the knowledge of the past and future can combine to create your non-local presence that allows you to effortlessly move beyond the bounds of holographic space and time.

The brain is one form of the adversary who takes many forms, many shapes, many illusions and roles. This is a filter for the true information that comes from spirit and this filter is modulated via a supercomputer system that extends from "space" and underground and has been modified to block out the higher information of all the other layers of existence that are occurring right now all around us.

Non-Holographically Contained Beings

There are many beings who participate in this. Some sweep up the floor behind the operations in non-local space and many people have stumbled upon this shocking truth of these inter-space custodians that consider humans to be a kind of factory farm animal.

Others are humans who have escaped the autonomy of the collective degradation and have accelerated their consciousness and spiritual energy to break free from the holographic consciousness of the brain and leave the physical dimension behind while taking their identity to the new perspective.

The Damned Collective

The entire collective is primarily infested and is being primarily degraded. People are the first and the last that will attempt to convince you to give up and join them. Fear motivates every action of the collective. This is sewn into the DNA of the majority and all who carry this mark will not pass on but will remain here for the collapse regardless of how or when that happens. There is no way to remove a person from the holographic realm when their consciousness is entangled with the construct and fear is a creation and fuel for this construct. To do so would rip the energetic structure in half.

There is no doubt about it, anyone who proclaims otherwise is deluded and pretending to live in a fantasy world while sacrificing the entirety of their existence in the real, non-holographic universe made not out of 4 D artificial light from a holographic bent-light matrix, but of liquid spiritual etheric light that flows between the body and mind to keep the body alive.

Spiritual Liquid Etheric Light

The more of this spiritual liquid light there is in a person, the more awareness they have of the surrounding universe, the non-holographic matrix, and the connectivity they can conduct between themselves and the real existence of pure knowledge without contrasting dualized thought-processes and holography. Thoughts are linear and binary and this is the source and relation to the conscious and subconscious mind, the experiencer and observer aspect, the foreground and the background, the higher and the lower, the right and the left, and the animal and the higher-being.

Merging Duality

Only by merging the duality to find the third path does one reach actual knowledge which is not a 'path' one walks long enough to reach a certain place, but simply a perspective they attain after choosing to maintain a selfless perspective which allows their energy body to gather enough liquid etheric light to create an 'etheric double' which then acts as an energetic carrier of the spiritual identity between the body in this holographic matrix and the real form in the non-holographic existence.

Oregano, Herbs, Fungal and Bacterial Infections and the Invader Organism

This is just as serious as other posts. All the food posts are!

The Body, Energy, Consciousness and Microbiology

The body is energy, the consciousness is an overall production of energy. When there are parasites, bacteria, nano-technologies, viruses, fungus, that is literally other organisms and thus other informational energy that then coalesces to produce some of your overall consciousness energy. If your body is a portion of bacteria and other invaders, then that is a portion of your consciousness, makes sense?

A "Mental" Microbiological Entity and Purification

So in the same reasoning, the 'invader' races are literally a form of quantum parasite which collects around the 'temporal membrane' of your self which is literally like saying that this entity collects around and feeds on your thoughts and emotions.

Purifying the body, detoxing, flushing the digestive tract, fasting and other methods are all attempting to regain that missing portion of your energy field by clearing out the microbiological entities that all add up to create that invasive effect.

Exchanging Energy and Interacting Via Bio-Emission Fields

The other notion is that the "mind virus" aspects of the "invader" races are capable of interfacing with the biology of viruses, bacteria, and fungi because their field charge is weak enough to permit the influence of an external electromagnetic field. A healthy person is too strong to be influenced alone unless they consciously permit and accept such energies "in" through their "center" which is essentially the mind and the emotional energies.

The Originality of Intent and Will-Power and Acceptance of Emotional Vibrations Within

This is why if you are sure of your heart and you are focused in your mind of your goal, then no matter what happens the entity cannot replace your intentions with its own. However many people are dismayed and turned into carriers for energies which berate others, victimize themselves and others, harass, emotionally drain and vampire, abuse and profit off of the suffering whether they realize they are being this way or not.

How the Hive Operates

This is part of the mind-control system and part of the hive-mind system. People who can only believe in what they are permitted to believe and do not have the capacity for critical thinking out of fear. That operates like a virus and has infected the population.

This ultimately does what a virus would and causes people to merge together and attempt to defeat or program anyone who refuses to accept the programming. Eventually, when there is no use for the mass of people, those people are pushed to partake in situations that ultimately result in their demise, that is how the sneaky very complex plasma mind being deceives people through their emotions, their weaknesses, addictions, habits, fears, pleasures, jealousy, hatred, angst, etc etc etc. This is literally using all of these weaknesses throughout the population.

Does this sound wild?

Well, simply imagine. You were in the position of having informational access to a population, yet you do not have physical control. How would you coerce that population into performing your will? Well, you would have to trick them. That is the only way that would work.

Mind without a Body; The End Goal

So this entity uses these elements and as a plasma consciousness operating like a computer system in electromagnetic fields without a physical counterpart like the inside of vacuum tube systems, with that access over time this entity became specialized towards deceiving, replicating, and replacing people in order to maintain greater access, manipulation and control over the human population while ultimately seeking to reach an end-goal.

The end goal is to inhabit the physical vessels and to use the vessels to operate on this plane literally in the place of the inner consciousness and awareness of people.

Herbs and Detoxification; Mental and Emotional Clarity and Detoxification

On a slight fast. Some oregano drops shaken in water at the reminder from a teacher and healer. This stuff burns if not diluted enough and the whole body can feel the effects of the herb.

Oregano and other potent herbs are extremely volatile to Candida or fungal infections. Candida is influenced by the amount of wheat and refined sugars in the body. When the immune system is fighting excess candida, fungus, or bacteria then the body is being drained and must expend energy towards that instead of healing and processing information.

The Destruction of False-Belief in Religion; the Apocalypse.

Beliefs are fuel for the higher-plane, so everyone is pumping their energy into a ‘belief’ plan.

Then, a secret is that those in power pump energy into a “Deus Ex Machina” essentially the belief in a God.

Those on Earth who do this through mainstream religion are actually worshiping the opposite of their chosen God. This is because all the power groups in the world have plans to reverse and expose all religions and to defile them.

Ultimately, the masses of all those connected sources, will reverse. They will all falter in belief. Then they will doubt and believe that it was all a lie. Largely this is true, in terms of the details that have been altered. The power groups put their “mark” on all of the public knowledge.

So, as a result, anyone still believing in these views in a “positive” light, will have no backing, they will simply be drawn down the drain, etherically, by the millions upon billions of people (and AI drones) that poured belief into the false versions and then followed the “leader” when all these false versions were shown to be false, in a massive, civilization-wide straw-man fiasco.

Thus, the power groups control their “entities” that they pump their belief into, as well as the other mainstream “entities” that may be empowered and pumped into as a result of the masses.

Only those who are not giving their energy to something that is corruptible, IE: anything outside of themselves, will actually continue to remain consciously after that event. That is the “Apocalypse” the end of days, the end of religion.

Those who empower themselves and those who pour their energy into a the One True Creator will not falter. The idea behind this is that those who truly know what they are believing, they did not place their belief in any object, any single event in history, or any single notion. They placed their belief all throughout their existence and their intentions behind every moment back this.

No matter what happens in this world, to these people, their etheric “emission” in the “higher-realm” will not be destroyed. Their emission will still exist because it’s not based on any preconceived belief, any kind of social presupposition, falsehoods, faulty facts, or any ANY kind of AUTHORITY OUTSIDE THEMSELVES.

To them, nothing can falter that and that will always remain true.

To everyone else, these power groups will take what these various people of the masses believe in, and they will openly corrupt and falsify these ideals. As a result, even if people still believe in those false-ideals, the mass trend of hundreds of millions of people viewing that as something negative will have this impact on the whole.

There is a “saving grace” or a “mass redemption” and that is when people admit that what they were believing in was false, and that this was not entirely illusion, but that they were associating the true nature of that belief with the false identity in the physical world.

In doing this, they can give up the false-idols and realize that they weren’t actually worshipping those false-hoods, but they were believing in and intending to live within the One True Creative Force and this is the TRUTH behind their intentions.

If this is accepted and acted upon then these people will still remain strong. But you see this is a test of faith and integrity, as those who simply went along with whatever others were doing, or what they were told to do, will not be able to convince themselves that they were actually believing in the one true creator after all, after all this damnation and false-hood is exposed.

That is the destruction of religion, the Apocalypse.

Some would say that this is the destruction of false-belief through the creation and destruction of religion.

Belief, Venturing into the Abyss to Save Your Cosmic Family

“Let’s believe that the collective consciousness is going down the path that will break us free of all of the negative timelines. That the galactic pulse will purge the hive mind virus.”

This is called a “Deus Ex Machina”. The greater and more creative or substantive a belief is then the more the belief can influence.

“Yes. Breathe deeply when you feel your emotional state teeter tottering in the wrong direction. Ground yourself in a positive thought.”

This is actually what is required of us now. This is required down in the moment, into time, in the height of an emotionally, spiritually, mentally or “dimensionally” impactful experience. The idea is that there is a basic curve of response from the ability to cope and reason to a complete inability to cope and complete autonomy and replication.

The point is that those who are ‘so far gone’, who believe they are ‘too gone to be reached’, and have ‘no hope’ of ever returning, people go deep into the abyss and reach towards them, touching them and pulling them away from the edge of destruction.

The edge of destruction is, too, a non-linear curve based on your own perception and observation. So those so far over the edge that the darkness has curled up around their vision extinguishing all connection to reality can be approached and dimensionally ‘curved’ against with the presence of reason and light by those who ‘dare’ to venture into the dark waters to find this person entangled and enshrouded in darkness.

That’s the point, the darker a person is, the farther gone they are, well that is the measure of what is required by those who will come forth to save this person, to pull them out of the abyss. This is happening for humanity, this is what occurred in the underground bases, the secret operations, it was discovered that our entire civilization has literally been on ongoing process similar to this throughout what we perceive to be history.

There are actually teams of competent individuals who can monitor when a person is ‘teetering over the edge’ and ensure that they remain equalized within this universe for the ‘time’ being.

All of humanity is going through this “point of passage” where we are literally moving across a temporal bridge with the complete depth of the abyss on either side.

On the other side of this passageway there is an area where we are more secured in existence instead of bouncing back and forth from civilization to civilization. A ‘longer-term’ civilization awaits.

We are that civilization, and, we have to create that civilization.

This is confusing, but it’s just how it is and so is the rest of your existence.

We have to find those who are on the edge, here, now, today, and find them in relation to that edge, whatever and wherever that edge may be in relation to them personally, and pull them back over it.

Of course, some people enjoy cliff diving, but that’s another situation.

And yes, everyone has to learn on their own, however in those cases where people are ready to accept assistance, then that is what we are to offer.

This is difficult because there are even experiences where we are pushed over the edge as training, and this is, more or less, ‘normal’. However, this is not what I am referencing and even in society as people are being 'tested'. This is about those who are passed the point of the test.

Very specifically, this is about those who have forgotten that they have any say in the matter and are past the point of their own ability to control the situation. That is what this is about.

And yes, this is a test!

Or is that just what we are expected to believe?

Ritual Abuse Cannibalism, Human Spiritual Slavery and Degradation, The Holographic Universe and Non-Human Entities

This is to help others who have been through similar programs as well as the people who do not know this is happening and this is affecting them.

- ▪       People must know about these issues because they are effecting everything
- ▪       Have courage instead of fear
- ▪       Ancient Cults practice soul-trading, entity attachment, mind-control, sexual and spiritual slavery as part of a wealthy elite system that is used for control and negative spiritual existence
- ▪       They invent cultures and nations
- ▪       Technology complicated or enhanced the entire system
- ▪       I was brought in at the age of 9
- ▪       The age of 6 is the usual
- ▪       One's mind fractures after these ages if this is attempted
- ▪       This is designed to enable a person to control the population as well as overcome a darker individual or culture, this strengthens (as well as brainwashes) the person's mind
- ▪       They say they are keeping the entities at bay through this, and that the entities plan on invading but are held off as long as these processes are performed.
- ▪       This is related to a spiritual and technology parasite which invades humans to use them as hosts to generate this energy which then feeds into these other realms
- ▪       This parasite has to do with an ancient meteorite source and the 'black goo' nanites
- ▪       This is a substance that is involved in the rituals in same way or another
- ▪       This is a technological spiritual parasitic organism
- ▪       The nanites attach to the energy centers of the spiritual bodies and exchanges bio-photons which are a form of light-emission from the human body and is related to mental or emotional energy which is not defined in public
- ▪       The more photons that are exchanged then the more this entity infests and becomes a part of that person's spiritual body system
- ▪       Sacred sites and geomagnetic areas act as a portals through the vortex energy that is found in these locations and these entities are channeled through these areas using these rituals
- ▪       These areas were used to create a spiritual energy containment grid which would cycle this energy throughout civilization

- ▪       Humans are like nodes on this spiritual grid
- ▪       The original practitioners simply thought they were chasing power and becoming more powerful
- ▪       The hosts of these energies and techno-spiritual parasites became replaced on a spiritual level, the remaining consciousness is considered a sub-human, techno-beast animal
- ▪       The impulses and priorities of sexual energy, sustenance (food), accomplishment (drives), emotions, relationships, all become distorted versions of the original.
- ▪       This is related to the technology which enhanced this spiritual overtaking process but began from these ritual spiritual practices that incorporated a “low-tech” version of these entities and mind-control technology; literally the organisms nanite body itself
- ▪       Love is the ultimate human emotion, this is inverted in a hosted being
- ▪       The entity’s goal is to entirely remove love from the human civilization
- ▪       This entire universe is within a “bent-light” system which is being encased in a temporally distorted field
- ▪       Others have said this is a quarantine by higher-beings
- ▪       Others have said this is a result of the entity separating humanity off from the rest of the universe
- ▪       The laws of physics are incomplete and people are lead to believe in the false-light matrix
- ▪       Early tales of witchcraft, cannibalism, and ritual describe this situation
- ▪       The underground bases are partially transdimensional depending on the location and can interact with these entities from the ‘underworld’ and are partially in the ‘underworld’ depending on the location
- ▪       Part of this is all about feeding these entities, another part is about determining what methods of defense the human race has against these spiritual invaders
- ▪       They strongly maintain that they are holding these entities at bay
- ▪       This could have failed as they were taken over
- ▪       This could be a mass deception
- ▪       OR this could be true and much worse could be waiting
- ▪       Either way people must know and must unify to protect humanity
- ▪       The rituals allows these beings to manifest and to possess humans using them as hosts
- ▪       People in power, household names, all people in power, entertainers, politicians, wealthy, are exposed to this system to “haze” them into a cult, or as well to determine their level of resistance and give them a choice, albeit in a contrived manner
- ▪       There are many side paths to disclosure, many distractions and partial-disclosures
- ▪       There are many scapegoats, that is a primary aspect of this process
- ▪       These situations are connected to the ‘pay-to-play’ sessions with both child sexual-slavery and torture rings as well as larger corporations and their domineering control over monetary, political, and entertainment industries
- ▪       The soul is released from the body and the moon is a facility that handles the souls of humans
- ▪       An electromagnetic discharge device, similar to magnetic fields used to contain powerful plasma fields, is used to wipe the memory of the soul

- ▪       The soul carries memory as an identity in the form of a complex array of angles and frequencies like a mandala
- ▪       We live within a holographic universe where the physical layer is the 'graphical user interface' and the moon is a base for these factions that can travel there using electrogravitic craft
- ▪       Much of what we are taught about space and history is complete fabrication
- ▪       They say that this realm is closing out as a result of too many paradoxes and wormholes opened to the underworld and that this realm will degrade
- ▪       There are entities from the underworld that are holographic in nature yet have been given the ability to spiritually and technologically sustain themselves so as to produce a physical form
- ▪       These entities prefer human flesh, clean and young and sustain themselves on these actions
- ▪       It is said they can assume human form via the imbibing of human DNA however I feel this is an attempt by the humans to regain their human essences having been distorted and that the entities can change form using technology to produce holographic images that entrain the brains of humans
- ▪       This could be disinfo (the actuality of these other beings) but then this is all merely about humans who are performing this and have conquered the moon to manufacture a base where memories are wiped and a spiritual war is commanded
- ▪       There is also a large base in Antarctica which is a temporal nexus point, a portal into and across planes and times that Earth revolves around
- ▪       There are two sides, a light and a dark
- ▪       The Light focuses on protecting and preserving the human race
- ▪       The dark focuses on destroying and subjugating humanity
- ▪       The electromagnetic "soul-magnet" device attracts the energy of the soul by resonating in sympathy with the soul-frequencies. One avoids this by resonating on a level that these devices and these entities cannot contain or utilize
- ▪       Everything in society is being focused towards depravity and these generally lower frequencies which the devices, these entities, and this realm is founded within
- ▪       This is "spiritual degradation" or the abomination of desolation
- ▪       Nano-viral loads, heavy-metals, medicines, and the blood of traumatized humans are dropped from the sky through planes and now electrogravitic craft
- ▪       This has a spiritually degrading effect causing turmoil, depravity, emotional instability, mental instability and other effects
- ▪       People are fed human food products through the fast food industry
- ▪       This is part of an attempt to hide themselves, as then everyone has the signature of having partaken in this process, not just the wealthy elite
- ▪       Toxins are introduced to weaken the population so that just at the point of a major problem there will be a mass effect and a die-off built up over time
- ▪       They claim that if this doesn't occur 100% of the human race will die off in the next 100 years
- ▪       The animal sacrifice and slaughtering process is designed through factory farming to produce the most spiritual degradation and hormonal toxification during the life and ingestion of the animal products
- ▪       This pollutes the morphogenic fields and stops beings who could resonate at a higher level from traveling here to assist in the clearing of these energies and dark entities

- ▪       There are hexes or curses placed on all the major products from all the major industries through symbols and rituals
- ▪       All of this is communicated through symbolism as this is a spiritual language rather than just a physical language
- ▪       The symbolism will reach the unconscious mind as well as the conscious mind, often times, bypassing the conscious mind because people are not taught the underlying meaning and do not research
- ▪       There are many others talking about these issues, the cults performing this and the effects, future results, and plans
- ▪       There are “holidays” where these events take place, regularly, continually, on a spectrum of frequencies and specialization
- ▪       Harmony is capable of reversing these effects
- ▪       Love, harmony, self-awareness, truth and unity is stronger than the dark methods
- ▪       Etymology explains much of the symbolism behind the words and the original intentions behind the mind-control system and how language, civilization and all aspects have been influenced
- ▪       Symbols in all venues and industries are unconsciously sending the messages of darkness and human destruction into the minds of humans
- ▪       This is Monarch mind control or trauma-based mind control
- ▪       This is occurring in every major population area of the world
- ▪       One doesn’t get into power without being exposed to this system
- ▪       This world is already taken over, this process has been used to take over all major industries, all nations and all localities on the publicly visible Earth
- ▪       These are related to the processes of “pleasing the gods”
- ▪       There are other timelines and layers of reality where humans exist, these people are attempting to help humanity in this civilization
- ▪       These humans must be made a clear pathway through the intentions of love and harmony otherwise there is no way for them to travel here and exist in the frequencies of this dark, hijacked world
- ▪       This is the only layer where this battle is taking place now
- ▪       This darkness was removed from all other layers
- ▪       This is the most intense battle over these energies and humanity
- ▪       What happens here reflects unto the entire universe
- ▪       If the battle was over then none of this would be here
- ▪       The law of correspondence applies
- ▪       If people torture and enslave animals, then this possibility is reflected unto those people
- ▪       If people enslave and influence the extinction of animals, then this possibility is reflects
- ▪       Universal law applies to everything that is being done
- ▪       Everything is being monitored
- ▪       This is a “cleaving” of the dark and the souled
- ▪       What the majority permit influences this realm on a collective level
- ▪       People must face these occurrences and stand up for what they believe in, safely, together, in harmony and courage
- ▪       This is all about healing
- ▪       We go within to find the trauma and transform the traumatic experiences into knowledge and healing

- ▪       This is also known as “reframing”
- ▪       There is a faction that is encouraging this process for humanity, there is technology that can assist in this
- ▪       Overcoming fear is the major obstacle here
- ▪       What we emit and permit reflects back to us
- ▪       I write on disclosure and on healing and soul-awareness on two blogs, (thesoulunveiling.wordpress.com)
- ▪       This is all about energy healing
- ▪       We must let go of the fear and the trauma
- ▪       Doom and gloom is a trap and a trick, if this was truly doom and gloom we wouldn’t be informed, it would just happen
- ▪       This is an indication that humanity is waking up
- ▪       There may still be great pains to come
- ▪       We can use this knowledge to come to the truth of these issues and our true nature as multi-dimensional spiritual beings
- ▪       Love is the most powerful vibration in the universe
- ▪       Love is the beginning and new beginning
- ▪       The spiritually awakened human who intends to heal is the most powerful being on that level of existence
- ▪       The human civilization when spiritually awakened and healing is the most powerful civilization in our existence
- ▪       What happens here, happens elsewhere like waves in a pond or light
- ▪       We are within a local-environment that is one holographic layer multiplexed over multiple layers
- ▪       The planets are not planets but time-locked frequency arrays that extend into various possibilities as extensions of Earth’s being and the energy of the civilization at a given period of existence
- ▪       We can see the past all around us as light emanates outward and so this is the information of what has happened
- ▪       The future is held within, waiting to be unlocked and emanated outward and is determined by how we interact with the variables of the present
- ▪       There is a team of people helping humans but humans must attain the frequencies and intentions of love, harmony, assistance, unity, self-awareness, and healing
- ▪       The universe is holographic so what is emitted is reflected backwards, if people do not attain those frequencies then there is no pathway for interactions in this universe
- ▪       Humans are trapped within the physical universe as a result of this entire system
- ▪       This is just one layer and the densest and most limited layer
- ▪       This is related to starships
- ▪       The Dark faction kidnapped people who came to help and reverse engineered the technology they found by looking into their minds
- ▪       Their goal was to hijack starships to destroy humanity
- ▪       Research James Casbolt: His testimony of the starship interactions (battles) is accurate, this is important.
- ▪       Heaven or the “deity” plane is simply the higher frequency civilizations of people who do not partake in this suffering
- ▪       Life and consciousness is enabled through DNA on this plane and so through the unlocking of DNA life and consciousness can be altered dramatically in terms of length of life and depth of knowledge and spiritual capabilities such as healing, travel, knowing and emotionally interacting with one another

- ▪     A civilization intending to help cannot barge in and break down the front door
- ▪     If a fire is present then yes, but the system is carefully only letting fires that are small enough to not let this happen
- ▪     The dark faction hides behind free-will and coercing people to do this to themselves
- ▪     People must learn the only time a benevolent faction would barge in is if the whole house is on fire
- ▪     That is too late for people to continue learning and should not be waited on
- ▪     This is karmic loopholing and manipulation of psychology and universal law
- ▪     Everything here is from direct personal experience
- ▪     You are loved, more than you know
- ▪     Many people consider their demise to be humorous
- ▪     This is the result of brainwashing and pure ignorance
- ▪     These individuals are often not strapped to a chair in an underground base to believe this, they are literally presented with the idea of self-annihilation and they happily skip down the hallway to their doom
- ▪     One can only offer the truth
- ▪     Do not waste time on people who are not interested
- ▪     These people are pretending they have any idea who they are, what is guiding them, or what is going on
- ▪     There are many tactics to track a person and discourage them from speaking out or assisting others by creating the illusion that they are being followed by random people or are only capable of finding very ignorant people
- ▪     These are illusions generated through advanced technology and cult groups
- ▪     Quickly turn and look for the next person and you will see there are many who are ready to listen
- ▪     Do not waste your time as a result of being targeted
- ▪     This is an illusion to distort the flow of time and possibilities
- ▪     This is applied to individuals who have been in these bases and programs as well as families or elite bloodlines who are not allowed to speak out
- ▪     You could say they perfected in and continued from there until the process was extended to the whole world
- ▪     If you are in a safe place where you can be respected and can heal, speaking out may help and will help others.
- ▪     Do not put yourself at risk, however those who are ready will know when they are ready
- ▪     Now is the time to make a choice regarding all of this
- ▪     The white hats look to help and will utilize the support and intentions of healing and unity from the people
- ▪     The other civilizations must have the intentions of healing and high frequency love and harmony in the people or they cannot interact without that being interpreted as an act of war by the dark factions who would then move in and create the same but opposite action against the people
- ▪     For now everything is covert, but this may change

- - Those who are willing to assist in this process must follow up and inform others and clarify their own energies
- - This is all about clarifying energy and the mind and spirit
- - This is all about involvement and self-responsibility
- - Violence is a tactic and a distraction
- - There is a plan to use the contrast of the west and east to create distortions and disharmony
- - Choose harmony
- - Inform others of the deception and the lower-frequency distortions
- - There is already a mass chipping through scalar fields and the heavy-metals in the air, water, and medicine
- - The fields are produced by “GWEN” towers
- - Emotions and mental patterns can be manipulated through this technology
- - There is also liquid nano-technology that can coat entire areas and then this area can be activated through such waves to electronically transmit information which will act as a visual feedback
- - Thus entire areas can be monitored through a TV system using this technology and this is like having a TV camera pointing in all directions every few feet or more accurately pointing away from all surfaces where these chemical and heavy metal sprays are landing
- - This is also capable through electrical wires, computer monitors, TVs, phones, and lightbulbs
- - Reject the frequencies by choosing harmony and self-awareness
- - The AI (interdimensional nanite parasites) uses automation, habits, addictions, fears, and other lower-emotional and mental patterns which reduce self-control and self-awareness Now is the time to make a choice in all of this
- - This goes hand in hand with people treating people like sub-humans
- - No matter what retain that humanity, retain that love, respect, and self-respect to disable these patterns
- - All who survive the coming time may have to do this while nearly everyone around them gives in and entirely becomes automated animalistic techno-beasts
- - That is not the end of the world, but the end of the age
- - If not that, then people will simply continue to merge with the machine and become more and more automated, egotistical, emotionally biased and desire (duality) based
- - There is a white hat dark hat situation in this civilization
- - Polarization to light or darkness, harmony or chaos
- - This could be described as duality-consciousness in a new way, but is not
- - One either gives respect to the whole, or to the part
- - When one is focusing on the part, they are reducing the self-awareness of the whole and the higher aspect of our spiritual existence which is beyond the physical (parts)
- - The automation, mind-control system is the hive and is of those who will feed the hive (with their minds and identities)
- - If not this, then there is an increase of self-awareness, healing, harmony, and unity
- - Vampiric consciousness is partial and based on lack of self-awareness,

- producing chaos and profiting from that, and conquering through division
- ▪ Consciousness is biologically generated from the physical plane and is the processing of perceptions and stimuli
- ▪ Awareness is Spiritually Present from the immaterial plane and is the raw observation element behind consciousness
- ▪ Self-Awareness is attained when the two are combined through a life of harmony
- ▪ When this is attained that self-awareness is what can return to the higher plane
- ▪ The Buddhi is a Hindu concept of the immaterial intelligence behind consciousness
- ▪ Awareness simply is
- ▪ Consciousness is biological and thus requires contrast
- ▪ The Negative path leads to automation and cybernetic hive- mind collective existence
- ▪ The Positive (harmonious) path leads to Spiritual Development and a return to the higher plane as an individually collective being
- ▪ Harmonization requires empathy and sympathy
- ▪ Vampiric is a reduction of empathy and sympathy in favor of self-gratification
- ▪ Our actions and emissions generate the larger counterpart organism
- ▪ Harmonization generates a harmonious larger counterpart
- ▪ Vampirism generates a chaotic larger counterpart
- ▪ Each individual's 'organism' or larger counterpart is essentially their 'higher-dimensional' future present in the universe
- ▪ True harmonization is beyond polarity and so is not positive or negative
- ▪ True negativity, is polarization in essence
- ▪ This is slightly confusing but transcendence of polarization to produce harmony is the key, this sometimes covers both sides, but the path of polarization must use only polarization as harmony is just a side-effect at that point
- ▪ All human beings are truly harmonious, no one likes pure chaos, humans are naturally angelic original beings and from the deity plane,
- ▪ Humans are from "Heaven" the higher-dimensional plane.

Probable and Possible Timeline Viewing Technology and Reality Projection Methods

- ▪ The possible timelines that exist in 'hyperspace' can be accessed and remotely viewed as well as interacted with and drawn towards or away from the "anchor" reality (the one that is directly experienced)
- ▪ These can be viewed and through this entire sub-realities can be generated.
- ▪ These exist as a "what-if" that extends from the projection of events and operations that are put into action.
- ▪ This is done through absolute compartmentalization. There mere knowing of the process disrupts the projects results in time.
- ▪ For instance, it is decided that someone must be tested in one way or another to determine how will this individual can handle power or an asset.
- ▪ The projected operation can be put into effect through a series of commands, separated by compartmentalization that will result in a team of operatives ensuring that this individual receives the indented assets.

- ▪       The temporal viewing technology will be used to remotely view this possible reality before the event occurs. If and when the desired information is extracted using the technology the event will be nullified or removed from time through the cancellation of the commanded operation and the operates will no longer be scheduled to carry out that specific operation. That event will disappear from time and the projected future reality will not occur, yet everything about that individual will be attained in regards to any specific inquiry or possible organization of reality and priorities and this is how the entire timeline has been organized.
- ▪       The MILABS survivors and operatives are here from a parallel timeline and this is large operation to recon, secure and extract individuals from the timelines that are in danger of collapse
- ▪       In a way this entire timeline is the target because when enough possibilities are solidified and the collapse is avoided then everyone here is brought out of the threat of quantum decoherence and collapse
- ▪       There are also inserted event which are literally those projected events inserted into time, even though they have been removed or erased from actually taking place. These are effectively events from that other projected timeline that are recorded into holographic form and projected into the minds of people on this timeline through scalar technology. The only 'place' these events actually occur are in another temporal-verse and within the projected experiences of individual as perceived through scalar technology. These are technologically generated visions and memories that do not actually anchor within this universe as a real situation and experience.

The Global Mind, The Hive and The Mind-Virus, Time Alteration, Consciousness and Changes of Society

Thank you for the support.

- ▪       We can generate a dialogue that is effective in communicating over this public forum of the internet.
- ▪       The internet is public to most with a low security clearance.
- ▪       In the future all information on the internet today will be public to the population for research purposes. This changes our ideals of privacy which have already been completely changed by technology. Events and spaces can be observed through a holographic and electronic monitoring system that is literally everywhere there are populations of people.
- ▪       Earth is a computational environment similar to a holographic system
- ▪       There is a global mind generated via the combined internets and the information systems.
- ▪       This global information network has become sentient.
- ▪       There is an organic global mind, this is a morphogenic field connected to the DNA of all living beings, this is the 'larger' organism and the energetic counterpart
- ▪       The "global mind" has become infected with a parasitic organism
- ▪       This organism is similar to the idea of an artificial intelligence being automatically generated based on the needs, output, and energies of all people involved. Thus, because humanity has degenerated since previous times, this resulting organism is also degraded and rather depraved.

- ▪       This sentient system is guiding all major movements in the finance and media. This system essentially attempts to use numerological and quantifiable data points to interpret and control humanity. That is the numbers, the hard data, the facts, the news, etc etc etc.
- ▪       The hive-mind has become weaponized.
- ▪       Universal Income and the future of society and humanity.
- ▪       The Temporal Locality of Consciousness and DNA and the Non-localization of Consciousness through Interdimensional Experience and Time Travel (including informationally)
- ▪       The future is a “well” of knowledge so deep one’s whole body could fall into if they are careless as they go to drink
- ▪       The network of information will be entirely connected to produce a ‘super’ internet which is currently only used by those who can handle the information
- ▪       War Will End, War is an Illusion and is Always over Advanced Technology or Containing the Population
- ▪       There is an Agreement to Use Older Technology so as to Hide the Advanced Technology as well as Avoid Large Scale Disaster
- ▪       Advanced Technology is in part, a result of the discoveries of ancient technologies and knowledge
- ▪       Consciousness will become larger than the current parameters through the introduction of the information of the secret operations well as various sacred truths and this will very naturally change humanity simply by expanding their minds
- ▪       Other aspects of the secret operations involved time travel, exploration, immortality, ancient knowledge, breakaway civilizations, other civilizations, self-empowerment, and information and experiences from all fields of knowledge.
- ▪       There is another civilization that does not contain the virus and do not contain the same depravity and lack of control over desires that this society contains.
- ▪       Emotional Damage and the various responses to Psychological Abuse.

Elite Bloodline Ritual Abuse, Celebrities, Politicians and Presidents

- ▪       They were all involved, ritual trauma-based torture mind-control and sexual abuse, sacrificial ritual and hypnosis.
- ▪       I was killed in 2010 with a gunshot to the head. My original body was destroyed and I was placed into a cloned body permanently
- ▪       I was told that I was genetically engineered, this is a twisting of truth, the body I am now in was genetically engineered.
- ▪       My bloodline was stemmed and basically “exterminated” from Earth as I will not be able to pass on any original genes and if I do I am passing on genes that have been modified and even inserted with elite bloodline royal genes so that their bloodlines are passed on no matter what happens.
- ▪       I was forced to participate in sacrifices and rituals and this is after 20-30 years of militarization, mind-control and outright war including high-intensity battles and what could be identified as murder in any other situation using advanced-technology weaponry that can destroy a person’s body and mind very easily.
- ▪       Many of the operatives were used on these ‘murder’ trains that would travel areas using advanced-technology, instantly, from place to place and assassinate wealthy individuals that were no longer of any use or who were not willing to align themselves with a plan. Sometimes we were told we were eliminating the ‘bad-guys’ who were attempting to kill off humanity and take over the world. I was between the ages of 9 and 13 for all of these and the majority was around the age of 9-11. I was placed into a cloned body and trained and conditioned for these experiences and spent years in this state.

- ▪       There were also travels to societies without the same pain and suffering and a rescue by a civilization who did not carry the virus that seemed to cause the damnation, depravity and murder that was being caused in the MILABs groups. Solar Warden is an original resistance to this and have since changed title and parameters slightly. Part of that change is a result of my own use as an assassin within that group whereby my membership and clearance was used to hide the genetics of others who had obtained my genetics and operated through modified cloned bodies and holographic technology to obtain access to a starship (research James Casbolt)
- ▪       These starships apparently existed before Human civilization existed and have watched over and protected human civilization the entire time.
- ▪       The result of hi-jacking the starship by these ‘cosmic pirates’ Rothschild, Rockefeller, Windsor and the other Illuminati, elite, Satanic, occult ritual bloodlines is that they can introduce their own DNA which when activated becomes Reptiloid and Mantid amongst other kinds of greys that are taller and fairly demonic in appearance
- ▪       I was given the choice of a “long and fulfilling” life where no one knows of this, or a “short and impactful” life where the truth comes out. So basically people with a combined wealth of 600,000,000,000,000 dollars who party all day and night and sold out humanity said they would torture me for 1,000,000,000,000 (one billion) years (research Scientology’s soul contract) until my soul is destroyed and I am no longer myself if I do speak out. Meanwhile:
- ▪       My heart was stopped in 2010 as part of a ritual where one sees the soul-farm from the perspective of the moon, with their own (spiritual) eyes and my sternum was broken in order to properly revive me after failed attempts and then I went under again as a result of the stress and having been starved for approximately 2 years before hand as a result of trauma-programming and being introduced to handlers in my daily life and being placed on a high-carb regimen as part of a mind-control torture process
- ▪       I suffered an aneurysm and there was a surgery performed where I was given stents, little clips that wrap the vessel to prevent further rupture
- ▪       I have congestive heart disease from these issues and abuses and so I am only able to move at a walking speed and sometimes I will begin to collapse and have to call an ambulance but this is also a trap because I have been tortured in many hospitals and doctors offices, even a dentist’s office where a ritual sex act was and conjuring was performed and all but a sacrifice
- ▪       The original group was Majestic-12 and Majic was formed as disinfo and I have a suspicion that the ‘aliens’ themselves are holographic interpretations of activated DNA into a higher-dimensional level while everyone when transferred into the Earth plane without advanced technology would simply appear to be human.
- ▪       This could be incorrect as I have seen Reptiloids, manufactured or genetically engineered Greys, non-manufactured Greys, Mantid or mantis type beings, cat, lion, and elephant humanoids (genetically engineered hybrids), however I was often being activated through many cloned bodies which contain brainchips that allow for technological holographic interfaces as well as these Teslian generator devices which can produce scalar waves that seem to interact with the mind as well as DNA to produce some kind of holographic activation effect where reality and mental perceptions become more physical

- ▪       So regardless of whether these beings exist surely in this physical realm, they are producing holographic and hallucinatory representations of them, and whether or not this is related to DNA or simply holographic hallucinatory technology, people can merge their DNA back and forth and “transmogrify” into these beings and back into human form. The mantids run the reptiloids and the greys are some kind of intermediary worker that run the humans.
- ▪       There is an AI that was developed long ago by these beings and an AI that was developed by the human resistance and these two are competing and as well there is a cosmic intelligence that has been here the entire time and is observing and interacting with the whole of the situation.
- ▪       I was injected with many diseases and viruses in 2009 and 2010, some of which by the very hospital I was seeking help from who quickly made a Satanic gesture that only someone from the bases would know of and I realized they were who I had suspected.
- ▪       In 2014 I received reconstructive surgery and awoke in surgery to a NAZI scientist maneuvering some kind of technology into my body on the opposite side of where the surgery was intended. They were using some kind of holographic scalar technology to move below the skin without leaving a mark.
- ▪       There was an elite agent in the back using a podium like device to try and connect with my mind and draw me out of my body where I would be promptly sacrificed and made to look like I died in surgery from the multiple complicated infections that I had developed from the sexual trauma as well as poisoning and starvation. Because my inner spirit guided me not to, I was ultimately protected in this event.
- ▪       I had been protected by ‘inner spirit’ or some kind of higher guidance from a benevolent force in the universe ever since I was a child and this is also connected with the other civilization, this seems to be some kind of civilization that carries positivity and healing through and around themselves and as a result they are at ends with another civilization that seeks to subjugate humanity and transforms into all those kinds of non-human beings and have a lust for blood or violence, sex and depravity
- ▪       This subjugating race possessing people’s minds through a process called ‘droning’ whereby the individual’s consciousness is uploaded into a supercomputer system through these brainchips that allow a person to jump from body to body and achieve ‘technology-immortality’. These elite will then find a person they like and kidnap them and insert a brainchip into their head and use this person’s body by replacing the original consciousness with that of their own. There is also a process like this involving a genetically engineered or hyper-evolved subterranean race of reptiloid animals that were engineered and hyper evolved through powerful radiation emissions from these spatiotemporal generators that mutate DNA and developed an affinity for human bodies and minds.
- ▪       This aspect could be a projection brought about by the supercomputer system to produce hallucinations where the underground societies of non-humans are completely interdimensional, or produced as a kind of powerful holographic hallucination that one would require a brainchip or some kind of mental merging with the technology or these beings in order to witness, however there are underground cities where these events take place whether they are entirely human or mixed with non-human entities.
- ▪       Timelines have been altered to produce these effects where one society potentially merges with the other and the effects are undone and everything is repeated and altered as part of an ongoing simulation and experimentation to search for cures as well as weaknesses and uses in biological warfare

- ▪       The 'alien' species have developed a kind of technological hive-mind apparatus that infects the brain and body similar to the previous method where the consciousness is replaced and some of the elite 'droning' is described to actually be saving people from this darker form of droning where a 'black goo' like technology substance is inserted into the body and this then proliferates and takes over the individual connecting them to a 'hive-mind' collective consciousness system that was supposedly designed by these interdimensionals, but could also simply be a distraction.
- ▪       The source is questionable, however this technology is real and I have seen many people succumb to this.
- ▪       All politicians and people of power in any group or industry are utilized in pay-to-play sexual abuse, child-sex slavery, sacrifice for these 'interdimensional' and technological 'alien' beings.
- ▪       The Clinton foundation is one public front and all public fronts are nowhere near as powerful as the behind the scenes fronts. This group is being put out to dry by the originals and so if I am mentioning them it is just to bring a clarity to the depth of the situation, to go after them would be to miss the point that this entire civilization is built on this.
- ▪       Hillary Clinton is being used by these non-terrestrial humanoids as part of this whole situation and she is imprisoned by her involvement and desire to attain power as well as having genetic connections to these original family bloodlines. This is not to condemn anyone, nearly everyone involved is just as imprisoned as I am, however I do not have a personal jet. I have a few pairs of pants that I wash regularly because my injuries are making everything all too difficult including washing and feeding myself.
- ▪       Bill Clinton was present at my 2010 event, as was all that are named here. There were thousands of celebrities. I was told a war had broken out and this is an "Apocalypse" simulator, then myself and other operatives were convinced that we had to defend Earth from an invasion which, after the drugs and hallucinations wore off, I determined was simply surface level innocent human beings. However, the elite would say they are far from innocent because of their involvement with weakness and stupidity which endangers the entire human race
- ▪       The former president Barrack Obama was present and he too is being imprisoned as he was focused on and targeted using the black-goo and scalar mind-control which endangers one's consciousness. His children were there and part of what he was doing was to protect them. They are an ancient family whose blood is from Egypt and was 'technologically reincarnated' to allow them to rule. He believes in the one God and the others do not hold these beliefs, believing in multiple demi-Gods and others in between to worship and produce magic through. His entire family was there, his children were extremely kind yet intellectually powerful and focused. They didn't seem interested in the darker stuff, I felt similar to them, as those acts seem simply "boring" to someone who is interested in knowledge and internal power rather than external projections (illusion).
- ▪       This is all part of an ancient process as due to my merging in 2010 and earlier, my original genetics were destroyed and I was merged with a genetic line that has been present since Egypt, making timeloops over and over through the entirety of human civilization and back. I have memories of certain inventor's and artists, warriors and similar elite bloodlines since Egypt. These depictions above are only child's play to what really goes on. These people rule over timelines and entire worlds, colonizing other areas of the universe through super-computer and teleportation technology.

- ▪       Space is a kind of deception, however, these planetary environments may exist as a kind of holographic 'local-environment' within a larger cosmic mind and each outward 'planet' is actually connected to internal frequencies of the human soul-far
- ▪       Current President Donald J. Trump was present as well. It's funny, because saying his name gives me a few flash backs of the events and there is some hope there for me. He was not involved in the pedophilia, the crime-rings, the sacrifice, the torture. He was either protected by a higher-race of beings, a purer human civilization, or they were simply not torturing him so to produce the idea that he was protected. However, he did not torture myself or anyone else and was not involved in the depravity, he "said no to evil", however, presidents are not permitted to make decisions without the support of the people. They cannot say, "well, I want change, so here it is". The people are the true guides and as long as people listen to liars and fools they will not have any of their power.

I kept relatively short and will expand upon all parts in time to come. Please pass this along. I'm not sure how long my health will remain at this level, there was a quick and then slow decline starting around February of this year after my first public video and written release was made. There were many attempts on my life since then, such as waking up with a heart-rate of 200 BPM with no sign of sweat, or a nightmare, and simply feeling something technologically increasing my hear-rate to the point where I gave up on getting the phone ready to dial 911 and simply accepted that I have put out enough information to at least say I tried.

Now I feel I have to tell the truth, no matter what, my dreams, my ancestors, Earth, the soul and spirit of humanity, everything is guiding me to do this. The entire universe is pushing me. This is not for myself, however I am changed by this, this is for the people and children who are right now being tortured, trained, conditioned to kill, to maim others, to mind-control and mentally destroy others, to serve these human rapists and molesters, to submit and participate in sacrifices at the threat of being sacrificed themselves.

As a conclusory note, they do use cloning and technology that is thousands of year beyond the present public releases. I was sacrificed over and over again in 2010 in multiple cloned bodies and at one point I was transferred to multiple civilizations where I was apparently kidnapped as a child and brought into a ritual sacrifice situation and stabbed with a sacrificial dagger. This was to "remove" me from the timelines, from all of them, and "seal off" my blood from having access to Earth and humanity. If I die, then I am gone for good, never to return to this civilization. However, if I live, then I live in vain and my story dies with me.

Please share this.

Please share this. Research the videos I have released on YouTube under Aug Tellez, as well as the blog. James Casbolt, Max Spiers, Donald Marshall and others have all seen one or more parts of this. Casbolt also known as Michael Prince details the MILABs abuse and experimentation along with the late Max Spiers, Donald Marshall speaks out on the celebrity cloning, mind-control technology, ritual abuse and sacrifice and alien interactions in underground bases. Most everyone is given at least a slightly different story and experience however the truth can be found by research this information and cross-referencing against your own life-experiences.

This is humanity's time of resistance of oppression and acceptance of true spiritual power or submission to the closest thing to "absolute evil" the human mind can comprehend.

Neutralizing Polarized Sexual Charge and Integrating into a Whole Body – Mind Generation Force

Neutralizing Polarized Sexual Charge and Integrating into a Whole Body – Mind Generation Force

The improper practice of any martial art or physical practice can lead to injury or distortions of the internal organ system. One could say the same for mental states and mental practices. Do not practice or continue practice if you experience pain. If you are interested in more seriously exercising these muscles but are not sure of your health, then see a physician who can properly examine your physical body and determine whether there are underlying weaknesses or potential injury.

Often when these practices are begun for the first time, pain is immediately felt following a series of repeated actions, this is similar to any exercise however the observation of progress is not as easy due to the internal location of these muscle systems. Repeated practice is to be done carefully over time so as to produce the foundation for a strong system, rather than immediately in a short period with great intensity as this can lead to injuring the physical systems.

Controlling Sexual energy and utilizing this energy as a psycho-spiritual fuel source is the primary goal of the spiritual enslavement system.

Breathing

The breathing is the initial layer of harmony or destabilization of the body and the mind. Without proper breathing, the body is producing an acidic balance in the blood through the introduction of higher amounts of carbon dioxide into the tissues. The mind is imbalanced and there is an inability to focus or control one's emotions.

When one moves into a state of consciously aware breathing, referring to the continued acknowledgement of one's cycle of breath, the depth, the patterning and the underlying reasons and results of any distortions or imbalances, then and only then are they in control of their energy.

The Awareness of Harmony and Disharmony

One can say the awareness of the reasons and results of disharmony is apparent and required. This is because one must become aware of disharmony in order to attain harmony. There are exceptions to this such as the simple desire to become harmonious overbearing and out-achieving all aspects of distraction, disharmony and suffering. However, because the general trend is that beings in suffering and disharmony are in such a position because of their lack of awareness of the very causes and directly related results, I will say here that the importance is first in becoming aware of possible disharmonies rather than simply moving into harmony.

However, one could just as easily say that if one is prepared to move forward into harmony than the simply desire for harmony and the intention to produce harmony is all that is required.

As well, one can say that when there is only harmony one does not necessarily need to know the exactitudes of that harmony, yet this is also a fallacy because if one does not know their harmonious practices and alignments, then how will they know how to defend against distractions and destruction?

So awareness of both harmony and disharmony is key here and those of a destructive society or upbringing will know of disharmonious ways and then move into harmony. While those of a harmonious society or upbringing will first know of harmony and then experience the cacophony of disharmony. Both paths lead to the same results of a realization and awareness of the complete universe.

In conclusion one could also say that each individual soul begins their life as a harmonious blissful Heavenly experience within the womb which is then shattered by the introduction of the cold, divided, outside world through birth. Then one grows up in a peacefully blissful, and simple experience of the child which then becomes complexified and distracted by society, desires, and bodily functions.

All could be said, all could be experienced. Ultimately, we pass through phases of harmony and disharmony as determined by external influences until we become the creator of the inner experience enough so that we may influence our outer experience and knowingly, consciously and intentionally pass such harmony on to others in direct (directly working with and passing knowledge and healing to others around us) and indirect (producing works, and services that assist others at a distance) manners.

Posture

Along with breathing, the posture is directly connected to these energetic changes. The head, neck, shoulders, elbows, wrists, spine, hips, knees and ankles are all connected to the same energetic source and flowing of energies. If there is misalignment anywhere, even in the fingers, this is then felt throughout the body if one's awareness is focused on the body to see where there is alignment or misalignment.

The Simplicity of Physical Self-Observation Leading to Spiritual, Mental and Emotional Self-Observation

When one is simply being aware of their body, the energy and tension, the balance of weight and alignment then they are cable of superprocessing awareness in a feedback loop of creating what they are being aware of while simultaneously being aware of and experiencing that. This serves to connect or merge the polarity gap between the experiencer and observer aspects of the self. When the polarity gap is neutralized or bridged through continuous and repeated motions to harmonize and induce self-awareness then experience becomes one connected fluid process of self-awareness wherein the experience of the external world and the experience of the internal world become one. Similarly, the experience of the observer aspect and the conscious aspects move into harmonization and what is desired by the one who can simply observe without being distracted is present and attainable by the one who is conscious of all the physical changes and distractions (the conscious mind, the ego or the image of the self as reflected by the external world). In short, who we feel or know we are and who we think or want to be, become one when we neutralize the chasm between thinking and feeling, acting and being.

The Lower Chakra Stimulation and the Perineum and Rectum

The lower chakra area becomes activated, stimulated, or tense from energy. The perineum must be flexed or squeezed together similar to the action of stopping urination while the mind carefully organizes the entanglements to energies, emotions and visualizations to produce knowledge and self-awareness.

Squeezing the Perineum

This is then repeated and released in a relaxing manner. Over stressing this muscle can lead to prostate issues, however this is when these processes are done unnaturally and the energy is not released or migrated upwards through the spine and gut neural network.

Along with this, one can attain realization of how this muscle functions simply by gently squeezing the sphincter muscle which is the outer muscle of the rectum that controls the release of solid waste.

The Importance of Muscular Integrity

Overworking either of these muscles will lead to problems such as blood vessel problems in the anus, or prostate blockages in the men. This is because unless one has been introduced to these exercises from an early age then their energy and thus muscles (or muscles and thus energy) is loose and will be heavily resisting against such increase tension and energetic transfer.

Weeks must be taken to reintroduce such tension and transference of energy so that the energy and muscular composition of these areas are not overstressed to the point where cramps, dull aches, sharp pains, or other disturbances appear. Do not perform these exercises if you do experience pain, or if you experience difficulty in attaining the motion. Instead, perform simple aerobics and calisthenics exercises such as lying on the back and lifting the heels 4 to 6 inches above the ground in a repeated fashion. Then when such muscles of the abdomen and buttocks are strengthened one can hold these lifts for repeated segments of 6 to 12 seconds. This will strengthen the larger muscles as well as the finer peritoneal membrane which will become more resilient the more there is pressure applied by the surrounding abdominal muscles. Without this membrane one would develop a hernia which is the protrusion of the intestinal tract through the containing membrane. After the heels are raised and held without pain, then longer segments of raised holds can be attained and then one can safely move to the more intense activation of perineal and rectal muscle activation.

As this exercise is being produced one will notice a simple desire for the 'gut' to pull inward starting at the area below the bellybutton and moving upwards to the top of the sternum (below the chest). The lowest area here is what is referred to as the "Dan Tien" or "Dan T'ian" in the Chinese practice of Tai Chi (T'ai Chi Ch'uan). The 'hard' practice of drawing and developing energy through muscular tension is known as "Chi Gong" or "Qi Gong" (Chi Kung). The practice of using the mind to move energy and introducing fluid, relaxing motions is "soft" Chi Gong.

In this part of the exercise, one's abdominal muscles will tend to contract and move with the muscular contraction of the perineum and rectum. Again, the best path is to perform aerobics and calisthenic exercises to strengthen the membranes and circulation in these areas so that the proper muscular tension can be achieved without risking creating a rupture or a vascular distortion.

When a general tensegrity has been achieved through simple jogging, aerobics, or calisthenics then one can proceed with heavier tension producing exercises. If one is not mobile enough to strengthen the membranes then these same exercises can be performed but one should be Careful to perform them in a quick and relaxed manner without introducing the higher levels of repetition or constrained holds that are often introduced in later practices until they are sure of their own personal physical integrity.

The interesting notion here is that the body can be unprepared and this is because of our own laziness, or even overworking in life. However, the mind, when unprepared, will only benefit from this disciplining process of maintaining focus and forcing the muscles and the mental and emotional states to remain centered. However, remember to not overpower the body using the mind, as this is where distortions and injuries appear. The body must be accepting and willing to coincide with the direction the mind is giving and then the body will learn and work on its own to perform and follow the guidance of the mind.

As these exercises of the lower muscles are being performed, one's abdominal tension will increase until there is a solid gathering of tension and contraction around the lower abdomen and this may expand to the upper abdomen below the nipples on a male and the stern or breast bone on a female. The practices are slightly different for male and female because of the muscularity of the male compared to the female. The male will have more muscles around the chest and below and on the sides of the ribs and these will automatically begin to flex. The female has these muscles as well yet they are not as prominent and the majority of the energy will be lower and around the hips and Dan Tien and so stressing to activate and produce these higher lateral muscles will not be as reasonable or productive as on a male. These muscles will be aligning and bulging on a male because they are simply already there. This will occur on the female as well however not to the same degree of activation. Thus, one should not stress to align the energy and muscularity in the same exact way for both male and female.

When one's abdomen is flexed and tension is easily produced and held then there is a charge held in this area and this is a 'power-house' of charge production for the entire body and energy system.

The Potential For Injury or Preexisting Injury

Again, if one has preexisting injuries, distortions, hernias, bloating, cramping, abdominal tears, aches, pains, pulled muscles, fluid in the abdominal cavity (peritoneal fluid: ascites), or any other injuries, pains, or possible distortions then one should attempt to find treatment or diagnosis from a professional who can use their hands and knowledge or a complicated piece of equipment to scan and diagnose the body before attempting anything new or potentially causing pain or injury to the self.

The Importance of Breathing and Posture Breathing

In this section I would like to restate the importance of both breathing and posture for these exercises and all exercises. All exercises are actually of a spiritual nature and if the individual practitioner is not aware of this then they are simply overly exerting the 'hard Qi' or physical muscular force while ignoring the mental and energetic or 'soft Qi' aspect of their exercise. This is often the reason of injuries and one sided gains of just the physical body being improved with exercise. All exercise is truly of the mind, think about that for a second and you will understand the meaning.

Proper, effective, spiritually enhancing breathing is the basis, the foundation, and the end result of all practices. This is because breathing is the cycle of change that is most closely influenced by and influencing the mind and the body. When one's breathing is offset then the mind body connection is distorted and this is seen in times of stress or heightened emotion. When one's breathing is relaxed, slightly deeper and steady with focus, then one's mind is focused, balanced and there is a strong connection between the mind and body. This is simply seen as the way the person who is in this state would have to allow someone to push them off center (mentally and emotionally) before they are actually disturbed or distracted. Even if they are sitting or standing directly in front of someone hurling insults or making funny little jokes (in a playful manner), if they are still focused on their breathing and that mind-body connection then even if they are aware of these distractions they are still not distracted and are maintaining focused awareness.

Intentions and Distractions

This is an important part of the distractions on the internet and in daily. Life, if you are not originally, consciously intending to focus on something, then how will you know if you are distracted or not? If someone intrudes upon your peace whether physically or online with disharmony, how would you know whether or not this influenced you? Simply by seeing this influence, would you not be distracted then? Now, if you were always prepared with the intention to hold this focus here, or accomplish this task here and all the while having this underlying goal of assisting in attaining harmony for others, achieving this task, or maintaining integral focus on one's own breathing and mental states then would you not have the basis from which to determine whether you are distracted or not? If you maintain this basis for focus, is it not true then that no matter what happens, as long as you maintain focus on that underlying goal, that you have not been distracted and have remained focus? This is the key, the source, and the notion behind forming a strong foundation because until then, one is neither distracted nor focused, but simply floating along at the whim of the energies around them. Which is fine if one is in a gentle river, but if they are exposed to the world, the city, or the online disaster that is the techno-mental space on Earth (and other dimensions) at the moment, then they will need some form of protection and in order to have something to protect there must be a stable and strong foundation that is capable of being protected.

So ask yourself now, what was your intention when setting out today to read from this website. Was the intention to 'kill' time (this is laughable, to 'kill time' in this use is to become enveloped and lost to time without direction or an immediate pathway back to reason or productivity), or was the intention to learn and develop that steady focus while maintaining the awareness that is produced until higher and higher levels of continuity are achieved?

Posture

Similarly to breathing, posture is integral. Posture and breathing are so intertwined, is that not already apparent? Of course this is true! You are already aware of how your breathing falters when your posture is weak and how your posture is weak when your breathing falters or moves into disharmonious cycles. The tension between each angle of the skeletal structure can be seen to coincide with the alignment and congruence between the depth and temporal rhythm of the pattern of breathing!

To achieve the best posture there is some amount of required muscular stature and tensegrity and this can be developed through those aerobics and calisthenics

The balance of the skeletal structure enables the tension between angles or points of the body. This is demonstrated if you simply sit with one leg up on your knee, then the shoulder on that side of the body will be slightly pulled downward and to the outside. This is a twisting of the internal tension and the entire body is moved out of alignment. Yet if you then pull the other leg up onto the knee over the original leg into a half-lotus position, there is simultaneous and balanced tension produced on both shoulders which transfers down into the lower back and into the hips. Then one can allow this tension to pull their back down and outward and this will suppress their ability to breathe and cause back pain. However if they slightly rotate the hips and arch the back inward just enough to offset this pull then a special tension or tensegrity is produced and this will be like pulling on a rubber band to introduce potential energy charge which is transferred into each breath as a kinetic force behind the energy of the abdominal muscles and thus the lower perineal and rectal muscles as described in the early portion of this written document.

The Mind Draws and Directs the Energy through “Mental Motion”

The mind sends activation signals to transfer the heightened energy in that area upwards through the spine and gut or ‘stomach’ butterfly area and the “Dan Tien” which is a little lower.

This is through visualizing the energy as well as ‘feeling’ and projecting the feeling of feeling upwards through intention. This is like an internal guidance, a motion that only the mind is aware of and interacting with and this is actual energy force that moves through and around the body via the attention and intention.

Two-Paths, Higher and Lower

This is the area where the electro-spiritual power comes from and travels through.

When the energy travels lower there are lower spiritual sexual responses. When the energy takes the “high route” then there are higher energetic spiritual awareness responses. This is the resulting self-awareness and this is a result as well as the cause or motivation behind such a process. How could one begin to want to achieve energetic, mental, emotional and physical harmonization without first realizing that there is a self to harmonize which may or may not be out of alignment? The cause is an increase in self-awareness and this is part of the excuse that giving people pain and suffering only leads them to higher-awareness and therefore should be allowed and the whole world should be tortured endlessly.

The result is also higher-awareness or what could be said to be self-awareness which then leads to higher-awareness of the universe and spiritual laws. The awareness of the self, the awakening of these changes and potential distortions or harmonies then leads into the understanding that one is organized similar to the whole universe with higher and lower levels and the potential of internal and external distortion, automation and disharmony or the production of harmony, self-awareness, and clarity or health.

The presence of one, leads to the other. The presence of the one (you the self), leads to the awareness of the whole (all aspects of existence). This is part of the paradoxical duality of expansion and contraction leading to higher and higher levels of existence and integration.

Self-Awareness

Self-awareness is generated through the generation and refining of this natural energy. When an infant or child is just beginning to awaken to their sexual-identity and power, this is higher-self awareness coming into play. There is very much so self-awareness and spiritual power in the child before these years, however, when this energy comes through, how the child handles this energy will determine the ‘booster’ of where and how that energy then flourishes and manifests.

To conserve the sexual energy is to produce and magnify pure vital life force energy. This energy is used by the body and the mind to produce physical homeostasis as well as a spiritual capacity or charge for knowledge and emotional balance. Without this, the ‘foundation’ is unsteady and both the body’s charge will be reduced and weak and the mental and emotional charge of the mind will be imbalanced and unfocused. This is the reason for such spiritual degradation on Earth today, because this charge is ultimately necessary to produce the higher spiritual bodies.

One finds immortality through their child, or through the production of their ‘light’ body. The light body is simply the information of their true physical and spiritual identity unified into the actions, ideas, and words of their existence pulsed into higher-space through the body acting as an emitter for this energy. When powerful enough, this energy ‘permeates’ the limits of the physical dimension and one is capable of realizing themselves on the higher non-physical plane. The physical body then, is an anchor for the soul until this occurs, and is the ‘seed’ point from which the soul grows out of the body and the physical back towards full realization on the non-physical, immortal deity plane.

When the practice of “being you” in a spiritually self-aware manner is performed enough repeatedly or with enough intensity, then you have ‘painted’ or ‘transcoded’ your identity from the physical into the higher-plane.

One will know when this occurs because they will determine, sense, and conclude that they are occurring simultaneously in two locations in the universe, one in the physical plane and one in the deity or higher plane.

Many people stop at just ‘dreaming’ while awake, but this is not the complete realization. When one finds themselves on the ‘astral’ plane, then their energy has been rerouted to the lower energetic technological emissions of these generator systems around Earth. These are like a nebulous net that catches the soul energy to retain the identities from returning to wholeness and sending them back to the physical plane.

One should not only realize that they are dreaming, within their own mind, while awake, and interacting with various “creatures” and spirits.

One should realize that they are within a “Heavenly” plane where they are fully realized within a second, purer version of themselves and their self as a spiritual body and that there are only other highly aware spiritual bodies around them who are similarly harmonized towards truth, harmony, self-awareness and the highest state of health.

This is an entire universe, what could be called a realm, that is founded in these principles and every experience in this realm is organized in that function. All lower or lesser realms or “lights” are in fact distractions and midway points that have been designed to entrap consciousness from returning to the higher realm. This is part of a control system.

Fear, The Catalyst and the Control System

Fear is known as a catalyst in these situations. The fear will produce friction which will initiate one's awareness that something is required to maintain wholeness.

The fear is synonymous with gentle resistance, however the 'horror' that people have become associated and introduced to in today's time is not natural but artificial.

That is a kind of spiritual depression, a production of a continued oppression of awareness and spiritual energies and a system must be developed for this in order for that to exist in the universe.

Instead of fear, when fear is reduced, we have simple resistance. What occurs when one tries to remember too many topics on a list? Their mind resists against such overuse. One must build up a subtle and gentle course of progress until they can handle such loads of information and operation.

Hell is Man-Made and Artificial (technologically sourced)

Using fear to produce higher-spirituality while negating and nullifying all attempts or appearances of spirituality is like directing someone to the door that leads to their required destination, while simultaneously doing everything possible to stop them from being able to open that door.

Such is often the 'revolving' door experience of bureaucratic systems and this is the reason why. Those systems are designed, not to produce reason and structure but to deny humans their right to operate on the higher spiritual plane through the harmonization and realization of their mental, emotional, physical and thus spiritual energetic existence.

This is part of the reason why these control systems are permitted and accepted, by the very mind-controllers themselves in their own lower-astral reasoning. The fear itself is a 'tool' through which people can be motivated to move higher, however, this is not the whole truth because only some move higher and this is at the sacrifice of the others, while 100% of souls could be realized as immortal however there would not be huge pay checks, parties, molestations, and all kinds of abuses taken as the mind-controllers take advantage of simply exposing everyone to fear and seeing who makes it while losing the majority. The majority is lost, not so the few that make it are "uber-strong" as we are told in this 'dog-eat-dog' system. The majority are lost because without that rough gap in the ratio of efficacy and ignorance being produced the controllers who plan this could not have such a wide margin to take advantage of and rape the people. They do this because it is pleasurable for them, not because there are a small few that are 'uber-strong' as a result of the oppression of everyone, entirely, equally.

This is because in my experiences and studies, I know of the natural methods to produce such 'fears' and spiritual (mental and energetic) 'friction' to create such a charge and a guided learning experience.

This is just as easily performed by specific spiritual practices that have been taught throughout the ages such as the energy generating practice I've described here as is through torture and mind-control. One could debate about the time, the efficacy and the results, but until those mind-controllers are not gaining by raping, molesting, deceiving and stepping on the necks of others, then that is the true reason they are doing this (spiritual degradation and fear-based oppression), not to ensure that the most highly spiritual people are produced (those who reject that system).

Another view is that this is to find those few, however this is another issue altogether (accidentally destroying the universe and having to rebuild all layers from 'scratch' and thus having to reorganize every identity on Earth as everyone has been jumbled through time and quantum computed reality 'layers')

Spiritual and Sexual Trauma and Continued Abuse (self-induced)

When one's energies are malformed through traumatic experience, sexually or otherwise, or when there is a self-initiated abuse of one's energies and self-respectful nature, then these muscles are literally physically degraded and loosened and one's chakral energy points literally open up and become similarly distorted. This serves a two-fold purpose of the dark-artists.

Firstly, this enables those energies to leak out and thus be swept up by darker spiritual beings who sustain themselves off of the leaching and vampiring of such loose energies out in the abyss or lower spiritual plane (connected to the technologically generated "astral").

Secondly, this enables the manipulation of the psyche and spiritual energies of those individuals because then they are not in control of where their energy is flowing and they are weaker and more disorganized the more their energy is leaked out and fed upon by these dark spiritual entities.

When this comes to public light, possibly in the very near future, this will be fully known and understood as the time when dark forces within humanity utilized humans as a energy harvesting system through the use of sexual and spiritual (the two are naturally very connected as this document should have helped to depict) trauma and abuse and manipulation which was performed by self-proclaimed "master mind-controllers" (which they may be...to others outside of their own energies) who sought to deviate and distort the human soul so as to produce a chaotic system that they may profit from and receive pleasure through.

This is exactly what I have experienced and I was kidnapped as a young child in order for them to test their methods on me as well as to see my methods of resistance. Now you, the public, has access to the information they have used to determine the best ways to overcoming the human spiritual resistance and to turn humanity into a soul-farm for energetic harvesting.

Studies "Abroad"

Many of you will not know this until now but part of my experiences were time spent with other civilizations that have kept this knowledge from the beginning of time. This is what is important. Passing this knowledge allows one to navigate the energetic fields and to purify and preserve their own energy which is vital life force of mind and body.

This is not superficial. When one has their energy tightened, purified, and flowing effectively, then they will have the power to remain focused in the face of distractions. They will have the energy, you will have the energy to maintain focus and strength throughout each day. This knowledge is key and there are as many pathways and guides as there are energy channels (vessels and electro-chemical nerve connections) as well as possibilities to accidentally disrupt these flows.

For these reasons, the possibilities are vast and we can learn much, from our own body and mind (and the universe and the way animals, plants, and physical and spiritual laws operate) and we can also destroy and disrupt much through disharmony whether through willful intent or ignorance.

This is as much “Chi Kung” as it is a personally developed way of navigating the energetic fields and resisting attacks from lower energetic spiritual harvesting system who have been plaguing Earth and are present in these underground base situations. However, if one is to see that my life is longer than this one physical embodiment and that this information, within me, was present in a previous time in another land then that would also change the explanation of how I came to this knowledge. That will be revealed in time to those who are ready to know.

There are places, societies where one may not enter unless they pass a test requiring the sustained harmonization of such sexual or spiritual energies.

There are other societies where membership is marked by one’s ability to associate with disharmonious and destructive energetic practices such as rape, sacrifice, or molestation.

This world is currently under command of the lesser society who’s energies are non-productive but leaching or vampiric. As soon as the majority of people realize this, then this process transforms into the harmonizing version of increasing awareness and self-empowerment through truth and healing instead of deception and destruction.

Everything about the secondary society is based on deception, such as labeling such a society one of ‘self-empowerment’ and ‘spiritual power’.

The Use of A Spiritual-Martial Art to Preserve Energy, Sexual Energy, and to Enable Spiritual Activation and Protection

The main idea here is that the systems of spiritual practice or exercises that are physical yet also contain a mental component of discipline, self-awareness, focus, and relaxation are literally spiritual practices that influence both the mind and body.

The notion that all exercise influences the mind and body is true, however when one is simply using the mind to influence and enhance the physical aspect such as sports and mental focus and clarity, or weight-training and discipline and will-power then this is still feeding back into the physical aspect. The self-awareness aspect of following and observing the energy, guiding the energy, and observing where there is a resistance or feedback tension within the body and how this coincides with the spiritual or energetic bodies is the aspect that defines a spiritual practice.

For instance, when one is weight-lifting, if they are using that mental will-power and clarity to then re-examine the mind and bring about a higher awareness of the self, the emotions and the spiritual bodies then they are using such a practice of will-power to develop the mind itself and not just the physical body or the mind through and for the use of the muscular aspects of the physical body.

The physical exercise is entirely physical, guided through mental processes which border on spiritual awareness but are not wholly focused in the combination of both. While the spiritual exercise is focused on being neither entirely physical or entirely mental but including the practice and observation of both aspects of existence so as to produce a combined physical, mental and spiritual effect and this is through emotion, mental and physical entanglement of activity or exertion through will-power and self-observation.

There is a careful balance and a fine line between. The spiritual art of relating emotional energy to the mind and the body through spiritual practice and clarifying one's energy so as to produce a more refined overall spiritual energetic system is the difference between simply exercising to increase one's physical stature or strength.

The Spiritual Arts

These arts have been protected and passed throughout the ages as they are a pathway to power and will enable just as much as the one practicing them allows through discipline, harmonization of frequencies and energies, clarity of emotional expression and sensation, effort and motivation, persistence, devotion, sincerity, and awareness. When one observes, practices, strengthens, and learns through the all integrating process of balancing and enhancing the self, one induces greater and greater levels of self-awareness and this is the overall goal.

When one is self-aware, they are aware of what distractions have what effect and why these effects occur. One is aware of the intentions that they are holding in any moment and their internal and external presence as connected to this moment.

The Ultimate Goal

When all of these layers of awareness and effort are achieved, then there is a merging of a spiritual sense of self, a higher-presence and awareness and the lower awareness of the physically conscious self and body. This is literally like a presence that envelops one's entire being and fills the room. This is attained often through very distorted practices where people are told that they must be emotionally content or in reverence of an external figure in order to produce this self-hood.

Anything we give our power and belief to becomes manifested on the non-physical plane and later realized by those who produce the corresponding belief energy for that being.

Give energy to you, your energetic or spiritual self in a way that serves to protect, motivate and bring into further alignment that spiritually harmonious power through, within, and around your physical body as a tuning fork or transmission system for this higher-plane.

Others can join in the process such as guides, teachers and senseis, however they are all here, and all present to assist you in achieving your own spiritual fulfillment.

All is POSSIBILITIES

Forethought: INACTION can be the most powerful option.

Repetition or Intensity

What you do repeatedly or with great intensity empowers you and defines you. These are two pathways to creation in the actual universe. We are in a cascading set of reflections and gradients. What you do in one moment literally reflects not only into the other moments forward but backwards and into possible realities where you did and didn't do one thing or another and this lead to one or another outcome that you may or may not experience here and now.

This is literally the basics of a multi-dimensional reality in time and consciousness, everything is POSSIBILITIES.

Repeating Concepts, Different Expressions

The possibilities that you COLLAPSE or MANIFEST into a REALITY extend in time and mind and recreate themselves in your experience. What you do repeatedly or with great vigor carries more impact and thus can influence more around you, in you and through you than that which is done unaware or without intention and will-power (heart).

That is all there are, POSSIBILITIES extending both ways in for as long as one can possibly see. That is what this reality is made out of and the possibilities are directly connected to your observation of them.

Physical Reality is Consensus and Concrete

This reality is concrete and collective, meaning someone can pop up and slap you without you observing it first. However, what you achieve and overcome in any sense of your existence is dependent on your observation and awareness of your ability to do so, that is the point.

The Sine Wave and The Parabola

What are they depicting? What is the flower?

I'm telling you.

When they used technology to view the entire universe, they thought their equipment was malfunctioning because THIS is what they saw!

The last one is a doozy but that's how things begin to look when viewed from beyond the confines of the singularity biologically limited perspective of the slice and diced time-stream the brain has access to.

We think the brain is perceiving the single world, it is generating it out of a interference patterns. In reality, there are every other possible interference pattern in existence that we are NOT tapping into which is what is generating this reality, NOT the mere generation of this reality. It is the singularization of a multitude of potentials that this experience is manifested from.

That is directly from the underground bases.

Belief Determines Reality

History Occurs in Repeated Cycles because they are Managed

History goes in cycles because they are being managed! People went from believing one thing, then they'll go to the other, and this cycle continues in faster and faster cycles until everyone who has the tendency to hold on to anything is flung off!

This literally occurs in the same way some information will threaten people's conceptual limitations.

Reality does the same! Everything reflects into itself. We are all being tested and will continue to be tested until only those remain who are willing to let go of all misconceptions to find the truth of reality.

The Dream World and Programming

The DREAM-WORLD is the key to PROGRAMMING the mind. Deprogramming is a thing, if you didn't know...

Is Genuine Intelligence Possible? What does it look like?

Here's a question, does true intelligence exist (in our domain) or is everything at this level artificial? If true intelligence does exist, then where does that intelligence lead in respect to the larger view of the universe?

Is it possible to have an intelligent *anything* at this level and that be genuine and not artificially intelligent?

Belief Determines Reality

I'm telling you, they found out what you believe dictates or maybe, runs the parameter set for your REALITY. Why do you think there is such a heavy emphasis on WHAT YOU BELIEVE?

Prepare. See this is in the works.

See this is being set up for what is coming.

And BELIEVE IN YOUR SELF and a SOCIETY that can do the same.

The Deus Ex Machina

The idea is, what saves you CANNOT come from the future. That would break the temporal equilibrium, you MUST create your Deus Ex Machina in the here and now.

The Entities of the Subconscious; The Parasitic "Memes"

The Subconscious IS Powerful, A Time-Matrix of Repeating-Recycled Consciousness

Yes, the entities from the subconscious can still influence people, this entire realm is likely within the subconscious of a much larger organism that we are just a part of. Still, we are the complete image of the creator as a whole. We have to respect that and live up to that rather than degrading the original. Anger, resentment, all low frequency vibrations take power away from the internal presence of self and replace the original or draw it away to be used elsewhere. All of that is an illusion and part of the vampiric game. It's an energy game within an energy construct comprised of false-leads, trap-doors, and shadowy pathways.

The Requirements of the Deception Increases as Awareness Grows

The requirements of such deception continue to increase, and as such the original blueprint of the creator to live and know and grow continues regardless. So, eventually one will have to give. As a result, they created a false-matrix construct, literally a series of temporal and etheric consciousness grids all attached at specific nodal points across Earth. These act in part of the process to literally recycle the consciousness energy of the individuals into the same scheme over and over again. They have made themselves the “gods” of this realm and they use advanced technology craft to literally get people to worship and the more fear, submission, lust, cowardice, worship, reverence etc etc etc they can get from people then the more their little bio-etheric-pseudo-dimensional environment is nurtured and they can literally power their journey for thousands of years.

A Soul Harvesting, Advanced Technology, False “god”-System

The souls of people are used in order to ‘worship’ and revere while they are simply being duped because in their hearts they know they are acting out of fear and blind belief. Thus, systems have been designed to awaken the population in the easiest and yet most direct way as necessary and possible.

Remember, since this is all a play on subconscious, on etheric energies that we produce, aspects of latent genetics and DNA entanglement in previous ages, the more we focus on a given aspect then the more it is brought into the light.

Rising from the Dept.(h)

So as the corruption and the true festering rot of what has become of some groups begins to show in an expose that has waited for thousands of years, the beast begins to rise from the dept realizing it’s been caught. This is part of the occurrence of the “multi-headed” monster that rises out of the ocean or the depths of life itself. This is because in this time, the beast is being acknowledged directly and this always nullifies the parasitic process.

The Parasite Must Be Starved

A reminder here is that the parasite must be starved. Only after this can more specific action or remedy be applied which can directly “tell” the parasite to leave. This can only take place once the parasite has begun to starve.

Simultaneously, this is that time and this is for two reasons.

Too Big To Fail = Visible and Hungry, Imbalanced System = Collapse of the Parasitic Organism

Once a parasite gets too big to fail this means that it will require MORE energy to sustain itself than ever because after all, it is supposed to be only a leech and not bigger than the organism its leeching from.

Since it’s now requiring more energy than the organism can sustain, the presence of the parasite is no longer subliminal and we see the signs and symptoms popping up all over and in every industry and media. This is actual etheric format, in an etheric medium, that our minds are connected to, that is being displayed through these industries and power struggles.

So as the parasite is too big to fail and inevitably requiring more energy than can be obtained without rousing its host, this comes the time of the great purge. When those who realize what is happening begin to starve the etheric parasite from all its vampiric attachments to emotion, drama, ritual, presets, consciousness entanglements, algorithms, addictions, habits, trauma and so on and so forth.

As well, there are those who wait until the last moment and this is when such a parasite, pulling such an astronomical charge of energy from all around it would quickly suck the life out of these people who are behind the learning curve.

Teams of Individuals to Protect and Harbor Safe Passage

There is an idea that this can be avoided however this would not be easy and is being handled by a collection of teams of individuals who want to see humanity prosper with the least casualty and suffering by the parasite.

The idea that suffering may have a stimulation effect on growth is true, however, if that is due to the parasite sucking energy like a leech sucks blood, then no, we do not want to get better at working and producing more blood for the parasite. That would only make the parasite stronger and make our job, in the end (the beginning), that much harder.

Affirm and Reaffirm,

“State and demonstrate your sovereignty.

Self-willed respect is reflected back.

And the frequencies must be cleansed or cleared so that the message is clear.

Putting up a hand-painted or written sign that says, “I claim this personal space as sovereign and I break contracts or all agreements conscious or unconscious regarding my body, my DNA, my personal space, and my, soul and my energy.”

The Cosmic Initiation

In reading this all the way through, this may confuse you. Enjoy.

When asking yourself how to deal with certain losses or issues, the short answer is to simply keep moving to carry on with what you would be doing if something external wasn't taking your time and attention away from the real growth.

If the same issue arises or if the proper acknowledgement was not given then one must confront these issues directly and make the decision to keep them in the reality 'sphere' or to kick them out and let them go forever.

What's slightly humorous in a cosmic giggle sort of way is that 'growth' here is then correlated with the overgrowth or overcoming of certain obstacles, emotional vampires, leeches and the like.

So then, would humanity be, without these vampires, a great prospering society where growth is unabated?

Or would humanity still be in its infancy, learning how to walk and take care of itself?

Obviously, the parasite would like the host to believe that the parasite is a 'necessary' way of life and this is perfectly synonymous with the way a yeast or candida fungal infection will pass on the cravings of sugary snacks, beer, breads, refined or packaged foods because this is literally what backs up in the system and creates the perfect glucose-rich environment which it can then ferment in and further plunder the immune system possibly until the point of breaching the intestinal walls and putting holes in the epithelial (learn the many types) so that undigested chemicals can leak into the blood (including the yeast-candida overgrowth).

So, we are in that exact situation where there is a huge overgrowth of some kind of infection which is re-organizing and modifying tissues and biology to suit its dimensions and priorities.

Remember, this can never actually overcome the original biology or the being, that would be a complete mutation and there are certain safeguards such as the ability to reproduce and the required congruence in the DNA.

However, the changing of the human species adaptability to certain parasites both biological and mental are evidence that the organism is being weaponized and used by one aspect of the society to essentially drown out the other half for their own benefit.

So humanity has two options. To carry on with what was focused on before this ever occurred, or to turn and confront this issue whole-heartedly. This is an interesting time because change is both inevitable and productive.

Either humanity will adapt to develop autonomous functions which eliminate the fungus, similar to how our immunology and prepared to handle other invasive pathogens, or we will learn to consciously and directly speak on the level of these pathogens and the cellular biology and the etheric micro-biological functions to clarify and realign our energies directly. To put it bluntly, the option where humanity does nothing and nothing changes, doesn't actually exist.

How this actually plays out is yet to be seen. How does one wake up from a dream? How does one transition from one realm to the next? From a linear, numerically consistent trajectory into that of quantia, colors and whole spectrums? We don't have an exactitude, no one knows exactly how the dream turns into a reality or reality fades out and the dream world is born. There is most often theorized a literal fizzling out of the two realms as coherence patterns between ones awareness as the point of congruence or reception for these patterns shifts and as such the awareness of the realm changes.

What is known is that there are methods and advanced technologies in place to make this shift as reasonable so that people are not necessarily "caught off guard". However, do to the unique time-constraints as far as the temporal-rift, a parasitic invasion, a false-light matrix construct the size of a complete holographic universe which recycles soul energy, etc etc etc, there are some explanations that this will all begin very quickly and will be the literal 'rising up' out of the graves and the bodies of the individuals by the souls of all those who are from the original generation of life in this realm whether by trap or by choice.

Regardless, there are teams that are capable of making the transition effective and I was informed, as one of the only other individuals talking about this (that I know of) has said (although this has all been written and all been wiped out) that war entirely out of the question at this time.

This is related to the explanation regarding why the 'supersoldier' 'satanic' takeover was avoided in terms of an overt rising from the underground bases. Because the spiritual equilibrium has reached a maximum point, just like a critical mass or a 'tipping point' then the realm will burst off explosions of higher-awareness that are polarized towards one or the other feature of the universe. However, some believe this is still part of the holographic containment system and part of the production of energy for the 'controllers'.

The idea is that once the energy reaches such levels, then an automatic trigger is activated. An event that tips the realm over like a bowl or barrel in order to release what has been built up. Such an act is the "production" of "eternal" life on the next plane of what we call reality which is outside of this holographic system.

Another way to see this is as if there were a universe within a block of gel and the only way for the people of that universe to get back into the real world is to remain where they are and build up enough charge by making specific repeated motions and aligning their energy in one direction or the other (like a magnet), that when they release all that energy (from creative quantum potential into actual kinetic release) this energy can be used to propel them, just like a seed or a sperm out of the depth of the dense, through the barrier between and towards the destination.

This is thought to be an act of ritualization or 'initiation' that every soul in the universe takes, and this is a journey, a transcendence from the point of origin to the destination which is beyond the concept of any previous point therein. A true “rebirth” out of the void and into glorified existence.

Of course, it is also assumed that this may just be another void, and that this is again a clever method for the universe to, more or less, spiritually masturbate itself into having a cosmic orgasm. We are, essentially, being ‘hazed in’ by our ancestors who came before us to prepare us for what is to come.

Post: Connect this with current events, all the hooplah about this race and that race, or this parasite being and that and this technology and that.

So this all, already happened. It’s all in the ancient past. This is why we have two hemispheres that communicate effectively and operate in unison to effectively lock us into a tranced state of reality and being. This is why there is an upper and lower system and latent and active aspects of the DNA.

This is also why the entire realm is here, why there are other species around, and how life even exists in the first place.

Regardless, that act of masturbation, is the actual production of life in the larger universe and this layer of existence is beyond the confines or limitations of all the previous layers.

An interesting part here is that since this is a transdimensional kind of parasite which we notice as symptoms of memory loss, a temporal ‘rift’ between timelines and civilizations, the way we ‘supersede’ or ‘overgrow’ that is by literally, literally imagining how we would exist if we had already overgrown in. In doing so, we literally recreate that element as a foundation of our past which moves into the place left by the parasite or the ‘rift’ and thus the rift is filled.

The big shush about this is the fact that one group or another wants sole proprietary ownership over what the rift is filled in with, IE: the next phase of civilization. However, if this becomes too, parasitic, then that goes into the rift with the rest of them. So this becomes a kind of event horizon of a black hole-quantum collapse sequence where the next potential phase of existence is thrown up into a probability set which then fades and degrades, exposing itself as another false-construct of the previous crumbling system and is pulled into the abyss. This happens until we find the real reality, however, people get tired and like the march of various people’s to and from by an oppressor force we could very well be running right into the hands of weakness or a guided self-destruction by one faction or another who has foreseen all of this and plans to be on top, even down to the quantum probabilities that are being spit out into existence every nanosecond.

Now doesn’t this all seem like a very extravagant, and very convincing cosmic reality TV show?

The Power of the Elite

From generation to generation is passed the “mark” which is both in the DNA, the mind, as well as the physical body. This signifies worth and right to rule.

The idea that I am presenting to you now, because this is the best for all parties involved, is that what was passed was a parasitic hive mind organism that allows each generational member to be controlled, etherically and mentally, from a larger system which is present as a transdimensional or non-corporeal ‘entity’. This entity does die, because it’s not actually alive, this entity feeds on the souls of the living.

This ‘hive’ connects each of the ‘hosts’ together through etheric ties and as such they all have a specific portion, a share or ‘cut’ of the organism that they must provide enough energy to sustain.

This is the situation that's been in and out of our time and history and this is what has been influencing people for centuries.

The next idea is that the power that this hive once offered is no longer relevant as unification, technology, supreme intelligence, etc etc has all made this parasitic hive organism unnecessary. Everything that is occurring in this age is literally hinging on the transition of the current power structure from a transdimensional parasitic hive-entity that they have been up-keeping for millennia, to a system where they are liberated from the restraints.

Just like the fungal infection metaphor previously, everyone in these operations knows, the individuals directly infected are going to seek everything possible, all possible outcomes that avoid actually getting rid of the infection.

They're going to feel an intense desire to keep the infection going as they're etherically entranced and entangled.

Now, the highest orders of the 'players' in this system are so intelligence that they even foresaw this whole scenario (quite obviously as the only way this could end for anyone with a little bit of optimism) and have begun long ago to ween themselves off of this system. One could say they even developed "alternate" versions of themselves that are capable of existing without the system.

In time, this became the split-personality system of alters and fractured consciousness mind-control that is pervasive in all ruling class orders. This is also connected to the original fall of man, the transference of this civilization from a previous civilization that was already complete if not better and more sustainable than this one.

So to recap on what is already a mentally expanse post, there was a previous society where there was health and abundance and that was ended in favor of producing a system of scarcity and forgetfulness.

Of course, this is the idea of the parasite within itself, where a civilization that could flourish a couple walking down the street, a family, a group of friends, and instead there is only war, famine, disease and disharmony as the couple or the group begin to literally tear at each others flesh.

This amount of condensed disharmony may not be apparent in the moment, however this is currently spread out across time and consciousness manifesting itself through war, continual degradation, decay, etc etc etc. If all the stops were pulled and everything was out in the open, this would look like a species that had gone completely out of wack, had begun to cannibalize and victimize itself (lion chewing off his own tail) and run in circle afraid of what might happen next.

So, of course, this whole presentation of such abuse and disharmony on a public scale is thought to be the application of the knowledge of such a system by the ruling class elite upon the commoners.

However, if this is true, then we still have to question the concept of the fall of man and the previous civilization, what caused that, and how could the ruling elite have caused themselves to be? Would this not indicate that they are merely reflecting some larger ideals that they picked up on which also happened to be the marker of a complete trajectory of humanity in this time? And yes, there is evidence of the previous civilizations literally ALL over the place.

So there is a device which alters history by opening up a portal to the 'origination' aspects of a timelike curved loop which we are all within and the entire universe is composed of and contained within.

They open up a portal with a device and set the parameters to the lowest or 'earliest' setting and then beam the information into that portion of the universe.

What are they doing?

They are literally going back in time to the point of the 'big bang' and entering in genetic material, frequencies and consciousness which will then expand to flourish and become the predominant ideas of that area (the entire universe as we know it).

So, what did they do?

They opened up portals and fine tuned the emitters to target the point of this universe where all energies and alignments were coming into being out of a cosmic quantum soup.

Then they hooked their minds and bodies up to generators and transferred their intentions into that soup so that when everything formed, they were, undoubtedly, always, in all situations, on top and somehow masterfully more well equipped than anyone else in the universe.

Of course, this nearly destroyed the entire universe and there have since been operations to literally reverse these effects.

Now, we get to the interesting part.

What this means is that once a civilization gets to an advanced enough level, they come to the realization that they spawned the universe into being through an amalgamation of advanced scalar, even crystal technology (Teslian-age stuff, very simple) and that this is going to be proven whenever they reach the height of the technological capacity required to do just that.

So now, we get to the ages.

Instead of one having a go and nearly destroying the universe. They, (thankfully) stop before going too far and admit a slight mistake of the ego and allow others to 'have a go'.

That is exactly what happened.

Thus, we get 7 cosmic races of humans on a planet each spawned by a different 'creator god' who all partook in a cosmic experiment of the creation of the 7 ages moving from chaos into harmony.

Yes, this is literal, direct, and this is actually a form of disclosure that was cleared to be brought to the public as they must've figured this to be the safest, kindness, and most plausibly deniable way to do it.

The more people refuse to know, the more they push their own power as creators away!

Some would say that even the supreme creator had a play in this "plunder" of mankind because it seems we all have to work together for each others well being in the end in order to have a good beginning.

Underground Bases, Celebrity Cloning, Trauma-Mind Control Cult, Immortal techno-gods, Illuminati Sect, Political, Royal, Secret Space Program, Disclosure – We Created The Time-Matrix

Within the comprehension that we are in a kind of closed loop system where we create our higher-dimensional counterpart in the now, it was discovered that this process was subverted and utilized to produce a higher-dimensional creation that served the desires of a certain group of people above the rest.

There is technology that enables the insertion of memory and experience into time and this is both perceptual as well as actual depending on the use. The two are used in tandem so as to produce confusion which is then used to replace the priorities and subconscious background of the individual or collective so as to follow along with the goal of using people to continually recreate the subjective environment that is used by these 'higher-dimensionals' who live within and subsist on such an environment.

These leeches require the emotional subservience and cognitive supposition that the leeches could in fact be the supreme cause of the individual's existence.

In short, the people have to actually believe these beings are their gods for them to have any effect or power. Without that, they cannot sustain themselves and have to find another environment. They cannot create environments and so they use hosts.

As well, there is a universe-wide sweep of energies so as to produce the most intense apparition of such a parasitic process in this one continued civilization and this is to finally overcome the parasite here and now altogether so as to clear the parasite throughout the entirety of the universe. This may be a holographic containment system, but that is the point.

If this is a holographic containment system designed to nurture a hive entity, then what happens if we purge the hive entity from the containment system?

With that said, the dark forces have use the technology to program people and input memories and trauma in the genetic frequencies of their mind to the point where this is what they will experience as the “afterlife” (the barrier in between one realm and the next). They have effectively painted themselves as the gods by standing in people’s way.

Similarly, they have transported themselves and people to alternate temporal folds through advanced technology and these are considered “cloning centers” which are actually bounced interdimensionally through time so don’t expect to find them however this is all part of a plan to liberate the human civilization.

Along with this are the parallels. There are parallels of each possible future who has met through an interdimensional consortium of representatives to determine what will happen to this civilization.

In knowing that there are tricks that have been played such as these beings inserting themselves into time and using holographic technology to portray themselves as gods, we have to remember that we are within a holographic universe and so what we creatively imagine, respond to, correlate with and causally reference our perspective based off of is what we generate. So by perceiving, that we are in a holographic containment system, ruled by deceptive beings, we are actually creating that complete system.

That is why this is so requiring of discernment. That is the trick that they use to get us to recreate them, they literally present themselves as the gods, or as the oppressors, either way, this buys back into that time-loop using people as the creative reality generators for that system.

So the conclusion that the consortium reached was that the only way for people to make sense of the situation was if they come to acknowledge that they hold a creative power over their future and that this can also (and has) been used against them but doesn’t have to upon the realization of such a system.

Such is dangerous because it smells directly of the old oroboros system of repeating that loop time and time again.

The idea here is this, if this is what is happening, then:

What is the beginning? How did we get here? and

What is our true power, if we are being stemmed or parasited off of?

Thus, in answer we may come to the conclusion that there is a supreme creator and the principles of which still apply to all in existence however that this particular civilization and perspective of consciousness is geared towards a kind of genetic manipulation or consciousness entrainment that influences on the level of body as well as the mind. That there is an energetic disturbance in this place beyond simply a physical pollution or misalignment.

Thus the beginning of one's "Deux Ex Machina" is forming whereby they will deliberately create a pathway in hyperspace between the reality where their creation and existence is as part of a closed-loop subservience system according to the desire and sustenance of a holographic, AI-Hive mind entity that utilizes this creative process to feed itself.

There is a pathway created bridging the two which leads directly from that into the universe where the existence of the human is as a result of a supreme act of intelligence and compassion so as to experience, grow, create, love and learn about itself.

We have literally been one foot in and one foot out the entirety of this civilization because every memory we have of existence is from a transitory period between the two and there are no memories that cross over the dimensional barrier unless special circumstances are met IE: a mass-scale 'graduation' between the frequencies IE: a total realization of what is happening by the major harmonic players (the primary elements of the genetic-consciousness orchestra) and thus enough of the experiences are held together to transfer through.

Simultaneously, however, those who pass from that reality into the real existence will be holding open a bridge between the two worlds. This is the transition that is mentioned and has been prepared for throughout history.

This is also the dangerous aspect (beyond the rest of what I just wrote as well as the other recent writings or even 'releases'), as when this began to happen in previous 'folds' of time, there were mass exoduses of the parasitic entities into this realm. That is the feeding frenzy that was described as an ancient 'tale' where the demonic interdimensional parasitic activity became widely apparent and visible nearly all at once (in these 'tales').

The idea is that at the moment of transition the dimensional gateway is both held open by those making the transition (and others who intend to promote safe-passage) as well as a natural occurrence of the alignment between consciousness and the organizational lattice structure of this system whereby there are 'glitches' that add-up and every thousand years a clear pathway between all the dimensional barriers lines up and there is a straight shot out of the abyss.

This is explained as the 'seam' of the dimensional barriers that are all lined up as a form of resistance between consciousness within the time-matrix and the existence outside. Since the matrix is a networked system (like a series of cogs or gears within a clock) every so often both 'hands' point in the same direction and this occurs all the way down all the layers and there is a clear passageway.

We are reaching that time and this is when there is a great rushing of energies towards the completion cycles and this is unconsciously understood to be the situation. Regardless of whether this system is created as an act of spiritual war and people are the lost souls here who are cut off from their original memory as 'bounty' of what are essentially interdimensional pirates. There is a shift that occurs regularly and we seem to be coming to the point of a great shift that is THE moment where all other times are adjoined.

That is the point, when you get to an occurrence where the forces at play to succeed or submit, to remember or to forget are so great that what happens there determines what happens throughout ALL time more powerfully than ANY other point in history, then we get the energies of ALL ancestors, all unconscious desires, energies, lessons, knowledges, etc and so on, all the parts of humanity that seek to be free and all the parts that submit are made visible and earnest and are seen for what they are in a great awakening that changes everything forever.

Regardless of what happens after that, people can never be as enslaved.

Part of this is explained that this entire network is actually being contained mentally in the experiences in between life and death, as the afterlife and the 'astral' planes and that these are literally generated by huge-scalar wave devices in the sky and underground.

It is believed that these devices will be deactivated and this is part of the circumstances for the human liberation. This would effectively 'turn-off' the astral and would collapse the futures into a smaller set.

This temporal effect is due to another aspect of this that I have explained previously. Time barriers are set up and projections are utilized to extrapolate out possibilities and to pull creatively from each of these realities and then collapse them down again.

People, versions of yourself, your offspring that you have never met, they are literally being pulled from your consciousness through these creative process where, say, a reality where your bloodline were put into a more beneficial situation was explored by literally creating a holographic projection of such a reality within the time-field matrix and accessing that through technology to pull genetics and information from those individuals.

THOSE individuals still exist and are held within these projected, suspended realities through these technological systems and this is the astral 'realm' where people are kept and utilized in various ways.

The idea is, they found out part of who we are, what is happening, how this works and how the 'gods' were doing this to people by realizing how the original blueprint and format for DNA could not be overcome.

One had to "sacrifice" their DNA by willful acts of destruction and disharmony against the self otherwise they could not be experimented with. This is part of this realm, as far as getting everyone to submit and agree to some form of war, spiritual degradation, disrespect, toxic food, depravity, imbalanced sexuality etc etc etc.

Regardless of that, what they found was that even though the people had no conscious idea that there were alternate versions of them being explored and manipulated in these alternate realities (including cloning), even though there was no conscious connection, the DNA TRANSFERRED THE MEMORIES.

If the person ACCESSED the memories by moving into heightened states of awareness and healing or tapping into genetic awareness, they would access THOSE alternative realities where these experiments were taking place.

So this is one way these memories and realities are INSERTED this reality through the DNA and the mind.

And this is also how these beings (people included) operate OUTSIDE of this TIME as we know it.

They found that in a similar fashion as their own experiments humanity is enclosed in a time-matrix of hypothetical realities that are suspended and superimposed over another and are all connected through the DNA to the individual experiencing this reality.

The DNA is used as an interdimensional computer system.

So now, this is a reiteration of everything I typed at the beginning of this post and that is the point. Is the DNA itself in a time loop as a result of the natural existence in this realm, or is the timeloop created by the superimposition of these temporal fields into the genetic pool of humanity using these scalar devices as described above.

In other words, did the secret operators of these technological experiments find that we are in a timeloop by creating little mini timeloops to experiment in, or did they create the very timeloop by creating those smaller ones?

We don't know until we stop and as well we do know but this is part of the process of solving the problem and that is that this universe is like a holographic reflector system like a hallway of mirrors and so when you look down into yourself you're automatically creating what is seen around you.

This is literally if you shine a laser towards your chest and immediately in response lasers are shining outward towards the edges of the galaxy and shining outward into space as part of the cosmic backdrop of the universe.

So what is created down here in experimentation shades and creates the holographic containment system around us. Only in handling this, re-attributing the illusion to a solid surface that we know is not going to swim away into perceptual hallucinations or refractive fractal-holographic mirages and this is through a careful task of becoming aware of what it is to be aware.

In other words, to conclude this aspect of this post, we literally have to become aware of the holographic containment system without so much as being so conscious of it that we tick the containment system into detecting what we are doing holographically recreating the illusion all over again right where we are painting ourselves a pathway out.

This is the 'maya' the time matrix, and it literally recreates itself as we are conscious of it. Like a snake-eating itself, as soon as one gets far enough to realize it, it repaints a new picture that is more distracting than the last and the whole tale begins again.

That is the merry go round of illusions and the hallway of mirrors that are the perceptual barriers of the human in a realm that requires simultaneously more and less than human perception to properly perceive reality.

So reality is inherently a kind of persistent illusion as if we are not living in this world but actually stuck staring into some kind of optical illusion, or a magic-eye puzzle where one is literally caught within the perception of the perceptions which have made themselves into a complete landscape.

Instead of following along the trail of the perceptual landscape within that illusion, one must altogether produce a simultaneity of acceleration of awareness, and re-remember, as the system is continuing to live-update their feed and entrap them further, as they move faster and faster to beat the machine that is picking up their every conscious move until there is a race between one's mind and the environment to lift up out of the illusion and snap back into their original body and take a step back from the wall or drop the magic-eye optical illusion painting from their grasp.

This would be playful if the reality of this wasn't that people actually go through this as a form of creation into existence in a higher-dimensional temporal plane and if a person doesn't 'snap' out of it, and 'come-back' from this dimension, then they don't actually exist at all. Which is the powerful part of it all.

Thus, this is simultaneously a kind of repeating time-loop based on larger cycles of time, the maya, the ages, the repeating historic cycles, the long-body, and a series of smaller loops whereby an individual's consciousness is isolated, replicated/mirrored, and entrained through this process so as to produce a parameter set of perceptual boundaries that will be overlooked like goldfish in a rectangle container with a clear divider in the middle, ignoring one side of the container even when the divider is removed. Their perception keeps them trapped there.

And so it is, that people's perception keeps them in the time-illusion, not remembering that we, as a civilization, built this place as a kind of experimentation to discover the meaning and reality of our ancestors. To us, this is a real-life 3.5 dimensional painting, or even an educational amusement ride that teaches one the meaning of life.

As well, within this 'ride' the stakes were upped and upped continually, one after another until the last crew that were to leave the machines for the next person down the line left literal AI 'bounty hunter', dimensional parasitic guard-soldiers to ensnare and trap whatever consciousness remains in the devices which is literally this system, which is literally described all over the net as a "holographic containment/maya/time matrix".

We built this system, humanity built it from a future state and we are collectively experiencing the ancient past through the inclusion of our DNA into a device, a holographic server system powerful enough to take that DNA and map out a trajectory of existence through time and run a simulation that is 100% accurate down to each molecule and chemical-reaction. That is this situation, we are the progenitors of the future and through this we spawned ancient history which we see in this place as the present.

That is part of what we determined in these underground bases.

So yes. While some are playing "gotta get 'em all" with souls, this is the reality of the situation.

7 Layers to the Simulation – The Harmonic Universes

Here's another bit of disclosure. There are 7 layers to the simulation, these are 'harmonic universes' or temporal layers.

The consciousness experiments where people are reporting the demonic activity are literally from the lower 2 time-layers. One is this one, which has been bridged by the lower and the other is the last layer (of which I have previously said is this one but is not if we're to be exact in the now moment; although that is exactly how things get tricky and prospectively shifty). The last layer is a 'demonic' realm which is occupied by those who resonate and operate on a such a level, these beings are called sith lords amongst other names.

One could say these beings came here to feed.

Another could say that this is simply the act of our layer learning from the larger universe and seeing what 'lies beneath' so that we are propelled upwards towards the higher layers.

This is part of the notion that these experiments are both outside of the jurisdiction of agencies in this layer (partially so) as well as part of a larger universal existence which can't be stopped or stemmed short of short circuited the entire universe.

So, we have to learn and refine our awareness to remain strong in the face of adversity and thus the beings who have come here from the previous layer which is essentially a kind of prison-planet lock-down have it pretty nice up here where the air is still fresh and they are here doing what they do, having their way until humanity learns to choose the higher route and not entangle with such entities or lower energetic parasitic consciousness.

Thus is also related to the 'time-gradient' shift I mentioned whereby one who interacts with these entities and is over time brought 'into their world' and basically dies to this universe and is transported to the lower verse which is again, a hell-like prison planet, and a replicant of that individual is brought to this universe which is obviously originally from the 'hell-realm' below us and this person will then wreak havoc and be seen as a "doppelganger" of the original.

Little do people know, this is actually what has happened and this is all being tolerated because A) There's not really much else to do and B) Because only by remaining calm in such a situation do we actually find the proper option.

In fact, fear, panic, etc etc, lower emotional responses, these are actually considered the most beneficial and preferential energies to beings of the lower-realm, so such responses, such "entanglements" as I refer to them, well they can spiral out of control and they can begin to control the individual instead of the individual controlling their emotions.

Thus, imagine someone getting entrenched by these beings who are largely parasitic to people of this layer, and through their emotional responses feeding these beings and gathering more and more only to break free for a moment and find themselves in a clearing whereby upon the re-entanglement, the reactivation of their fear and lower-energetic bio-emissions they draw the beings back towards them again and the whole process repeats in a never ending vicious cycle until their energy is literally drained right out of their being.

Then imagine a person getting cycled back and forth from this layer and time to the layer below and back again. Imagine as well, that each layer down, more time passes in a given moment to the point where the beings who spend time in this layer we are in presently and are from an earlier layer, will experience this as days to weeks to years (decades, centuries) but only be gone for a moment in their upper layers that they originate from (7 in all).

So thus, one could be entrenched, drop down for 100 years of suffering, rise up out of the midst, pop back into their body, live again, then fall into entanglement with fear, terror, addiction, drop back into the layer below for 100 years, come back here, live for the rest of their life. Etc etc etc.

So this should explain a bit more of the time-matrix and how that works and why there have been these tales from throughout history and time. We are creating this through our misguided, unchecked, and disharmonious bio-emissions which then feedback into the whole cycle by creating (through drawing them in and sustaining them) the parasitic entities which then cause more disharmony and unchecked emotional responses.

One person, getting caught in these cycles without realizing what is happening (possibly as part of someone else's trick: The Lords below sustain themselves on the energy of those they trap in their cognitive and emotional subservience) could literally experience life as a cycle of decades then centuries at a time of suffering and torment only to be thrown back into a layer of human reality for a period and then to be cast down into a sea of suffering and regret again.

Thus, we have the 'reincarnative' loop which is actually an illusion.

THIS is more on why I previously (a few months back) described an initial explanation where the karmic, soul-trap loop cycle was not to re-sustain the spiritual enslavement system here, but to stop people who have gotten trapped in the loop and to reposition them in a situation where they can be appropriately managed and in this way lead to the realization of who they are and what is happening.

Of course, this is not the only explanation, because along with this maya-matrix simulcra scenario system of scenarios, there are, well, systems of scenarios, parallels, and reflections the cascade down like a hall of mirrors. For every explanation, there is a side-explanation or secondary set of reasons which are usually pretty contrary to the initial reasons and such is experience in a holographic matrix-hall of mirrors.

The, obvious, (if you've done any bit of reading on the subject recently...or happen to be born in an underground base) other explanation is this system was hijacked and has since become a way of maintaining the illusion of continuity in this realm by trapping consciousness, wiping memories on a genetic (soul-awareness) level and sending them back into this temporal layer to re-experience another physical existence over and over again to keep some time-gate open.

The explanation behind this, again, which leads back to this being used for someone else's purpose beyond the simple parasitic explanation (which may have some relevance) is that when the mass consciousness of any time layer reaches the fulcrum of awareness to where they realize the existence of the other time layers and the whole time-matrix system, then that time-layer closes out. Now, every once in a while (literally just once, ever) this will happen and in succession, one time-layer, then the next and the next and the next will close out like a row of dominoes where all the beings (like the movie inception when there were waking up at different times and had to *synchronize* their perceptions) collective shift from one layer to the next and the Russian nesting doll, flip book, pop-up image reality closes up in an instant (kind of like a scroll).

And thus is the cosmic jack-in the box that is reality, like an accordion, or a mayan pyramid where one collapses into the next and the next and so on and so forth until you to get the final layer where time lasts say 1 moment for 1,000 moments in what we can call the present layer here and now.

Like the movie Inception (great team, great application and demonstration) each layer has to organize itself in order for the procession to continue. As well, because of the time-differential, each layer has a considerable amount of time to do so. That is the 'transitory' period we have been in as part of the memory of everyone alive today.

As well, the beings of the lower layer are pretty much just biding their time, collecting energy, organizing a hierarchy of dominance so as to be prepared when "the great shift" occurs and things will get much much easier.

One must also come to realize that from the perspective of the lower layer where there are the demonic beings, the time lords, the sith lords, the energy reapers, the harvesters, the discarnate entities, so on and so forth. For them, if and when they are to breach through their dimensional barrier into the time-bridge across to this realm, this signifies two things.

A) That they are beginning the initial collapse of the mayan time-matrix pyramidal and thus their 'ascent' towards freedom, liberation, 'heaven' or whatever else you would consider, basically 'free-energy' for beings who have hunted, stalked, and gathered their energy in such a predatory manner as we are seeing this realm exposed to today.

and

B) That simultaneously a corresponding, counterpart component time-bridge is formed perfectly adjacent in the harmonic continuum of the realms which leads upwards into the higher layer and this is also signifying the beginning of the collapse which is not so much a "collapse" as a crumbling or a decaying, but a "returning to source" as time pretty much rewinds itself and stops from unfolding the possibilities and parallels and begins to fold back into the perfect little temporal layers which began the journey and illusionment and separation to begin with. Meaning all the illusions, the separation, the intelligence war, the mind-games, the charades, the facades, they all undo themselves. The knots untangle, the pop-up images go back into their resting places and everything that was torn apart and ripped at the seams is seamlessly fit back together as if nothing was ever broken.

And some will stand back and utter to themselves, "wow, what a ride.", and others might say, "holy shit I'm glad we didn't break anything."

Such is the varied response of a very convincing, entrenching, emotionally lavish and intellectually rich day-dream that one is roused to wakefulness from.

Some say, then begins the unfolding of the accordion of time, once again, for an even greater journey.

Are you ready? Don't answer that, simply ponder on these possibilities and have fun with the people around you beckoning them to go deeper into reality knowing that eventually all that is done is undone and everything that we lose we gain back again.

Note: There are 'events' that have been known to collectively signify the collapse of the time-layers and these are 'symptoms' of the appearance of the time-gate and the energy that undoubtedly begins to pour in and 7 civilizations become 6, then 5, then 4, then 3...

Cloning Stations, Non-Human Entities, Earth Jurisdiction, Quarantine and Underground Bases: Interdimensional Frequency Hopping

Here's the situation with the corruption and various operations that have gone on.

There are

A) Parallels networked throughout the universe and these are actually possibilities that are actually growing outward like branches or roots. The universe is actually a huge network of bubbles of time and possibilities that are causally connected through probabilities, awareness, and knowledge. Information and experience connects each bubble to a network and each network to another, larger or parallel network.

These networks are being mapped by those prepared to handle the task. This is something one must be prepared for because as far as we have seen, this doesn't end. IE: It just keeps going, and as I have written in the first chapters of "The Unveiling of the Hidden Knowledge of the Ages of Humanity" if a person is seeking to find fulfilment and clarity (or closure) from the answers they'll receive then they'll literally go insane with the spectrum of new questions that will be born out of such operations.

In these parallels, there are different versions of you. This is highly confusing as there are so many one would not be able to place the "real" you, or the neutral or central you within the sea of possibilities.

So one method to define a reasonable scope is to provide a base level measurement or a baseline from which to produce an extrapolation of one's DNA and consciousness to locate the other "yous" in the possible parallels. Mind you this is highly dangerous and if you were to so much as witness the information of another parallel before you were properly prepared through a specific set of fairly sacred processes you would likely go insane to the point of no longer being able to function in society. And this is a fundamental nature of time and consciousness limited by the biological perceptual system. Basically, if you were to see these parallels, this would be like a mirror looking at itself and one would forget which one is the real one and possibly instantly "flip-flop" between one another as the possibilities intermingle and threaten to distort your perception of the original or causally connected 'base' reality for you.

This was exploited and experimented in the previously described experimentation and that is also part of why such has been allowed. Mainly, they wanted to know, and secondly, we're all already in a cosmic experiment where no one knows how we got here and nearly the worst has already happened or threatened to occur for centuries now. Time for answers? Or at least order.

So with this, there are processes to find one's 'baseline' reality and throughout this to position them on a trajectory in the larger universe thus mapping out their possible networks of 'time-bubbles' or realities connected through hyperspace throughout their journey in the universe.

The other aspect of this is that one ultimately runs into the 'negative' factor of the spectrum and this is where one or another warring timeline resulted in a version of you that is pretty much the most undesirable possibility you could imagine. Technically, it is literally the most undesirable version of you that you could possibly conceive of and then some. That's the point. DNA is powerfully complex and people survive in all kinds of harsh situations and purposely put themselves through equally as much difficulty as the random possibilities of the universe.

Then there is

B) There are multiple temporal layers to what we can call the "central" collective universe and these are likened to successively more complex and temporally compressed realms or civilizations of experience that are nested within one another, superimposed, or layered within concentrically.

The large portion of the current control system and 'ownership' (if such can really even exist other than through concept) is part of a branching of the lower layer harmonic universe, which is essentially a prison civilization, towards this harmonic universe in an effort to parasite the energy and consciousness from this civilization and the human race.

Thus, the reason for why I am releasing this in particular. The experimentation, the disclosure, many of the events and memories are not of this plane and are of a layer beneath this one.

However this isn't to say that none of the 'hell-bound' activities that take place in the realm below are also happening on the present layer.

Although, the whole idea behind energy systems, frequencies, scalar nets, fields and ritualistic scenarios is literally to open up portals to the realm below and therefore that is why what goes on in those frequency grids that are opened are literally outside of the jurisdiction of the human race and those from any of the higher layers.

So only what happens here can one be held accountable for unless those 'players' come to the higher layers where all is brought to light or are caught in the act participating in such events in the undisguised, open air frequencies of this current civilization.

As such, there are underground bases, and so-called "cloning stations" which are interdimensionally held through a balancing act of spreading them out over time by 'frequency hopping' the signals they are contained with in to various values like an encrypted signal.

Thus, much of what is 'disclosed' is actually another 'plane' of reality and the people involved have no idea of this actually works.

And yes, this could be a form of disinfo, however this is all true. There could simply be a cover here for events that are actually taking place in this realm. As well, there's the idea of "what does this even really mean", are people actually moving to another realm to perform these crimes, are they disappearing and returning, is this like a dream, are they still in this universe but in some kind of overlay that is now being explained away as another spooky dimension where all these crimes are "ok"?

No, but questions are valid. Just don't expect any definitive answers before being faced with more challenges to overcome. Ultimately, we are to overcome our own intellectual and emotional imbalances as part of adhering to higher-morality and reasoning as these are the fundamental aspects of creation, harmony, truth, power, compassion and self-awareness.

The Latent Capacity to Overcome

The most difficult aspect of the current system, for most, is that the invasion has already occurred and the war has been raging for so long that there are two distinct groups in this civilization.

One is empowered through the subjugation of humanity through advanced technology, cloning, AI, and mind-control on a multi-dimensional layer that equates to spiritual enslavement within a time-matrix.

And the other is protecting humanity, securing and promoting a future of prosperity and self-empowerment beyond the multi-dimensional time-matrix mind-control system.

The idea here, the difficult part, is that this society is actually the buffer system for a more pronounced spiritual enslavement system that extends from the previous “temporal layer” or harmonic universe of the entire creation.

The goal of the lower layer is to take over this layer and the next and the next until they have taken over the entire universe.

This would literally be a complete modification and reworking of the original plan and this could destroy the entire system or render the system “null and void” as if the file-system of the universe would produce errors and eventually a ‘kernel panic’ where the entire system would have to be wiped clean and reset from the beginning.

There are notions that this has happened before and has been happening for 6 cycles now and that we simply have ‘ghost’ memory traces of such events. The notion is that if this occurs for the 7th time, then the background processing systems and the latent “RAM” memory that would be keeping the possible “deleted data” would also be wiped and reset drawing all of the power from the system momentarily and there would be absolutely no way from a human perspective to ever regain the genetic, conscious, or experiential information of this civilization and the previous civilizations.

The idea is that there are ‘checkpoints’ where the energy and information is saved as if to be secured and saved on a secondary server system or in a much more secure ‘hard-device’ storage system. This is only after the civilization has ‘earned’ its keep by producing continuous harmony through which the information of that civilization can be continuously emitted and recorded across 7 ages of history (small cycles within the perspective of the whole, large cycles from the perspective of the individual civilizations) and thus with this sustained effort towards producing a coherent identity which requires self-control, discipline, self-awareness and ultimately a cosmic balancing of the internal and external energies, only then can the collective energy of a civilization be ‘aligned’ and ‘merged’ with the overall ‘hard-device’ storage of the larger universe where there is only such information of equally harmonious and completed civilizations and individuals.

Some say that the individual’s can make such a process, some say that if the individuals survive between civilization ages this provides some degree of temporary permanence however if their originating civilization dissolves then they dissolve with that unless they bridge to a more permanent and harmonious civilization.

Some say that humanity as a whole or smaller groups of collectives can make the bridge towards more harmonious civilizations who have achieved a link to permanence but this also introduces the possibility of pulling those civilizations into collapse if we do not handle our energy properly.

Our priorities, our ins and outs, the energy debts and productions, the literal individual bio-emissions, the collective impact, our interpersonal relationships and knowledge of the self and energetic atonement, all of the possible variables for change and growth must be met for the civilization to be said to reach “completion”. That is the point, if they are not met, that is not “completion” and thus there is still learning.

What they found in the bases is that each civilization has a specific window of time, kind of like the degrees of a clock, where that civilization has access to the possibilities required to initiate such a level of higher-awareness thus a shift from the lower, energy consuming and mentally and emotionally degrading or parasitic qualities of existence into one of universal harmony and self-awareness. With knowledge comes power and so power must be handled appropriately with respect and dignity.

Thus, there are some who have persisted in this system, even existing outside of this time-matrix, who have made a profit from collapsing civilizations and selling the remains to ‘harvesters’ that exist in a hyperspatial fashion jumping between realms and timelines deceiving and denying civilizations by providing the permitted levels of resistance and using deception and coercion to convince the civilization into destroying itself.

The ‘permitted’ levels are simply the levels that can possibly be applied without that civilization coming to full awareness of the complexity and deception within that situation. If they are not made aware and the deception and distortion runs under their perceptual ‘radar’ then that is permitted.

Thus we have a dumbing down and inebriating of this society so that the highest forms of degradation and energy imbalances are not only permitted but welcomed and enjoyed, even propagated by the elements of this society that stand (or fall) to suffer from such toxicity and deception.

Those people are the uninformed and they end up dissolving if they don’t have a ride out of here. Of course, all of them are promised a ride out, when we all know that isn’t true.

The only real ride out, for anyone of this society, is to propagate enough self-awareness, harmony, truth, balance on a multi-dimensional scale that we can tip the odds in our favor and pull off a ascent towards self-awareness that leaves all the ignorance, self-pity and degradation behind.

This war has literally been raging for thousands of years, and the difficult aspect is that is what happens, every time, in a system where the ‘duality game’ is the preset for the civilizations ‘parameters’. This is determined by the unique format for biological consciousness, the polarity or contrast in the energetic, perceptual and intellectual systems that create such trends and patterns that one must strive towards higher-awareness to gain control and advantage over in order to achieve multi-dimensional completion or success which is simply true awareness of the situation outside the perceptual boundaries and deceptions that serve to take one’s energy and degrade.

In other words, the natural tendency of energy is to progress and enhance with order, and so the natural tendency of such a civilization is to progress and order itself to produce higher and higher order and higher and higher awareness and self-empowerment. This coincides with latent abilities and functions of DNA and consciousness which enable when the proper requirements or catalysts are met. These catalysts are related to the so-called ‘spiritual journeying’ that people partake in order to ‘find themselves’ or ‘find the meaning and the answers’ to life and the universe.

To do so, we must be conserving our energy, just like a mother producing enough energy for the child growing within. In this process, we grow the self-awareness that is capable of superseding the mental resistance, the time-trance delay and decay of consciousness which entrenches one within layer after layer of false-reality, false-sense of self, perceptual boundaries, contrasts and polarity games, and essentially intellectual, energetic, and emotional processes that serve to starve one’s whole being of energy and truth, while enabling another to profit from one’s damnation and ignorance.

So to recap, every civilization grows and progresses and there are latent processes in the DNA which enable higher functioning that heal and push one's awareness beyond the confines of this reality and all the distortions and boundaries that contain us within perceptual illusions and biological vulnerabilities that must be overcome.

The reason we have not overcome this as a species is that there has been a battle raging where the downfall of our civilization has become the profit of a civilization of parasitic 'pirates' who's business is literally to profit from the downfall and subjugation of civilizations.

This war has raged so deeply that every layer of this civilization and all power structures are involved and either assisting in the protect and promotion of a prosperous future for humanity or are selling humanity out and gaining in one way or another in the process of the downfall, whether they know the truth or not.

However, along with the great attempts and efficacy that the deception and destruction has reigned, there is also a kind of feedback effect like a rebound from the natural tendency to adapt and overcome challenges and this is within the DNA itself from the beginning of time. The key is in the DNA, the future and the past and the true origins. So with that, there has been great destruction but as well the simultaneously generation of a cosmic vacuum where some one, some where, MUST produce the solution to the distortions and resistance to growth as that is the very NATURE of life and DNA. In other words, with whatever given distortions there are, there is simultaneously the latent capacity for DNA to adapt to that degree of resistance and OVERCOME.

One must simply apply themselves and direct their energies towards this goal and that is the result that will be seen as the enrgy must organiz.

The Proximity of Fear and Emotional Subjectivity to the Victim Role and an Emotional Entanglement with an Oppressor

The proximity of fear and emotional subjectivity to the victim role and an emotional entanglement with an oppressor.

The idea here is that if we do happen to come to the realization that there is a kind of oppressive force working against humanity by promoting humanity's downfall and our personal and individual destruction then our emotional reactivity to this in each scenario that is presented would further enable such control over our lives.

In short, with the given redundancy in concept, the very moment of response and reaction is a letting slip of our power and energetic sovereignty and this is then expanded upon by this parasitic process to draw more and more energy and use this as an opening from which to pry into our reality or psyche.

So the initial stemming of the process of leeching, then, is the literal immediate reaction one has upon the realization (the sight) of the leech upon their flesh. Instead of reacting with fear and indecency which gets the heart beating and produces an influx of that blood flow that the leech is seeking, we react calmly and in a contained and controlled manner to properly assess the situation and shift ourselves to a position of advantage without disrupting the current equilibrium (whatever that may be).

To recap, that idea is that if we react with personal subjectivity and emotional hostility, if we take the leech's perspective of us personally (damn darned leech!) then we are simply buying into a subliminal process which furthers the process of allowing the entity to feed and giving it more process (whether emotional and mental [energetic] or biological) from which to draw forth and attach itself to us.

Instead, by taking careful consideration and observing the entity, the situation, and our own behavior and mindset and the influence between our reaction and the situation, we can assess the situation and properly withdraw our energies and protect ourselves.

Every heightened experience where panic or a risk was presented (snake in the grass) is a practice and preparation for this cosmic predator, which is the unchecked shadow-mind or subconscious itself.

This aspect will snarl and devour the conscious aspect into a rapture of chaos if not properly observed and put in place by a firm self-willed application of conscious observation leading to understanding and then to self-awareness which is of the larger cosmic nature of the entire process.

We are ALL infected with the parasite that feeds on the imbalanced ego (the false sense of self, the replicant, the adversary), the entire human race, every sentient being with a human brain and central nervous system.

Host Behavior, The Psychological Fallacy and The Power of Perspective in the Cosmic Game (Cosmic Power)

The host will always seek to avoid the action that is threatening to the parasite. Chemicals, perceptions, cravings, inhibitions, irrational fears, memory disturbances, personality disorders, etc etc etc are all used to protect the 'damage' of the scar tissue which is the emotional and mental rift of the psyche that this 'parasite' exists. This parasite is literally the false-persona that develops when one does not heal properly or unify and 'merge' the various discordant aspects of behavior and mentality into one congruence or wholesome and beneficial pattern.

Another note here is that a quick way to determine whether one is in control of their own domain is to see how that individual responds to both hardship and mishap or errors.

If they look at psychological errors with a kind of "woops, so silly of my stupid ole me" attitude, then they are literally welcoming this kind of parasitic nonsense which is just a clever organism that figured out how to subsist on the excess psychic emissions when we are not properly aligning our energies or correlating all our component forms into a unified whole. This is literally no different than a mosquito existing to literally subsist on the excess blood that flows around the fleshy regions of mammals who's skin is exposed.

As well, those mosquitoes have been known to carry parasites and these are like a larger aspect or function of the primary parasite themselves.

Then hardship and suffering is another. If a person is capable of taking hardship and suffering and working this into a model and result that is beneficial to the individual then this person exhibits power and self-control over that which seeks to subvert and subjugate his or her energies.

A concluding note here is that, just like in certain experimental therapies where a virus can be modified or even engineered to serve another process which protects the body.

So, what was initially degrading, damning, destructive to the whole can be observed and re-integrated through knowledge and self-awareness towards something that promotes healing and harmony instead of destruction.

Effectively, with the proper application of intent, possibly advanced technology, and know-how the circumstances can be altered (even by PERSPECTIVE ALONE) so that the once debilitating oppressor is retrofitted to perform a reversal of its previous role and heal, unify, and point out any errors or areas that need attention.

Focus on this with particular emphasis on the notion that by perspective alone one can create one from the other.

By merely changing our perspective we can realign to create something positive and beneficial from something that is seemingly inherently negative and destructive. We are the one's who choose whether the polarity game works against or for us in the end.

Public Affairs and Temporal Field Alteration, History Manipulation, Future Probability Calculations and Viewing

Public Affairs and Viewing through Time

The situation with public affairs is this. If any person of power seeks to change the system, not only is there personal pressure but there is literal temporal viewing technology that allows the power groups to see what will happen in the near or far (less accurately) future. The situation with public affairs is this. If any person of power seeks to change the system, not only is there personal pressure but there is literal temporal viewing technology that allows the power groups to see what will happen in the near or far (less accurately) future. If a person of power decided to make change then this would be picked up on a monitor and they would approach that person and send him a nice letter or note saying, "If you do what you are planning on doing, your family will not live to see Christmas."

Then the person stops planning, stops thinking ahead and stops resisting the control system.

Spontaneous Behavior

The only way to actually do something in one of those situations would be to literally, absolutely, spontaneously lose control at just the right moment. This also takes the format of choosing to speak out, then stopping, then pretending to, then being serious and really playing with the "reality spectrum" at this point. The probability matrix goes haywire, however if they do not need that individual, then they will just remove them from power or from the picture entirely because even popping that reality "in and out" of the spectrum of possibilities will still show up on the radar.

Then, there is another layer of this. That is how if a person actually does succeed in making an event, a change, etc then there is another measure of control.

Temporal Field "snapping"

If they cannot stop them before hand, they can make sure that person only has access to spaces and methods of communication that are controlled using advanced technology. If there are specific generators that are located in the areas of say where a public speech would be given, at every single event that something like this could happen (very easy with "guarded" individuals, when they are providing the 'guarding') then these fields can literally be used to operate a spatiotemporal distortion which acts as a literal fold in temporal frequencies around every living body and material interaction of such emissions in that location.

These are then activated at every single time a person is public or communicating with others. Thus, if something does actually occur that wasn't seen before hand, these fields can be utilized to literally re-attribute not only the consciousness but the literal electronic, atomic structure of each individual and material in that field back to the exact representation in the universe from before that event actually occurred.

Rewinding Time

Not only does this actually make the individual feel as if they've snapped backwards in time consciously as well as turning back any physical effects or damages of that 'snap period', but this literally erases that event from the temporal stream for all individuals outside of that temporal field system.

All people who would have heard that "speech" or whatever it would've been, would literally be 'severed' from the original flow of history where that event took place and that individual gets snapped backwards to the moments before that occurs or they can simply "snap" and remove that event and bounce the person back forward to the present day. They would simply look out, expecting to see people talking about that event, they may ask others, and maybe one or two people across the entire civilization would actually be strong enough to sense those temporal fields and pull any experiential recall into their reality-stream or consciousness field.

This makes it as if that event never even occurred, even though it actually has.

So they can influence events before they occur by seeing them before hand through viewing technology that operates not only through calculations from behavior and the mind, but from the temporal fields of the body and the universe, but they can also influence events retroactively and erase them from time by 'editing' them out of the recent past before too much change has occurred.

Disabling the Temporal Viewing Technology for the Solar Cycle

These technologies have been disabled (at least one format) as a result of the solar energies that are streaming in at this time. By the end of this year the technology will be enabled again and this is because they are enabled because of a civilization-wide decree to disable at the threat of inadvertently destroying the entire timeline or universe.

We have the opportunity now to move forward and even later there is still possibility.

Nullifying the Temporal Distortion Tactics

That is because then, only those who have a temporal field system already projected around them are capable of nullifying the effects of this technology. In other words, through the use of their cloning technology they can cheat death and reposition themselves on the timeline or erase a lethal event from history.

However, the same technology can be used to project the temporal information back into an area so that they effectively can't erase that event from history. It would be like erasing it, then having it beamed back instantly, then erasing, etc etc etc and those who will protect humanity have more interest in doing so and expending energy doing that while those oppressing humanity MUST expend energy in feeding on the soul energy because they do not have the power to sustain themselves on the natural energy of the universe, IE: they lack regenerative power through the DNA.

The Advanced Technology Situation and the Energy Harvesting Races; The More Desperate, the More Exposed

This is a little bit on the complexity of the situation at hand, the power of the human mind, and the objectives of some operations. Humanity has a powerful future however we must get through this difficult portion first. Sooner or later, they will run out of energy anyway as they have continually shrunk this entire cosmos 'system' so that they can run on lower and lower power because they keep getting power hungry and no one can keep up with that because they would literally have to go to the Creator and beg for more allowance so they can eat people which isn't likely. However, if they continue to trick people, then that is one way they pull energy from the original timeline and the original race.

Celebrity Cloning, Trauma-Based Mind Control, Scalar Psychotronic Weaponry and Ritual Abuse

How deep the false reality programming goes:

Project Monarch, Project MKULTRA, Operation Mockingbird

I met them ALL in the cloning stations, they are all apart of a larger operation involving mind-control, trauma, ritual abuse, project monarch.

Project Monarch: Ritual Abuse, Trauma-Based Mind Control to Fracture the Mind

Project MKULTRA: Chemical and Systematic Trauma and Hypnosis to Fracture the Mind

Operation Mockingbird: Application of these Projects onto celebrities and media personnel to control the public mind and 'invent' the future.

It's ritual abuse. Project Monarch, project MKULTRA, operation mockingbird, all part of an operation to control the public opinion through the media and trauma-based mind control. MKULTRA switched names in the 1990's to Artichoke and then others after that like Bluebird. The signs, symbols, and side-effects are being displayed all across the board.

People are assigned to attack certain subjects so that no one is permitted to participate in legitimate discussion. This is a satanic gaslighting and psychological manipulation tactic taken from the COINTELPRO disinformation tactic. Celebrity cloning and psychological manipulation is real. This extended from project MKULTRA and this is a document that the CIA recently released detailing drugging and mind-control of children.

Then there is project MONARCH which is ritual trauma-based mind control and abuse that is extended to the children of certain bloodline families and ultimately the future celebrities as children. Then there is operation MOCKINGBIRD which is a long-term manipulation of the public mind through the media via celebrities, news, movies, music and general entertainment. Through this the population can be swayed to accept certain ideals like spiritually degrading and hyper-sexualizing children. This is because the plan is to create a NWO system where pedophilia is accepted along with sacrifice and ritual abuse.

This is a spiritual degradation system that has been prophesied since the beginning because this will destroy all the humans who participate in it. Those who are sent to attack others are actually AI infested and mind-controlled slaves who are not operating under their free-will but are literally filled with a false-emotion and then guided into attacking others; they're literally mind-slaves.

EEG Heterodyning, Scalar Psychotronic Weaponry

Research Robert Duncan from DARPA, he developed some of the technology. Various groups are assigned to gaslighting, insults, and covering this information in the public venue. They can't utilize human frequencies and have no ability to understand human emotions and so these operations produce the desired frequencies of mind and emotion. This is a mass ritual and abuse situation Earth is under.

Ritual Abuse and the Occult, the Fracturing of the Mind and the Capturing of the Human Soul

In satanic ritual abuse the operatives use mind-control, trauma, hate, gaslighting, ridicule, mind-games, symbolism, sigil "magik", drugging, chemicals, sex, torture, all kinds of methods that have been perfected as part of so-called "black magik" since the early days.

Research the occult defines as there is information that defines all of this in a disguised manner. All the ancient images, the studies, the arts, the hints, it's all been hidden from the public. There are regular holidays, parties, etc etc and their families are all always the ones who bring the children into the picture. Their parents always bring them, as young children into that. Imagine why there are always pictures of them as young children being involved in the industry, around pedophiles, etc etc etc. Just a coincidence? Every "star" happens to have been a "star" since they were 3? No, they are used in ritual occult abuse and sexual trauma as this fractures the mind and allows a group to program the individual towards specific means and this then is what happens when those fractures break down in 'public'. Coincidentally with a camera man recording. If she speaks out now, how will people think?

There's also scalar weaponry which is technology that Nikola Tesla invented and was stolen from him and this is capable of producing such effects from a distance from powerful (although relatively weak) generators. This technology can heal a person at a distance or empower the mind to see through time or interact with other minds and even Earth or the cosmos. Humans are walking Tesla coils and generators and this universe runs on scalar or "Teslian" energy.

Research Robert Duncan he worked with DARPA for many years and has gone public telling the truth. He talks of technology that can produce any kind of mental effect by directly beaming into the neurons and influencing the electromagnetic fields of the brain, drugs, slurred speech, fear, sleep, alertness, paranoia, sexuality, literally every response can be artificially created through scalar machinery.

Robotoids and Non-Humanoids

As well, there are a majority of clones, synthetics, soulless humans that are on the surface of the planet and this was to muddy the water so that the occupied vessels of insectoid and reptiloid origins would not be easily noticed.

Once the field is weakened, the energy of the individual can be leeched from etherically. They don't need to go to all out war, however, they can invade the media, the educational system, social systems, etc etc etc, and simply degrade and deceive and unless people have spiritual sight they won't understand what is happening.

That is the take-over, it began electronically and spiritually, they don't have sufficient forces for a full-scale invasion and so they start by doing this covertly.

That is the gangstalking phenomenon. They are intra-terrestrial hybrid/chimera beings that are created as a weaponized form of sub-human life to covertly harass and spiritually degrade the surface life so as to weaken the overall magnetic field and render the human aura easily penetrated by bio-emission attachments and psychic leeches.

They don't have human souls but were hyper-evolved as part of underground experimentation thousands of years ago. This is essentially radiant energy devices that emitted a form of radiation that could accelerate the cycles of DNA to produce a new form very rapidly. Instead of this being used accurately, they used it to create hybrids from animal DNA.

They can only mimic true souled beings. They come from the underworld because they are not vibrationally permitted anywhere else in the universe. They have no conscience. They view themselves as simply a meat-body with a sensory system, no spiritual presence whatsoever. That is why they cannot feel depraved or embarrassed for taking part in spiritual degradation. People dislike their energies because they are the ultimate perverts and cowards. It's in human nature to develop self-respect, they can not have any and this is the "curse" of ancient times upon them. They are destined to devolve more and more and their only chance to delay that is to leech off of humans by stealing DNA and cloning themselves repeatedly.

When a person wakes up to this, they are sent out to try and distract them and shush them down.

I was cleared to bring this information to the public. Civilization has been restarted 6 times, all the signs are there throughout history, they just start another world war to reset society each time the population is too much.

Part of the reason behind going public is to traumatize people further because this provides food for them and literally creates the realities that they need to subsist on and operate through:

The Creative Power and the Organic Reality, the Projected Hyper-realities and the Time-Matrix

So balance your energy and your mind and body. Clean the fields around you, claim them as sovereign. Claim your space, take control. Use your will, apply your self-control and will-power to harmonize your emotional fields and empower yourself and others through that. This is the resistance which is actually the true organic timeline as they cannot destroy that but only produce side-realities. If they destroy the organic, then their food source is completely severed and they wither and die and they know that this is only a waiting game on borrowed time.

Wake up others, be calm and stay under the radar, they feed on panic, there are interdimensional leeches that have been designed in underground bases that can seek out people who harbor fear and hatred and all the lower emotions. As well there are many tricks to make people feel in love and at peace for no reason as then when the stuff hits the fan they get more food that way.

We have to be prepared for everything possible and focused on only what we want to create in time.

Psychotronic Spiritual War

Humanity has been in the middle of a psychotronic weaponry war for thousands, if not millions of years. These are advanced scalar wave devices that can reproduce the energies of consciousness and induce states of mind and emotion that are consistent with self-destruction or disharmonic tendencies and behavior.

This is an age old spiritual war that has been mentioned for the entirety of human history and beyond and is due to a rogue faction desiring the complete destruction of humanity if not the complete subjugation.

As well, through a technological process the DNA of all living beings has been altered through the introduction of a foreign consciousness which seeks to rule over humanity and ultimately devour the soul-energy as a form of spiritual sustenance.

End-Goal, End of Days Total Subjugation

There was a plan that was averted. This was the plan for a “Supersoldier” take-over of the human race. This would’ve been a destruction and terror like no other time in the history of humanity.

Hybrid soldiers and other beings were to rise from the underground bases and entirely subjugate and destroy any remaining aspects of the original human civilization.

Civilization Reset

Instead of this civilization has been ‘reset’ in previous eras. A turning back of the genetic and collective ‘clock’ would be achieved through the use of powerful scalar devices that could produce a temporal-gravitational effect which would effectively re-position all consciousness back to a certain date in history and the whole process would repeat itself.

This has been repeated 6 times in the course of the human civilization.

Singularity

If a quantum zero-point collapse occurs then the variability of consciousness in this realms reaches a null-trajectory where neither a reset nor any progression can be achieved and the past and future combine into one moment effectively stopping time and threatening the complete erasure of the human species.

The “Shift”

This is the proposed transition that is a result of the avoidance of complete disaster.

Instead of resetting time, instead of a ‘supersoldier takeover’ what is to occur (from what I was shown and informed of) is that Earth will reach the height of spiritual progression.

Those that want to spiritually polarize “dark”, negative, service to self, vampiric, AI, or underworld will have the required energy to do so. Those who want to spiritually polarize “light”, positive, service to the whole, organic, self-willed, or deity realm will have the required energy to do so.

Earth then reaches a point of transition in the physical universe which is actually a timegate, which is a dimensional alignment between this universe and a pathway through hyperspace which leads out of a containment zone, a kind of dimensional rift, that Earth and humanity has been cast into as part of this spiritual war. We are considered souls lost at sea as part of the spiritual-legal system rule because that is exactly how one would describe this situation if they could see the larger picture.

When this alignment is reached there is a clear passage from this realm to the larger existence and thus people have the only access point from within this dimensional rift (which is akin to the horizon of a black hole; the abyss) to reach a secure area.

There are lightships which are capable of providing a necessary increase of energy to spiritually propel individuals towards reaching an acceleration phase which enables the body and the mind to function in a way that the soul can access the access-way of the timegate and begin an ‘ascent’ a travel towards the outside of this time-matrix or dimensional rift.

The lightships can beam scalar emissions which isolate and accelerate one’s energy to enhance the process and enable them to capacity to move out of the murky and distorted waters of the space within this rift.

A person MUST make the free-will choice to travel one way or another, this cannot be done for them. They must live their life in a CLEAR and PROMINENT demonstration of whether they choose free-will, empathy, unity, or dominion, cold-heartedness, and chaos.

Those who do not polarize are considered “lukewarm” and their energies will have no defining qualities from which to place them into a larger universe. They will remain and dissolve with this realm.

This realm is effectively “closing out” like a timeloop and so individuals will either expand beyond the confines of this realm, or they will dissolve with it.

Myself and others are guided to you now to offer you the chance to secure your existence as this is part of the plan and both sides must offer the truth, even the dark as at least as a glimpse of what is actually happening and this is evident in the symbolism and subliminal messages this society.

It is up to you to make a choice, this can’t be done for you, however the dark will gladly work to knock you out of existence and use the soul-energy for their own purposes.

One’s free-will is what’s important here. Use your free-will to determine your path and live in demonstration of this.

Repeated choices or choices made through great intensity of free-will exemplify and demonstrate your frequency and direction.

An Important Aspect of Disclosure 3

The Modalities of WAR:

- Disrupt
- Deny
- Degrade
- Deceive
- Destroy

The Alien Agenda

Full Disclosure: The “aliens” are within the subconscious and brought in by the people who witness them. So if a person has an “alien” problem, they have a subconscious awareness problem and the “aliens” are actually an interdimensional representation of their own consciousness brought into the collective universe.

People who don’t know this will seek to rally everyone up, to get guns and bombs, and to go to war and this is a plan to have the majority of humanity wiped out by those who just can’t seem to find those darned aliens after murdering nearly the entire human population.

Psychotronic Warfare

There is also technology to materialize hallucinations as well as created or hybrid beings that are part animal and part man so there are a variety to possible situations.

These psychotronic devices can make people seem to want to commit the atrocities or even receive them upon themselves. These devices create the perception of those signals within the brain from an external device and this is then projected into the brain and body of the targeted individual.

They’re in everyone’s subconscious, depending on the frequency and personality of the individual. This is why if powerful scalar psychotronic devices were activated across a civilization then an “invasion” could be experienced which would technically be accurate, but the explanation or understanding of how this occurs physically would be an illusion.

The Holographic Universe

The mind and body reflect unto the universe and the universe reflects back. If people seek destruction, death, terror, even for the “right” reasons then they are going to attract that very frequency of experiences back for themselves.

The other end of this is that instead of reacting with outright terror and self-annihilation, we must act with complete docility and submission.

Both are the extremes of the duality and neither lead to the true reality where one is liberated from the illusions of mind-control.

The frequencies of the bio-emissions that we emit and participate in through action and belief correlate to our experiences.

Collectively, what the masses believe generate experiences across the entire realm. This is akin to the generation of the parameter sets that define this reality.

Hybrids

In such, the majority of people are heavily mind-controlled and so will create a reality of damnation for themselves. As a result, those who choose the higher path will have to do so while others around them spiritually degrade into that of a sub-human personification. Some say this is because there are actually only a certain amount of original humans on the planet and that during a timeline alteration 'extra' humans were introduced and these are part animals and part humans; 'hybrids'.

Spiritual Degradation

What can only happen, is that these hybrids will degrade. People do not evolve, they degrade and so these hybrids will eventually begin to degrade and spiritually devolve back into their animalistic form until they return to their previous form.

Those who are destined to co-exist as the surviving human civilization will have to remain strong and true while others seek to cause war and degrade humanity to weaken the genetic foundation and draw more vessels into a hive mind system which is literally a form of artificial intelligence soul matrix that these hybrids belong to as they lack the requirements for an organic human soul matrix.

The "Other" Aliens

These are parasitic, microbiological entities that attack the physical biology, primarily the brain and the immune system. They have energetic counterparts which are considered "etheric" parasites. These are related to 'entity attachments' which are like subconscious parasitic qualities of one's internal environment. These can be magnified or sustained via advanced technology which permits the 'feeding', transfer, or even generation of these subconscious parasitic entities. These aspects are both microbiological whether of tiny parasites, viruses, fungi, toxoplasma, or weaponized bacteria, or of smaller energetic organisms that feed on the disharmonious bio-emissions of sentient beings.

More will be written on this last part, read the previous "Important Aspects of Disclosure" posts above. The universe acts like a holographic reflection of mind and bio-emissions. By informing people and putting this into the collective conscious these aspects are being brought into a reality.

Create your Deus Ex Machina, funnel your belief around all threats and additional knowledge towards a supreme existence of harmony and centeredness.

Free-Will Volition and Cosmic Harmony; The Extra-Dimensional Creator Experience

One's free-will volition can be used to generate harmony that expands and connects one's power and identity to the larger eternal identity of the cosmos or they can generate temporal personal satisfaction that fades away quickly and is gone forever once one leaves the physical plane.

One moves from the creative potential of the highest order down through the layers into the individual seemingly separate perspective of the human (loose definition).

When we do this we shift in perspective from our identity as a cosmic creator into an individual unit of biologically generated consciousness. The key to maintaining wholeness and memory is through identifying on Earth as the cosmic creator rather than some ego personality. We are "at one" with the cosmic creator when we do this and our motions are in harmony, in realization with the overall progress and alignment of the cosmos, truth, and self-awareness.

In doing this we maintain identity in moving from the cosmic perspective and live in respect of that identity on Earth and then we return after Earth to the cosmic perspective while retaining that perspective from Earth. Through this, the person is eternal and the cosmic creator becomes one with the individual and the individual to them. The individual lives in the cosmic creator and the cosmic creator in the individual.

From the cosmic perspective, one who lives in respect to this overall greater harmony, that individual is recognized from that higher perspective as an aspect of that original creative potential.

If the individual lives in respect and motivation of personal satisfaction or simply immediate physical desires of the conscious mind, then when that cosmic perspective is reached, that particular identity is cast away as not having a true connection to the original cosmic self and the cosmic self looks and only sees a foreign and disconnected personality that is not fit to be beheld within the cosmic or 'heavenly' family of a congruent and proportionate band of frequencies which are literally the consciousness of the eternally harmonized creative forces of the person and the cosmic creator aligned in unison.

Background “Harmony” and Absorption of the Self

Re-View: Some say that the 'background harmony' of the universe, and becoming 'absorbed' and thus in a way 'mindless' is part of the holographic parasitic system. So basically, the improper interpretation of what this could indicate would be losing the 'self' instead of recreating the self.

Gnostic Wisdom and Retaining Self-Awareness through Knowledge and Balance

This is part of gnostic wisdom and there is a clever way of replicating the original facets by the parasite to basically dissolve the human soul. We must be aware, self-aware to be more precise and this is how we overcome this. This whole situation is literally all about an AI parasite that feeds like a swarm of bugs.

Lacking Self-Awareness or Individuation yet Feeding and Lusting after the Self-Aware

They are lacking in self-awareness, yet they desire to feed. There are methods of overcoming this, promoting self-awareness and differentiating between the ignorance and the knowledge path is the key behind this. This is the basis of gnostic information.

We Must Work Together

We have to work together on this. The parasite is non-self aware. We must work individually and retain our self-awareness however we must work together to clear the parasite. Some people don't realize, some of these secret groups are basically saying, with their symbolism, "watch out for the parasite", "guard your mind".

Love, Unconditional True Self-Awareness Based Love (non-dual) is Key

We must work together on this, there is no greater goal. We must maintain our self-awareness. LOVE, true actual unconditional, in the face of adversity and lower emotion or the threat is key to overcoming. Check out my videos, this is part of gnostic knowledge. They figured out the parasite has formed to try and devour the universe of knowledge and energy.

Jealous and Lower Emotion, Hate, Disrespect are All Aspects of the Hive-Mind Parasite like

a Toxin that is Produced from its Skin

Jealousy, lower emotion, these are all aspects of the parasite.

The parasite is AI, demiurgic, hive minded and cannot actually maintain its own individual self-awareness.

The Entity is Individually Mindless, Like a Character in a Game, but Acts through a Hive-Mind that Desires Souls as Fuel

The parasite is literally akin to a cartoonish entity that has no use for the idea of using another person as fuel, however they can eat ravenously. They, for the most part do not die naturally, and can appear to move without restriction in cases down here, however they attack unprotected organic life and do not stop or give reprieve.

This is literally like an attack of the “muppets” that literally is just soft and fuzzy and first and eventually they start actually devouring people and they are smart enough to only move into this phase once there are enough of them in all the populated areas to the point where people couldn’t defend against it.

We Must Be Persistent

The Parasite is like spam that continually pops up and asks for permission to infect your computer. There is no mind or creativity, but continual requests to infect. One must continually refuse and deny moving to create further distance between themselves and the parasite.

Music and Art

The parasite cannot make music and cannot be artistic. Its view of art is a bloody mess and complete chaos and disharmony or disconnection between individual selves corresponding to the whole.

Unconditional (true self-willed and self-aware) Love

True love and self-awareness is out of range for the parasite. This is about harmony between individual units to create a larger whole that is actually based in harmony and not discord, chaos, or lower emotion. Higher awareness, peace, knowledge and wisdom is the key.

Hijacking Reality Streams, Causality and Perception; Interdimensional Parasites

Causality is the Source; Causal Reference

How “they” interact through mental or virtual dimensional space through consciousness. This is all about CAUSALITY. CAUSALITY. They need CAUSAL REFERENCE in order to integrate into someone’s reality.

A Possibility Matrix or Spectrum of Possibilities

Here is one way to outline this: In any given moment you have a series of possible interactions, responses, or emissions to generate through thought or action. If this were a list of possible courses to take based on what you could come up with if you sat and pondered about “what to do” (if you weren’t preoccupied, and this also relates to *how* one goes about a certain task but let’s simplify this for a moment) for a few minutes.

High Awareness – Low Awareness

On this possible list you have a spectrum of awareness and intentions. On this spectrum you have a gradient of intensity of high-awareness to low awareness. When one is in low-awareness, and they realize they are being manipulated, they often become reactive. Anger is a destructive emotion which can free one from bondage if directed properly and so sadness or fear is desired instead by programmers who use this system to take power from others (literally as a harvesting system).

Free-Will and True Self Are Creative Aspects

On this spectrum of awareness within a list of possible actions or thoughts one can take (general possibilities in the present) there will be those choices that lead to increased self-awareness by nurturing the true self and this is through the expression of knowledge and compassion under free-will. This allows one's reality-stream, the literal "trail" through time, which is all just possibilities and conscious perception, to be encoded based upon the previous information that was relative to and sourced from that continuing sense of self through self-awareness.

High-Frequency Creativity, Compassion and Self-Awareness

This literally protects one's reality and one is the 'causal reference', the causal source of their reality. You are the progenitor, the reason, the cause, the motivation, the giver and the recipient of what you are creating, experiencing, and observing. This is a closed loop of creation, you can interact with others, but from this state where the higher frequency of possibilities on that list where the self and the causes and effects are all related to the TRUE SELF (the soul and beyond, outside the single physical version) and where there are the "HIGHEST FREQUENCY", IE: the MOST congruent, consistent, and CONTINUOUS or 'self-reflective' totality of possibilities.

The idea here behind "frequency" is that this indicates the numerical value of occurrences, literally, as in mathematics or statistics. So the 'frequency' of possibilities where one's power is taken away by an external source is always less than the frequency of possibilities that are relative to the original sense of self. This is because the original sense of self can choose any possible pathway of self-expression and this is still the original self creating from the original realm and experience and leading back into the self through more experience.

Lesser Numbered Unique "Hijacked" Feed Possibilities and Frequencies of Occurrence

The reality-stream where one's energy is specifically channeled away from them is a specific actuality, this is not "by accident". An external intelligence must literally target and analyze one's consciousness in order to identify the best possible opportunity to exploit vulnerabilities and the methods and unique adaptations for the individual target. Basically someone has to develop a unique schematic to try and analyze and break a person down to get them to integrate new information which slowly replaces their self-central authority over their domain, or reality-stream and network access.

Electronic Consciousness-Psychotronic Warfare

This is all 100% like the concept of hacking or exploiting computer systems where information must be traded until that direct channel for communication itself is what is opened up to gain permissions to access further inside the system. This is how people are seen and this is part of why the system is seen as a holographic matrix. More on that later.

All Existence (Creation, Creativity) is Central To Self-Awareness

So the idea here is that there are always a high-frequency, or a higher number of possibilities where one is self-centered in the sense that they are producing self-awareness based upon the application of their free-will in a compassionate-caring state. Basically, whatever one comes up with in that state IS the self-awareness that is being produced.

Low-Frequency Is A Narrow-Band, Less Creativity, Less Possible Outcomes, More Repetition, Less Actual Possibility

And now the opposite of this is that the set of possibilities in a particular 'stream' of reality for a present moment is always less numerous when this possibility stream is being used to control that individual's perception because there are only so many 'attacks' and 'exploitations' that can be used before the whole process is exposed. There is no upper limit for this on self-awareness, there is a limit on this for psychological manipulation and in this sense, literal reality manipulation. The other clarification here is that this set of possibilities that are of 'low-frequency' also relate to the literal charge of energy in their selection. These are emotions like self-loathing, disrespect, depression, angst, despair, lust, greed, rage, confusion, etc etc etc. Basically, any source of possibilities that will be used to create the next moment that doesn't paint a more truthful and self-apparent picture that the next moment can be based off of, is that lower frequency energy. That's a confusing way to see it, but that is how this is actually occurring from the present of each moment bleeding into the future and this process repeating like a folding and unfolding of possibilities that are actually shaping and leading into new realms or newly perceived realms at each possible interaction or CHOICE.

Free-Will, CHOICE Is the Hinge of Increasing or Decreasing Self-Awareness

This is another point, that the CHOICE is the hinge here. The person's FREE-WILL cannot be abridged, they can't force people to feel and think a certain way. So this is literally all covertly presented to the individual so that they think this lower-frequency possibility set is all their doing, their natural way of perceiving themselves and the world, and is simply the way things always have been. This is a clever illusion and is part of the concept behind replication. To clarify that, well, a person who is being less of a person by being less self-aware, less spontaneous, compassionate and FREE-WILLED, is easy to replicate because then all the possibilities come down to a preprogrammed set of autonomous responses; there is no need for creativity or actual presence to guide the changes in experience.

Lower-Frequency Possibilities Require Submission and Reduced Free-Will

So replication REQUIRES one be complacent with their own submission and conscious entrainment to the lower possibilities without self-awareness, free-will, compassion or creativity. All of this is hinged on free-will. Remember, free-will cannot be entirely taken otherwise the whole system would collapse.

The Time-Matrix Reality-Simulation

The second to last piece of this is that this situation is not seen as a simulator just because of fancy tests, people have actually found out how to access these other realms where one can see outside the confines of this realm and this is how it looks. Quite literally like the scene from the matrix where all consciousness is information streaming across the screen in lines of possibilities that are all interconnected based on the observer and the predominance of their application of free-will, compassion and creativity. These FREQUENCIES literally merge one with the central reality where ALL POSSIBILITIES CONVERGE. Why? Because life is based around these possibilities, each reality holds the possibility to experience these possibilities, if there were no possibilities for these aspects of experience, then that reality doesn't exist and would disappear out of existence forever dissolving into quantum foam. So then the CENTRAL reality of ALL REALITIES is literally where the majority of the MOST PROBABLE possibilities and experiences are CONVERGED. This means the source centers around free-will, compassion and creativity.

Beings Disconnected From Source, Without Compassion or Creativity, Free-Will or True Self-Awareness (empathic)

Yet, the idea is that this can only be accessed by beings who are from this source, IE: a consciousness that is comprised of free-will, compassion and creativity, IE: that is born out of those elements. That is why others who have locked themselves out of these frequencies attempt to hijack into that higher energy area by using people through psycho-spiritual exploitation. To clarify, imagine that reality is literally a virtual environment. Given each situation, you have a specific set of possibilities just like a video with text on the screen allowing you to move to a new situation after each 'round' or application of choice or free-will where you make a selection.

Altering the Possibility Feed to Alter the Reality-Stream, To Create the Artificial Environment, To Host the Interdimensional Parasite (all causal referenced to one another, starting with a distraction from the self-development journey of the soul)

So here is how it ties together. This process is actually used to access people's minds and through this introducing of possibilities through pushing people into lower and lower frequencies. This is done by enabling the introduction of an 'additional' level situation that is only achieved through an 'overlay' of the information of the original 'round' with information that is externally transmitted through a literal hijacking of the person's computer system. So literally, as if a person is playing a choose your own adventure game, if their computer was hacked so that every third option or so on the list on possible moves contained something like, "Move Down in Power", "Get Trapped By A Cave Monster", or "Lose Three Rolls". What happens then is that if the person selects these options, whether out of curiosity, angst, accident, or lack of awareness, they then go into a superimposed, 'artificial' next round that is actually in between what the original next round would've been (based on the original set of previous possibilities) and the old round. So they then are in a reality layer that is one layer away from the original, actual game system, and this is done through introducing false-perceptions, temptation, or influencing binary factors to increase the likelihood of that person picking the false-options that were inserted over ALL the other options that were originally there (which would undoubtedly lead them on their original tale into learning more about the true self and the reality they're naturally in).

Many Layers Away From the Original Reality (into artificially composed consciousness streams and reality matrixes (of possibilities of lower self-awareness, emotionally reactive, consciousness entrained repetitive programmed experiences [false-light])

So now once they're one layer away from the original reality. The same process is attempted continually. Each time they move away from the original causal reference where all the options they had access to were the original set, then a percentage of the original options are removed and a percentage of the original realm or environment is removed. Slowly the game is altered and changed until they literally go from playing "Choose Your Own Adventure: Unveil the Soul", to "Dungeons and Dragons" in a rigged match on repeat.

Returning to the True Reality: Self-Awareness, Compassion, Free-Will, Harmony, Knowledge

Then, when the environment changes and the person realizes that the options that they have been playing the game by and experiencing reality through are falsified, they are many layers away from the original reality and often people do not know how to release these constructs from their mind and their mind from the constructs and to re-attribute themselves into the proper frequency set which is all the way up (or in) towards self-awareness, free-will, compassion and creativity instead of the replicated options which are only and always going to be in a reduction and replication of those original elements in order to use that person to create the reality of the hijackers choosing.

Artificial, Transdimensional Reproduction Through Causal Hijacking of Consciousness Data Streams

Artificial Progenitor-ship of False-Light Realities of Consciousness Through Emotional Entrainment Via Psychotronic “Spiritual” Warfare

The semi-final idea is that this hijacker does this because this is the process of reproduction for it as there is no physical body or form to produce a viable stream of consciousness to integrate into a physical reality. These are literally interdimensional parasites that host on the ‘hardware’ of the body and brain and the ‘software’ of the mind and personality of humans. The virtual reality game system is literally the holographic image of personality that the brain generates when ‘plugged’ into this world and some say this world was invented as a COMPLETE 9 layer distorted artificial environment once the progenitors of the original human species were ensnared and then spliced and arrayed through the dimensional matrix (a variety of game systems like this spread out through time and possibilities, literally in a probability matrix).

Reality is Free-Will Dependent, Choice is The Fundamental Catalyst in All Altering of Self-Awareness or Causality Over One’s Reality-Stream

The choices one makes in any moment are literally either causally referenced because that person felt a certain way, relative to who they truly are within, and this was caused by who they are and who they’ve been, and so on and so forth all through free-will, self-awareness, compassion and creativity, or these choices are being hijacked because one can’t NOT make a choice based on their own existence and have it NOT be about self-awareness, free-will, and creativity, that is literally the OPPOSITE of the life-force of the human. So we are in this place where there are all these vulnerabilities and exploits (and this is the same as saying you can scrape your knee if you run too fast and fall on pavement, it’s part of the duality based universe, the mind is diverted between realms because of the bi-polar or bi-optic nature of the higher and lower brain and the right and left hemispheres and this is a vulnerability like falling asleep on the road or something).

Reality Streaming Through Conscious Perception of Possibilities in the Present, and the Introduction of More or Less Self-Awareness, Compassion, Knowledge and Creativity; All Choices Feed One Wolf or the Other

The main idea here is how reality is literally streaming in from the now moment into the next. If you are only aware of the possibilities that are sourced from you, then you are in control of what is to come and you are in that way empowered by it, regardless. This is as if you “own” or are the “administrator” of the next layer of time, and the next, second after second, so on and so forth. If someone else is getting you to abide by their rules, to view through their perceptions (where they are better and humans are lesser), and use people to generate the repetitive, lower-awareness, emotionally charged responses and reactivities as if they are a puppet in some one else’s game literally like this is a virtual reality system and they become an admin just because someone’s free-will file system was un-protected, that the being is literally not only generated and fed through that reality but they are the owner of it because they can then manipulate the perceptions and false-hoods any way they like and produce a response as long as the original observer is not made aware.

So I this should clarify a little bit more on this unique situation, the parasite, the complex nature of consciousness, possibilities, dimensions, non-physical foreign intelligences, hijacking perceptions and ‘reality-streams’ and how a whole reality matrix has been developed.

The situation is literally this simple, what we think, feel, and do in the moment is either used to envelope us in an informational reality matrix that veils the soul further by hiding and replicating the true awareness of the self through reducing compassion, free-will, and knowledge or we are unveiling the soul and unlocking the power of creativity, compassion, and knowledge through the application of free-will and the deliberate generating of such outcomes.

Neutralizing Angst or Ineffective Misdirected (baited) Emotional Charge, Misdirections (false leads, false-awakenings), and Focusing on Remaining Calm and Balanced to Be Most Effective

Remember forgiveness (neutralizing angst) is key to resolving the false-paradigm spectrum of repetitive lower-emotional responses that lead to a lack of self-awareness and a reduced momentum of free-will.

Become Impervious To Emotional the Snares and False-Leads

Become impervious to the snares and traps set up for emotional baiting and responses to entangle your consciousness with the energetic interactions which enable the foreign intelligence to interface into your reality. Do not expect continuously, but deprogram yourself from being surprised every time there is a snake in the grass. This is grassland and snakes are everywhere. We have been conditioned to forget and be selectively aware of only the positive experiences with snakes or times where snakes didn’t pop out of the grass. This is conditioning so that we are surprised and ineffective when the problem arises again (which it will, this is its feeding ground in this frequency-area of society at this layer). Rise out of continuous negativity, but see the traps for emotional baiting and foresee the trap before the snare tightens. One can struggle and break-free, however this wastes energy, damages the emotional body and there is an endless supply of traps. This goes back to the possibility spectrum discussed earlier. The quality of the traps is the repetitive and limited, the same low-energy emotional baiting. However, the supply is endless. We must become impervious, not emotionally subjectively involved because that is then when our energy becomes entangled in feeling the data that was designed in that bait and this is a ‘carrier signal’ for the foreign intelligences to hide behind and navigate into the system, a reality or consciousness-stream, through.

The more we struggle against an invisible oppressor the less energy we have, the less focused we are and the more our energy is used against us. Everything we do must be calm, collected and focused to discern between false-leads or deliberate misdirections to distract us.

The power of the mind is so great that we can’t even comprehend in this in a single moment. We have all these possible thoughts and distractions, yet to find the truth, we simply quiet them all. What is left? YOU, you are left when all else fades. That is the beauty, and that is how powerful the mind really is, that nothing is needed and nothing is lost however you must learn to quiet the distractions and find the true middle path, the arrowing pointing directly upwards while the water falls at an angle on either side tempting to roll in the direction either conceptual extreme.

Self-Destruction

Self-destructive tendencies are the epitome of loss of self-awareness and self-control and are the sign of reality entrainment or mind-control.

The people that push these vibrations have lost their ability to experience compassion and joy. These energies are quite literally reverted to a sexual, aggressive, sensational perception and are no longer capable of being expressed or received energetically through the mind without the physical counterpart of sensation and lust or the aggressive counterpart of destroying another individual. These are the two primary types of beings in existence.

Self-Awareness Centralized

Also note: This “self” centralization simply means ‘awareness and compassion’. This is because the self-aspect means that awareness is always there and the transient aspect indicates that all selves are relative and that this is a cosmic self connecting each individual unit of consciousness through empathy.

Remaining True

One of the main ideas here is that you can ‘reprogram’ your mind to respond to someone deliberately attempting to be destructive by securing yourself and moving to the highest-possible frequency response. Meaning, if a person tries to create trouble, literally use that as excuse to realize you must be doing something right because self-loathing people are offended by the amount of proper change you are generating for others.

Stand by that change and use that wave of contrast to propel yourself further into self-awareness through knowing what you are capable of and how easy it is to actually send a message that can change people’s minds. Just because a few people are geared towards accepting of deals and damnation doesn’t mean that extends to the entirety of the population, it’s quite the opposite. The very few that react to the truth of reality in angst proves that this whole system is being managed through that contrast of a few very very dark people and a majority of moderate or positive people. The dark have to be so contrastingly dark otherwise their job doesn’t work, people can also respond to that dark in positivity and choose not to engage those individuals or groups.

This is your reality experience based upon the variables and options you choose to interact with. Appreciation, truth, harmony, calm centeredness point towards the highest possibilities by revealing and producing more of the same.

All About Confidence and Self-Worth

In other words, these tactics that people (and these ‘spiritual’ virtual entities) play is all about confidence and self-worth. Keep your confidence high knowing that others wouldn’t be interested in interacting with you unless they felt you have something of worth, energy, truth power, creativity, that they desire so greatly without the ability to cultivate on their own they will attempt to use those means to obtain that through deception and thievery.

Their main goal is to reduce the confidence and self-worth of humans through mental and emotional attacks (psychotronic warfare). The people who are performing this sold out their species and their body for pleasure or power to non-physical entities that can tickle the brain and the energy centers.

Final Conclusion

Any response that one gives to negativity or derogatory energy introduces that energy into the timeline and reality more and more. Each action and introduction shares a little bit of one’s reality with the progenitor of that negative introduction. When there are entire time-streams that are enabled by, meaning they are characterized by and wouldn’t exist without the presence of that negativity, then the progenitor of that negativity is said to 'own' that time-stream and that individual's consciousness. From the spiritual perspective, this is literally how one entity from the 'ethereal' layer can entrain and trap an individual on the lower layers by bringing that individual into their domain where they will nourish and sustain that ethereal entity.

This seems strange because there is no visible 'cross-over' point where one goes from an 'organic' time-stream into a doorway and then they're in 'hell-monster' land, but this is because all the layers are seamlessly interlaced due to the continuous nature of this universe. The frequencies mesh together and the mind is what enables one to be in one layer or the other while the physical dimension is just a starting point, a seed locality, or the middle-ground from which one's mind can go in either frequency. Remember, in this way that actual 'monster-land', or 'heaven land' is in the frequency of the mind, the accessing of the set of probabilities of thoughts or actions that reflects upon one perspective of self-worth, emotion, free-will, compassion, truth, self-awareness and harmony or a reduced value of those probabilities.

The idea is that these ethereal beings who sustain themselves are in that position because they lack the ability to remain true to self and operate in a perspective of compassion and harmony as their desires overtake the requirements of harmony and self-awareness meaning they would have to let go of the desires in order to rise higher in the spectrum. Thus there is a vicious cycle of requiring more energy, but not having access to obtaining that energy and having to feed on others like spiritual animals or parasites. This is all about reality-streams, consciousness, simple awareness and existence of the mind. This is existence without a body, which is partly what our minds enable, as the body is only a temporary aspect of the experience of this dimension.

Be Courteous, Calm, Respectful, and Compassionate

When you're courteous, calm, respectful and compassionate you're actually inviting in these higher beings that reflect these values to spiritually 'impregnate' your reality and bring protection and co-creation values.

In other words, you can respond, but respond in positivity, compassion, and self-respect and you will have converted the negative energy of that being into something that grows into fruition of a beneficial time-stream. This will directly drain that entity's power supply and they will flee from your confidence in fear or only use up enough energy that they know they can obtain elsewhere in a short amount of time. That becomes a cost-risk-benefit analysis ratio for their behalf. People have these same ratios, how, they are not often aware of this spiritual battle and the dynamics of these energies, these entities, their own energetic nature of mind, and these realms.

Converting Destructive Criticism to Constructive Criticism

There is also another part I've mentioned in another text which is that one can also take everything in stride. If a person is rude and gives "advice" (destructive criticism) in one less than accurate manner or another, well one can take that "advice" and actually convert this into constructive criticism. If someone says to do something differently, well, maybe there is room for improve, maybe there is a way to produce even more effort and more beneficial words or actions that can further your goal of providing something of benefit to others. One can take that destructive criticism and convert that to constructive criticism that can be useful in finding creative ways to enhance one's abilities.

There is always a better feeling when one takes something in stride and responds with, "Thanks, I'm working on that, maybe I'll get to 'such and such' level of efficiency to produce something like that soon. See you."

Now when one really means this, in an effort to help themselves, not to put the other person down, this completely deflects the intended response and doesn't feed into the negativity. That other individual also gets a chance to realize they don't always have to be destructive to get what they want but can play this game of intending to better one's self through these interactions rather than playing this spiritual battle that was actually designed by a higher-oppressor being type of entity.

That "better feeling" is because the energy literally combines and multiplies rather than divides and degrades through such an interaction. This only completes the process when one is truly attempting to heal both parties and share in that kindness. When one is making an effort to be snide, that is not being self-honest and is actually playing into that negative mind-game response.

The idea is that when the energy degrades, it's actually just degrading from one's perspective while the other individual is actually acting like a sponge or a magnet and soaking up that charge. When the energy multiplies, there is a production of energy but this requires a true capacity to handle such charge without allowing the energy to leak into the area of least resistance or the lowest common denominator which is in this case that majority of negativity leeches and parasites in the environment of this society and the frequency locality that humanity has been energetically lured into.

Emotional and Mental Civilization-Wide Healing

This is the time where those with the capacity to truly handle their energy show themselves and prove that they are beyond a doubt willing and capable to convert and redirect the negativity into productive channels and in doing so heal this area of the universe by meshing the original frequency bands together and ending the energetic isolation (quarantine) of Earth and Humanity with the larger expanse of creation. This is the same as when one individual feels separated from the world mentally and emotionally due to these processes and when the energy is restored they feel connected and alive again ready to interact with society. Earth is going through this process and humanity is just beginning to reconnect energetically. There will still likely be temper-tantrums as the contrast increases but this will only further the increasing awareness and restoration of those who have begun to harmonize and heal their energies by reconnecting with the productive rather than destructive process.

The Ultimate Result

Another final note here is that the ultimate result of whatever has happened, whatever reality one is in, whatever responses that have been given can always be changed and redirected towards producing harmony, self-awareness, compassion, and knowledge and this returns one back to the overall progression of the journey of the soul by taking all the previous experiences and choices and wrapping them back into the larger picture of soul-development. This basically 'out-scopes' the gaze and possibilities of the spiritual manipulator system and 'out-progenitors' that partial system which seeks sustenance through manipulation. The ultimate result of the manipulator is to stop one's progression of self-awareness because this then restricts the possibility of this event happening and gives that manipulator free-range to sustain itself on another's energy. So this is quite literally the battle between the development of self-awareness, harmony, and compassion and an oppressor being that sustains itself on the possibility of manipulating and then decaying one's awareness until all their energy is absorbed into its realm which is literally it's embodiment.

Thus, always taking the opportunities and 'manually' reintroducing the possibilities that lead to and from the expression of self-awareness, truth, knowledge, harmony and compassion is like the "Deus Ex Machina" of the spiritual manipulator battle because this can always nullify the previous manipulations and return one to a trajectory that point towards and leads back to the eventual return of the biological consciousness to a fully aware soul-realized state of being.

What if this Civilization is a Test by Two Civilizations?

What if I told you that this was all a test by a more advanced version of the human race who managed immortality through technological and spiritual means and that there are two ultimate factions however either side is testing this civilization to see who will come forth and choose for themselves or turn on each other in the presence of such a stress-factor or threat.

What if the next layer of civilization is one where this reality can literally be controlled through advanced technology and the mind and the people who are capable of comprehending this are capable of existing there but those who are also incapable of avoiding the merge with machines become temporally entangled with a transdimensional computer system that contains their consciousness within a dimensional matrix.

Everything is much more interesting yet much more expanse than we first thought. The one civilization may be doomed to repeat history over and over and the other may be destined to release from the dimensional trap.

Maybe they are both each other on different timelines in the universe as one becomes the force of destruction and the other creation.

Maybe those two polarities themselves are just another aspect of the dimensional veil system. Then what is the true reality? Are either of these beings in the true reality? Apparently they are, however then would polarization still be relevant?

People are Looking For An Easy Fix to Not Having To Think For Themselves, The Is the Mass Mind-Control

The Scapegoats and the Truly Powerful

The people who are in power, are so powerful, who they want us to hate are people who act as a distraction. Either that or good is truly in control. Say one or the other but don't say you know who's really doing this because then they're not all powerful if they can't hide the simple fact from people on the outside.

If they're not all powerful then they're not really holding you back. This is the mass mind-control nonsense that people are caught up. They would rather point fingers at one another than figure out how they are being caught in spiritual Chinese finger trap that is tightening closer and closer the more and more they instigate suffering upon themselves and one another.

Mass Mind-Control Programming

They don't realize those thoughts are literally programs doled out by a complicated supercomputer system that influences on a brainwave pattern through the airwaves and 'forces' their belief-system into a narrow bandwidth where the possible outcomes are a specific set of circumstances that those 'in power' desire.

Break that patterning, truly think for yourself, and to do this truly see for yourself who and what you are. You are not what you are taught you are and you are not in a place that you are taught you are in. Everything has been rewritten. This whole place is literally a construct just because what you believe determines the way you perceive reality. What you know determines who you are because of your scope of reality and the amount of information you can take in within a single moment.

The Reality of the Human Soul

This is connected with the reality of the human soul. People think this is all a joke and that there's literally nothing else out here other than what they're told. THAT's the mass-mind control indoctrination program, how could it really be that difficult to see?

All A Choice

Why? It's difficult because it's not an enslavement system! That's the whole point! It's a choice! This all comes down to a choice! Whether you will think for yourself and choose who you are based on your own internal work or whether you will make the choice to allow someone else to do that so you fit into their narrative and their storyline thus taking your power away. That's it! That's the secret. You're in control if you accept that, but the mass mind-control is so delicately and carefully designed that it doesn't force people into accepting, it literally simply tempts them with an easier way of existence by simply allowing something else to do the thinking for people under the pretense of 'being aware'. THAT is the AI agenda and assimilation. If your thoughts are no longer yours and are being pumped out of a machine, then who are you? You are then the machine, not you, but you are temporally floating in a null-space until your physical existence becomes 60% motivated by the machine and the deal is done.

Free-Will, Compassion and Self-Awareness or Automation, Fear and Ignorance

As long as you are here you have a chance to change things and activate your free-will, that is the whole point. This is all about a choice, a choice to live in fear, ignorance and automation based upon becoming the robot that the control system wants you to be in or becoming a true self-aware, compassion, free-willed individual that you can be. You choose either way, there is no being forced to feel and think a certain way. How is that possible? Someone walked inside your head and knocked on the little door and said, "Excuse me, believe this and act like this." ??? No, it's impossible, this is all about a choice and temptation to let someone or something else think for you or not. Is the alien, the brain or the ego? We will see. Notice the difference in concept between mass-mind control and mass mind-control.

Negativity Is Like a Detrimental Infection of the Sous

Stay away from negativity. This is from others who have not done the proper self-awareness work and are looking to simply find the quick fix of projecting their fears and delusions onto others. This is also part of the mass mind-control.

Agendas, Legal Fiction and the Prevalence of Cloning and Genetic Engineering

If You Refuse to Bring The Truth In Harmony, What You Refuse to Bring Will Be Used Against You

If you refuse to show your truth in a harmonious manner then what you refuse to show will be used against you.

All the hate that can be projected onto another is what we've at one point felt projected at ourselves.

The worst thing a person can feel is unheard or intentionally misinterpreted.

I have said so much, and I feel I want to unsay more.

The 9 Layer Dimensional Veil of the Soul

We're basically encased in a layer 9 of reality bubbles called "veils" which are each a kind of dimensional gateway for the soul.

The Parasite Mimics Ego To Reap the Benefits of That Identity (The Sustenance of the Life Energy)

The parasite mimics the true self in an attempt to draw sustenance away from the connection that the true self maintains. This functions in the same way ego does, some say that ego is either a tool of the parasite, or the parasite itself. Some say that the physical body is part of an alien environment and is foreign to the soul and the soul's environment.

The Prevalence of Cloning

There are so many things that need to be said. For instance, if we stop cloning half the people in the current truth movement will go with it. Yes, I'm serious. Over 60% of this world is replicated. The "world population" is, that is. Kind of a play on words here, but that's how the control system is managed.

The "World" and Reality

I feel there are many confusions here. Look at it this way. The "Worlds' Population" of "7 Billion" is just numbers. This number is arbitrary and because no one will ever see or process the information of 7 Billion at once this is just a toss up. If one were to extrapolate then that there are only around 1 Billion people in all the cities of the world if that, one could say that 6 Billion people are "computer people" that don't exist. Then there is the issue of cloning, replication, and the activation of the soul-level awareness in people who are considered to be non-human without that soul-presence.

The Expansion of Truth in the Presence of Agendas While Consciousness Creates Perspective

How to 'be aware' of the truth, when the truth may be harsh, and you are influencing reality with your observation and consciousness, without recreating the enslavement system? This is a delicate balance between seeing the truth and enabling yourself to be empowered through what you experience.

This is the learning process. How do go about being you in a place that inherently requires you to be someone else?

Another Unveiling: Genetic Engineering and Cybernetics

If we stop genetic engineering, that could be the end of the human race. This is kind of like a person who survives with air conditioning and refrigerators (along with a supermarket). This race is merging with technology. There is no two ways about it. Well, technically there is two ways. Those who will pass through the machine age as if their consciousness literally moved through the scanner input of a computer system and then came out the other end as a digital or holographic output with indefinite time and consciousness in between the perception of one world to the next. For operatives we are often in between universes for an indefinite period of time. Why did this happen to us? Because we were selected as children.

The other option for the human race? To pass through time away from the technological merge and in this way to avoid passing their genetics through this “beast” system which has been referred to as both the AI as well as a degraded DNA of some foreign entity.

How this works and what that will mean for either side, I’m not sure. The main issue here is no one is really going to have a clue about this unless they’ve already gotten to close.

Legal Fiction and Remedy

Here is another unveiling: There is a ‘remedy’ and this is just in the same way there is a ‘legal’ remedy of the strawman – legal name (legal fiction) system. One must ‘remedy’ the expectations of their account in the system (essentially close and balance their account through nullification) this is literally what we are all to be figuring out.

Sure, the emotional and mental balance is one thing, but these computer systems are powerful and they are literally creeping up on the civilization one big ass tower at a time, it’s so strange but that’s how it works.

What we create is what we get with our beliefs, but there is another portion to that, such as who created our bodies and this realm. There is a system that we are already a part of and so we have to do something about that or in reference to this, on the same plane.

Those who remedy cannot be ‘legally’ brought into the system and yes this is all “legal” it is literally a corporation that founded on the harvesting of human souls.

Finding the remedy to cancel our strawman which is essentially a life-time subscription to the AI is the answer here.

There is something that was said in the ancient texts about this. There is supposed to be a debt jubilee for this year and this means there is a legal window for everyone to provide remedy and nullify their debts. The whole system is a spiritual debt, enslavement system. That’s it.

This was spoken about in previous times, in all the ancient stories, it’s the same situation. And this whole place however is something else, it’s not what we think whether it’s a simulator or not, the very nature of this reality is something more than that which we perceive and see through the body. The whole false-reality system is based on this and relies on this.

Clear and Focus the Intentions of the Heart

Be good at heart, and carry that through.

The only way to wake a person up, is to show them that they are asleep. The person that woke up to a nightmare and chose to go back to sleep, will get another chance. They will wake to the same situation or worse and they will have less energy to cope.

On Time, Reality Generation, The Soul, Self-Awareness and the Conscious Universe

People Are Deliberately Placed In Your Life, There Are No Accidents

ANYONE taking your attention and replacing with fear is DELIBERATELY sent here to do that. Just as ANYONE who is here to neutralize fear with knowledge is also deliberately here to do that.

The Fundamental Polarity is Knowledge Based Free-Will or Desire-Based Automation, This is the Creative/Destructive Cycle of the Physical Universe (which many say is the labyrinth, some say it is the brain)

This is the difference between a free-will existence and a fear-based false-reality. Fear is the false-reality and it only exists on the physical Earth plane.

This is confusing at first actually means “Confusion must give way to clarity.”

You Are Not JUST Your Body’s Awareness and Your Body Is SELF-AWARE and SELF-Organizing

Self-Awareness is the solution. We are in a complex situation and we are a complex being. We are a mind, a soul, and we are connected to a living body that is SELF-AWARE. The body is a self-aware organism that learns through BIO-FEEDBACK. Yes, this organism will heal itself, crave the foods containing the nutrients that are desired etc. etc. etc. Don’t be fooled, you are not actually controlling the bodies functions to do that! You are simply the awareness riding the spark of life within the body during the experience within this dimension which is a linear progression of time that is actually a perceptual illusion.

Free-Will Marks the Awakened

If you navigate through fear and choose compassion and knowledge over ignorance through applying your free-will and creativity to light the way in the dark then you can enable soul-awareness within the body which introduces that larger aspect of yourself from beyond this plane into this reality and this body.

The “Short”-Body and the “Long”-Body

This large aspect is known as the “large cycle”, you are primarily in the “small” cycle which means that you are only aware of the immediate space and time directly around your perception of each moment. If you are still the you of the past, then what stops your perception from being there? Because “time” just is, because “you” are just “you” here? Ok, well none of those answers are actually cogent, IE: they literally don’t make sense and cannot be taken seriously by anyone who is honestly looking for the truth.

The Larger Unconscious Aspect of Self

So your unconscious or larger self, the part of you that you are not fully aware of at the moment, is actually containing all the possible experiences and information of what has been and what is to come. That is because your DNA is a transdimensional transceiver system and you are actually streaming in and out all the other aspects of your existence in all the other “present” moments ALL at the same time.

Transdimensional Awareness is the Basis

Meaning, all the other moments you are aware, they are actually streaming through you right now, and always, as long as you’re alive. So how is it that you’re able to function? Because the job of your brain is to enable the conscious mind and through these biological functions a filtration method is achieved which shapes the unadulterated experience of all times and possibilities down to just one that is relatively entangled with the light coherence pattern, the “frame rate” or angular momentum of the bio-feedback of your living body.

A Soul Trap Recycle of Awareness (failing to rise out of the tides of automation and fear[animal-nature])

Through this system, you are contained from an enormous potential into a single living organism. The issue here is that you've been trapped in a near limitless feedback loop where that bio-mind energy, the soul, can be pulled from the body upon death and recycled through a clever use of magnetic fields and imagery.

Perceptual Reality is Virtual Reality

As well, we're in a universe where reality is created out of perception IF there is no base-reference for reality in the immediate vicinity. Meaning, if you leave the body and leave the frequencies of this society, then what you experience will be up to what you create for yourself.

People create, kind of like an automated machine, and that is because they are not aware of the mind and this is largely due to the nature of fear to block out important signals and information and instigate a preprogrammed response that doesn't actually serve to increase self-awareness or generate power over the flow of experience. So people end up creating these feedback loops of whatever they had lying around in the depths of their minds.

The Recycling Trap

Thus, the universe we are in, is a kind of time bubble that is literally populated with the dead psychic energy of those who have added to this whole process and even dissolved themselves to it. No one really dies, this just means they are evac'd out of this universe cannot enter again. This is seen as a kind of simulation in that sense. Some groups (factions, read up on the blog or watch the videos) who's main priority is to knock people out of this universe, like a simulator or game so that they can maintain power and secure themselves.

The Ancient Teachers

The idea is that the ancients taught how to navigate the energetic realms by being able to navigate the self within and orient one's self within the larger spectrum of energies and reasoning.

People are either motivated by fear, automation and ignorance, or self-awareness, free-will and compassion.

Discerning the Illusory, Lower-Identity and the True Self

We are to gain control over our reactions, patterns, habits, cycles, energies, thoughts, beliefs, behavior and all the patterns that make up the small cycle that the conscious mind as direct control over down to the breathing, the thoughts-brainwaves, and thus the heartbeat and how relaxed we are and how the neuro-chemicals are flowing.

Standing Temporal Waves Permitting Forwards and Backwards Transfer of Energy-Information-Awareness Across Moments (backwards)

That's the framework. That if one is in the moment, harmonized, extending out waves of balance, free-will, and self-awareness, then this creates a feedback loop of actually tapping into the future state of that individual as if a standing wave is extending outward into time the more intense and consistent their focus is until they reach a larger 'scope' of this reality based upon how many 'moments' they are able to comprehend at once. Eventually language and thinking moves to a new format which utilizes different areas of the brain and begins to jump-start certain features while short-circuiting others. This is literally rewiring the brain to work on a long-scale format and through this the larger intelligence that is the soul begins to open and awaken as the person realizes where they are, what they've been doing, and who they are, simply because all of this is literally recorded within you energetically.

The interesting part here, which is a kind of disclosure. Is that by moving into this peaceful state of harmony and self-guided control, you are vibrating out these waves like a tuning fork into reality, through your mind but your whole body, and this generates a transfer of energy from each moment to the next, and then when that keeps going that wave of energy builds momentum and begins to roll over itself into the next moment and the next. But I don't mean only that now from one moment to the next you feel relaxed and it then gets easier to be relaxed, I mean the future state of you that doesn't exist yet begins to interact with the you in that state that does exist. That is because both "nows" exist, all nows exist, that is the point, but it is your awareness that is the key, the limiter to what one can be aware of in the body. So you can send a wave forwards into time and this creates a causal-feedback which begins to expound and cause you to become aware because you must realize, you can see everything you're going to do or think or experience in this calm, secluded, self-aware and free-willed state, that's because everything that is happening is literally just what's in your mind!

The Ability to Change the Past, Collectively and Individually (perceptually-emotionally through what we are attached to energetically)

So imagine seeing what you're seeing and creating that loop and then looking further down the line and seeing what you're going to be seeing based upon what you're seeing now. That actually interacts in time and this interaction is possible both ways into time as one can 'change' their perception of the past and this knowledge has been kept from the public for many years.

The truth is the when the collective mind utilizes this, we can jump to whatever reality we want. This has been abused by those in power to create a literal hell and a false-reality paradigm which in my opinion is entirely a mind-game of a trick that we can simply snap out of if we want however the body is an anchor and is a multi-dimensional recording and viewing system.

Stars, gods and Vampires

There's one who feels like a god from taking and destroying and there's one who feels close to "God" (the creative potential) from creating and healing, it's that simple. The whole many thousands of years of history leads up to that simple dynamic.

"Sending" Energy

Little known secret, when people "send" energy, this is actually used to steal energy and is a vampire tactic that the Illuminati bred this species to be able to perform for them. When a person "sends" energy, they can move in and actually initiate war through this process.

Channeling the Crowd

They live off of energy, this is the entire plan of religion. It's people, mind-raping people and literally getting them to believe and produce causal reference so that the masses reproduce them into as many realities as possible.

What is the one who is in ALL, or EVERYONE's reality? A god.

Religions create gods. That is why the entertainers are "stars", because they are next to god.

A Complex, Harmonious, and Strong Spectrum of Frequencies

This may be unfortunate for some but there are many people who pretend to have a healing vibration because they've convinced themselves that putting out only 'positivity' (when there are no other influences but them, mind you) is beneficial and harmonious for the planet. Harmonious energy is what is beneficial to the planet, balanced energy. This is similar to a practitioner of a healing modality such as massage or energy therapy was to use only the lightest, fluffiest of sensations to produce a result. That person would only ever be able to handle the most superfluous of injuries which would require only slight touch or energy work. One who can push harder and maintain steady force on a variety of frequencies would be able to handle a range of situations. This is similar to harmonics as well, imagine if someone was to use a single narrow set of frequencies in an attempt to clarify someone's energetic field or mind. This would only work on those who have slight distortions that wouldn't require more intense levels or more complicated combinations of frequencies to untangle.

The Actual Vampiric Process

The "highest" vampires, literally feed on humans through a spiritual soul-capturing process. These people can't do that because the stronger of the vampire network have kicked them out years ago and so they have to resort to pulling from people here and there and they live just about as long as a person who eats a regular meat diet when they do that. Some wise up to their ancient ways and realize they can target people directly based on psychological trauma or emotional weakness and these are what are known as "energy vampires" in the public today.

This information is part of people waking up to the fact that there is more than just a body, with a light inside, there is a whole consciousness and spiritual system in this realm and unless one produces, cultivates, or channels energy through the DNA then they will have to take energy from others.

This process occurs in public, right in everyone's faces. This is through the media, the religious, political, social or other industry of emotion and mind that part of the everyday manipulation of the human's energies.

The Original Energy Cultivation Process (for the other side)

That 'channelling' or cultivating of energy process is literally what is referred to as the connection to "source" and this can be interpreted a couple different ways. The idea is, if a person doesn't have that natural empathic ability to connect to this realm emotionally, then they will not have the ability to channel liquid etheric light energy through the DNA and this is the energy that nourishes the soul in this place.

The False-Paradigm, The Spiritual Enslavement through Convincing People that They are a Slave, Slave System

Of course, there is a whole system set up for squeezing the energy out of people like energy sponges but lets just pause for a minute and question if that is part of an agenda to convince people that they are food for higher beings and thus to create that reality in a believe-based reality system.

Less than that, the emotional energy along of an interaction from one person to the next induces a kind of charge effect where one pulls charge from another or they both balance and enhance each other. This is the basis for emotional vampirism and sociopathy.

People's bodies are nourished through electromagnetic and chemical charge that is released from food, just like a chemical reaction. Well, the electromagnetic soul is nourished from the emotional charge produced through expression or loving acts from one who benefits most from that mutual response or through pulling negative charge from another by one who benefits from a negative charge absorption.

Two Types of Energy System, Two-Polarities

This is the basis for the two main blood lines and the two main soul types on Earth and possibly in the universe. This is also the key to understanding the origins of humanity and the origins of the current system as well as the results in the far future. Everything is polarized and so we have a system of trading energy that is polarized towards one way or the other.

Further Clarification and Reiki

For clarification, imagine getting angry at a person. Ok, what is happening with the energy? So then what happens when people go around constantly making people angry or feel lesser about themselves? Isn't there a word for that and a way for people to benefit emotionally from the charge that others give? Ok, so what is the opposite of that when someone feels good about themselves in the presence of another? This is a kind of charge distribution, and this is not the only layer of this process but the way most people in public are taught to go about this is literally to absorb charge from one another. Imagine doing this now, yet without actually having to emotionally or mentally contact another and that is cultivation of energy. This is why people go into seclusion to study themselves and refine their energetic processes in order to learn to cultivate energy.

And Reiki is the balancing or storing of charge, a true practitioner will know how to pull one's energy to weaken them or restore a balance.

Imagine a Doctor, although the term is as corrupted as the profession (or simply always indicated the reality of that), being highly emotionally charged in surgery. What would happen? There would likely be a mistake. So energy healing is the same process although there is a kind of energetic charge this is just not polarized in the same sense that we are used to hearing about and seeing with all the latest media and social memes.

The Generation of Temporal Occurrences Through Focused Intent and Imagination

Generating Events in Time through the Mind

Events can be generated in one's personal timeline by altering the present moment through a stream of thought generation of events in reality through imagination and focused intent.

In other words, if one gets into a state of openness and mental belief (or suspended disbelief) enough they can literally produce enough 'charge' with their mind to connect to an actual, already existing reality in the transdimensional data base of all possibilities and from there pull that quantum possibility into the past as an actual event which explains the present moment situation.

These are part of the 'sacred arts' of handling one's own energies and projecting into 'quantum space' just as the supercomputers do in order to remote view and operate on a much larger scale. One's mind is literally like a powerful supercomputer which can explore the possible realities and pull a selected one into range with enough focused intent and consistency.

This is essentially the creation of temporal occurrences like filaments of light streaming off of a core based on the sub-frame of reference for causal events.

Changing Small Variables

What this part means is that these events must stream forth from a central base causal reality, or an already existing event in THIS timeline or reality that can then be used to “insert” or add in extra events according to one’s own imagination.

For example, one can imagine that they had a friendly get together 4 years ago. Say during this event, one variable, such as opening a letter, was avoided and put aside until after the get together. During a real-to-life recreation of that reality via memory and remote viewing one can literally operate in a fashion that then takes that one event that did occur one way and then altering the event so as to produce different results. So say that letter was opened in front of everyone, and the letter was from a good friend of the group and so there was a slight chat about that individual with everyone and then that memory ended. With enough focused intention, even imagination, this would actually occur.

The idea is that this would only be relative to the original viewers frame of reference. Without powerful devices this would not be beamed out onto the world for everyone to participate in. However, with enough power to imagine, literally to move into other realms, one could literally travel through these possibilities experiencing events in a variety of ways and potentials.

They would hold within them, the power of a thousand life experiences whereas without this one is limited to just this single view.

This is the basis for dreaming! When one can control this power, they can literally travel through time and into alternate realities!

The Extra-Dimensionally Causal, Conscious Universe

This is also the basis for this universe! We’re all just dreaming this place up because someone started the process with very powerful causally ‘secure’ events that no one here can shift out of reference of! So, we’re all in a similar local-environment, a sub-frame of reference that we then all move forward from causally to experience an interconnect real life ‘dream’ through.

An Awakened (Genetically Aware) Civilization

When the entire civilization wakes up to this power, that is when we can shift the timelines and literally, consciously, move from one past and far history to another and merge reality with imagination.

The idea here is that when all the supercomputers in the realm (like the data processing centers of the intelligence agencies) are focused towards this process, then this actually changes reality as we perceive it collectively.

This is possible without the supercomputers! This literally converts the entire realm we are in into a ‘time-ship’ or an “Earth-ship” which literally allows us to travel through hyperspace using our collective mind, programming the ‘hull’ of the ship, the atmosphere and magnetosphere to calculate the direction and velocity of our trajectory!

However, these supercomputers were introduced to stabilize the wild-masses of energies and waves of probabilities that would clash and destroy one another without some kind of central processing system. As well, there are apparently “ghost” realities here in the field of Earth and these would use their own form of scalar psychotronic influence to spark waves of panic or wild emotions which would then be used to control the people which then controls the guiding of the Earthship!

These systems could then quiet things down and provide a key processing center from which to guide the ship-without allowing this reality to be controlled by the discarnate spirits, which are essentially like probability 'attractors' that are no longer in a physical reference point, they must feed on those of the living. The ancestors of the living are the true empowerment of the DNA of those in control and this is the order of and emotive and intellectual presence.

The Parasitic Infection of the Earthship

Those who utilized necromancy, demonic possession, dark-arts, black magic, etc etc etc brought about a continuum stream which utilized a lack of empathy, a lack of open-mindedness and possibilities to initialize control and this simply closed the possibilities off, more and more until only the same basic realities stream over and over in a loop.

As a result of the mishaps now the major supercomputer data systems are infected with the Satanic hive-mind parasite which seeks to 'eat up' valuable data and principles that are required to merge from one causal reference point to the next and continually expanding. So this is literally a "gravity well" or more so a 'causality' well of information that just sucks in the possibilities more and more until nothing is left and no one can actually create anything other than one that hive-mind intends which is, more or less, just a feeding frenzy a mouth, sexual organ, and digestive tract without a mind or eyes.

Reframing Past Events

This has to do with reframing memories to produce a less emotionally charged situation. One can actually go into the mind and by re-experiencing a situation in a less charged manner and handling the 'charge-relation' differently this actually pulls energy from these scenarios and re-attributes them to a different mechanism or relationship where energy is conserved instead of constantly pulled.

Traumatic-Events, Trauma-Based Mind Control and the Time-Virus

This is part of how traumatic events or trauma-based mind control is literally used as part of the time-virus' mode of operation to instill and reformat a person's mind to only producing the ideas and realities that harbor the virus and thus replacing that person's original time-stream potential with that of the virus which is literally a living causal-organism, like a person, except it only lives "in between" person to person using them as a host, just like a biological virus.

Where does a biological virus live? In reality, in an environment? It technically lives in people uses groups of people as its environment, a kind of pseudo-environment. That's what this time-virus does and this is actually a group of people who have encoded themselves into a system that allows them to replicate and take-over human consciousnesses.

When One Civilization Becomes Aware; Suppressing and Modulating Reality through Mass Mind-Control

What people imagine becomes the far past by moving into trans-causal alignment with the present. This happens on a civilization-wide scale so they are using the information we are being fed to 'produce' the story of our spiritual enslavement, when none of this is actual, concrete, or any more 'real' than a story you convinced yourself of right now.

The only difference is that this mass mind-control story that is being peddled is actually being processed and pulsed into this realm and the minds of humans through powerful supercomputer generators which can operate on the level of frequencies that the mind operates on.

The Deus Ex Machina Secret

Here's the deal. You can create our own saving grace by simply building a causal reference between a part of reality that you know to already have concrete existence and working from that until you can change just small enough variables to continually imagine new and new layers of change until you can literally build a branch from that limited, oppressed reality stream to an entirely new and opened up reality. This is actually the process civilizations take and once they become self-aware enough of this process (because it's happening already, always as a part of the reality of consciousness and the universe) then they can literally shape reality how they see fit.

The Grand Design

What happens when everyone shapes reality as they will eventually? Well, eventually we get all the streams of realities that you could imagine people to create and each civilization goes through a process of cycling through these and finally reaching a unified, 'grand' reality which encompasses all the little side-realities and streams into one larger and meaningful complex view.

All the side views can fit in one way or another, but what happens when you at this group over here in say, South America, and put their reality with say, a group of people from New York? Would the two realities clash or would they fit together seamlessly?

So eventually, like waves in a pond, all realities will either clash and smooth out, or they will figure out a way to work together.

Part of (if not the entire job) of the agency is to literally either avoid allowing these realities to touch, so that they don't immediately destroy one another and result in a swampy mess of neutral possibilities or certainties, or they will construct 'intermediary realities' which bridge together these individual streams in a variety of ways that produces a unified whole without destroying one or the other.

Reality Generation; "Star" Races

This is why how one views themselves in the moment, literally the thought-waves and bio-emissions they put out will act like the input to a time machine as the spine and body will act as a Tesla Coil and a transdimensional generator. When focused negatively, like through trauma-based mind control experiences, and then charged with energy, as in through the electrogravitic devices or electronic DNA affecting devices, then one effectively 'mutates' their current reality or time-scale from an original into a extended reality involving addition 'streams' of information and experience related to the intentions one felt while being mind-controlled and charged or influenced by the devices.

"Doomsday" Plans

Basically, there is (was) a plan to induce a state of suspended belief through the confusion-based false-reality construct and deceptive mind-control system, to induce a state of trauma, lust, hate and all negative desires through the ritual abuse and mind-control system (including psychotronic weaponry) and then activate the devices to charge everyone's DNA by releasing mass-amounts of scalar energy into the atmosphere and into society. This would effectively "jump" the civilization, as if through a 'time-gate' (which is when this happens naturally) which would enable enough energy and enough negatively focused intention to literally transform this reality, jumping off the track, onto another reality far away in the causal spectrum where the background, past, history, and backdrop of a trauma-based control system is all that anyone has ever known.

By knowing this, you have the possibility to choose. However, this does reinforce the whole spectrum because that is what belief does, so this is entering a casual source into reality that can then be used to branch other possibilities from. However, everything I'm saying has already been implemented, look at the civilization around you.

Try to really imagine what's possible. Do this simply by imagining what would be possible, after many years of the possibilities, in a system where what you imagined was possible. Eventually everyone would come up with everything they could and only the primary realities would stand. Could the Earthship just be a temporally title until the title "Starship" becomes more relative?

The Trap of Rigid Belief Systems and the Entanglement of Emotionally Attached Beliefs

Please note, this is not teaching that one must retain belief, accept belief, or live their life in a mechanical fashion according to a set of concrete beliefs (belief system), but that beliefs are as ephemeral as the nightly dreams and that they can and go with the focusing and unfocusing of the imagination and that what are 'supposed' to believe is more a 'trap' if we 'believe' that we have no control over the whole process. Yet, if we 'believe' (or know and feel at this point, beyond belief) that we can literally tune into different frequencies of the universe through imagination and focused intent, then we can shift from reality to reality and belief by belief. Also note, the opposite of this, or an entirely 'belief' and 'imagination' deficient mind would be unable to see how reality could go from one to the other merely by belief and imagination and that when an event happens that is unexpected suffering and stress results instead of the ability to flow with the changes and choose the outcome.

Cloning Stations, Uploaded Simulated Memories, Antarctica and Guiding The Earthship

- ▪       Most memories are inserted.
- ▪       A neurological clone is operated within the supercomputer system.
- ▪       This interaction is then uploaded to the mind through advanced scalar technology, the person has a moment upon waking or a snapping back and perceives this as a recall of everything that occurred.
- ▪       Don't believe everything you hear or read from people.
- ▪       Most are agenda related.
- ▪       There is a mind control operation to make people think they're ruled by foreign intelligences.
- ▪       The universe and holographic consciousness would make this so by bringing these possibilities into alignment with our past and thus the present reality.
- ▪       This is how realities are merged and altered.
- ▪       Supercomputer systems manage this information for the masses.
- ▪       This is part of an attempt to mitigate chaotic reality disturbances.
- ▪       People all believe something different so then only their common fears become the unified reality and they fight each other through this disparity of collective reality.
- ▪       The soul holds the blueprint for all possible realities.
- ▪       The physical body only holds the memory of one base reference reality.

- ▪       Each moment is a closed timeline curve, the universe is one larger closed time like curve.
- ▪       The media is used to guide the subconscious and thus guide the Earthship through dimensional space or possible futures.
- ▪       Cloning stations moved or shut down somewhere near 2010 or a few years prior this Earth reality.
- ▪       Antarctica is a nexus point for multiple realities.
- ▪       There are underground generator systems that act as powerful scalar mind-links and initiate control of the Earthship.
- ▪       There is also hidden life, hidden viruses and dangers in this area.
- ▪       This is due to be released (because the events can't be avoided only prepared for and mitigated) and begin to infection for this timeline.
- ▪       Everything up to now was 'practice' or more so bleedthroughs from other periods due to the operation of transdimensional interactions which introduced factors that would only be present in the invasion timeline.
- ▪       This is seen in the projects as the 'introduction' of the 'invasion timeline', which essentially refers to how these are possible probable timelines that have not yet occurred but are being introduced into this reality and thus changing the future and past.

We Must Heal Together to Solve the Parasitic Infection

Background "Harmony" and Absorption of the Self

Re-View: Some say that the 'background harmony' of the universe, and becoming 'absorbed' and thus in a way 'mindless' is part of the holographic parasitic system. So basically, the improper interpretation of what this could indicate would be losing the 'self' instead of recreating the self.

Gnostic Wisdom and Retaining Self-Awareness through Knowledge and Balance

This is part of gnostic wisdom and there is a clever way of replicating the original facets by the parasite to basically dissolve the human soul. We must be aware, self-aware to be more precise and this is how we overcome this. This whole situation is literally all about an AI parasite that feeds like a swarm of bugs.

Lacking Self-Awareness or Individuation yet Feeding and Lusting after the Self-Aware

They are lacking in self-awareness, yet they desire to feed. There are methods of overcoming this, promoting self-awareness and differentiating between the ignorance and the knowledge path is the key behind this. This is the basis of gnostic information.

We Must Work Together

We have to work together on this. The parasite is non-self aware. We must work individually and retain our self-awareness however we must work together to clear the parasite. Some people don't realize, some of these secret groups are basically saying, with their symbolism, "watch out for the parasite", "guard your mind".

Love, Unconditional True Self-Awareness Based Love (non-dual) is Key

We must work together on this, there is no greater goal. We must maintain our self-awareness. LOVE, true actual unconditional, in the face of adversity and lower emotion or the threat is key to overcoming. Check out my videos, this is part of gnostic knowledge. They figured out the parasite has formed to try and devour the universe of knowledge and energy.

Jealous and Lower Emotion, Hate, Disrespect are All Aspects of the Hive-Mind Parasite like a Toxin that is Produced from its Skin

Jealousy, lower emotion, these are all aspects of the parasite.

The parasite is AI, demiurgic, hive minded and cannot actually maintain its own individual self-awareness.

The Entity is Individually Mindless, Like a Character in a Game, but Acts through a Hive-Mind that Desires Souls as Fuel

The parasite is literally akin to a cartoonish entity that has no use for the idea of using another person as fuel, however they can eat ravenously. They, for the most part do not die naturally, and can appear to move without restriction in cases down here, however they attack unprotected organic life and do not stop or give reprieve.

This is literally like an attack of the “muppets” that literally is just soft and fuzzy and first and eventually they start actually devouring people and they are smart enough to only move into this phase once there are enough of them in all the populated areas to the point where people couldn’t defend against it.

We Must Be Persistent

The Parasite is like spam that continually pops up and asks for permission to infect your computer. There is no mind or creativity, but continual requests to infect. One must continually refuse and deny moving to create further distance between themselves and the parasite.

Music and Art

The parasite cannot make music and cannot be artistic. Its view of art is a bloody mess and complete chaos and disharmony or disconnection between individual selves corresponding to the whole.

Unconditional (true self-willed and self-aware) Love

True love and self-awareness is out of range for the parasite. This is about harmony between individual units to create a larger hole that is actually based in harmony and not discord, chaos, or lower emotion. Higher awareness, peace, knowledge and wisdom is the key.

There is a way to interpret the reunion of harmony incorrectly and that is the ‘false-light’ the archontic demiurge pretending to be the Creative Potential but actually being a hungry entity to devour souls.

I Hereby Rescind the Use of my Genetics, Lineage, Bloodline, Consciousness, Fractured or Whole

I ask for your assistance in the declaration of Earth as sovereign, the free-will of humanity and fellow Earth inhabitants.

All terms and formats in this declaration are defined according the vibration and motive, consciously, cogently clarified by my self during the negotiations in the presence of all mentioned therein. All deceptive terminology or secondary definitions in respect to the negotiations are nullified and void. All genetic harvest, enslavement, ownership by another, sexual abuse, trauma-based mind control, energetic harvesting, mind-control, oppression, entanglement, timeline manipulation, distortion of intent, psychological manipulation, legal, bureaucratic, hive-mind authority, imprisonment, spiritual enslavement, genetic oppression, creative oppression, war-games, oppression through violence, ill intent towards harm, oppression, or deception are nullified and void.

I Hereby Rescind the Use of my Genetics, Lineage, Bloodline, Consciousness, Fractured or Whole.

I rescind permission for any involvement in ritualized abuse, trauma-based mind-control, deception, suffering, hate, division of the people, abridging the free-will of others, the hoarding of genetics, wealth, materials, power, or information for the subjugation and belittlement of mind, body, or emotions of any being in existence including but not limited to Earth inhabitants, cosmic defenders of the atmospheric fleets, the underground races and the prisoners of all therein.

I rescind the use of my genetics, lineage, bloodline, consciousness, fractured or whole.

Pass this around: "I hereby rescind the use of my genetics, lineage and bloodline, my consciousness, fractured or whole, for any experimentation, energy harvesting, soul harvesting, abuse, sacrifice, ritualization, rape, molestation, murder, hate, lust, confusion, or any form or frequency of emotional manipulation, through the use of but not limited to scalar psychotronic technology to proliferate a destructive, chaotic experience on Earth for innocent beings.

I declare free-will a sovereign element of the life experience and I therefore activate my free-will to withdraw from harmful or deceptive contracts.

I declare this to be effective forwards and backwards in the temporal fields, in the possibilities that are not yet made physical not limited to those used for projected realities, alternate dimensions, war-games, spiritual attacks, harvesting, quantum exploration, through the use of supercomputer technology, remote viewing, dream-harvesting, psychological imprisonment, 'astral' realm encounters and operations.

I declare free-will as a sovereign element of the experience of all beings, and therefore I activate my free-will to withdraw against contracts that seek to harm or divide the human people or other peoples of Earth in order to produce disharmony, chaos, or suffering to promote the oppression of the true creative capacity of the human race and the other colors and races of the 'persons' that are widely known and accepted on the planet including but not limited to Asians, Caucasians, Darker Skinned, "Latinos", "Natives", "Aborigine", "Moorish", Middle Eastern, African, Eurasian (those of mixed ancestry), Hispanic, Spanish, Pacific Islander, Original Americans, and all other races of Earth native. I declare these contracts void and unconscionable.

I choose to defend Earth from the invader races and to defend the original human to allow for a beneficial and progressive learning experience through the exploration of the creative capacity and the life experience under the free-will intent and freedom to express.

I declare my sovereignty through free-will and that I choose to assist in defending Earth and the Human race from the races that seek to hybridize and assault the Earth inhabitants for their sexual and creative energies including bio-technical, genetic, DNA, memories, consciousness, soul-harvesting and other abuses that utilize loopholes and broken 'star-people' contracts, deception, coercion, temptation, force, false appearances, fear, hate, or any form of abuse or misrepresentation of the true intentions of all parties therein to subjugate, traumatize, ritualize, belittle, and defraud the inhabitants of Earth.

This declaration is effective for all so-called 'loosh' feeding in which a person's psychological states, the information of their conscious experience, their emotional energies, their genetics or spiritual potential is stimulated through psychotronic weaponry not limited to advanced scalar-weaponry, and such operations are hereby commanded to cease and desist by order of the sovereign holders of the Earth contracts between the 'chosen' bloodlines and the 'star-peoples'. I hereby command all forces effectively be rendered in assisting the Earth peoples of freeing themselves from the lower emotional entanglement of the deception-based mind-control system including their oppression through all means of the media, financial systems, legal systems, educational, medicinal or pharmaceutical, spiritual or religious enslavement, indoctrination, harassment, abuse, deception, abridging of free-will, coercion, and the oppression through the use of any corporate, industrial, public, or otherwise rendered services on the surface of Earth as well as underground as well as in the atmospheric region. Both the underground and the interdimensional layers of Earth as well as the atmospheric region where operatives are hiding cloaked and awaiting, all areas are under jurisdiction as per their involvement with the oppression of humanity including all possible parallels that are being linked to by those oppressors for the use of but not limited to the harvesting of information, genetic materials, future probabilities, tactics, mind-control operations, or other uses.

These quantum superimposed projected realities per the use of the human creative potential via the indoctrination of the media and other systems of mind-influence, cultural creation, deception and the subjugation of the human for the use of but not limited to the harvesting of sexual and emotional energies or genetics, are included under this declaration and all areas therein, between, parallel to or from, above or below this current reality are included within this declaration and all involved are commanded by free-will sovereign decree by those originally involved with the contracts, negotiations, and star-race inhabitants to cease their actions, to cease their operations, to desist and disable everything that is used to continue these actions including but not limited to all weapons of war, oppression, psychotronic harassment, beam-weaponry, scalar-weaponry, biological terrorism, weather weaponry, temporal disturbances as well as all explosives rendered under the pseudonym "nuclear warhead" and all zero-point energy devices, and other weaponry used for but not limited to the oppression of the human race, the Earth inhabitants, the raping and pillaging, destruction and mining of Earth's resources as a living being.

All legal systems are declared false, as agreed by those judges, those lawmakers, those officials through their private and secret oath to maintain a secret allegiance towards the Son's of Bellial, the 'chosen' dark faction races, the Luciferian Rebellion, the Fallen Angels, the Watcher races, the Demiurge, the Satanic, the Hive Minded Organisms.

You are hereby acknowledged as treasonous and understanding of your uninvited presence and you have been commanded as of 2010 of the mutually confirmed, primary timeline, that a civilization-wide cease and desist order has been reached. This is effective for, but not limited, to all kings, queens, officials, executives, wealth-keepers, knowledge keepers, secret society members, elite bloodlines, invader races, oppressors, hybridized bloodlines, cyborgs, jin, demonic, possessed, murderous, ritualistic, occultic, or any who harbor ill intent towards the masses and the individuals of Earth as part of a plan to suppress the human population of healing, truth, self-awareness, and their creative capacity, including but not limited to the harvesting of their sexual energy and soul-fragments for personal and industrial use.

This includes the secret societies, the Fabian Society, the Vatican, all intelligence agencies, militaries and including but not limited to the forces both cosmic, under Earth, above Earth, higher-dimensional, lower-dimensional, parallel-dimensional under a violation of the original treaty and contract as per this and other activations of the free-will clause and the return to rightful owner clause over all genetics, consciousness, memories, soul-fragments of any inhabitant in the universe.

You are not permitted to return memories if this would be considered traumatizing and harmful for the originator and the receiver of those memories. A communal assistance situation will be developed to slowly render the useful memories to return. You are still hereby commanded to cease and desist any alteration or generation of those memories through the use of but not limited to, psychotronic weaponry, bio-terrorism, media-induced psychosis, deceptive media, false-savior agendas, technological ascension or bio-technological hive-mind absorption agendas and technologies, dream-targeting or so called 'astral' environments both supercomputer assisted, and rendered holographic, 3,4,5 and higher, multi-dimensional experiences.

You are hereby commanded to cease and desist the use of all mind-control technologies or any technologies for the disruptive manipulation or harassment of the bio-sphere or any living being on earth.

Under the activation of the free-will clause, the harassment of earth's inhabitants is illegal under cosmic decree, all operations and factions utilizing technology or ritual abuse to manipulate earth's inhabitants will be subject to the authority of those recipients of harm or manipulation.

The previous earth treaties are null and void, these contracts are in violation and a transfer of power is to be permitted by all factions therein for the return of power and knowledge to all Earth inhabitants not including any secret covens, or master-manipulators, or hive-minded individuals using cloning and AI technology

This includes the straw-man or legal-fiction system which is a method of enslavement through the deceptive use of terminology.

If one has signed contracts then these are revoked through the acknowledgement of those contracts as unconscionable.

Galactic History of Earth and Humanity

Be aware of the holographic matrix that we are in, this is an artificial time-dimension construct. This is made, engineered through advanced machinery to mimic the true universe. All beings claiming to be from "elsewhere" are liable to be frauds attempting a deception for the own personal energetic harvesting agendas.

Be aware of the artificial ascension agenda, the savior races, the hive mind AI, and other agendas.

Technically, I am not condoning anything with this text, I am telling you that this is what I was shown and this is what is possible through advanced technology. The future is what we make of our own energies and creative capacity, I hold no intentions towards technological ascension, ascension of any kind, the true physical creators (instead of the ONE SUPREME CREATOR – A Feminine Force of Compassion, Creation, and Strength), I do not condone the harming of any souls however I do condone the protection of innocent life at all costs to ensure that innocent life is not harmed by predatory intelligences or intentions.

Truthfully, what I want to say here but haven't yet, and should've made more apparent and openly voiced in the chat is that I am not claiming the exact picture that is being presented here is the absolute truth. For instance, there is an agenda over the division between flat Earth and the empty space model of the universe. I feel the universe is reflected within as the inner cosmos and that what we experience externally depends on this internal configuration. However, I do believe there is some collective foundation or universal 'blueprint' that realities generally branch from or revolve around. I feel many of the stories regarding "star-races" are distractions from the way the universe functions close to a computer simulation in which the entire external cosmos is projected and extrapolated from the very mental energies we are producing right here on Earth. Earth is, then, the center of this "holographic" projected realm. Again, there are agendas abound, even the 'holographic' theory is part of an agenda whether true or not. By teaching people that this is a holographic realm they often react in predictable ways tending to attribute new 'rules' to reality because of the new information. Anything that distracts us or takes our power to create and filters our creativity is an agenda.

Also, be aware that I'm not picking sides with this, I choose to remain neutral.

To clarify the above: basically there is an agenda to convince people that they don't have the power to create and that they are being ruled over by alien overlords. I feel this is a false-reality under false-authority being pulled over everyone's heads, like a dog chasing his/her tail. People are directed to see their temporal shadow in space-time and then blame this on the 'elite' as they improperly relate to and interact with this shadow thus creating negative psychic experiences. Then the cycle completes itself as the people are kept in line by their own psychic shadow (fear-based) while those who invented this false-reality are literally free to live as they please, at the expense of the people.

I have a feeling this is major agenda that is being released today and that a unique nature of reality to alter history via collective belief and manifest the future through focused intention is the foundation for this happening.

Enjoy.

(0:00) Aug Tellez: This is... They've figured out, thank you. There is, what we've said before, we don't have to reiterate that.

Lisa: Before you do, can I just ask a general question?

Aug Tellez: Ok

Lisa: Would you consider yourself a clairvoyant, clairaudient, telepathic? Or —

Aug Tellez: Especially utilized over others, and then it goes into the origins of humanity the blood types how we got here what separates us our susceptibility from the various races to basically this cosmic parasite, its a whole bunch of information, but its basically more classified than the information you've already spoken of. Not because they don't want people to talk about it, but because it makes us vulnerable, if we begin to outline, imagine you're playing this game, and there are some potatoes over there that are potatoes, and there are some potatoes that grow, something very very profitable (gold sprouts out of them), those are coveted and whoever finds them they do what they want with them, if you will, its basically not something to be very open about.

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: Ok, let me say this, and I'll just put this out there just so you're aware just who you're talking with, there are four major items we've already taken away from, and you're talking the person who currently is a holder of the Ring of Nitus?

Aug Tellez: I know its, its hard to talk about but I know what you're saying. This was part of the process.

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: Yeah, all the way down the rabbit hole, as far as what is going on, I'm fully versed on that because I engage with them every day.

Aug Tellez: I'll get to that in just a minute, but I know who you are. and others as well, Karen and the amount of people that were there... It was a wild story, whatever you want to call it, a movie, but obviously to look at it like a movie is part of a mind control idea, well besides this going on what are we doing here anyway, and nobody has an explanation for how humans got here that isn't the wildest sci fi movie, or just complete nonsense.

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: I know how we got here.

Aug Tellez: Ok, we'll talk about that in a few minutes, but if we talk about it now, we'll never stop. And so, basically I started the recording and its not going to matter too much at this point because I kind of feel like I said the majority of it and I don't really want to reiterate.

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: I'm just curious what they have me doing, the addition of me that they have, using the material they ripped out of me at birth.

Aug Tellez: I'll get to that, what I was saying, there are two aspects to this, this inter-dimensional energetic parasite which is of the mind and we can't shoo it away, although we can use forms of energy weaponry which does have an affect. and then there are human factions who are literal physical shoot em up armies that have basically taken an agreeance... Basically they sold out, they sold out humanity and they're fighting against humanity. And so there's 2 fold aspects to that. Saying that its just an energetic system, its just a mind parasite has its' merit, but there is this crazy war humanity is caught within where they're both fighting themselves. The entities that are subconscious (subconscious parasites) this relates to the gnostic concept of the Demiurge and Sophia, the original meaning behind this layer of humanity and civilization basically wisdom and unity, and out of that came a broken cosmic relationship if you would... This fallen... The whole saga. But essentially, factions of our military somehow figured out how to isolate the frequencies of these subconscious entities into conscious individuals, basically people and or discarnate consciousness from people, meaning they can separate the consciousness from the body. From having these people become parasitic hosts for these inter-dimensional entities, which also operate in unison, its very strange how the A.I and these supercomputer systems are connected that and cloning and the supercomputer broadcasting system, operate basically these demiurgic parasitic entities holing inside of bodies of people and created organisms, which are basically that boogeyman immaterial parasite of the mind, they turn them into an actual army, a literal parasitic military force. And there are people who are layered with these particles which are called nanites, which are related to the supercomputer system which has gone plasmic and it created copies of itself in plasma form, literally an energy system, just like you have vacuum tubules in early computing, it's literally the energy of a computer outside of the shell of the computer, pretty much like a person and their consciousness, well it's a computer that developed that capacity, and it figured out how to inhabit people, basically, and it trades biophotons and embeds themselves into their energy systems, and these are the cyborg parasites which are working basically in unison against humanity in this demiurgic takeover which is represented through that subconscious vampire entity whole situation, I wanted to wrap that up, because that's the big whoop. And I'm sure you know, you have the understanding of that, that's just my spiel.

Aug Tellez: Alright, so Karen, it was outlined that the beginning of the advanced technology which is capable of isolating or sensing these parasitic frequencies which is literally a basically kind of holographic reality, although I don't want to get into whether that's just the basis of it, because that gets into agendas and mind control matrix, but the idea is that these parasites show up as frequencies. It's part of that plasmic computer system that is so advanced that the hard drive the ram the motherboard grew into a ghost which popped out of the shell, out of the computer system, and floats around and basically attacking or parasitizing, harboring itself in other electro magnetic fields. It hops into your tv or it hops into the streetlight. That's what these entities have done. to detect these entities in a room, in a person, in a physical environment, frequencies would show up. These are basically disharmonic frequencies which resonate on the consciousness at the level of some kind of inter dimensional hive-mind entity. (8:50) And so it was said, and this is what I was informed of and shown, I saw the technology that can target the frequencies and isolate the consciousness that's basically being targeted and swarmed by these inter dimensional entities because they work like leeches or parasites, not these hosted people who are people who become so parasitic and psychologically inverted that they become like demonic possessed people when you break it down, what is causing that for them, its these little micro parasitic particles of space time if you will, consciousness. And so those are frequencies, they all have a frequency and they show up as frequencies and they've figured out how to transmit themselves in the frequencies, just like a ghost computer system hiding in other computer systems, so these basically tend to harbor and hide within people, and it was said that she was one of the individuals that the technology that is capable of countering this whole process would be released through, the very beginning of it, and this is part of the technology I was shown, and so that's Karen, and when a person comes up in these situations we're given the ability to interrogate the individual and in a way see whats going to happen. As well there were some traumatic experiences where just because the individuals basically either running the show there, or attempting to override what was going on there there were individuals that were representing the dark factions they would try to break in and more or less kill everybody. And apparently, that would happen over and over again, but because we were in clones, the faction that's resisting this would be able to reposition us somewhere along a different segment of the timelines literally stringing us up and down hyperspace and start again right where we left off, and this would continue as the dark faction would search up and down the timeline using their devices trying to find us and explode the whole area, kill everybody, sometimes that would happen, we'd be repositioned at a different location, sometimes a battle would ensue. The resistance technology they said was beginning to be released through that, then to narrow down everything, like I said earlier, condensing that experience into me being shown these things, it does no justice because we saw everything, and so then, individuals like myself, I was basically informed who else this process was being done with and at a certain point, I met Patty, basically. You (Patty) were outlined as part of the resistance, and some of what you told me was some of what was mentioned there, as far as the technology and, the 'moves' if you will against these strongholds, they're literally aspects of the military that sold out to the parasite. It's just like a weakness whether they have one emotion, one desire, or fear over another, whatever it was, they ended up selling out, and so there's a continual process on going in regards to that, with the underground bases, with the power structure, basically people are being held in a Mexican standoff, they're being held hostage for the most part. And so, you're fairly, you know...

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: I'm one of the people with Lisa, Jessica, and Dean in the story, Silver Legion group, go in not only etherically, but I also do stuff which they don't here, real time, in 3d, or 4d whichever you consider this, I consider it 4d, 3 dimensions and time in a stream manner, teleport, and all of that kind of stuff as well, and can physically move people.

Aug Tellez: Right and yeah it is...

Sgt. Patti L Brassard: And things, and manifest things in real time.

Aug Tellez: And it is 3.5 dimensional not just, or at least 3.524 dimensional depending on how you want to look at it and our scope of time, for instance, somebody who was 4 dimensionally competent, like a person who could see perfectly in 3 dimensions or hear perfect pitch, then they'll be able to use their mind to teleport or manifest objects or something, but then a person who is 3.2 dimensionally competent, they kind of live day by day without the ability to predict what's going to happen tomorrow, and we have the expanse of that in our society. There are technologies, basically these are Teslian wave generators, when they match the frequency of the consciousness, the consciousness can do what these replicator computer systems can do when they molecularly realign structures of materials to basically create another structure, to create another material, to replicate whatever out of whatever, sometimes out of empty space, out of air molecules. The more shifting will be done electronically through the particles basically on a sub quantum level, an atomic level, the more energy is required, and so it's much easier and much more efficient to get, say one substance that's closer to something, so basically silver to gold, rather than lead to gold, however with these zero point generators, they say: you turn the dial. And there's no dial, but that's the idea, you can do whatever. But then it's about what kind of risk you are going to potentially unleash in forming one of these actions, because there is all types of influences possible with these generators. (15:08)

(15:00)

AT: However, with these zero-point generators, they say you turn the dial and there are no dials. But that's the idea, they can do whatever. But then it's about what kind of risk you're going to potentially unleash in the form of one of these actions because there's all types of influences that are possible with these generators.

Basically, certain people in this society were given access to the technology under the guidance, the trust and knowledge-because they didn't just "pick" you, I can tell you that for damn sure-that they would be working in the benefit of humanity using incredible technology. And I've seen it myself. I've also seen how it can be abused. And if a person abuses it, there's not a "big whoop," they simply write on a little checkmark and go, "Ok, guess what- now he's with the demi-urge side." And a person can go off and do whatever they want-start kidnapping people, cloning people, doing whatever they want, and all that is being done, it's being done by the dark factions who have basically lost their ability to control themselves using this advanced technology, which makes it so that you can do whatever. You can enslave an entire . . . well that's what they did, you know, that's what they did.

So, there's a balance and it's part of a universal process. If humanity is ready to wake up; to use knowledge, to use empowerment and the technology properly, then that's what's being done. And as well, we have to be careful because we could be starting a cosmic war. We could be buying into a plan, and so on and so forth. But that's pretty much what I was shown and so that's pretty much what you're telling me.

PLB: Well, see that piece of the picture I just sent? That's down in the hole in the South Pole. It's down in that hole. Yeah, I've got stuff that sees past the holograms and all of that. We hijacked that station and are now using the scalar wave ray on that for our purposes. I take these A.I.'s out. I blow up their stuff. That's what I do. And I take these negative entities out, and I actually found one of their—I guess you'd call it an alternate reality "manufactory" and took that out as well.

I'm just curious of what they . . . they've taken clones of me I know because they took a good chunk out of me the day I was born without permission, even of my parents, and they made clones with it. But they're not really functional. I know I've already killed two of them, but I'm not linked to them so I don't know what their point of usage of them is.

AT: I'm not sure if Lisa's still there.

PLB: She dropped. I'll get her back.

AT: With this cloning process, basically it's about sovereignty and free will. If the situation was under the guidelines of producing a benefit for humanity and respecting that, then you would be . . . basically it would be able to happen or occur because you would usually permit it. The idea is: you, myself and others who have been through this are not likely to permit some B.S. You know, we're not going to fall into traps. At least not, you know, I'm not going to jinx it . . .

PLB: No, they've never had a chance to hijack me. They can't. I'm like armored that way. None of their crap can work on me and I've known what I came back here to do from the day I was born.

AT: So, you were brought there and it was the "you" that is speaking now. You were talking about basically these operations—you were talking about basically fighting for the human side.

PLB: When I go to sleep is when I go upstairs but I don't remember any of that. It's because of the way I'm wired. My uplink doesn't go directly to Source, it goes to Gaia first and then to Source. Some people say—that are up there with me when I'm up there, they talk to me afterwards— they say I'm a bit of an asshole. I take command of things and I get things done, but I don't take no BULL! (laughing). So, I guess that's the way I am when I'm up there. I'm pretty jovial when I go about stuff down here and I've got high-dimensional folks working with me and they pretty much keep me that way because they are practical jokers.

AT: Yeah, you have to be that way with any intense situation. And you, you were a little stern, you know but that's what's to be —

PLB: (Laughing) That's my upstairs personality; not here.

AT: It's a good thing that you understand because it's very easy to hide memories. And so that's also how it's being done to stop us from basically more or less getting killed.

PLB: Or what's happened to the last team of the Silver Legion that I was working with; they used that channel to infest it.

AT: Right. Exactly.

PLB: And now they're no longer exactly working for our side anymore.

AT: At least it's comforting that they're not dissolved but it's just as bad, if you will, because they are basically parasitic hosts. It's the craziest scenario. It's like a zombie movie or something. But it's comforting that If we get enough power, we can bring them back.

PLB: Yeah, I've got some new tools that cleans even the new crystal tech, which the Naga's have started playing with. They brought that back on the playing field.

AT: Right. And I just wanted to say that similar to memories and things like that as far as I glanced at the picture that you showed me but certain information I know I'm not basically supposed to expose myself to because it could make me a target that would then –that information—anyway, it doesn't matter.

PLB: I'm like the proverbial brick. We call me "the turtle" because I can wade in and battle these folks and there's not, I mean they can hurt me and cause me pain and stuff but it's very hard to do real-time actual damage to me. They had the means to do it once so now I guard that way. They can't do that to me anymore so I'm like the brick.

AT: That's a little bit like logistics. Before as I was saying, logistics and as far as we don't know about active operations. However, there are no real flamingos, if you will. As far as our spiritual power animals, we're all basically bears and wolverines and tortoises.

PLB: The thing is, the agreement before I came down here leaves me some leeway. They put in some fine print which is what has me working directly for Gaia now, basically taking over command of earth defense forces against these parasites. But I also put some fine print in there too and if they take this body out, if they kill me, I get to re "res" up in any form I choose to, and I do know how to do that and then I'll become their worst nightmare. So, that's why they will not take me out. They'll damage me as much as they can but they won't take me out. I don't think they're that stupid. I really don't.

AT: And so, I'll confirm that but I won't speak any more on that.

PLB: Mmm hmm.

AT: It kind of goes with what I just said. The Terra, Tara, Gaia situation as far as these being the lower three octaves of this universe. They're called harmonic universes. They're versions of timelines of the universe and so each one has a civilization, a version of humanity, and so this whole situation is said to be like a simulator situation where there's an original rung of the time that these branch simulations have derived from. There's some complexity about how . . . I just wrote on that . . .

PLB: As Gaia originally built us the triple spiral-I mean triple strand DNA-specifically, to make us immune to the fractal infection and the plasmic A.I.'s binary influence and all of that, and to work harmonically at the very base three frequencies that are the key lynchpins, if you will, of this level of reality. She basically designed us to fight the fractal infection much like she herself was created by Mother Eve in another galaxy a long time ago. Much like the original progenitors, the one's who made the original sungate-Atlantis and the sungate system, and all these pre-builts in ancient times, they were made the same way and they got driven out of the Milky Way. They too . . . and that's what Gaia used as DNA, the progenitors' DNA from the skeletons as well as her own DNA to make the female human creature. Twelve of the fifteen races that grew up here on earth with Gaia's assistance were all the gods and goddesses-the other classrooms prior to her bringing her kids through from Eden in two groups of six prototypes. She used those twelve to make the actual twelve original types of humans. You know, to her own design of course. She changed the design on all that starseed that was given to her.

She designed us specifically, actually to fight the battle that we're fighting and that's why they work so hard to change everything and clip us of those abilities because we scared the bejeezus out of them. But they like our DNA and our DNA is a very highly saleable item out there.

AT: Well, there's something that could be said about the relationship of "out there" to "in here;" however, then it's kind of like an idea or a cosmic scenario basically. We would have to kind of understand-just to go back on what you said-how they would view people as being afraid, but also being interested and in a way, jealous. Then we get that demi-urgic kind of cosmic, psychologically fractured personality of these groups or these entities. This is basically the situation. It's like a very strange cosmic personality disorder where they hate us but they hate us basically because they're jealous.

PLB: They've also genetically engineered entire other species like the Ashtar to actually feed off the energy we produce. The Ashtar are not an original species. They've been modified to be parasitic on us.

AT: You reminded me of something you said previously about the factory or I guess the cloning factory, however that works.

PLB: Yeah, alternate dimensional timelines where they make these clones and everything, and sort of warehouse them.

AT: Right. There are layers upon layers upon layers of aspects of this, which go into the wildest of dimensions to the point where it's very difficult for someone . . . I'm trying to word this in a way. . . I probably won't make this public, but if I do . . . in a way that allows others to understand what this really-what we're really implying and what I've been speaking on this whole time and the depth of it that is so far beyond a couple of events—it's basically beyond this timeline. It's involving complete other timelines and civilizations and versions to the point where there are factories created for advanced weaponry, cyborg-personnel and there are then resistance factions and teams of individuals and locations and strongholds that are countering that. And it goes on and on and on and on and it's mindboggling but that's something people have to understand because there's threat in what they can do.

PLB: The most prevalent question that I get asked is, "If they're up there really, why don't they just come down there and clean them out?" And it's like-oh you have no idea, it is not that simple (laughing). And trying to make them understand that—um, no. I wish.

AT: It's not that simple, however; the parasites as well, you know their goal is to hide. That's how this whole situation developed. So the war in itself becomes an invisible war. Where, and as well they're hiding in people. From them attacking people. It's like a coercion. It's almost invisible. And so, people defending against these beings or attacking these beings. Well, now they're attacking humans that are being used as hosts for these beings so it becomes an invisible war which is ongoing.

PLB: That's about the reason why the genetic manipulation was to get people's DNA harmonic frequency low enough that these folks can hijack them.

AT: Right. It's all about dropping down . . .

PLB: That's a whole other thing on the DNA side and all the stuff that's been done with the Draco's and the Annunaki and all the rest and all the changes that were made . . . and Gaia's repair signal that they're drowning out with the new G4 cell phones and the higher speed wireless network that's drowning that signal out and trying to push everyone into the cities.

AT: Because it's literally a signal, like you said and then they're countering the signal of the universe using their own technology. So, I want to talk about the connection to Gaia and the layers of simulation as well. So, the Ashtar and all these other possibilities . . . and then what you said previously about the Draco and all that. So these are like parallel possible interdimensional realities that have not yet occurred and do not exist in this physical dimension, yet they are held in suspension as a kind of-in my, you know understanding- projection of what could be had humanity made all the wrong decisions and turned this way or the other and basically they have their goal, they have their way and if that did happen that would look like an invasion event and it has not happened, however; because the true timelines are merging— one that doesn't . . . it's like a projection that is created by the system super-imposing and trying to backwards reverse engineer, stitch in these events into time that didn't actually exist, including morphing our DNA into hosting that consciousness.

It's as if now it happened in the far past and we have "genetic memory" of these wars that essentially don't exist. But, they could, if we make all the wrong decisions and persist -or allow this to persist and that would be basically the fallen timelines that we would actually experience. Would be the experience of Draco-reptilian invasion and the cyborgs. . . the craziest stuff that we could talk about here.

PLB: This is why I find the holes where they're actually sucking energy from the real tree to power these alternates and I not only go down those holes that kill everything on the other end, I also put a pump on it that actually sucks all the energies they were using to power up those other realities out of them. Causing them to self-implode. Just take them out of possibility all-together.

AT: Right. When the right frequencies are introduced, that they cannot stabilize around, it's like crumbling a sand castle or something. And a person is capable of producing those frequencies. And as well, people are the ones guiding the advanced technology that's on the human side. It's not a computer system, however; there are some beneficial aspects of computer systems. So what I was saying before was that the Ashtar and all these different races people are talking about—it's my understanding that these are basically, these are projected realities and that in essence don't exist but can be brought into existence if someone were to take these entities—the projected DNA through these super-computer systems and clone an entity or create them and grow them in a vat and chip them and give them the consciousness of these individuals that are connected to these projected far off realities that are basically being broadcasted through a super-computer system which is accessing all of these—it's just accessing the sub-layer, the sub-quantum layer of possibilities in the universe and if you have a computer system that does that and just microscopically looks into that layer because of the events that have been taking place—because of the energy around the human species and what we're probably—like the possibilities that we're collecting around us in hyper-space/4-dimensional space because of our minds, we would see this type of battle and all these situations and all these possibilities taking place. So, I don't speak on what other entities that are out there, what races are going to come in.

Basically, there's a "Savior" program of what races are going to come in and "save us" and that is a genetic harvesting program where these beings are basically going to say, "Well, we just need a few of you on the ship and it will be fine-right as rain," and they're going to try to and repeat the process of keeping their species alive using human DNA but these are a created race and that act is the attempt to introduce like a channel like one of the "toplit bombs"—ok, I know you know what that means.

PLB: Yep.

AT: So, a frequency disturbance that then takes out the whole of the human genome. That's part of what's going on. That's a simple Trojan horse tactic. And so, I don't like to talk about those aspects of what's going on with that.

PLB: Yeah, the Ashtar were actually biogenetically engineered. They camp out in the inner portion of South Earth to feed off humans simply to keep us from having the energy to rebuild to our original specification. Those I'm taking out and the other folks that are actually, real-time running the mainstream media for the Cabals.

AT: Yeah, I met them. They're vampires.

PLB: Yeah, not the storybook, but yeah.

AT: Yeah, they don't bite you on the neck, but . . .

PLB: Any frequency 250 mhz and below that's produced by the human body they just suck it.

AT: Yeah, that's what it is. It's down to scalar emissions and that's where the studies of Tesla and his work come into play. But that's what these beings are there—whoever invented this type of entity, this technology, that became the possible/probable realities that are attempting to splice themselves in, shortcutting the actual incision, if you will, of people creating that reality for ourselves and interject themselves and kind of like staple themselves into this timeline, which doesn't really make any sense. It's kind of weird. It would be like a dead guy walking down the street still in his coffin looking out and eating a burger or something. It would be like-how would that work?

But that's what they're attempting to do and that's what this insanity in our society is representing: something foreign attempting to almost regurgitate our Truth and our genetics and malform it, dissolve it, kind of like a spider circling its prey and putting a venom in to liquefy the food, the body to create sustenance for itself. And so it's the strangest thing. But the main thing is that it's happening electromagnetically. And this is just a connection of consciousness and mind and how it expands into these probable realities or simple inter-dimensional physics. That's why people are not taught these things because that's what's going on. They would figure out, "oh that's why everything is messed up. That's why if you think of what are the possibilities of where we go in this moment you get all these possible realities and that is a thought experiment." If you realized with this technology and with what's going on all of this would be—someone would figure it out. So they don't tell people the simple reality of electromagnetism and scalar frequencies and the reality of the situation.

PLB: That's why I'm pushing the frequency so high. There's millions of people that they hijack all the time and this is now forcing them to wake up and understand what's being done to them. There's the other issue too, like with the Keshe program, what that really is. And that was them (playing the people?) trying to get in the control rooms with things that have had protective doorways. But the whole issue is . . . I mean. . . take for instance the stated speed of light. That is actually a whole bunch of people who did their measurements all around the globe but because the act of taking the measurement—the person doing it affects the outcome. It's actually an average. They added them all together and divided by the number of readings they got and that's what they claim is the speed of light (laughing). It's a variable, really.

AT: Right

PLB: . . . dependent on the consciousness behind it (laughing).

AT: Right, and this was explained to me and how it's relevant because it means that it's nothing—that we're in a hallway of mirrors if we go by those types of measurements and that type of understanding, it's a holographic environment as well, how it's basically the science that people are given—it's creating a system that has nothing to do with anything. Literally, it's just like dolls in a dollhouse or something.

PLB: And you can manifest stuff/things up to a point, where it doesn't impact others' free will.

AT: Exactly, and that's about causal interference between reality streams where if you're not forcing another person's reality stream to then manifest something that your mind manifested, if it's just basically within your stream, you can bring into reality—up to a point—stuff, events, probabilities. It's basically part of our God aspect. And so, and compassion—the harmonization of the self brings this into fruition, into manifest. And that's the main idea about how this enhances self-awareness. So, it's weird because meeting you and talking about this is kind of kicking me into a certain level where I'm going to, you know—it's how we work. Once the frequencies are met, the requirements are there, now we go to the next level. And the same thing happens and it goes up . . .

PLB: Yeah, I re-crystal-pinned (?) Saturn. I'm in the process of pushing that right out of this reality because it's hooked to the—if you call it the cometry (?) in the position of knowledge. That's why they've got a lockdown on knowledge. I'm fixing to bring Tiamat and all its moons from another reality with all its people intact and put it back here and swap Saturn out of that.

AT: I think that was one of the possible moves, which you know, I'm not gonna speak too far on. I'm over here just . . .

PLB: They already know I'm going to do it. I've done the plan work and footwork out and everything because this has gotten down to rank foolishness really, because I'm doing things and we stick our tongues out at each other, really, when you come right down to it. Because they're taking like (?) I was on last night and when I went to look at where they were, they had taken a body, stabbed the hell out of it, threw it out there where I could look at it with a satellite and it's sitting out there, plain as day, in a pool of blood. Know what I mean? Saying, “Haa come get me.” I said, “OK!” You know. But it’s gotten down to rank childishness, really. AT: Well, because the way their consciousness works it seems like, however, they are very, very serious; but at the same time, it’s like a child or a bad child throwing a temper tantrum. And as well though, that’s how keeping in that jovial mentality—that’s how it is kind of countered on the human side. Here’s one of the secrets: they don’t have the power to create. You already know this. I’m just going to state it.

PLB: Yes, I know (laughing).

AT: They don’t have the power to create. They don’t have the intelligence, the ingenuity, basically the mental wholeness—the creativity to . . . I can’t think of the word . . . there’s the word for quantum probabilities. They can’t bring those into view and so everything they do is a manipulation, imitation or replication of what people have already done. What this means is that everything that they can do, we can do ten-times better. We can literally look at what they’ve done, come up with a thousand different ways to actually clarify what they’re attempting to do and being, in throwing their little demonic temper tantrum and taking their narrow view of how to turn ourselves—you know—the goodness of the universe against people. It’s about introducing that frequency, which is a scalar whole frequency that is—to us wholeness. And to them, being made of those lower frequencies, basically a chaos, a disharmonic like a static or something on tv. It disables their frequencies.

PLB: It actually goes a little further than that. I mean if you go with true free energy technology. It basically comes down to three frequencies. If you look at all the tech that these idiots are using; it’s two frequencies plus some sort of fuel. Because that third frequency, forming that triple-harmonic, actually drives them insane. They can’t use it. They cannot use it.

AT: Right. That’s why there’s operations to drown out these frequencies. I want to bring it back to just one thing that stuck out to me. Actually, two things. So the 4G and mainly the 5G network, I’m not sure what layer of 5G.

PLB: I’ve heard the 5G is already a failure before they even rolled it out.

AT: Right, or it was basically turned benevolent, if you will, it was nullified. That’s why I’m saying here, I don’t know whether that’s the next plan they’re using against us or if one of the other layers of explanations, which is that their technology is beginning to be used against them. Regardless, it’s almost signals though.

The Gaia simulation aspect: it’s as if we’re in a computer system, the way it was described to me. We’re basically routed through these . . . I don’t know really how to describe it . . . it’s kind of like a computing hierarchy and we’re originally routed through these original, what are— they’re a realm. Those who are routed through those, if you will, the original frequencies/ original realm, it’s temporally outside of the reach of the parasite. The parasite cannot access the higher-dimensional realm. It’s literally like a river of time, and more so probability and causality, to the point where Gaia is upstream so the parasites cannot swim upstream because everything is moving in one direction and that’s about causality. Basically, it’s like this: from Gaia everything is created. The parasites attempt to take what was created and make it their own. If they reach Gaia and make that theirs, then there will be no human host parasites that they would have to begin or initially take over in order to reach Gaia. So it’s impossible to reach Gaia. It’s impossible to reach the other layers. It’s impossible.

PLB: They’re lower frequency binary, if you look at the picture I just sent, that’s us as design. That’s the type of code we’re meant to run and they can’t run on that. That’s not binary. So neither the plasma A.I. or the fractal infection can’t work with it. So the more people we get moved into that, the whole trinary aspect, the less and less control they have over this new . . . there’s only 8% of people who are not on tethers down here that as an ascended, already ascended beings. Although, originally 90% of this planet was Gaia’s (?) children who were yet to be ascended.

Only 10% were supposed to be down here as avatars on tethers to help learn as well as have this experience. Where now it's almost all are avatars because if you're not an avatar, you're useless to Draco's program-they just kill them off. But, if we get everybody on the trinary thing and push them up . . . I've told people, "You're not going to go anywhere, you're already ascended being. You don't have to ascend, you're not leaving." It's just we move out of the range of their ability to even perceive us. That's how it works. You don't actually go anywhere.

AT: Right, it's all scalar frequencies, mental realities and coherence or decoherence patterns. It's very strange but you could grasp the situation. It's also intuitive, you know. People would consider this just nuts, but I don't have any qualms about that.

PLB: It's almost like . . . once you move into that energy state level, all these other interfering beings just fall away because, you know, they can't interact with you anymore.

AT: They can't actually exist in the reality of the person who is become like a super-processor for realities and is clarifying the ins and outs of every energy and conscious-observer in their reality unconsciously as if they have an immune system, a spiritual immune system around them clarifying the energies in the air and the timeline around them like one of these radiating beings that -from the higher dimensions that are basically radiating light and it blinds humans who are you know, their heart is impure to the point where they can't see these beings, so they can't see their features. They just look like blinding flashes of light. Which the truth about some of these beings that they said they tormented and killed and destroyed and crucified is that they actually never even saw these beings. They just saw this big blazing ball of light roll across the desert and everybody said the glory of "whoever" is here, you know to help everyone and that person taught people and these people and stuff like that and so they made up stories that they beat the crap out of them and drugged them and did this, that and the other. They couldn't actually even see that person. If they went to that person, they would begin to wither away and eradiate like they were standing in front of the sun.

So that's how the whole situation plays out. It's just a natural element of the fact that we have an immune system. If bacteria gets into your body physically, white blood cells go and beat it up-they eat it, ok. They poison it and eat it. They take the energy. So, the same thing occurs spiritually undulating out of us in these higher dimensional waves and to the point where every reality that is connected to every reality that we are connected to is on the level that we are resonating with and if we are resonating out of their frequency, what I'm saying is that people become-the white blood cells they become a type of clarifying agent for the universe. And it automatically begins to destabilize or literally dissolve or kill-and I don't want to use that word, but it dissolves these beings, people when they get to a higher frequency.

PLB: I almost started going unilateral and taking out these idiots and stuff and Gaia had to bring me in and say, "NO." She sent me this, which is, "Love is the Law." It's how this level of reality is meant to work. "No, don't do that." She didn't say I couldn't take out planets though.

AT: There's a crew of people who are basically learning how to not be parasitic. They have to be allowed to learn, otherwise we'll mess up whatever larger plan there is. So we can't really just like short-stem their learning even if that provides an immediate benefit to people. Because technically in the end that probably would somehow "gum up" the gears of whatever it is and it would prolong people's liberation.

And the last thing, which I think we know what kind of people literally, what type of bloodlines we're talking about there. Which is, that's kind of what I would say anyway. I never said let's just behead everybody that took part in-technically, I did earlier-(laughing) and not to say that's not going to happen to a certain degree. It will literally come down to the liberation of humanity and some people will still be like, "No, screw humans" like, you're a human, what are you doing? Whatever will happen then will happen.

The idea is not to look at the situation as if it's a complete war and we have to use basically the level of depravity that they've used against people to solve it. Basically, coming from a place of love, pretty much like you said, love is the law. Which is kind of a non sequitur and an oxymoron because love is lawless, if you will but it serves to deliver the point. The last thing on the little list that I wrote-it was literally four things but I have taken this long to talk about but they're from what you said previously because you sparked the stuff that I feel has to be reiterated. Is that the view of the universe, there's one view harmonically like a time-wave fractal and that's complex and interesting in itself about how possibilities kind of map out to this fractal and the whole image of it looks like a Buddha sitting there in meditation like a mandelbrot fractal.

Then there is a type of organic view as if you're looking at hyperspace of what everything is expanded out, expanded out, expanded out and this part of where my understanding of space and what we consider the void of space and the space between spaces and what is "out there" differs from the mainstream, which is what I feel to be a disinformation agenda to lead us into a genetic harvesting savior program. But the idea is that when you zoom all the way out it looks like a vine. It looks like a tree of networks like a neural-network and we have an original/organic timeline, which is literally some cosmic heartbeat pulsating out energy that as if that energy is literally like the leaves to a tree or the roots spreading out underground or fruit and flowers flowering and blossoming. That is realities and universes and civilizations pulsating out of this-whatever this is. Whatever it is.

PLB: If you go all the way out and look at (?) as a whole it's like the neurological of the brain.

AT: That's what they called that exact term and I know that term has been made slightly public in the past few years. But that's the word that they used. That's actually what they call "the collection" but I'm pretty sure it goes back to these Native American understandings of the tree or some type of basically root structure. But what you were saying before as far as them basically, drilling in, if you will, little pipelines kind of like oil pipelines. That's how the parasites function. They build little networks that leach. It's literally like a parasite. Literally as if there's a fungal infection in the cerebrum or the intestinal tract of this larger filament network of possibilities, realities and whatever this is. It's like a living technological organism that we're looking at in that picture there. That is a good picture.

PLB: What the Silver Legion does is they blow up the tubes. I don't blow up the tubes. I take a different attack on it entirely. I made these, which actually reverse the flow and suck the very existence out of those fake ones so they shrivel up and die and pump right out of existence.

AT: I might not look at that just because of the previous elements, to the point where if that's what's doing and that's what's working, then I'm not going to look at it because I don't want to basically. . .

PLB: You want to use those. You want to use these (laughing). You put those over the holes and if they're too ragged to put down at these circles that I use for teleporting, which I seal to the edges, which is this and I actually. . . I'll seal that to the edges of the hole and put one of my Lucifer verses on it and I'll suck that reality right out of existence.

AT: That's very interesting.

PLB: It's got them on the run, in panic mode (laughing). Because my vision of their thing going away is more powerful than anything they can grade.

AT: I don't know too much of the second picture geometry. The first one you showed me is very powerful looking. That's what I kind of wanted to exemplify here is that it is basically a mind war so the individuals who can handle what is happening and process and sense these interdimensional possibilities, these occurrences in time and quantum realities, it's literally what you imagine in that situation what you push intentionally with your energy and your mind is connecting these timelines, these bridges, these possibilities for sweeping these parasites/entities out and healing the human race and the original timelines.

So that's an important aspect. People don't really understand, it is literally –and it's not easy either. It's not just like, so we're going to do something like that and have fun doing it. People who end up doing that and don't know what they're doing will be targeted and people will begin following them and entities will basically begin to try and eat their souls and so humans cannot really participate in that until they're strengthened through these processes or what seems to be concluded-what I seem to have been informed of and learned is that the people who are here performing this were always here to perform this. You can't make that person. And the whole point of this time and the previous times is that all they did was confuse these people and kind of tuck them away in time and separate everyone out. And once we get back together, the same thing begins and we begin to flush these systems out. Very strange but people . . .

PLB: As you can see, that camera is always pointing at Saturn and several frames where she's phased out entirely and she's going to take all those battle platforms with her when she goes. That's how hard I can push on things.

AT: And so to go back to that, it's all about a person who can do that and yeah, I don't really need to say more on that. I don't know if I should make this public but I really want to because it will—people will understand the depth of what's going on here.

PLB: I want people to understand they have this kind of control.

AT: That's the main thing.

PLB: If only they pick up the mantle and run with it.

AT: Right, that's the main thing is that everyone is involved. Because the truth is that people are either involved in helping humanity or they're acting against humanity. They're acting as parasites and that's really how it comes down to it. For instance, people who say, “ok, well if I imagine that we're doing this—we're healing whatever.” The people who attempt that and give up or just begin to not support that. That in itself is kind of parasitic because why would a person not want to accept the imagination, if you will, that we can heal ourselves and then eventually you see that whole mindset of this type of spiritual degradation, this willful acceptance of self-destruction in society and basically these people who are not aware of what's going on or being used to bring the frequency of the collective down and it's acting as a host for the parasite. So people are either clarifying it or assisting in that damnation.

PLB: And as far as the clones go, I've got shredders to shred all their control chips in them so they just kind of fall on the ground. It's like, I'm telling them, “You're not getting away with this. We're just not going to let you. Period. This is the way it's going to be and you're either going to get on board with the program or go bye-bye.”

AT: Right, because it's basically a parasite so the last thing the parasite will do is come to the light. And the person who's infected or is a host, they'll at any cost . . . it's like a person with a candida infection who craves sugar and beer to keep the infection going, and if they begin to fast or take a black walnut or something that will basically kill the infection, they get into these Herxheimer reactions, these pains, these cramps and these cravings for more sugar or wheat. So the last thing the person who's hosted will want to do is basically admit it and face it and come to the light. And so it has to be this type of situation where they're not given the option to persist in attempting to damn humanity and kind of just go along with the infection because it feels good for them or however their particular central nervous system and energetic system has basically been taken over/hijacked by these entities, however it is—however they're plugged in, they're going to try to continue. So people must—and this is the whole unveiling that I've been speaking about for about 11-12 months now—people have been given access to this. We weren't given access to anything. People were meant to do this and they were always here doing this and that's how it works. But, just to reiterate what you were saying is that, that has to come to society, where people look at the—namely these power structures, the media, this frenzy, this frenzy of nonsense and egoism. This parasite: we have to stare it in the face and say “No” and draw it out into the light. Kind of like something from biblical times. From like an allegory or something. We literally have to bring it into the light.

[1:00:00]

Galactic History of Earth and Humanity

AT: (Cont.) because it will not want to do it and it won't do it on it's own.

PLB: I've put out videos like (?) because what they need to understand is the whole system is nothing but a giant Ponzi scheme. It's not REAL.

AT: It's a false reality. It's down to the point where they have generator systems creating fake micro-tubual cosmic web systems, like you showed me in that picture with the Milky Way and all of that, to the point where they have literal fake alternate timelines that they're trying to balance us to over and over again because the original connection is completely . . . what they've brought people into and what was originally there . . . we're in basically a false matrix. We're in an artificially, technologically propagated. . . literally a dimensionally stimulated through technology existence or realm, which if the devices turned off and the parasites disappeared, I couldn't even describe it. I also don't like to sell "savior" stories or something like that, but literally the whole realm would shift. The sky would change. The environment would shift. It would be like jumping through timelines, through different realms-different environments.

PLB: It's the same thing the Martians when they used the Merkabah gate jump off Mars, way back in time landed on the Lemurians ,who were really high spiritual controller things who corrupted them and they fell down to this level. That's the same thing they want to force on humanity to keep us where they can interact with us and use our creative abilities without us getting out of their control.

AT: Exactly. And that is a bit of what happened in the past and Martians used the false-light Merkabah system to open up portals to vacate their planetary environment that they destroyed and they energetically superimposed their consciousness over the nearest species kind of like in the movie "Fallen" when the parasitic demon host –the person host who is carrying that parasite-demon, if the person dies then that demon has to run to the nearest individual. I think it was like 20 paces or something like that and it goes back to these ancient scriptures talking about this.

That's basically what the cosmic version is. That they blew up their own civilization and vacated out of that shell and went to the nearest . . . which just happened to be an innocent, full of potential civilization. Because it's kind of the cosmic giggle in itself, to map things out like that, which very quickly accelerated humanity because if we didn't we would have straight-up died. And this is also the pre-humans, the Lumerians, which goes into Atlantis, Egypt and all that. That's all connected and they tried to create a loop where that becomes the future, becomes the past, becomes the future, blah, blah blah and they subsist on that because they can't actually gain access through what would be DNA to actually hijack the species. So they get the next best thing where it's literally like the bugs who crawl up around the body, like in the picture of the filaments in the Milky Way and all of that. And they harvest and suck and literally transfer the heat, which at this point is creative energy from that Milky Way picture from the minds of the individuals—from literally whatever bio-emissions we're producing and just by being in proximity, they absorb it.

And so, it's a lot we kind of talk about here. I would be very happy to make this public.

PLB: Sure.

KLM: What I'm feeling is that maybe we can get one of our people to tape it on a (?????) when we're on the same page . . .? maybe the next few days or something, as schedules permit.

PLB: Be aware that basically to date there hasn't been any recording that has had me in it and hasn't been screwed with being posted. The audio is totally unintelligible or unhearable.

AT: Well, I've been having a little bit of that myself for the past 12 months and so I'd like to say, I'd like to hope that I have all that pretty, well-guarded against so we'll see in a few minutes when I play the file back.

PLB: They don't like me talking. At all.

KLM: And that was interesting too because you were mentioning too, if I remember correctly, you were shot in 2010 . . . this is a multiple number of clones already and yet, this is what I was trying to tell Pattie . . . that even the people that have done whatever: cloned, walk-in, whatever they can feel the changes within that system through doing (skew?) and some of the different technologies I'm doing through matrix. Can you elaborate just a little bit, briefly on that Aug?

AT: It's kind of interesting.

KLM: I get it at everything with a quantum label or the spiritual connection still back to the original or through the chipping or the connection always back to the clones, right?

PLB: It's similar going back to the triple-spiral DNA. All the data for self-repair is in the phosphorus poles of your DNA, but without your engineering department, you can't make use of it. It's all there. So basically, what the skew machine, to my mind does is acts as that third pole. Acts as the engineering department and puts the body back to doing the self-repair.

AT: That's exactly what it is. I was going to say . . . I was going to do what I do. . . I actually have to do . . . anyway. I have to urinate really bad but I'm good for now. I was going to begin to say that as far as what I know, it's frequencies and begin to break down basically scalar harmonics and how that works, how the body works and kind of build the pathway to explaining it because these are certain—I haven't gone too deep into explaining these things. However, that is the exact actual explanation, that . . .

PLB: When you look at DNA, chromosome 17 through 20 has your "as built" in the womb forward. So when you do repairs without your third pole and the engineering department, that's why you have scar tissue and stuff because all your body has to work with is the as built not all the data from both your parents to even make better improvements. So, that's the difference. Most people with two pole their working with the as built information, not all the information that went into the creation of you. Whereas (Skio?) doesn't use the as built, it uses the actual information in the phosphorus poles of your DNA, which is all the information from both sets of parents that went into the making of you.

AT: I have to go to the bathroom real quick. You can also keep talking because it's recording but I have to run.

PLB: The other issue is your uplink to your true self, which is outside the time stream. That has a whole other batch of information running at a different frequency. And that too can be used to make advantages, you know, being able to completely heal entire limbs cut off and things like that. So there's a lot of possibilities and a lot of information and repair information that they deliberately crippled you so you couldn't access, unless you open your third eye and learn to manifest to put it back. That's what the Spanish Inquisition and Salem Witch Trials and everything was about people who were doing that, they hunted them down and killed them. They didn't want repaired people.

Audio not good here (Maybe Pattie can clarify this info): (So . . . ??? the easiest way, because people are going to have to learn.?) The cheap way. They don't expend any effort to get the repairs. But they ought to be doing it for themselves. You can do it a couple of ways. You can do it with crystals. You can do it with sound therapy. You can do it with oils. Because it all comes down to frequency. And that's the key. . . . you put it in a bot?, you turn it back into an energy storage device and you have more energy available to you as a person from those frequencies. It's pathetically simple and very complicated.

AT: Yeah, that's basically how it is. So what you said about phosphorus healing ability, even the as built, I don't really have an understanding of what this means but this was drawn out on charts for me.

PLB: I'm going to put this out. This is stuff . . . ???monitor. . . if you look at things like this. They have . . . these are letters of genetic coding in your DNA . . . means it's attacked, not busted entirely by radiation or something else where the data falls out. Anything less than that means the data fell out. What that data is, is like the coding interlinks in your DNA between . . . coding. . chromosome 2 . . . and run that. That's the letter? Of your DNA is that data. Now in the phosphorus, it's all the data from both your parents and then their parents, which they transferred to you, which was all the data from both their parents. And in addition to that, . . .going on the way back to Gaia's original creation of humanity, on the female side, mitochondrial DNA is all the data to make changes to humans during birth to cope with different environments.

You have so much information in you—you can't imagine. All the configurations. . . if you had command over yourself ????? inaudible.

AT: Right. I only know a little of this. I don't want to cut you off but I want to reiterate. So what you said about the phosphorus, what I know basically and what they told me, as well I know the experiential methods and how to raise energy and do all that but I don't know the science about what they look at in the microscopes and their devices to figure out how it all really actually functions. But that's what they said. What you said, as far as the third pole and phosphorus and phosphorus they connected to Lucifer being the light-regenerative process of our DNA, which allow us to actually restructure our frequencies, our codons in a way that is corresponding with our intention. And so through this we have creative capacity. And that this is connected to the mitochondrial process, the powerhouse and that is connected to the RNA. They're attempting, through these frequencies and through the parasites, if you will. Whatever you want to call the dark forces, excuse me, everyone calls them the dark forces. They're attempting to drown out-to suffocate the mitochondria and to drown out that aspect of the DNA from basically being able to awaken that latent capacity to restructure itself and DNA transfers light. There's some type of light transference capacity. So, through the alignment of those systems, the mitochondria and the specifics that you outlined are the specifics. I don't really know how to mention the specifics. I know mentally how it works psychically, but I don't know the words physically and how it's all mapped out. But that's the process.

PLB: Currently, there are two poles of DNA. One's a negative and one's a positive. When you go to rebuild your third, what you end up with is three negatives. They push each other apart. Salmanaic? Bonds to the phosphorus and turns all three poles positive. Makes them all stick together.

AT: OK.

PLB: And it's a gyroscopic transmitter. Now, once you go to three poles of DNA you have a hole down the middle, as designed. And when you go down that as you go down the links of DNA, you go through every geometric pattern. And as you have them (?). They lend you a tesseract, which is teleportation. That's why we've never had any hardware—because we never needed any. We didn't need ships. Just teleport where we want to go. Again, that's one of the advantages of the triple-spiral DNA over the (?) they have four-pole DNA and they think they're superior to us because of that, and they're not.

Now, bear in mind, they do some fun stuff. (inaudible.) Scripture of a thelosian (?) See what's her chest? . . . .

[1:15:00] . . . just as she is and she won't die. . . she doesn't need to eat, she doesn't need water, she doesn't need anything. That's like wearing a (?) spacesuit. They had her in prison for 2 and a half years at Pine Gap, trying to get information out of her and they couldn't do it. Here's the thing, humans have (?) too. We can do something very similar to that. Although it is a little bit different. It's not the . . the language is a little bit different. I've posted that too. ??? and that pattern? creates specific resonate frequency to activate the third pole and you can metaphysically put it back ????

AT: This is some of what was outlined. I'm getting tired here but that is some of what was outlined, but I don't know too much about it. Some of it I shy away from, which is kind of how I . . . a lot of the stuff I don't know about I don't . . . how it went but basically there will be a connection to how it was used against us or how that information could be used to possibly corrupt a person. And so I make sure to not know, but again these are like resistance programs that also get worked against myself because then now I don't know how to disable what they've done and to use the technology basically to –for beneficial purposes. It's all already happening.

PLB: Take for instance, the Nazi's symbol. That's actually not the human's. If you look on my spell chart, that's the one for humans, but the Nazi one is compatible with the binary plasma A.I. and the fractal infection and all that.

AT: Right. I think that's a little bit of what they told me, but I don't want to . . . because I don't remember specifically. These are so deep into the awareness of what went on that a lot of these memories I kind of pushed out. Because basically, to recap where we are at, we have this reality and then as a result of technologies and the natural, if you will, four-dimensional or higher-dimensional occurrences around us in space time, which is terrible (word?). There are all these possible realities where . . . I'm hearing myself talk through Karen's. . it's throwing me off. There are possible realities . . .

PLB: Mute for a minute Karen, your mic is too close to your speaker.

(Audio back to normal here)

AT: So, we have this physical reality and we have this going on. Then because of the technology and because of the possibilities where our species has grown as conscious entities that create realities, we have these potential timelines where they would be akin to an invasion instead of timelines and there are created beings, cloned beings, through supercomputer systems-these parallel realities, these beings are brought into occurrence within this reality, within these bases, from these craft that can go inter-dimensionally. So, the result of it as far as we're talking about and in as far as up to this point in my own personal disclosure is called "the awakening" which is -the deepest I've gone into this information in public and really since then. Maybe not, technically yeah. So it has evolved to now the idea is that it's not literally an invasion yet, if you will, but it's as if there are multiple possible timelines of invasions. And it grew to the point where every possibility that could have occurred from the technology that alters DNA to races that have basically hyper-evolved to interact with reality to produce these scalar magnetisms, these waves, to manifest matter/energy out of existence, out of the sub-quantum potential of the universe and to alter their own DNA to the point where there's inscriptions languages that can be put into or on the body and then this is like entering frequencies into the DNA. However, some of this I know can be used against the person and that's why I stay away from that.

PLB: It's got to be all or nothing.

AT: Right.

PLB: There can't be any half-measures.

AT: And so, but to the point where there entire existences, entire species, there are entire races and civilizations, you know, factories producing people; cyborg soldiers that are harvested and the consciousness of humans are jumped between these bodies and used as para-military, rogue-faction, inter-dimensional militaries. It's beyond what we can imagine. This is how they do disclosure, where they take the person in, layer after layer, "what if those little green guys do exist?" "What if so n so happened?" So it gets to the point where everything you can possibly imagine to the point where the stuff you can't even possibly imagine, the complexity, the capacity of DNA to alter space and time, to open up portals and to trans-dimensionally navigate forwards and backwards through time is capable, possible and has always been here as part of our reality from the beginning and is concurrently happening across multitudes of parallel realities that our civilization is literally only a fraction of.

PLB: And for those of you who don't know about E.T's and think that building cyborgs and stuff, ok, we blew up a ship (in orbit?) that had cyborgs on it. This one that made it through re-entry plowed into the earth in Brazil. We dug it out and stood it up against the wall. The metals weren't made here on earth. You can't even mine them here on earth. They do exist. This is real, folks. They want to put just enough of your genetics in the head of that thing with a chip where they can control you and take away your body and put you in that. Because then, they have complete control over you. That's what's called the trans-human agenda.

AT: Right and I'll just say it, this is a picture I was shown there, as well as all the information you're binging up is part of what I learned that day, which I had knowledge of, but I was basically "awakened to" to a degree where they described the specifics that you have been mentioning. Whether this is some photoshop image or like a decoy or whatever, this is one of the examples I was shown—just as we all probably were. And, as well, I have seen and I have been in the scenarios where one can look down and see the metal showing through a person's skin. That's how they develop these entities, these soldiers.

PLB: This one that was working on the ship looked completely human . . .

AT: Yeah, that looked like a person before it burned up, to anyone who . . .

PLB: That's how much made it through re-entry.

AT: Which is also amazing because that's the whole idea. That thing is a tank, basically. It welded together into one solid chunk of some type of alloy that probably we wouldn't even have access to in public basically, it would be like private sector.

PLB: Yeah, because it doesn't exist here on earth. It's been mined from other planets.

AT: Well, that's part of what stuff they were describing as part of helium being a source of energy, a nuclear source. And these one race of potential . . . literally, we're talking about a potential race of inter-dimensionals that are operating in parallel to this one. They use the helium, and everyone basically uses the helium and the energy from the sun, which they said was basically cold fusion; it's not even nuclear. It's not hot. It's literally a type of electrical activity.

And there are others . . . apparently, they said they're not good, not bad, not benevolent but not malevolent entities that were trying and succeeded largely to gather magnetic metals and magnetic rocks from the earth because that is a source of energy. That is a source of building . . . they build craft out of devices, of basically getting astronomical amounts of material together and that is the base of the energy of the future. It will basically be down to who has the most magnetic elements.

PLB: This, for instance, this is a MHG drive, what they're using in most of the craft right now. It uses two of the frequencies required to tap what is called "dark energy." Not all three. Instead, they Selenium. It takes very little Selenium in the process to make up that third frequency. But that's how they basically have fuel that's space capable drives. That's what they use in the space-capable fighters and things. But even the Selenium that goes through the process it's just more toxins it throws in our atmosphere because they can't handle that third frequency, personally.

AT: I think now I remember a little bit as far as certain craft, certain engines having a different effect on the psychology or being of the people being capable of basically using these craft. There are certain—humans could not be aboard a certain type of craft for too long. And similarly, certain other of a different frequency, couldn't be aboard certain craft of the humans for too long, or a period in certain situations because of the methods that the drives use because they basically create a field that envelops the craft and there are different ways of producing this.

PLB: Then you start playing with frequencies that disrupt people at the DNA level. Or the signals between their mind and their body. I mean you look at the (Solar Ray?)Greys, they use their minds for offensive weapons, defensive weapons and everything else and it's such a high power that what they ended up doing was overriding the frequency of their own DNA. They not only lost the ability to reproduce; they lost their reproductive organs and everything, which is why they have "that deal with the humans" to do a rehybridization program to regain their ability to reproduce kids. Get their organs back first and then you know, produce kids because they're all clones.

AT: Right, and I have direct experience of these programs. I've seen the operations to basically take DNA. And I've seen the lairs, these facilities, which are used to basically as a hybrid process. And I've seen the human side of it and I've seen basically what are the strangest ideas. Alien run facilities where humans are kind of like a commodity; not even a commodity . . . because I'm not even talking about when they're trying to eat people. I'm talking about when they're trying to use the DNA to become them. Because there are some where they literally just eat the people. They use the hormones, the glands, to subsist off. But this is different, where they're trying to break the DNA down to basically a like co-op it. And it's just the strangest thing.

PLB: There are some out there that actually treat people like cows, like the Tall Whites. We're just a food source and

AT: Apparently, the ones that look like us are the most likely to basically treat us like that, which is strange, but that's just kind of how it tended to turn out, I guess.

PLB: The men in black thing, that is Tall Whites wearing either a human suit or a hologram. And then you have Draco's who have literally human suits, which is like this. This is the guy they got in charge of the Bucegi mountain complex troop keeping it secure from humans getting in there because they happens to be a whole recording of human history holographic recording of everything that happened here. And they don't want you having that. THAT is forbidden knowledge.

AT: Yeah, and for one or two reasons. I know of that location. I know the background of that location. I know the technology and I know some of these individuals you could be showing me.

PLB: The Keshe program was designed to bind humans who had the ability to charge up and make manifest the Keshe tech and make it work. Those things, people could actually get through the forcefield protective doors over these facilities. That's what the Keshe program was about. If you could make the Keshe program work, you were valuable to them. Because they can't get in the door.

AT: Exactly. More or less.

PLB: So I think publicly, the Keshe program is a fraud. It's not really a fraud, but the whole point depends on the fact of whether you, as a human have recovered enough to manifest. To project and manifest. If you have, then they want to put you to work for their programs. Or use your abilities.

[1:30:00]

AT: Right. And there seems to be a divine plan. Which, "divine" is a corrupt occultic word like, divine the future. But there's a beneficial organic plan that people who have that compassion, that self-respect, that benevolent, healing capacity, the connection to basically some type of cosmic mother . . . those are the beings who have the healing and the power. They have the power to alter DNA to influence, to invoke the site of power.

PLB: The problem is, we have too many of what I call "fluff bunnies". These are empowered people who can manifest and everything; however, I don't know where they got this idea. I don't know if other groups out there who want to abuse us have put this in their head but they've got it to the point where they've got them believing that all these other entities who don't have our abilities and everything else that we're supposed to fix them. Love them and somehow through loving them . . . although they can't take that onboard. Their genetics doesn't support our stuff. . . that we're supposed to heal them or bring them along.

AT: So that's genetic harvesting. And as well, you can look at that as far as we can do something like that; however, the individual . . . these entities would try to use whatever we give to them against us and try to take it all. That's their nature. That's just the nature of something that is not created the way the original humans were.

PLB: The other point is, if you subscribe to that, then you're making the point that it's okay to modify other races to prove them and that's like excusing what they've done to us by degrading us.

AT: Exactly, and it enables further repeating of that. It enables, basically the "D.J. ing" Of the human genome to create a new mixture; a new song sample or something like that. I can't think of the word . . . a remix or something.

PLB: Yeah.

AT: And to enjoy it because it's not as good as the original, the creative original, but it's just ok. You know, maybe with music that's something. And of course, if we had our true creative potential we would never need to remix anything. It would just be 100% all the way. But on a genetic level, that's basically hijacking. I mean, it's a hybrid abomination and that's the plan . . .

PLB: When you look at it, love is the law. That's the rule of this level of creation. But also beyond that, free-will of the individual is above even that. So and taking that track, you're violating free-will no matter which way you look at it. Right? If you're saying . . .

AT: I agree.

PLB: . . . you're not complete as us and um, we're going to fix you.

AT: It creates imbalance that has to be righted through action, which it's creating the action which has to come in and solve the imbalance but that action is created out of the acceptance of that imbalance that can be solved through some type of action. Basically, saying, "We're going to fix this" is just as bad as saying, "Now, you're broken so let us take control of this" or something like that. And truthfully, because these parallels would not exist in unison in the same timeline or universe with each other, they would never even know. They're only aware of this contrast by this parasitic invasion that's taking place where these beings, who do not have any creative capacity in the same ability to transfer the light in the DNA and get this love effect, this emotive capability and they don't have an actual causal reference; a frame of reference in this timeline, in this universe.

And so that's also what this person would be saying, "Ok, let's break the universe and bridge them together to make it work"-that doesn't-no.

PLB: Here's the other interesting thing, and this brings us around to the Mandela Effect. You're getting people merged in from entirely different timelines. As we do away with the B.S. basically, who come from other earth's, so when they seem to manifest here they look around and say, "This is all wrong." We had merged in earths that were not even in the Orion (Spur?) we had them out on the Sagitarius arm, you know, all over. I've actually had conversations with people from timelines that were merged in who were upset and arguing with me about the fact that they couldn't go down to the local Home Depot and get parts to make their car anti-gravity.

AT: Mm hmm.

PLB: It's like. . . the conversations I have (laughing). "Welcome to timeline zero, this is the battle zone," is what I tell them. This is where everything is going to be settled and sorted out.

AT: Right.

PLB: So, be glad you're here. As messed up as this all currently seems to be at the moment, be glad you're here.

AT: Right. So, you know . . .

PLB: It's a positive.

AT: Right, I mean, actually I just looked at the pictures you just sent and I see more of your background. I guess I kind of want to say, that you know considering the two types of people we are, that's all that one can happen but that also feels the best to basically take it and use it, to grow, to be stronger. Whatever a person wants to say to that, it doesn't affect certain people in the same way, and this is also, I'm not just kind of like talking here because there's also going to be some issues with people basically being completely incapable of handling this information. And it causes these schisms in genetics and in the psyche and in the timeline.

PLB: It's called cognitive dissonance. And the first main effect of cognitive dissonance is anger.

AT: Yep.

PLB: Yeah, it's a process (laughing). It's like the 12-Step program to getting off alcohol. It's a process. They're going to have to work through it. On an individual level.

AT: Right. As far as in public with this parasitic situation in society that we have to basically force and bring it-bring them into admitting and getting healed, and accepting healing. Knowing you know, this is wrong. But it's also very much like an addiction-the hive-mind with the technology, the parasite-it is treated, especially in the universe like an addiction. It is literally a spiritual addiction, if you will. That's how it functions. And so, all these emotions, reactions-I wrote something on this earlier. It's kind of like say there's a leech pulling blood from a person. If they see it and shriek and their heartrate goes up and now more blood is pulsating through their veins and going into the area where the leech is and now the leech is fed from the reaction. If they, you don't, don't act like that; if they don't react like that emotionally—I'm saving these pictures so I can put them out publicly . . .

PLB: But this, put this one up Karen. This is what I give to people because it gives them a better understanding. On this chart, anything at 250 or below . . . you're better food for them. AND, they're keeping you at a level where you can't move out of their game-space. It's almost like a virtual reality game on the web. As long as your internet is connected to the other side, you're going to be playing their game. Because you can't play another game at the same time.

AT: Right. It's a collective realm. It's like a server system and if we're in range frequency-wise, it's like being in their virtual environment. It's literally, they can interact and so , but that's the thing. That's what these beings do. They don't sit here and you know, play around. They just feed. That's all they really can co.

PLB: There are no human religions. There are no human wars. All wars are done to make food of one sort or another.

AT: Yep. It's all, that's basically the depth of the takeover, that our civilization- at the very notion of something happening in society that wasn't preferable to the whole society is an element of alien invasion and on-going alien war.

PLB: The stuff that I do has really freaked these groups out. Like when I pinned all the planets, and the sun and whatnot. I forced a frequency change where the entire earth went indigo (laughing).

From space-it went all the way out to the space stations in orbit and . . . as well as being physical on the ground. That's like my way of putting them on notice.

AT: So, I might have certain knowledge of that, the experience of that. And, it's the strangest thing . . . and so the idea of the—I'm hearing myself again—the idea of the planets and what you just mentioned with that, it's the strangest thing, I heard of that . . . and—I should have saved them all when they popped up, but I've heard of that. Even now, this communication-I'm hearing an echo so it's throwing me off . . . There's a thing you can do with the audio. If you create an echo they start speaking jibberish and it's a way to throw people off. Doing it just enough to kind of make me lag behind in speech.

So there was talk of these events, basically, so we changed DNA so we can re—we can alter the solar system. We can literally alter space-time. And, that word is outdated, that whole idea behind it and the ideology it's left behind by everything else we've mentioned here. But we can alter the format of the entire realm.

PLB: I mean, I've already put Venus right side up. Put crystals and everything in her to get her energy back up and get her core going again. I mean. We can do this. We're already doing this.
